STRIP INDUSTRY TO BE REVIVED

After Three Years of Total
Suspension

MORE WORK FOR MORE HELP

Position of American Society of Equity to Determine Quantity of Green River Strips

MANY HOUSES WILL GET BUSY

The local tobacco market is very active, although it is early in the season, and preparations are being made by Owensboro tobacco dealers for the handling of strips for the English market, a branch of business which for three years past has been dead on account of the prohibitive duty which was levied on this class of tobacco by the British government. But this duty was repealed this spring and American strips are allowed to come under the old terms of a fraction higher.

While local tobacco men say it is still early to make any decision as to putting strips, it is more than probable that every house in the city will be occupied by this class of tobacco. Many houses will divide the crops in strips and leaf. Good Green River leaf tobacco will be priced as usual, and the leaf that will make showy strips will be used for that purpose. If Owensboro tobacco dealers strip the tobacco this year before pricing it there will be a great increase in the number of hands used in the factories. About three times as many will be required to do the work.

There are numerous dealers who, during the last season handled over 1,000,000 pounds and they will handle at least that amount next season. J. M. Vaughn stemmed about 3,000,000 pounds last season. The American Tobacco Company stemmed the largest amount in the city and is now working about 600 hands. They will continue for some time yet. The Imperial Tobacco Company also worked a number of hands in the stemming department, following the release of the tax. No strips were turned out by the Galbraith factory and it is not known as yet what this house will do this season. The Nelson & Bell factory is being remodeled and an addition 100x40 feet is being added. This addition will be three stories. A new modern steam plant is also being installed in the factory. This building will be equipped for a large business this season. This firm will steam a considerable amount of tobacco if conditions are favorable.

The English market for strips is now advancing, and it is the general belief that the market will become stronger. The tobacco men do not think the market in England is as strong as it should be considering the American prices for tobacco, but this, it is believed by all, will be satisfactory for a short time. It is not yet known what attitude the farmers' association will take toward the strip market. The association has ordered that all the tobacco held by them must be priced, and the strip people say they must have the tobacco priced as very lightly priced in order to separate the leaves so that the large middle stem may be removed.

Marriage License

Jno. E. Capron to Miss Sarah Thornton.
B. H. Kirk to Miss Ida Childress.
J. N. Towery to Mrs. Docia Morgan.
J. A. Harmon to Miss Belle Robertson.

Teachers Institute

The white teachers Institute will convene October 15, and continue until Oct. 19. All who teach, or expect their certificate to be valid, must attend the full session.

J. B. PARIS, Supt.

State Development Convention

The State Development Convention will be held at Winchester, Ky., Oct. 11 and 12. The best speakers this country affords will speak on Agricultural and commercial subjects.

Visiting in Marion and Salem

Mrs. Maude Roney Merritt, of Chicago, is visiting in Marion, in Salem and various other places and is viewing the scenes of her childhood and renewing old acquaintances.

Mrs. Merritt was born at Salem, Ky. The family lived in Marion for a number of years. After her marriage they removed to 1610 Washington Ave., Chicago, where they still reside.

Mrs. Merritt's brother, Percy Roney, is also there with her. He works for the American Electric Telephone Company and gets a salary of $18 per week. Mrs. Merritt's mother, Mrs. Mary Duke Roney, is also there. After her two children got to Chicago the hotel at Salem had no attractions for her and she removed to Chicago.

Mrs. Merritt came to Western Kentucky to get a much needed rest, but it seems she will fail. She stated that the honk honk of the traction engine is very little different from that of the automobile and the clang of the ice wagon bell hurries her up to catch a street car and the absence of the continual city roar keeps her awake nights and putting it all together she is not getting the much needed rest she should have from the continual residence of three years in a great city.

State Geologist in Crittenden.

F. Julius Fohs, assistant geologist of the Kentucky geological survey, leaves today for Marion, where he goes to investigate the veins of Eastern Crittenden and to re-examine the mines of Crittenden and Livingston counties, says the Hopkinsville New Era. Mr. Fohs has spent over a month investigating the veins and faults of Christian county. His mapping party, of which H. B. Pope, E. M., assistant topographer, has charge began the necessary surveys this week and will spend several weeks in the county. The results of the investigation will appear in a report on the lead, zinc and spar deposits of Western Kentucky, which Mr. Fohs is preparing and will be ready for the public in a year hence.

Mrs. Sayre Entertains.

Mrs. Horace H. Sayre very delightfully entertained a few friends Saturday afternoon at six o'clock.

Mrs. George Roberts won the first prize, Miss Martha Henry won second, and Miss Kitty Gray, consolation. Ice cream and cake were served.

Those present were: Mesdames Sam Guenheim, S. T. Dupuy, Oil Tucker, J. W. Wilson, G. P. Roberts, Mary Ledbetter, of Uniontown, R. D. Dresher, R. F. Hayes, O. M. James, James Henry, H. E. Merritt, of Chicago, E. J. Hayward, Emma Hayward, Misses Blanche Haase, Emmie and Bertha Scott, of Frankfort, Kitty and Fanny Gray, Lizzie and Ruby James, Leaffa Wilborn, Della Barnes, and Martha Henry.

FARMERS INSTITUTES

The First of These Will Be Held at Paducah in October

Mr. Chas. W. Fox, Secretary of the Crittenden County Farmers Institute has received information from the Commission of Agriculture that this will be the busiest year in Farmers Institute work ever known in the State. In addition to the holding of an institute in every county in the State and the Annual State Institute, arrangements are being made to hold two special institutes which will be the most important ever held in the State.

The first of these will be held at Paducah, October 18, 19 and 20, under the auspices of this department and the Paducah Commercial Club. It will be known as the Western Kentucky Institute. As one of these institutes has never been held in Western Kentucky a large delegation of farmers is expected to attend from every section.

The second special Institute will be held at Lexington, October 23, 24 and 25.

Both of these institutes will be addressed by prominent institute lecturers, who will not only present the scientific side of farming, but the practical side as well.

Henry Kames Woods Came Back.

H. K. Woods, the druggist, and member of the firm of Woods & Orme arrived from a visit to the West, where he went on business. Mr. Woods and quite a number of others of Marion bought some lots in Medford, Okla., and Mr. Woods represented the Marion contingent.

SAGE OF THE PORTER FLATS

Brings Some Fine Corn to the Record Office

OTHER LOCAL BREVITIES

The Tobacco Barn of L. L. Hughes of the Chapel Hill Community
Destroyed By Fire

MR. HUGHES PAINFULLY BURNED

Jasper McDowell, from the Piney Fork diggings, is known as the sage of the Porter Flats. He lives just beyond the Porter mill.

Mr. McDowell owns a fine estate at the place mentioned and also owns a fine house in Marion. In the summer he lives on his farm and in the winter he lives in town and enjoys the delights of a great city.

He called last Saturday to get a chew of tobacco and renew his subscription. His subscription had been out just four days and he was fearful he might miss a copy of the RECORD if he did not pay up.

