$300,000 OUTAGE FEES.

It developes that the chief conten tion before the conference of the tobacco growers and the American Company last night was as whether the American Tebacco Company should pay $3 "outage fees" on every hogshead of tobacco purchased by the company. One of the Iron-clad articles in the organi zation of the Burley Tobacco Society is the one requiring any pureaser of pooled tobacco to pay to the society $3 in outage for every hogshead of tobacco bought.

The American Company did not care to pay this and fought it to the last ditch. LeBus and the growers stood pat, and the company finally yielded. It will pay $3 for every hogshead in additioe to the money to be paid for the tobacco, and this will approximate $300,000. This money, so it is said, goes to pay warehouse charges and maintaining the society .- Louisville Times.

President Clarence LeBus has called a meeting of the Executive Board of the Burley Tobacco Society to be held at Winchester last Tuesday. He also addressed celegrams and sent tobacco manufacturers advising them to be on hand promptly at 9 o'clock if they wanted to buy any tobacco.

He is affable, polite, courteous silent, hard-headed, and just as wise as Duke or Rockefeller. Even the growers like Mr. Smith.

Clarence LeBus, president of the Growers, is a farmer and a capitalist of Cynthiana. His chief assets are good business head and a backbone that surpasses in size any one that has developed in Kentucky in some years . Out of 730 of two years he spent 650 days away from home, and has lost thirty-odd pounds in weight. His friends say he has never received a cent of salary for his services, but t is said that a movement is already on foot to reimburse him handsomely LeBus has been harshly attacked but the attacks on him never stopped him from fighting. He is said to have told J. B Duke that he would make him buy the tobacco.

LeBus declares the growers' organ ization has been so strengthened by the deal that it is an organization that has come to stay for all time.

The reason given that all lawlessness will stop is that all the growers who remained out of the pool will now get in, and there will be no divisions such as those that promoted night riding and barn burning

Clarksville, Tenn., Nov. 9 .- Re here that a contract has been made by the Dark Tobacco Growers' Association with the Imperial tobacco buyers, by which the latter are to take ten or twelve million pounds of learnd furtner that this tobacco is to be placed in hogheads, about 1,200 pounds to the hoghead, and delivered to the warehouses from whence in turn it will be delivered to the fac tories. This deal means much to Clarksville as it will lead to the es tablishment of several stemmeries that will employ a large number of workers. The deal has been pending for several weeks.

It is expected that the market will open as soon as seasonable weather permits. The farmers through this method will be able to prize their tobacco at home and thereby save themselves that portion of the expense that accrues from the employ ment of experience prizers.

H. A. Slayden Released---Cases Against Alleged Night Riders Con tinued.

JURY DISMISSED.

Tuesday afternoon soon after the grand jury filed into the court room and handed in their indictments, the court ordered Jailer Travis to release Henry A. Slayden, who was arrested some weeks ago and bound over to await the action of the grand jury, charged with complicity in the murder of James Sullenger. The grand jury failed to indict him and we are informed that they could not connect him in any way with the crime Mr. Slayden was seen after his release and says he feels relieved of a great burden and is the happiest man in the county. His vindication is thorough and if there was any proof against him 'twas not presented to the grand jury we are told. Mr. Slayden and his wife also his son, Edward and his wife are now residents of Marion and he says they will reside here perma-

The grand jury adjourned Tuesday afternoon and were dismissed by Judge Gordon. We are informed that there were only about a dozen bills returned. The H. A. Slayden case was the most important one which came before the body and no bill was found.

Marion presented quite a business like air last Thursday evening and Friday morning when the defendants in the cases of the commonwealth vs Herbert Coleman and others, also commonweath vs Buddy Glass and others charged with complicity in the Dyeusburg and View raids in this county last February, all arrived from their homes in Caldwell, Lyon and Trigg counties, and presented themselves for trial. As there were about one hundred of them and almost as many of their friends, bondsmen, sweethearts wives and attorneys

SOME ANSWERS FOR

TEDDY'S COMMISSION.

[From the Co-operator.]

"Teddy's commission" of country life seems to be active just now. Here are some of the 13 questions flung at me for reply and here are the red-hot answers 1 fling back, which will have about as much effect on the commission as water on a duck's back to wet its oily feathers. Perhaps my brother union men may be interested enough to read them. Here are the questions and answers:

Are the farm homes in your neigh borhood as good as they should be under existing conditions?" Perhaps so, "under existing condi-

"Why?" Because such conditions should not be allowed to exist under a free government.

