The telegram was dated at Louisville where Mr. Cruce was at tending the Governor's Convention, and stated that he would arrive that afternoon. A number of his friends accordingly went to the train to greet him and were entertained at supper in an informal way by Senator Maxwell. Mr. Cruce remained here Saturday and Sunday and left Sunday afternoon for Ardmore. He has many warm friends here and as this was his first visit in seven years there were many reminisences to recall, and his visit gave pleasure to every one who came in touch with him. He is the same genial unassuming gentleman he has been since his boy hood. Fortune and fame have not spoiled him in the least.

FIVE GO DOWN TO DEATH

IN DEEP SEA OF MUD

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 7-Slowly sinking in a sea of mud at least five men are known to have gone down to death, swallowed up by the "Honey ports" that lie around Frederick House Lake in the newly discovered goldmining region of the Porcupine district of Northern Ontario. The story has been brought from the new gold fields by W. R. MacLeay, mining engineer and prospector, of Montreal who has spent the summer in the immediate district, and who, emaciated and gaunt-visage, has come back to civization to recover his health.

Mr. MacLeay says that just before he started out-bound on his tramp the fall rains had converted a large part of the district into mud and wide, deep patches of yielding, shaking soil. When he left camp, a little more than two weeks ago, nea ly everything edible had been eaten and starvation stared the miners in the face. Some of theminers in desperation faced the peril of the long and injuring tramp to Bisco to bring back food, the general load being 100 pounds of provision per man strapped upon his back.

The most diffucult and deadly part of the journey was along the shore of Frederick House Lake, where there was an old Hudson Bay post.

"It was on his part of the trail, said Mr. MacLeay, 'that I saw on my way out two men with loads on their backs slowly sink down in the mud and disappear from sight. Their cries and shrieks were frightful to hear. There were several others around, but we could do nothing for the two unfortunates, who were gradually ingulfed before our eyes as we stood near by, helpless to afford them any as-

Concerning Mr. Edison's Veiws On Immortality

In a recent issue of a prominent St. Louis newspaper an interview with Prof. Thomas A. Edison is published in which the distinguished inventer is represented as giving his opinion that there is "no soul" and that such doctrines as personalty and immortality are nothing more than mythical accretions.

Concerning individuality Mr. Edison is quoted as saying that "we" each of us, aggregations of cells as New York is an aggregation of individuals; and regarding immortality, he is said to have declared. "I cannot be-

Asked for an opinion concerning this statement Dr. Arthur Mather, pastor of Marion Methopress ones self as they otherwise might have done had Mr. Edison produced his proof. As it is things mentioned. This is to me all the more amazing because Mr. Edison, occuping the unique would always require proof of the most exact nature in the case of any hypothesis on which and abiding results.

Speaking generally, however, caught in the meshes concerning a subject of which, (assuming the newspaper report to be corone comes to think, Mr. Edison judges himself out of his own mouth, for what greater, personality' has arisen in our midst during the last thirty years than that of Thomas A. Edison? And yet, according to the newspaper report, he denies 'individuality.' This is, however, but another proof of the great scientific fact that, in some persons, faculties of certain kinds are more wonderfully developed than they are in others. For instances, I remember a skilled mathematician who years ago amused a number of his assembled friends by meekly asking what Milton's 'Paradise Lost' proved. The poor fellow's question proved two things; first, his own limitation; and second, that a cell was wanting in his brain. He was an excellent mathematician, but no poet.

To give another illustration. 1 recall the fact of Sir Humphry Davy, the great chemist of the early nineteenth century-disimportant utilities, who was one day walking along the spacious aisles of the picture galleries of Louvre in Paris, where some of the greatest masterpieces of the world of art are to be seen, and who amazed his companion by exclaiming, "What a fine collection of gold frames." vasily more importance in the long run is the internal cleanliness.