Mr. McDowell stated that he had his tobacco all cut and housed and was now ready to go to firing. His attention was called to some extra large ears of corn hanging in the RECORD window which had come from the farm of Judge J. P. Pierce.

Mr. McDowell said, "shaw! that corn did not amount to much; he fed such as that to his cows." Continuing he said "Now the corn we raise on my farm is about this long," and with that he measured off about a yard on his left arm but gradually let both arms fall together in such a manner the scribe could not tell very well whether his corn was three feet or three inches long.

LATER:—Mr. McDowell brought into our office a huge sunflower of a peculiar shape. He also brought in some of his famous corn and sure enough it is between three feet and three inches long. Mr. McDowell also brought in several ears of the famous flour corn. We do not know why it is called flour corn unless it is on account of its color. It is as white as the celebrated 40 per cent. best patent "Elk" brand made by The Marion Milling Company at their plant on the banks of the I. C. R. R. right here in Marion.

The flour corn is certainly white. The grains look like pearls and Mr. McDowell stated that it was so sweet that you could eat it raw like you would pop corn. He also further stated among other things; that he searched fifteen years for this corn before he ever found an ear of it and finally found it in Kansas City, Mo. The seed cost him over five dollars per bushels. We asked him if he would sell his crop for half the price, $2.50 per bushel. With a grin and a chuckle that sounded something like turning an old fashioned coffee mill he replied to our question by asking another—Would a duck swim?

Tobacco Barn Burns

Lee Hughes' tobacco barn, near Chapel Hill, burned Tuesday afternoon. The barn was full of tobacco and Tuesday was the first day they put fire in it. In trying to extinguish the fire Mr. Hughes sustained a very painful burn. His hand having been so badly burned the skin had to be removed from the whole hand.

Will Bring a Good Price

One of the local tobacco men reports that the first barn of tobacco that he has seen cured belongs to Mr. Geo. G. Baker. His crop is a fancy one of about 5000 pounds and it has been cured a fine color. It has a good body and is free from any damage.

Mr. Avery Dies

Uncle Burge Avery died at his home last Sunday and was buried at the Rowland cemetery at 3 o'clock on Tuesday. He was eighty-three years of age and while very eccentric was a good citizen respected by all.

An Unlucky Number of Horses

J. Mack Walker, of Iron Hill, owns thirteen horses and has hay to sell.

How that can be we are unable to understand unless he owns an enormous farm and raises an enormous amount of hay. We have always understood and thought that when a man gets thirteen horses all his hay was stored for winter use for the thirteen horses.

Now it may be, that after the manner of elks, Mr. Walker's horses graze on the trees and shrubbery, but we don't believe it.

A Correction

We understand the Eclipse people are having some trouble with their machinery in the last few days, and on account of that the work is progressing slowly.—Crittenden Record of Sept. 21.

We are informed that this is all a mistake and we hasten to correct. There has been more work done at the Eclipse mines in the last two weeks than was done before in the last three months. This mine is raising some good zinc ore.

Jas. L. Travis, Jr., Makes Change.

Jas. L. Travis, Jr., has accepted a position with the Home Telephone Co., and leaves his old position with Cochran & Pickens. Mr. Travis will be book keeper and assistant manager of the Marion office.

The book keeping department has been removed from Paducah to Marion. Mr. Travis takes his new position at an increase in salary of $10 per month.

JUDGE J. P. PIERCE

Purchases an Interest in the Marion
Real Estate and Investment Co.

Judge J. P. Pierce has purchased the interest of Mr. A. H. Reed in the Marion Real Estate & Investment Co., and will soon devote all of his time to the interests of the company. Judge Pierce is known throughout the county, having served the people of this county as sheriff and county judge, and for a number of years was actively engaged in the hardware business in this city, and needs no introduction to the people of Crittenden county. The Marion Real Estate & Investment Co., from its organization was composed of active and energetic business men, and they were not slow to realize the value of a man like Judge Pierce.

The company will continue to handle all kinds of real estate, including farm lands, city property and mineral lands. They have been exceptionally successful from the organization and have been instrumental in closing up some of the real estate deals recently made in and around Marion. It is needless to say that the connection of such a man as Judge Pierce with the company, will mean the installing of new life into an already wide-awake and active company and we predict even greater success for the company in the future than it has had in the past.

Local Option Election Officers

Notice is hereby given, that parties for and against the proposed application of the local option law in this county may submit to the County Board of Election Commissioners, lists of names of parties whom they desire to serve as officers at the local option election to be held on December 7, 1906. From such lists the board will select the officers for the said election. Such lists to be handed in to the board not later than the 13th day of October, 1906.

YOUNG MAN DROWNED

Joe Gray, Formerly of Salem
Meets Tragic Death

NEAR MOUND CITY, ILLINOIS

Left Home Sunday Afternoon to Return Borrowed Skiff But Never Reached Destination

REMAINS BURIED AT SALEM TUESDAY

Joe Gray son of Charles Gray formerly of Salem, Ky., was drowned in the Ohio River, near Mound City, Illinois.

The young man left home soon after dinner Sunday afternoon to return a borrowed skiff.

The owner of the boat became anxious about it and went to learn why it had not been returned and was told it had been sent soon after dinner. The young man had not arrived at his destination, so an alarm was given and a search was begun. There was an eddy in the river, and it is supposed he was drowned while trying to pass thru it as his body was found near. There was no witness to the scene.

His remains were brought to Salem, Tuesday afternoon, and the burial took place at the Salem Cemetery, Wednesday morning at ten o'clock.

IN AN UNSETTLED STATE

Of Affairs Is the New Organization
That Was to Take Over the Leander White Lease

In the organization and floating of the new mineral company to take over the Leander White lease there has developed an unsettled state of affairs, and at present it is not exactly certain that the stockholders and officers of the first meeting will continue as first announced. The first set of officers were:

Hon. L. H. James, Pres.
Hon. R. L. Moore, Vice Pres.
C. E. Weldon, Secy. and Treas.
J. M. Persons, Gen. Mgr.
The following are stockholders:
Thomas Clifton,
Wm. Copher,
H. F. Morris,
G. C. Gray,
J. M. Persons,
C. E. Weldon,
R. L. Moore,
L. H. James,
J. G. Rochester.

We will probably be able to give more detailed information next week.

Will Give Away a Range

Mrs. Adah S. Cavender has on display at her store on Main street the handsome Majestic Range, which she is to give away. She will begin Saturday, Sept. 29, to give a ticket with every dollar cash purchase. On each ticket there is a number. There will be a lucky number and the person holding it will get the Range. She also has a splendid line of dress goods, such as mohair, serge, sacking, suiting, broadcloth, etc., lots of pretty collars and belts, in fact she has anything you want to wear. Her millinery is the prettiest you will find anywhere. She has everything for the children. She invites you to call and see for yourself.

