ATTORNEY-GENERAL N. B. HAYS

Candidate for the Democratic Nomination for Governor, Will Speak

At Marion Saturday, Oct 27.

At Salem Monday, Oct. 29.

BOTH APPOINTMENTS ARE FOR ONE O'CLOCK IN THE AFTERNOON.

M'CREARY HERE WEDNESDAY

Distinguished Senator Addresses Large Crowd in Opera House.

Defends His Record Both Public and Private and Vigorously Replies to his Critics.

United States Senator James B. McCreary, candidate to succeed himself, arrived in Marion Wednesday morning on the 11 o'clock train. He came here from Morganfield, where he spoke Tuesday.

A goodly number of his friends and admirers were at the station to meet him and the omnibus was gaily decorated with flags and bunting. He was driven to the New Crittenden Hotel, where he was entertained at dinner, quite a number of prominent citizens being seated at the table with the senator. Among the were: W. A. Clark, J. H. Orme, S. F. Crider, Jesse Olive, Geo. C. Gray, S. G. Rochester, J. P. Pierce and Mose R. Glenn, of Frankfort.

Promptly at 1:30 o'clock, to the music of the Lola Bird, which had been engaged for the occasion, the crowd repaired to the opera house, where in a few well chosen remarks former Judge J. G. Rochester introduced the speaker, who was enthusiastically received.

Senator McCreary spoke in part as follows:

He thanked the ladies and old soldiers for coming out to hear him. Continuing he said:

A wave of reform is now over the land. Our great Creator seems to have marked this republic out as for men who love liberty and good government. All notions have followed our example. Our country is one of the world's great powers and our Commonwealth stands as one of the leading states of this Union; but we must remember that if we want to enjoy what our forefathers had, that is, for those things, honesty fair dealing and admiration for good government are supreme.

Bossism is not confined to the Republican party, either, for you see it took charge of Maryland years ago. Men dictated who should fill the offices, etc. No man there asked for office unless he was for the machine at the capital of Maryland. When the wave came that state went Republican.

I refer to this in order to sound the alarm in Kentucky, and put my brother-Democrats to thinking. We have today a political machine in Kentucky; we have men here that control things in this State. We will not allow bossism to thrive in Kentucky.

Gov. Beckham is at the head of the machine and is one of the political bosses of the State.

I am now between sixty and seventy years of age, many of the present Senators are older than I, and a few younger. Gov. Beckham is thirty seven years of age, and if he is sent to the Senate he will form a separate class and be by himself, and will have nobody to play with.

If I am not fit to be endorsed I ought not to be endorsed. I understand that Gov. Beckham said he wanted a joint debate, and that I declined. Why, my friends, I don't say it boastfully, but I came here thirty years ago and debated with a Republican, my opponent John M. Harlan, and made thirty-eight speeches with him over the State. I concede that Mr. Beckham is a great man intellectually, but undoubtedly not as great as John M. Harlan.

My distinguished opponent is posing before the people of Kentucky as a proper candidate for United States Senator because he is a temperance man; so, now, right in the threshold, I will compare my whole life for temperance with that of Gov. Beckham. Go look at his life and then look at mine; and then do what you think right. And, then, I say to you that I am a better local-option man than Gov. Beckham ever was.

He would not go to his own county to vote and the county of Nelson went wet and local option failed there; and yet he poses today as being the leading temperance man in the State and asks all these ladies to applaud him and all these gentlemen to vote him.

I have always lived a temperance life, have been always in favor of enforcing the laws, against open saloons on Sunday, and am likewise opposed to gambling; am in favor of closing saloons on Sunday and in favor of a law against gambling.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT AT CRIDER STATION.

Byrd Deboe, the fourteen-year-old son of Will Deboe, of Crider, Ky., was instantly killed Wednesday morning by the northbound I. C. local freight.

He, with some other boys, was playing around the depot, so we are informed, and in jumping on and off the train lost his footing and fell beneath the wheels and his body was cut in two, killing him instantly.

POPULAR AUTHORESS SUCCESSFUL MINER

MRS. ALICE HEGAN RICE MAKING MONEY FROM NEARBY PROPERTY.

Excellent Spar, Lead and Silver Output From Her Mines Opposite Crittenden County.

RETAINS CONTROL AT SALE.

From the incorporation of the Cave-in-Rock Mining and Milling Company here this week, it has developed that Mrs. Alice Hegan Rice, the Louisville woman who won fame and money with her books, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," "Lovey Mary" and other stories, is just as successful a business woman as she is a writer.

A small part of the returns from her books, invested in a fluor spar and lead mine in Southern Ill., has just reaped a fortune for her. While she was traveling in Europe with her husband the deal was being made, and she only apprised of the good news upon her return a few days ago. She is elated over her new success. For years several members of the Hegan family have been the owners of a tract of land in Harden county, Illinois, which is directly across the Ohio river from Crittenden county, Kentucky. At various times offers of from $8 to $12 an acre were made for the land, but Dr. W. H. Netherland, who was in charge of it, declined to let it go. It had been an old story that lead had been found on the surface of the ground, and it was argued that there was certainly more of it beneath, and an investigation revealed the fact that the taak was in center of a mineral reservation originally outlined by the Federal Government. The rich lead and zinc mines in Crittenden county, just across the river, and the Rose-claire mine, in Illinois, owned chiefly by John R. McLean, of Cincinnati, caused Dr. Netherland to hold the land.

About a year ago Dr. Netherland made up his mind to install a mining plant, and did so with his own capital and that of Mrs. Alice Hegan Rice, together with other relatives. They made up their minds that if any money was to be lost they would lose it themselves. The work went ahead until the crushing capacity of the mill became 100 tons a day. Fluor spar in abundance, with a big percentage of lead and trace of silver, made the property valuable at once. Only recently F. S. Goldsmith, of Cincinnati, an expert miner, visited the property and declared that the body ore was the largest he had ever seen and contained the largest percentage of lead. In the meantime numerous concerns began to order vast amount of ore, and several offers were made to purchase the property but Dr. Netherland held on. Last week, however, a deal was closed by which the original owners of the property disposed of a part of their holdings for a sum which will bring to each of them a comfortable fortune, it being known that an amount in excess of $150,000 was realized.

Dr. Netherland, Mrs. Rice and the others would not consent to dispose of any of the property until it was agreed that they were to retain controlling interest in the property. This they did, and this week the original owners, together with the new and several other Louisville persons, incorporated the Cave-in-Rock Mining and Milling Company, with a capitalization of $500,000. The officers of the corporation are: W. H. Netherland, president; Clint C. McClarty, vice president; E. K. Pennybaker, second vice president, and J. E. Hegan, secretary and treasurer.

Mr. Goldsmith, who abandoned work in Colorado to take active charge of the mining, is now here

THIS DISTRICT IS PROGRESSING

SAYS PROF. NORWOOD, OF THE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

Western Kentucky Produced More Than Two-Fifths of the Fluor Spar Last Year.

STATISTICS BY MR. FOHS.

The following on the resources and development of the western Kentucky lead, zinc and spar district is from a speech delivered by Prof. C. J. Norwood before the State Development Association at Winchester last week:

The development of the lead, zinc and spar district of western Kentucky is progressing rapidly. Crittenden, Livingston and Caldwell have been the producing counties, but the work of the state geological survey, especially during the present year, has brought to light regions in Christian, Lyon and Trigg counties from which shipments may be expected. I am indebted to Mr. F. Julius Fohs, assistant geologist on the survey, for statistics concerning the region. Western Kentucky produced more than two-fifths of the total amount of fluorspar (50,340 short tons) produced in the United States in 1905. The output amounted to 20,281 short tons, of which 18,872 tons were shipped. These shipments exceeded those for 1904 by about 6,000 tons. Of the eighteen companies shipping fluorspar in 1905, twelve operated in Kentucky.