"What suggestions have you to make?" Repeal all laws, state and national, that permit corporations or strong and shrewd individuals to take advantage of the weak and simple. Then enact laws that will restore the government to its original intent and purpose, viz: to protect the weak against the strong

"Are the schools in your neigh borhood training boys and girls satisfactorily for life on the farm?" No.

"Why?" Because the same curriculum is being taught that was devised nearly 1,000 years ago under William the Conqueror to make out of the disinherited younger sons of the English nobility, who considered it a disgrace to work on the farm with villians, by which name the tillers of the soil were known.

"What suggestions have you to make?" Change the curriculums of the public schools and colleges so that agriculture will have an equal showing and be considered as honorable as Latin and Greek. Then our sons will be educated for and not off, the farm. The same cause has the same effect in all ages, and as this education was designed to keep the younger pauper sons from the farm anciently, it has the same effect today to make our sons have a distaste for the farm and seek a small clerkship or enter a professional life.

"Do the farmers in your neighborhood get returns they reasonably should for their products?' No. "Why?" Because the law of supply and demand is thwarted and the farmers' profits are diverted into the pockets of these gamblers' emissaries and hirelings.

"What suggestions have you to make?" Enact stringent laws to punish millionaire gamblers and put them on a par with the less heinous chance game of the negro "crap shooter.

"Do the farmers in your neigh. borhood receive frem the railroads, trolley lines. etc., the service they reasonably should have?' No.

"Why?" Because the railroads discriminate against certain farm

IN UNION THERE'S STENGTH.

W feel thatthe cotton situation in the south which mein a great deal to Kentucky stock raisers is now under process of successful tremination for the planter. The following dispatches show that in in union there is strength. What could not be accomplished by the F. E. and C. U. of A. or S. T. A. working alone. each in its way, when aided by the powerful organization of the New Orleans Business Men, known as the Progressive Union, will doubtless prove a success. This is in line with that old fathioned Equity arguments that the farmers and their friends can move the world.

"Memphis, Nov 12. If plans inaugurated today are brought to successful issue an organization will be formed under the direction of Harvie Jordon, president of the Southern Cotton Association, which will have for its purpose the accomplishment of the objectives of the Sountern Cotton Association and the National Farmers' Union, and include among its members all those whose interest are in any manner dependent, either directly or indirectly, on the success of the cotton growing industry.

The adoption of a resolution to that effect was one of the concluding incidents of the conference of plenter and others whose interests are associated in the growth and market ing of the cotton crop, which has been in session here for three day.

CENTRAL WAREHOUSE.

New Orleans, Nov. 18 .- The building of a large central warehouse at New Orleans, where the planters of a dozen or more States can store their cotton and hold it until they choose to sell is now practically assured.

The Farmer's Educational and Cooperative Union to-night endorsed the scheme by an almost unanimous vote, and authorized their committee appointed yesterday to proceed with the plans.

This committee will confer with a similar committee of the New Orleans Progressive Union at 11 o'- i shall have no reasons to regret it. clock to-morrow morning, and an agreement is to be reached as to what the business men can promise the farmers and what the farmers can promise the business men.

The idea of the Progressive Union's committee is to make the warehouse a public one, controlled by s invaded the great northwest, not seeking a passage to the Pacific coast but rather anticipating the development of an agricultural empire which must have arteries of steel, they were quickly followed by the same class of hardy settlers that had moved westward since the early days. Through the generations that movement has proceeded, slowly at first but ever increasing in speed and volume. Over the Alleghenies, among the woodland and meadow stretches Ohio and Indiana, across the of Illinois and lows, through the Wisconsin and Minnesota forests to the valleys of Dakots and on to Puget sound. The descendants of New Englanders have always been noticeable in the advancing tide of home makers and fortune-build-

It March, has created a shortage of ally henored. And the distinguishing about 20,000 telegraphers on the feature of this feast-day is the tragedy of that royal fowl, the turkey. A Thanksgiving day without turkey is a church service without lesson, music, or benediction. There are makeshift collations, of course, that pass for dinners with those not to the manner born, but the sons of the sons of New one of these but would rather go through trials by fire and water rath-

