PERSONAL AND LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

A visit to the depot last week enables us to give CRITTENDEN RECORD readers a little news concerning the railroad that passes through our town. Nearly everything that comes to the town of Marion or leaves the town of Marion finds its way to the I. C. R. R. depot.

The business of this corporation is presided over by Mr. W. L. Venner, an old agent and telegraph operator, who understands the business from the ground up.

He is surrounded by a number of helpers and notwithstanding all this help, he declares that time does not hang heavy on his hands.

In reply to a question he said: "Why man! We are full of business. We have to work to keep from getting covered up and losing our jobs."

"But, Mr. Venner, if Marion is dead or dying how can you have so much to do?"

He replied "Marion may be dead, but it does not include this depot. Mr. James Tolley keeps ten wagons running and ships from three to five cars of heading bolts each week. There are forty teams at work hauling fire clay from Livingston county, and they are shipping three cars per week. Our spar shipments are on the increase instead of decrease. We ship all kinds of stock and we are now billing tobacco direct to Liverpool at the rate of two to five cars daily.

"Say man! If there are any merchants up town that want work send them down. We are doing our best to keep up with the rush."

Mr. Venner took a fresh hitch at his belt line and bit out a fresh niche in a pride of dixie plug and continued, "Young man I saw somewhere a picture of a deer standing partly ajar and inscribed thereon were these words—'Push don't knock.' I thought that the best motto I ever saw."

"Listen here—in the matter of freight forwarded from this depot the first six months of 1906 show an increase over the first six months of 1905 of 100 per cent., just about double.

"In the matter of ticket sales the first six months of 1906 show an increase over the first six months of 1905 of $2,500.

"In the matter of actual cash receipts at this depot, the first six months of 1906 show an increase over the first six months of 1905 of 33 1/3 per cent.

"The express business shows an increase over 1905 of—"

At this juncture the reporter began to move toward the door. The last he saw of Mr. Venner he was enveloped in a maize of train orders, messages, way bills, bills of lading, express receipts and money. The depot is a busy place.

Mrs. W. L. Venner returned from Corydon, Ind., where she has been visiting relatives and friends.

The ice plant of Mr. Metcalf will be making ice this week. There is water in the boiler and fire under it now. The last car of ice came in last week consigned to Mr. John Sutherland. Ice will not be shipped in here but coal will be with which to make the ice.

Mr. Ray, the night operator, has been named Railways Ready Relief Ray and he is only relief for Mr. Hinman, who is relieving the agent at Gracy. Mr. Waddlington, the agent at Gracy, has just gotten married and it is currently reported that Hinman is in the midst of love's young dream. The depot force declare he is crazy to get back to Marion and also crazy about his girl. THE RECORD does not blame any one for going crazy about a Marion girl.

The Postal Telegraph and Cable Company and the I. C. R. R. have renovated our telegraphic facilities in Marion. They have had four or five men here for a week. Mr. J. B. Riley, Mr. R. Berringer, Mr. Campbell and others. They were all experts.

Mr. J. W. Dearing, road master, wants to locate in Marion, Ky., and wants to rent a house on Depot street. If he comes he will bring two or three clerks and will establish an office here. His present address is Princeton, Ky.

All train orders received at the depot in Marion are transcribed on the type writer. The stylus is a thing of the past.

All railroad messages received at the depot are written with the typewriter.

The line fixers and experts have perfected things telegraphically in that we now have the advantage of four wires into the uptown office presided over by Miss Mary Cameron. Marion now has one through wire and four local wires, making five in all. If you will notice the pole opposite the depot door you will see that the wires go down this pole under the tracks and come up into the office.

The depot is equipped with the latest ten wire switch board and three sets of the best instruments made.

The apparatus for protection against lightning is the best known. The electric current is supposed to burn out the fuses and then plunge into the lightning arrester, where it drowns itself.

A general uneasy feeling and a foreboding of dire disaster possessed every body in the depot last week and indeed all those whose duty called them near the ice plant. Mr. Metcalf had sunk forty-four sticks of dynamite in the ice plant well which is 165 feet deep.

Thought It Was Right.

The attention of the Crittenden Record has been called to our issue of July 20th, in which our correspondent from Hampton, Ky., makes use of the following:

"Look out for the big ball game Wednesday between the Lola Slop Bucket gang and the Hampton No. 3."

It seems that this paragraph of our Hampton scribe has offended some of our Lola friends and the telephone has been kept pretty hot trying to find out who our correspondent from Hampton is.

We will just say that it is not the province of this paper to be causing reflections on any person and if we had known that the paragraph in question was anything but a news item we would have left it out. As every one knows a great many ball clubs over the country adopt slang names and we supposed this was the proper name of the club.

If our correspondents in the future will please give us the news and not take private shots at their neighbors we will be under lasting obligations.

Of course we could not think of giving the name of our Hampton correspondent, what was written was written in fun and no intention to offend.

We commend to the notice and serious reflection of all an editorial in a recent issue of our esteemed contemporary, the "Crittenden Press" in which mention is made of quick transportation to the immediate association and communion of angels.

The remarks of the Crittenden Press are certainly well taken and if his reference contemplated white wings instead of red wings we second the motion.

At Home on a Visit.

Mr. W. R. Cruce who is the traveling representative of the National Lead Company is at the home of his mother, Mrs. Press Ford, of the Crayneville neighborhood.

"Dick" has been with this company for a long time which speaks volumes for his business ability.

His head quarters are now 516 Natchez street New Orleans, La., Not many months ago he and Miss Minnie Tabor the daughter, of Geo. Tabor, of Crayneville, were married. They reside in New Orleans.

"Dick" Cruce is well and favorably known in this county. If he should live the allotted three score and ten years he will be one of our richest taxpayers and one of our largest men.

He owns considerable land in Crittenden county and is a stockholder in the Marion Bank.

THE RECORD'S MINING NEWS

The Week's Doings Throughout the District
Told in Paragraphs.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS CONTINUE IN THE TERRITORY

SCHOOLFIELD-SPEES MINING CO.

This company, operating near Carrsville, deserve a great deal of commendation for the vim and courage that they have manifested in developing their mining property. They believe now that their efforts are about to be rewarded by the discovery of carbonate of lead, and that they will shortly be able to make a regular output of this valuable ore.

EAGLE FLUOR-SPAR CO.

This company has temporarily suspended activity at their Cullen mine. The late state of the ore body in this mine, as before reported in this paper, manifested a thickness of eighteen feet very fine lead and zinc. The stock house has been filled with this extremely rich ore; and since the vein has been thoroughly proved, it is reported that it has been decided not to raise any more ore till the stock has been reduced by milling a part so as to gain room. Some alteration, it is said, is necessary in the mill, and investigations and research are being carried on to determine this, before operation of the mill will begin. The company, however, is continuing the development and exploitation of their Sam Mathews property near Frances P. O.

ALBANY MINING & INVESTMENT CO.

This company is sinking the Nancy Hanks mine shaft at present. They have been shipping lately a great deal of ground fluor-spar, and some fluxing gravel spar (tailings). A shipment of lead concentrated from their mill is almost ready to go forward.

MARION MINERAL CO.

This Company now has in operation two concentrating tables cleaning zinc carbonate "fines" at their Miller Zinc mine. At Pogue mine, the new 80 h. p. boiler is being installed, under the direction of Mr. Baily, the new foreman. The Pogue has been a very large producer; it is reported 5,000 tons were mined at this mine last year. And now that the company has taken a lease on the adjoining Asbridge property, once having such a large producing mine also on it, most likely the Marion Mineral Co. will from now on, after they get going, be able to make an output of from 7,000 to 10,000 tons per annum.

WHEATCROFT MINING CO.

Here they are sinking their East shaft, at present.

RILEY MINE.

This mine was unwatered last Friday, and five men are now at work in the two 200-ft levels; also two higher levels are being worked, commenced during the period of pumping out the water standing about 100 feet in the shaft. Wes Springs is now foreman at this property. It is expected to operate the mill shortly, so stated.

KENTUCKY MINE NO. 2.

Bill Milligan has put down this splendid new shaft to about 100 ft., and has contract calls for 120 feet, which depth he states he will attain in two weeks. Possibly the machine plant will be removed here from Kentucky shaft No. 1, which itself will later become an air or ventilating shaft, as it is broken and otherwise out of shape, caused by the recent cave-in of the upper mine levels. The Kentucky mines are on the Yandell farm.

YARDELL MINE.

Work has been lately going on sinking the main shaft at this old mine, but, for some reason it was stated to the writer visiting the property that work would stop here now for awhile. This old mine has perhaps produced in the aggregate a greater tonnage of fluor-spar than any other single mine in the district.

KENTUCKY & INDIANA MINING CO.

Owners of the Parris mine, near the Yandell property, have suspended operations. Cause unknown. A late development brought to light in a cross-cut from the bottom of the main shaft, a rich feeder of zinc sulphide ore; and the quality of the fluor-spar mined in the main ore body is a No. 1.

NEW FIND.

Down near Fords Ferry, on old man Nations' farm, Henry Truit opened up what may be the La Rue Vein, in an exposure of 8 feet of first quality fluor-spar at a depth of three feet from the surface. The writer visited the prospect and considered the find a good one. The property is held by lease by Mr. Geo. Roberts. The territory about Fords Ferry has long been believed to be rich in mineral possibilities, and prominent mine operators here have for some time held most of that section under lease and option; but so far as known the late find is the only successful opening up of an economic ore body there.

ANOTHER DISCOVERY.

Mr. Jas. Persons has made a discovery of a fine vein of No. 1 fluor-spar on the Eliza Reed farm, located about midway between Levas and Salem, and some eight miles from Marion. The surface showing and present prospecting indicate about 12 feet of mineral. Mr. Persons, it is reported, has bought the farm.

CARRSVILLE.

The reported find of a vein of fluor-spar on Prof. M. C. Wright's property is a mistake. The writer visited Carrsville last week, and ascertained that what was encountered in the soil and clay in digging a cellar is not gravel fluor-spar but SELENITE, a form of GYPSUM. However the Ohio Valley Mining Co., who used to hold a lease from Prof. Wright and others, have put down a shaft 150 feet in what is possibly the Fairview vein, encountering good zinc ore, on the Wright property; which fact makes the property well worthy of further development, without any discovery of additional new veins.

Mr. H. Van Caeyseele, of Chicago, Ill., has been visiting the district for several days. Capt. Haase, Mr. Johnson Crider and Mr. Reed, and others have helped to "show" him around. The gentleman is a representative of the Sandoval Zinc Co., one of the largest smelting concerns in the United States of zinc and of lead, and metal refiners and manufacturers of alloys. Mr. Van Caeyseele has visited most of the lead and zinc districts of Europe and of the United States, and has expressed to the writer the highest praise of this Western Kentucky-Southern Ills. zinc-lead district, in comparison with other districts. He thinks capital ought easily to be persuaded to come into the field, with proper direction to of attention to the possibilities here.

BOLLY MINE.

Mr. Robt. King is sending in some fine grade fluorspar from this mine now. The property is owned by the Kentucky Fluor Spar Co., and has a shaft down about 125 feet.

ECLIPSE MINING CO.

The zinc ore being mined now at the McMicen property is pronounced very fine, and an easy milling proposition.

CRITTENDEN SPRINGS PROPERTY.

Party prospecting here last week discovered a new cross-vein to the Columbia vein, and uncovered a width of 5 feet of carbonate of zinc and lead ore mixed.

MEMPHIS MINE.

Hauling from this mine has been heavy and continuous the past month, and the monthly output will exceed 500 tons. Here is a large body of ore blocked out, and the output will gradually get greater from month to month.

KLONDIKE.

Several contractors are at work now on the Klondike vein, on the Memphis Mine property, and are raising considerable high grade fluorspar. Some of the contractors are: Bill Harness and Henry Butler, each of whom employ several helpers.

COBALT.

Mr. Dudley Wallingford continues the prospecting on his farm near town for cobalt, and the latest returns from his chemist shows the presence of this mineral, which fact has decided "Uncle" Dudley to build his fine new brick livery stable three stories instead of two as originally planned.

Why Not Patronize Home Industry.

Some people think that every thing good comes from away from home, and consequently they are "knockers" on their town. When misfortune overtakes one where does he look for help? Does he appeal to strangers, or does he go to they that know him, best and tell his tale of woe? Would you hie yourself away to Evansville if you wanted to borrow a little money or get a weeks provision on a credit? Who do you apply to for a job that you may earn your bread by the sweat of your face? When sickness or death takes up its abode in your home, where do you look for comfort and help? When the wolf begins to howl around your door, who will keep it away for you?

