DELEGATES TO STATE MEETING.

Paducah, Ky., July 2, 1908-Dear Brethern :-- After baving considered the best interest of our Order, and all points available to hold our state meeting. I have decided that Paducah is the most convenient to a large majority of our membership, and therefore have called the State Union to meet in the city of Paducah at the auditorium rink at Tenth and Broadway, August 6th, 7th and 8th, 1908, at 10 o'clock a. m., sharp. Every County President is respectfully urged to call a meeting in their respective counties AT ONCE and proceed to elect delegates to the state meeting to be held in Paducah on the above named dates. The basis of representation will be one delegate for every twenty members in good standing, and one for a majority fraction of twenty members. In each case delegates will be expected to hold certified credentials signed by their county president and secretary, otherwise they will not be bread by the sweat of their brow that work upon the farm. I warn you to make no mistake in the selection of your representatives. There are wolves in our camp and we must be cautious until we can dispose of them. The man who is continously talking and working against the Union is the most deadly enemy extant, and should be required to take a back seat until he learns to stand by his friends and the cause of the working people. If this circular stampedes this element in our Union, let them go, and the sooner the better. We don't need them.

We need loyal, patriotic, unswerving men of honor and conviction.

Do not make the mistake of sending your representatives pledged to support certain men, for when you have met in state convention you will have a chance to talk among yourselves and ascertain your most competent men for the various offices. I offer these suggestions that you may not make any mistakes in the selection of your very best men to take care of your interest, for the clouds will gather thicker and faster as we advance upon the enemy. The most trying time has not yet come. I believe the open opposition is nearing a close, but our deadly enemy will come to your officials in friendly disguise. Therefore you should be aware who you select as your state officials.

Trusting all to God and the Brotherhood, I am your obedient servant, R. L. BARNETT.

EX-PRESIDENT CLEVELAND

SAGE OF PRINCETON' SUCCUMBS TO HEART DISEASE, AFTER A STUBBORN FIGHT.

TWICE OCCUPIED WHITE HOUSE

Wife, the Only Member of the Family at His Bedside When He Passed Away, Believed to Last Long Iliness Not Critical.

Princeton, N. J., June 25 .- Grover Cleveland, the 22d, also the 24th president of the United States and the last ex-president, died at his home here at 8:40 o'clock Wednesday morning, after a lingering illness that had caused him to be confined to his bed throughout the winter and spring, here and at Lakewood, N. J.

home, but the information was subsequently given out that the visit was not occasioned by an alarming condition of the former president's health.

When the end came, only Mrs. Cleveland, the physicians and attendants were at the bedeide, the Cleveland children being at the ex-president's summer beine at Tamworth, N. H., in the care of their maternal grandmother, Mrs. Perrine.

Mrs. Cleveland was particularly cheerful Tuesday night over the condition of her husband. He was apparently in good spirits and his health appeared better than it had been for some time.

In the afternoon he took a little outdoor exercise and retired at his usual hour Tuesday night.

All of Princeton is Shocked. When the discovery of his death was made Wednesday morning the residents of Princeton were shocked, and the grief of Mrs. Cleveland was almost uncontrollable. For a number of years Mr. Cleveland had suffered from periodical attacks of sickness, usually in the summer time. Last summer's recreation. Mrs. Cleveland Collapses.

At once after her husband's death Mrs. Cleveland collapsed. It marked the end of her terrific struggle which had been waged for years in the interests of her husband's health. However, she soon railled.

While Mr. Cleveland's condition was naturally rugged, it had been weakened by disease. He had suffered from kidney and intestinal trou-

The Cleveland children were notified Wednesday morning and are hurrying to Princeton. They have been at Tamworth, N. H., with Mrs. Cleveland's mother, Mrs. Perrine. So sanguine were the family over the condition of Mr. Cheveland that it was not even thought advisable to keep the children at home.

The death of the former president Wednesday ends one of the most stubborn fights for life ever chronicled. For many years Mr. Cleveland had suffered, and in that time there had been many remore of his approaching death. Moved to Home In Auto.

When Mr. Cleveland was removed from Lakewood to his Princeton residence he was conveyed in a large touring car, owned by John Hays Hammond, the millionaire mining expert, who was a candidate for the vice-presidential ticket. Mr. Cleveland looked weak and peaked, and the trip was made slowly. Mr. Cleveland at that time was attended almost constantly by Dr. G. Rowe Lockwood

Ex-President Cheveland had been invited to attend the conference of governors at Washington, but was too Ill to be present.