Shipments of galena from this district in 1905 amounted to 144,518 pounds, an increase of 21,982 pounds over 1904. It should be understood the production of galena has, in the main, been as a by-product in the

KNOCKED OUT THE STEAMBOAT BARS

PREACHING OF FAMOUS EVANGELIST CONVERTS RIVER MAN.

Captain Ryman Listened to Sam Jones and Stops his River Saloons and Puts His Trust in the Lord.

The death of Sam Jones will no doubt bring to the front numerous Sam Jones stories. The eminent divine was well known in Marion and justly popular with those who had heard him preach. He lectured in Marion many years ago, the opera house being taxed to its utmost capacity to hold the crowd.

Nearly everybody in Crittenden and other river fronting counties has seen or heard of the steamboats Dudley, Dunbar and Richardson. These boats, being light draft are now in the Evansville and Paducah trade. Years ago bars were maintained on these boats and did a big business until Sam Jones conducted a revival in Nashville. At this meeting Captain Ryman, the principal owner and manager of these boats, which are known collectively as the Ryman line, was converted. He immediately had the liquors on his boats dumped overboard and removed the marine insurance protecting the crafts, saying he would trust to the Lord. So it is that when you take a Ryman line boat you had better leave your thirst at home, the only kind of "life preservers" aboard being made of cork, Sam Jones done it.

Here are a few of the best of Mr. Jones stories and sayings.

I despise theology and botany but I love religion and flowers.

Red liquor and christianity won't stay in the same hide. As one comes in the other goes out.

If any man don't like what I say let him come to me after the meeting and say so and I will—forgive him.

Whisky is a good thing in its place; but its place is in hell. If I go there I will drink all I can get but I won't drink a drop of it here.

Religion is just as much a reality with me as that I have my hand on this poplar railing, as that I have four fingers on each hand. "I believe" is the ground on which I stand.

Sow whisky, reap drunkards. Fill a town with bar rooms, make a generation of drunkards who become fathers of drunkards, who become fathers of drunkards, whose children are drunkards and thus the world is swept on and down to hell.

I am no metaphysician but I can see a hole through a ladder if there is any light on the other side. There was very little metaphysics when the jailer stood trembling and asked, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?"

The difference between the devil and the penitentiary is that the penitentiary works you hard and boards you but the devil puts you to the meanest, dirtiest jobs in the world and makes you board yourself.

I would rather associate with a hog than a man who drinks whisky. A man might associate with a hog until he becomes hoggyish, but he would not become a drunkard.

Going to church is like going shopping; you generally get what you go for, no more, no less. A woman will go into a store where there is a hundred thousand dollars' worth of goods, buy a paper of pins and walk out. That was all she came for. You get about what you come to church for.

Creed! What is a creed? It is the skin of the truth dried and stuffed with sand and sawdust. If I had a creed I would sell it to a museum. Orthodoxes have ruined the world. My, my, how a man will fight for his dogma; and then see his Saviour insulted and never resent it! You must not step on my creed: if you do are a-goner!

Most people are good because of the police force.

A cigarette has fire at one end, a fool at the other and hell in the middle.

FIFTEEN MILLIONS GO TO CHARITABLE PURPOSES.

Widow of "Sam" Lewis, London's Money Lender, Dies Making Bequests Effective.

London, Oct. 13.—By the death today of Mrs. "Sam" Lewis-Hill, widow of the "Sam" Lewis, the well-known money lender, about $15,000,000 will be distributed in charitable bequests. In accordance with the will of "Sam" Lewis, who died in 1901, his whole fortune was left to his widow for life, besides which she was given outright, $5,000,000, much of which presumably will go to her second husband, Lieut. Hill, of the Scotch Guards. King Hospital fund comes in for a large sum. Besides a specific amount, $1,250,000, the hospital gets about $3,000,000 out of the residue of the estate. About $7,000,000 goes to establishing dwellings for the poor, the sum of $750,000 is devoted to the relief of the Jewish poor and Jewish hospitals and colleges, and $875,000 goes to other hospitals, while a number of other charities get good legacies.

Lewis was the most famous man in England in his business. His transactions were enormous and his clients were among the highest personages in the land. He was shrewd and hard, but absolutely honest. He used to say his motto was: "I lend to the lord and give to the poor."

MACKEY BUY LAND.

Heed of Postal Telegraph Company Purchases Farm in The Bluegrass.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 18.—Clarence Mackey, the millionaire owner of the Postal Telegraph and Cable lines, today made his first purchase of real estate in Fayette county and probably his first purchase in Kentucky. At a sale today by the master commissioner of about 120 acres of land belonging to the Whitney estate, the purchaser was C. F. Hill, manager of Mr. Mackey's thoroughbred breeding establishment here, who was acting for Mr. Mackey. The price paid for the land was $155 an acre, the aggregate being about $21,000.

For about a year Mackey has had his stud of thoroughbred horses at the Kingston farm, near this city, which he has leased for a term of years. The land which purchased to-day adjoins the Kingston farm, and its purchase is taken to mean that Mr. Mackey will buy the Kingston farm at the expiration of his lease, and permanently establish his nursery for thoroughbreds there.

Mr. Mackey now has at Kingston farm, imported meddler, which both this season and last has headed the winning list of thoroughbred stallions in America, Banastar, which was a successful race horse under Mr. Mackey's colors, and about fifty choice brood mares. The establishment is in charge of C. F. Hill, who was widely known as a successful trainer in the East, until he came to Kentucky to manage Mr. Mackey's breeding establishment. The land which was bought for Mr. Mackey to-day is all in grass, and has a beautiful woodland upon it.

Skeleton Holding Wheel Barrow.

Frank Clark, the diver recovering concentrates lost a month ago by the collapse of the dock at the Tacoma smelter, has found a skeleton of a man at the bottom of the bay holding to the handles of a wheel barrow. Several years ago an Italian while wheeling slag away from the smelter furnaces, disappeared with his wheelbarrow and the remains are thought to be his. Fruitless search was made for him at the time.

The skeleton will be brought to the surface and given burial. A tangle of weeds has held the bones together with the help of the wheelbarrow.

No Cut in Insurance Fees.

The following is a report of the Committee on Life Insurance Examinations was unanimously adopted by the Kentucky State Medical Association on October 11, 1906, at Owensboro, Ky., and the Secretary was instructed to send a copy to every doctor and newspaper in Kentucky:

Your committee on Insurance has carefully considered the subject of medical examinations and the reduction of fees, proposed by certain of the old time companies, and submits as its report the following preamble and resolutions:

WHEREAS, The recent official investigations of the three great life insurance companies of New York clearly developed that the medical departments were among the few which were not honeycombed with mismanagement or corrupt; and,

WHEREAS, The legislation resulting from the investigation intended to cure evils existing elsewhere was at once seized upon as justification for a long premeditated, concerted and systematic plan for debauching these departments by lowering the standards and compensation for medical examinations, employing and importing into every section recent graduates and men who have failed in practice, as well as representatives from the lowest grades in profession, thus destroying what has always been recognized as a fundamental safeguard in sound life insurance; and,

WHEREAS, While nothing could justify such a short-sighted course the official reports of the income and expenses of the insurance business in this state and the country at large, last year, and during all of its history, and the facts in regard to the recent legislation in New York make ridiculous the plea that the action was necessary in the interest of economy or was caused by such legislation. Now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, by the Kentucky State Medical Association, in annual convention assembled, That this organized and concerted attempt to lower the standard and compensation of medical examinations all over this country is not only most unjust and degrading to our profession, but is so unsound as a business proposition that it cannot but ultimately prove most expensive and dangerous to all policyholders in these companies, made up of our patrons and ourselves;

RESOLVED, That a large experience having demonstrated that the thorough and painstaking examination of every applicant for insurance cannot be made for less than five ($5.00) dollars, we recommend that this amount be fixed as the minimum fee, and shall be morally binding on all members in this state on and after January 1, 1907.

