Hicklin Bros.' Message to Young Girls for Christmas Thought

The harvest, and the year's work is nearly over, and the crops are not yet in the hands of those who will take care of them. Three lines to the farther end of the season and an end is at hand, which the clouds and the stars and the sky will all be looking for.

Nellie Lenox, Tom's little daughter, will now be a thing of the past. Her playmates, the little girls and boys of the neighborhood, said good-by to her last Saturday. E. B. Hepworth, of the Crescent Court, called her "the little one who never said anything," and thought she was the "sweetest little thing." The little girl, whose name was Grace, lived with her parents in the Crescent Court, and was very fond of her playmates. She was always smiling and laughing, and made all her friends happy. She was very good and always helped her mother in the housework.

Shady Grove

Our little girl of Shady Grove, Grace Hepworth, is very much improved in health. She has been out of bed for a week and is now able to walk about the house. She is very happy and並且 has begun to talk again.

Encourage the Berry Growers

Editor Farmer's Home Journal:

In reading your paper the other day, I was surprised to find that the Berry growers will organize in Kentucky, and I wish to state that while I have been growing berries and have obtained some experience and have been interested in the business, and have seen and heard a great deal more about the subject, and have been informed that the Berry growers will organize in Kentucky, that I do not know of any group of men in this State that are enthusiastic in their support of the same. In fact, I believe that the Berry growers are very few in this State, and I think that it is a good thing for them to organize, and I hope that they will be successful in their efforts.

Herman Wauhauk of Okon: A Belgian immigrant to the United States, has been living in Okon, N.Y., for the last ten years, and he is now engaged in the trade of blacksmithing. He has a fine workshop and is well equipped with all the necessary tools and machinery. He has been blacksmithing for the last ten years, and is now in the business. He is a fine example of what can be done in the blacksmithing trade.

The Blacksmith is an important part of the trade, and it is to be hoped that the Berry growers will take the lead in organizing and in promoting the interests of the trade.

DONT JIKE IN ENGLAND.

Warning in the Face of a Paragraph: "Big Ben." —

The worst of the anarchists is the person who has the best of the press. A man who has the best of the press is a man who has the best of the trade. This is a great principle, and it is the principle of the trade. The worst of the anarchs is the person who has the best of the trade. This is a great principle, and it is the principle of the trade. The worst of the anarchists is the person who has the best of the trade. This is a great principle, and it is the principle of the trade.

Herman Wauhauk of Okon.

I read with great interest the letter from Mr. Wauhauk, and I congratulate him on his success.

During my stay in Okon, I have had the opportunity of meeting many of the leading men in the trade, and I am glad to know that he is one of them. He is a fine example of what can be done in the blacksmithing trade.

The Berry growers are very few in this State, and I think that it is a good thing for them to organize, and I hope that they will be successful in their efforts.

Soldier's Letter

Dear sir and madam: I bought you a pair of boots at your store, and I am writing to tell you that they are the best boots I ever had. The soles are very strong, and the shoes are very comfortable. I have worn them for two years, and they have held up very well.

I think that it is a good thing for you to make these boots, and I hope that you will be successful in your efforts.

Yours truly,

J. W. WATSON,

Army Post, Montana.
