MISS LORENA CRUCE HOSTESS

Governor's Daughter Entertains at The Executive Mansion in Oklahoma City, Okla.

HOUSE PARTY OF COUSINS ONLY

The society correspondent of Oklahoma City to St. Louis Globe Democrat of July 20th says:

Miss Lorena Cruce, daughter of Gov. Lee Cruce, has been entertaining this week a house party of unusual character, all of her guests being cousins, and all of Indian blood, being descendants of the Carter and Le Flore families, which have been prominent in the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations. The party includes Miss Daisy Maude Webb of Arkansas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Webb; Misses Sallie and Italy Carter, daughters of Congressman Charles D. Carter; Miss Vinnie Hardy, daughter of Dr. Walter Hardy of Arkansas; Miss Annie Thurman of Missouri; Miss Eliza Cruce of Arkansas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Cruce, and Miss Edna Cruce of this city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Cruce. All are especially talented young women and have just enough Indian blood to add materially to their beauty.

The correspondent is mistaken about all these young ladies having inherited their beauty and talent from their Indian ancestors. The Misses Cruce are of good old pioneer Crittenden County Kentucky Cruce-Clement descent.

County Corn—No Wonder.

The steamer Nellie with two barges of corn containing 5,000 bushels, landed at the local wharf Monday afternoon to take on supplies. She left at 5 o'clock for Henderson, where her cargo will be unloaded to the Henderson Elevator Co. The corn came from Cave-in-Rock and Capt. Frank Canady of the steamer stated that he had 25,000 more bushels from the Illinois town to be delivered to the Henderson firm. The Nellie is one of the plying (if not the best) propositions in the steamboat line on the Ohio river. The boat can be run at the normal price of $5 per day and the captain has refused several nice, flattering offers for the Nellie.—Mt. Vernon Dem.

R. E. FOSTER IS IMPROVING.

The many friends of R. E. Foster who have been touring the south west for the benefit of his health accompanied by his wife, are gratified at his improvement. He left his home at Smithland less than a month ago in a critical condition. It was feared, but has improved very much and is bearing up nobly under the great bereavement that has come to him in the loss of his little daughter. His family and friends now believe he will soon be his olden self again, well and strong.

EVERYBODY INVITED TO MEET R. R. OFFICIALS.

As They Do It At Mayfield.

Mayfield, Ky., July 19.—At a special meeting of the city council held for the purpose of arriving at a new agreement or contract with the Mayfield Water and Light Company the company announced that it would reduce the street lights from $8 to $7 a month for the year 1912.

City Attorney, A. L. Gilbert, stated that the city had a right to compel the Water and Light Company to make a contract for the year 1912, but there was a difference of opinion from the Water and Light company. At the meeting of the council next Monday night the council will either accept or reject the proposition made by John W. Landrum in behalf of the Water and Light Company.

The remains of R. E. Foster's little nine-year-old daughter, Virginia Ray, who died of cerebro spinal meningitis Thursday at her home in Smithland after an illness of only two days, arrived here Monday morning at seven o'clock. Foster, her aunt, Mrs. R. F. Dorr, and her little brother arrived soon afterward by carriage from Smithland, and her parents who were in Houston, Texas, when called home by wire arrived here on the 8 o'clock train. The funeral service was held at 1:30 p. m. at the home of her uncle, George H. Foster, and was conducted by Rev. Arthur Mather assisted by Martin E. Miller. The interment took place immediately afterward at the new cemetery. Each service being attended by a large number of friends of the bereaved parents, many coming from Livingston county where R. E. Foster holds the office of Sheriff and is held in high esteem. Many and beautiful were the floral offerings, completely hiding the mound, over the grave of the dear little form.

WM. PADON OF HAMPTON

Aged and Beloved Citizen Dies While Visiting Son.

Last Thursday, July 18th, while on a visit to his son Chas. R. Padon, of Dycusburg, Wm. Padon, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of Livingston county was called to his reward. He was taken suddenly and seriously ill and the extreme heat and his great age combined caused his death after an illness of two days.

Mr. Padon was born in 1825, and was therefore in his 87th year and had been an honored citizen and typical gentleman during all these years. He was a member of the Baptist Church and had resided for several years at Hampton. His remains were taken to Good Hope cemetery where the interment took place Friday. He is survived by his wife who was Miss Addie Threlkeld before her marriage, one daughter, Mrs. Allen Lowery of Blackwell, Okla., with whom he and his good wife spent the past winter, and three sons, Charles R., of Dycusburg, at whose house he was visiting when stricken, Frank and Hal of Livingston county and one sister, the venerable Mrs. E. F. Crawford of Wickliffe, widow of the late Dr. J. W. Crawford.

