CRITTENDEN COUNTY WELL REPRESENTED

At The State Arboretum and Tree Planting at the Capital Last Week.

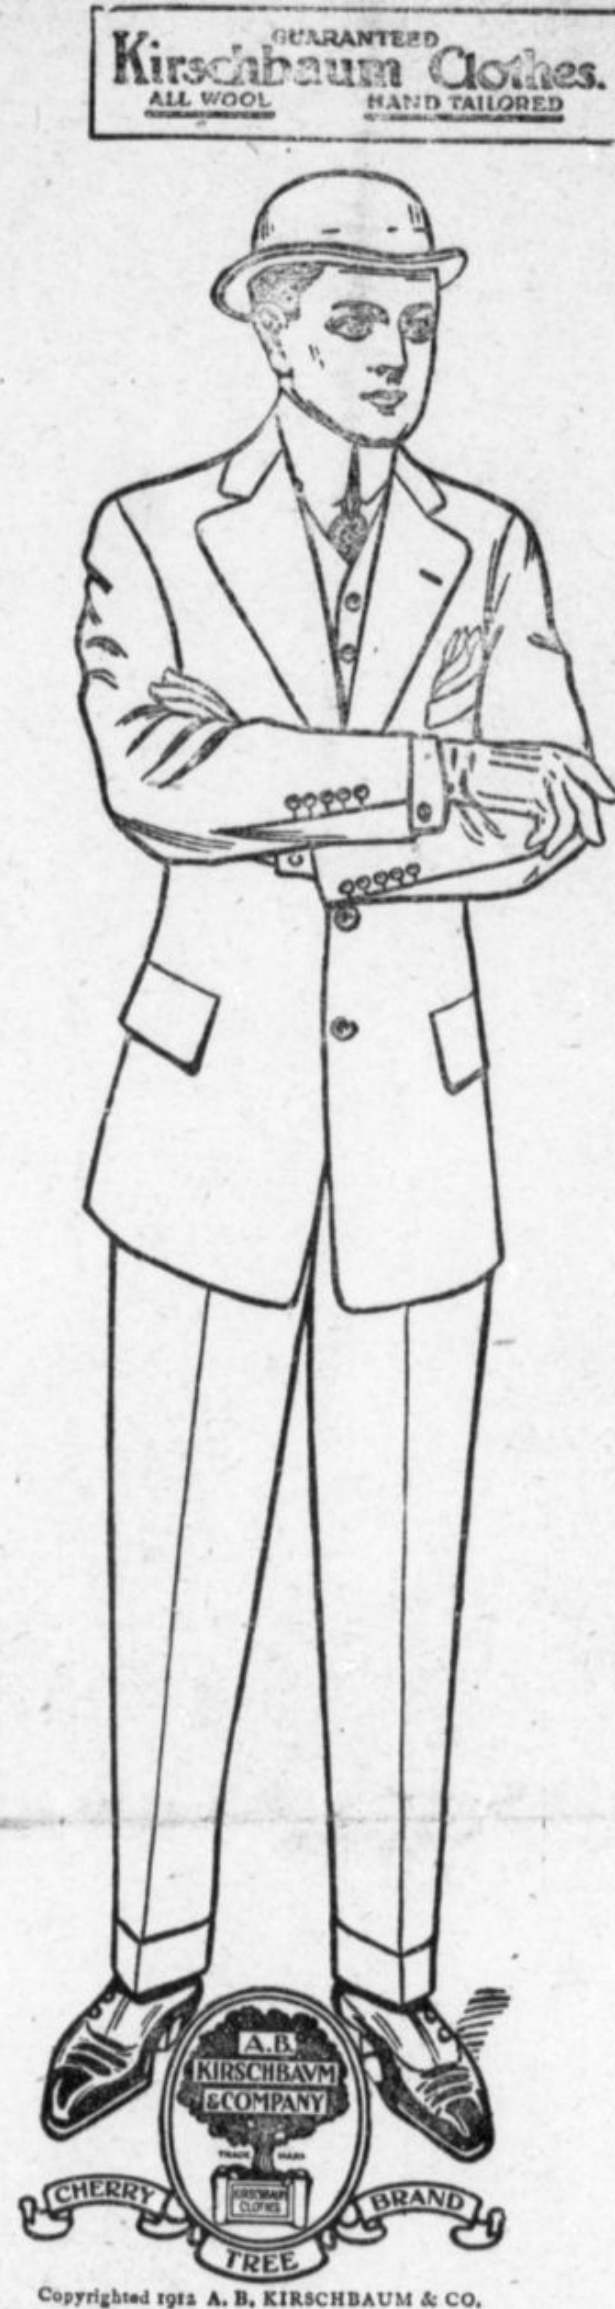

Crittenden Co., was well represented at the State arboretum and tree planting at the Capitol grounds last week, by three trees of the variety chosen, Sycamore and Judge Blue, who was present to see the job well done, reports that all three were planted. As previously noted in these columns, the trees were donated by John W. Wilson, and were selected and the shipping superintended by J. F. Dodge, who is not a novice in the culture of trees and flowers; William H. Wallace lent his friendly aid also by helping to dig the trees. These gentlemen did what they did gratuitously and the trees should be named John, William and Frank in their honor, to insure them living and doing well.

PIGS AND CHICKENS.

"Keep out of my back yard,"
Said the chicken to the pig,
"You'd better read the Ordinance
Before you start to dig."
"Don't YOU crow over ME,"
Said the piggy to the hen,
"Keep off from my side walk,
You measley old 'has-been'!"
Then and there a fight began,
A grunt and then a crow,
Really a delightful tilt,
Much better than a show.
Officer Loyd, do your duty,
Arrest that Suffragette,
She has 'nt any vote you know
Nor has she time to set.
So there is where a feud began
All on account of chickens,
They can't come on my sidewalk
Or you'll catch the Dickens.
The city council then assembled
And heard a lot of law,
Read Blackstone on trespases
And then began to jaw.
Some were for and some against
Keepin chickens in the barn:
After a while they compromised
Upon the following terms.
"Whereas all pigs and chickens,
That are found upon the street,
Will be promptly barbecued,
And the council then will eat."
This is where our chickens go,
As well as our fat shoats,
It's law, of course, but then,
The people are the goats.
The author of the above has been a frequent contributor to our columns, but has, perhaps, never before, contributed anything that would rank as a classic.