Through the long fight for health, the one bright spot in the battle egainst disease were the devotion and untiring affection of Mrs. Cleveland. She was constantly at her husband's bedside.

Milk and Eggs Seven Weeks. There were times during Mr. Cleveland's recent illness that the attending physicians spent 72 hours at his bedside. For seven weeks his diet consisted of nothing but milk and eggs. While Mr. Cleveland was at Lakewood the rumor was circulated that he was suffering from cancer, but this was denied.

The interest manifested in the fight of Mr. Cleveland was universal. Not only in every hamlet in this country, but in Europe as well. King Edward asked very frequently after his health in May when Mr. Cleveland was low.

To a slight extent Mr. Cleveland's illness weighed upon his usually cheerful personality. This is clearly voiced in an article prepared by him during his illness for a periodical. In it is this passage:

"Like a child's outgrown toy buried in the family garret, the American expresident is a melancholy product of our government system."

So astounding was the information of Mr. Cleveland's death Wednesday morning in view of the favorable bulletins that it was looked upon with doubt in some quarters.

Dr. Bryant, who has been the Cleveland family physician for many years, issued an official statement Wednesday, in which he said:

"For many years Mr. Cleveland had been a sufferer from gastro-intenstiwhile and his condition was weak- nal troubles, complicated with liver ened, his death was unexpected. Only and kidney complaint. The cause of his death Wednesday was heart dis-

> Grover Cleveland's Life. Stephen Grover Cleveland was born in Caldwell, Essex county, N. J., on March 18, 1837. He was the son of a Presbyterian minister, Richard Fal-ley Cleveland. He was named after Stephen Grover, his father's predecessor in the Caldwell pulpit.

Soon after his birth his father moved the family on a canal boat to Payetteville, N. Y., where he supportd them on a satary of $600 a year.

At the age of 14 Grover Cleveland rent to work in a grocery store for 50 per stnmm. He later attended the academy at Clinton, N. Y., and after his father's death became an indructor in a school for the blind in New York City.

In 1854 he went to Buffalo, where he studied her in the offices of Bowen & Rogers, earning his board the while by working for his uncle in his spare time. He was admitted to the bar in 1869.

in 1863 he was appointed assistant district attorney of Erie county. This was his first entrance into politics, and after serving a time as assistan be was territoated for district attorney and was defeated by a narrow metority.

In 1870, after having formed a law partnership under the firm name of Laning, Cleveland & Polsom, he was elected sheriff of Erie county.

In 1881 Mr. Cleveland was elected mayor of Buffalo, then governor of New York, and finally, in 1884, president. In 1888 he was renominated for the presidency, but was beaten for re-election by Benjamin Harrison, whom he defeated in turn in 1892. He retired from public life at the expiration of his second term, in 1896.

In his first term as president, Mr. Cleveland married Miss Frances Folsom of Buffalo. The wedding was celebrated in the White House, but was exceedingly simple, and was attended by comparatively few persons, all of whom were intimate friends.

Five children have been born to Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland, of whom four still live. The eldest daughter, Ruth, who was born in 1891, died in 1904. The other children are Esther, 15 years old and and only child born in White House; Marion, 13 years old; Richard Folson, 11 years old, and Frances Grover, 5 years old.

* Roar of the British Lion

By WRIGHT A. PATTERSON

was familiarly known to his intimates. But the fortune had conditions attached, conditions that were "a beastly bore, don't you know.'

Old Peter had been one of the old settlers of Plumville; his son had been born there and married there, and "Dickey" had first seen the light of day at the same place. But with the increase of fortune "Dickey's" mother had developed society leanings, and she had taken "Dickey" east where she could dabble in the edges of the society sea, and "Dickey" had grown up in the atmosphere of Saratoga and Newport, with an occasional visit to London when the "season" was on.

When it came to the question of a university nothing short of Oxford would answer; all America was too provincial to be thought of. So it was that he spent the greater part of his teens and neared his majority in England, at all times a willing student of English snobbery.

It was with considerable disgust that Dickey read the letter from his American lawyers warning him that if he wished to have the handling of his grandfather's money after his twenty-fifth birthday it would be necessary to comply with the old gentleman's expressed command that he spend each of his birthdays from his twenty-first to his twenty-fifth in his native town of Plumville.

