PRINCETON WAS STUFFED

With People Saturday Attending Tobacco Meeting--Day Historical One.

Princeton, Ky., Sept. 19--A terrible battle between the soldiers and the thousands of people that stuffed Princeton today to attend the mammoth rally of the Dark Tobacco Growers' Association, came tremulously near resulting when an unknown person fired pistol into the air from behind a store near the edge of the crowd. The 30 soldiers fearing that fight had started, charged through the crowd in an effort to catch the person who had pulled the trigger. Many men present, who felt that the presence of the soldiers was an intrusion, were eager for anything that might start. The threatened trouble flashed away quicker than came and never in the history of Princeton was there a better and more enjoyed day by the thousands of visitors that poured in from every county in Western Kentucky and Tennessee of the dark tobacco district.

It is estimated that from 12,000 to 20,000 people were in the city.

The parade of the forenoon was the largest ever seen in Princeton. Nearly 4,000 people were in line.

The prettiest feature of it was 500 girls wearing white frocks and caps riding white horses. Three bands--Deal's military band from Paducah and the Central City and Springfield, Tenn., band--furnished the music.

The afternoon was given over to the speaking that was heard by thousands. The orators of the day were Col. Joel Fort, President F. G. Ewing, of the Dark Tobacco Growers' Association; Hon. Ollie James and Ward Headley, who was in charge of the speech making.

Never before was Princeton packed with such a crowd and not an accident occurred to mar the day's pleasure.

CRITTENDEN COUNTY PEOPLE WED IN THIS CITY.

Mr. James L. Grimes and Miss Cora Pogue of Francis, Crittenden county, were married in this city last Saturday afternoon in the County Clerk's office by County Judge Blacklock.

The contracting parties are among Crittenden county's best and most popular young people, the bride being a sister of the Hon. Marion F. Pogue, of Francis. She is a pretty, attractive and accomplished young lady, while the groom is a clever and very prominent young farmer.

For the past few weeks Miss Pogue had been visiting in Sturgis, and it was while en route home that she and Mr. Grimes decided to come to Princeton and be married. They arrived on the noon train and after taking dinner at the New Princeton hotel, they went to the County Clerk's office, where after securing the license were married.

Mr. and Mrs. Grimes spent Saturday night at the New Princeton hotel and left on the six o'clock train for their home in Crittenden county. --Princeton Leader.

THE JUDICIAL OLIGARCHY IS THE NATION'S REAL DANGER.

"There is danger, real danger; that the people will see at one sweeping glance that all the powers of their government, Federal and State, lie at the feet of us lawyers; that is today, at the feet of a judicial oligarchy; that these powers are being steadily exercised in behalf of the scattered and segregated people that the power thus seized includes the power of amending the Constitution; the power of superintending the action, not merely of Congress, but also of the state Legislature; the power of degrading the two houses of Congress, in making those investigations which they may deem necessary to wise legislation; to the powers which an English court has ascribed to British Colonial Legislatures; the power of superintending the judiciary of the states, of annulling their judgments and commanding them what judgments to render; the power of denying to Congress the power to raise revenue by a method displayed by all governments; making the fundamental sovereign powers of government, such as the power of taxation, the subjects of barter between corrupt Legislatures and private adventurers; holding that a venal Legislature, temporarily invested with power, may corruptly bargain away those essential attributes of sovereignty and for all time; that corporate franchises brought from corrupt Legislatures are sanctified and placed forever beyond recall by the people; that great trusts and combinations may place their yokes upon the necks of the people of the United States, who must groan forever under the weight, without remedy and without hope; that trial by jury and the ordinary criminal justice of the states, which ought to be kept near the people, are to be set aside, and Federal Court injunctions substituted therefor; that those injunctions extend to preventing laboring men quitting their employment, although they are liable to be discharged by their employers at any time, thus creating and perpetuating a state of slavery. There is danger that the people will see these things all at once; see their ennobled judges doing their thinking on the side of the rich and powerful; see them look with solemn cynicism upon the sufferings of the masses, nor heed the earthquake when it begins to rock beneath their feet; see them present a spectacle not unlike that of Nero fiddling while Rome burns. There is danger that the people will see all this at one sudden glance, and that the furor will then break loose and that all hell will ride on their wings."

No, dear reader, this not an extract from a speech by Eugene V. Debs. It is not taken from Emma Goldman. It is not found in William J. Bryan's latest address.

The above extract is a quotation from an address to the State Bar Association of Texas, in 1896, by Seymour D. Thompson, at one time Judge of the American Law Review.

It is as applicable now as in 1896.—Rochester Labor Journal.

Calhoun, Ky., Sept. 5, 1898.
To the members of the American Society of Equity of the State of Kentucky.
Dear Sirs: It has been my pleasure to visit the State Fair offices and to investigate the reports that have come to me that the Kentucky State Fair management was unfair to organized labor.

I wish to say that the Chairman of the State Fair Board, Hon. M. C. Rankin, is a member of the Society of Equity, as well as the Secretary J. W. Newman, together with some other members of the board. I find their policy has been absolutely fair to organized labor, and there has been discrimination whatever made as to union or non-union labor, but contracts have been let to the lowest and best bidder as required by law, and I hereby call upon the various members of the A. S. of E. to pay no attention whatever to any communications sent to them to the contrary of the above investigation.

The State Fair management has placed a large tent at our disposal as headquarters at the forthcoming fair, and have had printed thousands of badges to be used by our members on "Equity and Grange Day," Friday, September 18th. You will find me, or some of my assistants, at the headquarters the entire week and I hope every member of the A. S. of E. who visits the fair, will come to our tent and get a badge. The number of badges given out will be evidence of the number of our members who are present on this special day. The State Fair management believes this will be the banner day of the fair, and they sincerely hope that our members will take advantage of the low railroad rates and the big attractions at the fair and meet with us for a day's all around pleasure at least, and for every day of the week wherever possible.

I trust this will be mutually beneficial to the fair and to our Society.

