HON. E. T. FRANKS

Addressed a Large Crowd of Voters at Opera House Tuesday.

The Honorable E. T. Franks, of Owensboro, addressed the citizens of Crittenden county Tuesday in behalf of the Republican State ticket.

Mr. Franks is an old Crittenden boy and is a fluent speaker and was greeted with a large, enthusiastic audience, the Opera House being crowded. Quite a number of ladies were in the audience.

He presented the issues with much force. In his speech he compared the state of affairs under Gov. Bradley's four years of stewardship and the last eight years under Democratic rule. In his introduction he said that he had not come here to wound any democrat's feeling and was not referring to the honest democrats, but had come to tell the facts and figures as they exist under the Democratic Machine rule.

He answered Mr. Hager's and Mr. Stanley's attacks on Mr. Willson about his standing on the prohibition question. He also discussed Mr. Willson's connection with the American Tobacco Company, which was nothing more than any lawyer would do, that is fight a case for the fee that he expected and did receive.

He spoke for about an hour and a quarter and was listened to with much interest. Hon. W. J. Deboe introduced the speaker and the Marion Cornet Band furnished the music for the occasion.

To the People of Marion.

While out of our little city and without any solicitation whatever on my part, my name was placed at the head of the Peoples' Ticket, as a candidate for the office of Mayor of the city of Marion. Since the petition that has my name on it as Mayor together with the names of Dr. G. W. Stone, Thomas Clifton, Luther Miller, W. L. Verner, A. J. Duvall, and J. H. Orme, as councilmen for the city of Marion, has been filed by the people with the County Clerk, I have been approached by many people who have urged me to allow my name to remain on said ticket. After having given the matter due consideration I have concluded that in so much as a great number of people have seen proper to offer me as a candidate for the office of Mayor of our little city, that I will allow my name to remain on said ticket, to be voted for on the 5th day of November, 1907. I deem the high office of Mayor to be the most important office of any in the city and

Shall Marion Have a Lecture Course.

1. We are sorry to say that our efforts to secure a Lecture and Entertainment Course for the coming winter are about to fail for lack of support from the citizen of our town.

2. We entered upon this project, not with the purpose of making any considerable sum of money for the benefit of the School Library, but with the idea of furnishing the people an opportunity to see and hear some of the best attractions to be had. The course planned is an expensive one, and requires the sale of a large number of season tickets, at the very low price asked, in order that we may not lose money on the undertaking.

3. Many of the citizens have responded nobly, but others whom we expected support, have failed to respond and still remain unsold, a large number of tickets.

3. Citizens of Marion, "It is up to you." If you desire this course of entertainments, you will have to show it in a more tangible form than by excuses for not purchasing season tickets.

5. To the lovers of good music, the Mountain Trio, and the Harmony Concert numbers alone will be worth the price of a season ticket. To those who wish fun and amusement, Durno, the Magician will give you value received for your ticket. Surely there should be many in Marion who would consider an evening with Opie Read well worth the cost of the entire course.

6. The teachers have kindly undertaken to canvass the town in the effort to dispose of the required number of tickets. If they have accidentally missed any of you, please see them at once, as only a short time remains in which to make up the required guarantee.

JNO. P. KING.

Red Men.

Improved order of Red Men had their initiation services Thursday night at the I. O. O. F. Hall, which were quite interesting. In all 21 members were initiated. A banquet was given which included many delicacies of the season. The name adopted by the local lodge is unique, being "Swastika, No. 224."

C. E. Weldon was chosen Prophet. J. C. Wallace, Sachem. Wathen Rankin, Senoir Sagmore. Walter McConnell, Junior Sagmore.

Walter Guess, Chief of Records. The tribe stands out auspiciously and promises to grow in numbers and interest as its good purposes and intents become known.

WANTED—Two car loads of walnuts. Will pay 25 cents a bushel cash for them hulled. SCHWAB.

HAGER

Addresses Large and Enthusiastic Crowd at the Marion Opera House.

Last Friday as per announcement, the Hon. S. W. Hager, Democratic candidate for Governor gave the citizens of Marion and vicinity, an opportunity to hear a clear and lucid exposition of his tenure in office. He arrived at 11:30 from Morganfield and was met by the "Silver Cornet Band" and a committee of citizens and escorted to the Hotel Crittenden where he dined. Promptly at 1 o'clock he repaired to the Opera House which had been secured for the occasion and was accompanied by Congressmen James and Stanley.

The Opera House was crowded to its fullest capacity and Mr. Hager was given a hearty welcome and was introduced by County Chairman, W. H. Clark who in introducing Mr. Hager, said, "Ladies and Gentlemen, centuries ago in a foreign clime there was born a beautiful baby boy. On the account of a proclamation that had been made by the Ruler of the country, his mother fearful lest the boys life be taken, hid the boy in the flags along the banks of a beautiful stream that coursed its way through the forest. The daughter of this Ruler found this boy and adopted him. This boy was banished by this Ruler and became a herdsman among the fields, hills and mountains of Egypt. While working as a herdsman upon the fields of Egypt and while near mount Moab, he saw the burning bush and heard the voice of his master calling him to govern and rule over His people. He became the best as well as the greatest man that history has ever known and they called him Moses. Some fifty odd years ago there was born among the hills that lie in the shadow of the mountains of eastern Kentucky, a beautiful boy. He grew to manhood out among the great common people. One day while laboring in the hills he heard the voice of the great common people calling him from his humble home upon the farm to an office of trust. He filled this office so well that he again heard the voice of the people calling him again. And today he stands before us as the acknowledged, recognized leader of the grand old Democratic party and when the returns are in from the election that will be held on the 5th day of November, he will then be proclaimed by the voice of the great common people through their ballots to be the leader not only of the Democratic party but of the great common people as well. I now have the pleasure and the honor of introducing to you S. W. Hager, who will speak to you."

