"NIGHT RIDERS"

Visit Hopkinsville and Burn Three Tobacco Warehouses and Contents

Hopkinsville, Ky., Dec. 7.—Five hundred "night riders," masked and heavily armed, marched into Hopkinsville about 2 o'clock this morning and laid waste property valued at over $200,000. Three big warehouses and contents were fired and permitted to burn, while the I. C. depot, and the L. & N. depot and the several banks were pretty well shot up.

The "night riders" came silently and had control of the town before their presence was even suspected. Then while the citizens of the largest town, in terror of their lives, feared to even so much as open their windows, and the police, fire department, telephone and telegraph offices and even the railway stations were in possession of a wild mob, shooting right and left, the flames from burning buildings lighted up the city and the surrounding country until it seemed that the whole town was ablaze.

Windows in the front of business houses and banks on the main street of the city were shot out and the entire front of one newspaper, the Kentuckian, which had been especially severe in its condemnation of the raids of the "night riders," was demolished.

Fortunately only two men were injured, one of them being Rindsey Mitchell, a tobacco buyer, who was severely beaten with switches and clubs and the other a brakeman, who was shot in the back while trying to remove his train from the path of the flames.

Later—The warehouses destroyed were those of W. H. Tandy, an independent buyer; R. M. Wooldridge, association warehouse, adjoining Tandy's and Tandy & Farley, Regie buyers. Marching through the streets shooting and shouting the raiders shot through the plate glass windows of the Commercial Bank and Savings company, the First National, the Planters' Trust company and the Bank of Hopkinsville.

Coming to the Hopkinsville Kentuckian, owned by Mayor Meacham, which had been strong against the night riders, they ended their wrath by literally riddling the place, firing hundreds of shots through it.

Going to the home of Lindsay Mitchell, an independent buyer, they forced him from his bed dragging him to the main portion of the town whipped him with clubs and switches.

The L. & N. trainmen, trying to move freight out of danger, were fired on, one named Delph was wounded.

Three alarms of fire were sent in, but the raiders were guarding the houses and they were afraid to answer.

It is estimated that 10,000 shots were fired.

The citizens were terror stricken and kept indoors.

After seeing their work done, the raiders left town at dawn.

Major Bassett summoned what militia he could, and started in pursuit of the raiders, but none have been captured.

It is thought there was insurance of about $50,000 on the property destroyed.

A squad under Deputy Sheriff L. C. Cravens encountered a number of the "riders" a few miles from town early this morning and kept up a running fight with them for several miles, shots being exchanged. None of the "riders" were captured.

The operators of the telephone companies were called out of the buildings and held under guard by armed men in the chilly air. Night Operator McDevitt, of the Illinois Central, was the first to see the "riders." He was on duty when he looked into the muzzle of half a dozen revolvers and was warned to send nothing out on penalty of death.

Miss Maude Brown, a telephone operator, sent in a fire alarm when the first flames broke out.

Nearly every house in the business section of the town has bullet marks somewhere. Fully 2,000 bullets struck the office of the county judge in the court house.

Six bullets passed through the home of Rev. George Means, the Methodist pastor, narrowly missing members of his family.

Delph, the wounded brakeman, was struck by several buck shot and it is thought to be fatally hurt.

Mayor Meacham, who lives a short distance from town, rushed in at the first alarm and was just in time to see the raiders leaving.

A federal question will be raised by the destruction of the Italian Regie tobacco.

After being permitted to leave the houses the firemen had great difficulty in checking the flames.

Damage of $2,000 from broken glass may be added to the losses by fire.

The Picture Show.

The moving picture show continues to give entertainments at the opera house, and the shows are pronounced by those who have seen them to be equal to any given elsewhere. The films used are the same as those used in the large cities and the man in charge of the machine gets just as good results. Marion capital is invested in this enterprise and it should be more liberally patronized.

Caleb Stone Reported Seriously Ill.

Councilman Geo. W. Stone received a telegram from S. R. Boyd, of Ponioma, California, last Thursday afternoon informing him of the serious and sudden illness of his father Caleb Stone who left here only a few weeks ago in fine health and spirits to spend the winter with S. R. Boyd and family in Southern California.

He left on the first train for Ponioma at which place he was due to arrive Monday, it taking near four days to make the trip from Marion to that place.

Tuesday morning Mrs. Geo. W. Stone received a message from her husband informing her of his father's complaint, it being pneumonia in both lungs, but it did not state his condition.

Buys the Frank Glenn Farm.

Our old friend, Dan Riley, formerly of View, later of Hereford, Texas, still later of Oklahoma, has ceased his wanderings and returned to old Kentucky to reside. Last week he closed a deal with Mrs. Susan Glenn of this city for her fine farm near Caldwell Springs on the Fredonia and Dyeusburg road.

