V. LEE CRUCE DEFIES SUPREME COURT.

Ready To Measure Swords With State Tribunal.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 5. Gov. Lee Cruce today defied the Supreme Court of Oklahoma, threatened to call out the militia, of which he pointed out he is commander-in-chief, and sardonically told the high tribunal of his State, through Adj. Gen. Canton, if he wanted to measure swords with him "it had better send a force right away."

The muddle arose through the removal of the county seat of Delaware county from Grove to Jay. The records were started from Grove Tuesday, but instead of reaching the old town site of Jay, designated in the Governor's proclamation, were stopped at a recently established addition to the town, known as New Jay. Yesterday when it was reported that armed men were on guard at New Jay to prevent the further removal of the books and papers, Gov. Cruce ordered a company of State militia at Tulsa under arms and instructed the Adjutant General to proceed to the scene of the conflict.

After the arrival of the Adjutant General it was stated that no further effort would be made to impede the removal of the records, but today citizens of New Jay applied to chief Justice Turner for a restraining order and it was granted.

The Governor was informed of the court's action, and in a telegram to the Adjutant he said: "As commander-in-chief of the Oklahoma militia and as Governor of the State, I direct you to proceed with the enforcement of my proclamation and order as delivered to you yesterday. Whatever force is necessary for you to employ to enforce this order will be called by you into requisition."

Calling the Chief Justice on the telephone a short time later, the Governor is reported to have said: "I am Governor of the State," and "If the Supreme Court means to have its order enforced it had better send a force right away."

In the meantime, however, Adj. Gen. Canton had removed the records to Old Jay, where a fresh start was made in the governmental machinery of the county.

Banquet To Senator- elect, Ollie M. James

A TESTIMONIAL FROM HIS NEIGHBORS.

J. H. Orme, E. J. Hayward, W. G. Clifton, R. F. Haynes, G. M. Crider, C. S. Nunn who compose the committee in charge of the love feast to be tendered to U. S. Senator elect Ollie M. James in this city Friday night January 19th have placed the preparation of the banquet in charge of J. W. Wilson who has won a reputation by his menus in the past, and this insures the success of that part of the programme.

Mr. James friends here wish to give him this small token of their great affection for him. The menu cards are being prepared and will be worth preserving as mementos of the occasion, which no doubt will be sparkling with wit and repartee. The banquet will be served in Tuckers Furniture store which will be cleared for the occasion and brilliantly illuminated and decorated with flags, bunting, palms and flowers. The gathering will be composed of 100 or more of Mr. James' neighbors and friends and the affair promises to be pleasant in every detail. The orchestra has been ordered from Louisville.

Notice To Farmers.

I will receive tobacco beginning Thursday Jan., 4th. But one load from each farmer a week. Will not receive tobacco unless in keeping order. Read your contracts and govern yourselves accordingly.

Yours,
R. H. Kemp.

Morganfield Boy Wins

Corn Show Prize.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 6.—Special.—The $50. silver Pitcher, offered at the State Corn Show to the Kentucky boy who had raised the best acre of corn in 1911, was awarded to J. V. Hooper, of Morganfield, a member of the Union County Boy Corn Growers Club. The winner is 17 years old. He raised 145 bushels of corn on an acre at a net profit of $60.

A POPULAR OFFICIAL

Displaced After One-Sixth of a Century's Continuous Service.

George M. Crider, who for 144 years has dispensed the mail at Marion postoffice surrendered same to his successor last week. Mr. Crider had been considered almost a stability as his first appointment dates back to days of the lamented McKinley. When Mr. Crider was first given this office in 1837, it was not a Presidential one, but the year following, in 1838, it became one, and he was at once re-appointed by President McKinley.

President Roosevelt re-appointed him in 1902 and again in 1906, the term of which latter appointment expired last fall, since which time various rumors have been afloat as to who would be his successor, and the one most generally believed was that eventually he would be re-appointed, as he was recognized as not only capable, honest and high toned but with all, experienced and popular, and many, were the loyal friends, who devoutly hoped for that consummation. No charges were filed against Mr. Crider, nor could there be, his official life being an open book and as blameless as his private life, which is as a Christian gentleman's should be. Marion has had many postmasters but none who has ever served so long. Back in the seventies W. Wagar, later D. Stinson, R. Coffield, Bob Walker, A. M. Hearin, and then G. M. Crider, but none more popular or beloved than the last named. Mr. Crider will now devote his time to the insurance business of Wood & Crider, of which he is one-half owner and which by the way is one of the best agencies in Kentucky.

OLLIE JAMES IS ELECTED SENATOR

First District Congressman Is Chosen in the Legis- lature.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 9.—At noon today both houses of the General Assembly voting separately and in their respective chambers, elected Congressman Ollie M. James, of the First District, as a member of the United States Senate to succeed Thos. H. Payner.

Tomorrow in joint session the bodies will finally elect Mr. James.

In the House, Speaker Terrell presided and recognized Representative Thompson, who presented the name of Mr. James. In the course of his speech he said:

"Ollie James is the incarnation of that great development of the present day—progressivism. It is his relation to this movement which gave significance to this election. It is what he has done, what he stands for and what he is going to do that makes his election a triumph of Democracy. In the past campaign his compelling eloquence raised a storm of enthusiasm throughout the state which swept our ticket into office; created our majority in this Assembly and left him the sole contender for the Senatorship. In the election the people looked beyond the ballots and saw James as a candidate for the office which they believed that he, of all men of Ky., was best qualified to fill. And today, from one end of the State to the other, the high and the lowly, the great and the obscure are watching this House to see that no man falters, and, thank God, no man is going to falter. In their minds there is but one thought, on their tongues but one name, the name of that fearless Tribune of the people, that prince of orators, whom I now nominate for United States Senator—the Hon. Ollie M. James, of Kentucky."

Mr. Young, of Hopkins, seconded the nomination.

Mr. Asher, of Bell county, presented the name of Ed Morrow, of Pulaski, the Republican nominee for Senator.

The ballot was then taken and stood 74 for James to 24 for Morrow.

IN THE SENATE.

In the Senate, Senator Eaton made the speech nominating Ollie M. James for United States Senator. He said he felt it was a great privilege to present the name of a man who has become the friend of every person in this State to a household word in the United States. He told of the career of James, stating that he was born as one of the poor people in a poor county. He stated his political career as a page in the General Assembly. Senator Eaton said Ollie James was an industrial page, a great big boy, taking then as his motto, "Truth, honesty and fidelity to the people," and that pursuing this motto he has become a National figure, and that his voice is always heard in the defense of the people. He said Ollie James was elected Congressman at thirty and has continued without intermission until at forty, Kentucky presents into the most august body in the world Kentucky's greatest living citizen, Ollie M. James.

MORROW NOMINATED.

