TOBACCO TIDINGS MEETING OF EXECUTIVE

Committee--All Five Members Present at Meeting Held
Henderson, Friday
April 10, 1909.

HAVE RIGHT TO CHANGE CONSTITUTION.

Present were all five of the executive committee at the call meeting held in the city of Henderson yesterday, April 10th, 1909--namely, Brown, of Hopkins, Baker, of Webster, Orsburn, of Union, Rankin, of Crittenden and Taylor, of Henderson. Secretary Thompson's records show just what the committee did. His records belong to the Association, and in consequence just so much of his minutes get into print as the committee graciously deigns to impart to the enemies of the Association. The general public might know more concerning the current history of the Association through the medium of print but for the presence of spies in the land. Be content, therefore, with this minute from Secretary Thompson's records of yesterday's meeting:

"Be it resolved by the Executive Committee of the Stemming District Tobacco Association, That in the matter of the request made by members from Hopkins county that a mass convention be called to revise or amend the constitution and by-laws of this Association, that this committee is without power to act as the constitution prescribes the manner in which such revision shall be made, which is as follows:

ARTICLE IX.

"SECTION 1.—This constitution may be changed, amended or added to by any annual meeting of this Association by a majority vote of two-thirds of the members present, provided that no proposed change, amendment or addition to this constitution shall be considered unless it shall have been submitted to the chairman of each county board at least thirty days before such annual meeting.

"SECTION 2.—The county chairman of the several county boards of the Association shall, upon receiving notice of any proposed change, amendment or addition to this constitution, cause a copy of same to be published at least three times in the paper in their counties having the largest circulation before the date of the next annual meeting of the Association.

"SECTION 3.—The By-Laws of this Association may be amended, changed or added to in the same manner as above provided for changes, amendments or additions to the constitution."

It will be seen from the above provision of the constitution that this committee is without power to call the mass convention suggested. This committee is of the opinion that Article IX, sections 1, 2, 3, are wise provisions--safeguards as it were, against hasty actions as to amendments and revisions. The committee is further of the opinion it might be well for the county boards of the different counties, if they see fit to call mass conventions, to discuss, formulate and get before the people any amendment to strengthen the Association to the end the same might be adopted at annual meetings.

The good members of this Association may chafe at Article 9 of this constitution--but in the matter of a revision the utmost caution should be exercised. I am persuaded certain amendments would strengthen the Association. Mass meetings in the several counties may take action.

OBITUARY.

Mary E. Minner (nee Lofton) was born in Crittenden county, Kentucky, December 10, 1865. Departed this life March 14, 1909.

She was united in marriage to R. N. Minner January 5, 1887. From this union seven children were born, four of whom died in childhood, and three survive--Richard E., Albert R. and Edward Harvey, a precious little boy of eighteen months who, in the arms of his mother, was dedicated to God in holy baptism by the writer in Richwoods church.

Brother Minner, with his family, came to Scott county, Missouri, about years ago and settled in Richwoods settlement. Sister Minner was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal church South in her fifteenth year, and lived a faithful christian till the day of her death. She was a helpmeet in the Bible sense of the word. She loved her home, to which she was devoted. Each kept true to the marriage vow made between them until parted by death.

While Sister Minner was very much devoted to her husband and children, she loved her church and her Lord. She was loved by all who knew her because of her quiet, christian life.

She seemed to have regained perfect consciousness but once after she was taken sick, then she talked quite freely to her husband about dying and said she was ready to go.

She lived by faith and died in great peace. Her funeral was preached by the writer in the Morley church in the midst of a large congregation of relatives and friends, after which her remains were laid to rest in the Morley cemetery to await the call of God at the resurrection.

SIX SUITS ARE PARTIALLY SETTLED.

Four Defendants Get $1,387.00
A. H. Cardin $1,367.19
Henry Bennet Gets
$6,445.31.

TOTAL SUM OF $12,500 PAID OVER

Paducah Ky., April 15.—Compromises have been effected in six of the night rider suits in federal court with 108 of the defendants, who paid the plaintiffs a total of $12,500. Over a hundred defendants refused to enter compromise and the cases against them will be called in federal court here next week.

The $12,500 paid over is prorated as follows: L. W. Wood, C. W. Rucker, Laura Toomey and G. W. Gordon, a total of $4,687.50; A. H. Cardin, $1,367.19; Henry Bennet, $6,445.31.

Wood, Rucker, Mrs. Toomey and Gordon are suing for a total of $125,000. Cardin for $16,400 and Bennett for $100,000.

When the suits are called the 108 defendants who compromised will be dismissed, but the remaining defendants will have to stand trial.

It is said that a settlement probably could have been effected with all the defendants but a disagreement among the attorneys resulted in all but 108 of the defendants withdrawing.

SUFFERING ENDED.

Mrs. Morris Simmons died at her home in this city last Thursday afternoon after a long and painful illness. She had been suffering with cancer for two years. She bore her afflictions with Christian courage and passed away peacefully, surrounded by her loved ones. Mrs. Simmons was about forty years old and a kind, good Christian woman, who was esteemed by all who knew her. She was a member of the General Baptist church and was a good Christian. She is survived by her husband and two daughters, Mrs. Will Rivers and Mrs. West Dockery, of this place.

The remains were carried to Pleasant Valley church Saturday for interment and funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. N. Wallace. Providence Enterprise.

The Great Van Amburg and Howe's Great London Shows United.

"Howe's Great London Show is the best ever seen in Atlanta." This is the universal pronouncement of all of our best people interviewed on the subject. This is not only for the price, but at any price. There is not too much of it, as is often the case with so many of the big shows. The spectator does not get tired with a bewildering array of acts, and lose interest. It is an all-feature show, nothing tame or stale about it. The side show is high class. The menagerie contains first-class animals, clean, healthy and large. The horses and all the equipment are clean, well kept and of the best. There is nothing shoddy or shabby. In the arena the seating is close to the performers, giving an excellent view of every act. And every act is good. There are several features of the old-fashioned circus, dear to our boyhood days, some that are too frequently left out of the big shows in recent years. These are the several kinds of bareback riding.

The most agreeable part of Howe's Shows is the politeness and accommodation of all of the employees.

The press everywhere ought to treat Howe's Shows generously. In this city, at least, the newspaper men were not treated like a lot of pirates. The policy seemed broadminded and liberal. It is a good thing to encourage. Help educate the public to the worth of a good, clean show that gives what it promises.

There is not a graft of any kind about the show. Children can and do get along as well at the London Show as at a Sunday School.

The big Show comes to Marion Thursday, April 22nd.

Thomas L. Henry Passes Away.

Thomas L. Henry, son of Wm. and Mary Henry, was born in Union county, Oct. 31st, 1841, and died at his residence near Mattoon, April 9th, 1909.

Early in the civil war perhaps in 1861 he volunteered and went into the confederate army. He made a fearless soldier. He was a bold, daring fellow, and did some things that none but the most daring would have done. While in prison at Louisville, 1865, he professed religion and from his testimony was genuinely saved. When he was released from prison he went to Texas, where he met Miss Lizzie Russell to whom he was married, Dec. 27th, 1866. To this union was born seven children, four daughters and three sons, all of whom are living except one son. Bro. Henry was a faithful soldier of the cross, living a true Christian life, his theme was christianity. He did not seem to care to talk about his war life and while I was with him frequently in the last four years, I know but little of his ups and downs while in the army. I have heard more since he died than ever told me. A good man has gone from us, may we follow on and meet him in heaven. Peace to his memory. R. C. LOVE.

RESOLUTIONS.

We your committee appointed to draft resolutions of thanks to Bro. P. S. Maxwell and others for their substantial aid to us as a church, beg to submit the following resolutions:

WHEREAS: We have been totally deprived of the use and benefits of what was once our house of worship, at this place, and,

WHEREAS: A few faithful members of the Cumberland Presbyterian church saw fit, under the direction of all wise providence to secure another building as a place of worship, and,

WHEREAS: We bring few and of limited financial strength, found the burden all and more, than we were able to bear, and,

WHEREAS: Bro. P. S. Maxwell, and others, so cheerfully came to our aid with their prayers, presence and money therefore, be it, Resolved: That we in no uncertain tones express to Bro. P. S. Maxwell, and all others who have in any way aided us during this struggle, our sincere and heart felt thanks for their kindness.