RESOLVED, That in view of the vast interests involved we urge the profession in every county in this state to meet at the earliest practicable day and arrange for organized resistance to this organized and inexcusable oppression. We advise that this be done outside of the society, and that, so far as possible, it include every reputable physician in the county, whether a member of the society or not. We advise that the agreement be not made a test of membership, our reliance being upon the justice of our cause, a spirit of mutual helpfulness and co-operation, and our evident duty to protect the best interests of policyholders;

RESOLVED, That we pledge our cordial support to those companies which have so managed their affairs that they have never been tainted with charges of corruption, and consequently have not found it necessary to degrade their medical subordinates, or otherwise destroy the protection to policy holders, and our Secretary is hereby instructed to publish a list of such companies in each issue of the Journal, upon condition that they are approved by our active and fearless state commissioner of insurance;

RESOLVED, That we also pledge our support to the Inter-National Policy Holders' Association, which is supporting the United Committees' Ticket the middle one on the official ballot, in every effort it may make for the protection of the interests of policyholders; that our secretary is hereby instructed to furnish each county society in Kentucky with an ample supply of ballots to the tickets supported by this Association for trustees of each of such companies, and that we appeal to the profession in each county and state in the United States to co-operate with us in this movement.

Notice to Democratic Legislative Candidates:

After a careful investigation of the probable expense of holding the legislative democratic primary election it is estimated that the sum of forty ($40.00) dollars will cover same. And the said sum is hereby assessed against the candidate or candidates for representative. If there be but one candidate he shall pay the whole sum and if more than one candidate then each man shall be equally divided between the candidates. If after the primary election it be found that this estimate is too small to cover the entire expense, then the successful candidate will pay the deficiency. If the estimate is too large the excess shall be refunded to all the candidates in equal proportions. Any candidate desiring to enter the race and be voted for at said primary will on or before October 21, 1906 notify in writing C. S. Nunn, at Marion, Ky., and then pay to him the proper proportion of said assessment. This October 8, 1906.

GULLION

Candidate for Superintendent of Public Instruction.

DEALS MILDLY WITH OPPONENT

Corrects Misrepresentations in a Most Emphatic Way—He Also Presents Remarkably Strong Facts in Support of His Candidacy.

The Democrats of Kentucky: A most unexpected and unjust charge has been brought against me by my opponent in the race for superintendent of public instruction. If the charge were true it should defeat me. It is false the Democrats of Kentucky should know it in order that they may be done to me. The charge is that I am unfriendly to the new normal schools.

E. A. GULLION.

On the other hand, his animus is so evident that I need not argue the matter. I simply place alongside his malicious and impotent charge the following "card," and fair-minded Democrats may do the rest:

A CARD.

To Whom it May Concern:

Mr. E. A. Gullion spent a great deal of time at Frankfort during the legislative session of 1905-6, and took an active interest in school legislation, being especially desirous of passing a normal school bill. He has for a number of years been a strong factor in educational progress.

This September 20, 1906, W. P. THORNE, S. E. DEHAVEN, H. K. BOURNE, I heartily concur in the above. JAS. H. FUQUA, Superintendent Public Instruction, Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 21, 1906.

After proof that of the lieutenant governor, Senator DeHaven, representative Bourne and the distinguished superintendent of public instruction is required it shall be furnished. Who oppose the state normal school? They cannot be found. The Legislature then passed unanimously as shown above. I did all in my power to promote its passage, having been at Frankfort more than 50 days during the 60-day session of the general assembly and in constant contact with the senators and representatives. I have supported the normal school measure would have been to justify my entire record, for I have advocated normal schools in my newspaper and before the Kentucky Educational association for more than 20 years.

In all the literature I have sent out I have pledged myself to the normal schools in the following language: "I shall be my highest and most ardent ambition to foster and develop the state's normal schools until they shall be adequate for all and good enough for the best—unsurpassed by those of any other state."

As to Character. In the same letter to superintendent the gentleman asks for an opportunity to defend himself against the aspersion of his character that one might make. If I have to win the race by attacking his character I will lose the race, for I would not do such a thing. Nor will I be a true friend of mine offend in that manner. However, it is the privilege and duty of every Democrat to investigate the character and competency of both of us before voting.

Not a Popularity Contest. My opponent publishes in black type that his chief clerk would be a clever competent gentleman who has been in the service of the state for 25 years at a high salary when on duty. I make the alliance at the eleventh hour to bolster his failing fortunes in the race. If there is any reason why I will not be paid official of 25 years (and never has to beg for lucrative office) should be preferred over a young gentleman I have selected the place. It is not apparent. My chief clerk will be Mr. Walter Crady, a competent, industrious and young man, who is now sec-an clerk in Superintendent Fuqua's office. He has learned the clerical duties of the office well, and all say he has earned and merits promotion. But this race is not a popularity contest between clerks. It is a contest between candidates for state superintendent, whose duties are widely different from those of a clerk and very much more difficult. A machine can add a column of figures. Efficient superintendents are the exception.

Evidence of Fitness.

I have taught in schools ranging from the common school in the back woods to the lower classes in one of our leading colleges; have taught in high school and have been an instructor in county normals.

For more than 20 years I have been attending the State Teachers' association and in 1896 was president of that honorable body. The published proceedings and addresses show that I was active in all movements for the betterment of public schools, originating some of them. This is particularly true as to the agitation for normal schools, longer school terms, better school houses, modern equipment, etc.

As chairman of a committee appointed by the Kentucky Educational association, I pressed upon the general assembly divers amendments looking to those ends and procured their passage. It is not arrogating too much to myself to say that I have spent more time before the Kentucky legislature in promoting common school legislation than any other private citizen. It was a labor of love on my part, for never did I ask, and never was paid a cent for my expenses, or for the sacrifice of my time that I made.

I am the author of the plan by which short-term schools were abolished and wrote the amendment that effectuated the plan. I was also largely instrumental in bringing about most of the other beneficial changes that have been made in the school laws.

If the people make me their next state superintendent I shall devote whatever talent and energy I have to the great work in which are centered the dearest interests of the children and of the commonwealth, guaranteeing that we shall materially lengthen our cords and strengthen our stakes educationally.

The statements I have made are offered to the public with some temerity, lest I be charged with egotism. However, they seem necessary in order to show that by experience and service I have a peculiar fitness for the most honorable office the people can bestow—the state superintendency. Respectfully,

E. A. GULLION.

Candidate for Supt. Public Instruction.

WRITES OPEN LETTER.

Hon. James H. Fuqua to the Democrats of Kentucky. Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 4, 1906.

To the Friends of Education: I am writing you in the interest of Mr. E. A. Gullion of Henry county, candidate for superintendent of public instruction. It has been my pleasure to know Mr. Gullion during his long service as county superintendent of Carroll county and as editor of a paper at New Castle. In both positions he has been an ardent advocate of improved education. In latter years using the columns of his paper advancing the cause of Kentucky schools.

