Judge Blackburn Denies as False all the Statements Circulated Against County Officials.

Editor of RECORD-PRESS:

I had thought I would disregard all of the false statements, that have been circulated, by persons who appear to have nothing else to do except, abuse the officials, and make apologies for night riders and other violators of the law. I would not now make this statement, were it not that I think the ends of justice may be jeopardized by further silence.

In the first place, I want to say, that the report that is being spread all over the county, that the soldiers are being paid by the county is absolutely false. The State has paid the soldiers from the time they first came, not only their salaries, but their board bills. If any one has any doubt upon this proposition they can easily verify this statement by talking with Mr. Conyer, the hotel man here who boarded the Louisville soldiers while here, or you might also verify the statement by talking with Capt. Henderson who receives from the State each month a check for the soldiers.

There is not one cent of the pay that the soldiers receive that comes from the county, and all talk about the tax rate of the county and poll tax being increased on account of the soldiers is demagoguery. Our tax rate is the same that it has been for the last six or seven years except for the year 1906, the first year of my term of office, then it was fixed at 25 cents that rate having been fixed by the fiscal court at its meeting in the fall before I took office in January.

Again I have heard that certain persons are spreading the report broadcast over the county that the reason the soldiers are here is on account of me selling my tobacco crop after having been notified by the night riders not to do so. That statement is just as false and malicious as the other statements. No person ever heard of any threats of any kind being made against me about my selling tobacco and no notice was ever seen by me until after the soldiers came. If I had seen proper to do as many others have done and refused to do anything to put down lawlessness I suppose I would now be receiving the glad hand from the same persons that now criticize me.

When I took the oath of office I promised to enforce all of the laws. There was no exception of persons who go forth with torch in one hand and lash in the other for the unlawful purpose of alarming, intimidating and injuring persons and destroying property, and so far as I am able I propose to stand by my oath of office, regardless of criticism, or threats of any kind. The soldiers here are our home boys. The company is made up from the very best young men our county affords, some of them from Marion and many of them from other parts of the county. They attend to their duties and bother no one who obeys the law. Many of our leading citizens encouraged the formation of the Company and I gave it my hearty support.

The conduct of the boys since the Company was organized has proved the wisdom of the plan. They are here to protect the citizens of the entire county from the humblest to the highest and will be found at all times ready to respond wherever duty calls them. Right thinking citizens should commend rather than criticize them.

Governor Willson has undertaken to suppress lawlessness in Kentucky. He is absolutely right in so doing and will have my support all along the line.

So long as there is a necessity for the soldiers to remain on duty they will remain. When the law is again made supreme and when it is apparent to those whose duty it is to enforce the law that the services of the soldiers are no longer required, then and not until then, will they be relieved from duty.

To those who dislike soldiers so much, I would suggest that you go to work to assist the officials in enforcing the law and to the extent that your labors are successful, to that extent you will contribute to hastening the calling off of the soldiers now on duty.

Let us all do our duty to our neighbors, our homes and our country and ere long a better feeling will prevail throughout the Commonwealth. Respectfully, W. A. BLACKBURN.

Sunday School Meeting.

All members of Marion Presbyterian Sunday School and Church are requested to meet at the church Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, and to bring flowers for decoration services. We want to decorate the graves of those of our S. S. and Church, that are buried in the New Cemetery, and I hope that all our members will make a special point to be present and assist in the services.

J. W. BLUE, Supt.

Ollie M. James.

Our friend Zed A. Bennett who is agency supervisor for the New England Mutual Life Insurance Co., and whose business it is to travel over the whole state of Kentucky, had the following to say of our beloved and brainy Congressman while at home a few days ago.

"Ollie James popularity far exceeds that of any other man in Kentucky today. I have not yet seen a democrat who is opposed to him for anything he wants. Everybody knows how much Bryan thinks of him and they love Bryan because he is Ollie's friend and they love Ollie more because he is Bryan's friend. The Democrats of Kentucky are nominating him every day for various offices, some want him to be Vice President some say he must be sent to the U. S. Senate while others say he must be elected Governor of Kentucky.

Ollie James has put Marion on the map. When I say I live at Marion Marion I always know what I'm going to hear; oh is that so? that is Ollie James' town. Then my newly made acquaintance vies with the other citizens of the State in eulogizing the big Kentucky Statesman.

He must be the Chairman of the State Convention which meets at Lexington June 11th, and must be sent to Denver to what will be no doubt be the greatest Democratic Convention ever held since the birth of our Republic."

Salem Mines on Boom.

The mines near Salem Livingston county are running full force and the output of lead, zinc and spar from that field will be the largest this year than it has ever been.

There will be several new companies operating in this field this year and the outlook for a prosperous year is flattering to Salem, and that section of Livingston County. The Eagle Fluor Spar Co., of Wheeling, W. Va., has a very large separating plant at Salem, The Albany Mining and Investment Co., also have a plant of immense proportions at same place.

The Salem Mining company, of Louisville, with J. B. Pierce of Elizabethtown, Ky., President are now preparing to put in machinery and run full force of hands. Their mines are on the same vein as the wonderful mines owned and operated by the Marion Zinc Co., and their shaft houses are only about one-fourth mile apart.