Sold Out at Fort Branch

We notice on the street our old friend and fellow citizen, Mr. Thomas E. Hearin. He tells us that he has sold out at Fort Branch, Ind., lock, stock and barrel and is now looking out a location and a job of some sort to make buckle and tongue meet. Mr. Hearin always made a living in Marion and we suggest that he cannot find a better town nor one filled with better people. Be one of us.

An Old Jump Seat Surrey

Hon. Ephraim Hill, of Iron Hill, drove into Marion the other day behind a fine pair of horses and seated in a jump seat surrey that he bought many years ago. Mr. Hill declares it is a good vehicle yet and plenty good enough for him. He paid $140 for it in 1892.

Read About Indians and Out Door Life

In a little book that costs nothing. The book describes the Northwest, the land of the future. It is printed on the best of paper, is interesting profusely illustrated and full of information. It is suitable for your own home, for schools or libraries. It describes the wonderful Yellowstone Park, the wild Bitterroot mountains in Montana, the Quen-iut Indians—on the North Pacific coast, the grand Columbia river scenery, the marvelous Puget Sound region, and Alaska. It costs but the postage required to mail it. It will be sent to any address for six cents. The book is "Wonderland 1906," published by the Northern Pacific Railway, and is for general distribution. Send six cents to A. M. Cleland, General Passenger Agent, St. Paul, Minnesota, or as many times six cents as you wish copies, with proper addresses, and the little volume will be promptly forwarded to that gentleman. Don't wait. The book has an object to educate and inform the public about the Northwest, the region that Lewis and Clark explored and made known to us. Help it perform its mission.

A Pictured Post Card From Far West

Since the postal card with one side trimmed in pictures has taken the day, we adhere strictly to the regulation letter with a two cent stamp on the outside. Last week we received a picture postal addressed to these headquarters. In one corner was a picture of the prettiest little baby ever saw. The inscription thereon reads: "Wallace C. Franklin, Jr., when he was two days old. He was born Sept. 12th, at 4:30 p. m. He and his mother are both doing nicely."

Deeds Recorded

W. C. O'Bryan to Lottie E. Gilbert lot in Marion, $1 and a good run.

R. F. Lanham to R. W. Wilson 25 acres of land, $125.

R. F. Lanham to A. Hughes 17½ acres of land, $55 and exchange of land.

Geo. Barley to S. S. Sullenger 50 acres of land on Hurricane creek, $400.

Barber Shop Deal

A deal took place the first of the week in which R. L. Holloman sold his barber shop and fixtures to Richard M. Orange, who has been connected with the shop for several years. Mr. Holloman will remain with Mr. Orange for the present. J. A. Orange, a brother of the new proprietor, has been given a chair in the shop.—Princeton Leader.

CONFERENCE AT CENTRAL CITY, KY.

Hon. Thos. H. Cochran a Delegate to the Meeting—Appointments to be Read Monday

This Conference is of prime importance to the Marion Methodist church in that a new Presiding Elder will be chosen for this field.

It is not thought by most of the church that Rev. J. R. McAfee will be disturbed in his Marion station for another year. The Marion church hopes so, at least. However, there are other churches who have sent their delegates to Central City with instructions to get McAfee.

The appointments will be read out next Monday.

Mr. H. A. Haynes left Wednesday noon for Central City to have a voice and take a hand in the affairs of Conference.

To the Taxpayers

Second and last notice to the taxpayers of Crittenden county who have not paid their tax for the year of 1906. I or my deputy will be at the following places on the dates named to receive tax:

Rutherford school house, Oct. 2.
Fish Trap, Oct. 3.
Dycusburg, Oct. 4.
View, Oct. 5.
Tolu, Oct. 9.

Remember that the new revenue bill takes effect Nov. 1, and on the 15th day of Nov. tax warrants will be issued on all unpaid tax, at your cost.

Your friend,
J. F. FLANARY,
Sheriff Crittenden County.

Banker's Son Works as Club's Scullion to Study Character.

Philip Van Zandt.

Chicago.—Philip Van Zandt, son of George Van Zandt, president of the Prairie State bank, has surprised his friends by becoming a scullion in the kitchen of a club house at Lake Geneva. Character study of the class of people he desires to reach when he enters the ministry, for which he is now studying, is his object in performing the work of a kitchen drudge. It was the theory of young Van Zandt that in order to fully understand the characters and ideals of those among whom he expects to labor as a missionary he should work and associate with them daily.

Meanwhile he is washing pots and pans and carrying in the coal.

At the son of a bank president and a student at the University of Chicago, he didn't think he could feel just the way a scavenger feels, so he decided to become a scullion in order to get inside the other's viewpoint.

It also occurred to him that if he was going to become a missionary it might be well to know something about culinary economics and he hoped to pick up something of this science in his work about the kitchen.

Ideals Get Hard Joins.

He has been there a month, and his viewpoint is changed, all right. It got a severe jolt the first day he was at Lake Geneva, and by the end of the first week it had turned a complete flipside, and he felt that it would be presumptuous for him to seek to fraternize with scavengers on terms of intimacy. He hardly dared aspire so high.

Also he has some entirely new ideals in process of incubation, and every once in awhile some old one is jarred loose and falls with a sickening thud.

One of his most cherished ideals about the greater democracy and the week with the long hours of work, and he was pleased to see his family.

Barred from Dining-Room.

Being a bank president's son, he naturally does not feel himself to be any different from the packer's son, or the lawyer's son, or the merchant's children who belong to the club. So when it came time for dinner, after he had turned the ice cream freezer, thrown out the garbage, cleaned up the pots and pans, fixed the fires, and scrubbed the grove up from the floor where the cook had let it spill over, he cleaned himself up, put on his coat, and went into the dining-room to eat dinner with his family and the other guests.

There are always snobs in the world, and there are some at this club. Philip had been there a week, every one in the club knew about him, and they knew, too, that his father, George Van Zandt, president of the Prairie State bank, was a guest at the club, yet just because this young man had chosen to work out his ideals in the preparation for his service in the Christian ministry in his own way by accepting a menial position and doing the work of the scullery, these snobs objected to his presence in the dining-room, and were so rude about it that he was obliged to withdraw.

Something happened later, however, which went far towards restoring his belief in the humanity of the majority of mankind, and also taught a lesson to the snobs, but that will have to be told in his turn.

Boys Brought Up to Work.

When the school year ended at the University of Chicago young Van Zandt began looking around for some useful occupation for the summer. His father, despite the high position he holds in society, has brought his six sons up to become useful citizens. He believes in work, and he has told his boys that he is willing to give them all the education they have capacity for, but they must work during the summer vacations.

Banker Van Zandt never for a moment, however, contemplated that any of his boys would become a scullion. Philip had an idea that he wanted to do menial work, but nothing in the slumming line with any salary attached offered, and this position was offered through the employment agency of the university, so he went to see about it.