The farm is one of the best improved in this section and contains 227 acres. It brought Mrs. Glenn over $4,000 which is considered by parties familiar with the place as a low price. We congratulate Mr. Riley on his good fortune and hope he and his good family will reside with us now. Their many friends will give them a hearty welcome we are sure.

Mrs. Robert Coffield Dead.

News reached the city yesterday, by letter to relatives here of the death Tuesday, Dec. 3, of Mrs. Mary Henry Coffield the wife of Robert Coffield. Her death occurred at their home in South McAlester, I. T. Mrs. Coffield was well known here where much of her life was spent and being a cousin of Mrs. J. W. Blue, Mrs. H. K. Woods and Miss Nelle Walker and her sisters, Mrs. Jesse Olive, Mrs. D. B. Moore and Mrs. E. H. Doss.

She was a Miss Evertson before her marriage to Robt. Coffield. Her mother was a sister of R. N. and J. H. Walker deceased, and of Mrs. M. H. Jones, of this county.

Mrs. Coffield was a Christian Scientist in belief and was known far and near as a divine healer of great power. Her subjects came from all parts of the union to her for relief and many wonderful cures are credited to her.

Her husband, the venerable Robt. Coffield, was for many years the postmaster here and also proprietor of the Coffield Hotel here and was always a popular, highly respected and much loved citizen. His friends here with one accord sympathize with him.

AWFUL MINE EXPLOSION

Terrific Discharge Which Is Heard For Eight Miles—Buries Miners In Two Great Shafts.

Monogah, W. Va., Dec. 7.—Three charred and blackened bodies, lying in the morgue near the entrance to the mine, four men hovering between life and death from awful bruises sustained and deadly gases inhaled, in a temporary hospital, and 380 men imprisoned by tons of coal, rock and debris in the depth of the hills surrounding this town, with chances all against a single one of them being alive, is the most accurate summary obtainable tonight of the results of a mine explosion today which in all probability was attended by greater loss of life than any former disaster in the history of the bituminous coal mining industry of America.

The explosion occurred shortly after 10 o'clock Friday, after a full force of 400 men had gone to work in the two mines affected. These mines are numbers six and eight of the Consolidated Coal company, located on the opposite side of the West Fork river at this place, but merged in their underground working by a heading and on the surface by a steel tippie and bridge.

The finding of the three corpses and four badly injured men is the only reward for the strenuous and interrupted work on the part of the rescuing forces today. The four living men are unable to give any detailed report of the disaster or to even say how they reached the surface. They state that immediately back of them, when they began their struggle for liberty, there was a large number of men engaged in a similar struggle, while still further back in the workings was a larger number of whom they know nothing.

It is the opinion of those familiar with the mines that these seven men had not penetrated the mine as far as had the majority of the day shift when the explosion occurred, and that they headed for and reached the main entrance before the heavy cave in that now blockades the entrance more than a few hundred feet beyond the main opening of mine No. 6.

As to the miners referred to by the rescued men as having been alive when last seen, it is believed that they were caught back of a heavy cave-in of coal in the mine roof and could not have survived more than a few minutes in the deadly gases with which the entry was filled as soon as the ventilating system was interrupted. There is more hope for those in the remote sections of the mine, as they may have reached the workings where fresh air is supplied by other openings. But at the best only the most slender hope is entertained for the survival of any of the men in the mine until the debris can be cleared away and communications with outsiders established.

The general opinion is that the number of men in the mine will reach 400, and some believe that this number will be exceeded, while others think the number will be smaller. The most conservative estimate places the number of victims at 300 or more.

Celebrated Ninety-First Birthday.

Last Thursday December fifth, Uncle Harvey Travis celebrated his ninety first birthday. As usual the relatives went from near and far with well filled baskets and spent the day with uncle Harvey. Every year for the past sixteen years, the Travis family have had a re-union at home of this, the oldest member of this splendid family.

There were over one hundred visitors that attended this re-union, there being children, grand-children, and great-grand-children among them.

Uncle Harvey has always been a hale old man until recently his health has been failing and he is very weak.

May he see at least a few more birth days, enough to round the hundred mark.

Prohibition and Patent Medicine.

A timely cartoon in an illustrated comic weekly pictures a scene at a Georgia railway station, where carloads of various "tonics," for distribution in a prohibition State, are stacked upon the platform. There is more truth than jest in the artist's mental vision of conditions that will exist where prohibition attempts to prohibit. There will be quite a deal of work for grand juries in prohibition districts if there is a vigorous attempt to enforce the prohibition laws, and not all of it will be centered upon the illicit saloon that sells distilled spirits, wines and malt liquors under labels that tell something about the contents of the bottles if they brazenly misbrand the quality.

