STATE VETERINARIAN

Makes Close Examination of Sick Animal Belonging to C. R. Newcom—Explains the Disease

F. T. Eesenman, State Veterinarian, of Louisville, was in the city Monday. He came down to examine a mare belonging to C. R. Newcom. Mr. Newcom had owned the animal about three years. About the time he came in possession of her, he noticed the mare was running at the nose. He applied all the remedies he knew of, but they did not improve the condition of the animal. Upon examination by the State Veterinarian, it was discovered that the mare was infected with glanders. This was so reported and the Fiscal Court appraised the animal, after which it was killed and buried.

Dr. Eesenman gave the following history of the disease: "Glanders is due to the bacillus of mallei or glanders. Glanders can not appear in animals unless this germ is introduced into the system. Glanders is of an insidious character and after invasion of an animal there may be no appearance of disease for a long time. A horse may be infected for years without suspicion and at the time is capable of infecting other horses, which may show typical symptoms in the course of two or three weeks, and die. Mules are highly susceptible to glanders and often die in the course of ten days or two weeks, in fact the disease in this form is very often mistaken for distemper. It is well for farmers who are able to recognize distemper among their stock to become suspicious of glanders, when they find it is not getting well in the course of ten days or three weeks. Glanders appears very much as distemper, except in addition to the continued discharge from the nose, there are patches, known to the profession as chancres, on the partition of the nose. They can be recognized by elevating the nostrils and exposing the parts to the sunlight. Quite often it is necessary to feel them, this can be done by rubbing the fingers over them very lightly. When these ulcers heal, which is extremely rare, they leave a star shaped scar, at the same time other ulcers will be eating their way deep into the partition of the nose and it is quite common to find an animal chronically infected with the disease to have the partitions of the nose perforated.

"The glands under the jaw, neck, arm and thigh are always thickened from inflammation when the animal is suffering from glanders. A cough is always present in glanders, especially in chronic type.

"Man is susceptible to glanders and within the last year there has been three cases where the attendants contracted the disease, and two have since died.

"Farcy is nothing less than glanders in the skin form and is just as contagious as that of the nose and lung stage. It is quite common to find an animal infected with both types at the same time.

"The disease is incurable and as soon as it is determined the animal should be destroyed. The Glanders law, recently enacted, provides an indemnity and compels the owner to burn or bury all infected animals."

"Agricola's" Words Have the Bark On.

The following letter appears in the Owensboro Inquirer, who describes its anonymous author as "a leading lawyer and able jurist."

Some of our neighboring counties are infected just now with bands of lawless miscreants, who are being called "night riders." I object to the designation as insufficient and misleading. It does not describe the bands referred to. I know not how it came to be thus misapplied.

It must be admitted it's difficult to find a term that is descriptive. But when an outlaw, an assassin; an anarchist, marauder and would-be-murderer is simply called a "night rider" the English language is a miserable failure. Judging the character of these bands by their deeds the conclusion is unavoidable that they are public enemies; that they are savages; that they are cowardly and brutal; that they ought to be hunted like wild beasts and shot down as such when found.

They pretend friendship for farmers' organizations, but their pretenses are basely false and are intended to mislead. They are friends to no one. They have all the vices of the anarchist with none of his courage of conviction. They are wonderfully daring if he is a poor man or friendless. The intrepid manner in which they shoot down women and children is striking.

Injuring crops, burning barns, setting traps of dynamite in wheat threshers, driving people from their homes and from the state—these things and much more of the same order occur and the criminals are not even arrested.

Grand juries sit and judges expatiate, but nothing comes of it. A reign of terror seems beginning. It looks as if the stories of Orchard in the Haywood case are to be duplicated. The good name of the state is being sullied, yet no special effort is being made to suppress this fearful state of affairs. The longer it continues the worse it becomes. The immune criminal does not reform. Every good citizen should set about stopping this carnival of crime and lose no time in so doing. The miscreants can be all killed or jailed in a month. Let the work begin. Let every one understand that shooting these fellows down is lawful. No grand jury would indict for such a commendable act.

Table Talks.

You will find that a great deal of character is imparted and received at the table. Parents too often forget this and therefore instead of swallowing their food in sullen silence; instead of brooding over your business; instead of severely talking about others, let the conversation be genial, kind, social and cheering. Don't bring disagreeable things to the table in your conversation any more than you would in your dishes. For this reason, too, the more good company you have at your table, the better for your children. Every conversation with company at the table is an education to the family. Hence the intelligence and the refinement and appropriate behavior of a family which is given to hospitality. Never feel that intelligent visitors can be anything but a blessing to you and yours. How few have gotten hold of the fact that company and conversation at the table are no small part of education.—Ex.

Yandell-Yates.

On May 24, 1907 Rev. Ben Andrus said the ceremony which united Mr. T. C. Yandell and Miss Ada Yates in marriage. They have succeeded in keeping their secret until a few days ago when they gave Mr. Andrus permission to tell of their marriage.

They are a popular couple with their friends and we wish them much happiness.

CUPID PLAYS HIS PRANK

Marion's Young Man Takes His Sweet-heart and Elopes to Elizabethtown Where they Marry.

We are again reminded of the fact that "Old Cupid" is not dead, when last Sunday, Guy Givens, one of Marion's most business like young men, and Miss Minnie Hoover, of Sheridan, returned late in the evening from Elizabethtown, Illinois, where they had been married. They were accompanied by R. E. Wilborn and Miss Mae Perry.

The groom is the junior member of the firm of J. W. Givens & Son, proprietors of the City Meat Market, and has many friends and a good business here, while the bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hoover and is an attractive and accomplished young lady and by her sweet and charming ways has won for herself friends wherever she has gone.

We feel that we express the wish of their many friends, together with the RECORD-PRESS, when we wish them a happy and prosperous voyage through life.

Death at Hampton.

A sad death occurred at Hampton Sunday just afternoon when Mrs. Nora McCord Rector, the daughter of H. C. McCord, former post master, and wife of S. T. Rector, passed away. She was only twenty-six years old and leaves two little children, one seven and one five years old. She is also survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McCord, and one sister, Mrs. E. B. Hardin, of Madisonville, Ky., who was at her bedside when she died.

