PRINCETON PRESBYTERY

Met at Marion, April Seventh---Opening Sermon Preached by the Rev. J. R. Henry.

The Presbytery of Princeton, met at Marion, Ky., April 7th, at 7:30 p. m. The opening sermon was preached by the Rev. J. R. Henry.

There were nine ordained ministers present. Eighteen churches were represented. A fine spirit pervaded the Presbytery and the work was thorough and progressive. A number of people remarked that it was the best Presbytery that they ever had attended.

Several of the churches have been without either pastor or supply until recently and have taken offerings for only a portion of the Boards, yet the aggregate of all the offerings to the Boards exceeded the apportionment by $200.63. Princeton Presbytery of the C. P. Church, in 1904, before the agitation of union affected the offerings, gave $1,077 to all the Boards. Princeton Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church U. S. A., this year gives $1,666 to all the Boards.

The Rev. Dr. McDonald was present and assisted us with his wise counsel. The subjects of Home and Foreign Missions and Evangelism received special emphasis.

The Presbytery sent overtures to the General Assembly in regard to the preparation of a Child's Catechism, and also in regard to graded course of Bible Lessons. The report of the committee on Evangelism showed a fruitful year in the way of revivals, increase in membership, and a deepening interest in the various phases of Christian work.

A call was extended to the Rev.
M. E. Chappell to become the pastor of the Central Princeton Church.
Arrangements were made for the Installation, April 23.

The reports of the various committees were excellent. The women had very fine missionary meetings.
Never before has there been so much life and enthusiasm among the auxiliaries. The women's public service was exceedingly interesting. Miss Rogers a returned missionary from India, made an excellent address.
This was followed by a stirring address by Miss Petree, representative of the young people's department of the home board.

The commissioners to the General Assembly are as follows:—On the part of the ministry, James F.
Price, principal, R. H. Anthony, alternate;—On the part of the elder ship, Jas. Koger, principal, J. J.
Sherill, alternate.

The next meeting of the Presbytery will be held at Dixon, Kentucky. —James F. Price, Stated
Clerk.

PROHIBITION MEETING

To be Held in Louisville, April 29th, 1908.

Vice-Chairman, Hurman A. Davis, of Louisville, Ky., has called a meeting of the State Central Committee of the Prohibition Party for April 27, at the Pentecostal Tabernacle, Louisville, to consider the matter of holding a State convention and of appointing delegates to the National Convention to be held in Columbus, Ohio July 15th.

Kentucky is entitled to 37 delegates and an equal number of alternates to this Convention. It is decided not to hold the State Convention; the delegates will be appointed by the Committee. National Chairman Charles R. Jones of Chicago will meet with the Committee.
It would be well for those who desire to be delegates to send their names as candidates to the Vice-Chairman who will present them to the Committee.

Confession by an Alleged Night Rider.

Murray, Ky., April 13.—After the convening of the Calloway circuit court today it became known that Malcom Champion, an alleged member of the night riders' band had made a confession. He made an affidavit in his confession and it will be presented to the grand jury which will consider the night rider cases tomorrow. The men implicated in the affidavit are not under arrest and their names are being withheld.

Champion goes into details of being forced to join the band of night riders.

At the request of many of our readers, we will publish Champion's confession next week.

NIGHT RIDERS ACTIVE

Mercer County Farmers Are Preparing to leave the State on account of Warnings.

Kuttawa, Ky., April.—Fire started by incendiaries destroyed Marshal's livery stable and the Southern Stove plant in this place. Loss $3,500.
Mrs. Augustus Whittington, an aged woman, died from the excitement of the fire.

Salvisa Ky., April 7.—The farmers about here are all alarmed over warning received to leave the county. They fear the night riders. Many are preparing to leave the State.

Paducah, Ky., April 7.—Warrants are said to be issued for ten night riders at Murray. County Judge Wells and the soldiers got the evidence against them.

Madison, Ind., April 7.—Night riders burned the tobacco barns and feeds of Stephen Ryan near Vevey.
They left a note threatening to hang him if he replanted tobacco.

Clarksville, Ky., April 7.—John Gardner and Walter Hunt have surrendered to the authorities. They are charged with being implicated in the killing of Vaughn.

MAKE IT YOURSELF

Tell Our Readers How to Mix Rheumatism Cure.

A well-known authority on Rheumatism gives the readers of a large
New York daily paper the following valuable, yet simple and harmless, prescription, which any one can easily prepare at home:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Mix by shaking well in a bottle,
and take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

He states that the ingredients can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost, and,
being of vegetable extraction, are harmless to take.

This pleasant mixture, if taken regularly for a few days, is said to overcome almost any case of Rheumatism. The pain and swelling, if any diminishes with each dose, until permanent results are obtained, and without injuring the stomach. While there are many so-called Rheumatism remedies, patent medicines,
etc., some of which do give relief,
few really give permanent results,
and the above will, no doubt, be greatly appreciated by many sufferers
here at this time.

Inquiry at the drug stores of this neighborhood elicits the information that these drugs are harmless and can be bought separately, or the druggist here will mix the prescription for our readers, if asked to.

A. 16, M. 14, J. 11.

Echoes of the Fiscal Court.

The Fiscal Court which has been in session for several days made some appropriations which are generally thought to be of considerable importance. The sum set aside to buy a hitching rack is believed to be money well spent. Several lots are under advisement, and a decision will soon be made.

$200 was appropriated to grade the road to the cemetery provided an equal amount is raised by the town and in private donations.