Kentucky boasts a town whose name stands upon the map as a monumental joke at the expense of prohibition that does not prohibit. Some twenty-five years ago a country store, situated in Crittenden county, near a post-office and steamboat landing called "Hurricane," drove a lively trade, in prohibition times, in bottled stomach bitters called "Tolu Tonic." The settlement that sprang up in the vicinity of the store was dubbed "Tolu." The village attained such a healthy growth that the post-office, long situated on the river bank, and in reach of high water, was moved up to the head of Hurricane creek, in which "Tolu" nestled. Thus "Tolu" became the real name of a town, and "Tolu" it remains to this good hour.

The moral pointed by the tale is too obvious for elucidation. Where the licensed liquor traffic is forbidden the love of liquor will find a way.—Courier-Journal.

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation even to very young babes. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung-healing mountain shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the Doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb." Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. Sold by James H. Orme.

A Big Porker.

Henry C. Farmer killed some pigs December 4th. He put one on the scales and it weighed 478 pounds net. There has been a number of hogs killed that weighed more than that, for instance Garland Carter better known as "Hog" Carter raised one that weighed something like a 1000 pounds on foot, but let's see if any one has killed a hog this fall, in Crittenden county that has netted more than 478.

Henderson Coal Beds Investigated.

Henderson, Dec. 3.—The reporter of the Gleaner in an interview with F. Julius Fohs, of the State Geological Survey, was able to gather that he is here for the purpose of investigations of the coal and clay beds of Henderson county as far as it is possible at present to do so. While obviously some work has been done by the survey in this section, the extent and number of coal beds has never been determined over the entire county.

If sufficient information cannot be obtained from what is open to present investigation it is proposed to bring a core drill to be operated at the instance of the state into the county the coming year.

The work of mapping the county topographically jointly by the state and federal surveys has now progressed so far that only a small portion of the northern part of the county remains to be mapped.

Of Interest to Mothers.

There is one subject which always interests the mother of young children and that is how to treat their coughs and colds, or to ward off a threatened attack of croup. For this purpose we recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It always proves beneficial. In case of croup it should be given as soon as the croupy cough appears, so as to prevent the attack. Keep it at hand ready for instant use. Many mothers do so, and it saves them much uneasiness. For sale by J. H. Orme.

On last Sunday Mr. Rowe, of Elizabethtown, Ky., who is visiting his son, Rev. J. S. Rowe, became faint while attending the morning service at the Christian church and on leaving the church fell in a faint on the street in front of C. H. Wilson's home. Kind friends picked him up and cared for him until he was revived and able to be taken to his son's home. Mr. Rowe had been rather feeble for several days. His face was badly bruised from the fall.—Sturgis News Democrat.

Coal Strike Feared in Kentucky.

Madisonville, Ky., Dec. 5.—A second invitation has been mailed to all coal operators and mine workers in Hopkins, Webster, Union and Christian counties, requesting them to meet in joint convention here next Wednesday, and talk over the mining situation in this district.

At the convention held here two weeks ago a number of operators were present, mostly from other counties, and it is the general opinion here that in case the local operators ignore the second invitation to meet the officials of the mine workers' union, a strike will in all probability be called within a few days.

A large force of union organizers have been at work in this district for several months, and it is claimed by some that they have been very successful in their efforts to organize.

Union miners in the Linton (Ind.) coal fields, it is said, have promised their support and it is reported that a delegation from there will soon come to this county to assist in the work.

Croup Quickly Cured.

A few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy bring surprising results when a child shows symptoms of croup. There is no cause for alarm when this medicine is in the house, as it rarely takes more than three or four doses to bring about a complete cure. It has never failed even in the most dangerous cases, and no home where there are small children can afford to be without it. For sale by J. H. Orme.

Honolulu Letter.

Honolulu, H. I., July 27.—Tomorrow I sail for Tokio and my next letter and those following will delve deeper into the queer things across the Pacific. There is so much in these islands however, that one could remain here for weeks, constantly finding something 'new to write about. Through my medical connection I was able to visit the leper
settlement on the island of Molokai,
and have been waking up with shud-ders ever since. It is a place so horrible that it would take a pen stronger and more subtle than mine to adequately describe it. I can tell how it impressed me, but I do not believe it possible to make anyone understand what it really looks like unless they see it.

Leprosy is believed by a majority of the medical world to be both contagious and infectious. But I have my doubts about the latter part of the theory. That it is contagious is proven over and over again on these islands, and nine out of ten of these poor unfortunates who are dragging out their loathsome lives on Molokai received the disease by contact with some one who had it, or by using clothing that had been worn by a leper.

The settlement on Molokai is a natural prison, walled in on the land side by high cliffs, while the ocean forms an effectual barrier to escape on that side. It is not necessary to guard these prisoners for they cannot get away. They have a little village with a form of local government, and are directly under regulation of the Board of Health of the islands. They are cared for by the government and when man, woman or child shows signs of leprosy there is no help for the victim. They are hurried to living death and remain there until death relieves them of their suffering. Many tales are told of natives who have fought against this imprisonment and have become outlaws, holding the authorities at bay for many months before they gave up. All the natives except the educated ones are on the side of the victim who has contracted the disease and do all in their power to prevent the officers from taking him to Molokai. One man who was touched with leprosy took his wife and little child to the mountains
where they lived in a cave, defying
the officers for more than a year.
He was finally captured through his child who wandered away and was found by officers. Rather than be separated from his child the father and mother gave up and the entire family went to the settlement.