There are several hundred mines in this section of the county and are good producers of lead, zinc and spar. Salem should certainly be proud of the great showing she is making in the mineral world as well as to know that she is located in one of the greatest agricultural section of the State.

Night Riders Close Packing Company and Then Compromise.

Hickman, Ky., May 22.—The Hickman Packing Company, who have been handling fish and game here for a number of years, have after a two weeks suspension resumed business. They were notified by the night riders not to buy or handle any more fish and game and if they did, the penalty would be death. They therefore quit business. It is rumored that there has been a compromise between the fish dealers and the night riders and by this agreement, they have been allowed to continue their business, both at Union City and Hickman.

Missionary Day at Crooked Creek.

Sunday May 24th was Missionary day at Crooked Creek church and a great gathering was there to enjoy the spiritual feast and it was a red letter day in the history of this grand old church. Rev. W. R. Gibbs the pastor had prepared one of his best sermons on missions and collection was taken up amounting to $35.55, which was double of any previous collections for missions. The house which has a seating capacity of six hundred and which is the largest in the county was filled and many remained outside.

A splendid dinner was served on the ground and old fashioned Kentucky hospitality reigned supreme.

In the afternoon Rev. J. H. Butler, preached a splendid sermon which was listened to attentively and much enjoyed by all who had the pleasure of hearing him, after which an old fashioned hand shaking in which the entire audience joined and indulged in. The congregation dispersed, after the benediction, much strengthened spiritually.

Brooch Found in Crow's Nest.

Allentown, Pr., May 23.—Because a flock of crows were robbing his corn field, John W. Eckart, President of the fair at that city and owns a farm near the city, ordered the nests of the birds to be destroyed. His hired man found a thimble, spool of thread, pair of silver-mounted spectacles and a fifty and a fifty dollar brooch in one of the nests.

The articles had all mysteriously disappeared from President Eckart's farm house during the spring.

Clever Young Man.

Mr. T. J. Cameron, who for many months was the polite and accommodating manager of the Postal Telegraph office at this place, left last week for Nashville, where he has accepted a position as operator. Mr. Cameron is a former Marion boy, having come to this city as manager and operator of the Postal Telegraph service some six or eight months ago. He is a splendid business young man. Always clever and obliging he made many friends during his stay in Princeton. The Postal office being moved to the I. C. blockhouse is the cause of Mr. Cameron's transfer to Nashville.—Princeton Leader.

Who Knows John Brundige.

The Toledo (Ohio) Blade's Marion Kentucky correspondent furnishes the following: Two months ago twin calves of the male gender were born on the farm of John Brundige south of Waldo. The calves are herefor. Remembering Bryans famous heifer he called one of them Billy Bryan and the other Bill Taft. Brundige claims that the one he called Bill Taft has grown sleek and fat and bids fair to be a fine steer. One, however, is not a prize winner. All it does, Brundige says, is to stand in the barn yard and bawl. Thus it can plainly be seen that even Nature calls lustily for Bill Taft, of Ohio.—Shawneetown News-Gleaner.

Electric Storm.

The electrical storm last week destroyed two street light transformers, putting the street light at Dr. Driskill's corner out of commission temporarily, new transformers and fuse blocks for same were ordered by telegraph to come by express. Repairs will probably be in and lamps "trimmed and a burning" ere we go to Press.

W. E. McGRAW

Prominent Contractor Died in Henderson Last Saturday of Blood Poison.

W. E. McGraw the well known contractor of Henderson died there of blood poisoning last Saturday night. Mr. McGraw built some of the best houses in Marion after the fire which occurred March 28th 1905, among them being the "Marion Bank building" the Post-office building and the "Masonic Corner."

His work here is a monument to him. They are examples of the best architecture was due the credit of correct and honest interpretation of the architects plans. Our business people all remember Mr. McGraw and his estimable wife who spent the summer of 1905 here.

His death was the result of an injury received prior to 1905, and it will be remembered that his thumb which he had to have amputated gave him a great deal of trouble while here and was the cause of much solicitation and care. He never got any permanent relief from the malady but on the contrary in gradually spread to other parts of the body causing great pain until relieved by death. His acquaintances, as he was a gentleman of magnetic manner, and genial disposition.

Record Breaker.

The best strawberries we have seen this year were grown by J. T. Pickens in Marion. They were not only large and juicy but were of a delicious flavor and very sweet. May berries this season for some reason has been very tartish, others who have brought in exceptionally fine berries are A. M. Witherspoon and John Asbridge both of whom have good size plots in extra quality berries.

A New Preparation.

Chamberlain's Liniment is a new preparation and a good one. It is especially valuable as a cure for chronic and muscular rheumatism, and for the relief from pain which it affords in acute inflammatory rheumatism. Those who have used it have invariably spoken of it in the highest terms of praise. Lame back, lame shoulder, and stiff neck are due to rheumatism of the muscles, usually brought on by exposure to cold or damp, and are quickly cured by applying this liniment freely and massaging the affected parts. Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury, is allayed by this liniment. For sale by J. H. Orme.

SIMPLE HOME RECIPES

Mix This Simple, Helpful Recipe at Home and try it Anyway.