When Mr. and Mrs. Padon returned from Oklahoma last spring he telephoned the Editor of the Press to change his paper back to Hampton and added, "I can't see to read any more but wife reads to me and we both still enjoy the good old Press which we have been taking since the first number was printed over a third of a century ago."

Rev. Price Busy.

Rev. James F. Price has been holding a series of Country Church Institutes. He visited Trinity and Franklin churches in Kentucky and Portland, Liberty, Oak Grove and Mt. Moriah in Tennessee, holding an all-day service in each church. The last four churches mentioned constitute the group to which Rev. B. F. McMeican is preaching. Bro. McMeican has a splendid people for his parishioners and he is highly appreciated among them. Mr. Price will go to Lebanon, Tenn., this week to attend the Bible Conference now in session.

FORMER SHADY GROVE MERCHANT

Dr. Joseph H. Clark of Princeton, Ind., Goes to His Reward After Long Illness.

LEFT HERE FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

The remains of Dr. J. H. Clark of Princeton, Ind., arrived here Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock and were taken at once to Dorr's undertaking shop and thence to the new cemetery where the burial took place.

Dr. Clark for many years was a leading practitioner in this county, first at Shady Grove and afterwards at Marion. Here he built a nice home and a fine store room in which he engaged in the drug business with his brother, the late Dr. J. Riley Clark.

About 15 years ago he moved to Princeton, Ind., one of the thriving county seats of that state, where he soon acquired a fine practice and splendid drug business which was attended to by his son, Lonnie W. Clark.

Dr. Clark was twice married, his wives being sisters. His first wife who was the mother of his children was Miss Eliza Johnson and his last wife who reared them and looked after their well being while growing up was Miss Mollie Johnston. Both were from Springfield, Tenn., and both preceded him to the grave. Dr. Clark was born Jan 1st, 1843 near Shady Grove, in this county and died July 21st, 1912, being in his 70th year. Six years ago he was partially paralyzed since which time he had retired from active practice and business. July 8th he was taken seriously ill again which illness terminated in his death. His surviving children are Lonnie W. and Miss Rowena who were with him at the time of his death, and Mrs. Lee Sturgis of Holtville, California.

Religiously, Dr. Clark was a Universalist and was a member for many years of a church 5 miles east of Marion.

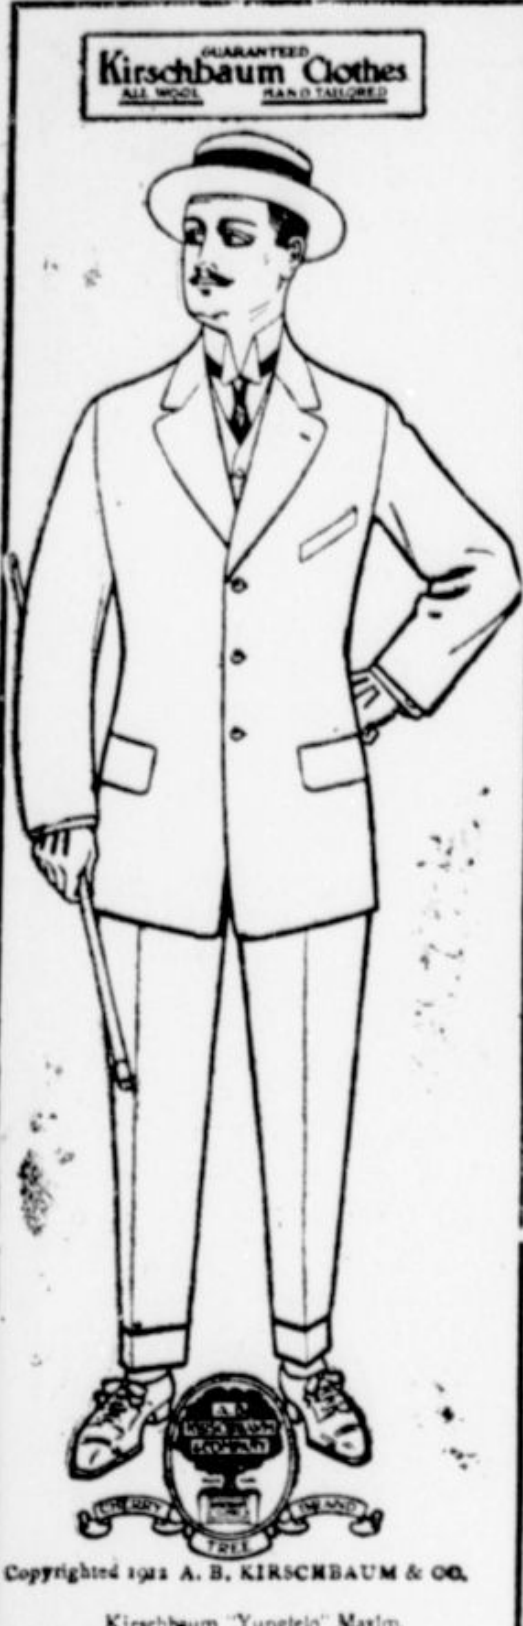

He aims to be at home to-day to attend the County Sunday School convention at Hillsdale. The last of this week he goes to Dixon, Ky., to assist in the dedication of the new Presbyterian church at that place.