There is a theory here that leprosy which is so prevalent is caused by eating raw fish. Natives eat a great deal of raw fish, and this with poi,
a peculiar custard made of taro root, forms the staple article of diet. Poi is the national dish and its use marks
class divisions among the people.
According to the consistency of the poi it is known as "one finger poi,"
"two finger poi" and "three finger poi." It is much more elegant to eat it with one finger, consequently the more fingers one uses when eating poi the lower he is in the social scale.

Taro, from which poi is made, is a peculiar plant which grows in swampy land, and in its cultivation
natives utilize the water buffalo, which they have imported from the Philippines. This animal takes kindly to anyone with dark skin, but woe to the person who is white who gets within reach of it. There seems to be something especially distasteful in the odor of a white person to this buffalo, but I have seen native children by the dozen playing about the feet of the animals.

If one went to Honolulu and missed taking a ride on a surf boat he would miss one of the greatest sports of the islands. Out at Waikiki, one of the most beautiful beaches in the world, the natives take their heavy surf boats far out on the ocean, and,
watching for some especially big roller, start home with it, riding on its comb. If the boatman is an expert all goes well, and they go racing in at express train speed, but if there be the slightest turn of the bow there is an upset and a good ducking. No one is hurt for the Badly Mixed Up.

Abraham Brown, of Winterton, N.
Y., had a very remarkable experience,
he says: "Doctors got badly mixed up over me; one said heart disease; two called it kidney trouble; the fourth blood poison, and the fifth stomach and liver trouble; but none of them helped me; so my wife advised trying Electric Bitters, which are restoring me to perfect health. One bottle did me more good than all the five doctors prescribed."
Guaranteed for blood poison, weakness and all stomach, liver and kidney complaints, by Haynes & Taylor and Jas. H. Orme.

Waiting For Dad.

He hangs upon the gate with chubby
arms at mast,
And in each dimpled hand he holds
an apple fast!
His face is brown and tanned, his hat has blown away;
All day the birds have watched him
at his play—
But now the sun sinks low across the Western sea
And here upon the gate, my "baby"
waits for me!
With joyous wave and shout, he sees
me up the walk;
"Oh, daddy—horseback ride!" I kneel—and prance and bask!
And thus a charger, wild, champs
proudly up the road
To where we greet the queen—the mother of my load.
And then the horsey kneels upon a clover bed
And throws his rider bold, in triumph o'er his head!
The summer days are gone, and o'er
my heart is laid
The sere of Autumn time! In sorrow where he played,
I wait in vain—and sob at night beside his bed.
No more we charge along the road—
my boy is dead!
But up above, in realms where little boys are glad,
I know my "baby," lost on earth, is waiting for his "dad!"

Asthma Sufferers Should Know This

Foley's Honey and Tar has cured
many cases of asthma that were considered hopeless. Mrs. Adolph Buesing, 701 West Third St., Davenport, Iowa, writes: "A severe cold contracted twelve years ago was neglected until it finally grew into asthma. The best medical skill available could give me more than temporary relief. Foley's Honey and Tar was recommended and one fifty cent bottle entirely cured me of asthma which had been growing on me twelve years. If I had taken it at the start I would have been saved years of suffering." Sold by J. H. Orme.

Many a Kentucky Citizen Knows How Sure They Are.

Nothing uncertain about the work
of Doan's Kidney Pills in Kentucky.
There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens.
Such evidence should convince the most skeptical sufferer. Read the following statement:

Mrs. L. Varalli, living at 923
Fifth St., Louisville, Ky., says:
"I am happy to say that Doan's Kidney Pills have been of great benefit to me and other members of my family. I frequently had attacks of backache and kidney trouble before using your remedy, but after using two boxes of the pills the trouble was entirely cured. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to a great many of my friends for I attribute my present good health to the use of Doan's Kidney Pills.
They certainly do all that is claimed for them."

Current Facts.

Greece has an absolute natural monopoly of currant production which averages about 160,000 tons a year. The seedless grapes, which when dried are known as currants, grow nowhere else in the world.

It takes about four pounds of fresh grapes to make a pound of dried currants. No artificial processes are used in curing; the best qualities are dried in the shade, all others in the sun.

The United States consumes 35,- 000,000 pounds of dried currants a year, less than half a pound a head.
Great Britain's consumption is three pounds per capita, and Holland's six pounds.

Dietists who have made a study of the food value of currants say that 97 per cent. of their weight is soluble in water, and that currants contain 75 per cent. of nutritive value,
or more than twice as much nourishment as lean beef.