"I want to study character this summer. It will help me in my future work in the ministry," he said to the man who employed him.

"Well, you will get a chance to study all sorts of characters at Lake Geneva; it will beat the sums all hollow," replied the president of the club, and Philip took the job.

His initiation into the new position was not encouraging. The housekeeper looked askance at this clean limbed, well dressed, refined young man.

"Do you know how to scrub floors?" she asked.

"I have never done it," he replied.

Engaged in Menial Duties.

But Philip took off his good clothes and took his first lesson in scrubbing floors. He worked 17 hours the first day, and among other things he scrubbed floors, cleaned the kitchen windows, cleaned the stove, brought in coal and wood, sawed some wood, brought in the ice from the ice-house to the kitchen ice chests, cracked ice, sorted garbage, burning that which could be burned, and burying the rest. He also cleaned chickens, washed pots and pans, ran the dish washing machine. Besides all this he found time to take around the washing to the cottagers and to get into the good graces of the dining-room girls by playing for them accompaniments on the piano, for he is an excellent musician.

It may be remarked in passing that these girls are not ordinary waitresses; in fact, there are only a few ordinary servants at this club. These girls are recruited from the colleges; two of them are students at eastern colleges, one is a graduate at Wheaton, trying to earn enough to take her to Oberlin; another is from Northwestern, and so it goes through the whole list. They are strong on figuring out the hypotenuse of a right angle triangle, and they can quote you the rules of Hegel's philosophy, but they sometimes have to be told three times to bring the green corn, and not infrequently they forget to bring the meat altogether.

Girls' Smiles Lighten Tasks.

It was having these bright young women of his own class around that went a long way towards reconciling him to his position that first week. When he got up at 4:30 o'clock in the morning to fix the fires and do the early morning chores in the half light of dawn, he thought of these pleasant companions who would be astir in another hour, and he went about his work humming. There is no snobbishness about these girls, in fact, the young woman graduate of Wheaton has done some floor scrubbing on her own account to earn a little extra money.

Young Van Zandt has one occupation at Lake Geneva in which he takes real pleasure. It is a recreation and also the source of considerable revenue. He is an expert swimmer, and gives swimming lessons to the children of members of the club. Every afternoon at four o'clock he appears at the water's edge, accompanied by a flock of children, and for half an hour or more he takes them out on his back into deep water and teaches them the swimming motion, and at the same time inspires them with the necessary confidence. He likes it, the children like it, and the parents are glad to have the services of such a competent instructor.

Music a Source of Pleasure.

Another source of pleasure up there is the music. As has been said, Philip is a clever musician. He has a good baritone voice and plays the piano excellently. The president of the club has given him permission to use the piano whenever it is not wanted by club members, and it not infrequently happened that when the members hear him playing they gather upon the porch and enjoy a real musical feast. Sometimes the girls come in and sing too.

Van Zandt has a friend at the club. He is a fellow student at the University of Chicago, at present acting as night watchman. His name is Theodore McCreary and he is the tenor in the choir of a South side church. McCreary is a better musician than he is a night watchman. In the still small hours of the night he raises his voice in melody that puts the nightingale to shame; at least he did until some of the grouchy club members objected to having their sleep disturbed. Now he goes out behind the woodshed and sings to the stars and to any of the college girls who happen to be awake, and he sometimes forgets to make his hourly tour of the grounds.

McCreary is supposed to go off duty at 4:30 o'clock in the morning when Philip gets up, but it frequently happens that instead of going to bed he and Van Zandt meet at the piano and sing duets to their hearts' content, while the sun comes peeping up over the hill tops beyond the lake. One club member gets up especially to hear these early morning concerts, and he says it is worth his while.

Breaking the Ice of Prejudice.

The other day the president of the club had a birthday, which event was celebrated, according to ancient custom of the club, by a party. The party was given at the cottage of one of the members, a prominent attorney, and the entertainment consisted of a musical. Now there is no dearth of good musical talent in the club, but the hostess decided that the scullion and the night watchman, with their fine voices, and the scullion's skill as a pianist, would be a great acquisition to the entertainment.

She did not like to ask them to come and sing and play for money, and yet to invite them as guests might offend some of the other guests and she was in a quandary. After consultation with other club members it was decided to invite them to be guests of the evening, and if anyone did not like it he could go home. The young men came, everyone was charmed with their talent, and with the fellows themselves.

Regular Sunday night concerts have been organized now, at which Van Zandt and McCreary are the star performers. There is another young man who looks after the gasoline launch of one of the members, and as he is also a student and an expert on the mandolin he is to be invited to participate in the Sunday musicals. They have not yet, however, got to the point where the college girl waitresses or the cooks and Russian caretaker have been invited in.

If any missionary society wants a recommendation of Philip Van Zandt it can get an enthusiastic one from every member of this Lake Geneva club.

The Breath of Life.

It's a significant fact that the strongest animal of its size, the gorilla, also has the largest lungs. Powerful lungs means powerful creatures. How to keep the breathing organs right should be man's chiefest study. Like thousands of others, Mrs. Ora A. Stephens, of Port Williams, has learned how to do this. She writes: "Three bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery stopped my cough of two years and cured me of what my friends thought consumption. O, it's grand for throat and lung troubles." Guaranteed by Haynes & Taylor, druggist. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Starving to Death.

Because her stomach was so weakened by useless drugging that she could not eat, Mrs. Mary H. Walters, of St. Clair St., Columbus, O., was literally starving to death. She writes: "My stomach was so weak from useless drugs that I could not eat, and my nerves so wrecked that I could not sleep; and not before I was given up to die was I induced to try Electric Bitters; with the wonderful results that improvement began at once, and a complete cure followed." Best health tonic on earth. 50c. Guaranteed by Haynes & Taylor, druggist.

CHEAPER FARM LANDS.

Southwest Offers Best Opportunities For Securing Homes.

Many farmers in the Northern and Eastern states are selling their high priced lands and locating in the Southwest. Many who have been unable to own their homes in the older country are buying land in the new country.

Unusual opportunities exist along the lines of the Missouri Pacific-Iron Mountain Route. The rich, alluvial, delta lands and river bottom lands of Southeast Missouri, Eastern Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, capable of producing 60 bushels of corn, a bale of cotton, 4 to 6 tons of alfalfa, 150 bushels of potatoes, and other grains, vegetables and hay crops, can be bought for $7.50 to $15.00 per acre. When cleared and slightly improved will rent for $4.00 to $6.00 per acre cash.

Uplands more rolling, lighter soil, adapted to fruit growing—peaches, pears, plums, grapes, berries, also melons, tomatoes and other vegetables, can be bought for $5 to $10 per acre in unimproved state. Many places with small clearings and some improvements can be bought very cheap.

This is a fine stock country. No long winter feeding. Free range, pure water, mild climate. A healthy growing country, with a great future.

Write for map and descriptive literature on Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, Kansas and Indian Territory. Very cheap rates on first and third Tuesdays of each month.