Resolve, Sec. That we as a church express our appreciation, not only by words, alone, but by act and deed, as well.

Resolve, Third. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the records of this church, also a copy be sent to the Crittenden Record-Press for publication.

J. S. GREEN, } Committee.
ALBERT LAMB,
VERNON OAKLEY.

Card of Thanks.

We wish extend a card of thanks to the people of Crittenden county for the sympathy and liberal donations which they have bestowed upon us since the burning of our house and household goods on the night of, April 5th, 1909. MS. AND MRS. T. N. WOFFORD,

STOP! THINK FOR A MINUTE.

Isn't it Strange How Silly So Many Farmers Are?-- Great, Is the Society of Equity.

BY J. H. BURNEY GREENVILLE, KENTUCKY.

Isn't it strange how silly so many farmers are? In thinking of so many who have an idea of planting crops of tobacco this year, I can't help feeling like they have about as much business capacity as a man would have who advocated throwing a three month's feed to a hog in one day.

After so many men have spent so much time, money and vitality getting the people organize to an extent that has trebled the price of tobacco, for a lot of fellows (I suppose, out of pure selfishness) to take up an idea to plant a large crop is simply out of harmony with even common sense. Better be holding tight colors down while they are at what might be termed normal and cut down the colors of dark, for there is two much now of this latter type.

I see some districts passing orders to the effect of planting ten thousand hills to the hand. Well, this is much better than fifteen, but with plenty of plants and favorable season, ten thousand would produce more tobacco than has been made for several years, for quite a number of men will attempt to plant who have not planted for many years--and some who never did. I beg all men to act with sound judgment in this matter. I believe eight thousand plants to the hand will bring more money to the growers than ten.

Had you ever thought how much tobacco is made in the United States in one year. Take the year book for 1907 sent out by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. On page 16 it shows that the tobacco crop for that year was 645,213,000 pounds, which was the smallest for many years, 11 per cent. under the average for the preceding five years. (Notice, too, that its value was 16 per cent. above the five years' average.) Now this 645,213,000 pounds would put 1,200 pounds each into 537,677 hogheads, and counting 25 square feet (as is usual) to the hundred for storage, would require a floor space of 309 acres and 43 poles. Suppose you swell the crop of 1909 to about 800,000,000 and lay it down by the necessary demand and see where you will find yourself. Let us act with some consistency.

In the year book above referred to are some things interesting. For instance, it shows that the farm products of 1907 sold for $1,495,000,000 more than did the crops of 1903, which means an average of $249.16 2-3 to each farmer, and the united sum, if taken in silver dollars laid so as to touch, would make a string of dollars around this globe, and 9,843 miles, 225 poles on the way around again. The question is what brought all of this increase to farmers in one year since 1903? Does anyone doubt that organization, and nothing else, is responsible for it? And if organization brought it about is it not a fact that the American Society of Equity is the first, and in the main, the only organization that was ever able to accomplish such a wonderful benefit to the farmers of America?

This Union Tobacco Society that has for several months past been in process of organizing should take the opportunity of becoming a branch of the A. S. of E. as a great blessing, and not hesitate to take shelter under her protecting wing, for she has carried relief to many homes as well as carrying mortgages off them. She has made many hearts joyful that were once despondent, and her principles properly applied, would make the American farmers the chief cornerstone in the affairs of this nation, as they should be.

Some who have been chosen to lead have failed to realize the merits of the American Society of Equity, but when you get into the rural districts among those who have felt the relief most, you will hear a story that is convincing.

With much care in planning our business for this year, let us all do our best for the American Society of Equity and the American farmer.---Equity Farm Journal.

Burglary of McCon- nell & Stone's Store

One night last week the store of Stone & McConnell was broken into and robbed of several hundred dollars worth of clothing, shoes, hats, etc.

The entrance was effected by prying open one of the rear windows with an old axe which was left in the store.

Some of the stolen goods were found in the association prize house and this, and other evidence, caused the authorities to interrogate, under oath, quite a number of the colored employees but all were dismissed as no further clew was obtained from them.

City Marshall A. S. Cannan and Attorney John A. Moore, are endeavoring to ferret out the case but have no evidence which they think will assist them in bringing the guilty parties to justice.

COMMERCIAL CONVENTION

To Be Held at Louisville, April 23rd, —Gov. Wilson to be Present.

More than a hundred delegates have been named to attend the Commercial convention to be held at Louisville, April 23rd. The meeting will be held at the Seelbach Hotel under the auspices of the Louisville Commercial Club. Owing to the rapidity with which the plan grew, it was found advisable to have two sessions instead of one. The first will begin at 10.30 a. m., and the second at 2.30 p. m.

Gov. Wilson has accepted an invitation to be present and speak. Others who will make addresses are Attorney-General James Prethitt and Senator Thomas A. Combs, of Lexington, who will speak on revenue and taxation, J. Porter, of Lexington, who will talk of the State Development Association; Prof. W. J. McConathy, of Louisville, on County Museum Clubs; J. P. Atkinson, of Earlinton, on forestry, and Dr. J. N. McCormack, of Bowling Green, on the State health. Five minutes talk will be made by delegates present.

In the evening there will be a banquet at which informal talks will be made by the representatives of the various counties. Invitations sent out to this have advised delegates not to bring their dress-suits, as it is to be a gathering of the plain people.

The Crittenden county delegates are T. J. Yandell, Judge W. A. Blackburn, C. S. Nunn, T. H. Cochran.

Art of Living.

The greatest art in the world is the art of living. The greatest thing in living is knowing how to get along with other people. The highest state of happiness can only come from the most perfect companionship.—Rev. W. W. Bustard, Baptist, Boston.

Amplias Owens.

Amplias Owens, a traveling man known to almost every one in this country, died in Illinois a few days ago. If we mistake not he was raised in the county near Vandersburg. He was a confederate soldier, and made many daring raids during the civil war. At the time of his death he was a citizen of Evansville. He has many friends here who will regret to hear of his death.—Dixon Journal.

Democratic Nominees in Caldwell County.

Princeton, Ky., April 21.—The winners in the primary in this county were: Josh R. Catlett, State Senator; R. H. Akin, Representative; M. P. Smith, County Judge; J. E. Baker, County Attorney; R. L. Gresham, County Clerk; Henry Towery, Sheriff; Miss Nannie Catlett, County School Superintendent; Morgan Martin, Jailor; and Oscar Martin, Assessor.

The nominee for State Senator, which is for the Fourth district, comprising Caldwell, Crittenden and Webster counties, was Bill Clerk of the upper branch of the Legislature at the last session and is well fitted for the duties of a member.

MI-O-NA

Relieves Stomach Misery Almost Immediately.

If the food you ate at your last meal did not digest, but laid for a long time like lead on your stomach, then you have indigestion, and must act quickly.

Of course there are many other symptoms of indigestion, such as belching up of soured food, heartburn, dizziness, shortness of breath, and foul breath, and if you have any of them, your stomach is out of order and should be corrected.

Mi-o-na tablets have cured thousands of cases of indigestion and stomach trouble. If you have any stomach distress, Mi-o-na will relieve instantly.

But Mi-o-na unlike most so-called dyspepsia remedies, does more than relieve; it permanently cures dyspepsia or any stomach trouble by putting energy and strength into the walls of the stomach.

A large box of Mi-o-na tablets costs but 50 cents at HAYNES & TAYLOR'S are guaranteed to cure or money back. When others fail, Mi-o-na cures. It is a producer of flesh when the body is thin; it cleanses the stomach and bowels, purifies the blood, and makes rich, red blood. 45 47.