In the first years of the '80's two great rival ratiroad companies were hastening to secure for themselves in eastern Dakota the rich fields of a traffic yet to come into being. Both entered the wonderfully fortile James river valley from the east, and Huron the other turned southward from Aberdson, and the near approach of winter and the close of active operstions found the two competing construction camps only a few miles apart. With the advance of the railroads or a little preceding them had come settlers upon the government domain, and though farmers and wheatraisers were in the van, such nomadic and adventurous spirits as land agents and townsite boomers, traders and newspaper men could be discovered even more eastly. Early in November work upon the railroad lines baltand the builders retired to await the opening of spring. How to Cure Indigestion

Well Known Family Physician Gives Good

"When a person cannot eat ordinary food without discomfort afterward, when he has heartburn, sick headache, gas on the stomach, water brash, belches up sour food, and this condition has continued for a week or more, it certainly is time to do something and do it quickly.' That's what a popular physician recently said to the writer. "First thing you know you'll have dyspepsia if you don't,"

The quickest and best way to regain your normal condition is to step into the drug store and buy a 50c bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It gives natural, daily movements to the bowels, and that is usually where more than half the trouble lies. Then it aids digestion, sweetens the stomach, acts on the liver and is a general system tonic. Postmaster Ridgill, of Bruceville, Tex., had such a severe attack of dyspepsia that his stomach, liver and bowels seemed almost paralyzed, but a few doses of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin relieved him and today he is well as ever. Maude Hall, Alpena, Mich., says that one bottle cured her of a very severe case of indigestion.

A. L. Espich, Chief of Police, New Philadelphia, Ohio, says: "I find Dr. Cald-well's Syrup Pepsin the best remedy for indigestion I ever used. I would not be without it." Rev. A. J. Growth of Tobacco Industry.

The industry of manufacturing smoking and chewing tobacco in this country represents invested eapital of $178, 000, 000. In five years covered by government stastistics the aggregate investments rose to the figures quoted from $43, 000, 000, and there was an increase of $15, 000,000 in the aggregate annaal product. This manufacture of tobacco is one of the few industries in the country that, as a result of consolidation and so-called "trust manipulation," have brought about s remarkable increase in invested capital and a large increase in output, with a diminution of $1,000. 000 a year in annual wages paid and a falling of of more, than 6,000 in the number of employes. In the manufacture of eigars and eigaretter $145,000,000 is invested, which represents a doubling of the capital in the five-year period. The aggregate product is worth more than $214,000,000 annually, an increase from $159,000,000, and the wages paid amount to an increase of $15, 000,900. There was an increase of 32,000 in the number of employes,

MNKSGIVING BY GERARD CHAPMAN.

When the winds of bleak November Down the chimney moan and sigh, Stirring into life each ember

Till the flames roar fierce and high, Then my thoughts revert to boyhood, When Thanksgiving day drew nigh.

In the flames I see the farmhouse, And the woodland brown and sere Where the sportsman's rifle echoed As that day of days drew near. Scenes which ever shall be cherished In the burning logs appear

I can see the deep old cellar-Where the apple bins, piled high, Overshadowed heaps of pumpkins Golden as the sunset sky. And the casks of new fall cider Stood along the wall close by.

As the old-time scenes are fading While the fire slowly dies, Visions of a groaning table Are presented to my eyes, And I almost scent the fragrance Of the mince and pumpkin pies. -

HARVEST HOME" THEY CALLED IT

Old English Thanksgiving, of Which Ours Is an Offspring, Began Thousands of Years Ago.

The American Thanksgiving day is always employed to separate the without doubt the offspring of that wheat from the straw.

Herodotus mentions this autumn ing would declare what should be done custom of thanksgiving, and Homer with the mare. writes that "cakes and lumps of dough thrown at the head of the sacrificial victim formed a part of the Greek offerings to Apollo, the sun-god, at the feast of the ingathering."