Get from any prescription pharmacist the following:
Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered by an eminent authority, who writes in a New York daily paper, as the finest prescription ever written to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble, Weak Bladder and all forms of Urinary difficulties. This mixture acts promptly on the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys enabling them to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes Rheumatism.

Some persons who suffer with the afflictions may not feel inclined to place much confidence in this simple mixture, yet those who have tried it say the results are simply surprising, the relief being effected without the slightest injury to the stomach or other organs.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended. It is the prescription of an eminent authority, whose entire reputation it is said, was established by it.

A druggist here at home, when asked, stated that he could either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription for our readers, also recommends it as harmless.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

Copyright, 1908, by Edwin A. Nye.

JUDGE NOT.

"He is an old tightwad." That much the writer heard, and he listened to this further arraignment of the absent subject:

"I tell you, he is the stingiest man in town. He insists on the last red cent that is coming to him. He is as close as the bark on a tree, and it is well known he gives nothing away in a worthy cause."

Severe, but— As the writer happened to know in this case, it was only half the truth.

True, the man referred to is close in his dealings, but this is also true: If he insists upon what is due him he is also ready to pay to the last cent what he owes. His bills are promptly met. He is recognized as an honest man. His credit is good. And this cannot always be said of some other men with a reputation for generosity. He demands no more than he is willing to concede. If he is insistent upon full payment, he is also ready with his own check book.

But— There is another side to his character hidden from the public view. Let us turn the shield around.

This individual who is called stingy and close fisted has a large family. He is fairly prosperous, but he needs all his money. He slaves and saves not for himself, but for his family. He would perhaps like to be generous and charitable in giving, but for the sake of the dear ones he must drive hard bargains and insist upon full payment of his due. He even stints himself for their sakes.

More yet— One of this man's children is a life cripple. Another is incapable of making its way in the world. And he is educating an orphan niece. The person who called him a tightwad didn't know that.

Stingy? No. Hard hearted? No. He lavishes all his strength and all his money and all his tenderness on those who need his first and greatest care. He does this deliberately and without regret and without self pity. He is not a demonstrative man. He is not built that way. And yet his intimate friends know how his big heart yearns over those helpless ones.

Stern and cold? Maybe. He doesn't wear his heart on his sleeve. And for many years he has buffeted the waves of crushing trouble and daily sorrow. He may have a false view of things, but he no doubt feels that he must fight a world that knows and cares little for him or his. So men call him hard and unfeeling, whereas in reality he is as tender as a child.

You see, exteriors are deceptive. You do not know what a man's thorn in the flesh may be by looking at him from the outside.

Therefore— "Judge not lest ye be judged."

Mrs. Highmms (hurrying into the kitchen)—Verena, what will the company think? I'm mortified to death! That turkey isn't half done.
Cook—You folks is awful hard to suit, ma'am. You was findin' fault the other day 'cause the steak was cooked too much.—Chicago Tribune.

Read: If you are a sufferer from catarrh, reason and reflect.

"My wife and I will swear that Hyomei cured me of the worst case of catarrh that ever existed. I used to cough constantly at night, and had a dropping in the throat, which kept me awake a great deal. I raised thick phlegm, and was in a horrible condition. However, I am entirely cured solely through the use of Hyomei."

Dr. Philip Z. Hart, Laconia, N. H.

Reader, this one of the thousands of testimonials praising the marvelous curative power of Hyomei. If you are a sufferer, why not try it? Haynes & Taylor guarantee it, and will refund your money if it fails to cure. Hyomei is not a stomach nostrum; it is a dry antiseptic and medicated air, and all you have to do to cure and any disease of the nose, throat or lungs, is to breathe in thru the Hyomei inhaler. A Hyomei outfit, including a scientific inhaler only cost $1.00. Get one today. Subsequent treatment is only 50c. a bottle. Get one now, Haynes & Taylor takes all the risk. They guarantee it.

RAY LAMPHERE, WIDOW GUNNESS' FARM HAND.

Ray Lamphere, under arrest at Laporte, Ind., on suspicion of being concerned in the burning of the farmhouse of Mrs. Belle Gunness and the murder of the Gunness children and their mother, formerly was employed as a farm hand by the Widow Gunness. It is alleged that he made love to her and was repulsed, Mrs. Gunness being on the trail of men with money who were matrimonially inclined. Vengeance and jealousy are alleged as motives for burning the house and destroying the family. Lamphere stoutly asserts his innocence and declares that he "always thought there was something wrong at that place," meaning the Gunness farm. He told the authorities that about two years ago a large man came to the farmhouse who was said by Mrs. Gunness to be a suitor for the hand of her adopted daughter, Jennie Olsen, and that he never knew what became of the man. Miss Olsen's body was one of those found buried on the premises, along with eight others. When caught Lamphere was hiding in a hollow tree.

RUINS OF GUNNESS HOUSE, LAPORTE.