FAMOUS ACTRESS, IS DEAD

Body Will Be Taken to Cracow, Poland, The City of Her Birth.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 21.—Mme Helena Modjeska, the famous Polish tragedienne, and one of the most noted actresses of the American stage, died at 10 o'clock today at her island home at Bay City, Orange county, at the age of sixty-five, after an illness of about two months. For several days she had been unconscious and her death was almost hourly expected. Bright's disease complicated with heart trouble was the immediate cause of her death. Gathered around the bedside of the noted actress when she passed away were Count Bozenta, husband of the Madame Modjeska; Ralph Modjeska and his wife, a son and daughter-in-law, of Chicago, and Dr. J. C. Boyd, the family physician.

The body of the actress will be embalmed and taken to Los Angeles, where it will lie in a vault for some time. Later Count Bozenta will take remains to Cracow, Poland, the early home of Modjeska, and there they will be interred. No arrangements for any public funeral services have yet been made.

Count Bozenta, husband of Mme. Modjeska, talked before her death of the reasons for coming of himself and wife with others from Poland in 1876. Because of his political writings, he was exiled from Poland and Mme Modjeska was by imperial ukase debarred from the Polish stage.

Following the publication of a paper read by Mme. Modjeska at the world's fair in Chicago, which had to do with Russian-Polish policies and the former ukase of the czar a further ukase was issued barring Modjeska from Russian possessions. It is believed by the count, however, that there will be no hindrance to his mission to bury the body of the famous actress in Poland.

EASY TO MIX THIS

Prepared At Home By Shaking Ingredients Well In A Bottle.

What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription, which is said to be a positive remedy for backache or kidney or bladder derangement, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

A well known druggist here at home, when asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained at a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy, or the mixture would be put up if asked to do so. He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic afflictions with splendid results, he could see no reason why it should not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles and backache, as it has a peculiar action upon the kidney structure, cleansing these most important organs and helping them to sift and filter from the blood the foul acids and waste matter which cause sickness and suffering. Those of our readers who suffer can make no mistake in giving it a trial. No. 1

Why The Old Cow Changed Her Tune.

"Why are all those people flocking down at Hiram Hardapple's barn?" asked the old farmer on the hay wagon.

"Hi's got a curiosity down there," chuckled the village constable.

"That so? What kind of a curiosity is it?"

"Why Hi's old red-and-white Jersey cow. The other night the old critter had the colic and Hi went down with his lantern to give her a dose of cow medicine. Blamed if he didn't make a mistake and give her a pint of gasoline."

"Do tell! Didn't kill her, did it?"

"No; but, by heck, it had a funny effect. Now, instead of going 'Moo-moo!' like any other sensible cow, she goes 'Honk, honk!' like one of them thar blamed automobiles."—Chicago News.

Frank's Patriotic Jam.

Little Frank had been taken by his father to hear the patriotic exercises in the town hall and had been much interested in it all. The singing had delighted him. "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," impressed him particularly.

The next day he sat in the kitchen watching his mother make gooseberry jam.

"Mother," he said suddenly, "your jam is made of gooseberries, isn't it?"

"Yes, dear," said his mother.

"Well," said Frank, "I was just wondering what Columbia, the jam of the ocean, is made from."—The Delineator for May.

TELL ME SO.

I know that somewhere in your loving heart
There is a sheltered nook reserved for me;
A little kingdom where a reign supreme,
However small my tiny realm may be.

I know that in the music of your soul
There chimes with mine a chord so sweet and low,
The echoes flood our hearts; but, dearest one,
'Twould be so sweet to hear you tell me so.

Perhaps you feel that I should be content
To know that I am loved. But in my heart
I long to hear the happy story told,
For tender words are love's divinest part.

For if we parch with thirst, what if the streams
Shall flood their banks in wild tempestuous flow,
If not one drop shall reach our fevered lips?
Ah, darling, if you love me—tell me so!

Ora lips will soon be closed by angel hands.

For, after all, there is not far to go,
And life will end in silence, hard and cold;
So darling, if you love me—tell me so!

Littell's Liquid Sulphur Stops Itching Instantly

If the trouble is serious it will cure it. If it is not serious but is uncomfortable or unsightly it will stop whatever is wrong.

A Southern Lady Says:

I feel it is my duty to write and let you know what a blessing Littell's Liquid Sulphur has proven to me. For months I was afflicted with a breaking out on my face, red, angry looking blotches would appear upon the upper part of my face causing me the greatest humiliation. Having doctor'd and used almost every skin remedy advertised with no improvement whatever, I was utterly discouraged until I obtained a bottle of your Littell's Liquid Sulphur from your demonstrator, last August. My face began to improve immediately and that obstinate breaking out has entirely disappeared. I am still using Littell's Liquid Sulphur and would not be without it under any circumstances. MRS. Laxative for Women Free

There is a great difference in the purposes to which a laxative should be put. Tablets and pills, salts, etc., are usually violent purgatives or cathartics, and altogether too powerful for the average person.

A woman at all times needs only a mild laxative—in fact, none other is needed by anyone, weak or strong though they may be, for the object is simply to move the bowels, and if a gentle laxative will do it, what is the use of a violent one?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has earned a well-deserved vogue among women and children and old folks—people who must necessarily be careful of what they take.

It is a liquid laxative tonic and admittedly the greatest stomach, liver and bowel remedy before the American people. The price is only 50 cents or $1 a bottle, as it comes in both sizes, and all druggists sell it. Its pleasant taste and gentle action make it an ideal remedy for women in constipation, torpid liver, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn and such like digestive complaints. Its use for a short time will remove the trouble entirely so that future medication will be unnecessary. Its tonic properties build up the stomach and intestinal muscles so that they act naturally again. That this is so is the experience of many heads of families, like Mrs. Brannon, of Alvarado, Va.; Mrs. K. L. Stout, of Louisville, Ky.; and numerous others; in fact, way out in Williams, Cal., as Mrs. J. E. Blackmore, of that place writes, the whole town seems to be using it.

If the remedy is new to you and you want to make a trial of it before buying, send your name to the doctor's address as below and a free test bottle will be sent you. Then, if results are satisfactory you can buy it of your druggist.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

Sim Flinders has spent the past week looking for his mule, which he suspects was stolen from the sapling it was hitched to at the Dog Hill church last Sunday. As yet he has no clue, though he has asked a dozen or more men if they stole the animal. He believes the crime was committed by a member of some other church, as nobody got up and left the congregation while the sermon was going on.

It takes a heap to kill some men these days here in Kentucky. We know a fellow who has been shot twice through the hat, once through both legs, and two or three times through the head; also he has been jerked naked by a wheat thrasher, had fallen in a cistern and had been hit in the head with an ax in the hands of his brother-in-law. Yet he was able to sit on a coroner's jury over a man who had fallen out of a wagon and broken his neck.

Gander creek is one of the finest indicators of the weather that we have, and in many respects excels the liver pills almanac. When there has been no rain for a long while, the creek indicates such by getting very low, and after a hard spell of rain, or a series of downpours, the creek shows that such has taken place by becoming overflowed.

NIGHTS OF UNREST.

No Sleep, No Rest, No Peace for the Sufferer from Kidney Troubles. No peace for the kidney sufferer—Pain and distress from morn to night.

Get up with a lame back. Twinges of backache bother you all day.

Dull aching breaks your rest at night. Urinary disorders add to your misery.

Get at the cause—cure the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills will work the cure.

They're for the kidneys only—Have made great cures in Marion. W. I. Tabor, Marion, Ky., says: "I suffered for ten years from kidney trouble. There were severe pains in the small of my back, I was unable to sleep well and arose in the morning feeling very lame and sore."

I was always tired, languid and nervous, headaches were frequent and I often suffered from dizzy spells. My eyesight was affected and there was often a blurring before my eyes. My kidneys were also disordered, the secretions passing too frequently and when allowed to stand, depositing a heavy sediment. It was finally my good fortune to hear of Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a box at Haynes & Taylor's drug store. I used them according to directions and in three weeks felt great relief. Thus encouraged, I continued taking the remedy and the contents of one box made a complete cure. I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone suffering from kidney complaint."