These are pertinent questions and should be considered well by all who look to their home town for employment. A town that is not good enough for you to spend your money in, should not be good enough for you to rear your children in. Marion is the best town to live in this side of the "Golden Gates." She is inhabited by the best people on the earth. Her moral atmosphere is as good as the best, her merchants are the best to be found anywhere, her business people are always obliging and courteous, Marion mills makes the best flour, Marion laundry makes the whitest linens, and the Marion ice plant make the coldest ice. Marion girls have the sweetest smiles and Marion boys the biggest hearts. Then we should live together as one big family, and each one of us do his part to make us all happy.

Some months ago Jno. W. Wilson established one of the best laundry plants in this country; but as soon as the machinery was installed some folks began to "knock" on the laundry. Agencies were established galore, only to die a premature death, but some of our people persist in sending their linens away from home to be washed, under the pretense that they can get better work. Now that Mr. Wilson has showed the enterprise to establish a business that employs home labor, that brings money into, instead of taking money out of our town it is our loyal duty to patronize his laundry. Mr. Wilson is a high toned gentleman, energetic and enterprising, always ready to do anything to help our town, and to promote that good fellowship which is so essential to the life and happiness of any town. CITIZEN.

A Young Engineer.

We notice on the street this week Mr. Buford Cardwell. Only a few years back he was a little boy playing on the streets of Marion. His mother with her children lived in a little house that set back about twenty feet from the street almost on the spot, where Dudley Wallingford is now erecting a new livery stable.

Bufe tells us he is engineer on a freight train and his run is from Nashville, Tenn., to Princeton, Ky., and return. The popular impression is that engineers received so much per month in the way of salary. Such is not the case. They receive so much per one hundred miles of run or fraction thereof. Freight engineers receive $4.35 for each one hundred miles and passenger engineers receive $3.60 per one hundred miles.

Mr. Cardwell contemplates removal to some Western road in the near future. He states that his mother will be in Marion in two or three weeks.

Birthday Party.

Miss Nellie Paris, the little daughter, of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Paris, entertained her little friends at a delightful birthday party Saturday afternoon from five to seven. Chocolate and pineapple ice cream, cake and lemonade were served. Those present were Estelle Paris, Clara Newman, Lucile Pope, Helen Sayre, Marjory Tonkin, Juliet Pope, Katharine Moore, Ruth Moore, Willie Stephenson, Ruth Dodge, Ruth Sutherland, Dova Walker, Marion Ainsworth, Lora Holloman, Katie Walker, Verba Butler, Fannie Wring, Gladys Enoch, Fannie Morris and Nellie Paris.

Each of the guests presented the young hostess a nice present. Misses Gussie Burgett and Virgie Paris assisted the hostess in entertaining.

Base Ball.

The Marion Juniors played the Princeton Juniors at Kelsey Tuesday, the score being, 5 to 3 in favor of Princeton. Marion batteries, N. Henry and E. Harmon. Princeton batteries, G. Pettitt and R. Steele.

NOTES MANY GREAT CHANGES

Rev. Bigham Relates an Interesting
Story of His Early Recollections of Our City.

NOW RESIDES IN STATE OF FLORIDA.

Rev. J. W. Bigham, of Bartow, Florida, was in Marion, Ky., a few weeks ago and being in a reminiscent mood talked somewhat freely of Marion and old times. Standing at the corner of Yandell-Gugenheim Company's store and replying to a number of questions he said:

"Yes—it is true I was the first child born in the town of Marion, Ky."

Pointing his finger across the square he said, "I was born in the tumbled log house that stood on the south side of the street immediately in the front of the old Doctor Crawford property. I am therefore not only one of the first home-comers, but I am one of the first comers to this good town of Marion. I have seen three Marions reared on this present site of the town, and have seen three court houses reared in that court house yard. The first one was destroyed by the rebels during the war in the year of '63, I think and the second one was burned accidentally by workmen repairing the roof.

My father built the dwelling house now owned and occupied by Mr. R. W. Wilson, but on the death of my mother he would not live there, so he traded the property for the brick tavern corner now occupied by Yandell-Gugenheim Company. We moved to the dwelling near the old brick church cemetery in the year 1846 or 7, which is now occupied by Mr. T. H. Lowry, the distiller. The place was known then as the Marley house. It is there that I have the first recollection of anything on this earth. I could not have been over three years of age, but I have a vivid recollection of a large white sow and her little pigs lying just outside the fence at that place. Some one, I think Ned, my father's colored man, carried me in his arms and doubtless to amuse me showed me the sow and litter of little pigs. That scene abides."

"Bro. Bigham, how do you like the change you made from the Louisville conference to the Florida conference?"

"Just the finest kind. We all like to live in Florida. My first appointment was Tallahassee, the capitol, where I served two years and among other successes led the movement in which saloons were driven out. The capitol city and Leon county are now prospering and happy, under the wholesome reign of prohibition. I am now serving my church as presiding elder of Orlando district, which embraces the western Gulf coast of South Florida. Many thrifty towns and cities are springing up all over this territory, and new railroads being built and others projected in addition to these already operated, indicating that the future material interests of this section is regarded as most hopeful, lands are rapidly advancing in price, vast bodies of timber lately passed into the hands of great corporations. Phosphate lands now prospected and in process of development, while truck gardening is on a boom, gives promise that this South Florida country will in the near future be teeming with a thrifty, happy people. Many small bodies of desirable lands can yet be had at reasonable prices. The orange industry is growing and among other productions increasing the bank account of the truckers. I may mention the lettuce crop yielding sometimes $1,000 per acre. Celery culture now so extensively engaged in at Sanford and other places, yield $1,000 or more per acre, while the luscious cantaloupe "Rocky Ford" and others have yielded $400 per acre to the gardener. These results, however, are not universal for be it known there are some unproductive land in Florida, also a few unproductive

WILL BE BETTER THAN IT EVER WAS

In Its Third Year The Record's Circulation
Exceeds the Expectations of Its Publishers and Friends.

With the issue of July 13th, 1906, THE CRITTENDEN RECORD started in on the third year of its existence. A part of that voyage has been tempestuous and part of it bright. On the 28th day of March, 1905, a conflagration destroyed the greater part of Marion and in that destruction THE CRITTENDEN RECORD went down. THE CRITTENDEN RECORD did not miss an issue on account of the fire nor for any other cause. For over a year it struggled along without any machinery, but now it is fully equipped and prepared for any and all kinds of newspaper and job work. Below is a cut of the new Cranston press installed July 6th, 1906, and also a cut of the engine that drives all the machinery.

In the past two years the circulation of THE RECORD has grown beyond all expectations and now exceeds that of many much older county papers, in fact few reach as many homes. A special continued effort is now being made to still further enlarge the number of papers that go out from this office. THE RECORD will be made better than ever before, both as a newspaper and advertising medium, and it will ever be a friend to enterprise, industry and education and will be of interest to every member of the family. We thank our friends for liberal patronage and assure them that we shall endeavor to merit the same.

To Button Her Waist Behind.

She stood at the glass and she tried with her might
To button
Her waist
Behind;
The movements she went through were surely a sight—
To button
Her waist
Behind.
She would reach and she'd tug, she would sigh and she'd groan,
And after each effort she'd let out a moan;
She twisted and squirmed till she strained every bone,
To button
Her waist
Behind.
She would take a long breath and then stand on her toes,
To button
Her waist
Behind;
She strained at the risk of ripping her clothes,
To button
Her waist
Behind;
She had a contortionist beaten a mile,
She would bend like a jackknife, then straighten a while,
And wonder why nightmares like that were in style—
The waists
That button
Behind.
For an hour she labored in wildest despair
To button
Her waist
Behind;
Her face became red and all loosened her hair,
To button
Her waist
Behind.
She wept, and the tears splashed down in her lap,
While for life and its pleasures she cared not a rap,
When she went to the office a hideous gap
Was there
In her waist
Behind.

The Sphinx of Mystery.

(By Rustic)

In the midst of the wide-spread skepticism of our times, we need to guard against a growing indifference to the problems of the religious life. It is easy to drift aimlessly along with the crowd,—to live from day to day a sort of half life, or death in life. But so we do not grow, we do not expand ourselves into that large image of the divine that is in each one of us. No, these problems are before us; and we must solve them, or die in the attempt. It is a dead soul, indeed, that does not feel a lively interest in these great problems and mysteries of life. Suppose we have given over our belief in a literal hell, and have come into the comforting conviction that no lake of fire awaits the soul that dies without subscribing to a particular creed. Is that a reason for giving over all interest in the life of the soul? Do we not stand here as children, in a world which is one vast mystery to us? Whence did we come into this great wide awake world? From what vast, mysterious country did our souls make their pilgrimage, that we find ourselves encamped here in this vale of sunshine and shadows? We close our eyes in death upon the mystery out of which we came. The same great unknown confronts us in our last as lay back of us in our first moment. We stand ever in the midst of mysteries. The forces of nature, silent, unknown, play about us. We walk amid the powers that made the world,—that upheaved the mountains and hollowed the sea, that uphold the planet in her yearly course about the sun. We know not the mystery of these forces. We play with them, harness them to our iron wagons, send them flashing over land and under the sea with messages of love; and yet we know not one of them. We see the operations of a nameless and unknown Power, putting forth its life in the grass under our feet, the trees of the forest, the living creatures that inhabit earth and sea and air; and we in a vague way feel ourselves related to this vast Power, know ourselves as one with it, as agents of its purpose. And yet we know not ourselves. To each one of us there is no mystery greater than himself. These surging emotions, these lightning-flashes of thought, what are they, and whence are they? Every human soul is enshrouded in clouds of mystery, through which only occasional and fitful dreams of perception pierce, to show us what we are. In a dim way we feel a sense of duty, we know that we desire right and truth; and yet we are seldom sure that we know these when we have them. But for the faith that in all this vast and wondrous universe there is naught but good, we should indeed faint by the way-side weary with our seemingly fruitless struggle! But we know we are in a world not of our own making that a Power not ourselves is making for righteousness; and we gird up our loins for new endeavor. We know that,

The State College of Kentucky LEXINGTON, KY.

THE Agricultural and Mechanical (State) College of Kentucky offers the following courses of study, viz: Agricultural, chemical, biological, mathematical, physical, normal school, classical, mechanical engineering, civil engineering, mining engineering, each of which extends over four years and leads to a master's degree. Each course of study is organized under a separate faculty. The general faculty number nearly fifty professors and instructors.

County appointees receive tuition, room rent in dormitories, fuel and light, and if they remain ten months, traveling expenses.

The laboratories and museums are large, well equipped, comprehensive and modern. Military tactics and science are fully provided for as required by Congress. Graduates from the several courses of study readily find excellent positions and liberal remuneration. The demand is largely in excess of the ability of the college supply. The matriculation for the last year was, including Summer school, 815.

Specialists with the necessary number of assistants have charge of each department of natural science. Summer schools are provided for pedagogy, engineering and instruction in science and arts.

The State College of Kentucky is the only institution in the Commonwealth doing in any proper sense university work.

The college home for young women provides facilities for good board and lodging. It is well equipped with all modern conveniences, including bath room and a room for physical culture. It is heated by steam and lighted by electricity.

An opportunity is thus afforded to them of a thorough education in classics, modern languages, literature, science, mathematics, logic, metaphysics, history and political economy. No other institution in the State offers advantages for the education of women at all comparable to those offered by the State College of Kentucky.

A new Library building will, through the generosity of Mr. Carnegie, be erected during the next Collegiate year.

The Normal Department will be on a better footing than ever heretofore. Last year's largely increased attendance, with the unprecedented growth of the Summer Normal School, both indicate that an era of prosperity surpassing that of all previous years has opened for the Normal Department of the State College.

to the earnest soul struggling to find truth, truth will come. We are here; and life is before us, with all its mystery and struggle. Let us seek for the divine way of life. The soul held open to the inspirations of the Almighty breathes a divine air, which is life, and health, and strength. Let us go forth bravely to contend with the grim Sphinx of Mystery; and in the strength of our divine manhood we shall, like Oedipus of old, find answer to her riddle, and she shall be slain.

CHEAPER FARM LANDS.

Southwest Offers Best Opportunities For Securing Homes.