$100 was appropriated for work on the Morganfield road at foot of Bakers hill provided an equal amount donated by citizens.

The salary of the County health officer was reduced from $300 to $125.

The Pierce building on North main street was rented for an armory for the local Military Company for a drill hall at an annual rental of $100.

BACK GIVES OUT.

Plenty of Marion People Readers
Have This experience.

You tax the kidneys—overwork them—

They can't keep up the continual strain.

The back gives out—it aches and pains:

Urinary troubles set in.

Don't wait longer but take Doan's Kidney Pills.

J. H. Thompson, living on N.
Jefferson St., Princeton, Ky., says:
"I am thoroughly convinced that there is no equal to Doan's Kidney Pills as a kidney remedy. I had been troubled for some time with my back and an irregular action of the kidney secretion. During the early part of the winter when the cold weather commenced. I would suffer from an acute attack of backache which would last a long time and would unfit me for work. I tried many remedies, but did not find any relief until about a year ago when I was led to try Doan's Kidney Pills.
In two or three days I was back at my work, and gradually became better until in two weeks I was without a sign of kidney trouble. My general health is greatly improved and I feel better in every day.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo,

FLAMES DEVASTATE

A Boston Suburb---Worst Conflagration
in Ten Years Sweeps Over Square Mile of Territory.

Boston, April, 13.—The greatest fire that has scouraged any part of the metropolitan district in ten years devastated the manufacturing, tenement
and retail section of Chelsea, burning over one square mile of territory, and leveling many of the city's best structures. The fire started at 10:40 a. m. and was not under control until 9 p. m. notwithstanding that half of the Boston fire department's strength, and steamers from a dozen other cities and towns, went to the aid of the Chelsea brigade. The loss is estimated at about $10,000,000.
About 10,000 persons are homeless.
So far as can be learned there were but four fatalities, all unknown.
Half a hundred person were either injured are painfully burned.

The fire originated in the rear of the Boston Blacking company's works on West Third street, near the eastern division of the Boston and Maine railroad and in close proximity to the Everett City line. A terrific gale from the northwest, which at times had a velocity of sixty miles an hour, carried burning shingles, embers and myriads of sparks to a score of wooden building, most of them of cheap wooden construction.
The fire started almost in the extreme southwest section of the city, and cut a path to the end of Maverick street at the extreme southwestern end, about one and a half miles from where it began.

Flames spread thru the heart of the retail business section, which was about midway between the two extreme limits reached by the fire.
Among the structures destroyed were thirteen churches, two hospitals the public library, city hall, five school houses, twenty business blocks nearly a score of factories, and upwards of three hundred tenement and dwelling houses. Among the places burned were: Frost hospital Children's hospital, Fitz public library,
St. Stanislaus Polish Roman Catholic church, Chesnut street First Baptist church, Central Unitarian church, St. Luke's Episcopal church, Elm Street Synagogue, Walnut Street
Synagogue, Chelsea Presbyterian church, People's Afro-Methodist Episcopal church, Fifth Street Congregational church, Shurtleff Street Methodist Episcopal church, Second Adventist church.

USE OF COCOANUT OIL.

Cocunut oil, when fresh, has a pleasant flavor, and is used in many ways by the natives. They use it as an unguent on their bodies after bathing, for oiling the hair, as a lamp oil, and in the manufacture of soap. The Indian maiden knows how to give the odor of flowers to the oil used at her toilet by immersing the flowers in the oil for days. It is also used in making pomatums for the toilet, in the manufacture of candles, in cooking, and for medicines.

FAVORABLE MOMENT.

"Come up this evening, George, and ask papa for me."
"Why this evening?"
"Papa is breaking in a new pair of tan shoes."
"Well?"
"They hurt him so much that he can scarcely stand up in them—much less kick anybody."

BRUTAL.

"Hiram, you seem to be getting fatter. How much do you weigh?"
"One hundred and sixty-eight, Lucinda. I weighed 166 yesterday."
"Do you think you have gained two pounds in one day?"
"I know I have, dear. I have eaten two slices of that angel cake of yours."

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood elements. The "Night Cure," as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, waxes nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

FULL AND FAIR EXPLANATION

Only One Point on Which Genial Hotel Proprietor Failed to Satisfy Guest.

A good story reached the Chittenden hotel last week, concerning a guest with a grouch. He carried it to the proprietor.

"Look here," he said, "things around here are just about as rotten as they make them. When I went to lunch to-day, I found hair in the ice cream, hair in the honey, and hair in the apple sauce. Now what do you think of that? Is that a good hotel?"
"Well?" replied the genial proprietor, "I can explain the hair in the ice cream. That likely came from the shaving of the ice. And I suppose that the hair in the honey came off the comb. But I don't understand about the hair in the apple sauce. I bought those apples myself, and they were every one Baldwins."—Columbus Dispatch.

"One never knows," said a salesman in one of the big stationers, "how many people are afflicted with a given infirmity until something comes up to call attention to it. Every one knows in a general way that a number of persons are left handed; but until we got these new playing cards with the index marks in all four corners, which were invented just for left handed players, I had no idea that so many people held their cards in their right hand. I have been keeping count for a week now, and I find that about one person in six wants cards for left handed players."

Stopped by Girl.

Murphysboro, Ill., April 8.—Miss Zora Hanson, 17 year old, daughter of Sheriff Sylvester Hanson, interrupted a jail delivery during a storm early today. She was awakened by the storm an glancing out of the window was surprised to see prisoners climbing down past her window as they escaped from the jail. Bravely she seized the foot of a man and held on while she screamed lustily to her parents.

