JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES

Springs Sensation by Asking Bryan to Name Roosevelt.

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 10.—A sensational feature of the banquet given here to-night by the Bryan Anniversary Club, at which William J. Bryan was the guest of honor, was the letter and subsequent speech of John Temple Graves, editor of the Atlanta Georgian, who, in his letter, refused to speak because the toastmaster asked him not to talk about his suggestion that Bryan should nominate Roosevelt for re-election. Later Mr. Graves was induced to go to the banquet hall and deliver his speech. Mr. Graves in his letter said:

"Hon. F. A. Hood, President Bryan Anniversary Club, Chattanooga, Tenn.—Dear Sir: I came to Chattanooga, yielding to no one in my profound and affectionate regard for Mr. Bryan and for the Democratic party and its principles.

"In the course of my speech I tried to make that plain in so warm and glowing sentences as my heart could fashion. I am profoundly convinced that in this period of tremendous economic crisis the only man who can carry to successful conclusion the reform instituted in behalf of the people is the man who is already entrenched in the power and prestige of dauntless courage and a conspicuous success in the executive office.

"I have endeavored in my speech to give my convictions, and these convictions are so earnest and sincere that I cannot change them unless better reasons are given than have been presented to me up to the present time.

"My reason for stating this conviction at a Bryan banquet with Mr. Bryan present, was because I considered it the manly and Democratic thing to do.

"The time to voice a sentiment so momentous to the life, to the prosperity and to the realization of best ideals of a Democracy, is in a council of the faithful and in the full presence of our great and shining leader who would be there to comment, to approve or to condemn with the full force of his influence and eloquence, as he might see fit.

"If I had made this speech in the North and with a mixed audience present it would have carried a suggestion of truckling or the appearance of seeking favors where the other party was stronger than my own.

"It appeared to me that the only fair and honest thing to do was to speak my convictions in full council and with open voice. In this belief my speech, upon the request of the Associated Press has already been sent out to the newspapers of the country.

"I have not one particle of dogmatism, nor any more pride of personal opinion in pressing this matter, but the publicity already given to my speech commits me to it so far that I cannot in courage or in consistency suppress that part of my speech around which the whole revolves.

"I recognize the full right of the committee, when they have secured from unreleased copies of my speech the trend of my remarks, to express approval or disapproval of the utterance, and since I, on the request of the committee to-night must yield full obedience to their wishes in the matter. It is my misfortune to have misconstrued the occasion as to find a Bryan ratification meeting where I came to attend a free and serious party deliberation.

"There seems nothing left me than, save to withhold the speech from the Bryan banquet, although I cannot consistently ask the newspapers to which it has already been given, to refrain from such use as they may see fit to make of it.

"Of course, this was only an individual conviction submitted to judgment of my party. I do not need to say if Mr. Bryan shall be nominated in the wisdom of the Democratic party as our next candidate for President, that I shall give him my whole-hearted and unqualified, enthusiastic support.

"I thank the committee most cordially for the courtesy of their invitation and regretting to find myself in variance with that portion of the club who have charge of the programme, I most sincerely wish them a joyous evening and a profitable discussion of the great issues of importance to the party and people.

Very sincerely,

JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES.

Later Mr. Graves was persuaded to take his place at the banquet table and spoke in part as follows:

The times may change, and men may change as well, before the campaign of 1908 begins. But if the conditions then are as they are to-day—if Roosevelt rides the storm that is brewing in the realm of corporate capital, then our way seems open and our duty clear.

Speaking here deliberately for myself, and, in my fair judgment, of the great majority of the plain and honest Democrats of the Empire Southern State, from which I came, I believe that we should put the party below the people, the principle above the man. We should rebuke the spirit of spoils and the hunger of faction. We should affirm our principles, confess our faith, recite the necessity of the reform of corporate capital as the supreme and transcendent issues of the times, pay tribute to the great and typical American who has proved himself the dauntless and conquering captain of the people's cause, and then and there in that great convention of our own, William J. Bryan, the one unmatched and incomparable evangel of our faith, speaking for a pure Democracy, and speaking for the whole plain people of this republic, should put in nomination Theodore Roosevelt for one more undisputed term of power to finish the work that he has so gloriously begun.

It would give this great country of ours one millennial period in which factions and partisans should be still, and the spirit of representative government should be given a new birth and a new consecration to its great ideals—to the glory of the people and the admiration of the world.

And when this people had won their majestic and enduring victory in the great and transcendent economic problem of the times, then, at its conclusion, parties, which are always necessary and always helpful in a republic's life, might separate once more into their separate camps behind real shibboleths, in which every line of sectionalism should be buried, every bogie of foggyism and of graft should be obliterated, and in which men who have followed for twenty years in slavish loyalty of faction behind platforms which they did not indorse and leaders in which they did not believe—might align themselves once more and honestly behind theories of government which carried their sincere convictions and enlisted their intelligence and their noble zeal.

It would mean a new birth for parties and a new start for the republic, in mission and in history.

Mr. Chairman, I submit in high and representative honesty this proposition, which seems to be radical, but which I know to be right. I have never been more loyal to the life and fortunes of the great Nebraska who is our honored guest to-night I have never been a better and a truer Democrat than when I suggest this sacrifice which will make our peace with history and establish the prosperity of the people. Bury me if you will with partisan scorn to-night, but think of me to-morrow with that high and patriotic conscience which lifts the patriot above the partisan and blends the immortal principle with the real welfare of the people.