Many farmers in the Northern and Eastern states are selling their high priced lands and locating in the Southwest. Many who have been unable to own their homes in the older country are buying land in the new country.

Unusual opportunities exist along the lines of the Missouri Pacific-Iron Mountain Route. The rich, alluvial, delta lands and river bottom lands of Southeast Missouri, Eastern Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, capable of producing 60 bushels of corn, a bale of cotton, 4 to 6 tons of alfalfa, 150 bushels of potatoes, and other grains, vegetables and hay crops, can be bought for $7.50 to $15.00 per acre. When cleared and slightly improved will rent for $4.00 to $6.00 per acre cash.

Uplands more rolling, lighter soil, adapted to fruit growing—peaches, pears, plums, grapes, berries, also melons, tomatoes and other vegetables, can be bought for $5 to $10 per acre in unimproved state. Many places with small clearings and some improvements can be bought very cheap.

This is a fine stock country. No long winter feeding. Free range, pure water, mild climate. A healthy growing country, with a great future.

MOST PROSPEROUS YEAR

Board of Trustees of Kentucky State College Hold a Satisfactory Meeting.

The Board of Trustees of the State College of Kentucky met June 5th, and continued in session two days. The reports submitted covered the most prosperous year in the history of the institution.

In 1878, when the College was detached by the Legislature from its connection with Kentucky University, the matriculation for the whole year amounted to only seventy-eight. The catalogue issued for the year 1905-6 shows an enrollment of 815. During the intervening period, the attendance has increased more than ten-fold. Its courses of study have multiplied, its teaching staff in corresponding proportions, and instead of graduating small classes of one, two and three, it has for years past, graduated an average of not less than sixty-five each year. It now possesses real estate consisting of College grounds, farm buildings and equipment, amounting to $750,000. All its Departments are well manned and doing excellent work.

A report was submitted by a commission consisting of the President, the Director of the Station, the Chairman of the Board of Trustees, and three members of the Board, who visited, a week before Commencement, Purdue University of Wisconsin. It was shown that the State College of Kentucky, with a much less income, is doing work equal in degree, though not in quantity, to any of its sister institutions. The report brought out the humiliating fact that the annual income of the State College is much less than that of any other land grant college in the west or north. For example, the income of the Ohio State University, founded under the same act of Congress, is $550,000., the annual income of the Illinois University $950,000., the annual income of the University of Wisconsin $970,000. of the University of California between $800,000. and $900,000., Cornell University $1,450,000. The State of Kentucky gives to its College the proceeds of a tax of one-twentieth of a mill. The maximum yield of which was last year $38,000. The State of Wisconsin gives to its University the proceeds of a tax of two-sevenths of a mill. This last year yielded $558,000.

The President announced to the Board the conclusion of a correspondence which he had had with Mr. Carnegie, the result of which was that this great benefactor of mankind has agreed to give the College $20,000. for the building of a Library, the only condition being that the Trustees make adequate provision for its up-keep and maintenance. This condition was promptly met and the money is now placed to the credit of the College with Mr. Carnegie's cashier.

One of the features of the report was the success which had been achieved by the Normal Department of the State College, during the past year. The number enrolled was larger than for many years preceding, and the material of excellent quality. The conviction grows that notwithstanding the establishment of two normal schools, one in the eastern and one in the western portion of the state, that the element seeking Normal School instruction of a high grade will direct their steps towards the State College in constantly increasing numbers.

The collateral advantages of association with students pursuing other courses of study, the opportunity of instruction in all the collateral courses and the departments of the institution, without additional cost, the excellent quarters provided for young ladies in Patterson Hall, and traveling expenses to those who continue in connection with the College or Normal Department for one year, all combine to present attractions for those who seek thorough training as a preparation for teaching. No institution in the Commonwealth, whether State or denominational, can offer anything to Normal students to compare with the educational advantages incident to matriculation in the State College of Kentucky. These considerations, added to the fact that those who graduate in pedagogy or finish the State Diploma Course, are entitled to receive life certificates from the College, entitling them to teach in any county of the Commonwealth without further examination, present an additional attraction of no small value.

"Make Hay While the Sun Shines."

There is a lesson in the work of the thrifty farmer. He knows that the bright sunshine may last but a day and he prepares for the showers which are so liable to follow. So it should be with every household. Dysentery, diarrhoea and cholera morbus may attack some of the home without warning. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which is the best known medicine for these diseases, should always be kept at hand, as immediate treatment is necessary, and delay may prove fatal. For sale by Haynes & Taylor, the enterprising druggists of Marion.

EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR TO

EVANSVILLE AND RETURN

By the Evansville Merchants' Rebate Association THE PLAN

1. On and after March 15th, 1906, one round-trip railroad fare from any town within a radius of forty miles from Evansville, Ind., will be refunded to each individual purchaser of $25 or more from any or all the members of the Merchants' Rebate Association. In case the purchases are less than $25 the Merchants' Rebate Association will refund the round-trip fare of one mile for each $1 purchase, but no refund will be made for less than $5 purchases.
2. Persons living at a greater distance than forty miles may have their fares rebated. To illustrate: If you live sixty miles, away, you pay only twenty miles, and the Association pays for forty miles both ways.
3. No member shall refund fares or parts of fares direct.
4. When a rebate book is applied for, before it is issued, the customer must show his or her return trip ticket or a receipt from the ticket agent.
5. The total amount of each purchase must be entered on the books.
6. No rebate will be allowed unless application for the same is made at time of purchase.
7. The purchaser of the required amount of goods shall apply to the Merchants' Rebate Association, 226 Main street for

Excursion to the West.

The Marion Real Estate & Investment Co., of this city have listed several thousand acres of land in the state of Texas and are offering special inducements to persons who are contemplating a change of residence, as well as to persons who have money to invest in real estate.

We are informed that they have 200,000 acres in Deaf Smith County, Texas, in the vicinity of Hereford, on the Santa Fe R. R. also on the new line of the Rock Island Rail Road now in course of construction, which they are offering at special price, cut up into farms to suit purchasers.

We are informed by one of the managers of this company that they have arrangements by which their friends, who desire to visit this section of Texas and examine any of the land they have listed, may get the benefit of special excursion rates on August 7th, and again on August 21st.

Persons desiring to investigate any of the lands in Texas or Missouri with a view of purchasing should at once take the matter up with the Marion Real Estate & Investment Co., and take advantage of the special rates on the days named.

The increase in postal receipts moves the New York World to remark that a nation's happiness and prosperity can be measured by the letters it writes. But there isn't much happiness in the kind we get the first of every month.

The Crittenden Record.

ISSUED WEEKLY.

GEO. M. CRIDER, Editor and Publisher.
 EUGENE GUESS, Associate Editor.

SUBSCRIPTION ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR.

Entered as second-class matter July 15, 1904, at the postoffice at Marion, Ky., under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

FRIDAY, AUG. 3, 1906.

A lot of correspondence and news items were crowded out this week for want of space.

Read "The Sphinx of Mystery" by Rustic in this issue of THE RECORD. It is good. This man Rustic is himself certainly a Sphinx of Mystery. We venture the assertion that the correspondents hooks in this office and in the Press office are never entirely clear of the writings of "Rustic." They are all of the best grade too.

We cannot pass up this week's issue of the Crittenden Press without a few words of congratulation on its splendid telegraphic facilities. On July 16th at Mt. Sterling, Ky., the "Press" reporter started a few thousand words of hot stuff for Crittenden county via the State Journal at Frankfort. July 19th the Press was printed and the hot stuff had not arrived. July 28th rolled around and it still had not come, but the first of this week she came over the wires sizzling hot, and by strenuous hard work the Press force got her in the forms. There is only one explanation for the delay. General Hays must have climbed a pole and cut a wire somewhere on the route. Of course he would not have done this if the Press had not lined up on the side of the machine.

THE CRITTENDEN RECORD takes notice of the Peoples Sovereignty League of America and some of its work in the State of Maine. Through the questioning of candidates for the initiative and referendum by the State Grange, State Federation of Labor, and the State Referendum League, the Republican State Convention declared for a constitutional amendment for the initiative and referendum for statute law and further declared: "We recommend to the consideration of the next legislature the adoption of statutes under which all nominations for elective offices, by the political parties entitled to representation of the official ballot shall be made by direct vote of the people at primary elections held under all the safeguards of the regular election itself."

Push, Don't Knock.

THE RECORD would like to see a meeting of the Commercial Club as of old time. There is something on tap for Marion if everybody will wake up--will not Thomas H. Cochran, the old president, call a meeting and name a time?

We mean this every word. Something is doing. How would you like to see a big enterprise fall on this the best town of its size in the state? If everybody knocks we miss this--

No--it won't cost you anything.

Give It a Chance to Cool.

Never commit to paper that which you have conceived in passion.

If you have a red hot letter to write do so and then lay it away to cool off.

After a week of quiet repose haul it out and as you read it over you will wonder that you had little enough sense to write a thing like that. Time works wonders in more ways than a thousand.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

The Rev. J. R. McAfee preached at the Methodist church Sunday morning to a large and very attentive audience.

The music by the choir was excellent and very much enjoyed by all. This choir easily leads all others in town in the excellence of its musical selections and in the rendering thereof.

The anthem selected Sunday morning was, "Lovely Zion."

Splendid good music is a feature not to be overlooked in church service.

The sermon was preached from the text, 1 Timothy, 6-12, "Fight the good fight of faith etc. the subject of the discourse was, 'Be a soldier for the Lord.' It is a lamentable fact that a great many of the soldiers enlisted in God's army do very well as long as there is no duty to perform, but when it becomes necessary to say which side we are on a great many of us like Peter deny him.

When the Spanish-American war broke out Capt. Cowan called his company together and told them of the declaration of war. He said without a doubt some of them would lose their lives, possibly all of them would fall in the fight and, 'now if any of you want to recant you now have your last opportunity,' and of course they, like many of us in the church, when it came to the test, withdrew from the ranks and went away in disgrace.

The equipment for God's service is abundantly sufficient if we will only do our part God will do his, then let us enlist for the battle and if need be lay down our lives for his cause so that in the end we can say as Paul did, 'I have fought a good fight I have kept the faith henceforth there is laid up for me a crown etc.'

Rev. J. H. Butler preached at the Baptist church Sunday morning. He read for the lesson, Psalm 115. His text was Job 21:15, "What is the Almighty that we should serve Him? and what profit should we have if we pray?"

The text divides itself into two great questions.

First, "What is the Almighty that we should serve Him?"

He is our Creator, we should serve Him for this, He is also our preserver and benefactor. He is the only true and living God worthy of our love, confidence and service.

He is the great and mighty God, merciful and gracious.

He is the great Judge, we are accountable to Him for all our sins, and He makes us responsible to Him for them.

Second, "What profit should we have if we pray?"

God hears and answers prayer. He heard Moses when he delivered the children of Israel out of Egyptian bondage. He heard Elijah and David when they prayed.

He answered the Apostles when they prayed for Peter's deliverance. He answered the prayers of the Hebrew children.

God pledges Himself to answer prayer. If He heard these, will He hear us?

Blessings we receive in answer to prayer: forgiveness of sin, deliverance from evil, wisdom and salvation.

A large congregation listened to this earnest sermon.

The union services were held in the Christian church and a large congregation gathered there for worship. Rev. McAfee was to have preached, but could not leave the meeting he is holding at Salem, so Rev. Andres spoke in his place. The sermon was based on the text Luke 13-24, "Strive to enter in at the straight gate, for many shall seek to enter in and shall not be able."

This is a refutation of universalism. The speaker presented the condemnation of the sinner as an act of justice on the part of God in view of the three distinct offices of Christ. God must condemn men who do not believe in Christ in justice to Him as a Prophet, Priest and King. The congregation was attentive to the speaker's words.

---000---

Rev. Andres preached on the subject of The Adherence of the Church to a Creed. The text was Tim. 1-13, "Hold fast the form of sound words." The subject was treated under the following heads, The Creed Defined, The Value of a Creed. The Necessity of a Creed. The Attitude of the Church to its Creed.

BITS OF BYPLAY.

Jim Terry, colored, has an odd expression when calling people to the long distance telephone. "Say mister, hurry up to the hotel, they want you at the fur distant."

---000---

Sylvester Darnell used to be porter at the hotel when it was kept by Judge H. M. Cook. Sylvester kept things lively by singing the only song he knew.