Mr. Hager's speech followed and was well received. He did not deal in abuse but gave a fair and plain statement of his connection with the State government which carried conviction with it. Mr. Hager made a fine impression here, and he was frequently applauded and each and every statement was made in a way to leave no room for doubt as to its accuracy. His slogan seemed to be truth is mighty and will prevail. After Judge Hager's speech closed he was followed by Congressman Stanley of Henderson, who in a peppery talk of a few minutes elicited much laughter and applause from the audience.

Zion Hill Lodge, No. 371, F. & A. M.

To the Worshipful Master, Wardens and Brethren of Zion Hill Lodge, No. 371, F. & A. M.

On October 17, 1907, the spirit of our Bro. Alex Woody, took its flight to that realm to its eternal reward. After many months of suffering he was ushered into that peaceful rest prepared by our heavenly Father for all that love and obey him.

For many years he had been a Free and accepted Mason. He was a good citizen, a devoted husband and father. We are pleased to think that his invisible presence is to guide us that undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveler ever returns.

Resolved, That while we mourn his loss, we bow in reverent submission to the will of him who doeth all things well.

Resolved, That we extend our sympathy to the family and friends of our departed Brother, and commend them to the covenant keeping of God who guides and guards his own.

Resolved, That a memorial page be set apart in the record of this lodge and that these resolutions be spread thereon, and a copy sent to the family and published in the Crittenden Press-Record.

Resolved, That the brethren wear the usual badge of mourning for the period of thirty days.

Notice of Election.

Notice is hereby given that the writ of election was issued by the Judge of the Crittenden County, caused by the death of J. Anthony Davidson, said election to be held in the various voting precincts throughout Crittenden County on the 5th day of November, 1907.

J. F. FLANARY, Sheriff of Crittenden County.

National Farmers Convention.

Our county man, Mr. A. H. Cardin, of View, Ky., is attending the "National Farmers Congress" in Oklahoma and is taking an active part in the proceedings. From the daily "Oklahoma" we note he was placed on the "Committee on Resolutions," with some of the most prominent men attending the Congress from other parts of the United States.

He was also put on the "Stearage Committee on Water Ways" to go to Washington City next winter when Congress is in session.

Considering the number of delegates (over 1,000) we should feel that our State carried off her part of the honors. In an interview Mr. Cardin expressed himself as much pleased with Oklahoma.

CERTAIN RESULTS

Many a Kentucky Citizen Knows How Sure They Are.

Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Kentucky. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. Such evidence should convince the most skeptical sufferer. Read the following statement:

Mrs. L. Varalli, living at 923 Fifth St., Louisville, Ky., says: "I am happy to say that Doan's Kidney Pills have been of great benefit to me and other members of my family. I frequently had attacks of backache and kidney trouble before using your remedy, but after using two boxes of the pills the trouble was entirely cured. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to a great many of my friends for I attribute my present good health to the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They certainly do all that is claimed for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Her Motive.

A young wife said to her husband one night:

"My dear, there is a gentleman in the parlor wants to speak to you."

"Who is it?" ask the husband.

"Dear," said the wife, "you must forgive me, but that cough has bothered you so much of late and though spring is coming on, it still clings to you. And, oh! if you knew how worried I've been about you."

Sobbing, she threw her arms around his neck. "What should I do if I were to lose you?"

"Come, come," said the young man, patting her shoulder tenderly: "men don't die of a slight cold. So you've called the doctor in, eh? Well, I'll see him gladly if it will make you feel easier. Which one is it—Squills?"

"It isn't the doctor, dear," was the answer; "it's the life insurance agent."

Hard Times in Kansas.

The old days of gashoppers and drouth are almost forgotten in the prosperous Kansas of to-day; although a citizen of Codell, Earl Shamburg, has not forgotten a hard time he encountered. He says: "I was worn out and discouraged by coughing night and day, and could find no relief till I tried Dr. King's New Discovery. It took less than one bottle to completely cure me." The safest and most reliable cough and cold remedy and lung and throat healer ever discovered. Guaranteed by Haynes & Taylor and J. H. Orme's drug stores. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

BETTER THAN MEDICINE

Breathe Hyomei's Tonic Healing and be Cured of Catarrh.

Nature has a remedy for catarrh, a treatment that is far better than dosing the stomach with medicine.

It is the healing oils and balsams of Hyomei which medicate the air you breathe, reaching the most remote air cells in the nose, throat and lungs, killing all catarrhal germs, and restoring health to the mucous membrane.