During my term of office many improvements have been made in education. Two normal schools have been established; the term increased from five to six months; the per capita has grown to $3.30, the largest in the history of the state. I have planned much other work that will greatly redound to the benefit of the schools and if elected I am satisfied that Mr. Gullion will push these plans to execution. I shall remain in school work as a member of his state board of examiners and as such will be closely identified with the cause of education.

Thanking you for your co-operation in the past and trusting that you will help Mr. Gullion in the state primary November 6, I beg to remain yours very truly,

JAS. H. FUQUA, SR., Superintendent Public Instruction.

What Others Say.

Other able school men have written in regard to Mr. Gullion's candidacy, as follows:

Professor J. T. English, Harrods Creek, Ky., a widely known teacher: "We need somebody at the head of the school system who has the knack of doing things; of getting out of the time-worn rut. You are unquestionably the man. Your record in school work proves it."

Z. F. Smith, formerly superintendent of public instruction: "Your personal qualifications and your long training as teacher and county superintendent well fit you for the duties of state superintendent. Knowing you so well, I have every confidence that you will faithfully and ably administer the affairs of the office. Hence, I will heartily give you my support and wish you complete success."

Professor C. A. Leonard, superintendent of Centennial schools: "I hope you will announce at once and make a thorough canvass of the state; I shall work for you."

Professor W. H. Bartholomew, principal Girls' High school, Louisville: "A friend of public instruction when the cause needed friends. Gullion merits the honor of the superintendency."

President Jas. K. Patterson, State College, Lexington: "I say without reserve that I know of no man who has done better work than yourself."

Human Blood Marks.

A tale of horror was told by marks of human blood in the home of J. W. Williams, a well known merchant of Bar, Ky. He writes: "Twenty years ago I had severe hemorrhages of the lungs, and was near death when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. It completely cured me and I have remained well ever since." It cures Hemorrhages, Chronic Coughs, Settled Colds and Bronchitis, and is the only known cure for weak lungs. Every bottle guaranteed by Woods & Orme Druggists, one and three trial bottles free.

Carrsville Boy Served in Philippines.

James A. Crawford, of Carrsville, Ky., was in Paducah today, on his way home. He was discharged several days ago from the hospital corps of the United States army with a splendid record.

Crawford enlisted in Paducah in 1905, and was hustled off to the Philippines. For 15 months as a private of the Twelfth infantry he waded through the guerilla war of the islands. Coming out of the jungle campaign with a good record he was transferred to the hospital department where served with honor during the remainder of his enlistment. His purse was bulging with green backs today and showed what a soldier in the American army can accomplish.

Besides big trunk of wearing apparel the ex-soldier brought home between $400 and $500 in real money.—Paducah News Democrat.

A Most Worthy Article.

When an article has been on the market for years and gains friends every year, it is safe to call this medicine a worthy one. Such is Ballard's Horehound Syrup. It positively cures coughs and all pulmonary diseases. One of the best known merchants in Mobile, Ala., says: "For five years my family has not been troubled with the winter coughs we owe this to Ballard's Horehound Syrup. I know it has saved my children from many sick spells." Sold by Woods & Orme Druggists.

To the Voters:

Having been solicited by my friends to make the race for the legislature in the district composed of the counties of Crittenden and Livingston I have decided to announce my candidacy subject to the action of the democratic primary on November 6, next. As the time is short it will be impossible for me to see all of the voters and I therefore take this method of soliciting your votes. I will see all of you I can and to those not acquainted with me I will say, ask anyone who knows me as to my record in the past, and as to my honesty and ability to fill the office. I am a farmer and have been all my life. I am a democrat and have always been and have always lent my influence to the best interests of the democratic party. Thanking you and hoping for your support and influence I am yours for the success of the party.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

THE DUCK AND THE DIAMOND

Once upon a time a duck in picking around found a beautiful diamond, and he was so proud of it that he became very pompous and gradually tired of the other ducks on the farm and said:

"I've had enough of this company, and in future I intend to associate myself only with well bred chickens."

And so, with the diamond nearly held in his bill, he flew over into the chicken yard. As the diamond flashed it attracted the attention of the handsomest roosters on the place.

"Why, dear me!" cried the rooster. "I'm glad to see you. You must certainly stay over here and join our set. Don't you think you would like to lead the german for us Friday evening?"

The duck was simply overcome with joy, and when he started to say, "How very kind of you; I accept with great pleasure," the diamond fell out of his mouth.

Now, this is exactly what the old rooster had been waiting for, and he picked up the gem and ran with it as fast as he could, leaving the poor old duck to wend his way home in misery and tears.

Head Ache Sometimes?

If so, it will interest you to know that it can be stopped with Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills; and without any bad after-effects, and this without danger of forming a drug habit or having your stomach disarranged. They positively contain no opium, morphine, cocaine, chloral, ether or chloroform in any form. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve pain, and leave only a sense of relief. The reason for this is explained by the fact that headache comes from tired, irritable, turbulent, over-taxed brain nerves. Anti-Pain Pills soothe and strengthen these nerves, thus removing the cause. They are harmless when taken as directed.

"We use Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for the cure of headache, and we think that there is nothing that will equal them. They will cure the severest spell of nervous or sick headache in a very few minutes. I am of a nervous temperament, and occasionally have spells when my nerves seem to be completely exhausted, and I tremble so I can scarcely contain myself. At these times I always take the Anti-Pain Pills, and they quiet me right away. It is remarkable what a soothing effect they have upon the nerves."

Mrs. F. E. KAKI, Detroit, Mich. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first package will benefit. If it fails, he will return your money. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

The Publisher's Claims Sustained

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS

The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with new words and adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation.

We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, is a book thoroughly re-edited in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained. It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in the future in the past it will be the source of constant reference.

THURSDAY, OCT. 25, 1906

We are authorized to announce W. F. COWPER, of Smithland, as a candidate to represent the counties of Crittenden and Livingston in the next General Assembly, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

NOW LET THE BATTLE GO ON.

In a strong editorial the Courier-Journal a few days ago summarizes the situation as between the candidates before the people at the November primary. We reproduce it in full as we appreciate and endorse the sentiments contained in it:

The completion of the details for the primary election, called to be held the day of the coming general election, leaves the democratic voters of Kentucky nothing to do except to go to the polls and deposit their ballots for the respective candidates of their choice.

It would seem that the committee provisions offer little, if any opportunity for fraud. But, preparation is already being made to raise the cry of fraud by interests outside the democratic party and hostile to the final success of the ticket to be named by the primary. This seems to be an essential and inevitable part of the system of dog eat dog politics which has prevailed the last few years.

The Courier-Journal has stated, and we here repeat the statement, that it takes no part in this initial contest, other than to report its progress. It plays no favorites. Each canvass among the various contestants makes capital more or less against the democratic party. Rival charges and countercharges must in the end return to plague the successful competitor, whoever he be, in the election, which is to confirm or reject the nominees of the primary. Courier-Journal is not only not concerned in any of the contests per se, but proposing to support the ticket named, it does not intend to handicap that support by anything which it will have to withdraw or qualify after the event.

It recognizes each aspirant as a democrat. It means to treat each of them fairly. If in any case it fails to do this, he who may think himself aggrieved has only to specify the offense to have it promptly met and mended. Orders have been issued to every worker in the office and to all correspondents and reporters outside the office to this effect.