The Democratic party fronts to-day an opportunity which comes not often in human history to glorify its principles and to perpetuate its usefulness among men.

May God and the better angels of our history help us to the patriot's policy and the people's weal.—Courier Journal.

Mrs. J. W. Branson Dead.

Mrs. Nora Belle Howerton Branson, wife of J. W. Branson, of Mattoon vicinity, died Wednesday, April 10, of consumption after a lingering illness of twelve months duration. She contracted malarial in Southeast Missouri last year and soon after her return here to her old homestead was a victim of gripple which settled on her lungs, and after that she continued to decline.

She was born Jan. 30, 1875 and was the daughter of Richard L. Howerton, a well known citizen of the county. She was married to J. W. Branson, who survives her, in 1893 and leaves five children. Her surviving sisters are Miss Kittie Howerton and Mrs. Una Shewmaker, and brothers are James, Charles, Fred, John, Coleman and Brownie.

She was a Christian since childhood, being a member of the Repton Baptist church. The interment took place Thursday at the Repton cemetery Rev. U. G. Hughes officiating.

Mrs. Mary Grasty Dead.

A telegram received in the city Monday morning contained the news of the death of Mrs. Mary Grasty, mother of Mrs. R. C. Love, of this city, who has been at her bedside the past week.

Mrs. Grasty has made her home recently with her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Darwin, at Evansville, Tenn., but for many years resided near "Hillman's Rolling Mill" in Lyon county and later at Cadiz, where with her daughters she kept one of the best hotels in Western Kentucky.

Mrs. Grasty was a noble Christian character and was much beloved and respected by all with whom she came in contact. She was seventy-eight years of age. By her request her remains were brought to Eddyville yesterday and were laid to rest at the old family burying ground.

CHAS. M'MICAN KILLED

Was Shot and Mortally Wounded by Louis Sliger, Saturday.

A most distressing tragedy occurred at the home of James Kirk in the Colon vicinity last Saturday afternoon at five o'clock, in which Louis Sliger was shot and in turn shot and mortally wounded Charles M'Mican, of the same vicinity.

The full particulars are not obtainable, but will all be brought out at the examining trial next Friday, Apr. 26, and will be published in full. Some of the incidents immediately preceding and following the killing are as follows:

Sliger had gone to Kirk's house to see him about the purchase of some hogs, and as Kirk was in Tolu he awaited his return. When he did return M'Mican was with him and carried a shot gun, which he proceeded to empty at Sliger, who carrying a Colts revolver, emptied it at his antagonist. One of the bullets from Sliger's pistol struck M'Mican's horse and another struck the rider in the abdomen penetrating to the backbone. He walked home three hundred yards, but realized he had received his death wound and so informed his family. Dr. Clement was hastily summoned from Tolu, but gave the dying man's family no encouragement after examining the wound.

Sliger was struck in the head by one of the shots from M'Mican's gun but his wound while painful is not dangerous.

M'Mican leaves a wife and four children. He has been married three times, his first wife being Richard Gass' daughter. His second Jas. Cleghorn's daughter. His present wife was Miss Sallie Fry before her marriage. M'Mican was only thirty years of age and was a brother of Henry M'Mican, a well-known citizen of this county.

The unfortunate affair is deplored by every one as both men have many friends and stood well in their respective neighborhoods where known.

Mr. Sliger has employed Hon. A. C. Moore to defend him. He surrendered Sunday and was put under $1000 bond, which was increased to $2500 after M'Mican's death which occurred Monday morning at ten o'clock.

The interment took place Tuesday at the family burying ground on the Fords Ferry road near Crooked Creek and was attended by one of the largest crowds ever seen at a funeral in the country. Rev. E. B. Blackburn officiated.

SENATOR BLACKBURN SAILS

New Canal Commissioner took Kentucky
Horse on Isthmian Trip.

Washington D. C. April 17.—Senator Blackburn, who has received his commission as a member of the Panama Canal Commission, sailed for the Isthmus on April 7th, accompanied by his family. Included in the family was Mrs. Blackburn, her sister, Mrs. Kitch, and the Senator's granddaughter, little Teresa Lane. The Blackburns will reside at Ancon, which city over-looks the Pacific ocean. But the Senator will have to be here a great portion of the time during the session of congress, as a part of his duties will be to represent the Secretary of War in hearings before committees of Congress considering proposed canal legislation. Senator Blackburn will have direct charge of all matters relating to relations of the Canal Zone with adjacent republics, and also, as far as possible, represent the commission before the public in this country, delivering frequent addresses on public occasions in various parts of the country.

Senator Blackburn took his riding horse to the Isthmus, but left the rest of his stable in Kentucky.

Mrs. Woodson's Burial.

The interment of Mrs. Maggie Franklin Woodson, the young wife of George Woodson, took place at Rosebud church ten miles East of Marion Thursday morning. There was no funeral service at the grave, this being deferred, as many members of the family were unable to attend, a song and prayer by the pastor, Rev. R. C. Love, being the only observance. Besides her husband and two little girls, May eight years and Georgia four years of age. She is survived by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Ben Franklin, four sisters, Madames Geo. Dray, F. E. Davis, of Miss. Frank Martin, of Union county, and Miss Atha Franklin also two brothers, Jr. and James.