NIAGARA'S VOICE SILENCED

Second Time In The Memory of Man—River Channel Frozen Solid.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 21.—The voice of Niagara was mute today for the second time in the memory of man. The first time was late in February, when following a severe northerly blow the falls ran dry. Now, following a severe southwesterly, the river is frozen solid from bank to bank.

Unable to escape by its natural channels, the level of the river rose by leaps and bounds. The highest flood level recorded from previous years is twenty-eight feet above the normal. Friday night, the river was forty feet above normal.

Water poured over the window sills of the power house of the Ontario Power Company and flooded the machines. The tracks of the Great Erie Gorge route were covered from the lower steel arch bridge to Lewiston. Conservative estimates place the damage at $1,000,000.

BIG COAL DEAL PUT THROUGH

Thirty Indiana and Illinois Mines Brought Under One Control.

Terre Haute, Ind., April 14.—When H. C. Frick, the steel trust magnate, reversed the action of his associates in the United States Steel company some weeks ago and turned down the offer they had accepted of the Dering company's coal mining properties, he perhaps thought the Rock Island crowd, which was behind the Dering company, would have to come to his terms, but they have just completed a deal by which they place under one control thirty of the best mines in Indiana and Illinois.

The Dering company has fourteen mines, three of which are in Vermillion county, Ill., and two in Franklin county. The others are in Indiana. The Hammond company has four mines in the Danville district, which were what was once known as the Kelley properties. The Dering company also was operating two mines near Pana, Ill., which are known as the Burnwell company mines. The Oak Hill company's four mines in Vermillion county, Ind., also to be in the deal.

The steel trust has been taking options on coal lands in the Illinois-Indiana field and wanted the developed mines because it is the nearest coal to the Gary plant, whose furnaces will consume even more than the output of the thirty mines now taken under control by Hammond. The trust has made a contract for 1,500 tons daily with the Clinton company, which has some mines in the Vermillion county, Ind., field, but the Hammond mines have the output the trust wants.

The Great Van Amburg And Howe's London Show United.

To select the kind of horses which have given Howe's Great Shows a national reputation for having the finest horses of any show on earth, much time, intelligence, patience and perseverance was required. For the baggage and heavy work the Percheron type of draft horse was selected, and for the hippodrom races was chosen thirty clean-cut Kentucky thoroughbred runners. Each year the stock is selected, always from the same breeds, and those that have been scarred, blemished or injured are culled out.

The mating up of the different teams is an object lesson to the eye, uniformly size, color and style always predominating. When to the beautiful black, dapple gray and bay horses is added the cute shetland ponies, it is not strange that the lengthy street parade of the Howe's Great London Shows is a most imposing and pleasing sight.

When Howe's London Shows exhibit here citizens will not only find the circus and menagerie exceedingly worthy of their patronage, but they will find that Howe's Horse Stables compose a veritable horse fair and they should always be visited. The visitor should not ask what becomes of these horses if they become crippled, as they will be displeased with the answer, which is that they are fed to the animal.

The big show come Marion Thursday, April 22nd.

Her Translated Duck.

Teach Morals

International Awakening as to Its Need

By PROF. GEORGE A. COE,
Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

EDUCATIONAL forces are in the midst of an international moral awakening. What we confront may be either a grave moral depression or a new stage in moral progress; in either case a call has come to reconstruct all education with reference to the moral requirements of human society. The call has been emphasized in this country by the National Educational association and the Religious Educational association.

There is an almost world-wide move toward leaving specific religious training in the hands of the family and of voluntary religious organizations, but at the same time to improve moral training in the state schools.

In the United States the churches are endeavoring to meet the need chiefly by reform in the Sunday schools. Many steps have been taken toward the introduction of sound methods and of graded lessons. A multitude of organizations that aim at one or another social good are contributing to the formation of a trained school conscience.

In the public schools there is much agitation but little crystallization of sentiment into method. The movement for industrial education presents a new problem and a new opportunity. The motives for such education are twofold; commercial and humanitarian. Both are valid, but the moral effect will depend upon which has the primacy in actual administration. If industrial and commercial training be used chiefly to extend and perfect the mechanism of factory and counting house; if the production of mere things be its dominating motive, it will only increase the present depression of human life by our economic organization.

But if this new training be so conducted as to humanize industrial relations and moralize commercial standards; if it shall help the young to discover that an occupation is a moral vocation; if it shall increase the free manhood of the producer while it increases output, then it will mark our greatest single advance in moral education.

Vapor Lamps the Coming Light

By PETER COOPER HEWITT, inventor.

What the world is waiting for in the way of light is simply a cheaper light.

Up to the present time light has been chiefly generated by means of the arc and incandescent materials, such as the Edison lamp, the Nernst lamp, etc.; but these have very nearly reached their highest point of efficiency. The latest development is the Tungsten lamp, and the greatest efficiency which can be hoped for from it is one watt per candle.

The old lights have all been generated by heating solids, but there is now a new light which is obtained by electric currents passing through vapors or gases of small density. These are called vacuum tubes, and it is to them that we must look for the cheaper—and for most purposes better—lights of the future.

Probably the best known example of this class is the Geister tube, which in the early stages of its development gave forth but little light. Recently, however, this has been worked over and experimented upon with the result that a light has been produced by means of mercury vapor that has an efficiency of one-third of a watt per candle. When it is remembered that the Edison light costs over three watts per candle, it will be readily seen that already great strides have been made toward reaching the cheap light which the world is awaiting. Of course, like all other things, the electric light generated by a vapor has its disadvantages for the present. For instance, it does not give off all the wave lengths seen in the daylight; each vapor used gives off wave lengths peculiar to itself, so that such light gives to many objects a peculiar appearance. Under it colors vary and lose their individuality, and at no time can all colors appear as they really are; but by the use of different colored reflectors and the combinations of different lamps almost any single result desired may be obtained. The future should, however, produce a more perfect light.

Decidedly the light of the future is the one generated by vapors. The constant work which is being done upon it is bound to bring it very near perfection, and, coupled with all its advantages, the fact that it can produce light commercially at one-half the smallest cost that the present lights can hope to attain makes its future success assured.

25,000 BUSHELS OF WHEAT BOUGHT AT $1.05.

Sunday's Henderson Gleaner contained the following account of a big wheat deal:

The biggest wheat deal ever consummated in Henderson was closed Saturday when a contract was made by Ben T. Lee and Hoyt Kinsey, Lee, Tom and Mrs. John Bassett, Cheatham and William Harding whereby these parties sold to the Henderson Elevator company their entire wheat production on 1,000 acres of wheat for $1.05 per bushel.

The elevator company is to accept the wheat delivered from the thrasher, which delivery will probably begin about June 20. As soon as the grain is threshed it will be hauled to the elevator company.

Lyon County Defendants Pay $9,500

An agreement was reached Monday between the Lyon county defendants in the night rider damage suits of Henry Bennett, A. H. Cardin, C. W. Rucker, Lura Toomey, L. W. Wood and G. W. Gordon, whereby they compromise for $9,500. By this agreement all of the Lyon county defendants are to be dropped from the suits. Recently when 108 defendants settled for $12,500 several Lyon county defendants were included. There are 134 defendants in the last compromise.

Attorney Walter Krone, one of the attorneys for Wood, Rucker, Mrs. Toomey and Gordon, stated Monday night that all arrangements had been made for the cash to be paid over this morning. He stated that this leaves all of the defendants of Christian county, a few in Caldwell and several in Trigg. Most of the defendants who settled in the first compromise were from Caldwell county. Krone believes that all the remaining defendants will settle before the next term of court. —Paducah News-Democrat, of April 20th.

HIS ERROR OF JUDGMENT.

"I like the looks of that honey," said the customer. "I think I'll take about four pounds of it."

The grocer's boy was about to wrap it up when the customer suddenly stopped him.

"Hold on," he said, "is that California honey?"

"No, sir," answered the boy. "It's the home grown kind."

"Well, then, I won't take it. Some people don't like the taste of California honey, but it just suits me. That's the kind I wanted."

After the customer had gone away the grocer's boy went into the back room and kicked himself.