NOTICE! In writing to have your address changed always give the postoffice to which your paper is going as well as the postoffice to which you wish it sent.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 28, 1906.

There are too many "not yet but soon."

Tobacco barns continue to burn up. After all the labor necessary to raise, house and cure a crop of tobacco there ought certainly to be some way for the farmers to be protected. Will not our tobacco buyers suggest a remedy?

To put a thing aptly and with telling effect is an art which Speaker Cannon possesses to an unusual degree. He states the difference between a protective tariff and a tariff for revenue only in this wise, "The job hunting the man against the man hunting the job."

BITS OF BYPLAY.

Horse Fly Thomas Willborn has returned from Ardmore and other points west, and says he does not like it. When pressed for an explanation he stated that the first week he got work in Ardmore he made $29.70. The second week he made $1.75 and the third week he got tailored. Of course such a shrinkage in financial circles gets on a fellows nerves and under the circumstances we don't blame him for not liking it.

0-9

Ye scribe stood at the curbing edge. Down Wall street rolled the throng, post office bent. In the crowd was a fine looking young lady with erect carriage and the walk of a Kentucky queen. It was evident that she was "bred in old Kentucky." As she passed into the office a bystander remarked, "That young lady was once a prize baby. At the time of the first fair Marion ever had she won the prize for being the prettiest baby. She is the daughter of Henry S. Wheeler who lives opposite the Pat Woodside's home."

0-9

Dr. R. L. Moore, the tobacco man of Marion, pauses long enough to say to the RECORD rounder that he will be in the tobacco business this season and desires to fill his large stemmery here in Marion with good tobacco at fair prices. He further deposes and says that he has swept, dusted and cleaned out the stemmery from stem to stern and that he will be in the tobacco business for certain.

0-9

Uncle Joseph W. Adams, one of the oldest men in Crittenden county, still plies his trade here in Marion. Aged as he is he still continues to try to help things along, and insists on going to the shop to work. He is somewhat feeble and his family and friends would be very glad indeed if he were content to drop the hammer forever and pass his few remaining years in peace and quietude.

J. W. Adams was born October 10, 1826, so that he will be 80 years old the 10th of next month. He and William Azariah and John Adams were born four miles from Campbell Station, in Knox county, Tennessee. Mr. William Adams, of two and one-half miles south of town, was born November 3, 1828.

John Adams, long since dead, was born in 1830. Lysander Harris Adams, known as "Dock" Adams, who lives in Shawneetown, Illinois, was born in February, 1843. Mrs. Margaret Minner was born in 1836, and Mrs. Mary Jane Crider was born in 1838.

Uncle Joe Adams' parents moved from Knox county, Tenn., to Robinson county, Tenn., and March 15th, 1846, the family crossed Red river twelve miles from their home, on their road to Kentucky.

On the 17th day of October, 1847, J. W. Adams came to Marion and bound himself to William H. Rochester, the father of Judge J. G. Rochester, to learn the blacksmith trade. He was 21 years old at this time. He worked with him until May, 1851.

The first week in October, 1851, Mr. Adams blew his first fire and pounded his first anvil at the Isaac Wheeler place. The shop was located immediately across the road from where now stands the home of Elder W. Frank Paris at the bottom of the Wheeler graveyard hill. Mr. Adams moved to town in 1859, and from here he moved to the iron furnace at Old Hurricane, where he stayed a year. From there to Crayneville and then to Fredonia and back to Marion in June, 1877, and he has been here ever since.

What an eventful life these 80 years. Nearly 60 of them spent in Crittenden county. What a power for good has been these 80 years. Nearly all of them spent in the service of the Master. What an example has been this life, these 80 milestones—milestones set in regular order, but always onward and upward, reaching out after higher things, better things.

Who has not been benefitted by this life of Christian endeavor which has stood like a beacon of light for so many years? Long after he has gone to a better world it will continue to shine.

The RECORD wishes Uncle Joe ease and rest for his few remaining years and a full joy on entering into that within the vale.

Selling Out at Cost.

As it is impossible for me to attend to my fertilizer business myself, I will close the entire stock out at cost.

Those wanting fertilizer, will save from 25 to 40 per cent, by buying in the next few days. W. L. ADAMS.

Rheumatism is not incurable. Stubborn? Yes! But Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy will if faithfully used drive it out of the system. Its blood that's at fault. Poisonous crystals like sand get into the joints and muscles. Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy prevents this. It drives Rheumatism from the blood and then Rheumatism dies. We recommend and sell it. Haynes & Taylor.

EDUCATIONAL COLUMN

J. B. PARIS, Editor.

THE TEACHERS INSTITUTE.

A profitable discussion on each subject on the program ought to embrace:

1. Its importance.
2. Its purpose, or why.
3. Its time, or when.
4. Its relations, or where.
5. Its method, or how.

No truth is more apparent in education than this: If a teacher does not clearly understand (not remember) why he is doing any work in hand, his work will be lifeless; his method will be borrowed, not originated.

THE PURPOSE OF EACH STUDY

That the why of school studies is not understood as it should be by teachers generally can be demonstrated to any observer in two ways. First, let him ask himself to tell himself without halting why Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, Geography, etc., compose the curriculum. He will have to confess that his self examination has proved that his knowledge is not what it should be. Second, let him take the opinion in writing or otherwise of several teachers upon the relative importance of Arithmetic and Geography. The result may exhibit a chaos of ideas that we ought all to be ashamed of.

THE TIME

As the purpose of a study becomes apparent under the light of investigation, the time that ought to be given to it and the time (in the school life of a child) when he should begin it, becomes clear to the investigator. When Grammar or Physiology or History ought to be introduced, are serious practical questions that have to be decided every year by immature teachers. Shall we go on as heretofore leaving these questions to the decision of chance or take them up in Institute and decide them according to the laws of immutable truth?

THE RELATIONS OF STUDIES.

Crowded for time, as every country school teacher is, it becomes a necessity for him to learn how to make his work in one subject help that of another. If there is any one who needs to know how to make the writing and language lessons help the spelling and reading lessons, how to make the geography and history assist each other, how to make all studies throw light on the arithmetic, and how to make reading give life to the whole work, that one is the teacher of seventy-five children of all ages. The bringing out of these relations between studies in Institute discussions will demonstrate the usefulness of many fetiches lingering in our schools, and result in employing more children's time in real, improving work, and less of it in memoriter tasks and vocal concert exercises.

THE METHOD OR HOW.

Out of the purpose understood, and out of the where and when comprehended in outline, the teacher having a work to do begins to contrive his method of work. When Institute discussions set the teacher to thinking "How can I do that in my school?" Then they are bearing the right fruit. When the best efforts of the conductor bring out no questions but only the comment, "That was a very fine talk." Then very little if any of good has come to the teachers.

