Got up but could not stand till. Everything seemed in commotion. the books in my friend's library were itched from the shelves into the midlle of the room. The shaking lasted 0 seconds. When things got quieted down I dressed and went out on the street to see what had happened, and saw chimneys down everywhere, plate glass and windows in the stores smashed and telegraph poles and electric wires demolished and many houses wrecked. Cracks three or four inches wide ran across the street in some places and a ridge across the street. In some places the street car rails were bent up in others the ground upheaved, making two or three feet, showing the earth had been upheaved and settled back, leaving the rails bent. You may have read of the destruction of the Hotel Valencia. I saw it about four hours after the duake. It was a four-story frame, and the ground where it stood must have sunk ten feet or more and the building was pitched almost into the middle of the street, and over a hundred guests were killed. Effects of the awful quake could be seen on all sides.

With the addition of the 15-ton Willamette meteorite, or "iron," the museum will be able to establish its hall of cosmogony and present to the view of the public the finest collection of meteorites ever placed on exhibition. In all ages and lands these masses of metal, which have come hurtling from the skies, accompanied by magnificent pyrotechnical displays, have been worshiped as god-given images.

The meteorite which was received at the museum on April 14 was found in the Willamette valley, Oregon, near the banks of the Tualitin river in 1902. After much litigation between the owners of the land on which it was found and the finder, it was bought by Mrs. William E. Dodge at a cost said to be $20,600, the largest sum ever paid for an "iron." She gave it to the museum. It is ten feet 31/2 inches long, seven feet across the base, four feet high and 25 feet four inches in circumference at the base. Its exact weight is 31,107 pounds. One of the oldest meteors known stands in a corner of a temple in Mecca. Its name is the Right Hand of God. It is said that long before Mahomet's time it was worshiped by Arabian tribes. Another meteor which was once the object of worship fell at some unknown time near Pessinus on the border between Phrygia and Galatia. It was set up and worshiped by the cult of Cybele. CONQUERING SQUASH BUG. A WOMAN'S ORDEAL Best Methods of Protecting the Vines from the Ravages of This Pest.

After the squashes, cucumbers and melons are well started the squash bug makes its appearance. Those who have a garden know the flat, rustyblack creature with its vile odor. In spring or early summer the eggs are laid on the leaves and stems of plants, sometimes singly, but usually in groups of from 12 to 50. They are brownish-yellow and easily found. Fortunately the insect confines its attention almost entirely to cucurbi-taceous plants. As the bugs grow they scatter over the leaves, molting five times before they reach maturity. Naturally the plant is weakened by such attentions. A leaf that has nourished many bugs will turn yellow, and if the pests are numerous enough the whole plant may be killed. It is sometimes claimed that the bug stings the leaf and by is it, but it would be more to the point to say that the leaf is tapped and its life-blood sucked out. In autumn the adult bug crawls under a board, stone to examinations which so many physior rubbish and remains till spring.

The best time for it is in the morning while it is cool and the bugs sluggish. C. Willadsen of Manning, Ia. She writes: A convenient way is to drop the bugs into a can containing water with a little kerosene. The bugs will swim in clear water, but the film of oil on the surface is sure death. Boards or shingles placed on the ground are an had female trouble and would daily have faintassistance in gathering the bugs. They will seek these shelters in mid-afternoen and remain dormant till it is warm in the morning, when they can easily be gathered. Crushing the eggs on the leaves is a preventive measure | Had it not been for you I would have been that should not be neglected.

NO KOWTOWING FOR HIM,

Hotel Man Who Was Not to Be Over- A West Virginian's Awful Distress awed by Dignitaries of State.

They tell this one on former Gov. George Hoadly of Ohio:

Once upon a time, in the midst of a campaign, Mr. Hoadly was to deliver a speech at a little town in the great and glorious Buckeye State. When he reached the one hotel the town boasted he walked up to the register and wrote his name. The proprietor-headporter-steward-headwaiter-depot - runner was behind the desk in his shirt sleeves, his hat on the back of his head, and a cigar stump held between his teeth. When the visitor had put down his John Hancock, the factotum turned the register around, read without the flicker of an eyelid the name there written, wrote "10" beside it with a lead pencil, and said:

"You kin jest take yer grip right up that stairway there an' back down the hall clean to th' end. Yer room's right on th' left hand side of th' hall, in th' corner-number 10."