Potatoes grow small in Kansas. Potatoes grow small in Kansas. Potatoes grow small, They dig them in the fall, And eat 'em akina and all. Potatoes grow small in Kansas.

It can readily be seen that the words and melody appealed strongly to the hotel guests and boarders.

---000---

"Mother" said one of the rising youths of Marion, and possibly a future president of the United States, "I believe I am far sighted." "Why my son?" "Because, mother I can see so far."

---000---

A little boy residing in Marion told his father the other day that he had studied the questio. from all sides and had decided never to marry. "Papa, I will never marry and thus be an old bachelor."

---000---

Creed do you ever hurry? "No I am like Ed Robeson when he began working for the Transfer Company. I am afraid it will make me old too quick."

---000---

An old lady from the country was in Mrs. Cavender's store shopping, glancing all around and failing to see Mrs. Cavender she said to William McConnell. "Billv where's your maw?"

Galveston's Sea Wall.

Makes life now as safe in that city as on the higher uplands, E. W. Goodloe, who resides on Dutton St., in Waco, Tex., needs no sea wall for safety. He writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption the past five years and it keeps me well and safe. Before that time I had a cough which for years had been growing worse. Now it's gone." Cures chronic Coughs, La Grippe, Croup, Whooping Cough and prevents Pneumonia. Pleasant to take. Every bottle guaranteed at Haynes and Taylor drug store. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Call Meeting.

There will be a called meeting of Princeton Presbytery of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, at Dawson Springs, Ky., Thursday, August 9th, 1906, at 1 p. m. for the purpose of receiving and granting letters; to investigate and correct troubles said to have arisen in some of our congregations over the late proposed union with the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., and to transact any other business, that may legitimately come before it.

G. L. WOODRUFF, Mod.

men. Our gifted and now lamented, the Rev. Tom Moore, spent some years in Florida and returning to his home then in Crittenden, was asked as to his estimate of Florida. Controlling as best he could the impediment in his speech, he said "F-F-lorida is ni-ninety per cent. K. K. climate and ten per cent. country," and this will apply to much of the state today. But my many friends of Crittenden and other west Kentucky counties can only boast of a like estimate on soil--and zero on climate--and those unfortunates of dear old Crittenden, who have folded their tents and moved to "Yakama" and other similar barren, desert wastes, are like the puzzled dutchman, who landed in New Orleans in time of a riot. He afterwards said, "If I was in hell, I'd wish I was here and ven I was here, I'd wish I was in hell---May the Lord save us from both."

The Enormous Sum Earned by the Railroads of the United States Last Year.

According to preliminary report of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the gross earnings of the railroads of the United States, covering approximately 216,000 miles of road, will probably show for the fiscal year ended June 30 an increase of 20 per cent over the $20,073,000,000 earned in 1905. This will prove a banner year for American railroads, in spite of the "adverse legislation" complained of. The official figures will not be available for all the roads for some months yet, but the increases that have been shown month after month give reason to expect the 10 per cent increase. There have been heavy expenditures for improving the roads, but the net earnings will be very favorable. No section of the country has failed to profit by the favorable conditions which existed this past year.

Rev. R. H. Anthony Engaged.

Hereafter there will be preaching at the Presbyterian church every Sunday. Rev. R. H. Anthony, who for twelve months has served the church one half of his time, has accepted a call for another year, to give his whole time to this congregation, the salary to be not less than eight hundred dollars. This is decidedly an advance step for this church, which has never before employed a pastor for all his time. It is all the more to the credit of the church that the salary is, considering the reduction of the pastors' expense, nearly equal to the salary formerly paid by the three churches. This congregation built the first church ever built in Sturgis, and Mr. Anthony became pastor soon after the house was completed. The church has had several pastors since, but Mr. Anthony has served the church in all about five years. —Sturgis News Democrat.

Flattering Prospects.

The Schoolfield-Spees Mining & Milling Company are taking out quite a quantity of sulphide ore at their mine near Carrsville. They have overcome the difficulty of flooded mine shafts by sinking another shaft higher up the bluff and using the water from the main shaft to sluice and wash the mineral as it comes from the mine.

The N. W. fissures are crossed by a N. E. dyke about one hundred yards north of the main shaft and at the intersection of the fissures is where the best ore is being found.

The indications are now that this company will be a heavy shipper within one year. The wall rocks on this property are as perfect as any in the world.

The company have opened two parallel fissures on the lower side of the Spees bluff, which are crossed by the N. E. dyke above mentioned, and will later sink a shaft in the master fault of this system, which crosses the Spees farm near the top of the bluff and which they believe will produce a wealth of mineral.

ENJOIN ACTION BY CUMBERLANDS

Ordered Not to Use Any of the Prop- erty of Church in Propagation of Faith.

Union City, Tenn., July 27. —Sheriff Childs this afternoon served an injunction on Rev. P. F. Hudgins, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church here and Rev. P. F. Johnson, Cumberland circuit rider, prohibiting them from using church property here, selling any literature of the Cumberland Presbyterian church here or in any way exercising the privilege of the Cumberland Presbyterian ministers. The injunction was issued by the circuit court at Fayetteville. This Cumberland Presbyterian synod is one of the strongest opponents of the union with the Northern Presbyterian church and the injunction has been secured by the union advocates.

Summer Diarrhoea in Children.

During the hot weather of the summer months the first unnatural looseness of a child's bowels should have immediate attention, so as to check the disease before it becomes serious. All that is necessary is a few doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy followed by a dose of castor oil to cleanse the system. Rev. M. O. Stockland, Pastor of the first M. E. Church, Little Falls, Minn., writes: "We have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for several years and find it a very valuable remedy, especially for summer disorders in children." So'd by Haynes & Taylor, the enterprising druggists of Marion.

Even the date on the can, will give you no information as to the age of the chicken.

POSTAL NOTES.

When you lick a postage stamp you need not fear that the gum is something unclean. Postal gum is of the best quality on the face of the earth. It is derived from dextrose, product secured in the process of making starch from potatoes, corn and the cassava root. The starch from these vegetables is treated by roasting at a temperature of about 300 degrees at the first stage, causing it to turn into dextrose. Further changes make postal gum and if the changes were carried to the limit the result would be grape sugar or glucose. The best postal gum is that which contains the least unconverted starch and little glucose. When the material for making gum reaches the bureau of engraving and printing it looks like flour except in color. It comes in sacks of 200 pounds each, and every consignment from the contractors is carefully inspected before using. It is subjected to microscopical examination and to chemical analysis, and all this is followed by a practical test.

The registry division of the United States postoffice department recently promulgated orders instructing postmasters everywhere to enforce literally every requirement of the postal regulations relative to delivery of registered letters. It is no longer possible for a man to sign a receipt for a registered letter addressed to his wife or any member of his family without first having secured a written order therefor. Such order must be delivered to the postoffice authorities and kept on file.

A clergyman has started a postal card endless chain of prayer to last five years. Since every little helps on our postal deficit, skeptics may rest assured that the prayers will not be entirely in vain.

The postoffice department is doing good service in the matter of securing better roads by threatening to cancel the rural mail route service in those sections where the farmers permit the roads to get into an impassable condition.

The patrons of Noble Hill's route will please take notice. If they want the route kept up they must see to it that the roads are kept up.

No Free Advertising.

The various candidates for the Democratic nominations for State offices in the November primary are flooding this office with longwinded articles very complimentary to themselves and request publication of the same in the columns of the News but up to this time not one of them has seen fit to send along a V or an X, and we want to rise to remark that our waste basket is full of rubbish, and that we will have a big bonfire on the public square at 3 o'clock p. m. This paper exchanges subscription, advertisements and complimentary notices for butter milk, pop corn, gingseng, possum hides and dollar bills, but we'll be darned if we are going to place our advertising space on the free list and have it scrambled over by a hungry horde of Jack-leg politicians. —Bullitt County News.

Unnecessary Expense.

Acute attacks of colic, diarrhoea and dysentery come on without warning and prompt relief must be obtained. There is no necessity of incurring the expense of a physician's service in such cases if Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is at hand. A dose of this remedy will relieve the patient before a doctor could arrive. It has never been known to fail, even in the most severe and dangerous cases and no family should be without it. For sale by Haynes & Taylor, the enterprising druggists of Marion.

O'Hara-Howe.

On Wednesday of last week, Mr. M. C. O'Hara, of this county, and Miss Bell Howe, of Carter county, were united in marriage at Denton, the home of the bride.

Miss Howe, the bride, is a daughter of Capt. H. B. Howe, a prominent coal operator of Carter county. She is quite popular in her home town and taught school in Carter county for several years, and was formerly principal of the Denton graded school.

Mr. O'Hara is one of Caldwell's best citizens and a member of a very prominent family. He and his bride arrived from Denton Sunday, and a reception at which about seventy-five friends and near relatives were present, was accorded them at Mr. O'Hara's home at O'Hara. —Princeton Leader.

The End Of The World.

Of troubles that robbed E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Ia., of all usefulness, came when he began taking Electric Bitters. He writes: "Two years ago kidney troubles caused me great suffering, which I would never have survived had I not taken Electric Bitters. They also cured me of General Debility." Sure cure for all Stomach, Liver and Kidney, complaints, blood diseases, Headache, Dizziness and Weakness or bodily decline. Price 50c. Guaranteed at Haynes and Taylor's drug store.

UNION COUNTY

Has Big Coal Deal—Ohio Syndicate Makes Large Purchase.

Another big coal deal has been made in Union county near Waverly.

The Kentucky Coal Mining Co., representing Dayton, Ohio, capital, has bought the coal right under two thousand acres of land east of Waverly, and as soon as possible will sink and equip a modern shaft and begin the mining of coal on a tremendous scale.

Charles A. Baker is president of the company, and James Stoops vice president.

The company bought forty seven acres of land from Joe O'Daniel, paying him $50 an acre for it. This land touches the Illinois Central railroad and on it the tippie will be built and the shaft sunk. They expect to begin work on the shaft the first of September, and will push it forward as rapidly as possible.

The price paid for the coal right was about $5.50 an acre.

Watson's Magazine

The leading exponent of Jeffersonian Democracy, edited by Hon. Thos. E. Watson, of Georgia, the Father of Rural Free delivery; author of "The Story of France," "Life of Napoleon," "Life and Times of Thomas Jefferson," "Betheny" and other books. Mr. Watson was the People's Party nominee for Vice-President in 1896, and for President in 1904. He is today heading a middle-class reform movement which is bound to sweep the country in a short time.

Watson's Magazine is not a Socialist publication. It does not stand for collective ownership for all the means of production. Mr. Watson believes in public or government ownership of railroad, telegraphs and telephones; in municipal ownership of street railways, gas, electric lights, water works, etc.; and he believes in private ownership of all industries not natural monopolies.

The middle class—the home owners, farmers, small business men and property owners—won Jefferson's victory in 1800; won Jackson's victory over Nick Biddle's money power in 1832; won Lincoln's victory in 1860. But each time after the flush of victory had died away, they became careless of their rights and went to sleep. They have slept a good portion of the time since 1865, but—

Watson's Magazine is waking them up. Another great victory is in the air. Keep in touch with the movement.

Levias.

Blackberrying and hay harvest are in this week.

Wanted.—A threshing machine in this neighborhood.

Some scamp visited Rev. G. S. Summer's chicken hover last week, and carried off forty-two frying size chickens. Wanted.—Another "threshing machine."

Miss Katie Yandell, of Marion, visited here last week, the guest of Miss Leecie LaRue.

John H. Grimes returned to Memphis, Tenn., Monday for examination in a business college.

Miss Ethylene Price has returned from a visit to Pinckneyville, the guest of Eld. J. J. Franks and family. John L. Harpending was the victim of a painful accident Sunday while playing the part of "John L." in a boxing game with "Ben F.," his right arm struck Ben's head with such power as to break the little bone, and throw Ben entirely out of the ring. The prompt attention of a doctor and nurse soon restored the usual smile to John's countenance.

Miss Kittie Coram, of Smithland, and J. W. Lamb, of Marion, came to see James B. Franklin Tuesday.

Tolu.

It appearing that there are reasonable grounds for believing that the Crittenden Record ought to have a good and efficient correspondent from this neck of our moral vineyard, I will forthwith endeavor by the authority I hold in my right hand to write the things that are faithful and true.