In ancient times Apollo received the honors of the harvest festival, but the rustics sacrificed to Vacuna, the goddess. Images of Vacuna were made of straw, wheat, barley and rye, and were carried about with singing and cheering. Even now in England images made of straw crowned with flowers are occasionally carried about and called Ceres-the goddess of agriculture. Apollo was formerly worshiped in Britain, and the May-pole is a pretty relic of those days. They decorated it with garlands to welcome the porthward coming of Apollo-the sun -at whose appearance the flowers and fruit began to grow. Various customs, all containing the same idea, have prevailed in different countries. In Scotland, when the reapers have finished their work, a small package of corn, called the "Corn Lady," is hung up in the house. The ancient Egyptians offered sacrifices and made offerings of corn and wine to Leith, the mother of the sun. Wheat, according to both sacred and secular history, was the most important grain grown in Egypt, and the mode of harvesting it is interesting be genuine must embody the Nazaof corn. It was carried in bags to the selflers living, self-sacrificing, doing threshing floor, where it was trodden good to others first, being loyally alout by oxen. Sometimes the wheat truisfie; then, and not till then, shall was reared in the usual way and the world be brought to thankfulness bound at in sheaves, but oxen were and blessedness.

Thankfulness as a Necessity.

"In everything give thanks" is not only a righteous demand which God makes upon us, but, like all his other commands, it sets before us a necessity of our own nature. Thanksgiving and thanksliving to

This was a literal truth, as well as a figurative one, for he was down upon his haunches behind a warehouse on the river front, and he was out at the elbows and knees and other places. Presently he arose and looked sullenly about as he remembered that it was Thanksgiving morning; that he had eaten nothing for 24 hours, and that hunger was gnawing at his stomach like a rat. Then he began to plot. Grogan was a pretty hard citizen, but as yet he had done nothing really criminal. In the last few days, however, he had exhausted all his resources save one to get some money, and now he had decided upon the final expedient. He determined to hold somebody up. He picked up a short iron rod from the alley, shoved it up his sleeve and slouched in between the tall buildings. Now it so happened that into the other end of the alley at the same time came Joe White, his hands in his pockets and whistling as he came. Joe had not eaten for 24 hours, either, and he was fully as hungry as Grogan, but he had prospects for a great meal at midday and was biding his time in content. He had struck a wonderful streak of luck that morning, for in his wanderings he had found a decent restaurant where the proprietor had promised him all that he could eat at noon, if he would clean the rubbish out of the alley back of the restaurant. So Joe had gone to work heartily, and had finished the task before nine o'clock, but the dinner would not be served until noon, and he was waiting contentedly in the knowledge that in another hour he would be at his feast. He had come into the alley that he might stand in front of a ventilator that sucked the warm air out of a basement into the cold alley outside, and thus it came to pass that he and Grogan met at the warm

He turned into the crowd and Joe watched him disappear. Somehow his hunger was not troubling him much now and his heart was beating lightly, for in his ears was ringing the voice of one who had taught him on her knees in the long ago, and the voice was saying:

"I have shewed you all things, how that so laboring ye ought to support the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said 'It is more blessed to give than to receive." (Copyright 1908, by Wright A. Patterson.)

"I reckon that my epicurean tendencies are as well developed as those of most men," said an old newspaper man to a group which was discussing things gastronomic, "and I have quite a taste for the elegant in the edible line, so to speak. But of all the meals I ever partook of the one that stands pre-eminent in my experience was my Thanksgiving dinner in 1888. Some time previously I had started from Memphis with an artist on a commission from a Memphis paper to write up the educational institutions of Mississippi, and during Thanksgiving week was at Columbus, in Lowndes county. I was invited by a friend to go quail shooting Thanksgiving day, and gladly accepted. By daybreak we were on our way to the sparsely settled country down the Tombigbee river

THANKSGIVING.

By W. H. Bigham.

THANKSGIVING DAY draws nigh once more. Let us all sincerely rejoice. Let us welcome its oncoming. weary road to pray and sing and give tives in town.

The old year is well-nigh gone. The old story of life has been told once more -- a story of gladness and of sorrow; of hopes, disappointments | and tired hands and heavy hearts; of gain and of loss; of success and of failure; of victory and of defeat, but n all and through all God has blessed us. God knows the wants of the | C wor'd and he is a great Provider.

It is wonderful to think that God forcordains whatsoever comes to pass, So praise him in songs of gladness, whose love bath showered life with nercy and lovingkindness. Kneel before him and praise him for the vay he hath led his people on. Adore him for the gift of Christ as our Savior, and for that he made it possible for all to be transformed from the image of sin to the image of his Son.