Her mother went to her aid and held to the prisoner while Sheriff Hanson rushed into the cell room and prevented seven prisoners from leaving. Six prisoners had effected their escape thru a window from which a bar had been pried. Four of the fugitives were negroes.

The Farmers Union and the Society of Equity are taking the day in this neighborhood.

Harve Powell the professor that made O'Possum Ridge famous visited Richard Howerton last Sunday.

The sale at A. J. Hartzell's Friday was well attended.

Mrs. Jenkins has moved back upon her farm near this place.

The Glee Club met at Charlie Cook's Saturday night.

Geo. M. Samuels has been selected by the maintenance of way employees in the Nashville division of the I. C. R. R. to represent them at a meeting to be held at Chicago, Ill., April 18th, for the purpose of transacting business pertaining to conditions on the I. C. and Y. M. & V. R. R., also to make a fight against the recent reduction in wages that has been made on several divisions and which will soon effect this division.

When we look at the net earnings of the company for the year 1907 which amounted to $16,515,108,000, our sympathy is bound to go out to the poor, faithful employees, who is now called to suffer a reduction in his wages. Mr. Samuel should feel honored by the trust placed in him by his fellow workmen, but he is worthy of the trust.

Dr. Roberts is a full fledged veterinarian now, his terms are reasonable.

Farmers in this neighborhood are rather slow on account of so much rain recently.

Life—An Easter Poem

By Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale.

THAT is what we try for, hope for, and pray for—
That we may think more, feel more,
Love more and be more;
That we may have life more abundantly, as He said.

EDWARD EVERETT HALE.

The pussy willow, the crocus,
The snowdrop, the violet,
The bluebird, the butterfly.

GRETCHEN'S SURPRISE PARTY

How a German Housemaid Made a Whole Family Happy.

A German housemaid, very fond of her mistress' little children and wishing to add a bit of homely cheer to their Easterfest, decided to follow a quaint and pretty custom observed in many of the provinces of Germany. Early on Easter morning, before one of the family was astir, she stole out on the lawn and hid little nests, which she had secretly made during her spare hours, under shrubs, trees, behind vines and flowerpots and in every conceivable corner of the yard. In these nests, she placed the freshest of eggs, which were to be cooked for Easter breakfast, and the cooking was to be done out of doors in a kettle placed over a rude campfire for the purpose.

When the family came downstairs the German maid told them that the Easter rabbits had been in the grounds the previous night and that if the children would hunt about the yard they would find fresh eggs for breakfast left there for them by the snow white rabbits.

Eagerly the little ones, accompanied by their parents, who were as full of happy anticipation as the children, ran into the grounds about the house hunting for the eggs the rabbits had brought. Screams of delight and joyous laughter followed the finding of the nests, which were quickly robbed of their contents. Then to the steaming big kettle they all hurried, carrying eggs in hats and aprons, and the German maid, no less happy than the children, superintended the boiling of the eggs, which were taken piping hot to the dining room, where the rest of the breakfast awaited the family.—Chicago Record-Herald.

EASTER, THE GREAT SUNRISE

The Resurrection of Jesus Daybreak of Immortality.

Seek him who maketh the seven stars and Orion and turneth the shadow of death into morning.—Amos.

The words of the poet-prophet, written 3,000 years ago, span like an arch of light our great festival. They unveil the lips of song and hearts of worship. The pageantry of an oriental morning prefigures the splendor of the great sunrise that comes forth from the shadows. The daybreak in the east finds its historical analogue in the dawn of eternal life out of the night of death on the first Easter morning. The resurrection of Jesus from the grave is held before us like the panels of a spring dawn. Nature is God's great workshop overhurling with patterns. The sculptor carries the fashion of his work in the model to completion in polished granite or marble. With the dawn and attending stars for a model the infinite artist carries the art of life up into the matchless glory of the morning. In earlier days there had been glimpses of the great thought of immortality, faint gleams on the far horizon of the night. When Christ arose, the day broke over the whole world and upon men of every time, race and condition. That sublime awakening gave a new meaning to history, a new value to life, a new vision of the future. The first Easter morning was the daybreak of immortality, the dawning of the light of hope and faith and joy, never again to fade out of the skies.—Rev. D. H. Muller, D. D.

Via Crucis.

One of the most peculiar of continental celebrations of Easter is that which for centuries has been practiced by the monks of Ronoevaux. As day breaks on the morning of Good Friday a long procession of the monks files out through the gateway of the abbey, each bearing on his back an enormous and heavy cross by way of annual penance and in imitation of what they consider to have been one of the severest forms of Christ's physical suffering. Through hamlets and villages this pathetic procession makes its way in spite of the trembling knees and aching muscles, while the villagers, with bare and bowed heads, do homage to the cross. That their penance may lack nothing of severity, these monks strike into the country, choosing the steepest and roughest paths.—Metropolitan Magazine.

Easter Eggs in Ancient Rome. The ancient Romans indulged in various games with eggs in honor of Castor and Pollux, who were said to have been hatched from an egg of the swan sweetheart of Jupiter.

EASTER LOVE FEAST.

Quaint Custom of the Moravians of Lancaster County, Pa.