She was born Feb. 22nd, 1881, was married in 1893 and was a consistent christian woman much beloved by all who knew her.

Monday morning Mr. Rubie Holder and Miss Pearl Hornback, of Dyeusburg vicinity, came up and were married at the court house by Rev. E. B. Blackburn.

They were accompanied by another couple also from Dyeusburg. Mad-dame rumor soon spread the news on the street, and by the time the licensed could be issued, quite a good crowd had gathered to witness the marriage.

NOTICE OF CHAMBLEE

The Kentucky Breeding Bureau recently sent to H. F. Green at Salem, Livingston county the thoroughbred stallion Chamblee, whose service will be donated to the people of this section.

The Bureau was organized several weeks ago in order to help improve the general class of horse stock of the state. To that end it is purchasing thoroughbred stallions of such size, conformation and temperament as will produce excellent general purpose horses when bred to common farm mares of these sections to which they are sent. So far as the Bureau is concerned, the services of these stallions is donated free to the people of the state as the Bureau receives no monetary return directly or indirectly from them.

A service fee of ten dollars ($10.00) is charged which goes in full to the man in whose care the stallions are placed in all sections of Kentucky from Ballard, McCracken, and Livingston counties in the west, to Carter, Powell, and Morgan counties, in the east, from Owen, Breckinridge and Henderson counties in the north, to Trigg, Warren, Russell, Clinton, Metcalf, Laurel and Simpson counties in the south.

Chamblee is a seven-year-old chestnut horse by imported Charaxus-Cantey by Eolus, second dam Calash by imported Phaeton, third dam Blandine by Lexington. He was bought by a representative of the Kentucky Breeding Bureau who went to New Orleans and selected him as one of the three best horses to be found at either track there for the purposes of the Bureau. He is a splendid individual, fine type, fine size, plenty of bone and substance, and yet with all that quality which is so notably a part of the thorough-

FUNERAL OF COLMESNEIL

Wednesday Afternoon Was Attended by Many Prominent Railroad Men—Flowers in Abundance.

It seemed to me there were flowers from everywhere, fashioned into beautiful designs. In point of fact these loving expressions of sympathy and tenderness came, in the main, from Will's railroad friends who reside in Evansville. Flowers, the rarest of flowers, the greatest abundance of flowers were mute witnesses to the sorrow of Will Colmesneil's friends. To form a true estimate of a man's character learn what that man's daily associates think of him. At the funeral were a goodly number of high railroad officials, superintendents, general passenger agents, general freight agents and conductors and engineers, most of whom were past the meridian line, rugged, practical business men, whose features were softened and refined and humbled by the sorrow they felt. I give the names of some, not all, of the railroad men who mourned for Will Colmesneil on yesterday: Edgar James, Leo Hurd, E. H. Mann, Henry J. Clarke, H. G. Nelson, Ed Dyer, W. D. Bell, S. A. Cherry, T. S. Shaw, M. J. Kierce and Messrs. W. L. Smith, W. E. Downing, Converse, H. J. Shoeing and Walsh and other railroad men whose names I failed to get. These men of affairs, these keen readers of human nature, had known Will Colmesneil for years and their friendship for him was strong and durable as his friendship was for them. The reciprocal friendship of one true man for another. And there were yet other mourners there whose faces were strange to Will's Kentucky friends, a host of whom, his Kentucky friends I mean, shared the sorrows of the Indiana mourners.

Will Colmesneil's father, John De Colmesneil, came from France and settled in Bullitt county about twenty miles from Louisville. He was of a distinguished family and was highly educated and accomplished. He married Courtney Taylor, a daughter of Major Edmund Taylor, of Jefferson county, whose wife was a Thurston. From this union the subject of this sketch was born fifty-eight years ago. All of which being known it is quite easy to account for the virile traits and attractive, lovable characteristics of the deceased—heredity.

Will Colmesneil's two sons, noble boys I learn, should be inspired by a knowledge of their honored ancestors, for the mother of these bright boys was a daughter of that same old pioneer stock—the historic Taylor family of Virginia and Kentucky. This is neither a report or an obituary. Simply the sad jottings made by a friend of Will Colmesneil on returning from the funeral—while yet the voices of preachers and choir is haunting his ears. J. Big Sensation Over Lost Child.

There has not been a more sensational excitement in Vine Grove in a long time than occurred there late Saturday evening, when a little girl about five or six years of age got lost and wandered six or seven miles over the surrounding country.

The little girl is the daughter of Mr. Cumberland Brown, who resides just over in Meade county. She had come to town with her brother, Albert Brown, who after making his purchases left her and went to hitch up his wagon. While he was gone the little girl seeing a mule team going out of town thought he had gone and left her and started for home afoot. After wandering through fields and woods and across a creek, running from those who called to her as she passed, the little one came up to the door of Mr. Will Hall and knocked for admittance. The only information she gave them was that she was "Mamma's girl," and after eating supper played contentedly with the children. Mr. Hall telephoned to Vine Grove and found out that the whole town was out with lanterns in search of the little girl, who had been roving over the country from 5 o'clock until after midnight. There was much excitement during the search. Elizabethtown News.