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M. Soyer, Famous London Chef.

ELIMINATES MANY KITCHEN TROUBLES.

By Martha McElroy Williams.
William Shakespeare, it may be, had not cooking in mind, when he set his wit to chanting:

"Double double toil and trouble, Fire burn and caldron bubble."

Nevertheless, the fact remains that the burning fire, the bubbling caldron are sources of double trouble to womenkind. Therefore, they should rise up and call blessed M. Soyer's system of paper bag cooking, which has come newly to their help. It saves the babbings of the caldron, and thereby the troubles of the cook. This in many, many ways. Perhaps the most instantly apparent one is—the fact that there is no caldron to be washed or scoured when the flesh is wanted.

So, also, are the roasting pans and shaps for frying, likewise the broiler. Paper bags can do the work better—and be thrown away when they have served their turn.

But do not make the mistake of taking it for an accomplished cook. It is a help toward helping yourself, nothing more.

Beef or Veal Loaf.—To each pound of raw minced lean meat, add an ounce of finely minced suet, half a small minced onion, a dust of pepper, a pinch of salt mixed through a scant spoonful of flour, and a light sprinkling of powdered herbs. Mix the sponging well through the meat, shape it into a flat, round cake, rub butter plentifully on the outside, put into a greased paper bag, seal and bake in a hot oven, allowing fifteen minutes to the pound. A few slices of tomato put in the bag helps to make tasty gravy. A spoonful of tomato catsup may be used instead.

Baked Onions.—Parted for fifteen minutes Spanish or Bermuda onions, chill them in cold water, then cut a V out of the hearts. Fill the space with butter, after dusting it well with salt and pepper, put the onions in a bag with a lump of butter and a very little water, seal and cook twenty minutes in a hot oven, or thirty minutes in a very moderate one.

PAPER BAG COOKED BREAKFAST DISHES.

By Nicholas Soyer, Chef of Brooks' Club, London.

Eggs and Tomatoes.—Butter a bag thickly, put into it half a pint of tomato catsup and butter the size of a walnut. Cook in hot oven ten minutes. Cut a square from the center of the bag, break into it, one at a time, four eggs. Cook for three or four minutes. Dish up. Cut away all the top of the bag and serve.

Kipperd Mackerel with Fine Herbs.—Cut salt mackerel into fillets, lay them in a deep earthen dish, and cover with boiling water. Leave in water half a minute. Take out, wipe dry, dust with coarse black pepper, and put on top of each fillet half a teaspoonful of minced parsley, and chives of onion, and a bit of butter the size of a small walnut. Grease a bag well, put in the fillets, seal, and cook for twenty minutes in a hot oven. Serve hot, with brown bread and butter.

Marchal of Lobster and Eggs.—Take the white and claw meat of a lobster, chop it small and set aside. Rub the brown meat smooth in a basin with a bit of butter and a good dust of white pepper. Add gradually half a bottle of tomato catsup. Work all well together. Put into a bag four slices of bacon. Do not seal the bag. Cook the bacon four minutes, then take out, and put in the lobster and tomato mixture, seal and cook for eight minutes. Cut open the bag on top, put in the white meat, and make hot for four or five minutes. Lower the gas very much for this last cooking—the white meat must only get very hot, as cooking toughens it. Serve in a very hot dish, garnished with the slices of bacon.

Eggs a la Tripe.—Rub together an ounce of butter and an ounce of flour, cook smooth in half a pint of milk which has been flavored lightly with mace. Add to it two large thinly-sliced onions, cooked in a bag with a little butter, and six hard-boiled eggs cut in halves lengthwise. Pour gently into a well-greased double bag, and make very hot in the oven for ten minutes. Serve as quickly as possible, on a very hot dish.

Eggs on Strassburg Croissants.—Cut the crust from four even-sized squares of stale bread, butter them thinly, dust lightly with pepper, and spread with a layer of foie gras. Cook for five minutes inside a well-greased bag, then cut open the bag and break an egg on each square of bread. Dust the eggs on top with pepper and a very little salt and cook for another four minutes. Serve immediately on a very hot dish.