The farmhouse of Mrs. Belle Gunness, a mile from Laporte, Ind., was totally destroyed by fire on the night of April 27. This fire led to the discovery of the nine bodies of murder victims buried on the premises and developed a crime mystery which has horrified the nation. The house was built of brick, with an addition built of lumber. Joseph Maxson, the hired man, slept in a room above the wooden kitchen, and he says that he awoke about 4 o'clock in the morning stifled by smoke which was pouring out of the brick part of the house. He tried to enter that part but could not. Several neighbors who arrived shortly also were driven back by flames. The charred bodies of three children found in the ruins were identified as those of Mrs. Gunness, while the body of a woman, from which the head was missing, either burned off or decapitated prior to the fire, was believed at first to be that of Mrs. Gunness. Subsequent disclosures as to the "murder farm" lead some to believe that Mrs. Gunness placed the headless trunk of a murdered woman in the house to serve as a blind in effecting her own escape from justice.

JOSEPH MAXSON, WHO WAS EMPLOYED BY MRS. GUNNESS.

Joseph Maxson, who was employed as man of all work around the house and farm of Mrs. Belle Gunness near Laporte, Ind., pointed out to the authorities certain spots in the yard of the burned farmhouse where, he said, he had been instructed by Mrs. Gunness from time to time to deposit such rubbish as was to be thrown away. The nine bodies of persons supposed to have been murdered by Mrs. Gunness were dug up at points Maxson indicated.

MRS. BELLE GUNNESS, OF LAPORTE'S MURDER FARM.

Mrs. Belle Gunness, the widow suspected of the murder of the persons whose bodies were dug up from the premises of her burned home a mile from Laporte, Ind., was a Norwegian woman whose maiden name was Paulson. She was married first to Max Sorensen, who died under suspicious circumstances. Her second husband, Philip Gunness, died under similar circumstances. It was reported at first that the body of Mrs. Gunness was found with those of her three children in the ruins of her houses. The head of the charred remains of the woman found in the ruins was missing, which fact caused the authorities to suspect that Mrs. Gunness herself had killed her children and set fire to the dwelling after placing in the house the decapitated body of one of her adult women victims in an effort to cause the belief that she had perished in the fire. Mrs. Gunness had had an enormous quantity of gold work done on her teeth. The gruesome mystery of the missing head, it was said by those who held the theory of the flight of Mrs. Gunness, was explained by the woman's fear that she left her substitute's head on the body it would be evident that she here was not a victim of the fire.

STATE ATTORNEY ROY C. SMITH.

ANDREW HELGELEIN, ONE OF MRS. GUNNESS' VICTIMS.

One of the nine bodies disinterred from the premises of Mrs. Belle Gunness, near Laporte, Ind., was identified as that of Andrew Helgelein, a wealthy stockman of Aberdeen, S. D., forty years of age. He was a Norwegian, as was Mrs. Gunness, who had advertised for a prospective husband with means. Helgelein started for Laporte Jan. 3, since which date nothing was heard from him by his relatives, who were aware that he had gone to the Indiana widow's home with matrimonial intentions. It was known also that he had drawn $3,000 from his Aberdeen bank account after arriving at Laporte. The theory is that Mrs. Gunness killed Helgelein to get his money.

MRS. GUNNESS AND HER THREE CHILDREN.

Mrs. Belle Gunness, the Indiana woman who is believed by the police to have lured to her farm home near Laporte several men on matrimonial pretenses and then murdered them for their money, is said to have been quite fond of her three little children, whose charred bodies were found in the ruins of the Gunness farmhouse, along with the headless trunk of a woman, who was supposed at first to be the body of their mother. The children were Myrtle Sorensen, aged eleven, and Lucy Sorensen, aged nine, daughters of Mrs. Gunness by her first husband, Max Sorensen, and Philip Gunness, aged five, namesake of his father, who, like Sorensen, is said to have died under suspicious circumstances.

DR. C. F. MACK, CORONER, TAKING NOTES.

Shortly after the discovery of the first bodies that had been buried on the premises of the Widow Gunness near Laporte, Ind., Dr. C. F. Mack, the coroner, arrived on the scene and was busy taking notes for official use. The nine bodies of murdered men and women dug up in the yard near the ruins of the burned farmhouse passed under Dr. Mack's close scrutiny, as did also those of the three children and the woman found in the ruins. A jury composed of physicians thoroughly examined the charred remains of the children and the woman and arrived at the conclusion that they were those of Mrs. Belle Gunness and her little ones. It was impossible to determine the sex of five of the bodies disinterred, they having been dismembered and also partially disintegrated by quicklime. Mr. Mack made copious notes for reference in future efforts to solve the horrible mystery and identify the victims, most of whom are believed to have been men who were lured to the place by the matrimonial advertisements of Mrs. Gunness, who described herself as a rich widow wanting a husband with some money.

JOHN HELGELEIN, BROTHER OF ONE OF THE VICTIMS.

Suspicion against Mrs. Belle Gunness was first aroused in Indiana by the arrival at Laporte of John Helgelein, a Norwegian from Mansfield, S. D., who came to investigate the disappearance of his brother, Andrew Helgelein, of Aberdeen, S. D. Andrew Helgelein was known to have answered one of Mrs. Gunness' advertisements for a husband with money. He left Aberdeen on Jan. 3 to visit Mrs. Gunness at her home near Laporte. After his arrival in Laporte he had drawn $3,000 from his bank in Aberdeen. John Helgelein, becoming worried because nothing further was heard from his brother, wrote to Mrs. Gunness, who replied that Andrew had departed for a visit to Norway. John Helgelein identified one of the first bodies found as that of his brother.