Senator Brock nominated Edwin Morrow, of Somerset, Brock said that Morrow's name was also a household word, and although he has come from obscurity, he has made a name for himself and is making one for his State. Brock predicted a great future in nominating him.

Senator Hogg seconded the nomination of Ollie James, of whom he said there was no truer man, no truer advocate of what the people wanted, and that in every contest between the predatory rich and the toiling masses that Ollie James was always on the side of the masses.

Senator Catlett also seconded the nomination of Ollie James.

On the roll call, Senator Bosworth announced his pair with Senator Hubble. Senator Frost said that it was the fulfillment of a hope long cherished when he cast his vote for James. The ballot stood: James, 31; Morrow, 4.

Eczema, Ringworm,

Tetter, chapped hands or lips, boils, sores and all skin diseases are quickly cured by the use of Dr. Bell's Antiseptic Salve, 25cts., a box at all dealers. A creamy snow white ointment.

His Future Gilded.

Ollie James, of Kentucky, is one man whose future appears gilded with most splendid possibilities. In appearance he is most fortunate. Some six feet six or seven inches in height, he is erect, well proportioned and commanding. His voice is that of an orator. He is only 40 years of age. In habits he is studious and persistent. Several terms in congress have shown him gifted with admirable qualities of leadership. "Never dictatorial, never harsh, he has a host of devoted friends who love him for his heart qualities as they respect him for his head qualities. The people of Kentucky have recently over-whelmingly declared for him for the United States senate, and he will shortly take his seat in that body, where he is sure to maintain himself. He is a progressive and there is no taint of guile upon him.—Memphis News Scimitar.

Rev. Richeson Confesses

Declares He Does Not Desire To Further Wrong Pure Girl's Mem- ory By Public Trial—Suf- fers Remorse.

Boston, Jan., 9.—Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, formerly pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church of Cambridge, today made a written confession to the effect that he poisoned his former sweetheart, Avis Linnell.

The statement was given into the hands of his counsel who made the confession public at 1 p. m.

The complete confession of Rev. Richeson follows:

Boston, Jan. 3.

"John L. Lees, Esq.

"William A. Morse, Esq.

"Phillip R. Dunbar, Esq.

"Gentlemen:—Deeply penitent for my sin, and earnestly desiring, as far as in my power lies, to make atonement, I hereby confess that I am guilty of the offense of which I stand indicted.

"I am moved to this course by no inducement of self benefit, or leniency. Heinous as is my crime, God has not wholly abandoned me. My conscience and manhood, however, depraved and blighted, will not admit of my still further wronging by a public trial her whose pure young life I have destroyed. Under the lashings of remorse I have suffered and am suffering the tortures of the damned. In this I find a measure of comfort. In my mental anguish I recognize that there is still, by the mercy of the Master, some remnant of the divine spark of goodness still lingering with me. I could wish to live only because within some prison's walls I might, in some small measure, redeem my sinful past, help some other despairing soul and at last, find favor with my God.

"You are instructed to deliver this to the district attorney or to the judge of the court.

Sincerely yours,

"Clarence V. T. Richeson."

Not for many years has such frigid weather been felt in this vicinity as that which swooped down on us last Saturday and continued on until now. The snow flew furiously all day Saturday and attained a depth of 8 inches on the level, and with the thermometer down to 18 below there was great suffering. Sunday some of the churches had no Sunday School or church services as the buildings could not be heated comfortably. Monday school was dismissed as the buildings were not heated sufficiently to prevent sickness.

County court day, Monday the 8th, witnessed the smallest crowd seen here on a similar occasion for many years.

BROWN SWISS BREED OF DAIRY CATTLE

It is sometimes claimed that the dairy quality of the Brown Swiss breed has been improved and the breed "refined" by the American breeders who have cultivated this breed for the last thirty years, writes E. M. Barton in Hoard's Dairyman. The method of "refining" has consisted in feeding the calves less liberally while they are growing and in breeding the heifers about a year earlier than is the Swiss practice, thus making them lighter and leaner than they would be if they had had the usual care that is given to young cattle in Switzerland. By following this practice for two or three generations the normal weight of the cows is reduced two or three hundred pounds, and this is done without spoiling the cows for milking purposes.

Whether this practice takes off something from the milk and butter quality and whether it takes off something from the useful life of the cow is hard to prove one way or the other, but I hold to the theory that the breeding of the highest dairy quality and at the same time of considerable weight, as it has been bred for hundreds of generations in Switzerland, the chances are that the "refining" process, so called, which has gone on in this country is in reality a stunting process and that by liberal feeding of the calves, as is practiced in Switzerland, and comparatively late breeding of the heifers we shall keep to the true Swiss type and have better milk and butter yields and longer life.

There were at the national dairy show in Chicago last fall two cows, Iowa Lassie and Mernie, that represent five generations of American breeding. The former was selected by the judge as the champion cow of the breed, and the latter had made a fine record for amount and economy of production at the Wisconsin experiment station. These cows have finer bone, the hind legs are less straight, their weight under 1,200 pounds, and in the view of many experts showed the highest dairy quality. They are good milkers and good cows, but to my mind they are not as typical representatives of the breed as the big hended, strong legged, square buttocked 1,500 pound cows that are imported and occasionally raised in this country and such as you find represented in large numbers in the stables of their own country.

The normal weight of Iowa Lassie, the champion cow, is 1,130 pounds. With her second calf she gave within a year 10,000 pounds of milk testing 443 pounds of butter fat and dropped her third calf about thirteen months after her second, constituting a dairy record of which one need not be ashamed. She is now making a record with her third calf which will probably surpass the former one.

The Brown Swiss is one of the standard breeds from Switzerland. It has become generally distributed throughout Europe and was first imported into the United States in 1853. Brown Swiss cattle are well adapted to conditions when a combination of dairy and beef production is sought. The size is medium. Cows weigh 1,200 to 1,500 pounds. The quantity of milk is moderately large and the fat content good. According to the American standard, the color is dark to light brown or some seasons of the year gray. The cow here shown was bred in New York and made a record of 4,403 pounds of milk in 120 days.

Naegeli, that was exhibited at the same show, has a normal weight of 1,550 pounds. After dropping her second calf she gave within twelve months 12,616 pounds of milk testing 523 pounds of butter fat.

Treatment For Scratches.

The first thing to do in a case of scratches is to see that the horse stands in a clean stall, where no mud, dung or urine can come in contact with his heels, writes David Buffum in Farm and Fireside. Failure to attend to this is often the cause of scratches, though they also appear without any external cause, owing to some condition of the system.

Scratches are sometimes very obstinate about healing. The best external remedy that I know of is white lead. Have the sore places perfectly clean and dry and then see that they are completely covered with white lead. Bind it on with a bandage if it will not stick without one and renew the application twice a day. Meanwhile feed the animal generously, keep salt in his manger and give him enough bran every day to keep his bowels open. This treatment, if faithfully followed up, should make an improvement in him very soon, though if the case is a bad one it is impossible to say how long it may take to effect a cure.