Eggs a la Bechamel.—Cut four hard-boiled eggs in halves lengthwise, put them into a thickly greased bag with a gill of cream, salt and pepper to taste, and a tiny dust of powdered mace. Cook five minutes in a moderate oven, and serve hot on squares of lightly buttered toast.

Wife Has Relatives in Marion.
Is Niece of Judge J. Bell Kevil.

The town of Princeton has now as its guest a very distinguished gentleman and prominent national politician in the person of Hon. John E. Osborne, Ex-Governor of Wyoming.

We are proud to know and have Gov. Osborne in our midst, especially since he is just from the Baltimore Democratic National Convention in which Gov. Woodrow Wilson and Gov. Thomas R. Marshall were nominated for President and Vice President. He is greatly elated over the prospects of a great and triumphant Democratic National victory, this fall. He proclaims the Baltimore convention the greatest ever held in this country.

Gov. Osborne is a member of the Democratic National committee from Wyoming, also a member of the Presidential Notification Committee and ranks among the leading and most noted politicians of the United States having served as Governor of Wyoming, also the Democratic nominee of his State for United States Senator, only losing through a narrow Republican Legislative majority. He is now serving his sixteenth year as National Committeeman from Wyoming and was connected with National Democratic Campaign headquarters at Chicago in the 1908 Presidential campaign.

NEW BETHEL CHURCH.

The Centennial at New Bethel in Lyon County, Pleasant and Interesting.

On April 4, 1812, New Bethel church was organized with 23 members.

July 10, 1912, the centennial of that church was celebrated.

Capt. W. J. Stone, a prominent member of the church, whose grandparents were in the organization, presided.

He read the original minutes of this organization with name of charter members. He spoke of the early struggles of the church and how the influence of New Bethel had extended far from home. He then read a history of the church prepared by F. M. McElroy.

In the early years of the church Capt. Stone's parents had given the church two pewter communion cups. These cups Mrs. Stone had overlaid with silver and together with a silver tankard and plates gave to her husband who on this occasion presented them to the church.

W. M. White, the senior deacon, now in his 91st year, led in prayer.

Three of the former pastors were present. Rev. Milton Cockrell, of Missouri, who was pastor here forty years ago, was present and made touching remarks. Rev. Frank Wilson and M. E. Miller also told of their pastorates and F. M. McElroy a deacon for over fifty years led in prayer.

The present pastor, J. N. Henson, made the closing remarks after which was the parting hymn and hand-shake.

This is the church of which R. W. Moorehead was pastor for twenty-six years and a tender tribute was paid to his life and work.—Princeton Leader.

LaFollette Strikes

Madison, Wis., July 23. Senator LaFollette went on record today as opposed to the third party movement headed by Col. Roosevelt. In an editorial in LaFollette's weekly he scathingly attacked Roosevelt's motives in organizing the new party. LaFollette declared that Roosevelt is progressive in words and that no party was ever successfully organized about a man. "Principles and issues must constitute the basis of any great movement," LaFollette said.

Stunts on Race Track.

New York, July 24.—An automobile accident, which in some respects was the most remarkable ever witnessed on a New York track, occurred at the Coney Island motordrome shortly after midnight this morning. Two machines were racing at fifty miles an hour around the saucer track, which has a slant of nearly 65 degrees, when suddenly a forward axle broke on the car driven by George Cook.

Automobile and driver turned a complete somersault from the top rim of the track, and at the same time the other car, driven by Jack Randall, shot beneath the somersaulting machine and continued on around the track in safety. Cook was found unconscious beneath the wreckage of his car, but was not fatally injured.

PRINCIPLES OF WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY

No Telephone Switchboard is Necessary to Talk Through Space Twelve Miles.

With the name of Marconi will certainly be coupled, in the near future, that of H. Grindell-Matthews, who has invented an apparatus which he calls an aeroplane.

The aeroplane will enable every man and woman to be their own telephone exchange, and to talk over distances without the aid of wires. And, although it is not yet possible to achieve such results as those now accomplished by Wireless telegraphy, an idea of the value and uses of Mr. Grindell-Matthews' remarkable invention may be gathered from the fact that recently the Western Mail printed the first message ever transmitted by wireless telephony; the message having been sent from Newport to Cardiff, a distance of about ten miles.

Mr. H. Grindell-Matthews is a young electrical engineer, who, amongst other things, has invented a marvelous torpedo. He has been working on his invention for about 12 years. The aeroplane is based on the fact that the voice travels in rippling waves, and what Mr. Grindell-Matthews has done is to invent a transmitter and receiver which controls the direction of these waves. How it is done, of course, is the inventor's secret, but Mr. Grindell-Matthews says that his invention is the outcome of a long study of air currents.