In using Hyomei you are treating your catarrhal troubles with the only natural remedy, for it gives a curative air bath to the air passages that has as powerful healing and antiseptic effect as that found in the mountains where the pine forests give off their fragrant and healing balsams. Breathe the invigorating and healing Hyomei, and see how quickly you will get relief from your catarrhal troubles. Haynes & Taylor have seen so many cures, even of the worst cases of catarrh, with offensive breath, rising of mucus, frequent sneezing, droppings in the throat and spasmodic coughing, that they feel warranted in selling Hyomei under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it does not do all that is claimed for it. They take all the risk.

Pain anywhere, pain in the head, painful periods. Neuralgia, toothache, all pains can be promptly stopped by a thoroughly safe little Pink Candy Tablet, known by druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets. ## Same Old Bobby.

It seemed to Bobby that there was no end to the advice and instructions his mother gave him when he was starting off with his father for a week's trip.

"Now I want to be sure you have everything you need," she said, opening his bag in spite of his reassurances that it held all a boy could possibly require. "Why, Bobby, where is your hair-brush? You were forgetting it!"

"No, mother, I wasn't forgetting it," said Bobby, looking desperate. "I thought I was going on a vacation."—Youth's Companion.

She Let It Go at That.

Fairmount, Oct. 16.—Mrs. Joseph Johnson, near this place, advertised a hundred chickens for sale, and she closed negotiations with a poultry dealer, who was to call on the following day for his purchase. That night thieves raided the henery, taking every chicken. Next morning while lamenting her loss, Mrs. Johnson discovered a pocket book, evidently lost by the thief, which contained $100, and she deposited the money in her own name and let it go at that. The chickens were valued at $50.

Will a Patriciate Ever Rule the United States?

By ADMIRAL SIR CYPRIAN BRIDGE, of British Navy.

I was always impressed with the vast extent to which essentially British ideas have permeated America. This is apparent in every element of your life, from laws to breakfasts. Your family and church life, literature, methods of trade, and conception of honor are all British and not continental.

Then a careful study of your political life shows that over 80 per cent. of the public men in America have British names—English, Scotch, or Irish. All your presidents save Van Buren and Roosevelt have British cognomens. The same applies to the Supreme bench and other courts, to governors, congressmen and senators.

This is especially remarkable when it is considered that there has been no great British emigration to the United States as from other nations. Moreover, I do not believe that the British stock in America is exceptionally prolific; yet, despite the millions of emigrants from other lands, with their millions of offspring, the original British element has supplied the governing class which to-day dominates the nation.

Further, a survey of the first families in America furnishes a rich array of names drawn from the nobility and gentry of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries—the Calverts, Winthrops, Endicotts, Fairfaxes, Bradfords and Washingtons. These are only a few, but they show what I mean. No nobler blood flows in England. When persons here speak of the "Yankee parvenu" they hardly know what they are talking about.

I believe that this powerful element in America will eventually form or has already formed a patriciate such as once dominated Rome. The modern American is one of the most aristocratic persons one can find anywhere. The wealthy, well-born citizen of the United States is far more unapproachable by his inferiors than the aristocrat of any other land. This is especially true of New England, but the same applies to every part of the country.

The Enemy's Shield

By DR. NEWELL DWIGHT HILLIS.

For healthy minds it is more important than ever before to strike the heroic note and remember that man is here for the purpose of struggling against his foes and of winning victories. Society is not out on a picnic or a pleasure jaunt; it is out to climb the hills of difficulty and conquer for oneself wisdom and goodness. To him that overcometh belongs the hero's crown and the joy of hanging the shields of one's enemies upon the walls of memory.

The foes of man's happiness stand round about him as wolves about the Alaskan miner sleeping by the embers. Now the fire is kindled upon his factory or house, and, sleeping in peace, he awakens to ashes and poverty. Now the flood comes in from over the sea, or the river overflows his bank, or the rains and hails destroy his grain. Then the tornado is loosened, and the cyclone leaves in its path ruined orchards and meadows. Everything man has is overtaken by some enemy. The rust falls upon his wheat, an insect attacks his cotton, the blight ruins the grape or plum, the frost cuts down his corn. In the city panic walks through the streets and cuts down property, as a sickle slays the golden grain. Enemies go forth against his reputation, his riches take wings, good name passes, friends grow forgetful. Strength dissolves, the grasshopper itself becomes a burden; man walks forward under a clouded sky.

Getting means struggling. Strength comes through wrestling. The wide look across the plains means the slow climbing to the mountain top, whence the view is gained. Every good thing is a prize won after a fierce conflict.

And heaven itself is a height on which man climbs on the golden rounds of the good deeds of this life. Every one of the seven crowns and forms of happiness and good fortune offered in John's vision of paradise represent rewards given for victory won on seven battle-fields.

Thank God, from the life battle there is no discharge paper that does not come from the angel of death. When the last sunset gun booms, happy is he who has never played the coward, but has fought the good fight and kept his manhood, and every day plunged the battle flag a little further into the ranks of the enemy. In joy that hero will hang the shields of his vanquished enemies upon the walls of memory!

No Show for "Poor in Spirit"

By REV. HENRY D. ROBINSON,
Warden of Racine College.

I fear the man poor in spirit would scarcely file a successful role in modern life. As a member of the citizens' alliance, he would be inefficient; as a labor unionist, a wretched failure; as an employe, insignificant; and as a captain of industry—well, he would never be a captain of industry.