The funeral took place Monday afternoon at the Rector graveyard. She was a member of the Christian church.

Miss Phoebe Rochester Passes Away.

Sunday evening at 8:30 o'clock the spirit of Miss Phoebe Rochester took its flight and returned to God who gave it, quietly as if falling asleep and with no appearance of the great pain she had suffered so uncomplainingly for so many weary months; her life ebbed away without a struggle.

"A beautiful life is its own eulogy. It stands out against the background of years serene and complete. There is nothing to wish undone, nothing to add to that perfect span of spotless days.

There are those whose epitaphs we dare not write and for whom our silence is kindness. There are others whom those alone who shared their daily walks can fitly praise. Blameless, upright, charitable and with the purple and fine gold of their natures unsoiled, tender to little children, loyal to family and friends, with love and charity for the afflicted, peace to all mankind; those who have fought the battles of life with clean hands and spotless life and have passed into the presence of their maker as fearlessly and trustingly as a little child."

Of this latter class was Miss Phoebe Rochester who for more than half a century has been a familiar figure in the church and home life of Marion.

Phoebe Mildred Rochester was born Jan. 16, 1845, died July 28, 1907. For many years she was a member of the Methodist church in this city. She is survived by two brothers, Hon. J. G. Rochester, Master Commissioner Crittenden Circuit Court, and W. N. Rochester, and three sisters, Mesdames P. A. Howerton, J. W. Johnson and W. D. Wallingford.

The funeral was conducted by her pastor, Rev. Virgil Elgin, at the Methodist church at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. The interment was in the new cemetery. The pallbearers were R. H. Woods, Judge James A. Moore, G. M. Crider, Judge W. H. Walker, J. N. Boston, W. G. Carnahan. There were many and beautiful floral offerings.

George W. Gahagan Dead.

George Wheatcroft Gahagan died at ten o'clock a. m. July 26, 1907. The interment took place at Bells Mines. The Rev. W. T. Oakley officiated and was assisted by the Masons of which order he was a member.

Mr. Gahagan was born Feb. 21, 1852 and was the son of Martin and Elizabeth Gahagan. Feb. 24, 1877 he was married to Miss Isabella Phillips, for her he made a kind and devoted husband and was a Christian man altho he was not a church member.

Secretly Married.

H. A. Ramage, Marion, Ky; Miss Lillie Guess, same; C. M. Guess, same and Miss Linnie Nunn, same, to marriage license.

Judge Wm. A. Whiteside performed a double wedding ceremony Sunday. Two of the parties were brothers and sisters and all were from Marion, Ky., viz: Mr. H. A. Ramage and Miss Lillie Guess; Mr. C. M. Guess and Miss Linnie Nunn.—Golconda Ill., Herald Enterprise.

The above clipping was taken from a Pope county, Ill., paper. Mr. and Mrs. Ramage returned home and announced their marriage, while Mr. and Mrs. Guess kept a secret their marriage. It was not known that they were married until the Enterprise told the story.

The groom is a blacksmith by trade and has a good position with Eskew Bros., of this place, and is a splendid young man of good habits and reputation. The bride is a charming and pretty young lady and we see no reason why they should not spend a life of happiness together. We join their many friends in extending congratulations.

BASE BALL DISPUTE

Facts Submitted to and Settled by the Courier Journal's Base Ball Editor.

Owing to the fact that there was a considerable disagreement between the players in the game of base ball played a few days ago between the Wilson Steam Laundry team and the team known as the Moore team, concerning the interpretation of certain rules of play, it was agreed that the question be left to the Base Ball Editor of the Courier Journal for interpretation.

The following letter was written to him:

"Dear sir: Enclosed find self-addressed envelope for reply to a question in base ball which has been left to you.

"Runners are on second and third with one out; the batsman hits the ball and the runner, who was on second, runs to and touches third; the fielders throw the ball home ahead of the runner who was on third and the catcher touches the home plate with his foot after the runner, who was on second, has touched third; the catcher throws the ball to the pitcher and the runner, who was on third when the ball was hit, runs home and touches the plate without being touched by the ball.

"Question 1. Is the runner out at home? 2. Could he have run back to third and forced the runner who ran up from second to have left the base? 3. And if this last proposition is true, could the runner have gone back to second and have been safe if he had not been touched with the ball before he got back? 4. Could he have been forced out, in case he could go back to second, by the ball being held by a fielder on the base as in running to first base?"

The answers to the questions submitted were:

"Question 1, No. 2, Yes. 3, Yes. 4, No."

So, the answers to the questions submitted bears out every contention of the Moore team and the run made in the play should have counted for that team as well as the out should have been counted against them.

This is the proper way to learn the rules and because a play comes up that is different from the way it "used to be played," is no reason it is not right. J. W. Lamb is in possession of the Editor's reply.

TOLU.

Jesse Shear, who left this section last spring for Missouri, is visiting here. He says there is no place like Old Kentucky.

There has been quite a great deal of real estate trading in our town in the last week.

Mesdames J. T. Woolfe and E. B. Moore spent Saturday in Salem.

J. C. Stevenson sold his dwelling, business house and stock of groceries to Harman Flanary and Mr. Flanary in turn sold the business house and side office to Drs. Moore & Lowery. J. C. Stevenson then bought the corner dwelling formerly owned by Lewis Hoover.

Dick Miles, of Hardesty and Prof. J. C. Hardin, of Irma, were in town last week.

Chas. Watson, of Carrsville, and H. G. Fisher, of Lola, spent Friday in Tolu, the latter looking out a business location.

Mrs. Hugh Watson, who has been seriously ill for some time, was removed last week to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Malcom, of Blooming Rose, but the removal doing no good, she was brought back to her home here, where she is still very sick.

Prof. Charles E. Thomas surprised his many friends last week by getting married, while on a visit with his mother to his brother, Rev. Elisha Thomas. They all returned to their home here last Saturday. Charlie has many friends here who wish the happy couple a safe and prosperous journey through life.