The writer some time ago, with a few friends, witnessed a demonstration of the possibilities of Mr. Grindell-Matthews' invention at a London Hotel. In an upper chamber was a smallish mahogany box of electrical mystery attached to a huge disk of drum-head formation, a similar instrument reposing on a brass-topped table in the basement. The scientists and journalists present divided into two parties—one remaining upstairs and the other going below—and those in the basement distinctly heard the voices of those who talked into the transmitter on the top floor, although the sound had to come through several walls and floors.

It was a striking demonstration, and Mr. Grindell-Matthews mentioned that, the day before, words had been transmitted through walls and space for a distance of seven miles.

Since then the inventor has made many improvements upon his invention, and he is now able to talk quite easily over a distance of 12 miles. Furthermore, one of the greatest advantages of his invention is the extreme compactness of the apparatus, which now consists solely of a small box containing battery, motor and transmitter, which can easily be carried about. Thus every man can carry, if he wishes, his own telephone with him. Apart from the convenience of such an arrangement in everyday life, which enables one to talk to the next-door neighbor, through walls and ceilings and doors, without the aid of wires; call up the police or fire station; give orders to your grocer, butcher or baker; fetch the doctor, the clergyman or piano tuner; tell a man whom you don't like, what you think of him, and your best girl what a treasure she is, there are other great advantages of this wireless telephone invention.

For instance, its value would be incalculable in time of war. With no wire there would be fear of communication being cut off. It would be possible for two commanders to communicate with one another, no matter where the might be, and it would be absolutely impossible for the enemy to tap this communication.

As Mr. Matthews truly remarks:

"A direct and immediate means of communication between those in command would almost revolutionize warfare. All the time during a fierce engagement the generals would be able to tell each other exactly what was happening in their special sections, while those besieged in cities could communicate with the outside world."

"Then, again, it would prove of the greatest value in connection with mining. No rock is too solid, no wall too thick, for the vibrations of the voice to pass through and be caught up by the receiving instrument. In a mining disaster, those entombed, by the aid of the instrument, could talk with outer world and inform the rescuers where they could locate them."

Another advantage of the new invention over the old telephone system of communication is its cheapness. The instruments are not expensive, while there is no outlay on wires and the cost of upkeep.

During the summer months mothers of young children should watch for any unnatural looseness of the bowels. When given prompt attention at this time serious trouble may be avoided. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy can always be depended upon. For sale by J. H. Orme.

Youth.

Oh, eagerness and freshness of youth! How the boy enjoys his food, his sleep, his sports, his companions, his truant days! His life is an adventure, he is widening his outlook, he is extending his dominion, he is conquering his kingdom. How cheap are his pleasures, how ready his enthusiasm! In boyhood I have had more delight on a haymow with two companions and a big dog—delight that came nearer intoxication—than I have ever had in all the subsequent holidays of my life. When youth goes much goes with it. When manhood comes, much comes with it. We exchange a world of delightful sensations and impressions for a world of duties and studies and meditations. The youth enjoys what the man tries to understand. Lucky is he who can get his grapes to market with the bloom upon them, who can carry some of the freshness and eagerness and simplicity of youth into his later years, who can have a boy's heart under a man's head.

Dehorned Cows And Disarmament.
(Omaha Bee.)

Jenkins Loyd Jones resorts to the bucolic illustration of dehorned cows to prove the working wisdom and effectiveness of disarmament. He is a farmer by avocation, not vocation.

"We farmers," he says facetiously, "have learned the wisdom of dehorning our cows. The horn is a relic of the cow's barbaric days and utterly useless in her civilized state. Its removal has completely changed the political economy of the barnyard."

Perhaps, but Dr. Jones will admit that it would be unfair to the dehorned cows to place them in a barnyard with cows that were not dehorned. Despite the advanced stage of bovine civilization, disagreements will arise, and when they do, the cow without the horns gets the worst of the argument.

Against universal disarmament little may be said, but the very fact that it has been impossible to get the nations to agree on universal disarmament would make it hazardous for one power to abolish its weapons of defense so long as others hold on to theirs.

Growing Old.