Who to-day wants a man poor in spirit? Surely not the citizens' alliance. They want men of resource and action. Men who are quick to think, to act. Men who anticipate a blow by planting another first. Men who can see distant action through all the fogs and vapors of smooth words and fair promises. Men who can be fair to the limit of legality, and legal to the last milestone of defeat.

Who to-day wants a man poor in spirit? Surely not the labor unions. The ordinary man wearing a union button will tell you that if the unions were composed of such men, they would long since have tasted the bitterest days of poverty, and their ears would still be ringing with the mocking gibes of those who sit in the seats of the mighty.

Who to-day wants a man poor in spirit? Surely not employers. Perhaps there may be a stray place among the lowest and most menial, but these are not the men who count. Mere cattle, these, who eat and sleep and work dumbly from cold sunrise to leaden sunset. They want young blood, men who push and elbow their way through opposition. Men who can see sure business, men who can get results.

TRACKS EVIL DOERS

WOMAN DETECTIVE FEARLESS IN HER WORK.

Ethel King Responsible for the Breaking Up of Many Gangs of Criminals—Able to Take Care of Herself.

Should you meet a good-looking sailor boy, with a complexion something too good for one who follows the sea, take a second look at him. It may be Ethel King, the woman detective of Philadelphia, in one of her many disguises.

Take a searching glance at the messenger boy who runs, with head down, to deliver a missive. It is possible that the female sleuth may be hiding her identity within the blue suit.

Look around you in opium-scented Chinatown. The dapper woman who trips past the lookout at the gambling joint, with a side glance at the closed door, may be pretty Ethel King in the costume of her sex, but sent on a mission that is very unusual to a woman.

At home Miss King lives a quiet and secluded life. Few of her associates in the boarding-house at which she has her room know what a distinguished personage is the dark-eyed girl who is so frequently away on mysterious trips.

Absolutely without fear Miss King has accepted any dangerous work that has come to her in the line of duty. She has donned the uniform of a United States sailor and haunted the docks and navy yard vicinity in search for information regarding sailor criminals.

Being a small woman and looking rather diminutive in boys' clothes Miss King had no difficulty in assuming the character of a district messenger Mercury. She readily assumed the jargon of the corps, as well as the uniform of the messenger boy, and did valuable work in breaking up a series of pilferings and clever swindles that the youngsters had carried on for years at the expense of the company and its customers.

She learned that the boys were in the habit of meeting in the street and exchanging caps, so that should a complaint be made of money collected on prepaid messages, or of cash missing from envelopes entrusted to the boys for delivery, it would be easy to establish an alibi. Miss King astounded the management of the company by her revelations concerning the tricks of the messenger boys and enabled the regular sleuths of the concern to checkmate the systematic stealings and guard against a repetition of them.

As a scullery girl Miss King assisted in the arrest of a notorious woman thief who had been in the habit of hiring out as a domestic for the purpose of allowing her criminal friends to enter and rob the house at night. The woman sleuth washed dishes and watched the other woman, and when the critical time came, and the house was raided in the dead of night, the would-be thieves were caught in a trap.

Miss King has assisted in the suppression of the opium traffic and of the gambling dens of Chinatown. She has made friends with the yellow man and in due time betrayed him to the police. She has been threatened time and again, but has not so far been attacked. Threats she ignores, and any one who has talked with her for a time is impressed with the idea that in a tight corner she could well take care of herself, for, as she says:

"A woman is as good as a man in a gun fight, and I am always ready."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Snake Killing Kitten.

George Fornwald, substitute mail carrier, Bloomsburg, owns a cat which, strange to say, will not catch a mouse, but spends its time in the yards hunting for garter snakes.

The cat so far this season has caught three snakes and brought them to the house, and after laying a snake down on the porch it goes back again in the yard to hunt for more. Two of the snakes the cat has caught were captured in one day, while the other was caught a day later. These three are the only ones Mr. Fornwald has seen, yet some of the neighbors say they often see the cat with a snake in its mouth.

Whether or not the animal would tackle anything larger than a garter snake is hard to tell, yet from the fight it puts up when it gets hold of one of these smaller species it is evident that it would probably be able to get away with a larger one. The snake-killing cat is not very large and is still nothing more than a kitten.—Williamsport Gazette.

Successful Voyage of Australian's Ark.

Australia has given to humanity an interesting Noah in the person of Felix Tanner, who some time ago left Australia for New Zealand with a scheme for the construction of an ark which should carry a considerable number of passengers.

In Maori land he persuaded quite a number of people to believe in his ideas, and some weeks ago "Tanner's Ark," a barrel shaped structure of quite unique design was built and the vessel put to sea from a small port near Christ church. Tanner was on board with five companions.

The ark was bound for Timaru, a place about a hundred miles away, and, granting fair weather, Timaru should have been made in three days. Nine people out of 14, laughed at the enterprise, but the ark arrived safely at its destination.

Facts About Tonnage.

In its unimproved, or but partially improved condition, the Ohio furnishes an object lesson that has done more than all argument could have done to demonstrate not alone the utility of the improved waterway but its absolute necessity. In all plans for improvement of inland waterways the Ohio Valley is interested. But its first interest is in the Ohio River and in making plain the fact that its complete improvement would not only rebound to the benefit of Ohio Valley interests, but to the transportation interests of the entire country.