It was California honey.

THE LAST VOYAGE OF THE DONNA ISABEL

CHAPTER XI.

In Which I Explain to Her Ladyship. I gazed directly into his bullying eyes with a depth of contempt I made no slightest effort to disguise. Then I arose deliberately to my feet.

"Anderson, pluck that knife out and put it back in your belt."

"I'm damned if—"

"Do as I say quick, you surly brute," I interrupted, sternly. "Not another word. I'm in command here yet, and you'll obey orders, or I'll make you."

He understood I meant it, with his innate cowardice plainly apparent, yet did not yield until Tuttle interfered with a sarcastic laugh.

"The captain isn't exactly the sort to be handled in that kind of way, Bill," he said, smoothly. "He's a deep-water sailor, not a land-shark, but I guess he's likely ready enough by this time to say what he's willing to do."

The entire situation seemed to unroll before me like a panorama as I stood there, hastily making up my mind for action. I was afraid on the high seas, absolutely powerless to resist the set purpose of these men surrounding me, all rendered desperate by greed. Much as I despised Anderson, I comprehended that his threat was no idle one; nor did I possess a single comrade on board who would stand at my back. I was utterly alone; nay, worse even than alone—with two women dependent upon me. If I outwardly agreed with these rascals, and thus retained semblance of command over them, I might possibly preserve all our lives; I could, at least for the present, protect the women from insult, perhaps from danger.

"Well, Mr. Tuttle," I said, quietly, "I may as well return you my answer one time as another. I don't give a tinker's damn for Anderson's threats, and I don't altogether put much faith in your yarn. But perhaps it's worth taking a chance at. What is to be my authority on board, providing I agree to go with you?"

"You're the captain."

He shifted about, appearing a trifle disconcerted under my rapid questioning.

"Well, yes; in everything concerning the discipline and sailing of the yacht," he explained. "There won't be no fuss about that job, sir. But we ain't a regular article crew, being that we're all here on shares in the enterprise, an' so, as regards the purpose of the voyage, it'll have to be decided by majority vote. However, that don't need make no trouble."

"What is to be my share if you find the treasure?"

He thrust his head out of the window nearest him, looking up and down the deck; then he leaned across the table toward me, lowering his voice until it was little more than whisper.

"You get one-fifth, sir; the four of us here get one-fifth each; the other fifth is to be divided among the crew. Ain't that fair enough, sir?"

"It would appear so; yet there is still another matter of some importance to be decided first. There are two women on board; how about them?"

"What!" The vibrant excitement of his high-pitched nasal voice was echoed by the others.

"This steam-yacht we have stolen was the property of the earl of Darlington," I explained. "Lady Darlington and her maid are still on board, in the cabin aft."

This unexpected and undesirable information seemed fairly to stun the fellows, their eyes meeting blankly. I heard Bill Anderson swear.

"The question is, how can we best dispose of them? This is no excursion for ladies, no pleasure trip of any kind, we've started on. Shall we haul some passing vessel and transship them, or shall we run in to Juan Fernandez and put them both safely ashore?"

None of the three men ventured to glance toward me, and for a long moment no answering voice spoke. Then Tuttle gave volleys utterance to words of compromise.

"Please if this don't sort o' knock me all out, sir," he acknowledged, "I don't exactly cotton to either of those ideas of yours, an' I don't know what is best. I guess I'll have to talk it over with my mates here first, but you can tell them ladies that we'll get 'em out somehow before we turn south. Anyhow, they don't need to worry none 'bout bein' ill-treated. Then I take it, sir, that you mean to sail with us?"

"There doesn't appear to be anything else I can do."

"You're about right there. Well, let's shake hands on it."

I did so, deliberately ignoring both the others, and feeling my flesh tingle when I touched his flabby palm.

Tuttle chewed savagely on the tobacco in his cheek.

"Damn the women!" he commented in sudden anger. "Better give the crew their breakfast, Anderson. Mr.

Stephens, I've sent Dade into the cabin to attend things aft. He'll make a good hand at that sort o' job."

We passed out together into the bright sunlight on deck, and I remained in silence for a moment beside the rail, gazing forth across the empty sea. Had I done what was right in all these circumstances? Under God, I was not really certain; yet I could perceive no other action possible.

A slenderly built, stoop-shouldered young fellow, who shuffled about like a waiter ashore, was in the pantry, and I noticed a white cloth spread over the table, which had been lowered from its stanchions and now occupied the center of the main cabin, and a swinging shelf suspended above.

"Ever act in this capacity before, Dade?" I asked, sizing him up in the dim light.

"Oh, yes, sir," a slight lisp to his tongue; "I've done cabin work on the coast liners."

"Then you should surely understand your business. Lay covers for four."

"Four, sir?" in surprise.

"That is what I said, Dade; two ladies, Mr. Tuttle, and myself. That makes four to my figuring. Now step lively, my lad. When will breakfast be ready to serve?"

"In about 15 minutes, sir."

I waited until he became busy with his work, his face still filled with amazement over my revelation, then walked around the end of the piano, and rapped softly at the after-cabin door. Celeste opened the door with a dainty courtesy and a quick uplifting of frightened eyes to my face. She had been crying, and in some way her very manner made me suddenly aware how poorly I stood in the estimation of her mistress and herself.

Yet, for the moment, I did not seriously care, stepping quietly within, cap in hand; intent merely on the rapid completion of my visit. Lady Darlington arose instantly from her chair, steadying herself to the roll of the vessel with one hand on the brass rail of the bed, and fronted me silently, the expression of her face expectant but reserved. Gazing upon her, I felt the fully revealed power of her beauty, as the sunlight streaming through the open port illumined her hair and outlined the delicate oval of her face. Troubled as she was, surrounded by a terror no less real because she failed thoroughly to comprehend it, facing one she must distrust and secretly fear, her first utterance, friendly and courteous, merely exhibited a heart which beat warmly beneath its slight armor of pride.

"I am exceedingly glad to greet you again, Mr. Stephens," she said, pleasantly, even endeavoring to smile; "you were absent so long we had begun to expect evil news."

"I regret to say, Lady Darlington, that I bring you only very little of any kind," I replied, striving earnestly to imitate her self-possession. "Arrangements on board have not yet assumed definite shape, so that I can make no promise concerning your future. I can merely assure you present safety, and pledge you every comfort the yacht affords while you remain with us."

She continued to gaze at me strangely, her eyes filled with questioning.

"Then you—your refusal to tell us our fate?"

"Merely because I do not know it. As I said before I am only one man pitted against 20."

She pressed her hand over her eyes, as though she would hide from me the sudden horror pictured within their depths.

"What are you?" she exclaimed, suddenly, her lips trembling. "Into whose hands have we fallen? I beg that you answer me honestly—why have you stolen this yacht? What real purpose underlies this terrible outrage?"

I made no effort to disguise the deep sympathy I felt for her, yet there was nothing I could answer but must have sounded both harsh and cruel.

"The motive animating the men in control is similar to that which renders possible most of the desperate deeds of the world—the search after treasure."

"Treasure!" she gasped, thoroughly bewildered. "Where do you propose going to search?"

"Far south, into the Antarctic."

The expression on her face was pitiful, yet I stood helpless to comfort.

"Merciful God! And you actually mean to bear us with you into that forsaken sea of ice? Oh, surely you jest, you seek to frighten; you cannot be earnest in such an act of folly. Whom can I believe? What can I hope? You have told me you were the captain of this crew of blackguards, and yet you say you can accomplish nothing with them to forward our cause. Then take me to those who can! Let me beg upon my knees for mercy. Surely, surely we are of no value to you in your search after treasure. We are only weak, helpless women. Think of what this must mean to me, and be merciful!"

mean to me, and be merciful!"

There was no trace of tears in her eyes, but it was the white, agonized face, the unconsciously outspread arms of appeal, that smote me. I felt all my limbs tremble, my lips falter, as I made swift response.