Very respectfully,
S. B. ROBERTSON,
Secy., Kentucky State Union A. S. of E.

THE GENIUS OF LIBERTY.

"It does not matter that the Creator has sown with stars the fields of ether and decked the earth with countless beauties for man's enjoyment. It does not matter that air and ocean teem with the wonders of innumerable forms of life to challenge man's admiration and investigation. It does not matter that nature spreads forth all her scenes of beauty and gladness and pours forth the melodies of her myriad-tongued voices for man's delight. If liberty is ostracized and exiled, man is a slave, and the world rolls in space and whirls around the sun a gilded prison, a doomed dungeon, and though painted in all the enchanting hues that infinite art could command, it must still stand forth a blotch amidst the shining spheres of the sidereal heavens, and those who cull from the vocabularies of nations, living or dead, their flashing phrases with which to apostrophize liberty, are engaged in perpetuating the most stupendous delusion the ages have known. Strike down liberty, no matter by what subtle art the deed is done, the spinal cord of humanity is sundered and the world is paralyzed by the indescribable crime. Strike the fetters from the slave, give him liberty and he becomes an inhabitant of a new world. He looks abroad and beholds life and joy in all things around him. His soul expands beyond all boundaries. Emancipated by the genius of liberty, he aspires to communion with all that is noble and beautiful, and feels himself allied to all the higher order of intelligences, and walks abroad, redeemed from animalism, ignorance and superstition, a new being throbbing with glorious life."

—Extract from the speech of Eugene V. Debs of "Liberty."

LAW AND ORDER.

There is nothing so far as we know that is more desired than Law and Order, that is, if it is the real, genuine article, and backed up by law abiding citizens with but one motive in view, the maintenance of the law and good order. In Kentucky, it is said we have a Law and Order League formed in the city of Louisville by persons who are opposed to the tobacco association, or in other words, opposed to the farmers who believe in the Association. Local or branch Law and Order Leagues have also been formed and have as members persons who are known to have always been opposed to the association. This naturally causes the association farmer to believe that the Law and Order League is only a cloak behind which the enemies of the association can stand.

So long as the known enemies of the association are behind the Law and Order League or appear to be the whole works, there can be no hopes of accomplishing good results. There are many of the best law abiding, upright and honorable citizens who are true members of the association that would be willing and anxious to join a Law and Order League not run altogether by anti-association people.

Now it may not be the case in every county where branch Law and Order Leagues have been formed that the anti-association people are the whole works, but it is true in this county, and no one can deny it as the evidence is too strong and convincing, for instance, the announcement made by Judge Darby, Saturday afternoon, for a Law and Order meeting to be held at Flat Rock in which he read a contract or agreement to the effect, that those desiring to join the Law and Order

League would be required to handle, in any manner and sell their tobacco to whom they please. This of course, is alright provided they are not members of the tobacco association, then they are debarred from membership, and have to violate their contract and agreement, and to do so, they are subject to a heavy fine when they sell their tobacco as likewise the buyer.

Everybody of a law abiding character ought to be eligible to membership in a Law and Order League whether he be an association member or not, and until this is done, there can be no harmony, peace, good will and true happiness.—Princeton Leader.

CIVIL OR Military Authority—Which Shall Govern?

Attitude of the Military Authorities Not Understood by the People of Todd County.

The position taken by the military authorities in the case of the two privates of the detail now on duty here, who are charged with breaking into a freight car, is an alarming indication of how far the usurpation of authority properly belonging to the civil authorities promises to go. The men are charged with breaking the laws of the State, which, in the case of any private citizen, would have resulted in a quick arrest and a speedy punishment if their guilt was proven.

In the attitude adopted by Major Bassett and Adjutant-General Johnston, who are in charge of the military forces on duty in Western Kentucky, we see the civil laws set aside and defined simply because the accused men happen to be militiamen. Just why this should be as a question difficult to answer. It is to be earnestly hoped, however, that the result—that the Todd County authorities will make a determined stand for the State's rights in the matter and bring the soldiers to trial. Whether they are guilty or whether they are innocent are not facts pertinent to the case in any manner whatever. But these men are accused of a crime and the people have the right to demand that they shall be tried guilty or innocent before the proper tribunal, and not shielded from trial which they would be compelled to face if they were not members of the State guard.

This arbitrary action of Major Bassett in removing the men from Guthrie, when they were virtually under arrest, and the statement of Adjutant-General Johnston that the men are not guilty, simply because in his opinion there is feeling against the militia, is an abuse of power which cannot go on unless the civil law is made subsidiary to military rule. Either the civil law must be supreme, or the military must govern. There can be no half-way measure about it, and the sooner this question is definitely decided the better it will be for the people of Western Kentucky. If it is the latter we must adjust ourselves to the new conditions and submit gracefully to being governed by force of arms. If the civil law is supreme the men accused of breaking into the car here must be tried.—Guthrie Tobacco Planter.

BABY BORN ON TRAIN.

Little One First Seen Light in Passenger Coach.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Sept. 17.—On the evening train of the Ohio River railroad a baby was born to Mrs. L. P. Thomas, of Louisville, last night.

They were taken to the hospital, and will proceed home as soon as the condition of the mother permits. Mrs. Thomas will name the baby Entrain, she says.

STORK'S VISIT COMES WITH MOTHER IN SMASHUP.

Pittsburg, Sept. 17.—While John Robsik was driving home with his family from a christening yesterday the horse became frightened, ran away and upset the carriage. When Robsik picked up his wife after the accident he found the stork had reached her during the mix-up and had left a fine baby boy in her care. Both were driven home uninjured by their experience.

FORMER SHERIFF OF LIVINGSTON FREED BY COURT.

Smithland, Ky., Sept. 17.—(Special.)—Former Sheriff P. H. Bush was released from charges in indictments on a technicality this morning, the circuit court holding that the indictments were improperly drawn. Mr. Bush was charged with collecting taxes after his term had expired and with misappropriating funds. The fiscal court had extended his authority to collect back taxes a year, but he had collected after that time, it was charged. However, the indictment did not explicitly state this point.