Robbie Marion Steele, who met death by drowning in the Cumberland river at Kuttawa Friday evening March 15th, 1907. He was born Dec. 23 1884. Was a son of Geo. Y. Steele, of Dycusburg, his mother having died when he was a mere child, leaving the father the entire care of his motherless children, of which Robbie was the second, I will say that rarely such devotion have I ever seen in a father, and this sad affliction falls heavily upon him. Robbie and his little brother, Percy, and his sisters, Mayme, Nellie and Una dearly loved each other. And the young heart-broken wife, of only five weeks, is prostrated with grief. I will say to her look up from the dark and turbulent waters, where the body of her loved husband lies, and know that his soul is with God, and his sainted mother and feel this death makes Heaven nearer and clearer—yes and dearer, and when a few more fleeting years have past, he'll meet you at Heaven's gates and lead you on. He was truthful, obedient and courteous to all, and these are good qualities loyal and true, ever trusting, modest and sincere in every act of his short life. He has passed from this earth to those great rewards which our father in Heaven ever bestows upon the just and good in the face of death. We can only bow heads in reverence and say "Thy will be done" may the God of all grace place his ever-lasting arm around this bereaved family, and finally bring them again into the companionship of the loved and gone before.

have a torpid liver when Herbine, the only liver regulator will help you? There is no reason why you should suffer from Dyspepsia, Constipation, Chills and Fever or any liver complaints when Herbine will cure you. F. C. Worth Knowing About

If you need a first-class laxative, there's nothing better nor safer than that old family remedy, Brandreth's Pills. Each pill contains one grain of solid extract of sarsaparilla, which with other valuable vegetable products make it a blood purifier of excellent character. If you are troubled with constipation, one pill at night will afford great relief. Brandreth's Pills are the same fine laxative pill your grandparents used. They have been used over a century and are sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar-coated.

The News—No Pure Drug Cough Cure Laws would be needed, if all Cough Cures were like Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure is—and has been for 20 years. The National Law now requires that if any poisons enter into a cough mixture, it must be printed on the label or package.

For this reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and see. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Simply refuse to accept any other. Sold by Haynes & Taylor.

Rev. Hummel, of Princeton, filed his regular appointment at the Methodist church here Sunday.

Mrs. Sam Young and daughter, Miss Sudie, have pneumonia fever, but is some better at present.

For the Children

To succeed these days you must have plenty of grit, courage, strength. How is it with the children? Are they thin, pale, delicate? Do not forget Ayer's Sarsaparilla. You know it makes the blood pure and rich, and builds up the general health in every way.

The children cannot possibly have good health unless the bowels are in proper condition. A sluggish liver gives a coated tongue, bad breath, constipated bowels. Correct all these by giving small laxative doses of Ayer's Pills. All vegetable, sugar coated.

Made by J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Also manufacturers of HAIR VIGOR, AGUE CURE, CHERRY PECTORAL.

His Dear Old Mother

"My dear old mother, who is now eighty three years old thrives on Electric Bitters," writes W. B. Brunson, of Dublin, Ga. "She has taken them for about two years and enjoys an excellent appetite, feels strong and sleeps well." That's the way Electric Bitters affect the aged, and the same happy results follow in all cases of female weakness and general debility. Weak, puny children too, are greatly strengthened by them. Guaranteed also for stomach, liver and kidney troubles. by J. H. Orme druggist. 50 cents.

Anniversary

On the 29th day of March, 1907. H. B. Stembbridge celebrated his seventy-second birth day, at his home near Iron Hill. He prepared a sumptuous feast for his children and friends, but being an unfavorable day, there was only a few present, but they enjoyed them selves.

Uncle Henry Stembbridge, as he is commonly known, is the father of thirteen children, and twelve is still living, and he is an old Baptist in faith and practice and a democrat politically. He is loved and respected by all of his acquaintances. And we hope he may be spared to celebrate several more birth days, if it is the will of the Creator of all things.

In Memoriam.

Mrs. Mary E. Jacobs, wife of Green Jacobs, died at their home near Chapel Hill, April 1st, 1907. Her funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. A. J. Thomson, assisted by Rev. Oakley at one o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the church at Chapel Hill, in the presence of a large congregation. At the close of the service her remains were laid to rest in a specially prepared vault in the cemetery near the church, and by the side of her mother who died several years ago.

Sister Jacobs was born near Lily Dale Mar. 11th, 1861, and was forty six years and twenty-one days old, at the time of her death. She professed religion when quite young, and united with the church at Piney Fork. Several years ago she was transferred by letter to Chapel Hill church, and was a devoted member of that church until God called her to go up higher.

She was married to Green Jacobs Feb. 11th, 1886. Three children were born to them, Everett, Homer and Glee, these and her husband are left to mourn her loss. Sister Jacobs suffered with a spell of la grippe about a year ago, from which she never recovered, the dreaded disease consumption, followed. For a year she has been a great sufferer, but all her sufferings have been borne with a trusting submission to the will of God.

Her pastor who saw her often during her sickness, is glad to bear witness to her patient, sweet Christian spirit.

As the time drew near for her to cross over the river, she told her pastor that her way was clear and bright, and that she was going to her God without a doubt or a fear, and when the end came, like a child she quietly and sweetly fell asleep in Jesus. The scriptures read at her funeral were Psalm 23:1-4, 1 Cor. 15:51-52, 1 Thess. 4:13-18. Text 1 Cor. 15:53.