Half Million People to Welcome Great Crafts.

Seattle, Wash., May 23.-The city of Seattle, sitting on her seven clothed hills, on the shore of Puget Sound, capitulates today to the Atlantic fleet of battleships under command of Rear Admiral Charles S. Sperry. The gates of the city were thrown open and Admiral Sperry given the key, made of Alaskan gold. As the fleet came into sight around the point at 2 o'clock it was caught sight of by nearly half million people assembled on the heights, terraces and high buildings and the shores of the bay were black with the northwest Patriotic people. The city's normal population of perhaps one quarter of a million was augmented by an equal number who came from distant states of Montana, Idaho and Oregon and from across the Canadian border to witness the unusual naval spectacle.

Double Wedding.

Cards announcing the approaching nuptials of Miss Mildred Haynes of this city and Mr. Trice Bennett of Marietta, Okla., and Miss Willie Croft to Mr. Wilbor, Haynes both of Marion, were received by friends in this city. The ceremony will be a double wedding at the Methodist church, Rev. J. B. Adams officiating. The young people are from the flower of Marion's Social circle and all are well known and greatly beloved here.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney nerves. The kidneys, like the heart, and the stomach, and their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and energize them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine is scanty, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month. Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell.

The Cutest Yankee Soldier

By MITCHEL FAY.

[Copyright, 1908, by C. N. Lurie.]

HE GOT PAST THE GUARD.

he'd go on spring. He wouldn't go back to the commander who sent him until he'd finished his job and got all the information he wanted.

Our trouble was that we were in the field, where we hadn't any jail to put him in. The first time we caught him red handed, with memoranda of our forces on him, the guard was dead and went to sleep. To get away that time was easy. We caught him and shut him up in a box car on the railroad track. He sawed a hole in the bottom of the car, let himself down and got past the guard in the darkness.

Well, we caught him again, though this time he tried hard enough to make his lines, and I wanted to string him right up. The colonel came pretty near giving me an order to do so, but concluded that he'd better get the general's order, and this necessitated our keeping him overnight. This time we decided to put him in a farmhouse. We put a guard in the room with him and a double guard on the outside of the house.

The Yank, besides being slick, was the best looking chap you ever saw in your life, and he had such a pleasant smile that I hated the idea of putting an end to it. There was a half grown girl in the house, an awkward, freckled, red headed thing that none of us noticed or considered any element of danger. How the spy found a way of getting her interested in him or whether she did it all without the asking we never found out. She ran into the room where he was and excitedly told the sentry that the Yanks were coming full tilt. The guard ran out, and when he found it was only a scare and went back the prisoner wasn't there. He got away through a secret tunnel the farmer had dug.

He was a beautiful runner—we had had experience in that—and an artful dodger besides, but he had little start, and we felt no fear of not catching him. Just as we were starting in different directions a man told us of some bloodhounds near by, so we got 'em, and they picked up the scent. We didn't hurry much as soon as we found we could get the dogs, or, rather, the man I sent for 'em was a long while getting 'em, and I reckon the Yank had got about forty minutes' start; but, Lord, that wasn't anything since he was more than twenty miles from his lines, and we felt dead sure of getting him.

The dogs kept the scent for about a mile, when they lost it at a creek. The Yank had walked in the water some distance, and then, instead of getting back on to dry land on the opposite side, he crossed farther up. This threw the dogs off the scent for quite awhile.

The first we heard of our man he'd taken a horse out of a widow's barn. We followed him through a clump of houses where there was a store and learned that he'd gone into the store, told the storekeeper that he was a Confederate courier in a hurry with important dispatches, helped himself to what he could find to eat and asked the storekeeper if he had any red pepper, as he was mighty fond of it on meat. The storekeeper gave him a box, and the Yank jumped on his horse and galloped away.

Funny, wasn't it—a man flying from the rope so particular about the seasoning of his food? By this time we'd tracked him some ten miles, and he was going straight in the direction of the Federal lines, but his horse didn't seem to be much of a beast for endurance, for we kept hearing of the man nearer and nearer. When about two miles ahead of us he left the road and made for a big field, letting down a rail fence to get into it. He soon struck the road again, and it was evident that he'd made a cutoff. Then we followed him up a creek that was pretty near dry and at last came to his horse, lying stone dead in a cotton field.

"Hooryay!" we all shouted. "We've got him! Another mile or two 'll do the business."

But he'd been riding all the while and must have been as fresh as a daisy for running. Anyway, he gave us a lively chase.

First we came upon his hat, that had doubtless been knocked off by a branch, and he hadn't lost time in picking it up. Some of our men had forced him to exchange a pair of worn-out shoes for his boots, and pretty soon we found blood in his tracks. We calculated we were not half a mile behind him, and it was still five miles to the nearest Federal picket. The blood tracks grew more and more marked, and it was plain that he couldn't run very fast with bleeding feet.

All of a sudden the foremost dog, skipping along with his nose to the ground, stopped and sneezed. The next and the next did the same till every dog was sneezing so hard we were afraid they'd sneeze their heads off. The Yank had poured red pepper in his shoes, in which there were plenty of holes, through which it could run out into his tracks. The dogs sneezed and sneezed and then turned tail on the trail. No whipping would drive them on. Some of us followed the Yank, but we didn't get him. The last we saw of him he was scotting into the Federal lines.