BOLD SCHEME

Worked by Man Who Claimed He Represented the American Society of Equity.

Henderson, Ky., July 29.—The Gleaner has the following to say of a bold scheme worked here.

"Apparently one of the boldest schemes by which to make the merchants and business men generally part with their cash is being worked in this city by a man named Hugg, who says he is representing the Harry Mack Reporting Co., with headquarters at Indianapolis, Ind. Hugg claims that his company has a contract with the American Society of Equity to visit each town in the country and get the names of all the merchants and professional men in each town who are in sympathy with organized labor and the aims of the great farmers' organization and these names are then listed in folder form and these folders are supposed to be used by the labor unions and the Society to keep the public posted as to who are the friends of labor.

Each firm is mulcted to the tune of fifty cents to get its name on the list and if it refuses to pay up it is placed on the "unfair" list, as are also the names of those who refuse to bite. Sixty-four merchants, doctors, liquor dealers and blacksmiths in all parts of the city were duped by Hugg.

It was left for a Gleaner reporter to take the first steps which lead to the discovery of the fraudulent scheme by securing a copy of the folder containing the names of the victims and submitting it to local officers of the American Society of Equity, who at once declared that they had no knowledge whatever of such a contract.

The following query was sent to J. A. Everett, at Indianapolis:

"Has the Henry Mack Reporting Co. contract to canvas for sympathizers with the A. S. of E. and organized labor?" T. T. Barrett."

The reply was:

"Don't know parties referred to. Know of no contract. J. A. Everett.

Letter From Texas.

Arlington, Texas, July 26, 1907.
Mr. J. B. Kevil,

Dear Sir: I had a letter from you dated the 5th, which I answered. I have decided to write to you again, but on a different subject.

My father moved from Marion in 1875, an early day, and I never heard him assign but one reason for coming to Texas, and that was, that his boys could get land. He never owned more than 100 acres. But he got where his boys had a chance. There are two of us, John and myself. We have handled quite a lot of land, we have several hundred acres yet, up into the thousands.

But what I want to say to you is this: I have a town site in Wheeler county, a new town, and some land near the town and I want some settlers for the land. The land is good farm land and anyone should be able to make a good living on the land. While the land sells for only $10. to $20. per acre, yet it is certainly worth $40. to $50. per acre. I want four families that are of good moral character, I would prefer that they be differently religious. I want four families to settle on 640 acres in two miles of Ramsdell, Texas, Wheeler county. You can look on the Rock Island maps and see Ramsdell to be 83 miles east of Amarillo, Texas.

I will give them all they can make on the land for two years, and pay them for their wire, lumber and posts when they get ready to leave, after the two years are out, that is, I will pay what the stuff cost, they can take a receipt for what they are out and then take good care of the stuff. I will want them to set out a few trees, but that will take but little time and I will furnish the trees. The land is extra good level farm land. I will not want to get the land adulterated with Johnson grass or cuckleburs.

I will refer you to Mr. Crider, of Canyon City, Tex., and if they would like for him to come to see my proposition, I will pay his way to see the land. I will say this, that I think this a liberal proposition I am making.

I am giving away the first fifty

There is good bargains in land near Ramsdell and if any are interested in the land question they may write to The Ramsdell Land and Development Co., Ramsdell Texas, Wheeler county, or write to me at Arlington, Texas.

How to Avoid Appendicitis.

Most victims of appendicitis are those who are habitually constipated. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup cures chronic constipation by stimulating the liver and bowels and restores the natural action of the bowels. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup does not nauseate or gripe and is mild and pleasant to take. Refuse substitute. J. H. Orme.

Be Kind in Little Things.

The sunshine of life is made up of little beams that are bright all the time. In the nursery, on the playground and in the schoolroom, there is room all the time for little acts of kindness, that cost nothing but are worth more than gold and silver. To give up something when giving up will prevent unhappiness; to yield them persisting will chafe and fret others; to go a little way around rather than go against another; to take an ill word or a cross look rather than to resent it; these are the ways in which clouds and storms are kept off and a pleasant, smiling sunshine secured even in an humble home, among very poor people, as well as in families in higher station. Much that we term the miseries of life would be avoided by adopting this rule of conduct.—Ex.

A Happy family.

J. J. Mann, of Fordyce, Ark., writes: Use Carlsstedt's German Liver Power for ten years, cured my wife of female troubles. ### Dies at Dawson.

Col. Isaac H. Trabue, in ante-bellum days a leading citizen and business man of this place, but recently of Punta Gorda, Florida, died last week at Dawson Springs and was buried in the state cemetery at Frankfort, Kentucky. He was the last survivor of a noted Kentucky family which claimed Hawesville as its home, all of his brothers and sisters having died before him. He was a man of affairs and laid out and owned most of his home town in Florida. Before leaving Kentucky, he had a state reputation as a lawyer, and later acquired fame as an author, by the publication of his book, "The Black Wench."—Hawesville Clarion.

Carefulness And Carelessness.

It is easier to avoid mistakes than to correct them after they have been made. It takes less time and energy to stop and think and question a line of action wisely, than it does to rush ahead thoughtlessly and carelessly do the thing wrong, and then have to undo it and do it over again properly. Worse yet if it is a thing that cannot be undone, that must stand as a monument to our lack of care and thought. Either carefulness or carelessness can soon be made a habit. What habit is better, that of making mistakes or the habit of getting things right? The answer is not hard to guess. Neither is the right habit so hard to form. Every repetition of the mental acts of choosing the right thing to do and the right way to do it, helps to fix the habits and avoid mistakes. Each triumph leads joyfully and easily on to the next one—just as each mistake of the careless person opens the gate for the next one to slip in.

Better far, had we avoided mistakes, than wasted time and strength making and correcting them.—Ex.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera And Diarrhoea Remedy, Better Than Three Doctors.