His literary standing is now fully established. — Ed.

Men! The Maker's Guaranty Goes With the Clothes We Sell

THINKING men no longer buy their clothes in a haphazard way. They consider not only the price and the retailer's claim of quality and service—but the maker as well.

It means a lot of difference, in the quality you get in your Fall suit or overcoat, whether the maker is actually known to be behind his products or hides identity behind the retailer, thus escaping public responsibility. In offering these—we stand ready to meet every claim we make. The maker's "All Wool" guaranty is iron-clad. We know there is not a thread of cotton in any KIRSCHBAUM garment we sell.

The fact that every KIRSCHBAUM suit and overcoat is hand-tailored from fabrics shrunk and reshunk, was a clinching factor in our choosing the KIRSCHBAUM line. We know absolutely that our customers will be satisfied,

That they can walk out of our store any day with garments that will be as well-shaped and as perfect in style six months hence under ordinary wear, as on the day of purchase.

All our styles are individual and authoritative. Perfect in cut, color and weave. The KIRSCHBAUM label means your money back should you find any imperfection in fit, cut or fabrics.

FALL TERM CIRCUIT COURT CONVENED

Judge J. Fleming Gordon Presiding.
A Full Docket. Commonwealth Attorney Grayot Present.

Promptly at 9:30 Monday morning Judge Gordon opened the last term of the Crittenden Circuit Court for the year 1912. There were in attendance, the Commonwealth Attorney, Mr. John L. Grayot, the County Attorney, Mr. Jno. A. Moore the Circuit Court Clerk, Mr. John G. Asher, the Sheriff, J. A. C. Pickens and his deputies J. T. Pickens and D. E. Gilliland and the following members, of the Crittenden County bar:

Senator-elect Ollie M. James, County Judge John W. Blue, Messrs James A. Moore, L. H. James, Virgil Moore, Mr. Carl Henderson, Allie Moore, Clem S. Nuhn, J. Bell Kevil and E. F. W. Kaiser of the Louisville bar.