TOWN IS MOVED.

Oklahoma City, Sept. 17.—Federal officers failed in their effort to prevent the removal of the town of Escholt. It consolidated with Knell, comprising the long controversy. Knell bought Escholt and moved its 90 buildings three miles.

Nashville People Purchase One Another Built, It Is Said.

News has floated down the Cumberland river from Nashville that the Ryman line of steamboats will have to get up and bustle in order to keep the Cumberland river packet trade to themselves as they have done since steamboating has been in progress. Eph. Bean, an engineer, left Nashville last Saturday for Marietta, O., to bring out the Robert Rhea, a packet boat about the size of the H. W. Butterfield, and put her in the upper Cumberland river trade in opposition to the Ryman line of the Rhea, will go as chief engineer of the Rhea, and Capt. J. S. Tyner, who resigned September 1, from the employ of the Ryman line after 35 years of service for that company, will be in charge of the Rhea.

A new boat will be built at Jeffersonville, Ind., within the next 90 days and chartered to enter the lower Cumberland river trade from Paducah to Nashville and make two round trips a week. One round trip from Paducah to Nashville—a week is the best any packet boat has ever done. The distance of a round trip is 412 miles, which means some fast steaming in order to make two round trips weekly. The new line is to be operated by W. W. Parmenter and associates of Nashville.

HAWKING MACHINES.

Catarth Sufferers Are Nothing But Hawking, Spitting and Blowing Machines, Says an Authority.

Is it possible that in these days when cleanliness and sanitary reform is being preached in the church, schools and at public gatherings, that thousands of people will continue to suffer from catarrh, when there is an absolutely certain remedy always on hand.

Hymel (pronounced High-o-mee) is a pleasant, medicated and antiseptic air. Breathe it in and it will cure catarrh. It will stop foul breath, watery eyes, and crusts in the nose, in a few days.

"I suffered from catarrh for two years; tried numerous remedies which failed; used one and one-half bottles of Hymel and am entirely cured."—C. N. Lindsey, 407 East First Ave., Mitchell, S. D.

A complete Hymel outfit, consisting of a strong, hard rubber pocket inhaler and a bottle of Hymel, costs only $1, and extra bottles, if afterwards needed, cost only 50 cents each. sells it and guarantees it to do exactly as advertised.

Hymel also cures Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Infants' Croup.

HE DIVES INTO BOILING WATER.

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 17.—Diving into the water of Medical lake to see how far he could go down, Homer Gustave, of Spokane, struck a stream of hot water near the bottom of the lake and was badly scalded. He is now in the hospital. His right foot, leg, arm, and arm and shoulder were scalded.

For many years Medical lake has been known to have warm currents, but the exact location of the hot spring never could be found. Another phenomenon is that Medical lake has been steadily rising for the past twelve years and now holds an average of ten feet more water than it did in 1896.

DREAMED VESSEL WOULD SINK. WOMAN REFUSES TO CROSS.

New York, Sept. 17.—Crying that she had dreamed that the French line steamer La Touraine, which sailed from Havre yesterday, would go down at sea, Marie Fennelli refused to go aboard the vessel, although every effort was made to induce her to change her mind.

With her husband and seven children, Mrs. Fennelli was to have sailed for their old home in Alexandria, Italy, where they intended to spend their remaining days, but the strange omen that came to her in a dream of the ill fate of the ship had so thoroughly frightened the woman that she would not go on the vessel and when the La Touraine steamed away the woman with her little flock of children and an angry husband were still standing on the pier.

Information and Gossip Picked Up Here and There in Washington.

Gen. Rucker Beats Mortality Table

WASHINGTON.—The person who reaches the age of 95 has lived long enough. He has no technical right to go on living, anyway. Of course, they usually do, just as lots of people refuse to be satisfied at 60, and they do it at their own risk, so to speak, and in defiance of a formidable array of mortality statistics.

This was the discovery made by the insurance interests the other day when they looked up the "technical" death of Brig. Gen. D. F. Rucker of Washington, father of Mrs. Philip H. Sheridan. The general has reached his 95th birthday, and being still so healthy, was surprised by being informed by the life insurance concern which had been carrying him on its books for years and years that it was ready to pay his claim.

that age to expect that Father Time will dole out to them an average of more than six months apiece. More than that would be overdraw for honoring which the guardian of the hour glass and the scythe should be held directly responsible.

According to these same mortality tables life is seen to be a thing of uncertainties. They prove unquestionably that the longer you live the older you are likely to be before you die. That is to say, while the expectation of life decreases as the age advances, it does not fall away nearly so fast as that advance.

The youngsters of ten can count on living to be nearly 59, but when he has reached the manly age of 21 his chances are better. He can now count on rounding 62. At 43, rounded and jolly, his chances are the best for living out the allotted span of three score years and ten.

But that is not the end of his hopes by any means. When he gets to be 50 his expectation increases to 75, edging away just like that elusive pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. But at 75 the chances of life still give him six more years. At 80 his chances are of the best for seeing 84, but if, on the gambling chance that is his, he chances on to 90, there is still a year and a half to his account in the actuarial book of life.

But at 94 you come to the end of the mortality tables. The account has dwindled to six months, and if you are obstinate enough to go right on living, the statistician simply don't know what to do with you unless he pays the claim, calling you "dead," and then basing the tables correct.

Bridal Table of Mrs. William H. Taft

THE wife of the Republican candidate for the presidency has many valuable possessions, gifts from the many friends of her husband, and among them is a round mahogany table, thick with age and standing daily.

This table is said by the Taft family to have been their household gods as set up and has been ever since Mrs. Taft obtained the dignity of the married state. It was the table on which the wedding breakfast of William Howard Taft and Helen Herron was served some odd years ago.