"Three years ago we had three doctors with our little boy and everything that they could do seemed in vain. At last when all hope seemed to be gone we began using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and in a few hours he began to improve. Today he is as healthy a child as parents could wish for."—Mrs. B. J. Johnston, Linton, Miss. For sale by J. H. Orme the leading drug store in Western Kentucky. ### That we Could all Dream.

A few nights ago John Vandiver, a prosperous farmer living near Rockport, Ky., dreamed that a large amount of money was buried in the hollow of a tree on his farm. The dream seemed so real that he decided to search for the tree, which he soon located. A tin can was found in the hollow which contained over $3,000, in gold and greenbacks. Mr. Vandiver is at a loss to know who the original owner was.—Ex.

How to be Miserable.

Sit by a window and look over the way to your neighbor's excellent mansion which he has recently built and paid for and fitted out, and sigh, "O that I were a rich man!"

Get angry with your neighbor and think you have not a friend in the world. Shed a tear or two and take a walk in the cemetery and keep continually saying to yourself: "When shall I be buried here?"

Sign a note for a friend and never forget your kindness, and every hour in the day whisper to yourself: "I wonder if he'll ever pay that?"

Think everybody means to cheat you. Closely examine every bill you take and doubt it being genuine until you have put your neighbor to a great deal of trouble. Put confidence in nobody and believe every man you deal with to be a rogue. Never accommodate if you can possibly help it. Buy as cheap as you can and screw down to the lowest cent. Grind the faces and hearts of the unfortunate. Brood over your misfortunes, your lack of talent and believe that at no distant day you will come to want. Let the poorhouse be ever in your mind, with all the horrors of distress and poverty.

Follow these recipes strictly and you will be miserable to your heart's content, if we may so speak, sick at heart and at variance with the world. Nothing will cheer or encourage you, nothing will throw a gleam of sunshine or a ray of warmth into your heart. You will be an isolated creature, a perfect picture of woe, discontent and despair.—Ex.

HAD AN AWFUL TIME

But Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera And Diarrhoea Remedy Cured Him.

It is with pleasure that I give you this unsolicited testimonial. About a year ago when I had a severe case of measles I got caught out in a hard rain and the measles settled in my stomach and bowels. I had an awful time and had it not been for the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy I could not have possibly lived but a few hours longer, but thanks to this remedy I am now strong and well. I have written the above through simple gratitude and I shall always speak a good word for this remedy.—Sam H. Gwin, Concord, Ga. For sale by J. H. Orme the leading drug store in Western Kentucky. ### Letter from Geo. H. Crider.

Mt. Whitney, Cal., July 14, '07.
Dear Marshall: Come out and spend a few days in the mountains. Mount Whitney is 100 miles from the Railroad. There is lots of bear, deer and turkey, also grouse in the mountains. Trout fishing is fine. I am 200 miles from my family. I will go to the Ocean tonight. California is fine for scenery. All kinds of wages are high here, living expenses very reasonable in the fruit belt. I never hear from Kentucky any more, not in one place long enough.

Your friend,
Geo. H. Crider.

At this season we should eat sparingly and properly. We should also help the stomach as much as possible by the use of a little Kodol occasionally. Kodol For Indigestion and Dyspepsia will rest the stomach by actually digesting the food itself. Sold by J. H. Orme.

Eclipse of the Moon.

The partial eclipse of the moon on the night of the 24th, was an object of interest to many people. The moon entered the earth's dark shadow at 9:04 and at 10:22 the eclipse was at its largest, about five-eighths of the moon's diameter being hidden. The moon left the shadow at 11:41.

The night was clear and the eclipse was visible with the naked eye almost as well as with a telescope.

Hunting For Trouble.

"I've lived in California 20 years, and am still hunting for trouble in the way of burns, sores, wounds, boils, cuts, sprains, or a case of piles that Bucklen's Arnica Salve won't quickly cure," writes Charles Walters, of Alleghany, Sierra Co. No use hunting, Mr. Walters; it cures every case, Guaranteed at J. H. Orme's drug store. 25c.

Neighbors Got Fooled.

"I was literally coughing myself to death, and had become too weak to leave my bed; and neighbors predicted that I would never leave it alive; but they got fooled, for thanks be to God, I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It took just four one dollar bottles to completely cure the cough and restore me to good sound health," writes Mrs. Eva Uncapher, of Grovetown, Stark Co., Ind. ### Novelties in The Electrical Field.

An electric elevator has been installed in the Cathedral at Berlin for the exclusive use of the Emperor William of Germany. A private elevator in a church is an innovation.

Electricity is of great value in the metal industries. Metals which never before could be successfully welded together are now quickly united by electric heat.

A large railroad company has adopted an automatic pumping outfit for filling locomotive water tanks. The work is done by electric motors and when the water falls to a certain level the pump starts automatically and stops when the tank is full.

Bananas are now ripened by electricity. The green bunches are hung in an air tight glass case in which are a number of electric light; the artificial light and heat hastening the ripening process.

Electricity is said to be the only saleable product which cannot be adulterated.

Kodol for indigestion and Dyspepsia is a preparation of vegetable acids and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. It digests what you eat. Sold by J. H. Orme.

Baby's Good Morning.

The baby lies
With hands outspread,
And yellow ringlets
Round her head
Curled close, and rosy
Finger tips,
And close shut eyes,
And coral lips,
And peach blow cheeks,
And rounded wrist,
And dimples where
The Fays have kissed
Each knuckle coax,
And coax me, till
I stop above her,
Willy nil,
And kiss her chin
And yellow hair,
And her pink palms;
And stand and stare
At her until
She seems to feel
The greatness of
My loving steal
From my heart where
I gazing stand,
To her way off
In slumberland;
For with a start
She's wide awake,
And arms outstretched,
Says, "Papa, take!"

And do I take.
I think I do!
And snuggle her
Up to me too!
And kiss her brow
And cheek and chin,
And with my kisses
Burrow in
Her neck beneath
Her nearest ear,
And kiss her till
She very near
Goes wild, and coos
And giggles so
Sometimes I nearly
Lift her go;
And then, perched
On my shoulder high,
She giggles and says,
"Papa by!"
And so we tiptoe
Down the stairs
And catch her
Mother unawares,
And she gets snuggled
To the breast
Of mother dear
And washed and dressed,
And mounts her high chair
With delight
And one more day
Has started right.