Several of the panel of Grand Jurors were excused for various reasons but the Court Clerk, assisted by the Sheriff, quickly filled the vacancies and twelve good and true men were installed and listened intently to the very impressive charge of the presiding Judge who prefaced his remarks by saying:

"It is not generally known that the Judge of this Court is absolutely powerless to punish a criminal no matter what the crime or the positive knowledge that the Court may have of its commission until the Grand Jury has heard the evidence and returned its indictment."

"It will then be seen," continued his honor, "why we should have the very highest citizenship as Grand Jurors, why they should be entirely free to act and responsible for their acts to no one but themselves. This Court will in all ways hold up their hands and render all necessary assistance, as will the Commonwealth and County Attorneys."

The crimes mentioned in the decalogue were named and the various degrees of the same and the punishment as provided by statutes of our commonwealth were given.

Special stress was given to the crime of carrying concealed weapons and the Jurors were instructed to go into this matter, very carefully, as his Honor in indignant tones denounced such acts as those of cowards and that no man who is a man in any sense of the word will be guilty of such a practice.

The abuse of killing our fish and our game birds willfully and illegally and the punishment for the same was given due attention.

The practice of Local Option Districts standing idly by saying and doing nothing while the blind tiger practically destroys whatever of manhood exists in such districts, was roundly scolded and the Court advised the Grand Jury in such cases to simply ignore any complaints of selling liquor illegally without the best men of the district by their names and influence stand by and assist in the prosecution.

"I am fully convinced" said his Honor, "of the great benefit to this country of the temperate principles that now prevail. I fully believe in the laws already enacted in connection therewith and the Court is not only ready but anxious to suppress the illegal sale of intoxicants but it

PAYS TRIBUTE TO THE PRESS; MAKES AN APPEAL TO PUBLIC

Chairman Camden of Democratic Campaign Committee On the Issues of the Day.

Delivers Address to Editors of the Democratic Press of Kentucky.

Johnson N. Camden of Woodford county, chairman of the Democratic state campaign committee, in his opening address to the conference of editors of the Democratic press of Kentucky, at Louisville on Saturday, Sept. 28th, spoke as follows:

"Gentlemen of the Democratic Press of Kentucky:
"I feel extremely honored in having you as my guests today and want to assure you of my appreciation of the compliment that you have paid us in leaving your homes and business and coming here today to attend this conference. The occasion that brings us together for mutual counsel and deliberation is, in my judgment, an epoch-making as any event in the history of our state.

"The Democratic party—the party of the people, of which you gentlemen are, in a way, the eyes the ears and certainly the mouthpiece, is on trial before the world for its existence. Coincident with the life of the Democratic party are our free institutions, the perpetuity of our form of government and the equal opportunity in life of every child born under our flag. Upon careful thought and analysis I think you will agree that this is not an exaggerated statement, and that the fate of the two, the nation and the Democratic party, are inseparably tied together.

"I am equally confident that posterity will accord to you gentlemen of the Democratic press of Kentucky a place in the Hall of Fame, if not in bronze, at least in grateful memory for the patriotic service that you will render to your state and country.

Corporate Contributions Deadly.
"Through your agency our times have changed and are changing with incredible rapidity. It has a direct bearing upon our environment and the conditions that mould our daily life. The majority of the men and women of our land see clearly now what was only dimly outlined to them a few years ago, and to which we paid little heed. We did not realize then as we do now that every campaign financed by the incorporated interests was in effect a deadly blow to the development of patriotism in the American people.

"The Republican party is responsible for this condition, for it has been a vast commercial body out for revenue only, and those interests which contributed most liberally to its success received in return the largest measure of protection through the provisions of its tariff laws. I can hardly believe that the corporations themselves foresaw the results of their liberal contributions, for I am sure that no set of men could be found who with that end in view could be such deliberate traitors to their country.

Charity and Philanthropy.
"You know, gentlemen, in the light of the present time, even the application of that sweet word 'charity' is put on a different basis and is now called philanthropy. It is recognized by all that the mere giving hurts and cripples the recipient. Instead of helping and strengthening, it weakens and destroys character.

"Philanthropy is the science of helping the unfortunate to help themselves. It is an odious thought to the American people to take away an individual's self-respect. When the national mind comes to the low level of tolerating that thought we will have lost our magnificent manhood, which is the crowning triumph of this century and of our country.