The recent rains have caused our farmers to wear a smile that would dispel the darkest cloud of gloom from the brow of unbelievers and hypocrites. Yes a smile instead of their piteous wails over their ruined hopes about a bad corn crop. We suppose this neighborhood like all others has its chronic grumblers that are always finding fault with the weather, their neighbors and what they say and what the other fellow did. To this class of 2 x 4's we would say that if a sensible idea should ever enter their little puny craniums it would be as lonesome as a buckshot in a tobacco hogshead. Now kick.

Wheat threshing is about over. The quality of the wheat is excellent while the yield is fairly good. Corn is looking well and in fine condition.

There is considerable sickness here at this writing. Mrs. J. A. Worley is very low with fever and not expected to live.

We notice in last week's issue of the Record that often quoted passage of Scripture that cleanliness is next to Godliness. Give us chapter and verse, Bud, and we will tell you who hit Billy Patterson.

J. C. Taylor and wife left this morning for Missouri on a visit to Mr. Taylor's brother.

The Tolu mill is running again on full time, and it is unnecessary to say they are making the best meal and flour on the market, yet it is true.

News scarce, weather fine. Come down and see us.

Shady Grove.

Weather fair. Health fairly good, some sickness.

Miss Cens Cardwell, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. William Utterback, of East St. Louis, returned home last week accompanied by her sister, who will spend several days with her parents.

Mrs. Mary Todd returned Monday from Lebanon, where she had been the guest of her daughter.

MID-SUMMER Clearance Sale!

OF I. H. CLEMENT, Tolu, Ky.

THE merchant who carries over goods from one season to the next is a failure. Every season brings its own goods and styles. I bought this spring an exceedingly large stock and while my trade has been good, yet I have quite a lot of goods in my store that I can't afford to carry over, hence I inaugurate this MID-SUMMER CLEARANCE SALE. I will for the next 30 days close out my entire Summer line of piece goods, consisting of Lawns, Organdies, White Goods, Batists, Thistle Silks, China Silks, etc., and large line of Men's, Youths' and Children's Suits, at very low prices.

LARGE LINE OF Ladies' Skirts, Straw Hats, Low Cut Shoes And Hosiery

At greatly reduced prices, to make room for my large and well-selected Fall and Winter Stock, which we are now beginning to receive. I especially call your attention to my large and well-selected line of Men's Clothing and Shoes.

Thanking you for past favors, I am

Yours Very Respect.,

Tolu, Ky. I. H. CLEMENT

We understand that Dr. Hayden, of Salem, will also make the trip as there were quite a few lots sold there.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

At the Presbyterian church last Sunday morning the pastor preached on the text, "In understanding be men." 1 Cor. 14:20. The R. V. has it, "In mind be men." The subject derived from this text was, "The Characteristics of the Man of Understanding." The child is commended for its humility, faith and love, and in these essentials we are to be as children, but in our understanding we are to be men. The book of Proverbs tells us more about the characteristics of the man of understanding than any other portion of the Bible. 1. The man of understanding shall attain wise counsels. 2. The man of understanding hath wisdom. 3. The man of understanding holdeth his peace. 4. The man of understanding walketh uprightly. 5. The man of understanding hath an excellent spirit. 6. By the man of understanding the state is prolonged. These are the essential elements of the character of the man of understanding. To be in mind men, we must become like the greatest of all men, Christ Jesus.

Services were held as usual last Sunday morning in the Methodist church with Bro. J. R. McAfee in the pulpit. For the benefit of a good sized audience he took for his text, Numbers, 13-30. At this time Israel had reached an important crisis in her march to the promised land, and notwithstanding they had such leadership as Caleb and Joshua the people turned back from following after God. The lesson to be learned. 1. God never destroys man's free moral agency in this life. 2. When church or state comes to a crisis God has always had a man like Caleb to command His army, or a man like Luther to stand before the Diet of Worms. Our view point means much as to how we shall give orders to the army, or as to how we shall stand before the trials of our faith. We need to spy the land and see all the difficulties to be over-come. Caleb saw the cities, the men and their fortifications, then was ready to report. Then we need to count up the cost and see our own resources. In counting up the cost do not forget to take God into the affairs of men. This country belongs to the sober and God fearing by right of inheritance and by the justice of our cause. It was a country sought as a place of worship, and it was won by prayer and faith.

A debt of $800 has been hanging over the Methodist parsonage for quite a while. A few days ago several of the members started the ball to rolling and now it is paid off.

Rev. J. D. Fraser, of Cadiz, will preach at the Methodist church Sunday morning and evening. He was formerly pastor of this church, and his old friends will be glad to hear him again.

A large and appreciative congregation greeted Rev. Andres at Mounds school house last Sunday afternoon. Services every second Sunday.

The Ladies Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church will meet at the home of Miss Emma Adams next Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Rev. Andres preached on the subject of Joseph at the night service. His text was Gen. 45:5, "God hath sent me before you to preserve life."

Rev. J. R. McAfee will go to Nortonville to hold Quarterly meeting service for Rev. Elgin next Sunday.

Rev. Virgil Elgin will dedicate a new Methodist church in Dycusburg next Sunday.

There will be services at the Cumberland Presbyterian church next Sunday morning and evening at the usual hour.

The sacrament of Holy Communion will be celebrated at the Presbyterian church next Sunday.

MOUSE SANG LIKE BIRD

STRANGE LIKING OF LITTLE
RODENTS FOR MUSIC.

Kentuckian Tells of Tuneful Melody
Which Issued from Throat of His
Tiny Midnight Visitor—
Story of an Organist.

Kansas City, Mo.—Several years ago a "singing mouse" lived in my father's library, said Dr. James Weir, of Owensboro, Ky., recently. It was my privilege to hear this little musician on several occasions. My father was in the habit of taking lunch about 11 o'clock at night, and he would invariably throw the crumbs to his tiny visitor. Shortly before lunch time the mouse would make its appearance, and, sitting erect on its haunches, begin its tuneful little song. I use the word tuneful advisedly, for there was a great deal of melody in the simple theme which made up this creature's musical effort.

Its song, in timbre, bore some resemblance to that of the canary. There were, however, no cadenzas, though I noticed passages in which there were both ascending and descending scales of four notes. There was also considerable trilling, which made the song the most birdlike in character.

Not long since a singing mouse took up its abode beneath the mantelpiece in my bedroom. I heard it sing on numerous occasions, but its song was not so pleasing, nor was it so well rendered as that of my father's little songster.

Mice frequently show that they are influenced by music. The organist of the First, Presbyterian church of Owensboro, Ky., gave me a remarkable instance of this fact. In relating his experience with a music loving mouse, he said:

"When I lived in Cuba, N. Y., a mouse dwelt beneath a bookcase in my music room, and I often performed the following experiment: Seating myself at the piano, I would begin improvising softly. In a few moments the mouse would come from beneath the bookcase, approach the center of the room, and, standing on its hind feet, listen intently to the music. A loud chord on the piano would send it scampering away to its home. I would then resume my pianissimo improvisation and the mouse would soon return to its former station near the center of the room, only to vanish again as soon as the loud chords were struck."

A celebrated violinist once told me that, owing to his poverty, he had been compelled, at one period of his life, to dwell in an old and dilapidated house which fairly swarmed with rats. He noticed that these animals were peculiarly susceptible to minor chords or to compositions played in minors, and that quick, lively music would bring them forth from their lurking places in great numbers. A few abrupt dissonant chords would, invariably, send them scurrying to their holes."

A violinist of Louisville, Ky., Mr. Karl Benedik, informed me that he repeatedly noticed that several mice, which lived in his room, were influenced by the music of his violin. In experimenting with them he discovered that when he played an andante movement pianissimo, they appeared to listen with pleasure, but when he played an allegro in quick tempo and forte, they would immediately run away.

The legend of the "Pied Piper of Hamelin" is by no means confined to Europe. It appears, in some form or other, in the myths and folk lore tales of certain Asiatic races, of the Tagals and Dyaks, and of several tribes of the Malayan archipelago, thus showing that almost everywhere mice and rats are found people have noticed that they are influenced by music.

WILL TOUR EUROPE ON FOOT.

Youth With $100 Starts on Walking
Trip Over Continent.

New York.—F. Landon McGinnis, a recent graduate of Ogdon college, Bowling Green, Ky., sailed in the steamer of the steamship Carmania the other day for an eight months' walking tour through Great Britain, Ireland and the European continent.

He is just 19 years old and starts on his foreign travels with only $100. McGinnis is confident he will have enough money to pay his expenses and bring him back.

The boy is not as strong as he would like to be and believes the outdoor life will build him up. He was offered a free scholarship in the law department of the University of Virginia this fall, but declined it, as his father is able to pay his expenses in the professional school.

Japanese Navy to Grow.

Victoria, B. C.—The Shinano Maru, which arrived the other day, brought news of many contemplated changes in the Japanese navy. A programme has been framed whereby the strength of the navy will reach 520,000 tons in 1908, but it is not believed this will be retained permanently. Twenty-three cruisers will be struck from the effective list this year.

Packers' Men to Wear White. Omaha, Neb.—Every workman in the South Omaha packing plants will hereafter wear white duck suits. The packers have purchased 7,000 and each man will be supplied with clean clothes daily. White dresses for 3,000 girls also have been ordered. The companies will wash these clothes each day free of charge.

Origin of Word "Dope."

New York's recent roof garden murder gave prominence to the term "dope fiend." What is the origin of "dope?" "Dope" is an English dialect word for a simoleon, but probably the "dops" in this case is another one altogether, derived from the "doping" of horses, and implying that the man was the victim of a drug habit. In this country "dope" has long signified any thick liquid of semi-liquid, used as food or as a lubricant. The Scientific American says that it once meant "a preparation of pitch, tallow and other ingredients, which, being applied to the bottom of the shoes, enabled the wearer to glide lightly over the snow softened by the rays of the sun." It is believed to come from the Dutch "doop," dripping, or paste, which is from the verb meaning to dip.

Bathing Dresses Reminded Him.

"Some of these bathing dresses," said Marshall P. Wilder, "make me think of Princess Clementine, the mother of the prince of Bulgaria."

"The princess said one day to her sailor brother, Duc de Joinville:

"Bring me, on your next trip to the south seas, the complete costume of a king's wife."

"I will gladly," the duke answered.

"He returned from the south seas a year later and handed his sister a string of glass beads."

"These are very pretty," said the princess, "but you promised me a complete costume."

"This is a complete costume," said the duke. "I've never seen them wear any other."

Thumb Prints for Bank Checks.

A new use for the distinguishing thumbmark has been devised by a merchant of Plainfield, N. J. By it he protects his bank checks from the operation of the check-raiser.

When this man writes a check, he lightly prints his thumb end over the figures. This mark is known to the bank teller, and, as no two thumb-prints are alike, a simple and effective protection is afforded.

The merchant keeps on his desk a small steel plate containing a light coating of ink, and dips his thumb in this as occasion requires.

His Education Stayed by Him.

In his bathing suit he resembled a young Greek god or an Otho Cushing drawing.

"Is it true, Mr. Mussel," asked the sunburned girl at his side, "is it true that a 'varsity' man soon forgets all he learned at college?"

"True? Nt. Of course it ain't. Why, I can kick a goal or hold down first today as good as I ever could at Harvard."

SPEND MILLIONS FOR DIAMONDS

Immense Sum Expended in America for Precious Stones.

While the importations of precious stones and pearls have been increasing by leaps and bounds in the two years, as indicated by the figures given out at the port of New York from time to time, there will be surprise at the announcement that the total value of these importations for the past fiscal year, ended June, has been far ahead of all previous records, approximating $40,211,700. The June importations at this port exceed in value those of the corresponding month of last year by a margin of nearly $400,000.

The nearest approach to the actual total of the fiscal year now closed was made by the figures for the calendar year ended December 31, the aggregate for that period being $37,146,337. It will be seen, therefore, that the fiscal year exceeds the calendar year by over $3,000,000.

Comparisons with preceding years will indicate the extent of the increase in the consumption of precious stones by the American dealer. The largest total since the records of the port have been kept until the present year was made by the preceding 12 months, when the figures were $33,223,164. The year ended June 30, 1903, was considered a record in its day, the value of the imports being $27,318,642. There was a decline in the year ended June 30, 1904, and then began the upward movement, which has since continued.—Jeweler's Circular-Weekly.

WHAT HAVE PUZZLED SOLOMON

Native East Indian Judge Had to Decide.

A native East Indian judge tells the story of two men journeying to take part in the death ceremonies in a distant village. They spent a night in the house of the complainant. Defendants were taken to a fowl to sacrifice at the death ceremonies.