The Hog House.

Hog houses should be located on well drained land, and any type of permanent house should be situated so as to be as convenient as possible to pasture containing shade. The land should be sloping and have no surface hollows or low places to collect water and become filthy wallows.

One kidney remedy never fails. Marion people rely upon it. That remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills. Marion testimony proves it always reliable.

W. I. Tabor, Marion, Ky., says: "I suffered for ten years from kidney trouble. There were severe pains in the small of my back and I was unable to sleep well, arising in the morning, lame and sore. I was always tired, languid and nervous, headaches were common and I also suffered from dizzy spells. My kidneys were disordered and the kidney secretions passed too frequently. It was finally my good fortune to hear of Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a box at Haynes & Taylor's Drug Store. I used them and in three weeks was greatly relieved. Thus encouraged, I continued taking this remedy and it effected a complete cure. I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone suffering from kidney complaint."

Broken Down Swine.

The breaking down of swine in the hind legs or all fours is a well known difficulty that farmers are obliged to contend with, says the Farm Journal. Animals begin by showing weakness in the hind legs or a knuckling over of the rear fetlock joints and if not given treatment soon become helpless. It is believed to be due to the overfeeding of corn for generations, to the exclusion of the phosphate supplying grains. The trouble is seen most frequently in brood sows which exhaust this element in nourishing the fetus and suckling the young. It should be guarded against by feeding the sow during pregnancy and while nursing on ground oats, bran and oilmeal, with as much milk as possible.

With the first symptoms the following treatment should be begun, both for sows and for shotes three or four months of age: One tablespoonful of cod liver oil, fifteen grains of phosphate of lime and three drops of the fluid extract of nux vomica at a dose in a little food twice a day for several weeks if necessary. A cure cannot be guaranteed when the case has run too long.

If your stomach feels uncomfortable from overeating, or from food which disagrees with you, take HERBINE; it settles the stomach, strengthens the digestion and relaxes the bowels. Price 50c. Sold by J. H. Orme.

Suits Filed For $10,500,000 Won In Wheat Pit

NE of the most remarkable attempts to stop speculation was launched recently by the Chicago Anti-gambling league in a suit for $10,000,000 against James A. Patten, so called wheat king, who retired from business a short time ago. This was followed by preparations to sue J. Ogden Armour, head of the packing firm, and it is said the Chicago board of trade itself will become a defendant party to the litigation.

Dr. Paul Burmaster, president of the Anti-gambling league, declares the purpose of the litigation is purely philanthropic. Patten was sued for $10,000,000 because it is believed he has won $2,000,000 in the last two years through his wheat operations, and an Illinois statute permits the bringing of suit by an outside party for three times the amount of the gambling losses, one-half the amount recovered to go to the state. Dr. Burmaster intends devoting the league's share of the spoil to a campaign fund for pushing a national war on speculation.

If Dr. Burmaster's evidence is correct it serves to emphasize the discrepancy between public belief in reported earnings in big cereal corners and stock exchange transactions and the actual profits involved. Patten was credited with cornering more than $10,000,000 by his corner in May wheat last year, yet the anti-gambling crusader puts him down as getting but one-fifth of that sum.

It is asserted by the militant doctor that he has obtained sufficient evidence to convict Patten from a former grain operator who, having cleared a fortune and retired, has become penitent. And if this was not enough it is said that many board of trade operators are also members of the Anti-gambling league and are furnishing evidence to stop the trading in grain futures.

Further reports have it that several active traders in the wheat pit who have been victims of some of the big corners of recent years will add important testimony if the first case results in a victory for the Burmaster league.

Following the league's assumption that speculating is gambling, the plans are laid to assault this board of trade for the $10,500,000 in cases judgments are entered against Armour and Patten and collections are evaded. The board will be asked to make good any possible deficits under another portion of the gambling statute, which makes persons who shall rent or lease buildings as gambling places liable for recoveries under the general act.

In case the league makes good its efforts and recovers a $5,250,000 campaign fund attention will be turned to the stock exchanges of New York and other cities to see if statutes similar to those of Illinois cannot be made to apply.

Warm the Water For Cows.

The right way to water cows in winter is to keep the water before them in the stable. If you turn them out in the cold the strong will get all they want and the meeker ones will go without. Besides, the good dairy cow will be chilled by the change and will refuse to drink what she needs.

WILL RECEIVE JAN. 10th.

The Association will begin to receive tobacco at the Marion factory Jan. 11, 1912, and pay for it at the door.

THE MAKING OF A MILKER.

Feeding the Heifer For Future Dairy Usefulness.

It is very necessary that the dairy cow have a large, strong and well distended digestive apparatus. For the purpose of developing this portion of her give the heifer free access to roughage of a palatable nature, such as corn silage and clover, alfalfa or oat hay, says H. G. Van Pelt in Farm and Fireside. Clover, alfalfa or oat hay are specified in preference to timothy hay, corn stover or straw, because they contain a much larger percentage of protein, which nutrient is useful in growing bone and muscle, and for this reason by their use greater growth of the cow will be secured. Small potatoes, mangels and carrots are very useful for winter feeding in that they are succulent and keep the digestive apparatus in excellent condition.

It is not advisable to feed her heavily of concentrated grains until after she freshens. Four pounds a day of a mixture of equal parts ground corn, ground oats, bran and oilmeal will keep her in excellent condition and growing rapidly when fed in conjunction with the roughage.

There is a difference of opinion as to when heifers should freshen, but if fed well during their early life they are large and strong at the age of twenty-four months and should freshen then in order that they may early in life attain the habit of converting a large portion of their food into milk and butter fat rather than into beef and body fat. If, on the other hand, the cow is small for her age, breed considered, it is oftentimes better to allow her to develop further and freshen at the age of thirty months.

If This Medicine Does not Satisfactorily Benefit You.

Practicing physicians making a specialty of stomach troubles are really responsible for the formula from which Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are made. We have simply printed by the experience of experts.

Our experience with Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets leads us to believe them to be an excellent remedy for the relief of acute indigestion and chronic dyspepsia. Their ingredients are soothing and healing to the inflamed membranes of the stomach. They are rich in pepsin, one of the greatest digestive aids known to medicine. The relief they afford is almost immediate. Their use with persistency and regularity for a short time helps to bring about a cessation of the pains caused by stomach disorders.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets aid to assure healthy appetite, aid digestion, and promote nutrition. As evidence of our sincere faith in Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, we ask you to try them at our risk. If they do not give you entire satisfaction, we will return you the money you paid us for them, without question or formality. They come in three sizes, prices 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain them only at our store—The Rexall Store.

Time to Make a Change.