Sister Jacobs was a woman greatly loved by her kindred, neighbors and friends. She was a good daughter, a faithful wife and a loving and devoted mother, never was a mother more devoted to her children than she to her three boys, she loved her friends, and loved to entertain them in her home, she loved God and her church and pastor. She was a striking example of the scriptural injunction "Be thou faithful until death." Now she has met her savior and received her crown of life. The pastor prays God's blessings upon the bereaved husband and motherless boys, and her father and brothers, and may God's grace keep us all and bring us safe at home at last.

HIS SATANIC MAJESTY
CURIOUS OLD LEGENDS CONCERNING THE EVIL SPIRIT.

In Popular Folklore the Prince of Tempters is constantly Outwitted, and Facts With Him Are Broken by the Simplest Expedients.

There is a curious legend of the devil making his confession in Cologne cathedral. He professes to repent his crimes and to be willing to endure a thousand years of penance. "My son," says the priest, "all you need is to bow before the image of the Crucified and ask him for pardon."

"What!" cries the devil. "He who swept up the chips for Joseph, he who hung on a gallows?" And he turned on his heel, with a curse.

In popular legend and folklore the devil is outwitted constantly, contracts made with him are broken, and he is again and again deceived by the simplest expedients as substituting a lantern for the sunrise. This, if I remember rightly, occurs in the legend of the Devil's Dike at Brighton. As a child terrified by a very different Satan I remember the light brought to my own spirit by some story of the kind. The expedient in this case was cutting the sole out of the shoe which the devil had to fill with silver. The shoe was never filled, and so he could never claim his part of the bargain. I remember feeling a thrill of relief at seeing that it was possible to evade and elude him after all.

There is an Icelandic legend which is possibly the origin of the proverb, "The devil take the hindmost." He had agreed to instruct seven scholars in all the mysteries of magic for no other reward than that when their seven years' apprenticeship was over he should have as his thrall the last to leave for the last time by the single narrow door. On that fatal day the last to leave literally escaped him—eluded him by slipping out of his cloak, which the devil had grasped. He became a most worthy parish priest, venerated all over the island. As the iron door slammed to it crushed his heel.

The devil is constantly represented in tradition and folk tales as childish, grotesque, spiteful. With his bellows he tries to put out St. Genevieve's candle as she carries it alight through rain and wind to church. A very well known legend is that of St. Dunstan, who, when attacked by him while busy at the forge, brought the conflict to an end by seizing the adversary with the red-hot tongs. This incident was the most popular pageant provided by the goldsmiths on lord mayor's day, when the mayor happened to be elected from their company.

The lion and the dragon are the animals typical of the devil. It is said that the ancient idea of the animosity between the lion and the cock is the origin of the placing of the weathercock upon the steeple. "In nocte dum concinat leo perturbatur," and the idea was to terrify Satan by the sight of the enemy on the highest point of the sacred building. The dragon was the symbol of the powers of darkness everywhere. In many of the stories of saints delivering a countryside from a devouring dragon the dragon obviously represents paganism destroyed by the labors of the Christian apostle. Up to the French revolution a prisoner was set free at Rouen every year on Ascension day in commemoration of the deliverance of the people from a dragon by St. Romain. In Provence St. Martha bound a monster called the tarasque with her girdle so that the people could slay him "with swords and knives," hence the name Tarascon. In Spain a monster snake, called la tarasca, is dragged in the Corpus Christi processions to signify Christ's triumph over death and hell. By the way, the Elizabethan injunctions decreed that in the rogation-tide processions "there should be neither George nor Margaret, but the old dragon to come on alone and show himself."

He was believed to have special power over the air, to be continually stirring up thunderstorms and tempests of wind and hail; hence the ringing of the bells during thunderstorms to frighten the evil spirits away. It was by the help of Satan that Simon Magus, according to the early Christian legend, floated in the air till com-manded by St. Peter to descend. It is significant that Leonardo da Vinci, the typical figure of the renaissance, spent many years of his life in the endeavor to invent a flying machine. The opposition he met with from the clergy and devout people was intense. It is indeed difficult to imagine a more concrete symbol of all that is most opposed to what has been known historically as the Christian spirit than a flying machine. It must have seemed a partaking of Lucifer's daring presumption, to be speedily followed by a similar fall.—National Review.

Modern Luxurious Living.

The fact is, the laborer of today has luxuries that neither Queen Elizabeth nor King George of our great-grand-fathers' time ever dreamed of—daily mail, telephone, street cars, electricity for domestic purposes, homes well lighted, well plumbed and well heated, to say nothing of the thousand and one articles that we daily use and do not regard as luxuries—for example, matches. Nowadays contagious diseases do not devastate our cities, because state and municipal laws unite to enforce protective sanitation. Never were homes so clean and well cared for as by the housekeepers of today.—Syracuse Journal.

GRAFT IN ENGLAND.

Perhaps Not So Great In Extent as Here, but Yet Well Started.

The Operation of Public Utilities by Public Officials Has Placed Them Under Such Temptations as They Have Never Before Known—Why They Are Not Exposed.

There is nothing about the visiting American in England more amusing to the native than the American's conviction that there is no graft in English municipal politics.

Frederick C. Howe, the magazineist who writes so much in praise of municipal ownership, the British form of socialism, admits that there is graft in England, but says it is all practiced by the lords and millionaires. No graft, he declares, has crept in through the municipal ownership and operation of public utilities.