We sing the song, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," or Silver Threads Among the Gold," with tears trickling down our cheeks as a memory of a reason like Maggie, our own mother stirs the heart. But how many of us really care for the old as we should? Do we pause in the great rush of the day to give a smile, a warm hand-clasp, or a merry goodmorrowing to some one, who in the "Winter of Life," when their companions like the flowers, and the seasons have passed, leaving them longing waiting, are eager for some tiny recognition. Perhaps the smile you give, and your little visit will stir the almost pulseless heart with warm and tender memories of the spring-time, when they too, stood upon the threshold of life and waited for all its happy realization. The very reason that so many persons dread approaching of old age is because on every hand they see its neglect. Yet a very short span of years, a tiny gulf—lies between that stage and ourselves, when we too shall sit and long for the monotonous days to be broken, by a kindly ministrations for some boy or girl, man or woman that has time to be nice to the aged.—Jessamine News.

ROADS THAT ARE PASSABLE.

The signed petitions for a vote on establishing in this county a system of better roads should be returned to the County Judge
John W. Blue, at once.

It is understood that the County Judge and his associates of the Fiscal court are in hearty accord with this movement or for that matter any movement that will make for passable thoroughfares in Crittenden Co.
Just now, these roads are at their best, what that best is, the daily breakages on all classes of vehicles from a push-cart to a touring car will testify.

Today in this city out of perhaps a dozen own automobiles but one was in condition to be used, a visit to the livery stables establishes the fact that of all classes of vehicles, buggies, sur-ries, etc., one trip necessitates repairs.

Bad roads can be put in the same category as typhoid fever, smallpox and the many other preventable diseases that effect us from time to time for bad roads is a disease of the body politic and an easily preventable one the prescription for its cure
being as follows:

Rx—A good ditch on both sides of the road. Broken stone rounded to the middle of the road say eighteen inches deep.

GOOD SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

"The successful administration of the school system of the State depends to a large extent upon the character of men elected as sub-district trustees," said Superintendent of Public Instruction, Barksdale Hamlett today. "Unless the citizens of the State take sufficient interest in the local management of their schools, all the good the office can accomplish is offset by their failure to co-operate."

Superintendent Hamlett is sending out letters to all the county superintendents in the state asking them to bring this matter to the attention of the voters and to urge the patrons of the schools in their counties to select good men for trustees.

The election is Aug. 3.

Mrs. Ollie James, wife of the herculean Senator-elect, from the Bluegrass State, Chairman of the Democratic National Convention, and her sister-in-law, Miss Ruby James, constantly in their electric runabout, are two of the handsomest women in Washington.

Mrs. James is unaffected and flower-like with rose-leaf complexion, ruffs of dusky tresses and dark eyes. Miss James is Junoesque in type like her distinguished brother, inheriting
the heroic statue of both parents.
She is law partner of her father in Marion, Ky.

At an affair at the White House this Summer, somebody was heard to observe: "Who is that splendid looking woman over there who looks exactly like the Goddess of Liberty?"

It was Miss Ruby James. She is expert at golf, tennis and bridge. —Washington Correspondence to Courier Journal.

A SAD DEATH.

Of all the sorrows that have come to Smithland recently, the death of little Virginia Ray Foster Thursday afternoon was perhaps the greatest, owing to attendant circumstances. The little one's father and mother, Sheriff R. E. Foster and wife are away in old Mexico for the benefit of Mr. Foster's health and have not been located at present time. Their child was smitten with spinal trouble Tuesday, and from the outset the case was considered hopeless and medical treatment of no avail. The little sufferer realized her condition and prayed continually that paper and mamma might arrive before she went away.

Virginia Ray was an exceptionally bright and sweet child, pretty and modest as a flower and was loved by every one who knew her. The whole community sympathizes with the stricken family. —Livingston Banner.

RED LETTER DAY

For Uncle George Moore
And Wife.

Last Thursday morning at an early hour for visitors Mrs.
P. C. Moore, aunt Puss she is called went over to the home of the above named to spend the day.
Aunt Nannie was very busy in the cabbage patch running down the cabbage worms, Aunt Puss did not intend to disturb by any means, seeing that her beds were not made up and other things were not adjusted, realizing the magnitude of the cabbage worm did not tell her to comb her head or use the talcum powders. Later it was discovered that buggies and wagons had landed at the front gate, Aunt Nannie threw up her hands almost horror stricken.
What in the world is the matter?
A later revelation came that George Tucker and wife, James Terry and wife, P. C. Moore and family, Edgar Moore and family Willie Moore and wife, Ida Jacobs and family, Rev. G. Y. Wilson, Edna Minner Mary Hurley
and last but not least eater R. M.
Franks and his companion Ida,
she is not a Brunett nor a Blond but she is a bay. They how ever arrived in due time with a fifty lb. block of ice, the boxes and baskets of good things were abundant honey and fruit from the south land, butcher shops had lost roast, chicken yards had been visited, such a variety of good things, I must stop here and catch my breath, but in the nick of time Mr. Tom Butler and Frank Jacobs stepped in and filled the circle that surrounded the loaded table. To say that we had lemonade and ice cream would be using modest terms. 26 persons were eating and talking.