Democracy Not Charity.
"When we now come to think about it, the Democratic party does not want its campaign financed either on a charitable or on a philanthropic basis. You gentlemen of the press can make it easier for the district, county and precinct chairmen if you will make it plain and inspire the Democracy with the thought that there will be no money handed from headquarters to pay men to vote, or, politely treated, there will be no money for the purpose of buying that 'ballot' in the pocket of a voter because the Democratic party would lose because the voters would not vote it. Remember the motto: 'It is not the money that counts, but the man who counts.'"

"Let us hope that the principles of the Democratic party are being passed on to the shoulders of the people who will sound the knell of Democracy's death."
People Are Awakened.
"The American people have been so busy developing our national resources, opening mines, laying out towns and cities, building railways and factories, and subjugating the forests and other great agencies necessary to promote modern civilization, they are just waking up to the fact that our political parties have been carrying on a charitable business, so far as our citizenship has been concerned, which, if persisted in, will eventually enervate and enslave the will of the electorate—a business consisting of begging, bartering and coercing funds to run their campaigns, which the individual citizen should take pride in furnishing themselves, and which they should jealously guard as their special personal prerogative and privilege.

Must Face Situation.
"It is said that the American people love fair play, and I believe it. It is also said that we are a courageous nation. I believe that also, for one of these conditions can not exist without the other. Now, no one ever accuses us, as a people, of being thick-headed and a nation of fools. Then let us, as a people, drop pretense, be honest with ourselves and look the situation now confronting us squarely and frankly in the face.

Tribute to Woodrow Wilson.
"We have chosen as our standard-bearer a man of the highest intellectual and moral perception and development, which is only matched by his high courage. He tells us positively that he has not and will not accept campaign money from incorporated interests.

"Every one knows that it takes a good sum of money to conduct national campaigns. We know also that Woodrow Wilson and his immediate associates ought not and perhaps can not pay these bills. Now having eliminated the corporations and trusts from contributing to the campaign fund, if the rank and file do not discharge their obligation to themselves and their party by contributing to this fund, what has the national committee left to look to—there is only one class left, that is, the rich.

People Should Contribute.
"Now I warn you in all earnestness that if these campaign expenses are left to be paid by a limited number of rich people, instead of by all the people, the country will not be improved to any great extent. There will simply be a shifting of the scenes. The demagogues will hold forth and inflame the masses against the rich, and you know, gentlemen of the press, that would not be fair play.

Must Not Breed Discontent.
"We do not want to take a step that would breed hate and discontent between the rich and poor throughout the land. Also it is manifestly clear that if the few pay this debt they are depriving the many of the unusual and rare opportunity of further deepening and broadening their natures and increasing their love of country. If there is not love of country in a man's heart, something of an opposite feeling will creep in and take its place; indifference to or hate of country, which is another word for anarchy. It is only by service that we can increase our love for home, for mankind or for country.

Service Increases Love.
"We know that the person who helps and serves his friends, loves them. Also that the man who gives loving care and thought for his family has his nature enriched and blessed by a strong and deep love for home. So, that man who serves his party and country by actually contributing to its support and giving to it his personal service will experience a new love of party and of country which in turn will prove the bulwark and stability of our form of government.

"As the incorporated interests were censured in the past for contributing to campaign funds, does not fair play now demand that the people themselves fill the breach and contribute to this fund?

Kentucky Should Respond.
"If, however, Kentucky is delinquent and does not rise to the occasion and raise the sum expected of her by the national finance committee, and the few men who now find themselves officially in charge, should decide to raise the money amongst themselves in order to uphold Kentucky's fair name abroad; what would be the result? Will these men then and therefore be charged with bossism and domination of the state by money and its control by an oligarchy?

"Fair play is a jewel. I hope you, gentlemen of the Kentucky press, will reflect upon this a little."
"Woodrow Wilson stands before the nation as a magnificent example of patriotism and exalted courage. Let us on our part uphold him with equal energy, courage and efficiency, and see that he is not left to the humiliation of asking his personal friends to pay our candidate out of debt.

Test of Patriotism.
"The seasoned politicians laugh at the idea of the successful fruition of popular subscription. Ten years ago we would have agreed with them, but gentlemen of the press of Kentucky, the Democratic party calls on you to make it as clear as the noon day sun to the people that this popular subscription is a test of the enlightened and patriotic manhood of the country. By that test it will be known if the people are really ready and desirous of taking charge of their own government.