As a concentrated food, Sir Francis Laking, King Edward's physician, has lately pointed out that the 73 per cent. of grape sugar contained in currants makes them a valuable aid in digestion, allays nervousness,
and prevents nervous exhaustion.

To safeguard the industry upon which the welfare of the whole nation depends, owing to the fact that currants form 65 per cent. of Greece's total production, heavy penalties are imposed upon growers who pick their crops before it is ripe or pack it before it is thoroughly dried and clean

To a Little Girl of Yesterday.

Little girl of yesterday,
You have left us, so they say;
All your childish ways are gone,
Cometh now the sad, sweet dawn
Of womanhood, and mystery,
Of the life that is to be.

Was it not just yesterday
That you put your dolls away?
Just a little while ago
When you romped and chattered so—

Chattered early, chattered late,
Now you're silent and sedate.
Little sweetheart, yesterday,
You departed, so they say;
But, perhaps, it is not true,
Everything they say of you.

I wish that you might stay
As you were just yesterday,
Dancing down the paths of May
In your wifely, witching way—
Then you might not deem it bold
Just to love me as old.

Yokohama Letter.

Yokohama, Japan, August 4.—A quick and pleasant trip from Honolulu has brought me to the threshold of the Flowery Kingdom. I am still at the threshold for I write this letter on board the steamer as we wait in Tokyo bay, where we are anchored two miles from land. One of the typhoons, those terrible revolving windstorms for which this coast is famous, has been blowing, and we have been waiting for the heavy swell to subside so we can land. There are no wharves at Yokohama, and we have to go ashore in small boats. A swarm of sampans, clumsy native boats, is around the ship and the men in them are clamoring lustily for passengers. But the captain says to wait, and we do not care to risk our lives to get on land.

I was going to tell how these Japanese boatmen are dressed, but the better word to use is "undressed." They wear a wide-sleeved, scanty garment which reaches to the knees, and in addition to this some of them have a cloth bound around their heads. The boys are not so well dressed for all they have on is the maro or loin cloth, which the law compels them to wear. Most of them are hideously tattooed. They keep up a continuous chatter, interspersed with shouts of "hai," "hai," which is a warning for the other boatmen to get out of the way. These sampans are so tightly packed about the ship that one could walk over them as upon a surfboard floor.

Our trip from Honolulu was broken by a stop at Midway island, a most desolate spot in a desolate ocean, where cable operators and thousands of sea birds are the only inhabitants. The monotony of the lives of those men must be terrible, and were it not for their communion with the world over their cables they surely would go insane. The poor fellows are glad to talk with the passengers of the ship, and said they got so lonesome at times that it was only by greatest effort of mind they stood the awful isolation. Two of the operators who were on the island went insane, and now they are charged every three months so they can stand the strain.

At Guam, where we also stopped, conditions are somewhat better, for in addition to the Americans there are natives, and the island is covered with trees. The natives of Guam are similar to those of the Philippines, and they have learned the value of international commerce, for they brought many curios to the vessel to sell to the passengers. They have learned that people on ships are easy victims and they demand extraordinary prices for their wares. I am told that when whiffs first came to the island they could buy beautiful tapas, shields and clubs for whatever they choose to give, but now you have to pay more than is asked in San Francisco for the same articles. It does not take long for the savage to learn that the tourist and his money are easily parted.

I have been much impressed by this trip across the Pacific. In all the days at sea since we left San Francisco we have not seen a single vessel of any description until we entered the harbors of Honolulu and Yokohama. I wondered what would happen if an accident should compel us to take to the small boats while away out in the ocean. Our chance of rescue would have been small, indeed. Fortunately the weather was beautiful until we ran into the outer edge of the typhoon on the coast of Japan. I am glad it was not the inner circle for the edge was bad enough to send half of the passengers to their beds with sea sickness. These typhoons are disastrous to shipping and many wrecks can now be seen as a result of the storm which is holding us off shore. It is warm and sultry, and light garments have replaced the heavy ones we had worn since leaving Guam.

One satisfaction we derive from our present position is that we vary the monotony of our sea food, for now we have all kinds of fresh vegetables, fruits and fish. Fish are especially abundant for nearly every one of these boatmen is a fisherman as well, and all have fish to sell in addition to their offering their boats to carry passengers ashore. Several steam launches are plying between ship and shore, and when I go it will be in something better than a clumsy sampan. C. E. E.

Bought A Bank.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 7.—To pay a debt of gratitude and protect interests of a bank which was involved in the suspension of the National Bank of Commerce in this city Jos. Brown, of Argentine, Kas., who a few years ago accumulated large fortune mining in the Klondike, today purchased outright the First State Bank of Argentine, which closed its doors last Thursday for one day only. The bank was a branch of the National Bank of Commerce. Brown paid cash for all of the bank's indebtedness and buying its securities. The amount paid was $40,000.