—Houston Post.

Rising From The Grave.

A prominent manufacturer, Wm. A. Fertwell, of Lucama, N. C., relates a most remarkable experience. He says: "After taking less than three bottles of Electric Bitters, I feel like one rising from the grave. My trouble is Bright's disease, in the Diabetes stage. I fully believe Electric Bitters will cure me permanently, for it has already stopped the liver and bladder complications which have troubled me for years." Guaranteed at J. H. Orme's druggist, price only 50c.

Saturday Night Reveries.

Saturday night seems to have the happy faculty of making people human; set their hearts to beating softly as they used to do before the world turned them into war drums and jurred them to pieces with tattoos. On Saturday night the ledger closes with a bang, the iron door comes to with a bang, click, goes the key in the lock. It is Saturday night and the business man breathes free again. Homeward, ho! The door that has been ajar all the week gently closes behind him, the world is all shut out. Shut out? Shut in, rather. At home are his treasures after all, and not in the vault and not in the book—save the record in the old family Bible—and not in the bank. Maybe you are a bachelor, frosty and forty. Then, poor fellow, Saturday night is nothing to you, just as you are nothing to nobody. Get a wife, blue-eyed or black-eyed, but above all, true-eyed. Get a little home—no matter how little—a sofa, just to hold two or two and a half, in it, on a Saturday night, and then read this paragraph by the light in your wife's eyes, and thank God and take courage.

How many a kiss has been given, how many a curse, how a caress, how many a look of hate, how many

CURES

Mr. Jacob Frank, a prominent business man of St. Louis, says:

"Your remedy cured me of one of the most obstinate cases of eczema that I have ever known or heard of. My case was of four years' standing on both hands, and had been pronounced incurable by leading skin specialists and physicians of this city. Like all sufferers of itching skin diseases, I tried all remedies that were recommended to me, and found absolutely nothing that did me any good until ZEMO was used. I will be pleased to write any sufferer who doubts this statement. Yours very truly, JACOB FRANK, Pres. Frank Merc. Co., 521 N. 6th St., St. Louis.

a kind word, how many a promise has been broken, how many a soul lost, how many a loved one lowered into the narrow chamber, how many a babe has gone from earth to heaven, how many a little crib or cradle stands silent now which last Saturday night held the rarest of treasures of the heart. A week is a life. A week is a history. A week marks events of sorrow and gladness which people never heard. Go home to your family, man of business! Go home, you heartening wanderer! Go home to the chair that awaits you, wronged waif on life's breakers! Go home to those you love, man of toil, and give one night to the joys and comforts fast flying by! Leave your books with complex figures, your dirty shop, your busy store! Rest with those you love, for God only knows what the next Saturday night will bring you! Draw close around the family hearth; Saturday night has awaited your coming in sadness, in tears and silence. Go home to those you love, and as you bask in the loved presence and meet to return the loved embrace of your heart's pets, strive to be a better man, and bless God for giving his weary children so dear a stepping stone in the river to the eternal, as Saturday night.—Ex.

Children in Pain.

never cry as do children who are suffering from hunger. Such is the cause of all babies who cry and are treated for sickness, when they really are suffering from hunger. This is caused from their food not being assimilated but devoured by worms. A few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge will cause them to cease crying and began to thrive at once. Give it a trial. J. H. Orme.

Wives who Never Speak.

The Korean woman who speaks or even nods on her wedding day immediately become an object of ridicule and looses caste. Neither threat nor prayer must move her, for the whole household is ever on the alert to catch a single mumbled syllable. Her period of silence often lasts for a week or more and when complete silence is broken she only uses her tongue for the most necessary uses.

Some 60 years ago a native of Pennsylvania undertook, for a wager of £30, to remain mute for the first month of her marriage. Her husband not being in the secret, left her, only to return later when he was apprised of the real reason of her silence.

A Brussels couple named Dupont quarreled so bitterly on their wedding day that the wife vowed that the husband should never hear her voice again. His entreaties went for nothing and to her dying day she kept the letter of her oath.

A Brunn woman, whose husband was in hiding from the authorities, inadvertently betrayed his whereabouts to a police spy. As a result the man was taken and received a term of imprisonment. So much did she take to heart this misfortune, brought about by her gossip, that she resolved to remain mute to the end of her life.—London Tit-Bits.

Another Good Man Gone Wrong.

He neglected to take Foley's Kidney Cure at the first signs of kidney trouble, hoping it would wear away, and he was soon a victim of Bright's disease. There is danger in delay, but if Foley's Kidney Cure is taken at once the symptom will disappear, the kidneys are strengthened and you are soon sound and well. A. R. Bass of Morgantown, Ind., had to get up ten or twelve times in the night, and had a severe backache and pains in the kidneys, and was cured by Foley's Kidney Cure. J. H. Orme.

Resolutions of Respect.

Zion Hill Lodge, No. 371 F. & A. M. Weston, Ky., July 29, 1907.

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Great Architect of the universe to call from labor our esteemed and dearly beloved brother, Geo. W. Gahagan, who departed this life after much suffering on the 26th day of July, 1907. Therefore be it RESOLVED, First, that in the death of Bro. Gahagan this lodge and the fraternity has lost one of its shining and brightest lights. One who loved Masonry and who was to us a teacher and a guide in all things Masonic. As a man he was true and trusted, as a Mason upright and qualified.

RESOLVED, Second, that we tender our heartfelt sympathy to his family and especially to his son, who had learned to lean on and look to him, the idol of his heart, and for whom his love was pure and sublime. He loved his home, his country and his people, and he himself was universally loved and esteemed by his fellowman by whom he will be remembered as a clean, upright, model man.

RESOLVED, Third, that a page be set apart on the records of this lodge to record his career and to commemorate his memory and that these resolutions be entered thereon and a copy be given to his family and to the Crittenden Record-Press.