Sir William Phelps was appointed governor in chief of the province of Massachusetts Bay in 1632. During his administration the terrible war against witchcraft raged for some sixteen months. When his own wife, Lady Phelps, was named as having exercised the powers of witchcraft Sir William began to view this whole terrible madness in a new light, and he put a stop to all trials and discharged the prisoners then awaiting trial.

Pleurisy pains are located just below the short ribs. Lumbago affects the same region but toward the back. Ballard's Snow Liniment is the remedy in either case. If rubbed in thoroughly it eases pain, relaxes the muscles and the patient can move about freely and comfortably. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by J. H. Orme.

Ancient Paving of St. Peter's To Be Replaced

THE paving of St. Peter's, at Rome, is to be replaced next summer, and consequently the historic edifice will be closed to visitors. The fiftieth anniversary of the proclamation of Rome as the capital of united Italy will be celebrated this year, so both St. Peter's and the Vatican would naturally remain closed. This makes the repaving of the church possible without inconvenience, as no pilgrimages will visit Rome, and no functions and public ceremonies will be held by order of the pope because of the civic celebration.

The present pavement was laid about three centuries ago and is badly worn by the feet of pilgrims and visitors, so Pope Pius has decided to have the stones replaced by new ones, identical in size, shape and color. As a matter of fact, the work has been started, but the renovation has been confined to the space in front of the altar and the right aisle, so the bulk of the work is yet to be done.

Important archaeological discoveries followed the initial work, and greater results are expected as the restoration proceeds. All the fragments of marble removed have been found to be of great historical value, as many were epitaphs from pagan tombs, others broken pieces of altars or pagan tombstones, while the remainder when pieced together were identified as belonging to classical buildings.

The reason for these discoveries is that the present edifice is built with the materials of the old church erected on the same site. Old St. Peter's dates from the time of Constantine and was erected on the spot where Peter, the great apostle, suffered martyrdom in Nero's circus. Many Christians died for the faith there and were buried near by, as were pagans. The old church was built over the chapel where St. Peter had been buried, and the Christian and pagan tombs were broken up, and the materials, chiefly marble, were used in the construction.

The first church rested on the walls of the circus, and new foundations were built for the left wing. When the old church was pulled down its materials were in turn used to build the present basilica; consequently every fragment of marble in the present pavement is ancient.

White Man's Hope Coming?

Oklahoma has furnished another pugilistic hope for the white race, possibly, in addition to Carl Morris. According to a dispatch, "Battling Bess" Martin of Oklahoma City drew with "Knockout Ned" Bennett of Chicago in six rounds at Tulsa, Okla., in the presence of numerous spectators of the same sex, who showed they were well posted in fistie lore by their comments. Although the people of the state rose agast over the affair, there is a possibility of such things being conducted in a ladylike manner, according to one sporting writer, who sees the future like this:

"A very vivacious little reconvalescent place at the Refined Boxing club last night. 'Kid Kathryn' Kassano and Young 'Bankhurst' sparred four rounds for a purse of $1,500 hung up by the Advanced Women's Society For Mental and Muscular Development. The general price of admission was reduced from $5 to $4.88; consequently the clubhouse was never so crowded. Even the gallery reserved for girls and misses was thronged with young hopefuls, who, it is confidently expected, will maintain the superiority of the white race."

Slick Calender Man Now In Jail.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Jan. 2.—J. W. Bewly, the man who worked several citizens on a calendar scheme, was arrested at Glasgow last week through the help of Paul Winn, who got on his track while visiting friends there. He had the smooth young man taken in charge and he was brought here and on trial was held over and committed to jail under bond of $500, which he failed to give. It came out in proof that he got $5. each from Paul Winn, L. A. Johnson & Co., Thacker & Thomas, N. Stadelman and H. C. Moore.

Telegrams have been coming in every day from other cities where he worked the same game.

FOUR CHILDREN BORN TO HICKMAN COUPLE

Three Girls And a Boy In a Bunch Gladden Fond Parents.

Hickman, Ky., Jan. 4.—There were born yesterday here to the wife of J. T. Bivens, in West Hickman, four children, three girls and one boy, all good-sized, strong children, two of normal size and two somewhat smaller, but all perfect physically. This was the first quadruple birth so far known in this vicinity, and people are flocking to see the quartet. The mother is doing nicely. She was the widow of Tom Wilson, one of the alleged night riders of the Reelfoot Lake vicinity, who died in the Nashville penitentiary, where he was held for safe keeping until the trial. His widow married Mr. Bivens about a year ago. Mr. Bivens is sixty years old.

The Chinese Empire founded 2,900 years, B. C., or nearly 5,000 years ago has fallen and a republic has been established on the ruins. Verily the world do move although sometimes slowly.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 7, 1912. Friend Jenkins:—

This city again has a legislature on its hands for sixty days, and as they have always said "this one is the best." The writer has been an observer of the General Assembly for twelve years, and while this body may not be the best during that time, I feel that it is equal to any in its personnel, and its opportunities are the best ever presented in the history of the State.

The administration is a unit for carrying out the party platform; the "opposition" in the party declares also, that it stands for carrying out of every feature of the party pledges, while the Republicans in their caucuses, and through their leaders say they will stand by the Governor "while there is a button on Gabe's coat." The Governor in an eighteen thousand word message says he will hold the platform before the members as a thing, not only to stand on, but to be carried out. On this line he will fight it out, if it takes "all summer." With all these omens before us it does certainly look good.

Governor McCreary has taken a stand for the people and old things in Kentucky, will pass away, and progress will be the watch word. The people will be heard, and many features heretofore prevalent around the State house will disappear. The "Third House" will be a very small factor this session; all factions and parties have put the mark of the beast on its forehead. No chief executive, for years, has inspired the confidence that Gov. McCreary has, and no man has ever come to the governor's chair with the ripe experience and opportunity he possesses.

It is gratifying indeed to see the time come in our beloved state when party platforms and pledges are held to be as sacred as those of individuals, and a friendly rivalry as to who shall be first in "making good." I heard a Senator who was regarded as "very wet" last session, say that the senate would pass the county unit bill this time before the House, I feel that he was sincere and that it is probable that this old time burying ground of the county unit may give us surprise by putting it over the plate first.

I want to say too, that Supt., Hamlet is a friend of the rural school and will stand by us in getting relief for them. My interview with him on this subject was very satisfactory, and he was surprised to find some of the conditions that today handicap our country schools.

Next week I will tell you about the make up of the committees and some of the measures proposed. So far the "interest" have not shown up to take a hand in making up the committees, nor need they do so, for the decree has always gone forth that this important matter will be attended to by the friends of the people.

Yours Truly,
MARION F. POGUE.