"Graft in England may not be of such magnitude as in the United States," said an Englishman who is well known in public life, but is neither a lord nor a millionaire. "But it exists here as certainly as it does in America. It is carried on along similar lines, and, fostered by the opportunities which the rising tide of municipal trading affords, it is rapidly growing in magnitude. It is owing to our overstrict libel laws and to the fact that immunity may not be granted under English law to one who confesses to accepting a bribe that the corruption now so well known to exist in our municipal governments has not been effectively exposed long ago."

The newspapers know all about it, and they know who are the grafters, but they do not dare to expose the situation, and until the proper statutes are enacted it will be almost impossible to punish grafters through the courts.

"Not so very long ago a certain speech was reported in one of the London newspapers. The speechmaker was indignant, for neither the subject matter of the speech nor the circumstances under which it was delivered were creditable to him, and he brought a suit for damages on the ground that the libel laws had been violated. It was not claimed that the speech was incorrectly reported; indeed, it was admitted that the report was substantially without error, yet nevertheless heavy damages were awarded to the plaintiff on the grounds that the plaintiff's reputation had been injured and that the publication of the report was of benefit to the public."

"A little longer ago it was suspected that members of the council of London borough of Poplar had been accepting bribes from contractors who were furnishing materials and supplies. Detectives were put upon the case, and the facts were run down. Certain of the contractors and councilmen, confronted with those facts, confessed and promised to go upon the stand in court and testify to the truth. In due time one of the guilty men took the stand as promised and told the story as agreed."

"He was immediately arrested as a criminal under the law as its stands and slated for an early trial. This chilled the enthusiasm of the others who had promised to confess, and they changed their minds promptly and irrevocably. As the prosecution was thus left without witnesses, the investigation was brought to an abrupt close."

"Now, the installation and operation of tramways, electric light works, gas works, etc., involves the letting of many large contracts by men who hold places in the municipal councils, not because they are fitted by training and experience to let such contracts, but because they have succeeded through petty politics in getting elected. They receive no pay for their services and in many cases are men without financial resources of any consequence."

"There are contractors in England as well as in America who are not above getting contracts through bribery, and there are council members of the grade I have mentioned who are no more able to resist the temptation to be bribed in England than they would be in America. If it would not sound unpatriotic, I might go so far as to say that since municipal trading has so increased the magnitude of municipal contracts Englishmen in many cities have been known to seek election to the councils in order to have the chance to be bribed."

"We could today make exposures of graft in London and more than one other English city that would startle American readers even, accustomed as they are to reading graft stories, if we could only give immunity to whoever might be either scared or reasoned into confessing the truth. In other words, municipal ownership and operation of public utilities in England are rapidly honeycombing all our municipal governments with graft."

"The law makes an exception with regard to election bribery charges, and immunity may lawfully be promised to those whose testimony is needed to convict the guilty. This has enabled us to unearth many election irregularities, as the readers of English newspapers know very well, and eventually we are going to be able to unearth the facts with regard to bribery and jobbery in English municipal administration. We are well aware, however, that it will probably be quite as difficult to job as it was thirty odd years ago in America to unearth the frauds perpetrated by New York's notorious Tweed ring."

Nothing has yet been discovered that thoroughly takes the place of the stimulus of profit in carrying on any business establishment.—Exchange.

To find out for a certainty whether or not your heart is affected. One person in four has a weak heart; it may be you. If so, you should know it now, and save serious consequences. If you have short breath, fluttering, palpitation, hungry spells, hot flushes; if you cannot lie on left side; if you have fainting or smothering spells, pain around heart, in side and arms, your heart is weak, and perhaps diseased. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure will relieve you. Try a bottle, and see how quickly your condition will improve.

"About a year ago I wrote to the Miles Medical Co., asking advice, as I was suffering with heart trouble, and had been for two years. I had pain in my heart, back and left side, and had not been able to draw a deep breath for two years. Any little exertion would cause palpitation, and I could not lie on my left side without suffering. They advised me to try Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nerve, which I did with the result that I am in better health than I ever was before, having gained 14 pounds since I commenced taking it. I took about thirteen bottles of the two medicines, and haven't been bothered with my heart since."

CRIDER & WOODS

FIRM IN HIS PATRIOTISM.

With Usual Boast American Greeted Resurrection Day.

When a patriotic young American made his first trip abroad from Boston he took in Paris, of course, and his friends there in the American colony—and he had many—saw that he "had a good time." They showed him the sights, took him to the Louvre, Luxembourg, Eiffel tower, etc., etc., but nothing could astonish him or excite more than a very moderate admiration. His usual comment before paintings, statuary, etc., was "Er, well, that's pretty good, but America's ahead of the world."

This became monotonous at last, and his friends resolved to stop it, if possible. They therefore gave him a dinner, and put a mild soporific in his wine, and after it had produced the desired effect they got him into a flaccid and took him to one of the underground Paris crypts, where the skeletons and bones have accumulated for centuries, and are arranged in niches in the walls; coffins are lying about, some of them empty. He was laid in one of them; a single candle was left burning, and his friends concealed themselves to await results.

In course of time the sleeper awoke, stretched, and sat up in his coffin, looking around him in some bewilderment at first. While gazing around he said at last in a meditative tone: "H'm—Resurrection morning—I'm the first one up," then he leaped from the coffin, and waving his arm shouted "America ahead of the world!" His friends thereafter abandoned him as incurable.