Instead of doing so, they killed and ate the fowl in the complainant's house, since the time dire misfortune had overtaken the complainant.

Defendants admitted the charge except that they had killed the fowl in the porch of the house, which made the offense trivial.

The judge, was sufficiently acquainted with Kachin custom to see that a serious offense had been committed, but did not know to what extent the killing of the fowl in the porch might affect the case. He therefore called in the village elders to assist him, and fined the defendants two-year-old buffalo and one silk garment. Both parties were fairly satisfied, though payment of the fine was, as always is the case, very long delayed.

HE WON HIGH PLACE IN LIFE.

Citizens Gathered to Do Honor to Fellow Townsman.

"Why are the flags flying?" asked a drummer who had just arrived in the city.

In honor of the return of our most distinguished young man," replied the oldest inhabitant, "with great pomp."

"You don't say! Has he been to the legislature?"

"Well, I should say not. Something better."

"Ah, he has been to congress?"

"Keep on climbing, mister."

"Ah, the senate. I should have guessed that in the first place."

"Far from it."

"Gracious! He is not president?"

"No, he is chauffeur on one of these here circus calliopes and bound to make more fuss than anybody else in the country. Here he comes now, mister. Hooray!"

A Point He Overlooked.

In a discussion of expensive health resorts and watering places, Bishop McVickar, of Providence, said the other day:

"A friend of mine, a very stout fellow, once went to Marienbad to get his weight reduced. He had heard great things of Marienbad, and hoped to lose 50 pounds or so with no inconvenience to himself."

But he found the rates excessively high, and the regime excessively severe, and after an interview with the hotel physician, he said, pettishly:

"Spare diet, long walks—I could have managed all that without coming to this expensive place."

"Yes," said the physician, "but you forget the annoyance induced by our high prices. That of itself will go a long way toward reducing your weight."

Peril of Erring Soldiers.

"Strange as it may seem," said a former colonel of a national guard regiment, "members of state military organizations will continue to violate duty calls, while knowing full well that by so doing in certain instances they render themselves marked men for life."

"The fact is probably not generally known among citizens that a dishonorably discharged militiaman is forever barred from holding public office, whether this applies to the municipality, the commonwealth or the federal government. I know of some cases where men with dishonorable discharges have fallen to speedy ruin upon a full realization of the serious consequences attaching to conduct unbecoming a soldier."

Too Long for Wang.

I have just received the following quaint story from a reader who is apparently unperturbed by the earthquake. A lady in San Francisco engaged a Chinese cook. When the celestial came, among other things she asked him his name.

"My name," said the Chinaman, smiling, "is Wang Hang Ho."

"Oh, I can't remember all that," said the lady. "I will call you John."

John smiled all over and asked:

"What is your name?"

"My name is Mrs. Melville Longdon."

"Me no memble all that," said John. "Chinaman he no savey Mrs. Melville Longdon. I call you Tommy."

Precocious.

Speaker Cannon, on his seventieth birthday, referred in a jocular way to the precocity of the twentieth century child.

"Why, before long," he said, "we shall hear of the baby that has just been weaned, turning to its nurse and saying:

"I have had every reason to be satisfied with your past services, and shall not fail to recommend you among my acquaintances. Pray accept this dollar for yourself."

Nothing to It.

Mr. Yerner—It certainly should be some satisfaction to you to know that I would die for you.

Miss Coldart—I don't see how it could be.

Mr. Yerner—You don't?

Miss Coldart—No; you told me yourself that every life insurance company you ever applied to has refused you as a risk.

WILL BE BETTER THAN IT EVER WAS

In Its Third Year The Record's Circulation Exceeds the Expectations of Its Publishers and Friends.

With the issue of July 13th, 1906, THE CRITTENDEN RECORD started in on the third year of its existence. A part of that voyage has been tempestuous and part of it bright.

On the 28th day of March, 1905, a conflagration destroyed the greater part of Marion and in that destruction THE CRITTENDEN RECORD went down. THE CRITTENDEN RECORD did not miss an issue on account of the fire nor for any other cause. For over a year it struggled along without any machinery, but now it is fully equipped and prepared for any and all kinds of newspaper and job work. Below is a cut of the new Cranston press installed July 6th, 1906, and also a cut of the engine that drives all the machinery.

In the past two years the circulation of THE RECORD has grown beyond all expectations and now exceeds that of many much older county papers, in fact few reach as many homes.

A special continued effort is now being made to still further enlarge the number of papers that go out from this office.

THE RECORD will be made better than ever before, both as a newspaper and advertising medium, and it will ever be a friend to enterprise, industry and education and will be of interest to every member of the family.

We thank our friends for liberal patronage and assure them that we shall endeavor to merit the same.

MOUSE SANG LIKE BIRD

STRANGE LIKING OF LITTLE
RODENTS FOR MUSIC.

Kentuckian Tells of Tuneful Melody
Which Issued from Throat of His
Tiny Midnight Visitor—
Story of an Organist.

Kansas City, Mo.—Several years ago a "singing mouse" lived in my father's library, said Dr. James Weir, of Owensboro, Ky., recently. It was my privilege to hear this little musician on several occasions. My father was in the habit of taking lunch about 11 o'clock at night, and he would invariably throw the crumbs to his tiny visitor. Shortly before lunch time the mouse would make its appearance, and, sitting erect on its haunches, begin its tuneful little song. I use the word tuneful advisedly, for there was a great deal of melody in the simple theme which made up this creature's musical effort.

Its song, in timbre, bore some resemblance to that of the canary. There were, however, no cadenzas, though I noticed passages in which there were both ascending and descending scales of four notes. There was also considerable trilling, which made the song the most birdlike in character.

Not long since a singing mouse took up its abode beneath the mantelpiece in my bedroom. I heard it sing on numerous occasions, but its song was not so pleasing, nor was it so well rendered as that of my father's little songster.

Mice frequently show that they are influenced by music. The organist of the First Presbyterian church of Owensboro, Ky., gave me a remarkable instance of this fact. In relating his experience with a music loving mouse, he said:

"When I lived in Cuba, N. Y., a mouse dwelt beneath a bookcase in my music room, and I often performed the following experiment: Seating myself at the piano, I would begin improvising softly. In a few moments the mouse would come from beneath the bookcase, approach the center of the room, and, standing on its hind feet, listen intently to the music. A loud chord on the piano would send it scampering away to its home. I would then resume my pianissimo improvisation and the mouse would soon return to its former station near the center of the room, only to vanish again as soon as the loud chords were struck."

A celebrated violinist once told me that, owing to his poverty, he had been compelled, at one period of his life, to dwell in an old and dilapidated house which fairly swarmed with rats. He noticed that these animals were peculiarly susceptible to minor chords or to compositions played in minors, and that quick, lively music would bring them forth from their lurking places in great numbers. A few abrupt dissonant chords would, invariably, send them scurrying to their holes."

A violinist of Louisville, Ky., Mr. Karl Benedik, informed me that he repeatedly noticed that several mice, which lived in his room, were influenced by the music of his violin. In experimenting with them he discovered that when he played an andante movement pianissimo, they appeared to listen with pleasure, but when he played an allegro in quick tempo and forte, they would immediately run away.

The legend of the "Pied Piper of Hamelin" is by no means confined to Europe. It appears, in some form or other, in the myths and folk lore tales of certain Asiatic races, of the Tagals and Dyaks, and of several tribes of the Malayan archipelago, thus showing that almost everywhere mice and rats are found people have noticed that they are influenced by music.

Peril of Erring Soldiers.

"Strange as it may seem," said a former colonel of a national guard regiment, "members of state military organizations will continue to violate duty calls, while knowing full well that by so doing in certain instances they render themselves marked men for life."

"The fact is probably not generally known among citizens that a dishonorably discharged militiaman is forever barred from holding public office, whether this applies to the municipality, the commonwealth or the federal government. I know of some cases where men with dishonorable discharges have fallen to speedy ruin upon a full realization of the serious consequences attaching to conduct unbecoming a soldier."

Too Long for Wang.

I have just received the following quaint story from a reader who is apparently unperturbed by the earthquake. A lady in San Francisco engaged a Chinese cook. When the celestial came, among other things she asked him his name.

"My name," said the Chinaman, smiling, "is Wang Hang Ho."

"Oh, I can't remember all that," said the lady. "I will call you John."

John smiled all over and asked:

"What is your name?"

"My name is Mrs. Melville Longdon."

"Me no memble all that," said John.

"Chinaman he no savvy Mrs. Melville Longdon. I call you Tommy."—Tatler.

Precocious.

Speaker Cannon, on his seventieth birthday, referred in a jocular way to the precocity of the twentieth century child.

"Why, before long," he said, "we shall hear of the baby that has just been weaned, turning to its nurse and saying:

"I have had every reason to be satisfied with your past services, and shall not fail to recommend you among my acquaintances. Pray accept this dollar for yourself."

Nothing to It.

Mr. Yerner—It certainly should be some satisfaction to you to know that I would die for you.

Miss Coldart—I don't see how it could be.

Mr. Yerner—You don't?

Miss Coldart—No; you told me yourself that every life insurance company you ever applied to has refused you as a risk.

WILL BE BETTER THAN IT EVER WAS

In Its Third Year The Record's Circulation Exceeds the Expectations of Its Publishers and Friends.

With the issue of July 13th, 1906, THE CRITTENDEN RECORD started in on the third year of its existence. A part of that voyage has been tempestuous and part of it bright.

On the 28th day of March, 1905, a conflagration destroyed the greater part of Marion and in that destruction THE CRITTENDEN RECORD went down. THE CRITTENDEN RECORD did not miss an issue on account of the fire nor for any other cause. For over a year it struggled along without any machinery, but now it is fully equipped and prepared for any and all kinds of newspaper and job work.

Below is a cut of the new Cranston press installed July 6th, 1906, and also a cut of the engine that drives all the machinery.

In the past two years the circulation of THE RECORD has grown beyond all expectations and now exceeds that of many much older county papers, in fact few reach as many homes.

A special continued effort is now being made to still further enlarge the number of papers that go out from this office.

THE RECORD will be made better than ever before, both as a newspaper and advertising medium, and it will ever be a friend to enterprise, industry and education and will be of interest to every member of the family.

We thank our friends for liberal patronage and assure them that we shall endeavor to merit the same.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

ANOTHER SHOT BY A. SHOOTER

Spends a Week at His Boyhood Home

Will Take Another Vacation Four Hence—Shoots Squirrels at "Random Shots."

Well! well! here we are at home once more, amid the scenes of a busy city. We wish to give the readers of the RECORD a few of our many experiences while enjoying the "simple life." After writing of our trip to Hell's Half Acre, we retired for the night. Monday morning was dark and dismal after the rain Sunday night and a better day never dawned in which to chase the wily reynard. Early in the morning we saddled our horses, "blowed" up our hounds and started for the Davis hills, which is a sacred retreat for the red fox. We had in our company two other gentlemen and seven as fine dogs as ever barked on a trail. Soon after we reached the hills the hounds scented a reynard and our hearts leaped forth with joy. "Listen, boys, it's coming this way." "Will we see the fox? Be still they are coming," and about this time a beautiful red fox came bounding and leaping through the woods, closely pursued by the dogs. Another circle and they were near us again. The chase was as fine as I ever saw for about an hour when they ran out of the reach of our auditory nerves, and then we returned home feeling that we had rode after the hounds once more over the hills of our boyhood days.

Monday evening was spent visiting relatives we had not seen for many years and looking over the old country we loved in our early days. We saw many familiar things, but few faces we knew. We drove down a lonely lane and in our imagination lived over some of the time that passed twenty years ago. A mocking bird was sitting in a horn tree singing just as it did when we used to ride down that lane on Sunday evenings. The wild flowers were in bloom and their perfume seemed more fragrant—the grass seemed to grow greener—the very atmosphere we breathed seemed to be more balmy, and this old world seemed that it had divested itself of all vices and superstices and become a paradise. I ought I saw pretty maiden standing in the front yard fondling with a La France rose. I saw her dreamy black eyes, the brown hair, the ivory neck as bowed the beautiful head—the graceful form that was more beautiful than Grecian Gods. I could hear the tender voice that was sweeter to me than a harp with a thousand strings, as we were only dreaming, we awoke to visit dreamland again. We saw a humble cottage, we saw another of the fairest creatures, we saw our s as they ran to the front gate to get us; we saw the golden locks of baby, and the tender white arms as he entwined them about our neck. We told the secrets of his little heart, we were only dreaming.