In spite of it, however, rumor occasionally reaches us that complaint has been made, though not directly to us, or to any of our agents and upon what grounds we are at a loss to divine.

On this point we may be pardoned a little prolixity and we wish to speak with plainness and candor. The Courier-Journal has had much and varied experience in the matter of displeasing candidates for office. Often a candidate before the people unduly magnifies his importance and imagines, if his speeches are not printed day after day in full that some discrimination is made against him, though each speech be but a repetition of all the others. Other candidates are so egotistic and ex-acting that mere failure to exploit them amounts in their selfish and distorted vision to actual opposition. Now and then a candidate accuses that he may excite sympathy by pleading that the Courier-Journal is persecuting him, though in point of fact the paper may never have thought of him or have uttered a word against him. It is easy for carping critics to find fault with newspapers.

In almost every instance of the kind which, in times gone by, has come to our knowledge, the complainant has felt himself a beaten man who would vent his disappointment and establish a pretext for his defeat on some unoffending but conspicuous mark and, as the Courier-Journal is always in evidence it has thus borne rather more than its share of the malediction of baffled ambition. Yet, as its readers know, when the paper is for or against an aspirant or a cause it has reasons other than those of personal like, or dislike, to give for it, and is not afraid to proclaim them and has generally shown itself able to make its opposition or its support sufficiently effective and resonant.

As to the present campaign, it is enough to say that the success, or failure, of any one of the candidates for any one of the nominations in dispute could add or subtract an iota from its peace of mind, body, or estate, and that in respect to its just treatment of all of them its columns speak for themselves. Further than this we need not go except to repeat that if any aspirant thinks differently he has only to come to us to know the reason why and to obtain his rights. It will be his own fault, not ours, if he goes away dissatisfied.

The Crittenden Press has no doubt broken its heavy lithographing machinery once more and probably this accounts for the absence of the "butterfly paper." We are sorry. Why did you not call on us? You said you would. Our lithographing plant is in full bloom. We always try to assist brothers in distress. We know how hard it is to keep lithographing presses and lithographing stones in tune. No doubt the frustration caused by this breakage in machinery occasioned the double cross eye which explains the Mt. Carmel head on the Princeton Press-bitory article and vice versa.—Crittenden Record.

Excuse us boys! But really we had forgotten about you being here. We'll call on you next time.

Kind Words From Missouri.

Mrs. C. C. Underwood, of Carthageville, Mo., writes us of the comfort it gives her to hear from her old Kentucky home, relatives and friends through The Press each week and closes an interesting letter as follows: "I am a friend to the dear old Press and kind wishes to the editor, S. M. Jenkins. Mrs. C. C. Underwood."

In Society At Tolu.

On last Tuesday evening the young people of Tolu were highly entertained by Mr. Foster Brown. The invited guests were Misses Nettie Mitchell, Naomi Minner, Frankie Shepherd, Gussie McGree, Bettie Johnson, Eva Clement, Ruth Guess, Messrs Rob Lee, Peyt Shepherd, Lyonel Meyers, Byron Woods, Jessie Ray, Foster Shepherd. The evening was very much enjoyed by all.

Miss Ruth Stephenson entertained last Saturday evening from 8 to 10. Those present were: Misses Frankie Shepherd, Nettie Mitchell, Ruth Guess, Gussie McGree, Eva Clement, Messrs Rob Lear, Harry Hamilton, Frank Guess, Peyt. Shepherd, Charlie Lear, Jessie Ray, Foster Brown, Byron Woolf, and Foster Shepherd. Miss Stephenson proved to be a delightful hostess.

Bad Mails.

Complaint is being made the ARGUS is not being delivered at certain postoffices in this county to all subscribers. The paper is promptly mailed each week and we do not know where the fault lies. However, about election time it is hard to get Democratic literature properly distributed in this county. A post-office inspector will probably facilitate the proper distribution of the ARGUS. We are satisfied the fault does not lie at the Central City post-office.—Central City Argus.

Ayers Hard to the Front.

Former Jailer Ayers Hard was in the city Tuesday night doing some trading with our merchants. He says he comes at night because he hasn't time to come during the day. When asked for an explanation he said "I am busy digging and getting in my sweet potatoes. I have dug 600 bushels and have 800 more to dig before frost and cold weather sets in for good."

By the way, Mr. Hard is crowding Geo. Whitt as a potato raiser and at a dollar a bushel his crop will bring him a nice sum. He supplied many neighboring towns with sweet potatoes last spring and will aim to do so again next spring.

Gen. N. B. Hays will address the voters in Marion Saturday, October 27, at one o'clock p. m. At Salem, Monday, Oct. 29.

R. S. PARIS ANNOUNCES

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF CRITTENDEN AND LIVINGSTON COUNTIES:

After the solicitations of many friends of both counties and after a careful deliberation of the question, I have decided to offer myself as a candidate for Representative in the next General Assembly of Kentucky. I place my claim before you as a Democrat and subject to your will at the November primary. If nominated and elected I shall strive to represent the whole people and wear the collar of no man or faction, but offer a faithful and impartial discharge of the duties incumbent on me. If you decide otherwise the successful candidate shall have my heartiest support.

Very respectfully,
R. S. PARIS, Lolo, Ky.

Position of Legislative Candidates on the Ballot.

Paris first.
Farris second.
Cowper third.

Last Saturday representatives for the three candidates for the legislature met in this city and selected the position of the name on the ballot of each candidate. Jesse Olive represented R. S. Paris, Senator Maxwell represented J. R. Farris and Zed A. Bennett represented W. F. Cowper. Numbers one, two and three were placed in separate plain envelopes which were mixed and then drawn by the above named representatives, with the result that Robt. S. Paris gets first place on the ballot, John R. Farris, second and W. F. Cowper third.

Notice.

No hunting allowed on my farm. Trespassers are warned to keep off of said premises.

S. M. JENKINS.

MRS. W. J. STONE ILL.

Was Stricken at her Daughter's Home in Jackson, Miss.

The friends of the family, and they are legion, will learn with much regret that Mrs. Cornelia Woodard Stone, wife of former Congressman W. J. Stone, is seriously if not critically ill at the home of her son-in-law, S. J. Snook, the Jackson, Miss. banker. Captain Stone and his daughter, Mrs. Chas. Young of Kuttawa, were hastily summoned to her bedside last week and other relatives here and at Cynthia have been notified that her physicians hold out little hope to her family of her recovery. The typho-pneumonia with which she is suffering, is not yielding to treatment, hence the alarm.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to thank the many friends of Tolu who so unselfishly rendered their services with sympathy during the short illness and sudden death of our dear good husband and father. Our constant prayer is that God's richest blessing may rest on all.

MRS. J. T. LEAR AND FAMILY.

To the Voters:

Having been solicited by my friends to make the race for the legislature in the district composed of the counties of Crittenden and Livingston I have decided to announce my candidacy subject to the action of the democratic primary on November 6, next. As the time is short it will be impossible for me to see all of the voters and I therefore take this method of soliciting your votes. The mine is off the railroad, but overlooks the Ohio river, and as Pittsburgh is one of best markets for the flour spar the products are transported at a low cost.

Mrs. Rice has been in Europe for months, and she did not know of the development of the property and the advantageous sale of it until she returned. She placed her interests in the hands of her cousin, Dr. Netherland, and the results have made her feel that she exercised good judgement. Mrs. Rice, Dr. Netherland and a party of Louisville people will leave shortly for the mine to spend several days and to see that the operation of the mine is continuing satisfactorily. The incorporators of the new company insisted that the corporation should be known as the "Cabbage Patch Milling and Mining Company," but Mrs. Rice said Mrs. Wiggs and the cabbage patch were sufficiently famous to entitle them both to a rest. Her wishes were finally acceded to.