It is a great privilege to witness the Easter observances at the old Moravian town of Lititz, Lancaster county, Pa. In churches of this denomination the men and women sit on the opposite sides of the "meeting house," as do the Shakers and Quakers and the Harmonyites of Economy. During the love feast a number of men servers come in at the door on one side of the house and a like number of women enter from the opposite side. They carry wooden trays piled high with sweetened bread, and after they have passed this all around, the men serving the men and the women serving the women, they bring in enormous cups of steaming hot coffee. The feast is partaken of in silence on the part of the feasters, but the preacher exhorts all the while, and the band plays without ceasing. Every Moravian church has its brass band.

The love feast is held the Saturday morning preceding Easter Sunday. But in the afternoon of that day these people have a pretty custom of decorating the graves of their dead, which seems to be particularly appropriate at the Easter season since done in the faith that the dead "will rise again and live forever."

Later on in the day the mothers of the little Moravians prepare the nests of what is known to these small people as "the good rabbit." How they do shout and rejoice on Easter morning when they discover the nests all filled with colored eggs laid by the good rabbit in nests hidden in dense grass, straw piles and other hard to find places!

At 5 o'clock Easter morning the Moravian minister takes his stand on the church steps and reads a litany and the verse of a hymn, while the congregation, standing around him in the chilling dawn, take up and sing to music furnished by the church band. After this they make a second pilgrimage to the graveyard. This service is to commemorate the visit of the holy women to the tomb of Jesus. The minister bares his head and reads the Easter litany.

By this time the sun has risen, and its light gleams across graves that were yesterday strewn with flowers that are now beaded with diamond dew. It would be hard to imagine a more impressive ceremony than this. All that would seem to you and to me growsome now dies out of the hymn, and a song full of joy and triumph, denoting "Christ has risen," seems to rise to the very heavens, and the people smile and shake hands and rejoice. The Moravians share the belief of the Irish peasantry that the sun dances on Easter morning.—Washington Post.

PIGEONS OF ST. MARK'S.

Why Venice Venerates Them, Particularly on Easter Day.

There is a tradition, now generally accepted in Venice, which tells how the great doge made a formal and ceremonious visit to the Piazza San Marco one Palm Sunday centuries ago. With him went his entire staff of officials, including the foreign ambassadors residing in Venice. The presence of this host of dignitaries, the blare of the silver trumpets that announced their coming and the magnificence of the processions greatly impressed the people of the city, who were gathered, as many as could be accommodated, on the edges of the piazza and in nearby places.

The doge was moved to show his bounty to his subjects, so he had a number of pigeons, each one weighted by having a piece of paper tied to one of its legs, released from the gallery of St. Mark above the portico where the bronze horses rear their gigantic bodies. The pigeons thus hampered were easily caught by the greedy crowd waiting in the square below, and those who were lucky enough to capture these sacred birds took them home and fattened them up for their Easter dinner. A few of the pigeons escaped and sought refuge high up in the domes of the church, where the hand of man could not reach them. The fact that the pigeons found safety in the very dome of the tomb of St. Mark worked on the superstitious natures of the multitude, and they at once believed that the good saint had given the birds protection and had thus signified his wish that the pigeons should be regarded as sacred creatures henceforth.

From that time until the present day the pigeons of St. Mark's have been safe from the sacrilegious hand of man, and ever since it has been the custom to give them extra attention and food on the anniversary of their being taken under the protection of the saint of the church. That is why everybody who is in Venice on Easter Sunday provides an extra supply of food for the pigeons of St. Mark's.—New York Herald.

Strange Good Friday Custom.

In Munich and Vienna the churches on Good Friday are the scene of a very striking picture of the burial of Christ. A figure of the Saviour is carried in state around the church to the altar, where is a sepulcher, to which access through an opening formed by artificial rocks awaits it. The windows are darkened, and through the gloom the eyes of thousands of awed worshippers are drawn to the tomb, where a solitary light illumines the white pallid figure of the crucified Christ. In some parts of Austria large processions parade the streets, headed by priests riding on horses and bearing banners, with an escort of white robed choristers chanting hymns, and in Bavaria the peasants form processions, hundreds, sometimes thousands, strong, heralded by a man bearing a gigantic candle.

SCARCITY OF FINE FIGURES

Few People Proportioned as Nature Intended—Chiefly the Result of Unwholesome Living.

The world is full of half-built people. If anyone doubts this, let him or her visit a Turkish bath, and note the number of people who are flat in the chest, round in the back, ponderous as to paunch, and heavy in the jaw—people with outstanding shoulder blades and flatfeet.

Out of a thousand people in this country, there could be found scarcely three who had really fine figures. I make this statement advisedly, after many, many years of careful observation. And why is this so? Why are there so few people in this country, in the civilized world, who have bodies that are not a travesty of Him in whose image they are supposed to be created?

The reasons are many, but may be grouped under one phrase—unhygienic and unwholesome condition of living. Among these conditions may be mentioned dietary errors—food that is excessive in quantity, variety, or frequency as to meals, and food taken under improper conditions, either of mind or body.—Outing Magazine.

A TITLE ALL RIGHT.

"Is it true that you're going to marry a title?"
"Yes, my fiancé is third assistant deputy superintendent of the warless pickle foundry!"

VICHY TEA.

Is the drinking of artificial mineral water conducive to good health? Recently doctors are prescribing vichy, seltzer, selters or carbonic in liberal quantities for certain ailments, and with excellent results. The old notion that aerated waters ballooned the stomach too much is passing into innocuous desuetude. In most of these beverages there is a most painful biting of the tongue when drunk freely. And a fool man was brought to a sudden death by squirting a quart of vichy from a siphon-bottle down his throat. There is a very slight taste in carbonated or aerated waters until you undertake to make with them coffee, chocolate or tea. If you desire a strange experience drink a cup of vichy tea!