Judge Herron and Mrs. Herron, parents of Mrs. Taft, were lovers of old mahogany, and they had many beautiful pieces in their Cincinnati home. After the wedding Mrs. Herron believed that the young couple would appreciate having for their dinner table the same board on which they had partaken breakfast on the bridal day. So it was sent to their modest home in Cincin, Cincinnati, and it was set for the first meal after Mrs. Taft brought his bride home from the wedding journey and ever since it has been the medium of the family fare as well as its most elaborate supply.

Mrs. Taft took the table to the White House, and again it came back to Washington. Just now it is temporarily placed in the commodious attic of the assistant secretary of War, Mr. Oliver, awaiting its reappearance. But whether its next appearance be in the White House or in the parlors of some of the many homes of the family, it will be the dining table of the family, as Mrs. Taft expresses it, while the clan holds together.

Red Rose on Coffin of Bismarck's Friend

WITH simple funeral rites, and accompanied only by a few faithful friends of his declining years and a single representative of the German embassy, the body of Baron Alexander de Pury-Herve, an aide-camp to Bismarck and a member of one of the oldest houses of Germany, was laid to rest in a little cemetery here the other day. Two lilies and a single red rose reposed on the plain coffin. It was his dying request.

York Staats Zeitung and other papers. Then his actress wife died, leaving him with three children. He moved to Winona, Minn., where he took charge of the Herald.

After a few years he married again. He came to Washington and went to work in the storeroom of the government printing office. The heavy work of lifting documents was too much for the old man and he suffered a severe strain, which made an operation necessary.

All his life the old soldier wore a rose of red, but he never told why until a few days before his death.

The story of the red rose was woven around the figure of Bismarck, whom he loved.

A battle which the iron chancellor had been witnessing had ended, the sun was setting on a field of carnage, and Bismarck, with bowed head, turned and rode away, his aids around him.

The figure of a young officer in the full pride of manhood lying white-faced on the field caught the eye of the prime minister. Without a word he dismounted, picked a red rose from a bush near by and placed it over the young officer's heart. And as he placed it there a tear fell from his eye. So, when the old hero died, an honored, unknown, they placed a red rose on his breast, for they knew his secret at last.

Commission Getting Data on Resources

ALTHOUGH only a short time has elapsed since President Roosevelt appointed the national conservation commission, the work of taking stock of the nation's resources has been begun. It will be carried on vigorously to enable the commission to make its report to the president by January 1, 1909.

has undertaken. Other important data will be collected through special channels, including state conservation commissions now being formed and several of the national organizations represented at the White House conference.

By early fall the commission expects to have sufficient material to begin the study of the inventory of the country's resources and by the middle of October it hopes to have the greater part of this material in hand, so that the full commission, which will hold its first meeting December 1, may take up at once the study of data which the summer's work has brought together.

One week later the commission will hold a joint meeting in Washington with the governors of the states or their representatives, with the view of closer co-operation with the state commissions.

Baldauf-Fohs Wedding.

At 8 o'clock this evening the marriage of Miss Cora Baldauf to Mr. Julius Fohs, of Lexington, Ky., will be solemnized at the residence of the bride, corner of Maine and Tenth streets. Dr. I. Rybins, of St. Paul, Minn., will perform the ceremony. The marriage will be a quiet affair with the attendance confined to the immediate families of the contracting couple. After the ceremony a reception will be tendered the many friends of the bride and groom, who leave for an eastern trip at midnight. Tuesday evening a dinner party was given at the home of Miss Baldauf for the families of the bride-to-be Mr. Fohs. White and yellow were predominating colors and the rooms in which the guests gathered were beautiful in their decorations. Many dainty courses were served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Morris Baldauf, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Baldauf, Helena Baldauf, Miss Cora Baldauf, Miss Minnie Baldauf, Cleveland; Miss Ida Nachman, Chicago; Miss Bertha Mache, Cleveland; Julius Fohs, Lexington; Dr. I. Rybins, St. Paul, Minn.; Dr. Leon K. Baldauf, St. Louis; Henry Baldauf, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Fohs, Pauline, Carolyn and David Fohs, Marion, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mayer and children, Barbara, Alex. and Pearl. Henderson Journal.

Baldauf-Fohs Wedding.

Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Baldauf, Miss Cora Baldauf was united in marriage to Mr. Julius Fohs, of Lexington, Ky. The ceremony was impressively said by Dr. I. Rybins, of St. Paul, Minn., in the presence of the members of the family and a few intimate friends.

Following the ceremony a reception was given, the hours being from 8:30 to 10 o'clock. During this time many invited guests called and were most hospitably received and delightfully entertained at this pleasant home. The rooms were most tastefully decorated with golden-rod and other autumn flowers, while handsomely mounted candelabra shed rays of mellow light over the surroundings. Delicious refreshments were served to the guests, among whom were several out-of-town visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Fohs go to Lexington, where they will reside, and they take with them showers of congratulations and good wishes that they may enjoy a bright, happy and successful future. Henderson Gleaner.

The Henderson Gleaner of Sunday September 20th has this to say of the BALDAUF-FOHS WEDDING.

One of the prettiest weddings of early fall was that of Miss Cora Baldauf and Mr. Julius Fohs on Wednesday evening at the home of the bride on Maple avenue.

The home was attractively decorated with golden rod and candelabras. In the presence of only the immediate family and a few out-of-town guests. Promptly at 8:30, to the sweet strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, executed on the piano by Miss Jessie Muller, little Miss Helena Flexner Baldauf, niece of the bride, in a dainty frock of white muslin, looking like she had stepped from Fairyland, preceded the bride as flower girl, while Mr. David Fohs, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

During the ceremony, which was impressively said by Rabbi Rybins, St. Paul, Minn., Miss Muller played softly Mendelssohn's "Spring Song". The bride looked handsome in a gown of embroidered batiste and veil, and carried bride's roses. Following the ceremony, a reception was given the bride and groom and quite a number of guests called during the evening. The popularity of the couple was proven by the number of handsome presents exhibited. Mr. and Mrs. Fohs left at midnight for Chicago, and after a tour of a few weeks will be at home to their friends in Lexington, Kentucky. Miss Cora Baldauf, who was language teacher in the High School, is quite a favorite in Henderson society, and an accomplished linguist. Having attended preparatory school at Germantown, Pa., entered Bryn-Mawr and then studied abroad fourteen months.