Gen. N. B. Hays, candidate for governor, will speak at Salem Monday, October 29. Everybody turn out.

The Great Difference

In Fire Insurance Companies is not revealed by their names nor their claims. The day before the San Francisco disaster, all Fire Insurance Companies seemed alike to the thoughtless; there was a great difference nevertheless, and when the test came, some quibbled, some defaulted, while others drew on the reserve funds which they had ready for such a contingency, paid the large amounts due, and went right on.

All of our Companies have an enviable record of honest adjustment of San Francisco losses

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' TRAINING CLASS

LESSON XLVII.

There is no Sunday School lesson in this week's readings.

DAILY MANNA.

Sunday, Oct. 21.—Christ commends his spirit to God, Lk. 23:46.
Monday, Oct. 22.—Christ's death, Mt. 27:50; Mk. 15:37; Lk. 23:45.
Tuesday, Oct. 23.—The veil rent, Mt. 27:51; Mk. 15:38; Lk. 23:45.
Wednesday, Oct. 24.—The earthquake, Mt. 27:51.
Thursday, Oct. 25.—The centurion's confession, Mt. 27:54; Mk. 15:39; Lk. 23:47, 48.
Friday, October 26.—Christ's faithful attendants, Mt. 27:55, 56; Mk. 15:40, 41; Lk. 23:49.

HELPS TO STUDY.

After Christ's exclamation, "It is finished," he committed his spirit into the hands of his father and died. At this juncture the veil of the temple was rent into two parts from top to bottom. This veil was rich and costly, made of blue and purple and scarlet and fine-twined linen. Ex. 26:31-34. It was made with fine needle work and beautiful cherubim were worked in the texture of this wondrous veil. Its purpose was to separate the holy place from the most holy. No one could enter the most holy place except the high priest and that on the great day of atonement and then not without blood. This rending of the veil implied that the way into the most holy place was opened for everyone. We can come directly before God for ourselves without the mediation of a priest. Christ is our mediator and intercessor and every man can come directly before God and ask for the pardon of his own sins. Heb. 9:1-15, 24-26.

In connection with the rending of the veil came the earthquake. It was a mighty earthquake. The rocks were rent. It is not impossible that we see traces of this earthquake yet in the mighty rocks that are rent asunder from the parent bluff. "The graves were opened." This is the only earthquake in which such strange phenomena has occurred. The graves were opened but mark the fact that none of the bodies came out of these graves until after Christ's resurrection; because he must be the first fruits of the resurrection. I Cor. 15:23. There were a great number of bodies resurrected at this time—"many bodies of the saints which slept arose." Some think that the 144,000 referred to in Rev. 14:1-5 was the number resurrected at this time. Many people saw them. They went into the holy city and appeared unto many. This is a remarkable proof of the resurrection. How can people doubt the resurrection? These people were citizens of that community, were well known by the people and appeared unto many who could testify to seeing them.

The centurion who witnessed the death of Christ and these remarkable phenomena glorified God and confessed that this was the Son of God. Many others were impressed with these solemn scenes, smote their breasts as an indication of their grief, and went away from the solemn scene of the cross, awed by power divine.

There were a number of faithful attendants at the cross. The three Marys and John have already been mentioned. In addition there were many women from Galilee and from various parts of the ministry of Jesus, those who had become acquainted with him and had ministered him, watched him with devotion and love. Here we have demonstrated the psychological principle. If you wish to attach anyone to you let that one do something for you.

In order to accelerate their death so that their bodies could be disposed of before the beginning of the Sabbath day, which began at 6 o'clock in the evening, the rulers requested that their legs might be broken.

THE TEACHER—METHODS OF TEACHING.

1. Gain the attention.
2. Review the last lesson. This should be very brief; enough to test the class and to show that you expect the lesson to be remembered.
3. The recitation. a. Hear the assigned parts. b. Bring out additional facts. c. Analyze—show the parts, the divisions of the lesson.
4. Direct teaching—causing them to know. a. Main facts, give them, show their relation one to another, their place in God's plan. b. leading truths—explain them, strengthen them with other scripture. c. Illustrate—let the light in on—by other scripture facts and truths, by current events, personal experience, etc.
5. Application. The lesson should be studied and prepared with a view to a two-fold application. a. General—application of the general truths to the whole class. b. Specific—direct application to the needs and conditions of individual scholars, the teacher having prayerfully studied their condition and needs.

6. Review and test. The teacher should not fail to reserve from three to five minutes for a brief looking back over the lesson. This test of the scholars will do much to fix the lesson permanently in their minds.

SEARCH QUESTIONS.

1. What can you say as to the veil of the temple? 2. What was its purpose? 3. What did its rending imply? 4. What remarkable phenomena occurred? 5. How many were resurrected? 6. What proof have we that they were resurrected? 7. What effect did these things have on the centurion and many others? 8. Who were some of Christ's faithful attendants? 9. Where did many of them come from?

The Present Game Law

But few persons understand the law protecting game in this state and the penalties for violating same. The following table gives the open season for all kinds of game, which hunters would do well to preserve for reference. Open dates include first date but not last date given.

Squirrel, June 15 to Sept. 15.
Woodcock, Aug. 1 to Feb. 1.
Duck and goose, Aug. 15 to April 1.

Wild turkey, Sept. 1 to Feb. 1.
Rabbits, Sept. 15 to Nov. 15.
Quail, partridge and pheasant, Nov. 15 to Jan. 1.

No open season for English, Mongolian or Chinese pheasants.
License, non-resident, same as by his state.

Prohibited, sale of bird or fowl killed within state.
Netting and trapping birds is prohibited.

Hunter may be transported with his game.
Penalty for violation, $5 to $50.

Netting, seining, trapping, poisoning or dynamiting fish is prohibited.
Song bird and other insectivorous birds protected the year round.

The Many-Featured Nature of Polar Exploration

By PROF. FRANK WALDO, Ph. d.

POLAR exploration is of scientific value in a number of directions: Geographically, biologically, meteorologically and astronomically. Its geographical value is that which appeals to us in a more direct manner than any of the others. For here is man on this relatively small planet, who, with all his boasted advance in civilization and ingenuity in making artificial machines, has never been able to traverse even the whole surface of our globe; and yet we are most industriously trying not only to solve the life history of our earth, but even the philosophy of the universe.

In view of our boasted abilities and powers it does seem almost ridiculous that we have not yet been able to make a map of the entire earth's surface. It is most desirable to know whether there is land or water surface at the poles, and that we know accurately the boundaries of the land surfaces if such exist, or the depth of the water, if only water is to be found there; not only that we may have a knowledge of the whole land surface of the globe, but also that we may complete the theory of the circulation of the ocean waters.

Biologically, a knowledge of these polar regions is of great importance in that the forms of life have there remained isolated and undisturbed through a long period of time. Also there are probably many purely polar forms of life with which we are not now acquainted, and some of these may throw much additional light on life on the earth and its history.

Meteorologically, a knowledge of the atmospheric conditions and the climate of the polar regions is very important. We do not know whether the great ice caps at the poles are gradually decreasing or remaining stationary, or even increasing in size. It is thought, however, that the polar ice around the south pole is decreasing, since ships are now able to sail where great ice fields blocked the way when the region has been visited in former years.