The true reason why so called modern methods—after being presented consecutively for twenty-five years in Institute—have failed to go into school to any great extent is simply because they were not presented with the clear light of the Why that inspired them shining upon them, and into the understanding of the teacher—pupil, arousing his sluggish conscience and causing him to feel the impulse—I must.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

Rev. J. H. Butler preached to a splendid congregation at the Baptist church Sunday morning and evening. In the morning he spoke upon "The Excellent Knowledge of Christ," and at night on "The Faithful Saying." Considerable interest was manifested, and it is hoped that much good was done.

Last Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church Rev. Andres preached on the subject "Nearness to God." The text upon which the sermon was based is James 4:8 "Draw nigh to God and he will draw nigh to you." Sin separates the man from God, and it is necessary that we learn what it takes to bring us near to God. We should draw near to God in prayer. Some draw near to God in conflict. This is what Asa, king of Israel, did and when he drew near to God he overcame the foe. We should draw near to God through the hope he has given us in Christ. For the law made nothing perfect, but the bringing in of a better hope did; by which we draw nigh to God. We should draw nigh to God through the death of Christ. Christ said, "And I, if I be lifted from the earth will draw all men to me." Through his death we are drawn to God, for his death is God's great gift to man.

At night the sermon was on the second commandment, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." This commandment covers the second table of the Decalogue. He that loves his neighbor will keep those laws that God has given to govern man. Love for self is the standard by which we should be lead. Love for self is different than selfishness. To love ones self is to love those things in life that most elevate and benefit us. Selfishness is absorbing everything that we come in contact with, and loving self so much that we cannot help our neighbor. The man who does not love his soul enough to see that it is saved to eternal life does not love himself. This is the highest love for self. This is to be applied to our neighbor. Man is to love his neighbor enough to see that his neighbor's soul is saved. To aid one in need is not all. We are to give spiritual aid as well. Paul said in his eloquent discourse on love, "Though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not love it profiteth me nothing." We must love our neighbor with spiritual love that will bring about the saving of his soul, if we would keep this royal mandate.

$100 Reward $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Rev. M. E. Miller, of Fredonia, will preach at the Baptist church next Sunday morning and evening.

Republican Campaign Text-Book

A departure has been made in the Republican Campaign Text-Book just issued, in that its contents are wholly devoted to live issues, and these are treated in the briefest possible way, yet comprehensively enough to include all necessary facts and figures.

First, there is a general statement of the issues of 1906, followed by a brief review of Republican legislation in general and the work of the Fifty-ninth Congress in particular. The Railroad Rate Law, Pure Food Law, Free Alcohol Law, Employers' Liability Law and the Meat Inspection portion of the Agricultural Appropriation Law are given in full, as is Chairman Tawney's clear explanation of the appropriations.

The Labor question is next fully presented, followed by Representative Watson's exposition of Anti-Trust proceedings. About one hundred pages are given to the Tariff, Agriculture and Manufactures, and the tables showing the various phases of industrial activity. Among other subjects treated under the tariff are: Protection and Free Trade, Customs Revenue, Foreign Commerce, Home Market and Internal Trade, Wages and Prices, Export Discounts, Reciprocity, Free Hides, Revision, etc., etc.

Some half hundred tables give official and authoritative figures down to the latest possible date. The work of the president and administration is then briefly presented, the condition and status of the Philippines, the Panama Canal, the Navy, Postal Service, Irrigation, etc., etc.

The President's letter to Representative Weston concludes the work, which has a copious index of over a dozen pages.

Scattered throughout the book are quotations from President Roosevelt and other Republican leaders. Among these is the extract from Senator Hanna's speech where he used the "stand pat" expression, it being the only instance in the Text-Book where the words "stand pat" are used. A page is given to Mr. Bryan and his views, with the comments of the New York World. A so-called "Prosperity Postscript" is added, giving treasury conditions, trade reports, etc., down to August 1.

For the first time in a political campaign, the Text-Book will have a general circulation, as together with other literature, it will be sent on receipt of one dollar by John C. Eversman, Assistant Treasurer, 1133 Broadway, New York.

Order for Election under Local Option and Prohibition Law in Crittenden County, Kentucky.

On this day came the above named parties and divers other citizens and legal voters of Crittenden county and the several voting precincts of Crittenden county, signers of the petition for each and all of the precincts of said county, which petition was filed with the Judge of the Crittenden County Court in open court, at its regular August term, 1906, asking that an election be held in said county and each and all of the voting precincts thereof on the 7th day of December 1906, for the purpose of taking the sense of the legal voters of said county upon the proposition whether or not spirituous, vinous, malt or other intoxicating liquors shall be sold, bartered or loaned in Crittenden County, Kentucky; the provisions of this law and prohibition shall apply to druggists; and it appearing to the satisfaction of the court from evidence heard and affidavits filed that the petition has been signed and subscribed by a number of legally qualified voters in each and every precinct of Crittenden county, equal to more than 25 per cent of the total number of votes cast at the last preceding general election, which election was held on the 7th day of November, 1905, and it appearing to the satisfaction of the court that the signatures of the petitioners are the real and genuine signatures of the several petitioners, and no objection being made and no reason being shown why said election should not be ordered and the petitioners having deposited with the Judge of this court thirty dollars ($30.00), the amount of money necessary to pay the expense of printing and posting advertisements as provided for, and to pay the clerk's fees for making entries in the order book, said petition is granted.

It is therefore ordered that an election be held at each and all of the voting places in each and all of the voting precincts of Crittenden County, Ky., on the 7th day of December, 1906, the day fixed in the petition, for the purpose of taking the sense of the legal voters of said county and each and all of the precincts thereof, upon the proposition whether or not spirituous, vinous, malt or other intoxicating liquors shall be sold, bartered or loaned in Crittenden County, Kentucky, the provisions of this law and prohibition shall apply to druggists; and it is ordered that a special registration be held at the several voting precincts of all cities of the fifth class and all towns of the sixth class of Crittenden County, Kentucky, where registration is required by law, for the registration of those persons entitled to vote at said election ordered to be held as above provided, and whose names have not been recorded on the registration books for this year. It is ordered by the court that the Sheriff of Crittenden County, Kentucky, hold said election; and said sheriff is hereby ordered and directed, within seven days after he receives a copy of this order from the clerk of this court, to have said order published in some newspaper published in Crittenden county, Kentucky, for at least two weeks before the election, and to advertise same by written or printed hand-bills for the same length of time, posted up at some conspicuous place in each precinct in the county, advertising said election and special registration; and to have the places for registration open in the several voting precincts of said cities and towns on the 20th day of November, 1906, for the purpose of holding said registration, and to have the polls opened at all of the voting precincts in said county on the 7th day of December, 1906, for the purpose of holding said election.

The clerk of this court is ordered and directed to deliver to the sheriff of Crittenden County, Kentucky, within five days hereafter, a certified copy of this order; said clerk will on the day prior to said special registration, deliver to the registration clerks of said precincts in cities of the fifth class and towns of the sixth class, the registration books for their respective precincts and sufficient registration certificates.