This is one point that all should watch about their body—the cleanliness of the bowels. Keep them clean and free from obstructions. To do this you must have one or two movements of the bowels each twenty-four hours. If your system does not do this naturally, in the process of eating and drinking, then you must obtain aid of some kind. After finding out that cathartics, saits and such things relieve you for a day, but bind you up worse than ever the next day, then try a simpler and more natural remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

For the skeptical the best way to begin is to send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell for a free sample bottle. Use it as directed and if it convinces you that a brief continuance of its use will relieve you permanently—that it will train the stomach and bowel muscles to again work naturally at certain hours—then buy it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing. They began with a sample bottle, then bought a fifty cent bottle, and now, fully convinced of its merits, they buy the one dollar family size. We must seek to be remembered by what we have done. Away yonder on the sea shore among the trees and vines, where naught is heard but the dashing waves is a solitary grave covered by a plain and unpretentious slab, and on it only this name and inscription: John Howard, "a Sinner Saved by Grace," and yet ships stop there and wait until tourist and travelers climb up the bank and go to see that grave. That is not the monument of the great philanthropist. He lives in the hearts of the great and good all over the world. Where is the monument of the quiet and modest George Peabody, who, though yonder, is here dispensing light and blessings to to thousands, and

Gregory Stock Is Acquired By Opposing Faction

That the contest for the control of the Citizens' National Life Insurance Company, with the litigation that has arisen from it, is on the eve of permanant settlement through the purchase of the Gregory holdings in the company by the opposing faction, is a report in circulation in Louisville which seems to have correct foundation,

It is reported that the two factions have reached an agreement as to the stock, whereby the Gregory holdings, which amount to about 20,000 shares of the Citizen,s National Life Insurance Company stock, will be transferred to the opposing faction.

The Gregory stock includes the holdings of President W. H.-Gregory and Vice President R. E. Gregory and other members of the family. This sale of stock will do away with the contest for control of the company at the annual stock holders' meeting January 11.

The authorized capital of the Citizens' Life Insurance Company is $1,500,000, in 150,000

There were 246 who registered and a hundred more who did not register and thus saved their dollar registeration fee.

It was a great disappointment to some because the boat did not run from Paducah to Wickliff: but every train was crowed with enthusiastic teachers from every section of the district, who attended this great annual meetfor pleasure and profit. Wickliffe is an out-of-the-way place and hard to reach from anywhere, but professional pride and loyalty to the cause impelled teachers to attend when attendance was entirely voluntary.

The speakers from outside the district were: Dr. P. P. Claxton, of the University of Tenn., Prof. R. P. Green, of the Western Ky., Normal, Bowling Green, and Byron W. King, of Pittsburg, Pa. The remainder of the programme was filled with addresses from school men who reside in the district.

Byron W. King lectured Friday evening. His subject was What Fools We Mortals Be." This is one of his greatest lectures and it received the hearty applause that King only can command. He will deliver the same lecture in Marion, March 29. This will give our people here an opportunity to enjoy the the philosophy and fun so characteristic of the man.

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are two letters which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

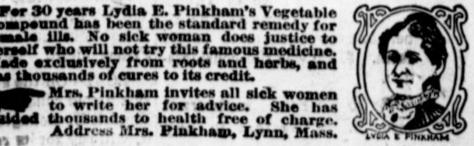

Fitchville, Ohio .- "My daughter was all run down, suffered from pains in her side, head and limbs, and could walk but a short distance at a time. She came very near having nervous prostration, had begun to cough a good deal, and seemed melancholy by spells. She tried two doctors but got little help. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills she has improved so much that she feels and looks like another girl."-Mrs. C. Cole, Fitchville, Ohio.

say a few words in praise of your medicine. When I began taking it I had been very sick with kidney and bladder troubles and nervous prostration. I am now taking the sixth bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find myself greatly improved. My friends who call to see me have noticed a great change."—Mrs. A. H. Sanborn, Irasburg, Vermont.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful -or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit. Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women

Letter From Dan Stone.

Wrigley, Ky., Nov. 27th. Mr. Editor:-I will tell you of few facts concerning East Kentucky.

This part of the state is very rough hills and mountains, the great Creator was thinking of the future generations-doubtless when he formed the surface of these regions. Had the surface of Kentucky been level, we would years and years ago been without timber to build houses. These parts of the state are full of the very best coal both stone and cannel, also oil and gas and UNIONTOWN SELLS after all these years of timber butchering yet the state surface is one third covered with timber gone on west and left only a few crat. awfully easy. I actually never ter works. saw any place where man could live so cheaply. There is no high society, no ten dollar hats YOUNG MEN SHOULD to buy, no silk dresses, no taylor made suits-just plain every-day folks with good plain clothes and common sense and lover of independence. Farming is mainly for their own living no one scarcely nor do they buy, each one raises "Lee." and children work in the fields. Most of those in the rural dis-boy in any particular. He was Dick Cruce is attending court at Pa mer and the money spent for clothing is astonishing small amount compared to west Kentucky and still a greater difference compared to west Texas. I saw an old man at Hico, Texas, with a John B. Stetson hat on, that cost $8.00 wholesale, I have also seen whole families here with less than $8.00 worth of clothing on. Wages one dollar and board, in timber work. Lots of timber and coal-plenty of work-business is fine.