If Uncle George had a telephone he had crowd would not have played off on him. The day was well spent we had an old time class meeting and Bro. Wilson read two scripture lessons prayed and they gave us a good talk, I am so glad I was there Uncle George is well on to 90 years old. He and wife and together as we gave them the parting hand. Shall we forget?

No never.

You may now guess the name.

Our preachers have but little time to preach the old fashion gospel for they must put in the preachers had better go slow in their fight against use of liquor or they might hurt the feelings of some old moss covered fellow who has his name on the church

lon of old apple jack a week for rheumatism.

Mr. John Beaver and his daugh-

The Flirtatious Married Woman.

(By Dorothy Dix)

A poor, bewildered, disgusted married man asks me this question: "Why do middle-aged married women flirt?"

The answer is: "Because they are fools."

Nobody with a grain of sense in her head would risk so much for so little as the married woman does when she engages in a flirtation. On the one side are the love and trust of her husband, the respect of the community, home, children, social position, an assured income. On the other, the pleasure of having her vanity tickled by the thought that she can still attract the attention of men. With the price of divorce, and the loss of everything worth having for a woman.

There is no other one-sided game in the world, and the marvel of it is that any human being, outside of the home for the feeble-minded, could be found reckless enough and silly enough to engage in it. Yet there are thousands of women who stake their happiness on this desperate venture.

It is incredible, but it is true, that there are women who have all the goods the gods provide; who have kind and generous husbands, luxurious homes, beautiful clothes, lovely children; who are not satisfied with all of these blessings—but are never happy unless they think they have secured the admiration of every man in sight.

Such women carry on clandestine acquaintances with men their husbands do not know; they write foolish, sentimental letters that compromise them; they run after celebrities, and they form the following and make the fortunes of all sorts of false prophets and exploiters of new cult. Without them the fashionable preacher could not go to Europe for six months in the year nor the fashionable doctors roll around in limousines. Nor is there any extent to which they will not go in their mad desire to attract the attention of men. If there is nobody else about, they will make eyes at the disreputable old rounders that hang about cafes and roadhouses, or the very waiters that serve them.

Age, that should bring intelligence and discretion, seems to bring to these women only an additional recklessness and folly so that they are less careful of their conduct than the flightiest girl would be. Yet they know, if they would only stop to think, that the faults that the world excuses in youth it does not excuse in sober maturity.

Silly, Fat and Forty.

It is a curious fact that the most susceptible time of a woman's life is not when she is sweet and twenty, but when she is fat and forty, and old enough to know better. But she doesn't. A young girl may suspect a man's motives and assay his compliments to see how much of veracity is in them, and weigh his vows of devotion to ascertain how heavy they are with real feelings, but the middle-aged woman's vanity is so hungry and so voracious that she swallows whole every honeyed speech a man makes her.

Possibly this explains the middle-aged married woman who still tries to flirt, but it does not excuse her. Nothing excuses her except the assumption that she has not enough gray matter in her head to comprehend the danger she runs and the harm she does, and the certainty that she has not enough sense of humor to perceive the figure of fun she makes of herself.

For there is nothing under the sun more grotesque than the spectacle of the middle-aged mother of a family aping the airs and graces of a debutante, and trying to act kittenish and cute when her antics are only those of a performing elephant. Yet how often do we see this done, and how many women do we know and laugh at, who believe themselves to be fascinating because they are surrounded by a horde of sycophantic men who flatter them for the sake of eating the dinners, and riding in the cars, and sitting in the opera boxes, and spending week-ends at the country places that the women's husbands pay for.

Be sure that if any of these flirtatious middle-aged married women could hear what their admirers say of them behind their backs they would be instantly and forever cured of the belief that they were second edition Cleopatras, with weather and age, proof charms.

These married flirts consider themselves good women and pillars of society because they hold to the letter of the moral law and only transgress the spirit. But they judge themselves too leniently. The wife who seeks the admiration of other men than her husband, and who lures them on, as well as she is able, into making love speeches to her is false at heart and untrue to her marriage vows. She has no reason to draw her skirts away from her sisters of the street. Indeed, they may be better women than she is for she, at least, has not known their temptations.

Her Iniquitous Offense.

It is one thing for women to be driven into wrong-doing by hunger, and cold, and want, or some deadly injury that has been practiced upon her. It is another thing for her to deliberately dally with sin, the finery her husband has given her on her back, within the shelter of her home, and with the tenderness and love of a good man protecting her.