On the 20th day of November, 1906, the registration officers, who shall be the same officers who shall be appointed to hold said election, shall meet at their respective voting precincts and shall register the names of all persons appearing and entitled to vote at said election to be held on December 7th, 1906, whose names are not already on the registration books for this year.

The court orders and directs that officers to hold said election and special registration be appointed as provided by law for the appointment of regular election officers. Said election to be held in accordance with the provisions of the general election laws of this State.

W. A. BLACKBURN, County Judge
Crittenden County, Ky.

A Copy Attest:

C. E. WELDON, Clerk.
By C. V. FRANKS, D. C.

In pursuance to the above order of the Crittenden County Court, a special registration will be held in all cities and towns, in Crittenden County, where registration is required, on Tuesday, November 20th, 1906, and polls will be opened in each and all of the voting places and precincts in Crittenden County on the 7th day of December, 1906, to take the sense of the legal voters of Crittenden County upon the question submitted in the above order.

J. F. FLANARY, S. C. C.

Unnecessary Expense.

Acute attacks of colic, diarrhoea and dysentery come on without warning and prompt relief must be obtained. There is no necessity of incurring the expense of a physician's service in such cases if Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is at hand. A dose of this remedy will relieve the patient before a doctor could arrive. It has never been known to fail, even in the most severe and dangerous cases and no family should be without it. For sale by Haynes & Taylor, the enterprising druggists of Marion.

A Sermon From the Tripod

Text:—"He thought it a most capital joke to murder himself with cigarette smoke."

I climb on my tripod today in behalf of the boys, the male lambs of my flock. The wide earth is full of them. The crop is never short. Yet the demand is always greater than the supply, for although a boy is nothing but a boy, still a boy is a boy, and a boy is a piece of property, unique, rich, unpurchasable. A Barnato might have boys of his own, but if he had none, he could not buy one of yours, or mine, for thrice two hundred millions in yellow gold. And so while we have no money in bank, yet in our boys, our little boys, we have wealth incomputable. If all the sand of the sea shore was pure gold, it would not buy from us one kick of that little fat foot, one loving glance from his bright eyes, or one funny nod of his little round head. And think you now, of the millions of homes in the deep pasture lands of fair Columbia, where these bright little, funny little manikins are raising a happy war, all the time jumping and tumbling and bumping, jabbering comic English with their funny little tongues; looking at everything with their quick, eager eyes; eating everything they can get into their mouths; and always wanting more; ruining furniture; tearing up books; kicking holes in the carpet; plastering themselves with dirt; chasing after and catching the measles, whooping cough, and every available disease; perfect bundles of appetite; as full of electricity as eels, and as curious as ever their mothers were before them leading lives of rollicksome, frolicsome happiness, and keeping their parents on the borderland of insanity. As I think of these millions of boys, and all of the love twined round them, all the proud ambitions of which they are the living centerpieces, and of how bright, how beautiful, how innocent they are, and then think of the rough way to manhood which lies before their chubby feet and little short crooked legs, and of the dangers which like wild beasts and poisonous snakes, lurk along the highways to tear and deface their stout little innocent hearts, I feel that I need a voice like the voice of heaven's loudest artillery, and an eloquence to make my speech as the richest pickings of the famous Klondike. For a boy can come nearer getting next to you than any other living thing. He has less sense, yet he knows more, considering his parentage and the chance he has had. He can make you madder and gladder, and somehow seem to be able to get clear down to the bottom of your nature, and stir you all through yourself. A man who has never owned a boy of his own, has never seen the sun shine, nor the rain fall. He may have heard music from a one-stringed violin, but he never listened to earth's sweetest music in full diapason.

And how they grow. They swarm up from millions of homes, in all the highways and by-ways. They struggle into their knee pants and crawl out of them at both ends. In school and out they are always at their lessons; learning, eating, growing, pushing, crowding, building up brain and sinew, scraping the bark off their shins, tanning their faces and changing their plump chubbiness into hard bone and strong muscle of manhood with a rush that astonishes. And for the sake of this constantly coming host of sturdy little fellows, who, since the days when the earth was young, have been marching up from the nurseries out into manhood, into the great rush of the roaring world, and on, on, out into unknown worlds, we wish that all the evil could be struck dead by the lightning of heaven, so that all the men into which these boys grow, would be, as for their loving and innocent hearts, as these boys now are.

But they meet with evil at every point. Millions of ugly claws stretched out on every side to pull these boys down. To ruin their ruddy health, and stain their innocence. And this is a sad shame, that the great dangers in their way come from men who were once boys, but now are simply bundles of disease, rained morally and physically, and going on roller skates, down hill into infamy. And these wandering stars, soon to be lost in the blackness of darkness, take a delight which must be kindled from the flames of hell, in teaching these oncoming boys the errors by which their own lives have been blasted. They take a package of vile, stinking cigarettes, and show the boys the vile pictures. And they show them how to smoke, and how to blow the horrible stygian fumes through their delicate nostrils, and while they are doing this some kind Christian should hit the enticer on the head with a baseball bat. It would not knock his brains out. Such a thing has no brains, only instinct, and instinct that no self-respecting brute would use. If there is anything that makes a man's humanity want to rare up and kill something, it is a cigarette. Its very name condemns it. It is not a cigar any more than pantalettes are pants. If you want a cigarette, take a bad cigar, extract all the poison, mix the poison with still more poisonous drugs, roll up in thin paper, hitch an idiot to one end and you have it. You can tell he is an idiot by seeing him suck in smoke that would make the chimney of hell cough and strangle, and with a wall of his eyes blow this smoke out of his nose. And then the idiot generally walks to another corner in search of another audience. And his muscles are soft and flabby, and his bones are decayed, and his nervous system is a wreck, and morality has fled from in disgust. One of these gibbering idiots came into the smoker of a car the other day, and pulled out a package of cigarettes, and began to smoke. Said his father was rich, and pa had him confined in an asylum, for he had smoked until he was crazy, and all day and all night, and had wheels in his head, and his heart turned over and he had the jimjams and suffered great agony, but he would smoke. He bribed the nurse and got his poison. Only persistent in one thing. In clinging to the devilish serpent that was ruining him. When we asked why he did not cut his throat, he blinked idiotically and said he thought that might hurt. The grimmest satire on humanity of which any genius could conceive is a dude hitched to a cigarette. And yet that dude was once a boy. O boys, boys, be true to the mother love. Carry with you through life the pure, fresh hearts with which you began the battle of life. Keep your mouths free from poison that will ruin your nerves and destroy your power of manhood, and keep your thoughts free from the poison which murders purity. Don't imitate the vices of the world. In Memoriam

LOUISA JANE ROBERTS.

Death is as natural as birth, and both are alike beyond the control or option of a human being who comes into the world through the portals of the one or passed out of it into the shadows of the other. Rejoicing for the one and mourning for the other, are alike natural.