The groom, Mr. F. Julius Fohs, is first assistant of the State Geological Survey, located at Lexington, Kentucky.

The out-of-town guest who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Fohs, Mr. David Fohs, Misses Pauline and Carolyn Fohs, of Marion Ky.; Miss Mancho, Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. Ravdin and son, Evansville, Ind.; Miss Nachman, Chicago, Ill.; Dr. Baldauf, St. Louis; Mr. Arthur Baldauf, Louisville, Ky. and Miss Minnie Baldauf, Cleveland, Ohio.

The Marion Graded and High Schools have entered upon the work of the year with the most flattering prospect. The total enrollment is 370 and the quality of work being done in all grades is excellent. The spirit of the school was never better. Several of our teachers attended school during vacation and both teachers and pupils have re-entered the school-room with renewed energy and a determination to keep the Marion Schools at the head of the procession.

ENTERTAINMENT COURSE.

The course of lectures and entertainments conducted last year was a financial success, and so far as we have heard, gave satisfaction to all who were fortunate enough to attend. The question which now arises, is, whether or not we shall have a high class course this year.

In reply we would say that the whole matter rests with the people of Marion. We have an opportunity to secure an excellent course of six entertainments for the coming season. If we can sell enough season tickets to guarantee the school against loss. The numbers in the course now under consideration are as follows: The Martha Alexander Recital Company; George P. Bible, lecturer; Clarence L. Burgdoffer, character impersonator in costume; Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, entertainers; The Singers and Players' Club, male vocal and instrumental quartette; The La Dell-Fox Concert Company.

Space will not permit a detailed description of these attractions, but we have learned, from parties with whom we are personally acquainted, that each and every number is first class in every respect. Taken as a whole, they form a well balanced group of entertainments, with something for every taste. There is not a single weak number in the entire course, each performer being an artist in his or her particular line.

If you believe such entertainments are desirable, help us to secure this splendid course by buying season tickets when our solicitors call upon you. By so doing, you will be doing yourself a good turn, and incidentally be helping the school at the same time.

Although this course costs more than the course given last year, in order that no one need be kept away on account of the expense, we have decided to sell season tickets at the very low price of $1.50 for the entire course of six numbers. Season tickets for pupils of this school will be sold at $1. At the prices mentioned above we will be compelled to sell many more tickets than we sold last year, in order that the school may not lose money in this undertaking. We believe that the local friends of the school will demonstrate their appreciation and their liberality by the same generous patronage that they have shown on former occasions.

Taking this opportunity to thank you for your liberal patronage in the past, and trusting that you will respond gallantly to this call from the school, and at the same time furnish yourselves pleasant entertainment for the coming winter, we are, Sincerely yours,
MARION GRADED AND HIGH SCHOOLS.

Among the new books added to the library as a result of last year's course is a twenty vol. set of biographies entitled, "Makers of American History" and a four vol. set of History and Government of the United States. A large number of new books will be purchased as soon as they can be selected. The public is cordially invited to make use of the library throughout the year.

Gray Fox Killed by Train.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Sept. 24--A big gray fox, which evidently misjudged the speed at which an Illinois Central train was running, attempted to cross the track at a point between Cerulean Springs and Cobb, and was killed. The train was running at a rate of thirty miles an hour when the fox came out of the woods and started for the undergrowth on the opposite side of the track. It miscalculated though, and was caught by the cow catcher and was killed. The train crew brought the body here and exhibited it. The fox was full grown.

Dr. Burnie Mott Dead.

EAGLE ATTACKS BOY WATCHING BALL GAME

Men Beat Off The Bird Till Father of Lad Can Kill It With Shot Gun.

New York, Sept. 24--Sweeping down into a crowd of persons who were watching a recent base ball game near Point Richmond, S. I., an American eagle attacked John Pollackson, eight years old. A group of men set upon the bird and the father of the boy ran to his home, procured a shot gun and, returning, killed the eagle.

The game was in full swing and young Pollackson was stretched out on the ground absorbed in the contest when the eagle descended and planted its claws in his neck. The boy yelled and the lad's immediate neighbors try to grasp the eagle. This was no easy matter, but several of the men finally contrive to release the boy and to catch the eagle by its talons and hold it until Mr. Pollackson returned with his gun. The eagle measured seven feet, six inches from tip to tip. Young Pollackson was not injured beyond a few scratches.

Heart Strength

Heart strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the heart must continue to fail and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

Then clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop has brought the power of all this powerful nerve power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength, to the heart. It is this powerful nerve power that offers real, genuine heart help. If you would have strong hearts, strong stomachs, strong kidneys, strong nerves—restoration is needed, with

How to Cure Liver Trouble

Keep Your Bowels Regular and Your Stomach Sweet

People sometimes imagine when they have liver trouble or are bilious, the main thing to do is to take physic. Taking pills and keeping your bowels regular are two very different matters. The use of a violent cathartic does not mean the cure of constipation or the establishment of regular movements. A physic is an emergency remedy, but never a bowel treatment. If the bowels do not move regularly there is a reason deeper seated than the mere clogging up that is removed by a dose of salts or pills.

When that drowsy, tired feeling, with the coated tongue, the dull head pains, the sour stomach, the sallow complexion, constipated bowels and touches of fever come on it is time to take a medicine that will act on the bowels gently and mildly, cleansing and strengthening them, stir up the liver and aid the stomach in digesting the food.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin does this every time. Take a few doses and see how quickly the drowsy feeling leaves, regular bowel movements come back, with a good appetite and perfect digestion, and you soon feel like your old self. It does not gripe nor pain, it acts smoothly, mildly and is very pleasant to take. Wm. Hinchman, Musick, Mich., says: "I was troubled with indigestion and liver trouble. I have used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin with fine results. It is a perfect laxative and I now feel as strong and well as formerly." Wm. Block, Natick, Ill., says: "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the best remedy I ever used for liver complaint or constipation." Mrs. R. H. Brown, Addison, Ind. Ter., was troubled with torpid liver and constipation. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gave her prompt relief. All druggists sell it at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

Pepsin Syrup Co., 306 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill., is glad to send a free sample to anyone who has never used it and will give it a fair trial.