"A beastly bore, don't you know," said Dickey, as he read the letter for the third time. "I say now, why could not the old codger have left that out?" It was on the first of July that Dickey arrived at Plumville, monocle, brilliantly checked trousers, white spats, walking stick and all the other essentials without which life in London would be scarcely worth the living.

Plumville just at that time was very much imbued with a spirit of patriotism, and looked at everything English very much as the audience looks upon the villain in the show. The town was going to celebrate, and they were going to do it on a very big scale-for Plumville. Everything had been arranged for with the exception of the evening's fireworks when the subscribed funds began to run low, so it seemed as though Plumville's celebration was not destined to wind up in a blaze of glory. Rather, that was the way it seemed before Dickey's ar-. rival.

The finance committee of the celebration felt that he should and would provide the needed funds for the fireworks, and the chairman waited upon him at once and broached the subject. What Dickey said to the chairman that official did not repeat, but he did report to the committee that the funds for the fireworks would be forthcoming, and the town paper contained the following notice on the morning of the

EXTRAORDINARY CELEBRATION ATTRACTION! The committee on arrangements of the Plumville Fourth of July celebration, announce the engagement of a GENUINE ENGLISH LION.

The only one in captivity in this country. He will be securely caged. and will provide entertainment by roaring when his tail is twisted. DO NOT FAIL TO SEE IT.

The admission price will be 25 cents. When Fourth of July morning dawned, a large size tent was one of the features of the grounds on which the celebration was to be held. Across it in large letters was the sign:

THE ENGLISH LION-HEAR IT ROARI

The curiosity of the visitors and the townspeople was at white heat, and they flocked into the tent as soon as it was opened.

There was Dickey in a hastily constructed cage, securely bound down on all fours, properly arrayed in his checked trousers, white spats, with his monocle fastened securely in place and himself decorated with a bushy tail. The chairman's young hopeful, garbed in continental uniform and cocked hat, was operating the tailpiece. This was but a doubled strand of rope fitted around Dickey's stomach so tightly that when given an extra twist or two it became torture to the victim, and produced the promised roar.

The crowd went wild with delight at the novelty of the entertainment while Dickey roared, and howled, and swore, and vowed vengeance upon Plumville and the entire nation.

The $100 worth of fireworks with which Plumville wound up its celebration were promptly paid for when the bill was presented. Dickey spent his birthday in bed in the town hospital, and has not been heard from since the day following, though the fame of Plumville's British lion has spread from ocean to ocean. Should he fail to return for his birthday this year. the town will be able to replace the present hospital with a more commodious structure out of the old gentleman's fortune which it inherits, should Dickey not meet the conditions of the will.

Independence Bell

Again-Who Wrote It?

When it became certain that the Declaration of Independence would be adopted and confirmed by the signatures of the delegates in the Continental Congress it was determined to announce the event by ringing the old State House bell, which bore the inscription. "Proclaim liberty to the land; to all inhabitants thereof!" and the old bellman posted his grandson at the door of the hall to await the instruction of the doorseeper when to ring. At the word that the document had been signed the little patriot scion rushed out and flinging up his hands shouted, "Ring! Ring! RINO!"

There was a tumult in the city, In the quaint old Quaker town, And the streets were rife with people Pacing restless up and down; People gathering at corners,
Where they whispered each to each,
And the sweat stood on their temples,

With the earnestness of speech. As the bleak Atlantic currents

Lash the wild Newfoundland shore,
So they beat against the State House, So they surged against the door;
And the mingling of their voices
Made a harmony profound,
Till the quiet street of chestnuts
Was all turbulent with sound.

"Will they do it?" "Dare they do it?"—
"Who is speaking?—"What's the news?"
"What of Adama?"—"What of Sherman?"—
"Oh! God grant they won't refuse!"
"Make some way there!"—"Let me nearer!" "I am stiffing!"—"Stiffe, then, When a Nation's life's at hazard We've no time to think of men!"

So they beat against the portal, Men and women, maid and child; And the July sun in heaven On the scene looked down and smiled; The same sun that saw the Spartan Shed his patriot blood in vain Now beheld the soul in freedom All unconquered, rise again.

So they surged against the State House, While, all solemnly inside, Sat the "Continental Congress," Truth and reason for their guide,
O'er a simple scroll debating—
Which, though simple it might be—
Yet should shake the cliffs of England With the thunders of the free.