SAD DEATH OF YOUNG LADY

Pathetic indeed was the hope which buoyed her up, and prolonged her life to allow her to reach home and then close her eyes and peacefully breathe her last surrounded by loving sisters and brothers. Such was the fate vouches to Miss Mamie Henry, who had been for the past month in the Ozark Mts in hope of being benefitted. Last week when she continued to grow weaker and her physician held out no encouragement she expressed a wish to return to Kentucky. Her relatives here were notified and A. M. Henry, a brother went to Cassville, to accompany her and assist Mrs. Bugg who had been with her ever since she went West for the benefit of her health. James Seth Henry another brother went to Evansville Saturday to meet them but they were delayed and did not pass here until 11 o'clock Monday enroute to Fredonia. Soon after reaching the home of her sister, Mrs. Grant Bugg she began to sink and did not rally, the end coming at 1:15 A. M. Tuesday just 12 hours after she reached there. The remains were brought here Wednesday morning and were taken to the home of her brother James Seth Henry on Salem street and from there to the 1st Baptist church at one o'clock where the funeral was preached by Rev. Martin Miller. He paid a beautiful tribute to the memory of the noble christian character who has gone to her reward. The interment was beside the mother and father who so recently preceded her to the grave under the mound of beautiful flowers sent by many loving friends and some by the teachers of the Graded school where she formerly taught, the scholars whose affection she won by her tender solicitude of them while under her care, the Baptist church where she gave her pure young life to her saviour, the S. S. of which she was a regular attendant all her life and from numerous friends of the family.

SOME PROBLEMS OF THE DAY.

(BY EDWARD D. STONE.)

I was selected by the corresponding editor to furnish a few thoughts to the Cumberland Weekly, on the subject, "Some Problems of The Day."

Every individual that walks out on the stage of public action whether he lives and breathes the air of civil patriotism of the North or the warm atmosphere of the South, he will at a certain period in life, fight his first battle what ere his pursuit and profession may be, if it be the life of a politician or that of a minister, lawyer, doctor, or pursuit in any capacity in life he must fight his first battle, meet his enemy face to face: his first struggle may not be in fields with foe, but down "lovers' lane." The young lad, as we see him under the shades of night, his foe, "the other fellow," not in sight, yet yet pleading to his dear until her cheeks were pale and thinner than should be for one so young, and her eyes on all his motions with a mute observance hung, and said he, my dear, speak, and speak the truth to me. Trust me, dear, all the current of my being sets to thee, this heart and hand to win may be in days of youth.

So man plays many parts in life, and to select and rightfully play their parts, the sooner he begins, the better, for every young man stands on his own stage to a certain extent and degree. May we not remain still in our profession in life? Success will come to any individual with honest labor. Things don't turn up in this world unless somebody turns them up. Inertia is one of the indispensable laws of matter, and things lie flat where they are until by some intelligent spirit (for nothing but spirit makes motion in this world) they are endowed with activity and life. May we not dream that some good luck is going to happen to us and give us fortune, for luck is something thought of. Any one may follow it to ruin but not to success. The great Napoleon, who believed in his destiny, followed it until he saw his star go down in blackest night, when the old guard perished around him, and Waterloo was lost. A pound of pluck is worth ten of luck.

The young students will soon be fresh from school and whether or not he enter at once upon his profession after passing the mile post of Judge Blackstone, Kent and Story, he must consider that he is going into a busy world and there is good pay in store for good services.

May be that the world will remember that you cannot judge a man's life by the success of a moment, the history of an hour or even by the result of a year. You must view his life as a whole. You must stand where you can see the man as he treads the entire path that leads from the cradle to grave, none crossing the plains, nor climbing the steep, nor passing through pleasant fields, nor winding his way with difficulty between rugged rocks, tempted, tried, tested, triumphant, the life of lawyer, either by its success or failure, emphasizes the words of Solomon, "The path of the just is as a shining light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day."

Turning now to my subject some problems of the present time in which we will linger for a few moments, laying all prejudice from our mind.

Different questions are being debated among our national leaders. Mr. Watson, a great southern editor, who writes thus:—the south is the most important factor in politics in this country for the nomination of a Republican who control the machinery and for the election of a Democrat, who can get the nomination. Mr. Underwood may join issue in such measures that will be of benefit to the north and south, for policy, and ask the people all over the south and west whether or not such measures will be for him, instead of learning the benefit it may be to the laboring class. What did he say on the cotton and wool schedule that was signed by Mr. Taft and Speakers Clark, Harmon and others on the Canadian reciprocity? This is not the history of this kind with Canada and the United States. A reciprocity treaty was established between the United States and Canada in 1854, but it was terminated in 1866. A similar treaty was made between the United States and Hawaii in 1876. Jas. G. Blaine was instrumental in calling general attention to the system of reciprocity. I don't think that our unlearned citizens on various questions can be made to believe that Jefferson and McKinley were not great men. You may take a survey of the country at large and you will find that most of the public men, south, are opposed to a central banking system; that they are for tariff for revenue and believe in States' rights, absolutely. They are not in favor of the initiative, the referendum and the recall.

I believe in the old Equity maxim, "he that comes into a court of Equity must come with clean hands." Gov. Wilson, of

New Jersey, seems to think that Mr. Clark is trying to place himself before the people on public morals and that Underwood being a native of Kentucky and a Representative from one of the leading states in Alabama, that he might play a good hand. Mr. Folk, of Missouri, seems to think that Clark, Wilson and Harmon is not nominated that the lightning might strike him. But among the Republican party President Taft is first and last, and if the light of Republicanism from east to west, from north to south, will flow as it did in 96 and 1900. Republican power will rule one of the strongest nation of the earth, one that gives freedom and the right of protection to its inhabitants, be it remembered that the strength of the nation does not lay in her great men nor even in her standing armies, but in happy and contented citizens, who are ever ready to protect for themselves and to preserve to posterity the blessings which they enjoy. It is for us of this generation, to so perform the duties of citizenship that a government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth.

THIEVES AND BARN BURNERS

Mayfield, Ky., Jan. 9.—Arrests of six or more horse thieves and barn burners accused of extensive operations in Western Kentucky are expected by the Mayfield police if admissions made to them by a convict prove true. It is declared that before setting fire to scores of stock barns, the thieves exchanged fine horses inside for worthless animals, leaving the owner to think his horses burned with the barn. The same prisoner also is said to have given information which may clear up several western Kentucky murder mysteries.

Haynes & Taylor GUARANTEES HYOMEI

If you really mean that you want to drive every bit of catarrh from your nose and throat why not try a sensible remedy that is guaranteed to banish catarrh, or money back.

If you already own a little hard rubber HYOMEI inhaler you can buy a bottle of HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) for only 50 cents. If you do not own an inhaler ask for complete HYOMEI outfit which contains an inhaler, this will cost you $1.00.