With considerable astonishment and not a little injured dignity Ohio's chief Both Parted Their Hair in the Midexecutive pointed to his name, smiled faintly, and said:

Chittenden charged the enterprising druggists, of Marion. in the Livingston circuit court with contempt of court by commenting The Charnel-house Order of Religious through THE RECORD on the manner of conducting that court. The Press says he went to jail in order to get a trial in the County Court. The fact is when he came home from Hopkinsville he learned that the sheriff of Crittenden had a warrant for him with bail fixed at five hundred dollars. The sheriff did not want to take attorneys on the bond as he said the code prohibited it. Then Mr. Chittenden tried to get a number of men in Marion to go on his bond, but they refused to do so, as they seemed to fear something might happen and the bond be forfeited. All remember that the fire that destroyed Marion also destroyed all of Mr. Chittenden, s property, therefore he was at the mercy of the courts and nothing left to do but go to jail. He went there That then my wretched years were at unwillingly and when once in jail he wanted a trial as soon as possible. That belief they describe. was the chapter of the Garfield report on oil transportation dealing with the discrimination of the railroads in favor of the Standard through open tariffs legally printed and posted with the Interstate Commerce Commission where Bitters; the great restorative medicine, important consideration. Willis T. was just a simple little device but very effective. It consisted of taking oil out of the classified list of articles carried by the railroads at a certain rate and making on it a "commodity rate" as is done with many other classes of freight. Now the object of a "commodity rate" is to put all shippers within a certain district on an equal footing in reaching the main market. It is often done with different sorts of agricultural products and serves to market.

were arranged solely with reference to the Standard Oil refineries. A commodity rate would be made for them that would carry their oil into the most desirable markets and take it from 100 to 300 miles farther at the same expense than if it had come from an independent refinery. At the same time the commoditon rate was so arrang Entered as second-class matter July 15, 1904, at | ed as to take the Standard Oil products into the best markets at a low cost while the independent refineries were never so situated as to be able to call any market their own if it lay outside of wagon distance from their front Interesting tables were compiled to show that this juggling of rates worked out to the advantage of the Standard from 5 to 20 cents on every 100 pounds of oil sent on the railroads, varying of course with the distance it was transported. Now the reason that this matter was not brought out more clearly at first was that it was tucked away in the back of the report and but lightly alluded to either in Mr. Garfield's letter of transmittal or in the Presisafe to say, will be smaller than ever. dent's message to Congress. But now that the matter has been broght clearly to the attention of the Senate Mr. Dolliver promies to see to it that there is no loopholes left in the law by which such discrimination can be practiced in the future.

One of the most interesting and interested visitors that Washington has seen for some time is the Gekwar of Baroda, an Indian Prince who, under British suzerainty, rules over a population of something like 9,000,000 and has an annual income of more than $7,000,-000. He has in addition an immense fortune that brings him in nothing. It is the rarest collection of jewels in the world valued at about $40,000,000. But when one comes to valuations of that sort on jewels, it is mostly guess work, because some of the gems could not be duplicated and are thus priceless. He is a stocky, unassuming, brown skinned little man, talks English perfectly at the rate of about 250 words a minute, and has already made arrangements with the Fish Commission to take back with him to Baroda an expert who shall report on the fisheries of the principality and show the Baro-United States, that the star spangled dians how to grow fish. Tax Payers of Crittenden County.

The tax books for 1906 are now ready and I will take pleasure in issuing you a tax receipt. At the last session of the legislature great changes were made in the law governing the collection of taxes, and I refer you to the following sections of the new revene bill passed by the last legislature:

"ART, VIII. SEC. 20, -All State, county and district taxes, except as otherwise specially provided, shall be due and payable on or rfter the first day of March after the assessment, and all taxpayers whose taxes are not paid on the first day of November after the same are due shall be deemed a delinquent, and such taxes shall bear interest at the rate of six per. cent. per annum from the first day of November after they are due until paid; and any person or persons failing to pay their taxes by the first day of November in the year following the assessment for such taxes, shall pay a penalty of six per centum additional on taxes due and unpaid. The sheriff or collector whose duty it is to receive or collect the taxes, shall collect the interest and penalty and account for the same in the same way in which they are required to collect and account for the taxes."

Sections 21 and 22 say, in part: "Within fifteen days after November first tax warrants will be issued by the County Clerk directing the sheriff to sell property and collect all delinquent taxes. A six per cent, penalty goes on all unpaid taxes after November first hnd in addition to this the same bears interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, also the cost of advertising, clerk's fees, etc. The sheriff is subject to a penalty of from $100 to $500 for each failure to collect taxes as required by this law."

I hope that you will help me to comply with the law, as it will be more pleasant for all concerned and profita-

Owensboro Business University

WILL MAKE THE FOLLOWING GREAT REDUCTION IN RATES ON JUST FIFTY SCHOLARSHIPS:

OUR regular rates for a single scholarship in either department is $45. Combined course of Book. keeping and Shorthand, $80.00.

In this effort to reach a great spring enrollment, we will make the great sacrifice of $15 on the single course or $25 on the combined course.

This makes the course in Bookkeeping or Shorthand $30. The combined course $55. This is certainly the greatest offer ever made by any school at any time.

Further, any one securing the sale of only five of these cash scholarships will receive a free scholarship in either department.

These scholarships will be good at any time you wish to enter, but will call your attention to the fact that ouly fifty will be sold at this price.

This means immediate action on your part.