Yet that is what a flirtatious married woman does, and it makes her offense a particularly iniquitous one. It is hard on a woman to be married to a man who flirts, but it is doubly hard on a man to have a flirtatious wife, because society pities and puts a halo about the head of the wife who forgives her husband's amours; it sneers at the man and calls him an ugly name if he shuts his eyes to his wife's faults in this particular.

For this reason and because when a woman marries a man and he gives her his name, she is more bound in honor to keep it clean than if it were her own. No married woman with any sense of decency has a right to engage in a flirtation. Men friends she may have. Charming she may be to them in her truth and loyalty and devotion to her family, but for her the days of love dalliance are over. No man may make love to her without insult. She may not listen to it without degradation.

And beyond all this is the folly of it—the supreme idiocy of risking everything in the world worth while for the sake of a handful of lying compliments.

GOOD NEWS

Many Marion Readers Have Heard It and Profited Thereby.

"Good news travels fast," and the thousands of bad back sufferers in Marion are glad to learn where relief may be found. Many a lame, weak and aching back is bad no more, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills. Our citizens are telling the good news of their experience with the Old Quaker Remedy. Here is an example worth reading:

Mrs. Mary Alexander, Marion, Ky., says: "I was afflicted with kidney trouble for three or four years. Sharp twinges seized me in my back when I stooped or lifted and I was unable to rest well on account of a constant backache. I tired easily, often felt nervous and languid, and was annoyed by headaches and dizzy spells. I was also troubled by a blurring of my sight, and the kidney secretions were unnatural. I finally procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Haynes & Taylor's drug store and am glad to say that they gave me great relief. I have no hesitation in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

Joshua 10:12-13-14.

12. Then spake Joshua to the Lord in the day when the Lord delivered up the Amorites before the children of Israel and he said in the sight of Israel, sun stand still upon Gideon; and thou moon, in the valley of Ajalon. 13. And the sun stood still, and the moon stayed until the people had avenged themselves upon their enemies. Is this not written in the book of Joshua? So the sun stood still in the midst of heaven, and hasted not to go down about a whole day like that before it or after it, that the Lord harkened unto the voice of a man, for the Lord fought for Israel." TOWNS, by J. B. M.

Weston is situated on the Ohio river, and consists of two dry goods store, blacksmith shop, drug store and postoffice. Weston has a fine boat landing. There are a number of elegant dwelling houses beautifully situated with large front yards which gives them a fine appearance.

E. C. Travis carries a complete line of pure drugs, prescriptions filled at all hours.

Our friend P. M. Ward, is making his home in this village. The Professor speaks in high terms of the citizens of Weston and they deserve it. We were only here about one hour and did some good business. We left with an impression about this little town on the placid waters of the beautiful Ohio.

We spent the night with Henry Truitt and family, next day being Sunday. We went over to Dann Springs church and remained until the noon hour, where no doubt everybody present enjoyed themselves, partaking of the good things and hearing the word.

Shady Grove is situated in the eastern part of Crittenden Co., near the Webster county line. It is a village of about three hundred inhabitants, and the merchants are enjoying a good trade. There are three dry goods stores, one hardware store, one drug store, grist mill, postoffice and cold drink stand. Here are the names of the business firms as we take them from our note book—Drs. Jeff McConnell and G. C. Collins are the physicians, and there are no better to be found in this end of the State. They carry a stock of drugs in connection with their professional trade.

Owen Beard wants to sell you your cold drinks. Give him a call.

Messrs. J. H. Lamb and W. F. McDowell are the blacksmiths and they can make anything from a horseshoe nail to a steam thrasher.

Mrs. B. C. Birchfield wants to supply you in the latest styles of ladies' hats. Call and see her.

Fred Lemon wants to trade with you, he handles a variety of goods.

W. D. Tudor is the postmaster and no better can be found than Willie Tudor. He is polite and attentive to everyone that has business with him.

T. C. Land is the barber, he is careful in his work and gives satisfaction.

Richard McDowell is the carpenter and is kept busy.

Tudor & Horning are dealers in general merchandise and controls a large trade, in fact, all that Shady Grove is to advertise her business for she is situated so as to draw a large trade.

S. C. Towery and wife keep one of the best hotels in this section of the state.

Opportunity for worship is well provided for. There are two churches—Baptist and Methodist. There is also a splendid school building in fact, everything indicates a happy and prosperous people.

We made the following country places:—Tribune; our friend Willis M. Towery, was in the hay field his daughter, Miss Belva, was in the store selling goods while her papa "made hay."

Iron Hill; the merchant, J. N. Dean, was plowing out his corn, while Miss Stella handed out the mail and waited on the trade.

We were at Starr, Enon and E. B. Hunt's store at Piney Creek.