MUNICIPALUNACY.

By JOHN KENDRICK BANGS.
Over in Boston a little while ago they put a successful undertaker in charge of the supplies department, with the result that the Hub has been buying inferior grade coal at high grade prices, and the honorable superintendent didn't know it until the facts were brought out by an investigating committee. We are not at all surprised and for two reasons—first, a man may be a first rate undertaker and know the quality of what he puts into the ground without necessarily being an expert on what comes out of the ground, and second, Boston should have known what we all know—that an undertaker is not the right kind of a man to have charge of a civic coal plant. Under the most approved municipal ownership ventures it is the custom to have such things attended to by milliners and dressmakers men.

Matthew Arnold ought to be a popular author with those municipal ownership advocates who believe that a gas works can be successfully managed by a confectioner. He wrote an essay on sweetness and light, which would seem to show that the two things are not incompatible.

Paris, France—to distinguish it from Paris, Ky.—has gone into the undertaking business and is said to give great satisfaction to both mourners and to the deceased. Just how this would work in this country we cannot say. Philadelphia would doubtless make a first class undertaker, as would also Boston, but we fear New York, Chicago and St. Louis would prove too frivolous for the job.

New York's combined garbage incinerator and electric light plant which was used to provide light for the Williamsburg bridge has faded away like the last rose of summer. Even under the city's liberal system of free garbage for all so pleasingly insisted upon during the warm days of last July, by which fuel cost the lighting plant nothing, the loss was $25,000 a year as compared to the cost of a similar service under private contract. And there wasn't anything the matter with the garbage either.

Over in France, where they have government ownership of the telephone, the "subscriber" has to yell himself so hoarse to get central that when the desired connection is finally made he is too hoarse to make himself heard. This of course has its advantages if it be true that men are prone to talk too much and as a restraint upon a too impulsive speech, but we cannot help wondering how long an American telephone company unsupported by the army and navy, the president, the supreme court and both houses of congress would last under similar conditions.

The privately owned department stores of Berlin are underselling the municipal market halls so decidedly that the latter are being operated at a loss. We wonder that his honor William H. Kelsey of Potsdam permits such cold blooded butchery.

It Sounds Logical.

It was after changing a meter, an old one, for one of more recent manufacture that one of the inspectors was called to the house of a German. The complainant wanted that meter changed again at once. "For what did you change my meter except to make me pay more gas bill?" he asked. His bill had increased. The inspector tried to explain that the winter months and the earlier darkness were responsible, but he couldn't fool the old German. "You take out my little meter and put in that big box," he remarked sagely. "Big box, lots of gas; little box, little gas." And all the explaining in the world could not move him.—Progressive Age.

This Plant Was Given Away.

The mayor of Fulda, Minn., writes with regard to the electric light plant in that city:

"Our plant was not sold, but given away in 1902, but the deed was not executed until five years later, as according to contract the present owner was to run it for five years in payment for it. The reason for giving it away was that it ran $1,000 behind every year. The original cost was about $5,000."

The original cost must have been increased by later additions, as in January last the superintendent reported the cost as $10,000.

Petty Despotism.

The Hackensack (N. J.) letter carriers have been ordered by the postmaster general to resign their membership in the various fire companies. They are looked upon by the federal authorities as paid, because they are allowed $12 a year for damage to their clothing in service. It is this that the postal authorities declare to be "pay." The firemen letter carriers say they never have left their routes to attend a fire, and they can't imagine how the postoffice authorities became so interested in so small a matter.—Fire and Water Engineering.

One Method of Control.

On the board of directors of the Louisville (Ky.) Gas company are four men representing the city's interests. They must be residents of Louisville, must own not less than ten and not over a hundred shares of the company's stock and be elected by the boards of aldermen, the gas company furnishing a list of eligibles.—Progressive Age.

Refuses to Sanction Expense to Show.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 26.—In a communication from Gov.-elect Augustus E. Wilson to Brig. Gen. Roger Williams in regard to the attendance of the state troops at the inauguration, December 10, Mr. Wilson says:

"I wish the appropriation for the state guards to be faithfully kept and used exclusively for the honor of the state and the usefulness of the troops and never in any way for me personally. I am informed that the military fund is exhausted, and the expense of the troops attending the inauguration would fall upon a future appropriation over which I have no official control. I am resolutely and unalterably opposed to in any way anticipating any part of it useless absolutely necessary for the welfare of the state and in my inauguration I wish to avoid all display of expense."

Jones Sticks To His Name For Station.

Uniontown, Ky., Dec. 5.—William Jones, of Jones' Station, has torn down the famous old sign at Highland. "This is not Highland here; this is Jones," and has erected two neat signs on either side of the Illinois Central railroad, painted in neat letters of the same style as the usual railroad signs, "Jones' Station."