We wended our way over the hills to old homestead, ate a hearty supper, and retired to bed. The following day dawned bright and fair—the air was blue, the air was balmy and it seemed that the very heavens were smiling on us. After partaking of a breakfast we shouldered our guns and departed for the woods where we used to hunt the bushy tailed "bunny" when we were a boy. We spent the morning roaming over the old and familiar woods with gun in hand. Sometimes we would sit on a mossy rock, and look at the wild flowers and think of other times, then we would ramble through thick woods, now and then we would shoot a playful squirrel; but all time we were living over the past before another day dawned we realized that the chigoes bit just as they twenty years, also about noon we were hungry just as we were twenty years ago; so we beat a hasty retreat to the place where we used to get relief from hunger and there we partook of a sumptuous dinner, rested our anatomy and were soon ready for an afternoon of pleasure.

Early in the evening we were in the city and ready for a drive to Dalton, where I once thought was the only place of any importance in the whole country. There we met a few familiar faces, but more that we had never seen before. The town looked just as it did when we were in our teens, only a little worse for the wear of years and the only new house has been built since I was a boy. We returned to the hotel and after a late supper I made my plans to visit on Springs the next day. Wednesday morning we were soon off for a famous watering place. It required a drive of twelve miles over a complete with scenery that would in-aspire a spring poet to write a new song and send for Jim Travis to sing it. The first place of importance was Bu-la a modest little village with a store, blacksmith shop, a dozen loafers and a few elm-peeler hogs that make their living digging poke root in the fence corners. The only street in this city is Plum street and it runs plum through town. Just north of town stands a lonely school house with one hand behind its ear listening for children to come to school, this is the last of the primitive school houses in this country. It is built of hewn logs and the clabboard roof looks like a frizzly chicken. The next place of importance is Charleston, famous because Mack Lynch used to live there, and because Myrtle Schwab first embarked in the produce business in this city. Four miles more brought us to the gates of the city: famed for its health giving water. We put our horse in the livery stable and proceeded to take in the sights of the city. There were people everywhere, all kinds, sizes, shapes and colors. Everyone seemed to be on the move, no one seemed quite certain where they were going, or where they wanted to go. We met Sylvan Price, Arch Davidson and Arthur Watkins. They seemed to be in the full enjoyment of rosy health, but you can imagine our surprise when Sylvan informed us that the trio were there in search of balm for their diseased anatomies and comfort for their broken spirits, and boys here is hoping that you may return to your native heaths in the bloom of youth and health.

After spending the day in Dawson Springs we returned to our old stamping-ground, spent the night and started early Thursday morning for Providence to catch the overland limited for Blackford. The trains on this road are limited in speed, that is they run at the rate of eight miles an hour and make four trips from Providence to Blackford each twenty-four hours, provided they don't have too many wrecks. The train was crowded with passengers and was running very slowly.

We got off to walk for a little rest as we were going around a curve we heard someone say "Hello Dick." We looked down the side of the track and saw the dusky hand of Hallie West waving from the car window. We saw his face with a great smile on it as he hailed us with delight. We were soon in Wheatcroft and there we found Coleman Haynes and Trice Bennett asleep on the platform. They looked worn and weary as if they had been losing sleep, we persuaded them to board the train and Trice complained of being very hungry. We reached Blackford safely in time to catch the eleven o'clock train for Marion. Trice asked us to buy him a ticket while he went in quest of something to satisfy the gnawing hunger produced by an empty gastronomic organ. Trice came back with a ham sandwich. We met several of our citizens at Blackford and their presence made us feel that we were nearing home sweet home.

Well we were soon at home enjoying the blissful presence of our better half and little children, but we wish to state that it is great to take a vacation, but there are some unpleasant features about this vacation business. I had just reached my office and was going over the statements that had accumulated, when Uncle Lucian Miles came in to collect my laundry bill and other collectors followed thick and fast, telling me they were bound to collect as it was the first of the month. When other people would pass me by and scarcely speak, they did not seem to realize that we had been out of town, but we have settled down to business and if fate is kind to us we expect to take another vacation about four years hence, but we cannot give the exact date. If our plans materialize we will write them.

Man wanted! Somewhere near Marion, to assist us in showing and selling properties. No experience necessary, if willing to let us teach you the real estate business. Salary $50.00 per month, to honest man, willing to devote part of his time to this business. Co-Operative Land Co. And Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn.

Miss Effie Wolford, of Salem, attended the meeting and visited relatives here last week.

Miss Emma Rutter, of Hampton, visited here the guest of J. A. Davis and family.

Miss Millie Eaton, of Green's Ferry, is visiting friends here.

L. L. Price is suffering from a painful accident. Sunday night while getting into a carriage the team started throwing him against a wheel and fracturing a rib. He is doing as well as could be expected.

Ulie Threlkeld the singing evangelist, who used to ride down that lane on Sunday evenings, was here last week and anay evenings. The wild flowers were in bloom and their perfume seemed so fragrant—the grass seemed so green—the very atmosphere was so balmy.

Rev. J. L. Price, of Providence, preached at Union Sunday morning and night.

Susan Barger, of near Ford's Ferry, is the guest of her brother, Marion Beard.

Miss Carty, of Missouri, is the guest of Miss Osie Gilles.

Shady Grove

There is a great deal of sickness in this vicinity. Mrs. Ida Lamb and Mrs. Margaret Towery are among the sick.

Rutledge Newcomb is progressing nicely with his school at Hoods. May he succeed, is our wish.

R. R. Tudor and Sam Henry were in Blackford Monday.

Iley Easley is quite sick this week.

Willie and James Joyce were in town Monday.

Miss Bessie Shade, of Providence, was the guest of Mrs. Lillie Easley several days this week.

Rev. J. J. Smith is assisting Rev. R. C. Love in a meeting at the Methodist church at this place. He is accompanied by his wife.

Cald Dehaven and Joseph Pickens, of Webster county, were in town Wednesday.

S. C. Towery was in Providence on business Tuesday.

L. D. Hodges and daughter, of Iron Hill, were in our town Wednesday.

Frank J. Travis a well to do farmer, of Tribune, was in this community buying hogs Wednesday.

Mrs. Sarah M. Martin and children, Willie, Lexie and baby Mabel were the guests of Mrs. Margaret Towery. They live at East Prairie, Mo.

Mr. Dunn, of Crayneville, was in this neighborhood buying hogs Friday.

Dr. Joseph Lamb was at this place Saturday and Sunday. The doctor knows well how to treat diseases of horses, give him a call, we are sure he would appreciate it.

Albert Horning was at this place Saturday and Sunday. He formerly resided at Iron Hill. He is a fine fellow.

U. S. Marshall in Town Tuesday

Wade Brown, deputy United States marshal, was in the city Tuesday looking after some business matters. He arrested Frank R. Richards Tuesday morning in Paducah charged with robbing the post office at Mexico, Crittenden county, some time in April last and lodged him in jail. He left on the Hopkinsville train for that city, where he took charge of some prisoners, which he carried to Owensboro.—Lyon County Times.

ANOTHER SHOT BY A. SHOOTER

Spends a Week at His Boyhood Home

Will Take Another Vacation Four Hence—Shoots Squirrels at "Random Shots."

Well! well! here we are at home once more, amid the scenes of a busy city. We wish to give the readers of the RECORD a few of our many experiences while enjoying the "simple life." After writing of our trip to Hell's Half Acre, we retired for the night. Monday morning was dark and dismal after the rain Sunday night and a better day never dawned in which to chase the wily reynard. Early in the morning we saddled our horses, "blowed" up our hounds and started for the Davis hills, which is a sacred retreat for the red fox. We had in our company two other gentlemen and seven as fine dogs as ever barked on a trail. Soon after we reached the hills the hounds scented a reynard and our hearts leaped forth with joy. "Listen, boys, it's coming this way." "Will we see the fox? Be still they are coming," and about this time a beautiful red fox came bounding and leaping through the woods, closely pursued by the dogs. Another circle and they were near us again. The chase was as fine as I ever saw for about an hour when they ran out of the reach of our auditory nerves, and then we returned home feeling that we had rode after the hounds once more over the hills of our boyhood days.

Monday evening was spent visiting relatives we had not seen for many years and looking over the old country we loved in our early days. We saw many familiar things, but few faces we knew. We drove down a lonely lane and in our imagination lived over some of the time that passed twenty years ago. A mocking bird was sitting in a thorn tree singing just as it did when we used to ride down that lane on Sunday evenings. The wild flowers were in bloom and their perfume seemed so fragrant—the grass seemed so green—the very atmosphere was so balmy.

and this old world seemed that it had vested itself of all vices and superstices and become a paradise. I thought I saw pretty maiden standing the front yard fondling with a LaRue rose. I saw her dreamy black eyes, the brown hair, the ivory neck as bowed the beautiful head—the graceful form that was more beautiful than the Grecian Gods, I could hear the tender voice that was sweeter to me in a harp with a thousand strings. As we were only dreaming, we awoke to visit dreamland again. We saw a humble cottage, we saw another of God's fairest creatures, we saw our friends as they ran to the front gate to meet us; we saw the golden locks of a baby, and the tender white arms entwined them about our neck and told the secrets of his little heart, we were only dreaming.

We wended our way over the hills to old homestead, ate a hearty supper, tired of by gone days and retired to refresh ourselves for the following day. Tuesday dawned bright and fair—the air was blue, the air was balmy and it seemed that the very heavens were smiling on us. After partaking of a breakfast we shouldered our gun and departed for the woods where we went to hunt the bushy tailed "bunny" who were a boy. We spent the morning roaming over the old and familiar woods with gun in hand. Sometimes we would sit on a mossy rock, pick wild flowers and think of other days, then we would ramble through the thick woods, now and then we would shoot a playful squirrel; but all the time we were living over the past and before another day dawned we realized that the chigoes bit just as they did twenty years, also about noon we were hungry just as we were twenty years ago; so we beat a hasty retreat to the place where we used to get relief from hunger and there we partook of a sumptuous dinner, rested our anatomy and were soon ready for an afternoon of pleasure.

Early in the evening we were in the buggy and ready for a drive to Dalton, this place I once thought was the only town of any importance in the whole country. There we met a few familiar faces, but more that we had never seen before. The town looked just as it did when we were in our teens, only a little worse from the wear of years and probably one house has been built since I was a boy. We returned to the burgoned table late in the evening and after supper I made my plans to visit Dalton Springs the next day. Wednesday morning we were soon off for the famous watering place. It required a drive of twelve miles over a country complete with scenery that would inspire a spring poet to write a new song and send for Jim Travis to sing it. The first place of importance was Bula a modest little village with a store, blacksmith shop, a dozen loafers and a few elm-peeler hogs that make their living digging poke root in the fence corners. The only street in this city is Plum street and it runs plum through town. Just north of town stands a lonely school house with one hand behind its ear listening for children to come to school, this is the last of the primitive school houses in this country. It is built of hewn logs and the clabboard roof looks like a frizzly chicken.

The next place of importance is Charleston, famous because Mack Lynch used to live there, and because Myrtle Schwab first embarked in the produce business in this city.

Four miles more brought us to the gates of the city famed for its health giving water. We put our horse in the livery stable and proceeded to take in the sights of the city. There were people everywhere, all kinds, sizes, shapes and colors. Everyone seemed to be on the move, no one seemed quite certain where they were going, or where they wanted to go. We met Sylvan Price, Arch Davidson and Arthur Watkins. They seemed to be in the full enjoyment of rosy health, but you can imagine our surprise when Sylvan informed us that the trio were there in search of balm for their diseased anatomys and comfort for their broken spirits, and boys here is hoping that you may return to your native heaths in the bloom of youth, and health.

After spending the day in Dawson Springs we returned to our old stamping-ground, spent the night and started early Thursday morning for Providence to catch the overland limited for Blackford. The trains on this road are limited in speed, that is they run at the rate of eight miles an hour and make four trips from Providence to Blackford each twenty-four hours, provided they don't have too many wrecks. The train was crowded with passengers and was running very slowly.