Creators of Thought.
"I am minded to compare you gentlemen of the press with an instrument that impressed me deeply. I went not long ago with a friend to see the operation of the wireless telegraphy. These instruments that send and receive the message have first to be attuned to each other. The instruments themselves are placed in rooms on top of the highest buildings, so that their vibrations upon the waves of ether would meet with no obstruction and their message be deflected.

"In this instance, you gentlemen of the press, are the operators in the high towers of creative thought and influence, which guides and makes that irresistible power—public opinion. Some minds will not be attuned to receive your message. But rest assured that the good you do will not die with this campaign.

Service For Humanity.
"I say now to you, gentlemen of the Democratic press of Kentucky, that in responding to the imperious summons laid upon you by our great party and by our farseeing and courageous candidate, who will not take the easy road to the White House, you will be performing as heroic a service for humanity as did the men who died for their convictions.

"We can thank God that this will be a bloodless battle, but we must fully realize that it is second to none of the great struggles of the past for the betterment of mankind.

Government by the People.
"Thus far I have spoken to you about the national campaign and the obligations of the people to finance it, so that when the Democratic administration takes hold of the reins of government, it will be unhampered by obligations to anyone but the great body of the American people, free to choose from among them the best men to fill the offices and to advance the best measures for their protection and relief, thereby inaugurating in reality a government of the people, by the people."

"What I have said about financing the national campaign, of course, applies with equal force to the state campaign, but fortunately the cost of running the state campaign will be comparatively small. Under our plan of organization I feel that the amount necessary will be raised without much difficulty in the various counties, as the people seem to appreciate the importance and necessity of contributing to this fund and are doing so liberally and cheerfully."

"I think we will all agree that the work to be done in Kentucky is to impress the people with the importance of this election and the great opportunity of perpetuating Democratic principles, and to this end to discourage in every way possible apathy and overconfidence.

Object of Meeting.
"There is no agency and no body of men in Kentucky better equipped and qualified for this splendid service than you gentlemen of the press, and for the purpose of discussing and discovering the best ways and means to accomplish these ends we have met today. I trust that you will speak your mind freely on this occasion and let us have the benefit of your experience and thought."

Adopted by Editors of the Democratic Press of Kentucky, at a Conference Held Sept. 28th, in Louisville, Organizing the "Democratic Editorial Association of Kentucky."

"Whereas, There has been in the past no organization of the editors of Democratic papers in Kentucky similar to those existing in neighboring states; and, "Whereas, The opportunity for such an organization has been afforded by the action of State Chairman Johnson N. Camden, in calling together the members of the Democratic press of Kentucky, and the needs and advantage of such an organization has long been felt in this state; therefore, be it

Resolved, That an organization of the Democratic press of Kentucky be, and is, hereby made, at this meeting today, under the name of the Democratic Editorial Association of Kentucky; be it further

Resolved, That we appreciate the opportunity afforded by J. N. Camden, the efficient, courageous and far-seeing state campaign chairman of the Democratic party, in calling us together today; and be it further

Resolved, That we thank him for his recognition and attitude toward the press of the state, and congratulate the Democracy of Kentucky for the course of the state central and executive committees in selecting Johnson N. Camden as the chairman of the campaign committee in the election of a Democratic president, and that we greatly appreciate the opportunity he has so graciously accorded to the press of Kentucky in taking the initial step which has brought us together."

Makes Pair of Hinges for Sick Baby's Jaws.

Baltimore, Nov. 18.—A remarkable operation which has resulted successfully was recently performed at a local hospital on a 14-year-old boy, who since birth had been unable to move his jaws. The facts became known today. From the time of his birth it had been necessary to feed the child through a tube, as his jawbones were stiff having no normal "hinges."

The surgeon cut through the solid bone where the joint should have been and modeled upon the sections, actual joints, such as nature usually provides. The child has left the hospital and now has the normal use of his jaws.

Only the Truth.

Two tramps approached a railroad telegraph office not far from New York the other day and looked hungrily through a window, but there was not even a dinner pail in sight to induce them to ask for food. One of them finally tapped on the window and the operator left his key long enough to inquire: "Well, what can I do for you?" "Just report two empties going east" replied the tramp with a grin, and started down the track toward New York.—Lippincott's.

Crescent a Christian Symbol.