Highland is between Corydon and Morganfield. The trouble between Jones and the railroad began several years ago, when the railroad planted in front of Jones' house, that fronts the railroad, the sign "Highland."

"This has been Jones," he said, "for sixty years. My father settled here when a boy."

He hired a painter and made the first sign, being determined to outwit the railroad company, just within a few feet of the sign "Highland" sign. "This is not Highland here, this is Joneses," the Joneses being intended for Jones. The railroad sent down men to have the sign demolished, but as it was planted on Jones' land, they thought it best to let it alone.

Heart Strength

Heart strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Put simply, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more strength, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these Heart nerves, it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

GAS PLANT OPERATION.

Lucien H. Tyng Compares Public and Private Ownership.

Lucien H. Tyng contributed to the August issue of Moody's Magazine a strong article on "Private versus Public Operation of Gas Companies," from which we take the following:

"Making money out of a gas plant is not like picking gold eagles out of the street, and a franchise to run the gas business in a community is no gold mine. It may be developed into a source of great profit, but only in conjunction with capital and business ability, especially the latter, which if not employed in the particular gas business in question might be securing greater returns in some other field.

"There is no more logic in the belief that the surplus earnings of a successful gas company over a certain percentage on the investment should go to the municipality than that a whole-sale grocer should refund to his customer all profits over 6 per cent, say, on the capitalization of his company. The success of the gas company comes from the use of proper judgment, energy and business methods in the use and risk of capital invested, just as in any other business.

"That often the gas business is apparently a natural monopoly in a given community does not disprove the foregoing reasoning. The gas companies that are making the most money today are not those that are taking advantage of their franchise rights to exact high rates. They are the ones who by their own effort in educating the people are so increasing the per capita consumption of gas as to make a lower rate a business possibility and by their intelligent attention to operating cost and investment of large amounts of new capital when needed are able to reduce the cost of making gas sufficiently to secure a greater total profit out of selling a large amount of gas at a low rate than was before received when rates were higher and business less.

"But it is only by the most aggressive and intelligent business methods that a gas company can hope to succeed under such conditions. The ability to handle the business in this way is something that a municipality cannot buy at a salary. The opportunities in other lines of business are too great to those with the capacity that enables them to develop the highest earning power out of a gas company at a low margin of profit for the product."

PUBLIC BUSINESS NEGLECTED

No Private Enterprises Could Have Been So Badly Managed Without Collapse.

It is a stern but not a pleasant duty to call occasional attention to the way events continue to stultify the claims of the municipal ownership advocates that the public does its own business as well as or better than the individual does his.

Take three enterprises of present moment. No private individual or corporation constrained by a profit making purpose and upholstered by the taxing power would make such crazy and corrupt contracts for a building as those which investigation shows the state of Pennsylvania made for the Harrisburg capitol. No private enterprise would have so little to show for six years of work on a simple engineering problem as the municipality has in the Manhattan bridge. No individual able to keep out of the bankruptcy courts and the insane asylum would have spent, as Father Knickerbocker has spent, $7,000,000 for a hall of records, taken seven years to build it and then found that it would not hold his records.

The huge debt of the metropolis, its narrow borrowing power, the condition of its streets, docks and parks and the confusion of its tax system, all are explained and illuminated by these contemporary incidents.—Editorial in New York Mail and Express.

There Was a Reason.

Some of the forms of graft practiced in certain Indiana cities which have gone into the municipal ownership business may be peculiar to those towns. In one of them, which owns and runs its waterworks system, as Rochester does, the city waterworks were insured for $32,000. A cement water tank carried $20,000 insurance, though it could not be fired if a thousand incendiaries went to work at it. It happened that in that town one of the influential officials was agent for a fire insurance company which had "risks" on the water tank and other properties.—Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat and Chronicle.

Familiar Story From Portsmouth, O.

Portsmouth, O., was among the first to install its own electric light plant, which it operated until a street railway system was installed. At that time a contract was made with the street railway company by the terms of which it took charge of the lighting plant and furnished light to the city for a specified sum. This contract continued in force until about three years ago, when the practically worn-out and out of date equipment was sold to the street railway company because the city was unwilling to expend the money necessary properly to re-equip the plant.

In Chehalis, Wash.

According to the mayor of Chehalis, Wash., "the city owns the plant, which was leased some time ago to a private party. That party now owns nearly all the machinery connected with the plant. The city at the time it operated the plant did not make a financial success for the reason that the city was at that time very small and in dishonest hands, so the story goes."

Kentuckian Pursues Pretty Face, But Another Owns It.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—Col. Pink Marshall Hardesty, from a portion of the State of Kentucky to the jury unknown, came yesterday to Chicago to seek the owner of a face that had appeared to him from the label of a bottle that had contained a certain brand of rye whiskey. The Colonel found the face, but he also found that it was the property of another.