THE BON-TON CAMPERS.

Eagle Bluff Springs, Jellico, Tenn.

We "Bon-ton Campers" from Jellico Came out to Eagle Bluff Springs. We brought a gun and lots of fun And many other nice things.

We eat fried chicken and onions and beans, Corn bread, tomatoes, ice cream, Cucumbers and peaches, the best cake and pie. Such lovely light rolls are a dream.

Potatoes and beef, brown biscuits and beets, Boiled eggs, baked apples and slaw. The best buttermilk and honey and such That any good folks ever saw.

You need not be surprised to hear Some bleating like a sheep, For so much mutton have they had, Like little lambs they leap.

The best old-fashioned country ham. Like mother used to cook, Meat salads, puddings, rich with sauce— Wish you could take a look.

We have some hammocks and pillows and books, We doze and read when we please, We play lots of tricks, we whistle, we yell, We laugh, we joke and we tease.

The old and the young, the deacon and wife, Play "Puss wants a corner," and all, We ride the bushes, see-saw and swing, And break down the hammocks and fall.

The world's record of shooting I'm sure, Is in great danger out here. Such marksmen as we, you don't often see, Our stunts are unusual and queer.

Mrs. Jones has a way of hitting the spot Right in the center "kerchug." A close second her husband tries hard to be, And he hits it, too, with a "thug."

Mrs. King!—Well, listen, I'll tell you the truth, She simply cannot be beat, She handles the gun with such grace and ease, And always brings down the meat.

And Uncle Jim Archer, just carries the day, Whenever he raises the gun, We know what will happen, if we did like some folks, We'd say, "Hand over the mon."

Mrs. Archer and I—O, we know how, And we simply won't take a dare, We shoot away as much as they, Yes and we—"we killed a bear."

Snakes and lizards are pesky things, They interfere with our naps, Some folks enjoy it—I'm sure I don't, But their bravery is false—perhaps.

The yellow jackets and Mr. Jones Get off and play alone, He runs and jumps, they fly and sting, They have with them a torrid zone.

Our crowd is getting awful bad, They called me such a name, Old Mrs. "Mutton," "Old Sheep Head," Now isn't that a shame?

Miss Lucy Mahan came out to see What "Bon-ton Campers" are like, She drank 12 pints all in one day, She ate, and we rode down the pike, Miss Pema Archer, dressed in blue, Her handsome brother "Will," And with them came along Clyde Jones, Just grinning "fit to kill."

Our hearts were made to overflow, We almost wept and cried, When Monday morn the train came in, Some folks from home we spied.

If you could be here and see what we do, You doubtless would be much amazed, You might decide that too much drink Had caused us all to be crazed.

For drink we do, from morn till night, Four measured quarts per day, And some days six some of us drink, Now, what have you to say?

Of course you know without a doubt We're temperance people still, But we are "outing" at the springs, With water we must fill.

These rippling rills and towering hills, Majestic rocks and pines, Make Eagle Bluff quite fine enough, It health and wealth combines.

Some day we'll all come back to town, As fat as little pigs, Till then good-bye, for Mr. Jones Is hitching up the rigs.

This was our yell: "Who are, who are, who are well? We are, we are, we are the Bon-ton Campers, hi-o-ho, All the way from Jellico." IDA BELLE BUTLER.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Farmer, of Marion, were in the city yesterday afternoon, en route to Owensboro, to visit a son.—Henderson Gleaner.

USES HER STOVE AS A SAFETY DEPOSIT.

Carmi, Ill., Sept. 17.—Laboring under the belief that banks were unsafe places to keep money, Mrs. Josephine Gordon, an aged lady, withdrew her savings from a bank in this city and took the money home. Fearing robbers might find it, she placed the money in an old stove and shut the door. Yesterday she threw some refuse in the stove and applied a match. The money was burned to a crisp when she happened to remember that she had used the stove as her bank. The woman is greatly worried over her loss, as she had been saving the money for several years. The sum lost totaled $225 and was all in bills except four silver dollars.

WILL APPOINT RECEIVERS.

Unless Banks Obey the Law Regarding Branches, Declares Secretary of State Bruner.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 17.—Secretary of State Bruner announced today that if the State banks that are operating branches contrary to law did not at once take steps to comply with the statutes, he would have a receiver appointed and close up both the parent bank and the branches. He says he will be lenient with them if they show a disposition to obey the law, but no evasion of the law will be tolerated.

About a dozen banks in various sections of the State are operating branches that have no capital stock and make no report to anybody.

CHICKEN RIDES ON ENGINE.

Hanover, Pa., Sept. 17.—As a Northern Central passenger train passed Jacob Mills, two miles east of Hanover, a young chicken was caught by the cowcatcher. When the train arrived at Hanover the fowl was sitting on the front part of the engine unhurt. The engineer captured the bird and placed it in a box in the seat of the engine, and as a result he and his family enjoyed a chicken supper that night.

Woman's Presence of Mind Saves Her Life.

Morgantown, Ky., Sept. 17.—With a furious copperhead entwined about her legs and striking at her, Mrs. Frazier Lawton, of this county, owes her life to her presence of mind.

She had been out in her garden, when suddenly the snake coiled about her. She loosened her skirt and dropped it over the snake's head and suffocated it. Then she pulled his coils from her legs and ran to her home, where she swooned.

PULLED A MULE'S TAIL.

And Oldham County Youngster Is Instantly Killed.

Lagrange, Ky., Sept. 17.—The seven-year-old son of William Ward, a well known farmer of this county, was kicked by a mule and instantly killed last night. The child was in a field and grabbed a mule by the tail, when the animal promptly kicked him in the head, killing him instantly.