BIRDS THAT FIGHT WINDOWS.

"The mating season of the birds approaches," said a nature student, "and, if you live in a good bird country your windows will kill off many a male. Male birds in the mating season become extraordinarily bold and fierce. Houses have no terrors for them. Approaching, they see their own reflections in the glass of the windows, and mistaking these images for rival males, they dart indomitably upon the glass, to fall back stunned, or bleeding, or broken-winged. I have a south window that I can rely on in the spring to kill me two birds a week. I grill them on toast."

BAN ON MOTOR RIDES.

Motor car break-downs have been so frequent recently with the young actresses of London who are fond of motoring that they have often been unable to return to town in time for their engagements in the theaters at night. Managers are now introducing in their agreements a clause to the effect that there shall be no motor rides "outside the London radius" without written permission.

GOUT AND CONSUMPTION.

Sir Dyce Duckworth, in his address to the faculty of medicine, said that many persons were constitutionally predisposed to rheumatism and gout, but an important characteristic in such cases was the antagonism of the tissues to the bacilli of tuberculosis. The more rheumatic or gouty a person was the less pronounced was his tendency to consumption.—London Post.

WHERE HE HAD SAVED MONEY

Economy at Harrisburg Given as Explanation of Legislator's Rise to Affluence.

A country politician in Pennsylvania managed to get elected to the legislature at Harrisburg for one term. When he came back he built himself a fine house, costing about $20,000. His old neighbors, who knew he had no money before he went to Harrisburg, and who knew the salary of a Pennsylvania legislator, were curious to discover where the returned statesman got means to build the house.

So one day a committee waited on the man who built the house and the spokesman said: "Jim, we think you owe it to us who sent you to the legislature to explain where you got the money with which you built this house. How about it?"

"Why," said the builder, "it's simple enough. You see, when we were in Harrisburg we didn't keep a hired girl."

IN PLAIN TERMS.

"The ignorance of many persons touching the 'good old Anglo-Saxon' speech we hear so much of in the magazines and newspapers," says a member of the faculty of Princeton, "is most amusing at times. A member of the bar in Philadelphia, a man more remarkable for the vigor of his addresses to juries than for his learning, was not long ago commenting on the proceedings of the other party to a suit on trial.

"I do not know what gloss," said he, "my learned friend may put upon this matter, but I will not mince my words. I denounce this thing in plain, downright Anglo-Saxon English as a nefarious and preposterous transaction of the most unprecedented kind."—Harper's Weekly.

ITALIAN GIRLS DIE HERE.

Miss Amy Bernardy, professor of Italian at Smith college, has made a study of conditions of Italian immigrant women and declares that of the girls who leave Italy before they are 21 to work in American factories one-third die from the effects of the change. The proportion of Italian women in this country to men is one to four; the proportion of mortality is four to one. Industrial schools, in Miss Bernardy's opinion, would do much toward changing conditions. With the assistance of a prominent Italian banker Miss Bernardy is trying to interest American women in Italian girls as domestic servants.

LOYALTY AMONG CONVICTS.

Lady Battersea tells a touching story of loyalty among convicts. A few days after the death of Queen Victoria she paid a visit to a prison, and noticed that several of the women were wearing little bows of black on their dresses. She inquired the reason for this and then learned that these poor women, learning of the death of their sovereign, had put on the only token of mourning that they could contrive. The bows were made of scraps of material picked from their shoe laces!

EFFECTS OF COLD ON OIL.

Nature is engaged in the manufacture of gasoline from natural gas throughout the local oil field, a fact that makes it difficult to run oil from the wells, and is making the gaugers earn their wages. The intense cold condenses the gas as it comes from the wells with the oil and transforms it into gasoline, which freezes in the pipes. Only 22 out of a total of 53 wells in Rockland township were not affected in this manner this month.—Oil City Derrick.

A WOMAN'S DUTY TO SELF.

Jean Worth says that every woman should be critical of her own appearance, and if she has not the divine element of good taste in her dressmaking instincts she can cultivate an approach to it, and it makes no difference whether she is rich or poor, she can always look well gowned.

Crittenden Record--Press

If you will send us $1.00 cash in advance for a year's subscription THE CRITTENDEN RECORD-PRESS or if you are in arrears; and will pay up back dues, we will send you, free of charge, Farm and Fireside twice a month for the rest of 1908 (nine months), and 500 Pictures of President Roosevelt besides.

FARM AND FIRESIDE

is the National farm paper. It prints and circulates each month more copies than any other agricultural publication. For over thirty years it has been "The Giant of the Farm Press," and now it is bigger, better and more helpful than ever. Has departments covering every phase of farm life, from plowing to the kitchen. Interests not only farmers, but horsemen, poultrymen—in fact, any one who keeps animals or lives outside of the large cities. Has thousands of readers in every state in the Union. Farm and Fireside is published twice a month, which is twice as often as most farm journals are published. It stops when your time is up. We heartily recommend it to all our readers as the cleanest, brightest biggest and most helpful farm paper we know of.