It appears that the Colonel went into a saloon at Cincinnati, where he purchased a quart of whisky. After disposing of the contents of the bottle, he proceeded to inspect the label. In the center of the paper was the beautiful face of a young woman. The face upon the bottle won the Colonel's heart. He wrote to the distillers to find out who the model was whence had been taken this entrancing lithograph. The distillers told the Colonel that they got the label in Chicago and gave him the name of the firm. The Colonel took up the matter with the Chicago firm and found that it had in turn, secured its photograph from an artist of this city.

The artist was the next step in the story of the face upon the bottle. He told the Colonel that the picture was that of a friend, and that he had given it to the firm making the labels.

Then it developed that Miss Bonnie Delairo, 1462 Rocoe street, was the original. The Colonel went to that address and sought the girl. He found that she was the wife of Leo Burkhardt and that his dream of happiness was at an end.

Between drinks at the Great Northern Hotel last night, the Colonel vowed that he would never buy any more bottled goods with pictures on the outside.

A Real Wonderland.

South Dakota, with its rich silver mines, bonanza farm, wide ranges and strange natural formations, is a veritable wonderland. At Mound City, in the home of Mrs. E. D. Clapp, a wonderful case of healing has lately occurred. Her son seemed dear death with lung and throat trouble. "Exhausting coughing spells occurred every five minutes," writes Mrs. Clapp, "when I began giving Dr. King's New Discovery, the great medicine that saved his life and completely cured him. "Guaranteed for coughs and colds, throat and lung troubles, by Haynes & Taylor and Jas. H. Orme.

Facts About The Capitol.

A walk over to the National Capitol now reveals to you an edifice well worth seeing, as a vast amount of repairing and renovating has been done since Congress adjourned; inside and out the great building has been overhauled, and only after spending some time in walking through it can you gain a conception of what the domestic life of the capitol is. For instance, consider that it contains 430 rooms which are used for office, committee and storage purposes, 676 windows, 550 doorways, 140 fireplaces, 261 wash basins and sinks, fourteen both tubs, fifteen ventilating fans, eighteen motors, eight elevators, 2,000 horse power boilers, eight steam pumps, a lighting service equivalent to 25,000 incandescent lamps of sixteen candle power each, and over 14,000 square feet of sky lights. This is all on the inside and when we look over the outside and the forty acres of land to be kept up, we begin to realize that it is no small job to keep the cobwebs out of the capitol and the weeds out of the yard.

There is nothing better offered the public today for stomach troubles, dyspepsia, indigestion etc., than Kodol. Sacred.

Deep in the holiest depths of his heart, Sacred to Time and a torch to his feet,

Dwells in the innermost shrine of a man Love of a woman—soft-mannered and sweet.

Love of a woman who, mayhap, was fair—

Love does not see with the eye of seer.

Sanctified one at the fountain of life, Living or dead you are glorified here!

Look in the mirror of self! Ah, no other

Dwells in our hearts as the picture of mother!

Years add their blush to the cheeks that you love;

Time merely ripens the lips you have pressed;

Cycles bring only the love light you cherish

Deep in the eyes of the face He has blessed!

Artists with canvas can never paint portraits

Such as we hang at the fount of our love,

Only the depths of our hearts can produce them,

Only the hues in the heaven above!

Look in the mirror of self! Ah, no other

Dwells in our hearts as the picture of mother!

Girl's Sled Knocks out Vicious Mule.

Port Jervis, N. Y., Dec. 6.—"It's glorious!" cried Miss Mabel Huntington and Miss Anna Riley, each eighteen years, as they enjoyed the first coasting of the winter at Rio, Sullivan county, today. Miss Mabel was steering the sled, built for two.

Half way down the decline, which is a matter of a mile long, the girl's joyous shouts were changed to frightened shrieks. For at the bottom of the hill, in the flying sled's path, stood John Dixon's mule, which had balked near the blacksmith shop to which John was leading it.

The wicked mule saw the sled coming and propped himself to kick it into smithereens. Only a second passed, but to Dixon, tugging mightily on the halter, it seemed an eternity.

The mule kicked viciously and missed—such was the sled's velocity. While the mule's hind legs were still in the air the long points of the sled's runners hit its fore legs, tripped it and sent it clear of the sled's track. "Glorious!" cried the girls, as they dragged the sled up hill the and watched the mule limp away.

If you have cause to fear the pains of childbirth, remember that they are due to weakness, or disease, of the woman's organs, and that healthy women do not suffer, like weak ones.

The specific, medicinal, vegetable ingredients, of which that famous female medicine and womanly friend, CARDUI, is composed, will build up the woman's organs to a healthy state and thus prevent needless suffering.

"Before my confinement," writes Mrs. Rose Schubart, of Monument, Colo., "I had such bearing-down pains I didn't know what to do. Cardui quickly relieved me. Some months later I had a fine 12-lb. baby, was sick only thirty minutes, and did not even have a doctor."