Then breathe HYOMEI and get rid of catarrh, relief comes in five minutes, a day's treatment will make you happy, a week's treatment and snuffles, mucus and hawking go, another week and goodbye to catarrh. Try it today on money back plan. Sold by Haynes & Taylor and druggists everywhere.

or other bowel disorders. We are so certain that it will relieve these complaints and give absolute satisfaction in every particular that we offer it with our personal guarantee that it shall cost the user nothing if it fails to substantiate our claims. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night, do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity. Three sizes, 10c, 25c., and 50c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store, HAYNES & TAYLOR, Marion, Ky.

Gastritis Nearly Ended Life of Wm. V. Mathews. Read His Letter.

"I was bothered for years with stomach trouble and gastritis. Food laid like lead in my stomach and fermented, forming gas. This caused a pressure on my heart, so that I choked and gasped for breath, and thought my time had come. MI-O-NA cured me after I had doctored without success."—Wm. V. Mathews, Bloomington, Ind.

If you suffer from indigestion, headaches, dizziness, biliousness, constipation, inactive liver, nervousness, sleeplessness, bad dreams, foul breath, heartburn, shortness of breath, sour stomach or dependency, be sure and get MI-O-NA stomach tablets. They are guaranteed. Large box 50 cents at Haynes & Taylor's, and druggists everywhere. J411

Keep the Separator Clean.

The separator is often the cause of poor butter in the winter. The bowl of the separator collects most of the filth that finds its way into the milk, and when it is left without washing for several days it becomes very foul. None of us would think of drinking water that had passed over such a layer of filth; neither should we be willing to eat the butter that had been so contaminated. The separator should be washed and scalded at least once daily throughout the winter. The milk in it may not sour, but it gets dirty, because in the winter more dirt and manure particles get into the milk from the cow, and this foreign matter is mostly left in the separator.

THE VALUABLE SILO.

In considering cheap feeding and feeding for the best results the silo must not be overlooked. The silo is growing in popularity year after year. It furnishes cheap feed and good feed. It is an easy solution to the feed question. One acre of cornstalks in the silo is worth five acres outside. One hundred tons of silage in the silo can be housed in this form much cheaper indeed than can a hundred tons of hay in the mow.

Silage alone is not a complete feed, but it is identical with the green cornstalk and during the season of dry feed supplies the cow with that succulence which nearly all other rations, excepting a ration involving alfalfa hay, do not have. Silage and alfalfa hay will make a balanced ration and cheap. Study the silo question. It is worth while. It is worth while whether you are milking a single cow or not. Horses, hogs, pigs and calves eat silage and thrive on it as well as does the dairy cow.

Four Temperamental Types and Four Types of Disposition.

DISPOSITION.	TEMPERAMENT.
Aggressive, Instigative, Austere, Creative.	Sanguine, Melancholic, Choleric, Phlegmatic.

By IRVING E. VINING, Lecturer.

There are four basic temperamental types and four distinct types of disposition. Let us take the four basic types of disposition first:

Aggressive Disposition. People who do things for themselves, take the initiative, are of this type. They are not necessarily great, but they are at least energetic.

Second.—There is the Instigative Disposition. This is the person who instigates action in others. They are either too large or too fearful to be aggressive for themselves.

Third.—There is the Austere Type. These are the cold, dominating men, usually narrow and somewhat brutal, but with a certain Glowing Force that counts.

Fourth.—There is the Creative Type. People with this disposition are sufficient unto themselves. In a way they make their own laws.

There is more to this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years it was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and confined to local remedies, and consequently failed to cure it. It is a blood poisoning, and therefore requires a blood purifier. Lockyear's Family Pills are the only blood purifier that is a cure to a family. It is a cure for all the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They are one hundred percent for any case. It is a cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: E. J. CHERRY & CO., Toledo, O. Get the Family Pills for constipation.

The Berkshire Hog.

One of the Most Popular of the Large Type of Swine.

Berkshire hogs have good dispositions, are good looking animals and are first class feeders, says a South Dakota swine raiser in the Orange Judd Farmer. The sows are good mothers, good milkers and raise large, even litters of pigs. They are better hustlers than some other breeds and can be fattened almost at any age. There is always a demand for them on the eastern market, and they seem to me to be one of the best bacon hogs. I also prefer the Berkshire breed because they seem to be more healthy.

Another hog grower has the following to say of the management of the sow at farrowing time:

The first day after farrowing give the sow nothing but a little water. For several days feed her sparingly, and the little pigs will clean out her udder and prevent its caking. We do not feed corn or cornmeal to sows suckling litters. It has a tendency to dry up the milk and give the pigs the scours. The best of all food is separator milk. After the pigs are two weeks old feed the sow milk and wheat middlings or ground oats or ground barley, making a thin slop. All she will eat up clean twice a day. Let them suckle the sow until two months or ten weeks old, for the best part of their nourishment comes through her. When the pigs are three or four weeks old fix a place out of reach of the sow where they can have access to a low, flat trough and feed milk. As soon as they eat it eagerly add the following ration: Five pounds of alfalfa, ten pounds of wheat middlings, fifteen pounds of corn meal. Add milk and give them all they will eat up clean within twenty minutes. We feed the pigs three times a day while they are suckling and five times a day after they are weaned. After a month drop to three times daily. For fattening hogs increase the corn after they weigh 125 pounds, but for breeding purposes omit the corn. If you haven't milk milk the food for the small pigs with hot water and feed it warm and sweet.

The Berkshire breed is one of the old and well established large type of hogs. In form they are long, broad, deep and low. They are shorter on their legs and have a shorter head and neck and a better developed hump than the bacon type. In color the breed is black, with white points in the face, on the tip of the tail and on the feet. Sometimes a splash of white is seen on the fore leg. The nose is short, the face dished, and the ears stand erect, without a droop at the tip. The illustration shows a Berkshire sow in fair show condition.

Petit Suisse or Cream Cheese. Petit Suisse cheese is essentially the same as Neufchatel, but differs slightly in shape. According to bulletin 105 of the United States department of agriculture it is made as follows:

The milk, preferably fresh, is set at 55 degrees F. with only so much rennet as is necessary to secure the desired coagulation in twenty-four hours in summer and from thirty-six to forty-eight hours in winter. The curd is then inclosed in cheesecloth and drained for twelve hours, after which it is subjected to pressure for another period of twelve hours. It is then thoroughly kneaded by hand or in the larger factories by means of a curd mill and pressed into tin cylinders about two inches in diameter and three inches high. The cheeses are removed from the molds, salted and replaced. After draining for twenty-four hours they are transferred to the so called drying room, where they become covered with white and later with blue molds. They are then taken to the curing cellar, where the ripening process is continued for three to four weeks. The appearance of red spots on the surface is taken as an indication that the ripening has progressed far enough. The cheeses are then wrapped in tin foil and marketed.

FEEDING THE FARM HORSE.