The poles are the centers of the great hemispherical whirls that give the prevailing west winds to middle latitudes; they are at the centers of great cyclones which remain in action year in and year out. We desire very much to know the direction and force of the air movement at the poles in order to complete our theory of the general atmospheric circulation. It is of extreme interest to know just how cold it is at the poles, and the amount of precipitation there. There is also a feeling of intense curiosity on the part of scientists to know whether any peculiar optical or electrical phenomena will exhibit themselves directly at the poles which may not be observable elsewhere.

We need numerous long-period meteorological observations in the polar regions so that the climatic charts can be made to cover these parts of the earth's surface. Also studies of the earth's magnetism made at and near the poles are much to be desired in connection with the solar and electro-magnetic theories, which are attracting so much interest at the present time.

The astronomical interest in the poles is confined chiefly to the phenomenon attending the rotation of the earth on its axis, and it would certainly be a curious experience to observe the stars moving in their apparent paths always at the same height above the horizon. The poles are also the best place for observing directly the so-called wobbling of the polar axis of the earth, which was detected a few years ago. It would be helpful in the study of variable stars to observe them always at the same altitude; and photographs of the stars made at the poles would possess especial interest.

Future of Socialism in America

By GAYLORD WILSHIRE,
Editor of Wilshire's Magazine.

Superficially the casual observer might come to the conclusion that socialism was practically non-existent in the United States. Especially would he be apt to come to this conclusion if he based his observations upon the number of socialists in the country, and more particularly, perhaps, if upon the number of men in prominent positions socialistically inclined. He will find nothing in America of the outward manifestation of socialism which is seen in the great European countries.

However, socialism is not to be judged in America from the number of prominent men within its ranks, nor by the number of votes it casts, nor by the circulation of its newspapers. The status of socialism in America should be determined by the economic condition of the country. If conditions are favorable to socialism, then if socialism is not present it's purely an accident, and it is only a question of time when it will develop.

The basic demand of socialism is that the worker should have the control and ownership of the means of production himself, inasmuch as when the control of the means of production rests in the hands of a class—the capitalist class—the worker is necessarily at the mercy of that class.

Now, the further removed we are from the possibility of individual ownership of the tools of production through their growth in size, the greater the necessity of a change of system which will put them back into the hands of the worker by means of collective ownership through the state. The greater the necessity of public ownership.

In America, notwithstanding there is not the development of socialism as yet compared with Europe, yet the conditions which make the soil fertile for its growth are much more perfect here than in any other country, and, therefore, there is every reason to say that socialism is sure to soon make its appearance in the United States as the great political power of the nation.

There is no country in which the people generally are so dissatisfied with the existing system as Americans. On the other hand, there is no country in which the organized party of discontent, the party who wishes to make a change, is so weak, comparatively speaking, as is the socialist party in the United States. However, this is all going to be changed the moment there is a let down to our present era of prosperity. The moment there develops an unemployed problem an inevitable result of the approaching crisis is sure to follow the present boom. Let there be any great number of unemployed men, let there be any great number of merchants losing money, of bankers who cannot meet their obligations, then you will see the great sea of discontent which is now overflowing the country lashed into fury by the socialistic hurricane.

Dust-Laden Air of Great Cities Leads to Drink

By CORNELIUS J. HOWARD,
Professor of Chemistry, Technical School, City of Mexico.

THE air of the cities is responsible for a large percentage of the drinking of alcoholic beverages.

In a town where the majority of the paving is of stone there is to be found a larger percentage of the consumption of alcohol per capita.

A town where soft coal is used consumes far more beer and whisky per capital than a town paved with asphalt.

The dust of a city creates a coating on the membranes of the throat and stomach that water does not wash out, or rather creates a condition that water does not ameliorate, and when the palate or the nerves in that membrane are used to the acute taste of alcohol it is the only thing that will satisfy the dry and hot feeling of those parts of the body.

Observations made in regular form show that the consumption of alcohol is 100 per cent. greater among men who work where coal smoke is predominant than among those who do the same amount of physical labor where there is no coal smoke.

Until the time comes when streets and pavements and even the facades of buildings may be washed and flushed by water there is no chance of reducing the volume of disease-breeding dust in the air. There are plenty of experts who advance arguments against the flushing and washing of streets, but it will be one of the greatest helps toward the reduction of individual drinking that will be made in that direction.

The mineral dusts of the city in themselves are not necessarily dangerous, nor do they do any great harm to the nasal organs, but where they are mixed with the more generative vegetable dusts that come from the animals of the streets and from the tons and tons of fine powder of the interstices of buildings, added to the mass of insect-laden mixtures made by the birds that use the cornices, windows and chimneys for homes, they make a mixture that, breathed into the nose, stomach and lungs, is just like that much poison, and it is no wonder that men will seek a drink with alcohol in it without knowing why they should be doing so.

The Married Man Is It

By STITCH MCCARTHY,
New York City Ward Politician and Patron of Sports.

It's the women who give us character so's our men friends ain't afraid to speak out in the open about us if they want to hand us a little hot air, and it's the women who give us the characters that make men tell lies after being seen talking to us.

Women make us hustle because we know if we haven't got the price we'll get talked about, and if they think we're lazy they'll talk about your wife and say: "Poor thing, she has to do all the work."

Women make us see how little we count in the game if we don't do all the things that women think men should do in the day's work.

Women say a lot of things they don't mean, because talk is about the only pastime the most of them have, but when a woman is boosting for your success she tells the truth, and that's why so many fellows say women ain't got any sense because they tell the truth.

Women make you want to get out in the morning and get into action because you don't want to be shy when it comes to setting day, and they make you want to get in at night because most of 'em will do more to make you comfortable than any one else, and the fellow who don't like to be comfortable has something wrong in him.

Since I have been married I have seen some wives that I thought a hard slap on the wrist would do a lot of good to, but no one ever wants to take on the job of doing it, because other women would say you're a brute.

I've had fellows tell me they couldn't get along with their wives if they didn't hand them a slap once in awhile, but I'd rather pay alimony than do that, and I guess, if the truth was known, there's few of us men that don't need a good slap once in awhile ourselves, because it's so easy to get sassy in your own house.

I ain't trying to make rules for married people to live by, and I ain't trying to be wise about it, because every day I get into the fact that I know less about it.

Many folks are unhappy married, and they can't see why anybody should be a tout for the game, but, so far as I am concerned, it's the whole pantry with all the grocery bills paid, and I'm saying that if all the people could be as happy as me and Mrs. Stitch is, the world would be a continuous "laugh-fest," and so many people that try it make a hit of it that I say for one, Get married, for single life is H—L, and here's to Mrs. Stitch. God bless her!

Music as Related to School Studies

By MISS ELIZABETH CASTERTON,
Supervisor of Music, Bay City, Mich.

There is nothing that touches humanity on as many sides—to develop, to intensify and to modify—as music. A proper adjustment of the school curriculum calls for a recognition of the spirit, purposes and interests that music has in common with other branches. A close relationship between music and each of the other branches would enhance the value of both. This correlation should be only such as exists in the very nature of the subjects.

The subjects that offer the most immediate opportunity for correlation are nature study, geography, history (including biography) and literature.

Nature study and music should start hand-in-hand in the kindergarten, and continue throughout the school course. The songs should be planned as the nature work is planned, according to the season, and should relate to the various phenomena of nature as they appear.

In connection with geography or history, what could be more interesting than a few folk or national songs of the country being studied? Side by side with the political history of a country runs collateral music, dealing with the home life, science, ethics, literature, or some one of the many things that go to make up its general education. So a song properly studied should give to the child interest and information in regard to some one of the many features of a nation's life.