What did we do with the girl who helped him get away? Nothing. And I've been glad ever since we didn't. The Yank came back after the war and married her. They're living in the house from which she helped him to escape. They've got a dozen or more grandchildren.

Those Broken Ranks

A Memorial Day Poem by Marion Couthouy Smith.

[Copyright, 1908, by Marion C. Smith.]

Sound in our dreaming ears,
And, hark, the battle thunders swell
Across the gulf of years!

How strange, how swift, the after days!
Spring after spring goes by:
Voices of sorrow and of praise
In lessening murmurs die;
The ranks are thinned, their work long done,
The stately heads grown white,
And brave old comrades one by one
Pass out beyond our sight.

AND, HARK, THE BATTLE THUNDERS SWELL!

New hopes, new triumphs, projects wide,
Have filled the nation's heart.
Strong men, once children at our side,
Now fill their destined part.
But still they stand—those broken ranks—
To share with spirits dear
The incense of a people's thanks
Uprising year by year.

Alas, how soon those passing hosts
Will vanish from our view.
Their very memories be as ghosts
Of men our fathers knew!
Yet from the past,
With glory fraught,
Their praises still shall ring
And tribute to their graves be brought
In lavish bloom of spring.

Fired First and Last Shot.

It is a fact not generally known that the man who fired the first gun in the civil war killed himself with another shot not long after the close of the conflict. Edmund Ruffin, who opened the bombardment of Fort Sumter by firing the first cannon shot, owned a large plantation on the James river, with many slaves. He was an old man, but intensely loyal to the south. By the fortunes of war his estate was ruined. So disappointed and humiliated was Ruffin by the failure of the southern cause that on the 17th of June, 1865, at Amelia Court House, Va., the old man loaded a musket and killed himself.

Fired From Fort Sumter.

Dr. V. Hutson Ford of Washington recently gave the National museum a forty pound cannon ball fired from Fort Sumter during the opening engagement of the civil war.

The Fight on Little Round Top

Valor of the Twentieth Maine at Gettysburg.

By FRANK H. SWEET

Colonel Joshua L. Chamberlain in Civil War Days.

How Colonel Chamberlain Won the Medal of Honor.

Copyright, 1908, by Frank H. Sweet.

THE war council of Federal generals the night before the second day's battle of Gettysburg became necessarily a frantic pretention of scanning the unknown. Outside on the lengthening ridges and between the abrupt hillsides of that intricate battlefield lay the engagements of the two hostile armies, ominous and solemn. There were few campfires. At times could be heard the voice of a sentry challenging or the drawn out clatter of a horseman on the stone pavement of the cemetery. Daybreak found cautious General Meade still listening to the reports of his division commanders, to their stories of misfortune and plans for strengthening the line of battle.

The unexpected was certain to befall both officers and men, and they must be ready to perform miracles if need be. An instance of this kind was the fight of the Twentieth Maine on Little Round Top, in token of which the colonel of the regiment, Joshua L. Chamberlain, for his daring heroism received the medal of honor.

Little Round Top had escaped the vigilance of the Federal commanders. This was the smaller of two rough hills, strewn with boulders and bare, slippery rocks, rising sharply from a wooded swamp, behind which stretched the Confederate battle line. At the foot of Little Round Top a body of Union troops had been posted.

It was now afternoon. Lee's attack was expected momentarily, and every man was waiting intently, with his eyes fixed upon the open space that separated the two armies. Just at this time, by a fortunate chance, it occurred to General Meade to order General Warren to ride over the field in the direction of the Round Top. Warren did so, and when he came to the foot of Little Round Top he left his horse and climbed to the summit. What was his surprise to find at this point only one soldier, an officer of the signal corps! He no sooner looked about him than it became instantly clear to him that the top of this hill was in reality the key to the whole position. His astonishment gave place to consternation.

With his glass he noted the thickly wooded ridge beyond the swamp. "Captain," he said, "fire a shot into those woods." The captain of the rifle battery did so, and a simultaneous flash of musket barrel and bayonet revealed to the northern general the presence of a long line of the enemy far outflanking the position of the Union troops. The fact thrilled him. It was most appalling. A strong force should have been entrenched long ago on this hill. Perhaps even now it was not too late. He rushed off a messenger to General Meade with a penciled word to send General Warren at least a division to hold the position at Little Round Top.

On the summit where the signal officer was stationed the musket balls were beginning to fly. He folded up his flag and was going to leave, but at this moment Warren came back and induced him to keep the flag waving. "It may puzzle those people," he said, meaning the enemy, "and may keep them back for a few minutes." The moments of suspense came suddenly to an end with the arrival of Vincent's brigade and Hazlett's battery of rifled cannon, Fifth artillery. The young battery lieutenant spoke. "General, what is the matter?"

"The dence is to pay!" was the reply. "I hope you can hold out until the infantry gets into position."

"I guess I can," answered Lieutenant Hazlett. As a matter of fact, he stayed there until he was killed.