Be it further resolved that the brethren wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

A Pleasant Day at Deer Creek.

The second Sunday was mission day at Deer Creek church. The people began to come early and continued to come until a large crowd had gathered, notwithstanding the extremely warm day the pastor preached on missions, taking for his text the word "Go" found in the 28th, chapter of Matthew and 19 verse. The sermon received marked attention. Then a collection was taken for missions amounting to thirty-seven dollars and thirty cents. Then all partook of a splendid dinner. In the afternoon we had some very fine Sunday School talks by J. A. Davidson, Robert Thomas, Gladdis Threlkeld and L. A. LaRue. Then the choir sang most beautifully "God be with you till we meet again." Then we were dismissed, all feeling that we had spent a pleasant and profitable day in the service of the Master. W. R. GIBBS, Pastor.

Vaughn Elba, Ala., writes: "Being a constant sufferer from constipation and a disordered liver. I have found Herbine to be the best medicine for these troubles, on the market. I have used it constantly. I believe it to be the best medicine of its kind, and I wish all sufferers from these troubles to know the good Herbine has done me." J. H. Orme.

Mile a Minute at Sea.

No little interest has been aroused among expert engineers and nautical men by a new style of speed boat or gliding craft originated and partially developed by Mr. Peter Cooper Hewitt, the discoverer of the famous "Cooper Hewitt" light. This new craft is very aptly designated "gliding" since it does not cut the water like other vessels, but actually flies or skims over the surface, the body of the craft being forced high enough to permit free play of the valves. The body of the device looks something like a long, narrow and very shallow scow. A strong steel frame similar to that of an automobile extends over the sides and across either end. From each corner of the frame there are dropped into the water perpendicular steel arms, which extend about 18 inches below the bottom of the scow. To these arms are fastened steel planes having a slant upward in front of about one in eight. The motor is set forward and the single screw turns just back of the front set of planes. In operation, the screw driving or pulling the craft forward forces the slightly slanted planes through the water and, on account of their slant, the craft is forced upward. The greater the speed the higher the craft rises. When it has reached a speed which forces the topmost planes out of the water, part of the supporting surface is lost and the craft settles lower, this principle constantly operating to maintain a perfect level for the shell at a given distance above the surface of the water. The boat can be steered around the sharpest curves at high speed, and when this is done there is no loss of equilibrium but the stern "skids" as do the rear wheels of an automobile. Mr. Hewitt hit upon this principle for water craft while working on a machine for the navigation of the air. He believes that the problems of both aerial and water navigation may be worked out along the same lines. The highest speed he has attained with his rough working model is 38 miles an hour, but says he is willing to guarantee that he can build a boat one hundred or two hundred feet long that will go 55 miles an hour, while possibilities of much higher speed than this are claimed by experts who have given the matter close examination.

Announcement.

We will have a missionary meeting at Union church, the first Sunday in August. We will have all day service, dinner on the ground. All are invited, and those living in the community are requested to bring well filled baskets.

200 Egg Hen.

Those who have doubted that there are such things as two-hundred egg hens will have to admit that they exist in considerable numbers if they believe the report of the Australian egg laying contest. These hens were in pens of six each and the winning pen—Black Langshans, the progeny of birds brought from China—laid an average of 147 eggs each during the year. The next two highest pens were White Leghorns, averaging respectively 239 and 229 eggs each. The eleven highest pens of 66 birds averaged over 200 eggs each. While there was no pen below No. 11 that averaged 200 eggs, the seventeen highest pens as a whole averaged a little better than 200 eggs for each hen. The lowest record was 120 and the average for the 600 birds competing 171. This was pretty good laying, but we have farms in America where 600 hens are kept and all owned by one man that exceed this number. One farm in New Jersey secured an average of 169 eggs each from 7000 hens. Many years ago a New York farmer secured an average of 196 eggs each from 600 hens, and at that time people who dared to claim that their hens had made records of 200 eggs in a year were referred to as 200 egg liars. There is no telling what the possibilities of the American hen are.—Poultry Item.

Robbing Yourself

That is just what you are doing when you fail to get regular and sufficient sleep. Your body requires this unconscious period for repair work; without it your nerve energy becomes exhausted, and you are tired, worn-out, nervous, excitable; have headache, neuralgia, indigestion, poor appetite, or other ailments caused by a lack of nerve force. Make it your business to sleep. If you are restless, take Dr. Miles' Nervine; it soothes and strengthens the nerves, and brings sweet, refreshing, life-giving sleep, and gives the organs power to work naturally. Try it to-day.

"I had a severe spell of fever, which left me in a very weak condition and very nervous. I had severe spells of headache and neuralgia, and could sleep but very little. Every effort that was made to recover my strength was of no avail until I began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. After I commenced to take the Nervine my sleep was profound and refreshing, and the pains in my head, as well as the neuralgia pains, left me to a certain extent and I grew gradually better."

BIRDS AS BAROMETERS.

Change Color With Weather and Are Declared Never to Make Mistakes.

With a collection of boars' tusks, rhinoceros horns, bows, poisoned arrows, darts, spears, leopard's skin and strange birds, the Swedish bark, Norrkoping, cast anchor off Stapleton, S. I., yesterday after a trip of ninety-two days from Pemba Bay, Portuguese East Africa. Friends of the crew put off from shore, and soon the sailors were waltzing on deck with pretty girls to the music of that universal solace and friend of the deep water rover, the accordion.

In a cage of Norse architecture slept lazily on their perches a flock of small birds of about the size of canaries, once gaudy ornaments of the mangrove trees of the East coast, but now sobered in color and temperament and abbreviated in plumage by climatic changes.

Capt. C. P. Mattson interrupted a game of seat with his officers in the after cabin to tell of the wonderful things he had seen at Pemba Bay. Attracted by beautiful little birds with long, curving, gaudy tail feathers, like birds of Paradise, he bought a collection of them. They were many-colored, sweet-voiced and clung to the bark of the Mangrove.