TEACHERS INSTITUTE HERE LAST WEEK

INTERESTING SESSION AND MUCH GOOD RESULTS.

Institute was called to order by the county superintendent—J. B. Paris. E. Rutledge Newcom was elected president; E. J. Opening remarks by Rev. Jas. F. Price. In a few well chosen words he advanced the plans for the week's work.

Primary work was presented by Mrs. Fannie Walker. She very practically represented her method by class recitation.

Miss Emma Terry would teach spelling in all the studies—in oral spelling to difficult words in assigning lessons.

Rules for spelling were discussed by Miss Nellie Boston and on the subject of good spelling many valuable suggestions were brought out.

Use of the dictionary in school was strongly set forth by the members of the institute.

Reading was discussed by Miss Mamie Henry. She spoke many good practical thoughts and then was followed by Miss Iva Hicklin on preparation of the lesson. She requires reading lessons to be well prepared.

Ends to be accomplished was fully brought out by J. E. Pilant—No practical value in teaching a child definitions they cannot use.

Sources of failure was fully discussed by Misses Lena Terry and Pearl Waddell.

Tuesday, after prayer and roll call language lessons were discussed by Misses Florence and Carolyn Harris, each giving some splendid methods in teaching language.

Copying and paraphrasing was introduced by Miss Mabel Wilson—language lessons should be taught in connection with other studies.

After recess Grammar was discussed by Miss Maggie Moore from a general standpoint, bringing out some fine methods. Miss Ada Hill thought that the teaching of inflection was one of the most important in teaching grammar.

J. B. McNeely said parsing is naming the parts of speech and its properties. But he thought it was neglected in our schools.

Irbie Terry thought analysis and diagrams should be taught in order to teach the relation of words and sentences.

S. P. Samuels said the ends to be sought is to understand our language. He was followed by Roy Cisco. He said it was important, as it helps us to understand what we read.

Composition by Victor G. Kee. Prof. Kee made quite a talk setting forth language and composition, origin, use and development of language.

Miss Lizzie Morse spoke of the importance of letter writing, neatness of body of letter, heading, closing, etc.

Miss Ethel Hard said we should always find time for miscellaneous work.

School management was thoroughly discussed by C. E. Thomas.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic

has stood the test 25 years. Average Annual Sales over One and a Half Million bottles. Does this record of merit appeal to you? No Cure, No Pay. 50c. Enclosed with every bottle is a Ten Cent package of Grove's Black Root Liver Pills.

Miss Mary Moore says she would teach pupils how to study.

Wednesday C. R. Newcom discussed arithmetic. He strongly advocated teaching primary arithmetic first. Fourth reader grades should be able to study elementary arithmetic.

Neatness in solutions by Miss Bertha Moore. She illustrated her subject by solving an example on the board and thinks we should teach neatness in all our work. C. D. Spence emphasized the importance of neatness in all our school work from the beginning.

Original problems by O. L. Vick. He says that in advance grades we should teach pupils to originate problems for themselves.

Sources of failure—R. C. Moore and Miss Carea Smart. By the instructor—If the foundation is not laid well, if we neglect mental work, if we attempt too much we make a failure. Followed by E. E. Phillips, Miss Lillie Cook and T. F. Newcomb.

W. A. Hayden Fell Asleep In Jesus.

On Monday after noon Oct. 15 the gentle spirit of brother William A. Hayden, of Salem, Ky., took its flight to the land where God wipes away all tears from our eyes, where there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things are passed away. By the reason of his strength he had reached his four score years lacking four days, having been born in Trigg county, Ky., in Oct. 1826. Early in life, he attached himself to the Cumberland Presbyterian church but at the age of thirty three he rejected all human creeds and names and became christian only. He had long been a member of the Masonic Order, and his loyalty to this Order was conspicuous as was loyalty to Christ. His energy was remarkable in that, while he had partially lost the use of his lower limbs he never ceased his labors appurtenant to farm work. He was a genial companion and associate, the writer being refreshed and strengthened by his inmate witticisms and Godly conversations. His christian wife and two sons, Dr. Jno. V. and brother Ock survive him. In his death his good wife has lost a devoted husband, his sons have lost a loving father whose presence not only made home happy but the town of Salem as well.

Upon the loss of such a husband, such a father, such a christian, such a Mason, such a friend. How sweet is the thought, that there is no death. The stars go down, To rise upon some fairer shore, And bright in Heaven's jeweled crown. The writer preached his funeral to a prodigious concourse of those who loved him. And his Masonic brether laid his body in the channel house of the dead in the new cemetery in Salem. Brother Hayden is gone, gone from the glories of this life, to the crowning glories of eternity, gone from his Eldership in the church militant to the church triumphant, but his memory will continue to live in the hearts of the people who loved him so well. Peace be unto his sleeping ashes. His devoted pastor, J. SHEELY ROWE.

This District Is Progressing.

production of spar, though in the latter part of 1905 and during the present year some notable finds of rich lead ore have been made. On account of some of the more important of the zinc producing mines being idle, or not producing because of all work being directed to development, the production of zinc ore for 1905 fell off, being only 404 tons as against 959 tons for 1904.

Contrary to opinions which prevailed until within very recent years there is a large amount of barite in the Western district, some of it of the best grade and some of it named by small percentages of fluor spar associated with it. No barite was shipped in 1905 and no shipments have been reported for the present year. A feature of the explorations of the past year, however, was the finding of an especially large deposit of the mineral at the commercial shaft, where the vein appears to be 20 feet wide. A small quantity of calcite, of which there are large quantities of high excellence in the district (in veins or as bands 3 to 12 feet wide), was shipped in 1905 for fluxing. The value of workable deposits of pure calcite is growing in consequence of the increasing demand for fluxing, for Portland cement, for high grade lime for use in the manufacture of wood alcohol, etc.

During the present year there has been great increase in developments in the district, accompanied by new discoveries, the results of which indicate a considerable increase of output for the year and emphasize the importance of the district as a permanent producer not only of fluor spar but of lead and zinc. In the course of his work during the present season Mr. Fohs has discovered fluor spar with a little galena and zinc in Christian county, the first time that that mineral has been found there, though many finds of calcite (erroneously identified as fluor spar) have been reported. One of the most interesting features of the surveys work during the present year is the verification of the probable occurrence of deposits carrying cobalt and nickel. This is a matter still under investigation and we are not ready to speak definitely concerning it.

"WOMAN"

"WOMAN" is the name of a new magazine for women. The first number is just issued. Your newsdealer has it. You can get it from him, and it's worth your while getting it. There is nothing startling about this magazine. There should be nothing startling about a decent magazine for women and the home. But this particular magazine is unique among all the so-called publications for women. You might not like it a little bit, and then, again, it might hit your fancy good and hard.

If you like fiction—good, wide-awake, snappy stories—both serials and short stories—you will like "Woman." In fact, fiction is the big feature of the magazine.

All the other magazine for women are cast on the same model—a little bit of fiction, a few articles, more or less chit chat, some wise advice, a fashion department and a smattering of general miscellany. "WOMAN" doesn't look any more like this conventional model than a yellow dog looks like a race horse. It is built on new lines for a strictly woman's publication. To know what it is like you will have to get a copy of it. It would cost too much to tell you all about it in this advertisement.

The price of "WOMAN" is TEN CENTS A COPY, and the magazine is a big one—192 pages.

By the way, two rattling good serial stories begin in this first number and it contains a big lot of other good things. You would do well to ask your dealer for it before his supply is exhausted.