THE 500 ROOSEVELT PICTURES

are all arranged on one superb mounting, 13 1/2 x 20 1/2 inches, into one big photograph, but every picture is separate and distinct from each of the other pictures. This photograph of 500 pictures is the most wonderful photograph ever made, and the only one of its kind in existence. It cost $1,000. No other like it can ever be made of President Roosevelt, and there is probably no other public man on earth who has had enough "snapshots" taken to make a picture of this sort. It took one man two months merely to put together the 500 pictures, and two other men worked just about as long making the prints. The 500 pictures were chosen from 2,500 in the possession of Underwood & Underwood, the President's official photographers, and they show the President in his most characteristic attitudes. They were taken in every state in the Union except four, and at some of the most important events that have taken place in American history. Five years from now, reproductions of this great $1,000 photograph will be worth many dollars, as the supply is limited, and later on, when President Roosevelt is out of public life, they will be priceless treasures in any American home. The reproductions of this great photograph are entirely controlled by Farm and Fireside, which owns the original $1,000 photograph.

Remember, you get the Farm and Fireside, the 500 Pictures of Roosevelt, and The CRITTENDEN RECORD-PRESS all for only $1.00. Send your subscription today and address THE CRITTENDEN RECORD-PRESS.

THOUGHTS ON BUSINESS

BY
WALDO PONDRAY WARREN

A HINT TO SALESMEN

THE salesman who follows up his customers too closely makes a big mistake. It is comparatively easy to smooth over a quarrel, or to adjust a misunderstanding, but it is seldom easy to patch up a threadbare welcome.

"One thing that puts a salesman in a bad light with me," said a business man, "is to give me an estimate and then come around about six times a week to inquire 'what is being done about that matter.' A fellow tried to do me not long ago, and came in so many times I had to tell him to keep out."

"Just what did you say to him, if I may ask?"
"I simply said, 'See, here, Smith. You gave me that estimate last Tuesday, and you have been in here every day since. I told you at the time I would let you know when I was ready to talk with you further. Now if you will let the matter rest there till I get through talking it over with our own people who are interested in it, your proposition will get as good a hearing as anybody's. But if you come in here again punching me up about it I will simply give you back your estimate and count you out of it.'"

"Isn't that a rather extreme measure?" I asked.
"Well, maybe," he admitted. "But you might not think so if you had several over anxious salesman nagging you every time you tried to investigate their house's goods."

Her Easter Joy

A Story by ESTHER JOYCE

Copyright, 1907, by Mary McKeon.

MISS AMY CARTER leaned back in the dull shadows of the boarding house parlor and watched the girl at the piano. The girl had a true but quite untrained voice, and she sang in commonplace, soulless fashion the air of a four part sacred song.

"Wasn't it shivery and grand where the bass took up the tune?"
The girl's hands came down on the keys with a crash. She had not dreamed that Miss Amy had come into the room. Most of the boarders did not come downstairs until the tea bell had rung. Miss Amy was almost as startled as the girl. She had been in the house five weeks and never exchanged a word with any one save the landlady.

"Were you at St. Augustine's this afternoon?" inquired the girl, swinging around on the piano stool.

"Oh, yes," replied Miss Amy simply. "I've been there every Sunday since I heard you sang there in the choir."

"I'm sure it is awfully kind of you to say so. I don't do much, you know, just one of the choruses, but it's $1.50 per, and you meet real nice people too. I'd have joined the Musical league, too, only you've got to report for every rehearsal or lose your tickets for the last concert."

Miss Amy sat like one entranced. Here was a girl who did not simply buy admission tickets and listen to others. She was in it all, in the world of music from which Miss Amy had always been excluded by the iron key, marked duty.

"How—how do you manage to get into a choir or a league or anything of that sort?"

The girl felt flattered as she looked into Miss Amy's kindling face.

"Oh, they're always looking for good sight readers with fresh, clear voices in the big choirs. Sometimes you get paid—sometimes you don't. I didn't get anything last year. But the easiest way to get in is to take lessons from the choirmaster—private lessons. Then Mr. Weston will put you in the choir to jolly you along, whether you can sing or not. You're new to New York, and you wouldn't believe the graft!"

The clang of the supper bell drowned the latter part of the sentence, and the girl rose abruptly. Miss Amy followed her down to the dining room, but scarcely knew what was spread before them. What mattered food or drink or sordid landladies or gossiping boarders when she had found the key to her paradise at last? Perhaps it was graft—perhaps the girl spoke thoughtlessly.

The next morning very early Miss Amy went shopping. She told the milliner she wanted a brown hat to match her suit. "No, not a toque like she had on; something younger," and she described quite accurately the hat which the girl had worn to church the afternoon before.

"I'll wear this," she said, "and you can send the old one home."
Next she went to the nearest drug store and studied the directory. "Weston, Albert, singing teacher, 421 West street."

And as she left the drug store she spied a florist's window, and she stopped for a bouquet of violets. Then again she hesitated. The crisis of this her new life was at hand. She allowed three cars to pass, and then, with firmly compressed lips, she signaled for a hansom. At the boarding house every one said that in New York one must keep up appearances. Perhaps if he thought she could afford to ride in hansom he would overlook her vocal deficiencies.

Albert Weston, worn by his struggles with an indifferent pupil, was standing at the window of his studio when the hansom drew up before the building and the brown, wrenlike figure stepped cautiously from the vehicle and shot a questioning glance up the brownstone front.

"I'm glad I took the hansom," commented Miss Amy as she mounted the steps. This was life! An absurd thrill swept over her and brought a delicate and most becoming blush to her face.