A few weeks' experience afloat showed the Captain that these strange little creatures were both barometric and thermometric. They kept changing color as the ship progressed north and their beautiful tail feathers all came out. After the Norrkoping had crossed the equator the birds had become a sober gray, black and mottled color. They yellow in sunshine and turned dark at the approach of foul weather.

The birds had the faculty, also, of mesmerizing Tom, the ship's Swedish cat, which never offered to touch them. The Norrkoping started with a lot of goats, chickens and a monkey, but the crew ate the goats and the chickens and the monkey, while gambling along the bulwark, gave a jump at the same moment the ship gave a lurch and it was a good-by to Mr. Monk.

While at Pemba Bay the captain, and two German residents, sometimes took a catboat to the opposite side of the two-miles-wide bay and camped out in a clearing in the forest, where protected by mosquito netting they were lulled to sleep by the roar of leopards, the grunting of wild boars, the snorting of river horses, the hissing of snakes and the humming of mosquitos.

In that strange country birdseed grows upon coals, and when the steward of the Norrkoping fed the feathered barometers yesterday, he just placed an unshelled ear of birdseed within each cage.

Squeezed by Snake.

While Mrs. John Hackett, of near Providence, was gathering blackberries near her home last week she was attacked by a huge bull snake over six and a half feet long, which ran at her with its head nearly two feet in the air, and after encircling her several times, wrapped itself firmly around her body. It was only super-human strength, born of nerve, which enabled her to tear loose from its embrace. She not only tore it loose from her body but killed it with a stick which she grabbed as soon as she could get to it. Although badly frightened Mr. Hackett was not otherwise hurt.

 Atlas Peck was arrested for obtaining a jug of lieker under false pretenses—claiming he was going to get drunk on it instead of using it for medicine—and was put in the eastern near the postoffice, as the closest jail to Hogwallow is at Rye Straw. After Atlas had dropped into a sound slumber last night the Excelsior Fiddleing Band gathered around the cistern and played "Asleep in the Deep."

 Washington Hooks has a muley cow that is so lazy in the summer that cream would even rise on her milk, and she can be seen any time leaning against the shady side of the stable. While she is thus enjoying herself, the flies and gnats swarm about her, worrying her so she has to sometimes move and wash was forced to invent an arrangement that will both keep her awake and scare the flies off. He calls it "Hookses Star Fly Alarm." It consists of the following simple contrivance: An extra size cow bell is placed on the cow's neck, hanging in a downright position; then a string is tied to the clapper and extends back to the tail, where it is tied in a hard bow knot. The cow then goes to sleep, the flies come, the cow switches her tail and the bell rings which frightens the flies away.

 While walking through the woods one day a man found a pint of whisky in a hollow log. There was moss on the bottle and the licker was very old. The man drank some of the whisky and owing to the mellowness he did not get drunk at once then and there, but was able to go a half mile before he began to walk with uncertainty in his foot-steps. He then took another big swiggle of this corn nectar and the bottle was empty. He then laid down on the creek bank for a long time and he had dreams and in his dreams he caught some very large fish and a snake as long as a fence rail. Then he woke up and did not feel well. Moral: He should have saved some of it for next morning.

Love Me Now!

If you're ever going to love me,
 Love me now while I can know
 All the sweet and tender feelings
 Which from real affections flow.

Love me now while I am living,
 Do not wait till I am gone,
 And then chisel it in marble—
 Warm love words on ice cold stone.

If you're dear, sweet words about me
 Why not whisper them to me?
 Don't you know 'twould make me
 happy

And as glad as glad can be?
 If you wait till I am sleeping,
 Ne'er to wake here again,
 There'll be walls of earth between us
 And I couldn't here you then.

If you knew someone was thirsting
 For a drink of water sweet,
 Would you be so slow to bring it—
 Would you step with laggard feet?

There are tender hearts all round us
 Who are thirsting for our love;
 Why withhold from them what nature
 Makes them crave all else above?

I won't need your kind caresses
 When the grass grows o'er my face;
 I won't crave your love or kisses
 In my last low resting place.

So, then, if you love me any,
 If its but a little bit,
 Let me know it now while living,
 I can own and treasure it.

Letter from Kansas.

Ft. Leavenworth, Kans.,
 July 22, 1907.

Editor Record-Press,
 Marion, Kentucky.

Dear sir: If you will allow me space in your valuable paper, I will try to give your readers a few items from Ft. Leavenworth that may prove to be of interest to some.

I left old Kentucky July 16, and arrived at Ft. Leavenworth the 18th. It made me feel sad to think that I was leaving so many loved ones behind, probably some of them I shall never meet again, as I shall not return for at least three years. But I wish them all good luck.

Saturday was a historic day for Ft. Leavenworth, with a gala excursion of more than three thousand people from Kansas City and the arrival of the thirteenth cavalry from Ft. Sill, Oklahoma. There was never such a crowd as that which thronged the parade, sidewalks and public buildings.

On arrival at the Ft, the picnickers marched to the west end parade, where they had lunch, after which an athletic meet, consisting of jumping, foot racing and other athletics, in which prizes were competed for, was held. Next came a base ball game played between two picked teams of the excursionists, after which the younger element proceeded to the spacious gymnasium where they danced to their hearts' content to music furnished by the eighteenth infantry band under the leadership of Prof. Garyean.

Then came the final races: The soldiers for the souvenirs and not less than a dozen were very noticeable with seven or eight ornaments adorning their peek-a-boo waists. This, however, was not the only amusement, for as one young lady was heard to say "goodbye" to her soldier escort another exclaimed, "I am very much put out and I think its a shame that I have come all the way to Fort Leavenworth and have not even so much as seen the 'Fort.'"

The train whistled, the bell rang and the picnic at the post was over. The excursion was given under the auspices of the Clerks Benefit Society and was its first annual outing.

Troop I. K. L. and M., of the squadron of the thirteenth cavalry, consisting of 7 officers, 187 enlisted men, 1 contract surgeon and 3 hospital corps men with 229 horses and mules, arrived at the post yesterday at 12 o'clock, with Maj. Chas. W. Taylor in command, after having marched from Big Stager that morning, a distance of fourteen miles. The journey to this post, which began at Ft. Sill, Oklahoma, more than thirty-five days ago, was a long one. A distance of more than 500 miles, being a greater distance than has ever been made by U. S. troops in time of peace.