The horse should receive some water the first thing in the morning. After watering the horse is fed a small amount of hay and then given grain after all the hay has been eaten. By this plan the feed which is the most difficult to digest is left in the stomach and therefore receives proper digestion. The noon feed should be given after the horse is cooled and has been allowed to rest for fifteen minutes or half an hour. A small quantity of water may be given soon after the horse is brought to the barn. Feed hay and when the animal is thoroughly cooled give all the water he desires, after which feed the grain. At night feed the same as at noon, only give more hay. In fact, feed as much hay at night as is given at both morning and noon meals. When a horse is working hard and is fed large quantities of grain it is found advisable once a week to give a bran mash for the evening meal. The bran acts as a laxative and prevents indigestion and possibly a case of colic.

Snow Bound Towns

Call For Help.

Topeka, Kan., Jan., 4.—Snow-bound and cut off from railway communication for more than a week the people of the town of Dighton, in western Kansas, today appealed by telegram to State Utilities Commission for aid.

Healy and Jetmore have also been without railway service for a week. The citizens report they are short of provisions and coal and that unless aid comes soon there will be great suffering. The towns are on a branch line of the Santa Fe.

Death Chair for Bolin.

Jackson, Ky., Jan. 10.—Ewen Bolin was sentenced to death in the Breathitt Circuit Court yesterday afternoon for the murder of Sam Crawford, a negro. Bolin is the first white man that has ever been sentenced to the electric chair by a jury in this county for killing a negro, and is the third offender in the county's history to receive a death sentence.

Although Bolin is not yet thirty years old, this is the second murder charge he has had to face, besides being charged with numerous offenses of not so grave a nature. The jury deliberated on the case just one hour.

Medicines that aid nature are always most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It allays the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Thousands have testified to its superior excellence. Sold by all dealers.

ALL DRUGGISTS

Relief from Rheumatism

Try Sloan's Liniment for your rheumatism—don't rub—just lay it on lightly. It goes straight to the sore spot, quickens the blood, limbers up the muscles and joints and stops the pain.

Here's Proof

Mrs. JULIA THOMAS of Jackson, Cal., writes: "I have used your Liniment for rheumatism with much success."

MARTIN J. TENIS, 169 16th Ave., Paterson, N. J., writes:—"I was a cripple with rheumatism for two years and I could not move at all; had to be carried from place to place. I tried remedies and could not get better, until I tried Sloan's Liniment. One bottle fixed me up in good shape and now I always have a bottle in the house for my wife and children."

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

kills any kind of pain. Good for Neuralgia, Toothache, Lumbago and Chest Pains. Sold by all dealers. Price 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

Doings in the "Busy Bee Block."

In McConnell & Wiggins you will find as good a pair to draw to as could be found were you to scratch the country over. Hustlers, genial, accomodating barbers—not blacksmiths—they are heading toward the King row at a rapid pace. An up-to-date barber shop and excellent workmanship is their "long suit." They have recently had the entire shop renovated—repainted, repapered and enlarged the bath room and added a new tub. A new sterilizer has been added to the equipment of the shop, and now the towels for the face are heated and sterilized by steam, which is a far more sanitary method than the old-fashion way of wringing out towels in hot water. A new high pressure water tank supplies water for the bath room and lavatory. They will appreciate a share of your patronage.—Marion News.

Gas Heater Caused Death.

Washington, Jan. 10.—The death here of a young Kentucky girl, Miss Margaret Shawhan, of 1310 Massachusetts avenue, from carbon monoxide poison, generated by a leaky gas-water heater, has aroused Congress, the President and the district authorities. Some time ago an entire family was poisoned by the gas.

Representatives Austin, of Tennessee; Campbell, of Kansas, and Garner, of Texas, lodged with the President a complaint against the failure of the District Commissioners to inspect such apparatus as that which cost Miss Shawhan her life. Miss Shawhan was seventeen years old, and a native of Lexington, where her father, Joseph Shawhan, several years ago, practiced law and was connected with the State University. Mr. Shawhan is now secretary to the Assistant Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Miss Shawhan, who was a student at a Baltimore college, was spending the holidays at home. Tuesday afternoon she prepared for a bath, turning on the gas heater in the bathroom. Her family went out into the neighborhood to dinner, and becoming alarmed because Miss Shawhan did not appear, returned home to search for her. They found her dead in the water, and the Coroner's verdict was carbon monoxide poisoning. She will be buried in Rock Creek cemetery here.

Contagious Abortion.

I have handled dairy cows for the last fifteen years and I am glad to say that I have never had any case of contagious abortion, writes a correspondent of the Country Gentleman. I have always made it a practice at least twice a week all through the winter to mix up a gallon or so of warm water and some carbolic dip solution, get a dandy brush and dip in mixture and give every cow and heifer in the barn a good soaking all around the tail head and let it run down the tail. Do this in the middle of the day and there will be no danger of the disinfectant's flavoring the milk. I know of three neighboring farms where this was done summer and winter, and for five years not a single case of abortion occurred among a total of 125 dairy cows.

What Can We Say

More than if you are not satisfied after using Sutherland's Eagle Eye. Save we will refund your money. 25c at all dealers.

Sheep Easy to manage. Sheep require no more attention than cattle and less than swine. The occasional farmer who keeps a few sheep would not think of getting along without them.

ASHAMED OF HER FACE

"I was ashamed of my face," writes Miss Pickard of North Carolina. "It was all full of pimples and scars, but after using D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema I can say that now there is no sign of that Eczema and that was three years ago."

This is but one of thousands of cases in which D. D. D. has simply washed away the skin trouble. D. D. D. cleanses the skin of the germs of Eczema, Psoriasis and other serious skin diseases; stops the itch instantly, and when used with D. D. D. soap the cures seem to be permanent. Nothing like D. D. D. for the complexion.

Trial bottle 25 cents, enough to prove the merit of this wonderful remedy.

We can also give you a full size bottle for $1.00 on our absolute guarantee that if this very first bottle fails to give you relief it will cost you nothing.

Taxes Long Evaded.

Washington, Jan. 10.—The Chesapeake and Ohio canal, a barge route 200 miles in length extending from Washington to Cumberland, Md., that cost millions of dollars, has not paid a penny of taxes in eighty-eight years. This interesting discovery has been made by Representative Ben Johnson, who since he became chairman of the District Committee has uncovered many things not altogether creditable to the Government of Washington.

Mr. Johnson will probably take this matter up on the floor of the House, so the people of the country can learn how taxation is evaded in the capital of the nation which they largely support.

The Chesapeake and Ohio canal is incorporated in the District. It is now owned by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and does a great toll business. The corporation has paid no taxes since the year 1824.

IS INDICTED FOR ALLEGED MURDERS

Phillip Burris Said to Have Caused The Death of Two By Poisoning.

Henderson, Ky., Jan. 8.—Phillip E. Burris was indicted this morning in the Circuit Court on the charge of administering poison in beer to the family of Thomas T. Royster at Robards, this county, which caused the deaths of Henry Royster and of "Ret" Davis, colored. Two bills charging willful murder were brought in. The crime is alleged to have been perpetrated December 22, 1911.