The veteran Chamberlain, now in his eightieth year, thus describes the action from this point:

"Warren started our brigade (Vincent's) before he sent Hazlett's battery to Little Round Top. My column passed Hazlett getting his guns up by hand and hands, to the summit of Little Round Top. The Twentieth Maine was placed on the extreme left of the Union army. The attack, beginning on the right of our brigade, rolled rapidly upon my front. The assault was first from the Fourth and Fifth Texas, joined by the Fourth Alabama and next by the Forty-seventh and finally the Fifteenth Alabama.

"My regiment had already been cut down by the casualties of the service, so that only 368 muskets were in line. We first fought without seeing the extent of the opposing force, which was constantly increasing. Then the two flanking regiments (Fifteenth and Forty-seventh Alabama), preparing a 'turning attack,' were met by a change of front. I sent also a strong company out on that flank to strike this attack in flank."

No sooner had Colonel Chamberlain's little force reached the portion of the hillside assigned to it than it was engaged by the Fourth Alabama. Soon it saw a dense mass of Confederates coming toward its left, for two strong regiments of the enemy, containing a thousand men, had been ordered to turn the Union flank at exactly that position. Discerning in a flash the grave peril of his command, the Maine colonel sent out a company to engage this force and ordered five companies to swing back until they formed a line at a right angle to the rest. At this instant the Alabamians attacked them on front and flank, opening with a murderous fire. There were five successive charges by this force.

Colonel Chamberlain with drawn sword moved up and down his lines. The bullets whizzed incessantly past him. His men were constantly groaning and falling on every side. Outnumbered more than three to one, their position was terrible, and it was apparently a hopeless one. Yet with dripping faces the men loaded and fired their muskets, displaying the cool expertness of true veterans.

Colonel Chamberlain thus describes what followed:

"Seeing the desperate situation, I had ordered my men to use the cartridges of the fallen friend or foe. When they had fired their last cartridge into the faces of a rallying force I resolved to make a countercharge with the bayonet and so instructed my officers on the wheeling flank, on whom the brunt was to fall. Returning to my center, I was about to order the movement when Lieutenant Melcher, commanding the now salient center company, came up and asked if he might not rush forward and rescue some of our wounded before the oncoming enemy should trample them underfoot. I admired his tenderness and courage and answered: 'Yes, sir; I will give you a chance. I am about to order a charge.' I went forward to our colors and shouted 'Bayonet!' adding 'Forward!' But no mortal could hear this, the roar of fire and shouts of my men drowning all words.

"We made a sickle sweep, a great right wheel, with our whole line, astonishing the enemy into surrender or wild retreat. We cleared the whole valley between Little Round Top and brought back 400 prisoners. I had lost half my men on the center and a third of the entire regiment on the line. The company I had sent out on our left not being at first in the charging line, it was made by scarcely more than 200 men. We later advanced in midnight blackness, clambering the rough sides of Great Round Top, beyond which the remnants of Hood's division had retreated, and with the aid of two regiments held the position."

The heroic leader of this remarkable action, besides receiving the medal of honor for his work at Gettysburg, was made a brigadier general on the field in a later engagement by General Grant, and in 1895 General Chamberlain was brevetted a major general "for conspicuous gallantry in action." At the ceremony of the actual surrender of the arms and colors of Lee's army at Appomattox Chamberlain was designated to command.

We understand the Cullen and Nancy Hanks Mines will start up this week.

Some of our people who pooled their tobacco and have gotten returns for it and are well pleased.

Some men have mighty little faith in their fellow-man.

A Subscriber.

Atwood, Kansas, May 13, 1908.
Mr. S. M. Jenkins,
Marion, Ky.

Dear Friend:—I enclose you post-office money order to pay you another year's subscription to the Crittenden Record-Hress, from May 18, 1908 to May 18, 1909. I am always glad to get the Press as it is like a half dozen letters.

As I know so many people in Old Kentucky. I was sorry to hear of the death of Mr. John A. Yandell, I knew him quiet well in the year 1861 to 1865. I was with him when he shot one of his fingers off, by accident in 1865.

Quite a number of those good old people are dead and I am near 65 years old and am up here in North-west Kansas, and will say it is certainly healthy up here, this is a high altitude, and dry. Our principal crop here is wheat, barley, and oats.

I have retired to private life and have rented out all my land. I have over a thousand acres in cultivation.

Plenty of automobiles out here, and fine roads for them in this prairie country. Well I remember quiet a number of people in Crittenden county. The one best remembered is the Rev. E. B. Blackburn. My wife and I remember him and his good wife, Rev. E. B. Blackburn married us in February 16th, 1870, over 38 years ago. It would be a pleasure to us to meet those good people once more and we hope we will some sweet day. J. B. Morse.

STARR.

There were services at Walnut Grove last Sunday.

Several Farmers are done planting corn.

Our stock man, C. C. Crayne, is hustling around.

There is a good deal of objection to the new school law—more middle men—more tax—and less interest in the public schools, is the way it goes.

There has been a number of our citizens received letters from Arkansas,—"real estate men"—asking them to consider a proposition in regard to the growing of tobacco.

Birth—A new arrival at Tom Felkers, and he is going right on with his farm work.

Planting tobacco is now in order—if your corn is planted.