"Lady Darlington, believe me, I have no desire except honestly to serve you. The actual truth is, I have consented to retain what is a purely nominal command of this vessel, with no other purpose except that such outward authority yields me some opportunity to assist and protect you. Otherwise I would spurn the whole affair and defy these outlaws to do their worst. It was a deplorable accident that brought me here and placed me in this situation. Practically I am as much a prisoner on board as yourself. Later, if the opportunity ever be given, I shall relate you my story, and then, perhaps, you will appreciate how perfectly helpless I am to overrule the decision of this vessel's crew. They are mad with the lust of gold, crazed by the prospect of suddenly achieving vast wealth through a single bold stroke. Would the tears of a woman influence them now? would the impotent threat of a single, helpless man? They are armed, organized, determined, desperate.

"Treasure!" She gasped, "Where Do You Propose Going to Search?"

"The only thing I can do is apparently to yield to them, trusting thus to persuade them into some measure of mercy; and the only thing you can do is patiently to abide my efforts to release you from such companionship. I mean to do my best, even to the sacrifice of my life. The very thought of bearing you with us into the fogs and dangers of that storm-lashed ocean is misery to me. God knows I would do anything possible to spare you such a fate. But I wish you to understand, realize fully, how difficult my own position is. I do not bid you hope; only pray, and, above all, retain your courage. I promise nothing, because I dare venture no pledge. But I beseech you not to break down, not to exhibit open fear. In any event our first effort should be to awaken confidence in the minds of our captors, and arrive at a frank understanding between ourselves. Lady Darlington, will you be guided in this by my judgment?"

"Oh, I wish to believe," she sobbed, only half aloud, "I need some one, some one in whom I feel confidence, in whom I may repose faith. I beg of you not to consider me weak, a nerveless creature, but this situation is intolerable. I will endeavor to do what you ask. I will strive to be brave, helpful, appreciative. I—I think you are what you say. See, I give you my hand in promise."

I clasped it instantly within both my own, bending low above the white fingers, my lips set in firm resolve. I retained it still when I lifted my head, and our glances met.

"What is it you first desire of me?"

"Breakfast has been prepared, and is now awaiting us in the cabin," I answered, knowing well that some form of action must strengthen her more quickly than any further talk, "and I wish you to join us at the table exactly as though this was an ordinary voyage."

"I know the food will choke me. Does Celeste sit with us?"

"I believe you would prefer having her in the circumstances. You would not feel quite so much alone."

"I should like it; it was most thoughtful upon your part. Shall we be alone at table?"

"With the exception of the first officer, who is really the leader on board."

It was evident plainly enough that she shrank from the ordeal, the delicate lines hardening about the mouth, the gray eyes eloquent of disinclination. A moment she hesitated, her form swaying as though buffeted by a storm; then she slowly bent her head.

"I am at your service, Mr. Stephens."

In the main cabin we discovered the table already set and waiting, appearing bright and cheery with a brave display of snowy cloth and glittering silver, the swinging shelf above adorned by bottles and gleaming glass.

LIABLE TO BECOME IRKSOME

Some Drawbacks in Having Disease as an Occupation.

A New York man was brought before a magistrate the other day for speeding. The magistrate asked his occupation. "Rheumatism," replied the prisoner. It was so recorded.

When you think of it, he was probably not far wrong. If anything will keep a man occupied it is a pet trouble like rheumatism or indigestion. Give it a chance and it will make other mundane matters relatively unimportant. It will prove the most exacting of occupations.

It has one advantage over the ordinary ones, but it can't interfere with a man's factory in the world. It is close, but the man who makes it his occupation need not work. His occupation will not be touched. It will always be with him, beyond the balance and change of the ordinary "business." But it has the disadvantage that it tends to grow more and more enormous. A man begins, say, with a little light and easy employment as a taxicab driver. His hours at first are reasonable. Soon he discovers that he must pay more attention to it than he would to the thing right. He gives it several hours a day additional. He begins to think about it at odd times. Before he knows it he is occupied with it for practically all his waking hours.

IN EUROPE WITH MOTOR CAR.

Much There That Is Perpetual Delight to Traveler.

Belgium and Holland, though not blessed with good roads as a rule, have much to charm visitors in their quaint views and old-world cities. One has, of course, to travel slowly over the brick Dutch roads and the Belgian canyons, but the towns are so close together that the journey need never be monotonous. And the lace-like architecture of Brussels, the mystery that enshrouds antique Bruges, or the historic associations of Dordrecht and the dead cities of Zuyder Zee, are sufficient recompense for the slight discomforts of the route. But once east of Namur the pace ceases, and one can travel in the delights of speed along the valleys of the winding Meuse, Lesse or Moselle. The latter river is charming, and a trip should be made down it from Luxembourg; if possible, the grand ravines and immense woods giving a never ceasing variety of view—Vogues.

English and American Contrasts.

"The English business man's hours are shorter than ours, and, besides, when his work is done, he turns to some avocation, culture, theology, art or literature. The American business man is inclined to be too materialistic. His work is too intense, too engrossing, and when he is through—and we work long hours—he wants something with a tang to it, something he can taste all the way down." He must have an automobile that he can drive through the country at 70 miles an hour; he must have at least his golf or poker, even on Sunday. Halfour had as his avocation theology—did you ever hear of an American politician seeking relaxation in theology?—Bishop Williams of Michigan.

Better Odds.

A farm laborer was taken ill on a visit to London, and a friend gave him the address of a doctor to whom to go. The fellow soon came back and reported progress.

"I've taken some medicine," said he; "but I'm hanged if I went to that doctor of yours."

"Why?" asked his friend.

"Well," he replied, "I was just about to go in, when I saw on his doorplate his name, 'Dr. X,' and below it '10 to 1.' When I saw that I said to myself: 'I'll be hanged if I take such a risk as that.' So I went a few doors farther up the street and saw another plate with 'Dr. Y,' and below it '1 to 5.' The odds were better, so I went in."—Exchange.

Identifying Chris.

In the afternoon in all the schools a part of the time was devoted to the study of the life and deeds of Columbus.

An amusing reply was given by one of the pupils. A teacher had told the class of the wonderful voyage of Columbus and how he insisted on continuing the voyage after the other men were clamoring to return. Then she asked: "Who was Columbus?" with the view of hearing how well they had followed her talk.

One little hand went up.

"Well, Johnny, who was he?" asked the teacher.

"Columbus was the gem of the ocean," was the answer.

The Kitchen God.

The kitchen god of China is perhaps not rightly so called. He has place over the cooking range, but he is the "recording angel" of the Chinese house, and it is his duty to note the actions of each member of the family and report them to the gods at the end of every month. Once a year, too, he goes to heaven in person and makes his annual report. So once a year the family prostrate themselves before him, carry him in procession, and finally burn him, while crackers are fired.

TWO CHURCHES BURNED

First Was Destroyed Six Months Ago—Much Excitement.

Bloodhounds were taken from Hopkinsville to Caldwell county Wednesday morning to be used in tracking persons who the night before burned the Good Springs Cumberland Presbyterian church, three miles from Fredonia.

The splendid work of the dogs and clues obtained will, it is believed, lead to the arrest of the man who is suspected of being a ring-leader among the night riders in the Flat Rock vicinity.

Exactly six months ago the Good Springs church was burned to the ground. Incendiarism was suspected, but no evidence was secured against any guilty parties.

The members of the congregation sawed timber, hauled logs and rebuilt their house of worship on the same site. It has been entirely reconstructed and was ready for the last coat of paint when the torch was applied. The church was a frame structure valued at $1,400. The Rev. R. A. Moore, pastor, died only a few days ago.

The fire occurred about 9 o'clock Tuesday night and caused intense indignations in the community. The people there have been outspoken against night rider lawlessness, and their stand they claim, caused the deed of incendiaries.

They promptly made up a liberal purse and telephoned to Hopkinsville for the two blood hounds of H. M. McGrew and policeman Denton. Officers Denton and Jones caught an early morning train and carried the dogs to the scene of the fire.

The bloodhounds immediately took a trail and followed it two and a half miles through fields where tracks of a man were repeatedly discovered. These tracks, the officers state, corresponded with the footprints of a man under suspicion, and to whose home the dogs led the officers. The purse was gladly paid over to the policeman by the church people and they returned to Hopkinsville Wednesday night.