Flock of Seventy-five Wild Geese Pass Over Henderson Going West.

One of the strangest phenomenon ever witnessed in this city was the spectacle of wild geese seen this morning flying over the city in a westerly direction. There were about fifty or seventy-five of the fowls in the flock and they attracted the attention of several people on the street and caused a great deal of comment, as such a thing was never seen in the recollection of some of the oldest citizens. Some think that it is a forerunner of bad weather, but the consensus of opinion was that it was a strange occurrence, but farther than that no one could explain the mystery. —Henderson Journal.

BEATEN TO DEATH.

Mitchell Meadows, Killed at Nolan Home, Not Fatally Shot, as First Believed.

ROBBED A "BLUEGUM" BLACK

Mitchell Meadows, the negro burglar, did not come to his death from bullet wound, but died from the effects of a compound fracture of the skull. This conclusion was reached by Coroner Groves after an autopsy upon the body of the negro.

As exclusively reported in the 4 o'clock edition of The Times, it was found that the negro was beaten to death by the members of the Nolan and Hyde families, who struck him repeatedly with clubs and other weapons until the head of the African giant was literally mashed to a pulp. James Nolan during the struggle fired two shots at the burglar, one of which struck him in the left wrist.

The entire neighborhood of West Broadway is rejoicing over the death of the burglar, who for three months mystified the police and terrorized the neighborhood, frightening women and children and carrying away valuables. The residents still believe that an organized gang of negro burglars existed and that Meadows was merely one of the crowd.

Albert Bailey the one-legged negro, who was arrested as an accomplice of Meadows, has not yet been identified by any of the victims of the robberies.

Dellie Nolan, James Nolan, Mr. and Mrs. Walker Hyde and their two sons, Stuart and Burke Hyde are recovering from the injuries received in the desperate battle with the negro. Meadows was what is known as a "bluegum" negro.

All last night crowds of negroes visited the undertaking establishment at Eleventh and Walnut streets where the body of the negro robber lay on a cot. It is said that he will be buried by subscription among the negroes.—Louisville Times, Sept. 10, 1908.

Returns to Texas.

Mr. James Vinson, of Houston, Texas, returned home to-day after a two weeks' pleasant visit to relatives and old friends in the city and county. Mr. Vinson is a brother of Messrs. Lee and Robert Vinson, and was reared in the Flat Rock section, but went to Texas when a very young man and is now a successful business man of Houston. We were favored with a very pleasant call from Mr. Vinson yesterday and found him to be quite a pleasant gentleman.—Princeton Leader.

Learned Unbelief Vs. Miracles

By REV. A. C. DIXON, D. D.,
Pastor of the Chicago Ave. (Moody's)
Church, Chicago.

A university professor is reported to have said that no one ever performed a miracle. He thinks that the miracle of creation in the first chapter of Genesis is a sort of fairy tale and that the so-called miracles of the Old Testament are exaggerations or merely imaginations, some of which teach bad morals. The matter with the professor is that he has created a god in his own image and is not willing that his god should be much, if any, greater than himself and his brother professors can comprehend. Universities are not interpreters of the Bible; the Bible is the interpreter of the universities. Yet it is a pity that a man who calls himself a Christian should stand with the avowed infidels who have attacked the Bible, from Colusa to Ingersoll, and the greater pity is that he should as a pastor of a Christian church be leading others into religious infidelity.

There has come from the Chicago University Press another attack upon the miracles of the Bible by a learned professor in a Michigan college. He looks wise and says that there was no need of miracles. Then he looks wiser and declares that some miracles are incredible. The trouble with the professor is that he has not yet accepted the first verse of Genesis, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." If he believed in a God great enough to create the universe he would find no difficulty in believing that such a God could stop the revolution of the earth for 24 hours, turn water into wine, multiply loaves and fishes, or do anything else that he might choose to do. It is a pity that learning should so dwarf a man's conception of God. It is a pauperizing process.

It ought to be said that these unbelieving professors do not altogether represent the institutions to which they belong. There are other professors in their faculties of equal or superior learning who believe in the miracles of the Bible, but the man who jumps overboard from an Atlantic steamer attracts more attention than a thousand other passengers who remain on deck and behave themselves. There is no real conflict between the Bible and up-to-date learning. The conflict is between the Bible and the unbelief of certain professors who imagine that the modern scientific spirit is opposed to faith in a personal God still at work in his world. They are waging war against the facts recorded in the Bible and confirmed by the reason of a man who believes in a God of almighty power and infinite wisdom. In the last analysis it is a conflict between gods, the great God revealed in the Bible and the little gods born in the brains of learned unbelievers.

Miracles in the Bible mean Almighty God at work. In ages past God ordained some servants of his which we call natural laws, and they are obedient. There is a continuity of law which we can trust. But did God become the servant of his servants? Has he resigned the mastery of his world to subordinates? Has the king left his throne and become a subject of his subjects? Have we what Carlyle called an "Absentee God sitting on the rim of his universe and just looking on?"

Gideon wished to know whether he had been commissioned of God to deliver his people. So he asked God to confirm his faith by making the fleece wet and the ground dry. Next morning the fleece was wet and the ground dry. Then Gideon, looking around, saw that every other fleece was wet and the ground dry. That is the way God's servant, dew, works; but Gideon did not want to be commissioned by dew. He wished his commission directly from God. So he prays God to tell his servant dew to rest a bit in this particular spot while he does what his servant cannot do—makes the fleece dry and the ground wet. Next morning the fleece was dry and the ground wet. Gideon knew then that God himself had done it and he went forth strong in that conviction. The centurion in the New Testament said in substance to Jesus: "I am a man under authority and yet I say to this one and he goeth; but, Lord, thou art king of all realms and thou needest not go to my house to heal my servant. Only say to disease go and it goeth; to health, come and it cometh. Speak the word and my servant shall be healed."