Somebody's Boy Lost.

Will some one tell me where I am going, I meet people going North, South, East and West. Some of them look like men but don't act like men. If they see you they don't let on. Some look like women but they don't speak to me, I don't know what part of them is most affected, they don't speak. I am afraid to ask them where they hurt, they don't speak. They all know me but they don't speak, some of them wore side saddles, but they are on the top end, but they don't speak, how do I know where I am at. They run in groups and fill a side walk, I meet them but they don't speak. I would love to ask them if their Maw was still a living, but they don't speak. If she is I think she would tell where I am at, my Maw used to speak, did you know my Maw, I did. She told me when I met folks to speak, my Maw rode a side saddle and she would speak, and she wore a whole dress at a time and more clothes too, and she would speak to you when she met you. She named me first because I was the oldest and would speak when I began to wear calluses or suspenders as they now call them, my Maw would make them and when they stretched and got too long I tied knots in them and they got shorter, but I would always speak. You folks that say I believe in Jesus Christ and the Holy Catholic Church and once in Grace always always in Grace will let that boy get through Marion and out of town and you won't speak.—More anon.

Notice To All Farmers Union Tobacco Poolers.

A Famous Gourd.

Mrs. L. C. Travis has in her possession a gourd that she knows to be one hundred years old. Her grandfather, Daniel Belmeur was in the war of 1812. He was just 21 years of age at that time. He was wounded three days before the battle of New Orleans, not serious, just shot in the arm.

He was able to go close enough to see the battle.

He had this gourd in his possession at that time as a powder gourd. His daughter, Mrs. Harriet Belmeur Burklow, the mother of the writer of this sketch always in lifetime regarded the eight of Jan., as a holiday. His grand-daughter shows how she reverences the gourd as she has refused several offers of $25. from those that wanted to buy up all old relics.—Written by his youngest grand daughter, Mrs. L. C. Travis.

Windows Broken by California Earthquake.

Reno, Nev., Jan. 4.—An earthquake shock was felt at Alford, Cal., at 7:50 p. m., at Laws and at Bishop. The duration was five seconds at Laws and at Bishop the shock was the worst felt in its history. Electric clocks were stopped and windows were broken.

Fresno, Cal., Jan. 4.—A sharp earthquake was felt here at 7:54 o'clock tonight. There were 3 successive shocks, from north to south, two strong, then a weak one a few moments later. No damage was reported.

Fired First Shot at Battle of Gettysburg.

St. Louis, Jan. 4.—Col John H. Calef, United States army, retired, who fired the first shot at the battle of Gettysburg, died in St. Louis today of pneumonia. He was seventy-one years old and is survived by his wife. For many years he had been instructor in military colleges and for twelve years was stationed at Fortress Monroe.

At the battle of Gettysburg he was in command of the Second United States Artillery, and the gun from which he fired the first shot is standing on the battlefield.

He will be buried at West Point. His summer home was in Gloucester, Mass.

THREE MAY HAVE PERISHED IN RIVER

Set Out to Take Man Who Had Shot Himself To Paducah Hospital

Paducah, Ky., Jan. 5.—In trying to save the life of James Coleman, who tried to kill himself at Bayou, Ky., today, it is believed Dr. A. H. Purser and J. H. Hodge, with Coleman, have perished in the Ohio river. With Coleman, dangerously wounded, the three started in a motorboat from Smithland, 12 miles up the river at six o'clock last evening and at one o'clock this morning nothing had been heard of the party. Ice is running in the river and a strong wind is blowing up stream. Rivermen say the flood stage of the river has covered any place they might have landed.

Coleman, who is a wealthy ore-land owner and mine operator, shot himself near the heart today when he learned his wife was dying of tuberculosis at Ashville, N. C. At Paducah is the nearest hospital, and it was in the hope of saving Coleman's life by an operation that he was hurried here.

Prestridge—Nunn.

At the residence of the bride's parents, Olla, Louisiana, Dec., 27, 1911, by Rev. H. Armstrong, Mr. L. C. Nunn, cashier of the Olla State Bank, and Miss Mary Prestridge.

The groom has established himself in the confidence of the entire community by his success as a financier, and the bride is an Olla girl and loved by all. May their pathway be cloudless and strewn with roses. Lasalle Ledger, Jena, La., Jan., 3, 1911.

The groom is a brother of Mrs. Claude Lamb of this city and is a son of Hon. E. L. Nunn of Rodney, this county, where he was born and reared. He is one of the many boys whom old Crittenden has sent out into the business world, of whom we are proud. The Crittenden Record Press extends congratulations to him and his bonny southern bride.

He Charged Orders.

General Jackson, in his "Incidents of General T. J. Jackson" says that when the war between the states broke out Jackson was the professor of mathematics at the Military College of the South. He wished strongly to take command of a cadet corps, but the heads of the institution were desirous to have him continue his teaching. Governor Wise called out the state troops and ordered that a corps of cadets be held ready for immediate service. Jackson, then major, reported at once at the guardroom as ready for duty. General Smith said:

"Major Jackson, you will remain as you are until further orders." Jackson at that moment was sitting on a camp stool in the guardroom with his saber across his knees. At reveille the next morning he was found in the same position.

"Why, major, why are you here?" exclaimed General Smith.

"Because last night you ordered me to remain where I was," was the reply.

Royal Jewels in Pawn.

The ex-Sultan Abdul Aziz pawned all his crown jewels for a million francs at the Mont de Piete at Paris, and they were only just redeemed by the Moorish government in time to prevent their being sold among other unredeemed goods.

The sword of state, which is regarded in Serbia as a sacred relic, was also pawned by a former king, while one well known European monarch found himself in such straitened circumstances that the famous house of Attenborough once temporarily had possession of all his old silver.

Queen Isabella was, however, the most famous royalty who made no secret of the fact that she raised money upon the security of the portraits of her ancestors, which hung on the walls at the palace of Castile, her Parisian home. The royal lady often declared how deeply she was indebted to her royal forbears for coming to her rescue and helping her out of her financial predicaments.—London M. A. P.

The Road to Success.

Just tack this up somewhere where you can see it:

Success consists in getting out of yourself everything that's in you. It does not consist in doing almost quite as much or a little more than the other fellow. What the other fellow does doesn't amount to a dent in a door-knob so far as you are concerned. The fact that he succeeds by laying an Atlantic cable, building an Eiffel tower, inventing wireless telegraphy or cornering the world's supply of oil doesn't make you a failure because you haven't got enough ready money to buy an automobile. You're successful when you put to some useful purpose every ounce of energy, every grain of gray matter, every mite of muscle that you've got. You're successful when you've developed all there is to you and have given that to the world.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.