Their evidence will be submitted to the Caldwell county grand jury. Officers Jones and Denton say that a large number of plant beds have recently been sown with grass seed or scraped in the Good Springs neighborhood.—Kentuckian.

SPIRIT ACTS AS BURGLAR ALARM

WARNS FAMILY THAT INTRUDER HAS ENTERED HOUSE AND THEY SCARE HIM AWAY.

FORTUNE IN JEWELS SAVED

Strange Tale Vouched for by Prominent St. Louis People—Mysterious Guardian Dictates Words of Warning.

New York.—Here is the story of how a child's life and a fortune in jewels were saved from a burglar-murderer by a warning given by a spirit, which, after sounding the alarm, took the emergency into its own hands and drove the intruder away.

This strange tale is vouched for by one of the most prominent and wealthy St. Louis families, who spend part of each year in this city, and who, obeying the orders of their spirit burglar alarm, have come boldly forward with full particulars, to which are attached their correct names.

Jordan W. Lambert, millionaire chemist, with offices in New York and St. Louis; Mrs. Helen Lambert, his wife; his six-year-old son, Jordan W. Jr., and Will and Lillie Hannegan, clerks in Mr. Lambert's employ, are the persons involved.

According to the statement made by Mrs. Lambert, her son was asleep in the nursery adjacent to the parlor in which experiments in psychic phenomena were going on.

"We sat a little while with all the lights turned up, and Will Hannegan raised his hands above his head, and we saw one of his arms grow right out of his sleeve until it was nearly a foot longer than its normal length. It was cold and clammy and pretty soon it shrank back to its regular length."

"Then suddenly all of us were jerked from our seats and led by some invisible force into my son's playroom, where he was sleeping in his cot. After being led back to the table we put out the lights and Miss Howard and Lillie Hannegan wrote rapidly the words:

"Must watch Mrs. Lambert and Junior" (her son).
"Then Will and I were pulled from our seats and made to hurry into my bedroom so fast that we had no control over our feet. We were led directly to my open closet, and made to search every corner of it, and then the unseen force hurried us to the front door. We were then drawn back into the parlor.

"Will turned on the light and was seized with the desire to write."

"This is what his pencil dashed off: 'The man, the man, he was in the hall, and will come again. He was thinking of hiding in Mrs. Lambert's closet. He thinks she has jewelry there. You must watch. Don't go to bed; he will be back.'

"Just then we heard the main door close down stairs. I said I would 'phone the police, but Will was still holding the pencil, and it wrote: 'No, do not. They would not get here in time. He will be back, and you must watch for him. Will shall hear him, and must shoot.'

"I gave Will my revolver. We heard a noise outside the hall door, but when we got there the noise seemed to be receding downstairs. We sat a long time, when Will heard a voice from the air say warningly: 'Look out! Look out!' and we both heard a noise in the back hall. We looked down the stairs and saw that the bathroom door had been closed. In a minute the door opened wide, letting a stream of light out, and then was closed again.

"Suddenly Will said something told him to go into the kitchen, but I would not let him. Then we went to the bathroom and found it empty. In the kitchen we found muddy footmarks trailed up the steps and on the landing at the front door.

"The next day we had a seance and the spirit of Jo Wentworth told us through Will as a medium that the man had opened the window, but had not entered the kitchen.

"Had it not been for the warning of the spiritual influence we would have been robbed and perhaps murdered."

JOHN JACKSON

One of Champion's Gang, Gets a Year in The Penitentiary.

John Jackson, a Marshall county farmer, was convicted of night riding Friday afternoon in the Circuit Court at Benton. His punishment was fixed at one year in the penitentiary.

The accused was alleged to have participated in the raid at Birmingham, Marshall county, about a year ago, when a negro man and negro baby was killed. Several negroes were whipped on the bank of the Tennessee river.

As a result of that raid about sixty men have been indicted and two tried and convicted. The remaining cases were continued until next term.

This the second conviction in the Marshall Circuit Court for night riding. Last year Dr. E. Champion was given one year for participating in the raid and sentenced to one year. He has just been released.—Paducah News Democrat.

Pain

Nearly all women suffer some pain at times, due to the ailments peculiar to their sex. If your trouble is yet in a mild form, take Cardui to prevent it becoming more serious. If you have suffered long years, get Cardui at once. Use persistently and it will help you.

Take CARDUI

Mrs. L. Ellis, of New Hartford, Ia., was afflicted for 24 years. She writes: "For the past 24 years I have been afflicted with womb trouble, causing extreme nervousness, pain in right side and back—altogether making life a burden. I tried doctors and various other remedies without relief. Finally I began using Wine of Cardui. Now I am entirely cured. I cheerfully advise all women similarly afflicted to try Cardui." Sold everywhere.

LAND GRANTS FROM

President Jackson Just Recorded in Warrick County by Grandson of The Original Owner.

Booneville, Ind., April 21.—Although two grants of government land were deeded to Isaiah Horton in 1830, they were not recorded until a few days ago. The two deeds, which were signed by President Jackson and written on sheepskin, had been made to Isaiah Horton in December of 1830, and they had passed down through the Horton family to John Horton who brought them to Booneville to be recorded. John Horton, who is a middle aged man, is a grandson of Isaiah Horton.

Each of the deeds was for eight acres of land bordering on the Ohio river, the same original tracks remaining whole today and owned by the Hortons. Horton's Hill, one of the most picturesque spots on the Ohio, is embraced in this original grant of land, and some few years ago was picked out as a suitable site to locate a tuberculosis sanitarium.

Nothing The Matter With Uncle

Little Edith, aged two, was seated at the table together with the rest of the family for dinner. Her uncle, who was seated by her, on failing to begin the meal with the others, Edith asked him why he didn't begin. He said, "I am waiting for my appetite."

Presently the cook came in bearing a pie of gigantic proportions. Edith exclaimed rather excitedly, "Uncle, Uncle! here comes your appetite."—The Delineator for May.

This is the most dangerous time of the year to catch cold, and it is the easiest time to cure it. If you should take a cold, a few doses of Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup will act very promptly. Its laxative principle cures the cold by driving it from the system by a gentle but natural action of the bowels. Children especially like Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup as it tastes so good, nearly like maple sugar. It sold by all Dealers. 40 3m

Glen Wilton, Va., April 10, '09.
Mr. S. M. Jenkins,
Dear Sir:—I guess that we have "chewed the rag" a plenty about the paper not having been received by me during the several months past. I have certainly been getting it regularly the past few weeks, and I must say that I can not see how I have been satisfied without getting it, as I surely do enjoy reading it. We all think a great deal of Marion.

NEVADA COUNTY GETS MULE

Thows The Biggest Democratic Gain In The Last Election.

Lincoln, Neb., April 21.—Announcement was made at the office of W. J. Bryan that Elmerald county, Nevada, having made the greatest democratic gain in the election last November, has been awarded the prize mule. The mule, Major Minnemacot, was presented to Mr. Bryan during the campaign by Minnesota admirers, and the then candidate offered it as a prize to the county making the best showing in the election. Esmeralda county, it is announced, showed a gain of 694 per cent.

TOBACCO WAREHOUSE BURN

Owners Were Independents Buying Loose Tobacco.

Mayfield, Ky., April 21.—Fire of incendiary origin destroyed four large tobacco warehouses here early today. The warehouses were owned by Lewis and Gordon Richard Waldrope, Sherrill and Barnett and the American Snuff company, respectively. These firms are independent and have been buying a great loose tobacco.

The loss will reach about $25,000. There was about 300,000 pounds of tobacco lost.

Let Me Tell You Something

A woman who is sick and suffering, and won't at least try a medicine which has the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, is to blame for her own wretched condition.

There are literally hundreds of thousands of women in the United States who have been benefited by this famous old remedy, which was produced from roots and herbs over thirty years ago by a woman to relieve woman's suffering.