Rev. J. T. Davis preached a good sermon at Walnut Grove the third Sunday

J. P. Reed of Kuttawa passed through this vicinity Monday.

Mrs Thomas Felker has been very sick. Dr. Davis is her attending physician.

Fred Crayne and wife of Belmont, passed through this vicinity Monday.

Miss Lillian Parris is in very delicate health and we hope to hear of her improvement soon.

Rev. U. G. Hughes preached a fine sermon at Walnut Grove last Sunday.

Oh! but farmers are busy.

Rain or shine, cold or hot—drummers come and go.

J A Baker, of Zillah, Wash., had been heard from, he is working at for $54 dollars per month, he and his family are well pleased.

Albert Hankins, has married over in Hopkins county and he is happy.

DECIDE YOURSELF

The Opportunity Is Here Backed by Marion Testimony.

Don't take our word for it, Don't depend on a strangers statement.

Read Marion endorsement. Read the statements of Marion citizens.

And decide for yourself Here is one case of it.

P. W. Champion, Mechanic, living on Salem St., Marion Ky., says: "Kidney disease had reduced my health and strength until I scarcely expected to see a well day again. I suffered intensely from pain in my loin, and my family physician diagnosed my case as kidney stones and gave me some medicine to dissolve them, but the symptoms only seemed to be intensified. About this time when in despair, I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Haynes & Ta; or's drug store. After a short use I began to pass the secretion copiously and two kidney stones passed from me which were nearly one-half inch long. After this the terrible pains began to subside and I fell into a sound sleep which lasted for twelve hours. From that time on my health improved rapidly, the pains in my back ceased, the kidney secretions became regular and I began to feel like myself again. My friends here in Marion marvel at my ease. It took eight boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills to bring a complete cure in my case, but I owe my health, in fact my life, to their curative powers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The Dollar Can't Be Spent.

(BY HERBERT KAUFMAN)

Every dollar spent in advertising is not only a dollar which grows a profit for the merchant, but is actually retained by him after he has paid it to the publisher.

Advertising creates a good will worth the cost publicity.

It actually costs nothing. While it uses funds it does not use them up. It helps the founder of a business to grow rich and at the same time keeps his business from not dying when he does.

It eliminates the personal equation. It perpetuates confidence in the store and makes it possible for a merchant to withdraw from business without having the profits of the business withdrawn from him. It changes the name to an institution—an institution which will survive after the death of its builder.

It is really an insurance policy which costs nothing—pays a premium each year instead of calling for one and renders it possible to charge the entire personnel of a business without disturbing its prosperity.

Advertising renders the business stronger than the man—-independent of his presence. It permanentizes systems of merchandising, the track of which is left for others to follow.

A business which is not advertised must rely upon the personality of its proprietor, and personality in business is a decreasing factor. The public does not want to know the man who owns the store—it isn't interested in him but in his goods. When an advertised business is sold it is only worth as much as its stock of goods and fixtures. There is no good will to be paid for—It does not exist—it has not been created. The name over the door means nothing except to the limited stream of people from the immediate neighborhood, any of whom could tell you more about some store ten miles away which has regularly delivered its shop news to their homes.

It is as short sighted for a man to build a business which dies with his death or ceases with his inaction as it is unfair for him not to provide for the continuance of its income to his family.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

HASTE MAKES WASTE.

Don't be in a hurry. Modern haste is often waste. Many ill, economic, moral, individual, come of it. Life may be too strenuous for good results. The spirit of hurry, good in its place, causes friction, clashing, losses.

Don't be in a hurry. Many are in haste to get rich. They patronize get-rich-quick schemes. They speculate. Where one wins, a thousand, ten thousand, lose. There is only one safe way to make money—the old fashioned way of honesty, industry, economy. That way is slow, but it is reasonably sure.

Don't be in a hurry. Young persons get in a haste to be educated. Education is a GROWTH. Knowledge, experience, must not only be digested, but assimilated. That requires time. It does not delay the boy or girl to stop between terms to teach school. Opportunity is given to put into practice some of the things learned in college.

Don't be in a hurry. Some are in haste to make a reputation, but reputation without character behind it is worthless. And character is a GROWTH. Mushroom characters will make mushroom reputations. You will be taken for what you are. The world will size you up. Build solidly.

Don't be in a hurry. You cannot expect to get rich quick, educate yourself in a day or build a reputation on a flimsy foundation.

Don't be in a hurry. Mind and body can only be strengthened by DEVELOPMENT. That takes time. Science has given it out that RELAXATION is the secret of mental and physical life. Nervous and muscular contraction is wearing the hurried man to a frazzle. Therefore men and women are excitable, frictional, erratic; therefore the breakdowns, the asylums. It is the constant TENSION of nerve and muscles. Relax frequently. You will succeed better. You will live longer.

Don't be in a hurry. Suppose you get wealth. How will you enjoy it or use it to the advantage of the world if you are worn out, enervated, wrecked? Suppose you get an education and, like Thomas Curran, aged twenty, of the senior class of Yale, '03, you receive your diploma on your deathbed, having killed yourself for a piece of sheepskin. Suppose you gain a reputation for brilliancy and give in exchange a well balanced, amiable mind or a sound physique.

Don't be in a hurry. Work steadily, sanely, surely. Hold the even tenor of your way. Don't be in a hurry.