WHEN THE REINDEER BALKS.

Occupants of Sledge Take Refuge Beneath Vehicle.

The little incident depicted in this arctic scene is quite a common one in that part of Russia, Norway and Sweden that is known as Lapland, says London Answers. It is quite amusing, provided you are not too intimately concerned with it.

In driving a reindeer, a single rope of reindeer skin is used as rein and whip, and to cause the animal to increase his pace the rein is swung smartly against his flank.

This being done, the reindeer may either consent to move faster, or, quite as likely, he may turn sharp round and charge at the driver.

Therefore, experienced travelers use sledges that are mounted on high runners, and when the reindeer raises a protest, the travelers promptly tumble out into the snow and scramble into safety underneath their vehicle.

The reindeer, if "peppery," is not a really bad-tempered creature, and after a few prods with his horns at the sledge, it starts scraping in the snow for a mouthful of reindeer moss. Then the travelers emerge; everything is adjusted, and on they go again until "next time."

TURNED BY FOOT PEDAL.

Ingenious Device on Ferris Wheel Intended for Children.

A Philadelphia inventor conceived the idea a few years ago of building a merry-go-round on the running gear of a wagon and in this manner gearing the patronage of the children of the more densely populated portions of the large cities. The idea proved to be a happy one in every respect. The delights of a merry-go-round experience were enjoyed for a penny by hundreds of children who had never seen such a device before and who never had five cents to spend on such a disquisition, even if they had the opportunity.

A similar innovation has been recently devised in a Ferris wheel, which is portable in the same manner as the merry-go-round referred to above. The big wheel, supplied with 12 seats, is mounted on a low truck. It is partially inclosed and has a door at the side through which the little patrons pass in and out. Having been loaded with its passengers the wheel is revolved by a pedal under the foot of the operator, who is seated in front.

CATS AND THE MAN

WHY RAWLS OBJECTS TO TAK- ING SECOND PLACE.

Willing to Leave to All the World if He Was Justified in Taking the Drastic Action Protested Against.

Up on the West Side there is a man named Rawls, who wants to organize a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Human Beings. Rawls says such a society is urgently needed. He says there are plenty of condemned fools in the world who are wandering about the world, shedding crocodile tears over the woes of spavined cab horses, stump-tailed dogs and loud-mouthed cats; but when a plain, ordinary human being raises his voice in distress and cries aloud for relief the Good Samaritans pass to the other side of the street.

It was cats that were the cause of all Rawls' troubles. He had just moved into new quarters and had an elegant bedroom, into which came an abundance of air and light from the air shaft on which it was situated. He felt immensely pleased with his new place, and retired to rest the first night with a feeling of comfort and quiet.

But it was not for long. Hardly had his thoughts begun to shape themselves into fantastic dreams when a longdrawn-out caterwaul rose from the bottom of the air shaft. This was answered from the back yard, which was connected with the air shaft by an alleyway.

With a muttered curse, Rawls bounded from his bed and threw up a window, letting in a blast of raw air that made his toes curl. "Scat, you devils!" he shouted.

But a half dozen pair of green eyes merely glanced up at him in a casual fashion, and then their owners faced each other again and resumed their cursing. Closing the window in impotent rage, Rawls was creeping back to bed, when a second altercation broke out below. Hastily grabbing up an old shoe, he slammed the shoe down into the mass of moving fur. It fell with a clatter and the enemy fled.

Chuckling gleefully to himself, Rawls once more sought his bed. There was a dense silence for a time, but within an hour the walls below were as bad as ever, only this time they were around in the alley, where he could not reach them with a missile. It seemed to him the meowlings continued all night, and the next morning he could not remember having slept any.

It was the same story for the several nights succeeding, and Rawls was getting wan and pale on account of lack of sleep.

Finally in his desperation he added a .22 Flobert rifle to his arsenal, and that night, when the first green-eyed marauder appeared in the airshaft, he shot him dead. He also took several other shots at long range and reduced the noise that night to a considerable extent.

He continued his warfare for several nights and was beginning to congratulate himself on being a benefactor of mankind, when early one morning, as he was dressing, there came a knock at his door and he was confronted by a low-browed individual who stated that several of the neighbors had complained that he (Rawls) was shooting their pet cats and that he must warn him to desist, else in his capacity as agent for the S. P. C. A. he would feel called upon to prosecute him for cruelty to animals!

"Cruelty to animals!" shrieked Rawls, "why, man alive!"—then he realized that it would be useless to argue with this low-browed person. He contented himself with saying he hadn't thought of it and closed the door, whereupon, it is said by his friends, that he immediately collapsed.

Rawls has moved again, and once more has recovered his accustomed gentleness of temper, but there is no one of his friends who any longer dares to mention that magic combination of letters: "S. P. C. A."—New York Press.

Twins 87 Years of Age.

Twins are common enough, but it is rare indeed that the pair of them attain the age of 87 years. But in the case of Messrs. David and Jonathan Condor they have reached this age without severing their partnership. They were born in Devonport, England, in 1819, and until they reached middle age it was a matter of considerable difficulty to tell them apart; while even now, at the advanced age of 87, it is not easy to detect which is which, so great is the resemblance. They are both active, and have known but little illness.