Read what these women say:

Camden, N. J.—"It is with pleasure that I send my testimonial for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, hoping it may induce other suffering women to avail themselves of the benefit of this valuable remedy."

"I suffered from pains in my back and side, sick headaches, no appetite, was tired and nervous all the time, and so weak I could hardly stand. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman—and this valuable medicine shall always have my praise."—Mrs. W. P. Valentine, 902 Lincoln Ave., Camden, N. J.

Erie, Pa.—"I suffered for five years from female troubles, and at last was almost helpless. I tried three doctors but they did me no good. My sister advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has made me well and strong. I hope all suffering women will just give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, for it is worth its weight in gold."—Mrs. J. P. Endlich, R. F. D. 7, Erie, Pa.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering from the same trouble.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for her advice—it is free and always helpful.

Breezy News Items of Interest That Our Reporters Have Gathered During the Week

BLACKFORD.

Blackford is joggling along reasonably well, so far as we know.

The health has somewhat improved and people are in fairly good humor.

We all have our "ups" and "downs" and, strange to say, it is when we are "hard-up" that we feel "low-down."

Soon will the little honey bee,

The little honey bringer;

Improve each shining hour in glee,

By using of its stinger.

Princeton Presbytery of the Cumberland Presbyterian church was held with the Blackford congregation during the former part of this month, with Rev. J. B. Lowery Moderator, and H. N. Lamb, Stated Clerk. There were quite a number of ministers, elders and delegates in attendance and the interest manifested was considerable.

The urbane cashier of Blackford Bank, George H. Nunn, has not only joined the Methodist church, but has had his house covered with shingles. (Both of which are certainly commendable and, moreover, they indicate, beyond doubt, that George doesn't like "much water."—,devil.)

Owing to a recent inquiry made by a correspondent we wish to say: The scribe from Blackford was born and reared among the hills of Crittenden county, is 21 years old, can read and write and "figger," is a free-thinker, respects all men and women regardless of their religious or political opinions, believes in all legitimate unions, and thinks that the criterion by which all human beings are to be judged is their every-day deportment.

With wishes for the success of all editors and correspondents graded at 99 per cent, we are—Novus Homo.

There is talk of organizing a Farmers' Union store at this place. We are for it first, last and all the time.

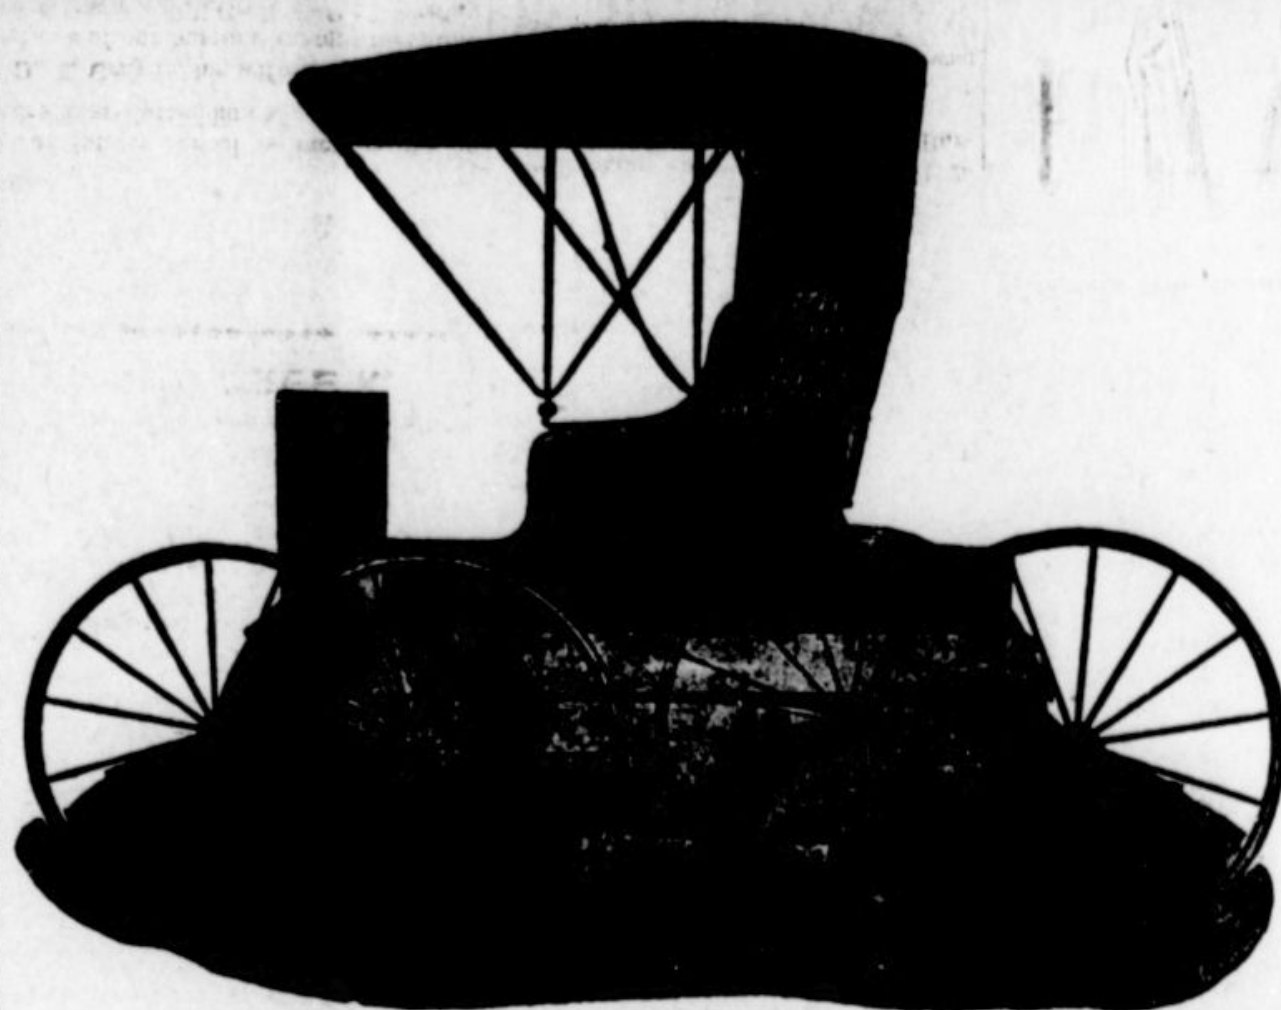

Rev. J. F. Brown, of Marion, the traveling evangelist, preached three very interesting sermons here Saturday night and Sunday, and will preach again the second Saturday night and Sunday in May.

We notice that your Piney Creek correspondent is in favor of a stock law. We are compelled to take issue with him along that line, and will give some of our reasons for opposing it. First, it would be hard on the renter and the small landowner, as they would have no pasture for their stock; while, as it is now, they have a good range for their stock outside, which would benefit no one if we had a stock law.

In a country where the land is all level and can all be cultivated, perhaps a stock law would be all right, but not so in this hilly country where about one half of the land is too mountainous for anything else than a range.

SALEM.

CURES INDIGESTION

From Stomach And Digestion Vanishes In Five Minutes.

Take your sour stomach—or may be you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach, it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50 cent ase of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of stomach misery.

The correct name of your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; the following mixture after each you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headach, nervousness, dizziness and many other similar symptoms. If your appetite is flake, and nothing tempts you or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself, after your next meal, that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery. Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapepsin. 30-42.

We don't know just where he will finally go, but if he should go to the same zone as the fellow who would rather work to the interest of the speculator and the trusts than to see his own and his neighbor's interests prosper, he will find the atmosphere there exceedingly torrid.

A Letter From R. M. Franks.

Mr. Editor: Owing to the loss of my wife I have been forced to break up housekeeping, and I have been necessarily forced to leave our home and good neighbors, which is grievous to me. My headquarters will be at Tolu most of the time, however, I will be at Marion a part of the time, and would like to remain in reach of you should you need my service with your live stock. I will keep both central telephone offices posted as to my whereabouts at all times. R. M. Franks.