At the portal of the State House, Like some beacon in a storm, Round which waves are wildly beating, Stood a boyish, slender form; With his eyes fixed on the steeple And his ears agape with greed To catch the first announcement Of the "signing" of the deed.

Aloft, in that high steeple, Sat the bellman, old and gray-He was weary of the tyrant And his iron-sceptered sway, So he sat, with one hand ready On the clapper of the bell. When his eye should catch the signal, The happy news to tell,

See! see! The dense crowd quivers Through all its lengthy line, As the boy beside the portal Looks forth to give the sign! With his small hands upward lifted, Breezes dallying with his hair, Hark! with deep, clear intonation, Breaks his young voice on the air.

Huehed the people's swelling murmur, List the boy's strong, joyous cry!
Ring," he shouted, "Ring! Grandpa! Ring! Oh! Ring! for Liberty! And straightway, at the signal, The old bellman lifts his hand,

And sends the good news making Iron music through the land, -How they shouted! what rejoicing! How the old bell shook the air, Till the clang of freedom ruffled The calm gliding Delaware! How the bonfires and the torches

Illumined the night's repose,

And from the flames, like Phoenix, Fair Liberty arose. The old bell now is silent, And hushed its iron tongue, But the spirit it awakened Still lives-forever young, And while we greet the sunlight On the Fourth of each July, We'll ne'er forget the bellman, Who, 'twixt the earth and sky, Rung out OUR INDEPENDENCE; Which, please God, shall never die.

DOES IT RAIN ON THE FOURTH?

Uncertainty on This Point Has Given

Rise to Two Schools of Thought. - " Hecken and The The afternoon of Fourth of July has a strong tendency to be poky. To avert this catastrophe many devices have been introduced. One of them is to have a pichic. Now, there are two opposing and mutually exclusive schools of thought in re the Fourth of July picnic. The one school holds that it always rains on that afternoon; the other denies that proposition, and maintains that those who so vividly recall standing under a tree-a tree as a shelter when it rains pitchforks and feather beds is the rankest kind of a swindle, and something ought to be done about it-standing under a leaky tree and watching "the little men" jumping in the lemonade tub while the tablecloths soak into sodden rags, and the layer cake pitifully dissolves. are really thinking of the annual Sabbath school picnic, when, of course, it rains.

I dislike very much to take sides on any question. I am like the politician who was campaigning in a neighborhood divided on entirely non-political lines into two parties, one maintaining that it was just foolishness to say that the earth turned clear over every day, and the other that it must be so because it said so in the geography book. "You know about such things," they ask him, "Now, does it? It don't, does it? Not clear over?"

"We-ell-Ha!-It does a little!" he said.-Eugene Wood, in Everybody's.

GENERAL BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

MODERATE trading but gradual recuperation in business appears to represent the facts of the case as we find them in the general business situation of the country. Conservatism is very apparent, but with the excellent outlook for crops the prospect for better times rests on a good foundation. Political matters will engross attention for some time to come, and the activity of high polities will no doubt tend to hold business in comparative abeyance until there is less uncertainty regarding future governmental policies. It is evident that artificial price levels for securities and commodities have much to contend against. # WHERE WAS BILL?

BILL JAMES is a country storekeeper down in Louisiana and last spring he went to New Orleans to purchase a stock of goods. The goods were shipped immediately and reached home before he did. When the boxes of goods were delivered at his store by the drayman his wife happened to look at the largest; she uttered a loud cry and called for a hammer. A neighbor, hearing the screams, rushed to her assistance and asked what was the matter. The wife, pale and faint, pointed to the inscription on the box which read as follows: "Bill inside."

teaspoonful dose after each meal and and into Paducah. at bedtime.

The above is considered by an eminent authority, who writes in a New York daily paper, as the finest prescription ever writen to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble, Weak Bladder and all forms of Urinary difficulties. This mixture acts promptly on the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys enabling them to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes Rheumatism.

Some persons who suffer with the afflictions may not feel inclined to place much confidence in this simple mixture, yet those who have tried it say the results are simply surprising, the relief being affected without the slightest injury to the stomach o other organs.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended. It is the prescription of an eminent authority, whose entire reputation, it is said, was established by it.

A druggist here at home, when asked, stated that he could either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription for our readers, also recommends it as harmless.