Plans for the improvement of other rivers are being urged and in urging the Ohio does not always receive the consideration its tonnage demands. As an illustration of misstatements, unintentional no doubt, and as an incentive to the Ohio Valley to stand fast and firmly by the editorial in the New Orleans Picayune of October 5, will be sufficient. The Picayune says:

"Three decades ago the tributaries of the Mississippi as well as the main river were covered with fleets of steamboats carrying freight in all directions. Today all has changed. No single steamer, much less the great fleets of floating palaces that once covered its waters plying between St. Louis and New Orleans, makes a voyage between the two cities. There is not a boat on the Missouri, and possibly only a few on the Ohio and other tributaries."

All may have changed on the Mississippi, but all has not changed on the Ohio. The Ohio Valley knows the fact, notwithstanding the mistake of the New Orleans paper in its insistence that the Mississippi must be served first and other rivers afterwards. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906, Ohio River steamers carried more than 14,000,000 tons of freight and more than 4,000,000 passengers, and the tonnage and the passenger traffic would more than quadruple in a decade with Nine Foot in the Ohio from Pittsburgh to Cairo. The mistake of the Picayune is of value in showing that other river interests are urging their claims in all possible ways and will continue to push them to the utmost.

The Ohio is not a stream of "possibly a few boats," but a stream of many boats and of large and increasing tonnage, and it is up to Ohio Valley interests to show the facts and the showing will not be difficult. In all respects the meeting of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association at Wheeling on November 14 and 15 will be of the utmost importance to the Ohio Valley, and no interest and no community should be without representation in its deliberations.

CAVE-IN-ROCK.

Frost last week.

Allen and Gus Paris purchased the livery business of T. S. Bamard and are prepared to accommodate the traveling public.

F. M. Davidson was over one day last week and took back a sample of the flour made at our mills.

The brick work on our new school house has been completed and it will soon be ready for the state.

Mrs. Dr. Paris and two daughters and little grand daughter visited in Crittenden County several days recently.

Our country is full of mineral men. They are honey-combing the hills north of town and bring glowing accounts of rich finds everywhere.

Miss Nannie Rochester, Miss Cook, Miss Rankin and two Misses Braey, came over to our town not long since and kidnapped Allen Paris and took him away. We thought he was gone for keeps but he came back several hours later feeling quite happy and told his mamma to not feel alarmed, they just took him along to show them the Cave and other sights about the town. Come again girls.

Swallowed Bug and Died Instantly.

Almost instant death from swallowing a cauld moth is the fate that befell ten-year-old Jesse Moore, son of George Moore, of the Whitesville section. The moth passed into the boy's wind pipe and, although a physician was in the house at the time, the effects were so rapid and fatal that he could do nothing to save the child's life.

The peculiar incident occurred at the home of George Moore, a short distance south of Whitesville. The boy and his father were sitting in front of the fire. The former had fallen asleep in his chair, his mouth slightly open.

A large moth was fluttering around the lamp, which sat on a table near the boy. Suddenly, the moth flew into the boy's open mouth. The father saw it and supposed that the boy would be awakened but was alarmed when, instead, he became black in the face and was apparently thrown into convulsions.

In an adjoining room, a smaller child of the Moores was ill. Dr. McDonald, of Whitesville, had called to attend it and he and Mrs. Moore were at the bedside at the time. Mr. Moore hurriedly called Dr. McDonald. The doctor was at boy's side within a few seconds after he had swallowed the moth but found him already so far gone that nothing could be done for him.

The moth had gone down the boy's throat and lodged squarely in the top of the windpipe, completely shutting off his breath. Even this, under ordinary circumstances, would not have produced death so quickly and it is supposed that some peculiar irritation of the nervous system was produced which hastened the process.

She Did Not Fear Death.

An old lady on her seventy-third birthday once said, "I do not mind getting old and I do not fear death, but I live in constant dread of paralysis."

"For some time I have been wanting to tell you of the great good your wonderful Sloan's Liniment is doing here," writes Mr. James F. Abernethy, of Rutherford College, N. C. "In fact, all your remedies are doing noble work, but your Liniment beats all. In my eight years' experience with medicine I find none to go ahead of it, having tried it in very many cases. I know of one young man, a brick mason, who suffered from a partial, yes, almost complete paralysis of one arm. I got him to use your Liniment, and now he can do as much work as ever, and he sings your praise every day. I get all to use it I possibly can and know there is great value in it. I have helped the sale of your noble remedies about here greatly, and expect to cause many more to buy them, as I know they can't be beat."

Take something now on then to help the stomach. Kodol will do this. It is a combination of natural digestants and vegetable acids and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. It is pleasant to take. It pigments what you eat. Sold by J. H. Orme.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter for this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

STRANGE ANIMAL

Attacks Prominent Farmer Near Madisonville and Scratches Both Eyes Out.

A dispatch from Madisonville last Thursday says:

Last night as he was returning to his home in the Pond River country, near here, Mr. Walter Layne, one of the most prominent farmers of this county, was the victim of a most unusual attack.

Mr. Layne had been to this city attending court, and was driving slowly along, when some animal, presumably a wild cat, dropped from an overhanging limb onto the neck of his horse.

When the horse Mr. Lane was driving felt the animal on his neck, it broke and ran, throwing Mr. Lane over a cliff and into the river below. Mr. Layne fell into a deep pool, which broke his fall to some extent. He clamored out and was sitting on the side of the road, when his horse having gone around the bend, came along dragging the buggy with the animal still on its neck.