Mr. Weston studied her curiously, hands deep in his pockets, when she asked almost timidly the privilege of studying with him. Prices, hours, everything seemed secondary to the fear that he might not accept her as a pupil. He tried her voice, paced the room a few moments and then said gravely:

"Yes, I will take you as a pupil, but I want to be quite frank with you. You will never be a great singer. You have a sweet, harmless, drawing room voice, but I don't want you to go into the work with any idea of being a grand opera singer in time. You have begun—too late for that."

Again the delicate flush mounted to her face.

"I understand all that—it is just for my own pleasure. I—I could not study sooner. It is just for the joy of being able to sing for myself."

He stopped short in his nervous walk and looked at her. Such simplicity, such humility, such lack of ambition, almost staggered him.

"Perhaps some time—when my voice is a little stronger—you might, that is, if it would be quite right, you might let me join your choir at St. Augustine's?"

"First vacancy there is," he assented heartily. "What our congregation likes is a number of sweet, correct voices. By the time some one gets tired of rehearsals or marries or moves away I'll have your voice placed and be glad to take you on."

And so commenced the musical career of Miss Amy Carter, aged thirty-one, residence a second class boarding house; occupation, spending the small inheritance which had come to her suddenly after a life of narrow drudgery and unrelieved sacrifice. At first her lessons opened and closed with almost monosyllabic conversation, but in time the musician delved beneath the surface and found the heart which for years had almost starved for music. It had been born in her, she thought, but there had been work to do, so heavy that her hands had grown too rough and stiff to play the old fashioned organ. There were two invalids to nurse when the village choir would have been glad of her services. And so she counted her love as dead and buried until the inheritance had come, and then—

"Well," she said, with a whimsical smile, "I thought I'd come to New York and hear the best of music while the money lasted. I would have a taste of real life—what I have heard people call the joy of living."

Weston smiled to himself. She called this seeing life! And, indeed, these days she was quite in a flutter of excitement all the time. Weston had tickets he could not use for this concert and that. Matinees came just when he had pupils, and it was a shame to waste the tickets. He was tremendously diverted by this delicate, flower-like woman, who felt that she was indulging in a mad orgy of music. He learned to look forward with keen interest to her comments on the concerts she attended. Self played so small a part in her enjoyment. It was always not how she felt, but how the music affected the audience, and gradually he discovered that she had a decided gift of criticism which was developing under his guidance.

Something he knew, too, that his pupil of thirty-one had not discovered. Under the magic of indulging the one great longing of her lifetime she was cheating old Father Time, turning pages back and not forward. The faint color was always in her cheeks these days, and the voice, rising in her bird-like throat, was fresh as a girl's, lifting like a lark's in flowered meadows.

And, watching her development, the tired man began to wonder what had come over him. He saw his work in a new light. The weight of drudgery slipped from his shoulders. The sense of wasted effort yielded to the infectious happiness of his buoyant pupil.

And so dawned Easter morning over St. Augustine's. Outside the doors the mob of sightseers swayed while the regular parishioners claimed first right to pews. Then came the hush of strangers; the organist took his place. Mr. Weston raised his hand, and the band of white robed men and women filed into the choir loft. Out to the waiting multitude rolled the waves of perfectly balanced harmonies—a hundred voices admirably selected, thought the congregation, and yet to the man who had trained them there came but a single voice. Her face was uplifted, her eyes dewy and tender, as with flutelike clearness the wonderful words reached him above the heads of the other singers:

"The strife is o'er, the battle done:
The victory of life is won;
The song of triumph has begun—
Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia!"

To the man it came not as a psalm of triumph, but a message of peace, and she had shown him the way!

He wanted to tell her now—this minute! The service stretched ahead of him interminably.

"Alleluia, alleluia!"
His glance caught and held hers. A startled expression flashed over her face. The flutelike tones faltered and died away. The absorbed singers on either side did not note that her hand trembled, and her face, paling, turned from the leader to the banks of Easter lilies. Perhaps it was their perfume—something seemed to smother the sound in her throat. Then, as if fascinated, her glance traveled back to meet his, and the tender gravity in his face steadied her. She raised her book, the color came back into her face, and as her voice floated out to him in the final "Alleluia" he knew that his heart's message had reached her, and that was her answer.

China's Easter Rabbit.

One day, says a Chinese legend, the great god Buddha was very hungry. There were no restaurants in the neighborhood. A little rabbit perceived the god's plight and, hopping up to him, said:

"Eat me, O Buddha!"
Touched by such unselfish devotion, the god transported bunny to the moon, where he still sits in the top of a tree pounding in a mortar the herbs that go to make up the water of life.

At the spring feast in China ever since that time people give each other moon shaped cakes stamped with the image of a rabbit.

Keep it Handy

You may not need Chamberlain's Cough's Remedy now, but at this season of the year you are liable to need it within twenty-four hours. It is, without doubt, the best on the market, for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. For sale by J. H. Orme.

Negro Turns White; Dies.

Canton, O., April 8.—Eugene Crawford, a Canton negro, who had turned white due to disease, died here today. The physician who attended Crawford never knew he was a negro until a sister of the sick man volunteered the information.

The change of color was due to a rare disease known as leucoderm. Death was caused by a complete breakdown of the nervous system, due to the disease.

Weak women get prompt and lasting help by using Dr. Shoop's Night Cure. These soothing, healing, antiseptic suppositories, with full information how to proceed are interestingly told in my book "No. 4 For Women." ### Large Eagle.

Lafayette, Ky., April 8.—A large eagle swooped down on a litter of pigs on the farm of Walter Garner, about two miles from this place, yesterday and carried one of them off. The pig probably weighed ten pounds. This is the first eagle seen in this section for several. It was an unusually large bird. Garner was unable to get a shot at the bird.