MRS. HUMPHREY WARD

England's Great Woman Novelist. LITERARY prophecy, like dynamite, should be handled with extreme caution; it sometimes goes off unexpectedly, and the future has often an frritating way of contradicting the prophet. When Matthew Arnold, the great English critic, declared: "No Arnold could ever write a novel," he did not dream that his niece, Mrs. Humphry Ward, would be the most successful povelist of her time in the world. The daughter of Thomas Arnold, she was born in Tasmania in 1851 and when five years old was brought to England. There was much ink in the Arnold blood, and in the inspiring atmosphere of Oxford, as she grew up to womanhood, a slender, graceful girl, with dark hair and eyes and an intensely earnest expression, she won the attention of the literary lights of the

She was then a student of life and of human nature, absorbing vitality like a century plant, as yet showing no sign of blossoming. A wonderful linguist, she spoke and read German, French, Spanish and Italian fluently, At twenty-one she was married to Thomas Humphry Ward, the littérateur and art critic. The first tender leaves of promise in literature were her contributions to the "Dictionary of Christian Biography," for which she received $30; a bud of feeble hope was her first story, a child's tale; and in 1883 bloomed the first flower of her real fiction, "Miss Bretherton." Her translation of "Amiel's Journal" is a marvellous transcript into another tongue of the reflections of the gentle, analytic, Swiss professor is so strong that we ask you to try it so dearly loved to follow a vein of rich thought down to the finest capillaries of emotion. It was fifteen years ago that "Robert Elsmere," her great religious novel, swept the reading public as on a tide. The book was based on the terrible religious doubts, fears, misgivings and questionings of Mrs. Ward's father, who left the English church to become a Roman Catholic, later surrendering his new faith and in the end turning again to the Catholic fold. "The History of David Grieve," "Marcella," "Sir George Tressady," "Helbeck of Bannisdale" and "Eleanor," following at intervals of two years, are all lofty in tone, pure in sentiment and individual in conception. Her latest work, "Lady Rose's Daughter," undoubtedly shows Mrs. Ward at her best. The delightful heroine Julie Le Breton is intensely human; the situations are novel; the sketching of English society keen and vivid, and the touch surer and lighter than in any other work of this famous woman.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Success Through Undaunted Courage. THE daily paper has become a great power, a mighty, personal influence in American life, a pulpit for lay sermons where the audience may number half a million or more. No other American woman writer has so large, so constant, so close and personal an audience as Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox. Her articles in the New York Evening Journal, whose great circulation there is multiplied by their sydication throughout the country, give her a wondrous influence. They are simple, practical, helpful thoughts for better living; sincere, sympathetic and strengthening, filled with the sunshine of courage and optimism. The hundreds of letters she receives is an eloquent tribute to the seriousness of the American mind and the hunger of struggling ones throughout the country for counsel and light on the problems and perplexities of daily life She was born in Johnstown Centre, Wisconsin, the youngest daughter of a Vermont music teacher, who had made money and lost it and was forced to make a fresh start in life at a little place on the prairies twelve miles from Madison, and at the age of eight made her first offerings to the muse of literature in the form of efforts in prese and verse which she still has preserved.

At fourteen she began to appreciate the commercial side of literature when her verses appeared in "The New York Mercury" and other periodicals that considered subscriptions, books, pictures and bric a brac compensation.

Mrs. Wilcox's first book, "Drons of Vater," a collection of poems on total

"Laugh and the World Laughs with You," appeared in the "New York Sun" and for it the writer received five dollars. In the same year her famous book "Poems of Passion." which raised a whirlwind of protest, abuse and ridicule, made her name known from Bar Harbor to the Golden Gate. Mrs. Wilcox's success was not due to influence nor to special advantages working toward publicity; but to her untiring loyalty to a dream, her per-abstinence, appeared in 1872. Just twenty years ago her most famous poem,