Mr. Layne succeeded in stopping the horse, whereupon the creature deserted the horse, which was almost dead, and attacked him, biting Mr. Layne in the chest and neck, and scratching out both eyes.

Mr. Layne finally got rid of the maddened animal and dropped across his buggy, which caused the horse to start again and he was dragged to his home, some two miles away in that manner. He was discovered as he reached the gate of his farm, and medical aid reached him in a short time, but he died in a few hours afterward, after telling of the manner in which he was injured.

About Kissing Mother.

A father, talking to his careless daughter, said: "I want to speak to you of your mother. It may be that you noticed a careworn look upon her face. Of course it has not been brought there by any act of yours; still it is your duty to chase it away. I want you to get up tomorrow morning and get breakfast. When your mother comes and begins to express her surprise, go right up to her and kiss her on the mouth. You can't imagine how it will brighten her dear face. Besides, you owe her a kiss or two. A long while ago when you were a little girl, she kissed you. You were not as attractive then as you are now. Through years of childish sunshine and shadows she was always ready to cure by the magic of a mother's kiss, the little, dirty, chubby hands whenever they were injured with those first skirmishes with the rough old world." —Exchange.

Honolulu, H. I., July 15.—If one be able to distract his mind from sociological conditions I know of no place where the surroundings are more ideal than the Hawaiian Islands. They were well named when they were called the "Paradise of the Pacific." It is all so essentially tropic in every aspect that one cannot remain here many days without sinking into that general state of lassitude which prevails among all the inhabitants, no matter what their race or color. The very air is conducive to rest and quiet, and while it is generally supposed by those who have never visited them that the tropics are hot and uncomfortable, such is not the case. In Honolulu it is always warm, the temperature varying but 8 degrees during the entire year. But this temperature is never above 84 nor below 76. There is considerable humidity in the air which, at times makes conditions oppressive, but the nights are always pleasant. Probably the most peculiar freak of the climate is the rainfall, it rains nearly every day, and I have seen it raining on the upper porch of the hotel while not a drop fell on the street below, the moisture all being dissipated before it reached the ground.

Kona coffee is becoming a staple in nearly all grocery stores in the United States, but few people know that the word "kona" means a direction. "Kona" is "South," and kona coffee is coffee that is raised on the south coast of the islands. The kona wind is the south wind, and it is this south wind that is considered beneficial to the growth of coffee. I have learned several things about coffee on the islands, and one of them are well worth remembering. Coffee should not be used until after it has been gathered three years, and if you can get coffee that is five years old so much the better. New coffee has a bitter taste which disappears as the grows older.

I took a trip yesterday to the Pali, that famous cliff over which one of the old time kings drove the natives when he came to conquer. The approach to this cliff, which rises sheer several sides more steep as one gets nearer to the top. There is a wondrous view of the northern end of the island from the Pali, and one can well imagine the terrible scene which occurred when thousands of the natives were driven over the edge to the jagged rocks far below.

Just how savage the aborigines of these islands were can be understood by a visit to the Bishop museum, south of Honolulu, where all sorts of old relics are to be seen. Here we find bowls in which human bodies were served up at feasts, as well as enormous forks used by savage royalty when eating human flesh. This museum is a wonderful place to study anthropology, and one could well spend several days here. On the magnificent statue of King Kamehameha which stands in front of the old palace, is a representation of the wonderful feather robe of state made of yellow feathers. The original robe is in the museum, made of feathers so rare that but two of them are obtained from a single bird. One would have to do a lot of figuring to find out how many birds lost their lives to furnish the feathers for their royal robe.

In addition to the museum the city boasts one of the most wonderful aquariums in the world. It is a public institution, and contains specimens of the wonderful fish found in these waters I have spent some time in the show places but must confess that there is more of interest to me in the fish market than in aquarium, but I shall tell about this fish market in a future letter, for I think it worth more space than mere mention.

While on the subject of royalty I may as well say that I have visited ex-Queen Lilioukalani, and found her an entertaining and highly educated lady. She is a skillful musician and fine composer, and is one of the most refined ladies that I have had the pleasure of meeting anywhere. As I sat in her plainly furnished parlor, out where the soft whispering of the waves of Waikiki beach kept up continued music, I could not help contrasting her with those ancestors whose savage implements I had been examining at the museum.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Inquisitive Mouse

Not very long ago one little mouse lived behind a plastered wall in a great big house. They were very happy, for there were no cats or traps of any kind about, and they knew just when to come out at night and where to find all the good things in the cupboard.

They lived this life for a very long time, so after awhile they were a little tired of their life.

The oldest mouse said he must have a taste of that stuff, for he was sure it must be good, and it was kept away up on the top of the desk, and he had heard the children forbidden to touch it. And every night he would keep on talking about the good stuff in the bottle until finally one night he made up his mind he would have a taste, let happen what would.

So he gave the bottle a little push and over it fell, with muddle running out of it and over Mr. Mouse until his legs and tail got so stuck up with it that he could not get away, and there he had to stay until next morning, when the servant girl found him.

And what do you think she did? Well, she borrowed the cat that belonged to the family next door, and puss ate him up for his breakfast.