Here were two men who believed in law, but they believed also in God, the source of all law. Miracles does not violate law, though the God of law hasten its processes, or work according to laws which he has not seen fit to reveal to us. To say that God has not worked miracles as recorded in the Old Testament and the New is to deny facts for reasons unworthy of one who believes in a God of almighty power and infinite wisdom. Such is the God of the Bible whom the Christian worships.

If you fear that people will find it out, don't do it.

A SURGICAL OPERATION

If there is any one thing that a woman dreads more than another it is a surgical operation.

We can state without fear of a contradiction that there are hundreds, yes, thousands, of operations performed upon women in our hospitals which are entirely unnecessary and many have been avoided by

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

For proof of this statement read the following letters.

Mrs. Barbara Base, of Kingman, Kansas, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"For eight years I suffered from the most severe form of female troubles and was told that an operation was my only hope of recovery. I wrote Mrs. Pinkham for advice, and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has saved my life and made me a well woman."

Mrs. Arthur R. House, of Church Road, Moorestown, N. J., writes:

"I feel it is my duty to let people know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from female troubles, and last March my physician decided that an operation was necessary. My husband objected, and urged me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and to-day I am well and strong."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, and backache.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

A pleasing, good high grade, truly flavored, amber colored cup of coffee can be had—and without the real Coffee danger, or damage to health—by simply using Dr. Shoop's new substitute, called "Health Coffee." Pure, wholesome, toasted cereals, malts, nuts, etc., make Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee both healthful and satisfying. No 20 or 30 minutes tedious boiling. "Made in a minute" says Dr. Shoop. If served as coffee, it's taste will even trick an expert. Test it and see.

Gospel Songs

They Must Be Intellectual and Spiritual

By CHARLES H. GABRIEL.
Author of the Now Famous "Glory Song."

The requisites of a gospel song are: First, the hymn must be constructed intellectually and spiritually; second, it must not be a mere rhyme of one thought; it should begin with a declaration of subject, which it should dissect, segregate, and present intelligently, consecutively, and with continuity, each and every thought incorporated, from start to finish. There are usually three stanzas of four or more lines each. The corresponding lines in these stanzas must have the same number of syllables, and the accent must be uniform and identical; every word and line should be a factor and not a filler.

In these circumstances can you not readily see and understand the difficulties of keeping out superfluous and meaningless words—the vital point of attack by the critics? Even with their skill and learning, Wesley, Watts, Keble, and other of our old writers made use of these, and our most cherished church hymns are spotted with them.

Next to the hymn, if not on equal ground with it, comes the music. A gospel song will not succeed unless it has distinctive melody. Especially is this true of songs for children and young people, and the more melodious they are the more popular they become, and consequently the more good they accomplish.

The music should be written to the words, and not the words to the music. I know a few would-be writers who grind out melodies for which they employ word-finders to furnish rhymes of suitable meter, at so much per thine, yet I never know one such song to become popular. If there is a dividing line between the sacred and secular, I think these pieces hold that distinction. The distinctive note of sacred and secular music is clearly defined and well understood. How one fills the soul with awe and reverence, and the other fills the heart with fire and enthusiasm! As an illustration of the first mentioned fact, let me tell this incident: In a certain town a party of young people were waltzing, when the orchestra modulated into "The Glory Song." Presently one couple took their seats, then another, and another, until not a dancer remained to keep step to the music, and a solemn hush fell over the assemblage. This was reported to me by an eye-witness, and I can vouch for its truthfulness.

Science of Holidaying

By ANDREW WILSON.
Noted English Scientist.

Most of us take our period of leisure-time, and enjoy it, without giving much or any thought to the best method of employing the period set apart for bodily recuperation. If there exists a science of holidaying at all, its terms are a sealed book to the bulk of mankind. Yet it would be strange indeed if the proper enjoyment of well-earned rest formed a topic or condition which lies completely outside that reign and domain of law whose influence is so marked in all other affairs connected with our health and well-being. For example, the enjoyment of a holiday must depend to a certain extent upon climate, and, as any one climate cannot suit everybody alike, we may note in this fact alone the initial stages of a system which would seek to insure that each of us selected the resort whose conditions most closely corresponded to his bodily needs. Lying altogether outside the popular discussion of holidays, there is a field where unquestionably science has to be appealed to by way of determining the proper place and method of enjoying rest. This field is represented by the medical phase of holiday-life, and by the relationship of the doctor to the cure of disease by climatic conditions.

There next looms before us the question of the most advantageous fashion in which our holiday time may be spent. I think one may fairly sum up this phase of the matter by assuming that the law of contrast should here prove our most trustworthy guide. By this law one implies that the holiday life should be lived in as complete contrast to the ordinary working existence as is possible. There is great wisdom in such a declaration. It is founded upon the idea, justified by all we know of physiological conditions, that the rest and invigoration of one set of faculties is largely favored and aided by the employment of others, which, in an ordinary way, lie more or less fallow.

Your sedentary man, tied to his office, will benefit most greatly from his walking or his cycling tour, from his yachting if he can take a hand at the ropes, from his tennis, his boating, or other forms in which his physical energy may be used and thus stimulated to renewal. Your active man, on the other hand, who day by day toils with bone and muscle, who travels and moves about in the pursuit of his business, stands in a different position. For him, the busy holiday is the prescription of science. He will impart time to his muscles by rest, and if he enjoys his novel or his volume of adventure, and thus captures the thoughts of other men, he will benefit by the contrast of his leisure so spent to the life he leads in the workaday world.

Evil of Unwise Law-Making

By J. N. DICKINSON.
President of the American Bar Association.

Our work will in the main be constructive. We can accomplish practically nothing in the way of restraint.

From the least governed people in the world we are rapidly becoming the most governed people in the world. Our increasing commissions for almost every department of public affairs are making our government, state and national, the most comprehensive system of bureaucracy ever known. The complex conditions of our times in each of their diversified forms are given special treatment and administration. This is a prolific source of legislation, much of it in flagrant disregard of the best sanctioned and most venerated doctrines.