If further information is wanted, write us at once as these will be placed on sale the 10th of this month. Terms cash. Address,

MARION, : : : KENTUCKY.

Violated Confidence. No one who follows the news of the day or reads political and diplomatic history can fail to note the frequent unpleasant situations which arise from violated confidence. Sometimes it is the spoken word which is made public without authority, but more often it is a letter, says Youth's Companion. The most careful writer, if he have thoughtless or unscrupulous correspondents, may find himself thus suddenly embarrassed. Nor is it a sufficient answer to say that it serves him right; that he ought never to put his opinions on paper if he is unwilling that they should become known. A public man may often say as a private citizen what propriety would not allow him to say in his official capacity. The fault lies in a fundamental misconception of the nature of a letter. Every letter not especially addressed to the public should be considered confidential until the writer gives permission for its publication. To treat it otherwise is to show a lack of sense, of honor, of courtesy, or of all three. The most despicable action of all is the publication of a private letter for the sake of vindicating, or trying to vindicate, oneself. Inia whole matter of confidences and the inviolability of letters is one which touches good taste and good breeding. The real gentleman will no more be guilty of a breach of honor in this direction than he will be guilty of using against an opponent a piece of information which was given to him in confidence. Yet-here is a curious thing-many a person who holds himself to a rigid rule in such matters as have been mentioned will regard the affair quite differently as soon as death steps in. "Since the writer is no longer alive, there can be no harm, and so forth,' is the common introduction to posthumous letters which ought never to have been made public. If the dead hand can keep its grip in the affairs of church and state and land, shall it loose it in matters of honor?

Grand Opera at Home.

Grand opera at home via your telephone receiver is a New England and New York scheme. A central power plant is to be established wherefrom music by electricity is to be transmitted through telephones to the houses of the subscribers. A tattery of alternators is to be installed which will transmit musical electrical waves and these are adjusted to as many different vibrations as the strings of a piano. To play the instrument a plano keyboard is used. The which will close the circuit leading to killed. the alternators adjusted to produce the note that the piano string would say eight persons were killed and a produce. But the note will be sounded in the ear of the operator from the battery itself. The vibrations will be communicated to the main wires, which will transmit them through branch wires to the other end of the telephones. There the note will be sounded. One of these receiving telephones will be connected with the operator so that he will know how his playing resigned. sounds to all others connected with the main wires. The receiving telephones will be fitted with a megaphonelike device warranted to carry the notes through the room as well as an organ would. The woodwind, brass and string tones of the orchestra are easily produced by mixing the required signed. harmonics in the required proportions.

Lesson from Figures.

The United States every year expends about $140,000,000 in pensions for wars that are past and somewhere between $180,000,000 and $200,000,000 in being prepared against wars of the future. In the last fiscal year there was paid out for the naval establishment $122,000,000; for the support of the army and the military academy, $77,000,000. Taken altogether, pensions, the navy and the fleet called for $340,000,000. A comparison between the costs of the arts of war and the arts borne by the government is afmade even more striking when we Brooklyn Monday. realize that from 1839 to the present day, counting the present proposed appropriation, the aggregate appropriation for the department of agriculture are $65,737,272.12, or $12,000,000 less than was expended on the army last year. On passing the royal palace, King Alfonso, Princess Charles and Ferdinand and the Infanta Isabel joined the procession, the king and princes driving their own cars. The route was to the Parco palace, where Princess Victoria reviewed the parade.

The first notable act of Princess Ena since her arrival in Spain to become the bride of King Alfonso XIII, has been to induce the king to pardon Fernando Levera, who was condemned to death after an exciting trial. The dramatic circumstances under which pardon was given-as the condemned man was going to the gallows-attracts widespread attention and further augments the popularity of Princess Ena.

There were remarkable scenes of rejolding. The towns-people formed a procession and sang the praises of their queen to-be. The people of Madrid also highly approve the princess' humane intervention and the newspapers comment upon the coming queen's first act as being one of mercy.

EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR TO

EVANSVILLE AND RETURN

By the Evansville Merchants' Rebate Association THE PLAN

1. On and after March 15th, 1906, one round-trip railroad fare from any town within a radius of forty miles from Evansville, Ind., will be refunded to each individual purchaser of $25 or more from any or all the members of the Merchants' Rebate Association. In case the purchases are less than $25 the Merchants' Rebate Association will refund the round-trip fare of one mile for each $1 purchase, buy no refund will be made for less than $5 purchases.

2. Persons living at a greater distance than forty miles may have their fares rebated. To illustrate: If you live sixty miles, away, you pay only twenty miles, and the Association pays for forty miles both ways.

3. No member shall refund fares or parts of fares direct.

4. When a rebate book is applied for, before it is issued, the customer must show his or her return trip tickes or a receipt from the ticket agent. -

The total amount of each purchase must be entered on the books.

No rebate will be allowed unless application for the same is made at time of purchase.

7. The purchaser of the required amount of goods shall apply to the Merchants' Rebate Association, 226 Main street for