And the poor little mouse that was left all alone made up her mind that she would take warning by what happened to her brother and would never be inquisitive.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Catastrophe

Thomas was a very exemplary cat except for the fact that he was inquisitive. His cold nose would be stuck into all the jars and pitchers on the table until they gave him the name of "snoop cat," which hurt his feelings. It was Christmas eve when Thomas wandered into the dining room. "My! That's a funny looking box over there by the fireplace. Wonder what's in it?"

He said to himself, "Been told not to touch things that don't concern me, but I'd certainly like to know what it is. Wonder if it'd hurt just to push that hook back and look in? I'll die if I don't see what's in there."

Softly he stole up and pushed the wire hook back. "Must be some sort of a Christmas present for Bill. If I see it first that will be a joke on him, won't it?"

"Fie! squeak! slap! slam! bang! wow! Up flew the cover and out of the box came the worst looking ogre that ever disgraced a fairy tale.

"What d'yer mean, you rascal?" shrieked the figure.

"Oh," grunted puss as he shrank back, trembling, "this is so sudden."

"I should say it was," said the ogre. "I had just settled down for the night, hoping to get some rest before those children got hold of me tomorrow, and here you come 'snooping' around and meddling with the hook, and my spring mess, for I can't get back in the box by myself, and tomorrow is Christmas."

"What shall I do?" asked Thomas.

"Put me back, of course, you stupid!"

"But I can't get you back."

"That's just the moral of the whole affair," snapped the ogre. "One never can do over what they have undone, which is to say they can never undo what they have did, which is to say that!"

But Thomas was so terrified that he did not wait to hear all the moral.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Sweetheart's Face Last Earthly Vision

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 15.—Nurse, turn the light up as high as you can, for I want Mable's face to be the last thing I see on earth," were the last words of George Roby, who died here this morning of typhoid fever. His orders were obeyed and as the glaze of death beclouded his vision, Miss Mabel Gehring, the woman to whom Mr. Roby was to be married about Thanksgiving time, and where he could see her best.

Mr. Roby came here about a month ago from Columbus, Ind., and accepted a position as jeweler. A few days later he was stricken with fever, which he had contracted on a camping trip.

Miss Gehring lived in Peoria, Ill., and as she heard of her lover's illness, she hastened to his bedside. The body was taken to Columbus, today, where the interment will take place.

Piece of Board Blown 23 Miles.

Montezuma, Ind., Oct. 16.—A few seconds after the explosion of the powder mill at Fontanet, a piece of pine board almost one foot long, about three inches wide and more than one inch thick, flew through the window of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Bailey, who live on South Jefferson street. It came with such terrific force that it went through a rambler rose bush by the window, through the wire screen and the window glass. One end was jagged and rough, where it had been broken or blown off a longer piece and had several drops of blood on it. The supposition is that the piece of pine was blown here from the Fontanet powder mills, a distance of twenty-three miles.

Doctors Said He Would Not Live.

Peter Fry, Woodruff, Pa., writes: "After doctoring for two years with the best physicians in Waynesburg, and still getting worse, the doctors advised me if I had any business to attend to I had better attend to it at once, as I could not possibly live another month as there was no cure for me. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me by a friend, and I immediately sent my son to the store for it, and after taking three bottles I began to get better and continued to improve until I was entirely well." ## JESUS THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD.

JOHN 8-12.

Some bible scholars who have given much study to this scripture think that it was uttered at the close of the day during the feast of tabernacles when there was the ceremony of the lighting of the lamps. Jesus was teaching in this court that when suddenly the lights flamed forth, he turned all eyes upon himself and sought to give spiritual instruction by pointing to the temple lights and exclaiming, "I am the Light of the World: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life."

Other bible students think that these words were spoken in the early morning—that at day break Jesus was in the midst of the people gathering for early worship, and the first words of this chapter, if we take it to be a connection in regular order would indicate that for it says, "And early in the morning He came again into the temple and all the people came to him, and he sat down and taught them, the dawning of the morning in that wonderful temple must have been a sight never to be forgotten. The first beams of the sunlight gilded everything beautiful, the pinnacles of the temple and touched the hills with gold, and as the people watched the splendid sunrise, the Lord Jesus there in the midst of them said 'this is the emblem of My mission: I am light of the world, he that followeth Me shall not walk in darkness but shall have the light of life. Christianity is a religion of light, it has no fellowship with the owls and bats which hide in darkness. Free press, free schools, free science, free speech, the light of the intellect, the light of the heart, the light of sympathy and soul, all follow in the wake of Jesus Christ. And the Lord Jesus says: Ye are light of the world. As the moon and stars get their light from the sun, so we must get our light from the Lord Jesus Christ, let us notice this is a guiding light, it is to guide us along our path to the Saviour to guide us in the midst of sorrows and trials of human life it is not the light that saves us, it is not in the power of light to save, but the light shining upon our path makes it possible for us to find our way to the cross and thus find salvation. As John says in his epistle, if we walk in the light as He is in the light we have fellowship one with another and the blood of Jesus Christ, his Son cleanseth us from all sin." Christ comes to us first as a light and then as a Saviour.

To the Citizens of Crittenden.

Do you know the condition of the public schools in your country? Do you know the condition of the school in your own district? If it is not all that it should be, what are you willing to do to improve it?