But between these two momentous events—the beginning and the end—there is the life, the human life, and this is largely under human control, and with this all have to do.

So when the end comes, whether it be in youth or in age, in the bud, the flower, or in the fruitage of a completed existence, that death draws the veil; we begin to reflect on the events, the aims, the influence, and results of the career which, for us, has ended.

As we read the pages which memory has preserved for us, and find recorded brave deeds, kind words, and loving acts, filling all the measure of existence; while we know that a gracious presence, a cheering smile, and a cordial helpfulness were the unfailing accompaniments of these acts and words, then we feel that it is fitting that we should pay our tribute of respect, affection and grateful appreciation, and that we should call the attention of those outside the circle of kindred and friends to a sweet, useful and Christian life. And such a life was that of Mrs. Louisa Jane Roberts.

As wife, mother, sister and friend, she was devoted, affectionate, judicious and loyal in all these relations. For nearly half a century she had lived in the same community, interested in all that concerned the weal or woe of that community, active and efficient while strength lasted to promote the one and avert the other. While her friendships were many, and embraced those of all religious denominations, she was most loyally attached to the Cumberland Presbyterian church, of which for many years she had been a member. She passed from earth on Monday, August 27, at 7:15 p. m. Her malady being cancer. And now she's gone, gone with words of encouragement, of gratitude and love, almost the last upon her lips for those she left behind. She has gone, and a shadow has fallen in the house she has left, which would be dark indeed if the sweet memories of her life, her courage, her hope, and her faith did not inspire in them a like spirit, and bring like faith and trust.

Farewell, dear friend, the veil for thee is rent. And solved the mystery from mortal's hid. Of what may be, of glad and grand surprise For sons of men beyond the tide of Time.

Farewell, dear friend, thy wish so oft expressed. The prayer devoutly poured, is answered now. The burden of thy weary years is left behind. And thou hast gone to such reward at last. As God doth give to those who humbly trust. And faithful serve, and keep his holy law.

Full well I knew thy modest soul would shrink. Mayhap reluctant to bear thy virtues named. But truth and justice have their sacred claim. And call for simple, unaffected speech: And those who know the truth must witness bear. For justice's sake I speak the simple truth. I speak in love, nor fear dissenting voice.

A handmaid of the Lord, in loving trust. For many years thy faithfully hast been; His Church thy constant, anxious, heartfelt care. To see her prosper and become at length A living, sacred power to help and bless.

With light and life divine the souls of men. Such boon for her, thy constant wish and prayer. God's needy children's burden on thy heart. Failed not to move, in love, thy helping hand; Thy thoughtful benedictions some will miss. The Lord's deserving poor a friend, hath lost.

Fair fruitage of the old school stock. Exacting with thy fellows and thyself. Concerning justice, righteousness and truth. A model hast thou been of upright life. Before the Lord and all the sons of men. Simple, frugal, modest, self-denying, pure. Would God that all the women of the land Might emulate in verity and truth. These spartan virtues of the olden time. Whose weak, neglect and low estimates The manhood and the glory of our day. And menaces with blight the common weal.

Farewell, dear friend, an ordered life like thine. Must count for much before the throne on high. And be a passport meet for bliss and joy; And all that God's beloved son hath taught us. Of justice, mercy, righteousness and love. Assures our hearts "to well with thee above."

A little longer must we tread those courts. So full of sacred joy and rich delights. For those who find the loving Father here: But none shall come the summons of the Lord To follow thee beyond the mystic tide. Oh may we find, when comes the solemn call. That heart and mind in fearless trust like thine Are well prepared to face the armed flood. And may that fellowship which bound us here In ties of mutual self-respecting love. Abide unwearied through the lapse of years. Till God shall bid us meet and live in love. With all the dear ones who have gone before.

With this sweet hope, dear friend, in loving trust We bid our heavenly Father send our prayer. By the same chart which guided thee through life And safely harbored thee in joy at last. Within the haven of the heavenly home.

Farewell, dear friend, farewell thou must. While God remains a faithful God and just.

It would hardly be fitting to close this friendly notice without a few words concerning her attentive and loving husband, Mr. George Roberts. One of the most beautiful redeeming traits in all his rugged and heroic nature was the unalterable love and devotion he bore for his wife, the only woman he ever loved—loved with a romantic tenderness and strength surpassing the dream of fiction. ## Biliousness

That sallow, yellow look, those terrible headaches, that dulled brain; all these things spell biliousness, which is the direct result of a liver which fails to perform its functions in a natural way. Before you can destroy that bilious condition you must get your liver in form and nothing will accomplish this so quickly or so thoroughly as

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

(Laxative)

This remedy is the most valuable one obtainable for all liver and kindred troubles, possessing properties which drive it directly to the affected parts.

Better than pills, oils, salts and nauseous purgatives which aggravate conditions and leave the sufferer in worse condition than before.

Former afflicted ones, now well and strong, pay eloquent tribute to its efficacy and power.

DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN can be obtained in both dollar and half-dollar sizes from all druggists.

Your money will be refunded if it does not benefit you.

Your postal card request will bring by return mail our new booklet, "DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP OF PEPSIN," and free sample to those who have never tried this wonderful remedy. Write for it today.

HOSPITAL PHYSICIANS SAID:
"IT WOULD DELIGHT US TO FIND SOMETHING TO CURE THIS DEAR OLD SUFFERER."

MR. E. W. HORE, St. Louis, Mo. RICHMOND, IND., Nov. 20, 1905.

DEAR SIR: The charity patient in whom I am so much interested was seventy-five years old at the time that she began the use of "Zemo," and her weight was 130 lbs. Her health has been poor for some time past, suffering mainly from spinal trouble, according to the diagnosis of the doctors in attendance. She has been a hard worker all her life, having been the living for her family keeping boarders. Somewhat over a year ago, eczema began to trouble her. It gradually grew worse and worse until her entire body was affected, the legs being a mass of sores constantly separating. The itching and burning sensation was so dreadful at times that it was impossible for her to sleep day or night. The doctors (two of our best) pronounced the case incurable, and when I asked permission to use "Zemo," promptly said, "It would delight us to find something to cure this dear old sufferer." "Zemo" was first used on the upper part of the body and soon relieved the patient of the terrible distress caused by the itching and burning. The doctors had been dressing the legs every day, but as soon as they saw the wonderful change in the skin where "Zemo" had been used, they gave consent to have it used on the legs. Gradually they began to improve and are now almost as smooth as the face. It was probably about a month before much relief was experienced in this part of the body, then skin scaled off, itching, burning and aching gradually ceased. It seems now as if a testimonial might be given, but the patient thinks that she had better use "Zemo" a few weeks longer before saying that she is cured. However, she is very grateful to all who have been instrumental in securing your wonderful remedy and thinks that it has a great future before it.

Respectfully,
(MRS.) MARY PERRY RELLIS, Nurse in Hospital,