THAW TRIAL ENDED

Courier-Journal Commends the Jury for Its Intelligence and Integrity.

When the Thaw trial was entered upon the Courier-Journal contended that the crime for which the young millionaire was arraigned was merely a common tenderloin murder with a typical tenderloin woman in the case. After hearing the testimony for weeks and after hearing the brilliant arguments of counsel for both sides the jury reached the conclusion, and the disagreement was only upon the question of the defendant's sanity.

Murder committed because of differences between two men over a woman are of daily occurrence. The Thaw case differed from others only that then two criminals—the slayer and the slain—were wealthy and prominent, and the woman in the case was beautiful, and had at one time been on the stage in the capacity of a "show girl" whose function was that of wearing handsome gowns, dancing a few steps to the right and to the left, and a few steps forward and backwards, and getting $50 bills in bunches of violets.

The trial developed a sensational feature of the "confession" of Mrs. Thaw. That was due to the stagecraft of Mr. Delmas, of California. How much was true and how much fabrication may never be known. The probabilities are that at least enough was true for the statement to have contained no substantial slander of Stanford White. Of that distinguished New Yorker it may be said: "Died Adner as the fool dieth."

He may not have been the ogre he was painted by the young woman who testified as to her relations with him, but, however we may disagree as to the degree of his guilt, there can be no question as to his having led a life that tended logically toward a violent end, and to hold his executioner guilty of murder is not to seek to palliate the offences of the victim.

The essential difference from the spectator's point of view, between the Thaw trial and many others resulting from the same crime, originating in the same causes, was that it possessed a theatrical element not common to such trials. With a millionaire defendant, a venerable heart-broken mother, a girlish-looking, but much-experienced wife, sister who is the wife of an English peer, and distinguished lawyers from opposite sides of the continent, it was staged in a manner calculated to dazzle the juror. It is greatly to the credit of all of the members of the jury that none was overawed by the spectacle and swerved from the line of his duty under his oath. The only disagreement, it seems, was as to whether Thaw was sane or insane, and to the everlasting credit of a really intelligent jury he it said, disagreement as to his sanity was not based upon the statements of hired alienists, but upon letters written by the defendant. The question of wronged womanhood and the "unwritten law" were lightly considered and rightly put aside as having no bearing upon the question of the defendant's guilt.

In speedily narrowing down to a consideration of the responsibility of the defendant at the time of the killing the jury manifested intelligence which should go far toward making the "intelligent jury" jest obsolete in New York. In disregarding the almost purely emotional appeal of Mr. Delmas—virtually an appeal to the jury to disregard the law and find a verdict upon sentiment—the jury manifested a spirit of justice and an appreciation of the responsibility of jurors that should be an example to all men called for jury service. It is extremely unfortunate that no agreement was reached and that the trial must be gone through with again, but the twelve men who sat in the jury box deserve the highest commendation for intelligence and integrity. They stripped the trial bare of what might be called its "scenic investiture," to adopt the phraseology of the theatrical press agent, and tried to decide it upon its merits, as if Thaw had been a logshoeman, White a coal heaver

Feel Grateful.

Mr. Jenkins—We desire through the columns of your good paper to thank the many kind friends who extended us so many favors during our recent misfortune in the loss of our home by fire. In adversity a friend in need is a friend indeed, and our hearts will ever feel thankful for such friends and neighbors. Our prayer is that you may never be so unfortunate and that on the contrary God's richest blessings may rest upon you.

Pepper For Mice And Rats.

Jephtha Coleman, of Atchison, Kan., gets rid of mice and rats by wrapping cayenne pepper in a cloth and stuffing it into the holes where the animals pass in and out. They gnaw at the rags and first thing they know they have a dose of the pepper that makes them wish they had not been so industrious. Mr. Coleman does not know whether they sneeze themselves to pieces or simply hike to the neighbors. Anyhow, they disappear.—Ex.

BRONCHIAL TROUBLES

Readily Yield to Soothing, Healing Treatment of Hyomei

Bronchial troubles are purely local. They cannot be helped by stomach dosing. They are caused by irritation in the air passages and can be relieved and cured by medicated air alone. In this lies the secret of the great success of Hy-o-mei in the treatment of bronchial troubles.

The first breath of Hy-o-mei medicated air soothes the inflammation, stops the cough, and relief soon becomes permanent and a cure results.

Hy-o-mei has made many remarkable cures in the worst and most chronic forms of bronchial troubles and is sold by Haynes & Taylor with the same guarantee as they give when Hy-o-mei is purchased for catarrh, that is, to refund the money if the remedy does not give satisfaction. The complete outfit costs but $1.00.

Livingston County Boys.

Word has reached here that Dr. E. B. Hardin, for the past few years a practicing dentist of Morton's Gap, Ky., and Dr. L. G. Ray, who has been engaged in the practice of dentistry at La Center have formed a partnership for the practice at Madisonville. They are two of the very best boys that ever went out of this county, and that class is numerous here, and their friends here hope for them a large share of the business in that thriving little city. One thing sure, whether they get little or much of the practice in Hopkins county, they deserve and appreciate all they may get.—Livingston Banner.

Tornadoes and windstorms are likely to occur at any season of the year, but more especially in the spring. The savings of a lifetime may be swept away at any moment. You secure absolute protection at a small cost from Bourland & Haynes.