Although the trip was made under the greatest difficulty and trying circumstances, brought about by the heavy rains, mud and intense heat, the troops made a fine appearance and but few looked fatigued from their long journey. The animals looked as well as could be expected, considering that they have been in the harness and under the saddle throughout the period.

I will close with best wishes and kindest regards to all who read the Record-Press. Respectfully,
 B. E. Woody.

Cured Hay Fever And Summer Cold.

A. J. Nusbaum Batesville, Ind., writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed to only aggravate my case. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar and it quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success." J. H. Orme

Stock Barn of J. E. Crider Burned.

The large stock barn and silo of J. E. Crider at Fredonia, were burned to the ground yesterday afternoon. About one hundred and fifty tons of new clover hay which had been stored away in the loft of the large barn was also destroyed.

Mr. Crider is the proprietor of the Fredonia Valley Creamery, and therefore milks about sixty-five cows, and all were in the stalls of the barn ready to be milked when the fire was discovered, which was about three o'clock. Fortunately the cows were all rescued with injury to any of them.

The fire originated in the hay loft and Mr. Crider is of the opinion that it was caused by spontaneous combustion. The loss is said to be over $3,000, with about $1,500 insurance.

This is said to be one of the largest stock barns in western Kentucky and Mr. Crider has the sympathy of his many friends in his misfortune. —Princeton Leader.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this dreadful disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, I can cure all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. These said-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to disrobe and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

THEATRICAL TEMPESTS.

The Way a Rainstorm is Produced on the Stage.

Probably not more than one person in a hundred stops to consider how a rainstorm is produced on the stage. Few perhaps have ever given the subject any serious thought.

During the coming up of the storm there is seen vast clouds of dust, the wind blows a gale, and suddenly the rain comes down in torrents. It is an effect so natural that one almost imagines the elements are genuinely on the warpath. Yet, though the rain is real water, not a person is actually drenched, because the water comes down at the very front of the stage, while the players are well back and not at all exposed to its moisture.

It might be thought that to produce a storm many intricate bits of machinery would be necessary, yet such is not the case, for the simplest devices produce the effect desired. These are some gas pipes punctured by myriads of holes, through which the water runs from small barrels, each about half full, at either end. The sound of the wind is made by a revolving barrel which touches a heavy piece of canvas in its rounds. The thunder effect is caused by the artistic manner in which a man beats a bass drum, and the gusts of dust are blown across the stage by an electric fan. The flashes of lightning come from an electric battery connected by wires which when placed in contact throw out the dazzling flashes. A metal plate, which had been specially prepared by first being heated to white heat and then scratched by a knife, is placed in a calcium light machine and gives the effect of lightning in the distance.—New York Mail.

POETICAL DEATHS.

Welcoming the Grim Reaper With a Greeting in Verse.

There have been numerous instances of poetical deaths. The Emperor Adrian made a poetical address to his own soul as death was casting the seal of final silence over his lips, and Margaret of Austria while almost within the grasp of death in a terrific storm at sea calmly sat down and composed her epitaph in verse. The ship weathered the gale, however, and the epitaph was not needed.

Philip Strozzel when imprisoned and awaiting death on the gallows resolved to commit suicide. Before he killed himself he carved with the sword upon which a few minutes later he impaled himself the following verse from Virgil on the wall: "Rise some avenger from my blood."

The Marquis of Montrose when he was condemned to have his limbs nailed to the gates of four cities said that he was sorry that he did not have enough limbs to nail to all the cities in Europe, and this he put into beautiful verse as he was walking to his execution.

THEATRICAL TEMPESTS.

The Way a Rainstorm is Produced on the Stage.

Probably not more than one person in a hundred stops to consider how a rainstorm is produced on the stage. Few perhaps have ever given the subject any serious thought.

During the coming up of the storm there is seen vast clouds of dust, the wind blows a gale, and suddenly the rain comes down in torrents. It is an effect so natural that one almost imagines the elements are genuinely on the warpath. Yet, though the rain is real water, not a person is actually drenched, because the water comes down at the very front of the stage, while the players are well back and not at all exposed to its moisture.

It might be thought that to produce a storm many intricate bits of machinery would be necessary, yet such is not the case, for the simplest devices produce the effect desired. These are some gas pipes punctured by myriads of holes, through which the water runs from small barrels, each about half full, at either end. The sound of the wind is made by a revolving barrel which touches a heavy piece of canvas in its rounds. The thunder effect is caused by the artistic manner in which a man beats a bass drum, and the gusts of dust are blown across the stage by an electric fan. The flashes of lightning come from an electric battery connected by wires which when placed in contact throw out the dazzling flashes. A metal plate, which had been specially prepared by first being heated to white heat and then scratched by a knife, is placed in a calcium light machine and gives the effect of lightning in the distance.—New York Mail.

POETICAL DEATHS.

Welcoming the Grim Reaper With a Greeting in Verse.

There have been numerous instances of poetical deaths. The Emperor Adrian made a poetical address to his own soul as death was casting the seal of final silence over his lips, and Margaret of Austria while almost within the grasp of death in a terrific storm at sea calmly sat down and composed her epitaph in verse. The ship weathered the gale, however, and the epitaph was not needed.

Philip Strozzi when imprisoned and awaiting death on the gallows resolved to commit suicide. Before he killed himself he carved with the sword upon which a few minutes later he impaled himself the following verse from Virgil on the wall: "Rise some avenger from my blood."

The Marquis of Montrose when he was condemned to have his limbs nailed to the gates of four cities said that he was sorry that he did not have enough limbs to nail to all the cities in Europe, and this he put into beautiful verse as he was walking to his execution.

Patric, a poet of Caen, finding himself at the door of death, composed a poem, and De Barreaux, it is said, wrote while on his deathbed a well known sonnet which was soon afterward translated into English.—New York Tribune.