We got off to walk for a little rest as we were going around a curve we heard someone say "Hello Dock." We looked down the side of the train and saw the dusky hand of Hallie Wicox waving from the car window. We saw his face with a great smile on it as he hailed us with delight. We were soon in Wheatcroft and there we found Coleman Haynes and Trice Bennett asleep on the platform. They looked worn and weary as if they had been losing sleep, we persuaded them to board the train and Trice complained of being very hungry. We reached Blackford safely in time to catch the eleven o'clock train for Marion. Trice asked us to buy him a ticket while he went in quest of something to satisfy the gnawing hunger produced by an empty gastronomic organ. Trice came back with a ham sandwich. We met several of our citizens at Blackford and their presence made us feel that we were nearing home sweet home.

Well we were soon at home enjoying the blissful presence of our better half and little children, but we wish to say that it is great to take a vacation, but there are some unpleasant features about this vacation business. I had just reached my office and was going over the statements that had accumulated, when Uncle Lucian Miles came in to collect my laundry bill and other collectors followed thick and fast, all telling me they were bound to collect as it was the first of the month. When other people would pass me by and scarcely speak, they did not seem to realize that we had been out of town, but we have settled down to business and if fate is kind to us we expect to take another vacation about four years hence, but we cannot give the exact date. If our plans materialize we will write them.

The Crittenden Record.

VOL. 3. MARION, KY., AUG. 3, 1906. NO. 4

REV. T. N. COMPTON

Is Meeting With Much Success In Evangelistic Work.

Rev. T. N. Compton went to Guthrie on Saturday where he will be engaged for two weeks in a protracted meeting at the Baptist church. He has recently had great success in the evangelistic work to which he is now devoting his energies. —Exchange.

Marion church people will remember the tall young Baptist minister referred to above. He preached at the Baptist church here fifteen years ago.

A Good Picture.

A kodak picture has been received this week from Colorado. It is an out of doors view and the subject a man and woman.

The war correspondent of this sheet immediately recognized the man as Hon. Clement S. Nunn, President and General Manager of the Kentucky Fluor Spar Company, of Marion, Ky., now on a months vacation, and who is supposed to be in the company of his wife. The woman, we do not know. Her picture represents her to be large and fine looking and dressed in the latest style. The RECORD hopes it is not a meddler nor a tattler, but in view of the former friendly relations of the family we feel duty bound to mail a marked copy of this paper to Mrs. C. S. Nunn, Mont-Claire, Denver county, Colorado, in care of A. M. S.

Tired and Restless Waiters.

The Grayson Tribune remarks: "The Hargis trial is going on at Beattyville. Twelve democrats compose the jury; he is defended by a member of the Democratic State Committee; the defendant is also a member of that committee; the trial Judge was appointed by the head of the machine. The dead man—murdered—was a Republican. This is Kentucky's shame today. In the meanwhile Caleb Powers, elected as a Republican to office, entered upon his seventh year in jail for killing a man when forty miles away. Will such damnable practices continue? Will an outraged people stand such accursed prejudiced proceedings further? Yet it all seems food and meat to the Democratic party that thrives and fattens upon it. Unless hell has broken loose from its accustomed mooring and located permanently here in Kentucky a change will surely come. Those who love justice, however, are growing tired and restless in the waiting."

Stingiest Men In the World.

An exchange tells of the three stingiest men on record. The first will not drink water unless it comes from a neighbor's well; the second forbids his family to write anything but a small hand, as it wastes ink to make large letters, and the third stops the clock at night to save the wear and tear in the machinery. All of them refuse to take a news paper on the ground that it is a strain on their spectacles to read.

RANDOM SHOTS.

(BY MR. A. SHOOTER.)

The reason a dentist's office is called a dental parlor is because parlor is the old time name for drawing room.

If you want to have a happy home, when you return from your days work kiss your wife and babies, pat the dog kindly on his head, feed the chickens, milk the cow, gather vegetables for dinner tomorrow, eat cold supper, put the children to bed and tell your wife that she is the sweetest woman on earth, but don't go down town after supper.

Some men are so ill tempered that if they have tooth ache for a week when they return home in the evening the children will hide, his wife get busy in the kitchen, the dog will run under the floor, the cats scamper off through the back yard, and he will wonder what it is all about any way.

Dress makers should, if up to date, be first class artists in the science of upholstering.

The man who sat in his parlor, chewed tobacco and spit on the carpet and wondered why his girls were all old maids, was not much of a philosopher.

It is easy to tell where a man belongs who says he has no neighbors. It matters not whether this man goes to Hardin county Illinois or West Tennessee he will have no neighbors, but if a man has good neighbors in Marion he will have them anywhere he goes.

Fred Myers, one of our genial barbers, was coming down town the other morning and when in front of B. White's residence was attacked by a huge snake of the copper lined variety. When Fred saw the reptile he realized that it was a real snake (as he had not had a mint julep in many months), and began to beat a hasty retreat but before he was out of danger the snake sprang at him, hung his fangs in Fred's trousers which caused Fred to fall to the ground. With horrifying screams he brought to his rescue Mrs. White with her timely hoe and his snakeship was dispatched in short order. Fred came to town and at once went to Quint Conyer, knowing Quint had recently had experience with snakes, and asked him if it would be safe to tell the story.

Was Insured for $1,000.

The Record noted the death of Mr. H. F. Kuykendall which occurred week before last.

A few days ago Mr. W. L. Adams, Agent for the Aetna Life Insurance Company received death proofs to be executed on the death of Mr. Kuykendall.

He was insured in the Aetna for $1000 under policy 189470 and this company with its usual promptness is endeavoring to pay the claim.

No one in Marion seemed to know concerning this policy of insurance. Upon examination the agent, Mr. Adams, finds that a daughter of Mr. Kuykendall, who lives in Benton Harbor, Mich., has been carrying the policy on her father. Her name is Mrs. E. C. Weaver.

Judge W. A. Blackburn was in Mexico Thursday.

ADDITIONAL MINING NEWS

Short Paragraphs of Interesting Information in this and Nearby Localities.

At 85 feet the Eclipse is showing 32 inches of zinc. Last week they began driving a cross-cut from the 85 foot level to cut the lead vein running parallel. The last round of shots Wednesday evening cut the vein showing rich lead. At this mine an immense reservoir of 100,000 barrels capacity is being built, they will at once drill a deep well for the purpose of filling this reservoir.

The Edwards Mining Co. are working on their permanent shaft, and are shipping 30 tons of spar per day.

Eight directors of the Golconda Fluor-spar Mining Company visited their mines at Berry Ferry last week and were well pleased. They have at the Coulter shaft a steam sinking plant, capacity 1,000 feet, and will at once install a like plant at the Stroud shaft, where they have an 18 foot vein of lead and spar. This shaft is now 80 feet. This company owns 1,200 acres of fine mining lands on the famous Fairview and Roseclare lead. The W. R. King property recently taken over shows an outcropping of the vein of over 60 feet in width. Development will prove this property to be a second Fairview.

The Red Hills are now installing their patent washers designed by Mr. Harpending and will be ready to commence washing within two weeks. They have on the top about 1,000 tons ready for the washer, and are still driving in tunnel number one through the zinc sand and are expecting every day to reach the bone carbonate. When the washers start it's an easy proposition of $100 per day net.

The Great Northern Mining Company at their Ada Florence mine are sinking their 120 foot shaft still deeper from which they are hoisting a high grade of lead ore. Their steam sinking plant will be in operation in a few days.

In the Salem district operations are becoming active. The Stevens Clay mine are now hauling to the railroad at Marion about 200 tons per day.

The Nancy Hanks are sinking their shaft, running their mill, grinding spar, and shipping as fast as teams can haul it. Their shaft is over 200 feet deep.

The Eagle Fluor-Spar Company mill will start in a few days with sufficient ore in bins to run over sixty days.

Capt. Haase reports in the Asbridge number 2, a breast of number 1 spar 12 feet wide. The Tabor shaft number 1 is being sunk 15 feet deeper. As soon as this is completed, it will give them at this shaft an overhead stope of 16 feet. About 20 tons of spar is being delivered per day to the railroad at Mexico.

The Wheatcroft is raising lots of good spar and lead.

We learn from Supt. Harpending that the Commodore mine will start in a few days.

Tennis Tournament.

There will be a tennis tournament held on the court, at Mr. Sayre's, beginning this week and closing Saturday, Aug. 11.

The entries for ladies' singles are as follows:

Miss Leaffa Wilborn vs Mrs. Sayre, Miss Kittie Gray vs Miss Ruby James, Miss Fanny Gray vs Miss Della Barnes. the gentlemen's singles: Dr. Stilwell vs W. M. Sanders, Henry Haynes vs H. H. Sayre, Rev. B. Andres vs A. H. Reed, Chastain Haynes vs Geo. Roberts, Emmet Koltinsky vs Trice Bennett.

After the singles have been played, there will be ladies and gentlemen's doubles. After the tournament, a challenge will be issued to some neighboring town.

In Self Defense.

Major Hamm, editor and manager of the Constitutionalist, Eminence, Ky., when he was fiercely attacked, four years ago, by Piles, bought a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, of which he says: "It cured me in ten days and no trouble since." Quickest healer of Burns, Sores, Cuts and Wounds 25c at Haynes and Taylor's drug store.

For Sale.

A splendid farm near Crayneville, containing about 70 acres; also, about 20 acres of fine growing corn and about 10 acres of fine tobacco; and a good dwelling house in Crayneville, Ky. A special bargain will be given to those desiring to buy. Call on or address, GEO. M. TABER, Crayneville, Ky. 2-4t.

A Mystery Solved.

"How to keep off periodic attacks of biliousness and a habitual constipation was a deep mystery that Dr. King's New Life Pills solved for me," writes John N. Pleasant, of Magnolia, Ind. The only pills that are guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction to everybody or money refunded. Only 25c at Haynes and Taylor's drug store.

Timber Deal.

Last Tuesday Mr. H. Koltinsky, one of Marion's best grocerymen, closed a timber deal with Mr. Tom Murry. Mr. Koltinsky gets 187 trees and the smallest is 2 feet. The consideration was $325.

Notice.

Miss Leafla Wilborn, of Marion, visited Mrs. Cora Letzinger Saturday and Sunday and left for home Monday accompanied by Miss Nell Williams.—Providence Enterprise.

THE CRITTENDEN RECORD recently contained very complimentary words of Mr. James Houston Orme. Mr. Orme is a Union county boy, but is referred to as a veteran druggist of Marion. He is a pioneer in the sale of soft drinks, having introduced the business into Marion and built it up to large proportions. The same paper makes mention of his re-election to the office of president of the Marion Milling Co., a substantial concern of that city.—Morganfield Sun.

A New Swindle.

An exchange gives the following warning to the farmers against a swindle which is being worked in the rural districts:

A new swindler is abroad in the land. The swindler sells barbed wire fencing stretching machines. He leaves the machine and 40 rods of good fencing wire on trial, requiring the farmer to sign for the return of the stretcher.

The farmer signs for $3, which, of course, turns up at the bank for $300 instead. He may not turn up in this country, but it would be just as well for our farmers to be on the look out for him, just the same.

Crittenden county farmers should take notice and give this gentleman a warm reception.

REAL ESTATE COLUMN.

CITY PROPERTY.

Have you property to sell at a bargain? If so do not fail to see us. We buy, sell and rent all kinds of property that we believe to be offered at prices that will prove to be a good investment. At present we have customers who want property in the city of Marion and if you have property in this city you wish to dispose of at a reasonable price, we can furnish you a purchaser, if you will list it with us.

FARM LANDS.

We also handle farm land and have several persons at this time who are on the market for Crittenden county farm land, if same can be bought at a fair price, farmers or other persons who have farms for sale will do well to list them with us.

MINING PROPERTY.

We are in touch with foreign capital, that can be induced to invest in mining properties in this district at reasonable prices and would be glad to take up any mining property in the district that we believe to be a good property. Parties having such property can find a purchaser by applying to us.

OTHER STATES.

We also control several thousand acres of land in Texas and Missouri, and can offer special inducements to persons who are preparing to locate in either of these states. Can furnish land in any size farm desired and in almost any part of either of these states.

We are also connected with Real Estate men representing large acreages in North Dakota, South Dakota and Canada and can sell you land in either of these for less money than you can buy it for from the real owner.

In fact we can sell you any kind of property you want and at most any price you wish to pay; each property being well worth the price asked for it.

REMEMBER

We do not want to list any property that is not offered at a bargain, as we can not and do not want to find a purchaser for any property that is not worth every dollar that we ask for it.

For full particulars about any property, either city, farm, mining or that of some other state, call on or address, MARION REAL ESTATE & INVESTMENT CO.