This woman says she was saved from an operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lena V. Henry, of Norristown, Ga., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I suffered untold misery from female troubles. My doctor said an operation was the only chance I had, and I dreaded it almost as much as death. One day I read how other women had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I decided to try it. Before I had taken the first bottle I was better, and now I am entirely cured."

"Every woman suffering with any female trouble should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

BRADLEY'S ELECTION

inauguration and spend some days or possibly a week in formulating non-partisan measures which he would transmit to the General Assembly with the advice that they were the product of the best thought of all parties in Kentucky. We remember to have heard the names of some of the gentlemen, and call to mind former Gov. Beckham, John T. Shelby, John K. Hendrick, former Gov. Buckner, former Chief Justice Holt, E. L. Worthington, David W. Fairleigh, W. C. Halbert, James D. Black, John B. Atkinson, former Senator Lindsey, Judge C. W. Milliken, Arthur M. Wallace, Helm Bruce, W. M. Beckner and others. The deliberation of such commission, representing the militant organization as well as the conservative, judicial element of each party, with a sprinkling of element citizens upon whom party ties sit loosely, would have commanded the attention of the county, and measures upon which it might have agreed would have been passed by the General Assembly without political division.

On the night before the inauguration of Mr. Willson the so called "contest committee" which was managing Gov. Bradley's campaign called a caucus of all the Republican members of the General Assembly then in Frankfort and put thru this rump and unauthorized body resolutions declaring for Bradley for Senator and blinding the Republicans to caucus and vote as a unit on all measures of a political character.

This caucus was the turning point in the movement for non-partisan legislation and destroyed all chance of securing fair registration, election and redistricting laws under Gov. Willson's administration. The Democratic press took up these blundering resolutions and denounced the insincerity of the Republican minority in appealing to the Democrats, who were in the majority at both houses, to lay aside partisan feeling to pass non-partisan laws, and at the same time resolving to caucus, vote as a unit and make every political measure a party question.

Majority parties can afford to draw strict party lines on every question, but minority parties defeat their own purposes by such a course.

Before Gov. Willson had a chance to call the proposed non-partisan or bi-partisan conference from which good results had been expected, its possible usefulness had been absolutely destroyed by the ridicule heaped upon the Republicans as a result of this foolish star-chamber caucus called by the "contest committee."

Intimations had reached the press that the Governor had prosed calling a representative conference, and with the proceedings of this rump caucus as a text, the Democratic newspapers warned their party representatives not to walk into a "Republican trap." Nothing more was ever heard of this well-meant non-partisan movement to reform the registration and election laws and equalize and apportionment of districts of all kinds, and our belief has always been that Gov. Willson found the way blocked and abandoned the project.

At this stage of the political game at Frankfort the Leader entered the protest against bad leadership in Kentucky for which it has been read out of the Republican party by the former Federal officeholders now holding state offices. It denounced that rump caucus as a political blunder and warned the Bradley Senatorial managers that they were destroying all hope of non-partisan legislation during the Willson administration. It commended the Republicans for nominating Gov. Bradley for United States Senator and expressed the hope that they would give him their solid vote, but it deprecated the declaration of certain leaders that they would "die in the last ditch" and deadlock the session for Bradley, and hoped that wiser counsels would prevail.

The Leader emphasized the fact that fair registration, election and redistricting laws were of vastly more importance to the success of the Willson administration and the future of the Republican party than the election of a United States Senator for six years, and we urged the Republicans in the legislature to hold themselves in readiness to unite with enough Democrats to end the threatened deadlock by electing any good Democrat if they could secure in return the passage of the desired non-partisan laws.

We said then, and we repeat it now, that we would have been willing to see even Gov. Beckham elected to the Senate by Republican votes if it could help to secure to Kentucky the great boon of honest registration and election laws and an equitable redistricting of the State.

If that was treason to Gov. Bradley, we are willing to suffer the penalty. It was certainly not treason to the Commonwealth of Kentucky or the Republican party.

The very things we feared came to pass. As the Senatorial deadlock continued, everything was done to aggravate rather than allay party feeling, and every measure looking to better political conditions upon whom the Republicans had set their hearts was abandoned in the struggle to manipulate legislation in the interest of Gov. Bradley's Senatorial candidacy. The county unit bill, to which the Republicans were pledged in their party platform, was traded upon for weeks, and was in a fair way to be shelved in the house by Republican votes, until a storm of protests compelled a complete change of program.

The election of Gov. Bradley as Senator by the vote of three recognized Democratic liquor representatives on the day after the county unit bill passed the lower House, was explained by the assurance that enough Republican votes in the Senate had been pledged to defeat the temperance measure; and it is a remarkable coincidence that exactly three Republican Senators, just enough to reinforce the whisky Democrats, voted against every proposition looking to the passage of the county unit bill from the election of Bradley to the final adjournment of the General Assembly.

The election of Gov. Bradley to the United States Senate by an unholy alliance was accomplished by the sacrifice of every hope of securing non-partisan registration, election and redistricting laws, and by the practical repudiation of the Republican platform declaration in favor of a uniform county unit bill, and it has wrecked Gov. Willson's administration so far as constructive political legislation is concerned, and opened the way for the rehabilitation of Gov. Beckham on a temperance platform.

The United States Senatorship was not worth the price the Republicans of Kentucky paid for it, and we believe the day will come when the election of Senator Bradley will be looked upon as a party calamity.