For some time many Kentuckians have felt that the efforts of our superintendents and teachers must be reinforced by the efforts of the patrons and friends of the public schools and that all of the people must be brought closer together in a movement for the improvement of the schools.

Why is this necessary? Because teachers and superintendents can not do it alone, and because our schools are in a lamentable condition. In many cases the houses are not habitable, and yet the children spend a greater number of waking hours there daily during the session than at home. It is cruel to confine them in buildings insufficiently heated, and either unventilated or full of drafts, and with the light from unshaded windows blinding their eyes, and with the seats so adapted to them that the little children are suspended in mid-air and the larger ones are cramped for space.

In many cases the sanitary condition needs attention. There are no outhouses, or they are placed too near the main building, or they are so constructed as to make cleaning impossible. They frequently offer no adequate provision for the separation of the sexes, and children who are carefully shielded at home from demoralizing conditions, are at the school subjected to obscene influence.

In many schools the simplest educational appliances are lacking, such as blackboards, that are really black, maps and charts.

The stoves need polishing, the windows need mending and cleaning. Walks are needed from the school-house door to the road and to the outhouses, so constructed that they will not in wet weather become pools of water or beds of mud. Water buckets are needed, and basins and towels, and hooks for the hanging of hats and coats, and shelves for the lunch baskets. In fact, in some places almost everything is needed if we would have the children spend the school hours in the midst of decent surroundings, and in almost every place something is needed.

These are not matters which we can afford to neglect any longer. The effect of these untidy, unhealthy, frequently vulgar conditions upon the children can not be uplifting, can never be educative. In consequence we are raising up a generation which will not have a fair chance—a generation which cannot compete with its fellows who have come up under better conditions. We are by our neglect robbing the children of their birthright. They have a right to expect a fair start in life, and we are not giving it to them.

Kentuckians no longer occupy the place in our national life that they did one and two generations ago. Our children are not being trained as they are in other states.

Do you know that the Commissioner of Education's Report, places Kentucky forty-second among the states in the descending scale of illiteracy of the white population, and fifty per cent. of her children of school age are not in school? Of those that are, we have seen, the opportunities are very meager.

And now, what is to be done about it? It is certainly time for us to be interesting ourselves in our public schools, for they are the training place for our future citizens. It is not possible for one man acting alone to do what needs to be done in each district, but it is possible, if the men and women of the district and the teacher and children of the school, all unite in an organization with the definite purpose to make their school what it should be—it is responsible for such an organization to metamorphose it.

Recognizing our need, and desiring to enlist our unusual forces in the interest of the schools, it was decided some months ago to inaugurate a movement for the organization of School Improvement Leagues, such as have given such an impetus to the cause of education in almost every Southern State of Kentucky.

The plan is to organize Local Leagues around every school in a county and to endeavor to engage every person in a district in some service for his school; to organize a County League to which the Local Leagues shall report at stated times; and to send reports and representatives from the County Leagues to the State Committee.

The matter was first taken up by the Education Committee of the Women's Federal Clubs of the State, and the organization of twenty-one County Leagues has been pushed under their auspices this summer.

The Kentucky Educational Association at its last meeting appointed a committee to co-operate with the Education Committee of the Federal Clubs, and also gave reports from the Leagues a definite place on the annual program.

Encouragement and promises of co-operation have come from various organizations, notably from conventions of religious bodies, from the Daughters of the Confederacy and the Daughters of the Revolution.

If information is desired as to methods of organization, or as to plans for work it can be obtained from Mrs. R. N. Roark, Richmond, Kentucky.

Body Cut to Pieces.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 15.—Sidney Williamson, aged twenty six years, met death in a horrible manner here to-night. While attempting to board an east-bound C. and O. passenger train, he was drawn beneath the wheels, and his body, crushed and mangled, was dragged for nearly four blocks along Broadway.

The accident occurred about 8 o'clock and was not witnessed by anyone. A negro going through the tunnel at the eastern end of the railroad station discovered the head and upper portion of the body lying between the rails at the mouth of the tunnel. The legs were found two blocks away, and pieces of the body and clothing were gathered up between.

A strange fatality has pursued the family of the young man killed to-night. His father, Jerry Williamson, was shot and killed in this city eighteen years ago; a brother, Dudley Williamson, was shot and killed here about five years; and another brother, Tank Williamson, was burned to death at Jeffersonville, Ind., a few years ago, and still another is an inmate of the State Insane Asylum at Lexington. Williamson was unmarried. He leaves a mother and sister.

Rescued.
Silver Capshaw was arrested and thrust into prison. The doors were tightly locked and the jailer hid the keys in the depths of one of his sox.
Oliver was a splendid specimen of the bad man, and consequently had a tough lot of friends. They met at their rendezvous with a smoky lantern and eighty rounds of ammunition. They determined on immediate action in the rescue of their brother-in-trouble—Oliver Capshaw.
They went to the jail. The keeper was barricaded behind a wall made of logs, and even the loudest shots could not penetrate it. Hopes of rescue in this manner were futile. They returned to their rendezvous in the dark cavern on the banks of the Bloody river. Seating themselves they hatched out a new plot. Nearby was a saw mill, to which they went, they stole the saw mill, went quietly with it to the jail, put it in running order and sawed Oliver Capshaw's way out of prison.—Hogawallow Kentuckian.