Though now regarded as essentially Mohamedan, the crescent was Christian in its origin. A crescent moon was the emblem of the Byzantine Empire and the Eastern Church and the Turks adopted it as a badge of triumph after the capture of Constantinople in 1453. Before that the crescent was common in the armorial bearings of English knights, and as late as 1464 Rene Duke of Anjou founded an order of knights having as badge a crescent moon. Its use by the Turks however, led to its abandonment by Christians, though in many Russian churches the crescent may still be seen figuring beside the cross as a sign of the Byzantine origin of the Russian church.

The numerous candidates for the nomination for appointment to the Post Master's position in this city are each and everyone full of enthusiasm. A decade ago these candidates would naturally have been full of enthusiasm and other things, mostly the latter. The change is noticeable as well as appreciated and we wish they all could have their desires satisfied.

It is rumored on the street that Dr. Moore of this city has sold his stock in the Citizens' National Insurance Company of Louisville, to the Gregory faction. The same informant tells us that Mr. Lamb of Greenville, who also owned a considerable block of the same stock has passed it over to this hustler, Gregory, of course in both cases for a fair and proper consideration.

The Board of Health.

The citizens of Marion have cause to congratulate themselves upon the excellent sanitary condition of the streets and alleys of the city. They owe much to the watchful care of Dr. Frazier, the medical adviser of the board. The prompt action last week in closing our public schools as well as requesting the omission of public meetings where considerable numbers of people would naturally congregate, on account of one or more cases of that frightfully malignant disease, diphtheria, is certainly commendable and the thanks of our people are due the Board of Health. It requires considerable courage nowadays to carry out the commonsense maxim that "prevention is better than cure," for after all the life of a little child is of far more value than all the assemblies of the county.

Towery—Travis.

Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Nov. 13th, Samuel Towery and Miss Zilpha Travis, of the Shady Grove section, drove up to Rev. W. T. Oakley's residence and were united in marriage by that affable gentleman. They were attended by Owen Towery, a brother of the groom, and his wife, who is a sister of the bride.

The young couple are popular in their home community and are connected to some of the county's best families.

Convened at Madisonville with 500 messengers from 77 Associations. Reports show that during last year, 81 houses of wor-

There is more Catharism in this section of the country than in all other districts put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years the only remedy in a local disease of this kind was a local remedy, and by continuing to apply to this local treatment, it was found that a certain degree of Catharism is a constitutional disease, and therefore requires a constitutional cure. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Zinc And Lead Production.

Advance reports of the United States Geological Survey show that the production of Zinc for the year 1911 amounted to 271,621 short tons, of which the Marion, Ky., District furnished .08 of one per cent of the total. The tonnage of Lead smelted amounted to 406,148 short tons, the Kentucky output not being given. The Western Kentucky District is attaining considerable reputation as a zinc ore producer. One of the strongest features being the output and shipment to a Kansas smelter of something over 500 short tons of zinc blende from the Eclipse Mining Co., under the direct charge of Mr. White. This ore averaged a value of $58.00 per net ton. Mr. White's method of cleaning or concentrating this product was the ordinary Joplin jig which gave an average of 57 per cent of metallic zinc, 60 per cent being the basis upon which this ore is purchased by the Smelting companies. This especial shipment of ore carried about one per cent of Fluor Spar which was not objectionable in smelting or rather distillation of the zinc. The Mann mine near Lola, Ky., located near the Ohio river, produced a thousand or more tons of carbonate of zinc which the Grasselli Chemical Co., put into oxide of zinc at their Clarksburgh, W. Va., plant, the value of this class of ore loaded in cars at Marion averaged $30.00 per short ton. Carbonate of zinc will not run much above 40 per cent in metallic zinc and is sold accordingly. The Miller mine is another producer of zinc carbonate and probably a few hundred tons were the result of intermittent mining on that property. The coming season the output of zinc will be multiplied many times over any former years. A vein of very high grade zinc blende will be mined at Carreville, Ky., on the Ohio river. This vein has been uncovered for perhaps 120 feet and shows an exceedingly uniform ore of some 42 per cent. In addition to these new openings Mr. Edward Keyser, of Louisville, will ship carbonate of zinc from the Wilson farm purchase, better known as the Crittenden Springs property.

Notice To The Public.

Some time ago I published a notice of the "New Road Law." There are some who have not paid much attention to same. I wish to draw special attention to that part that makes it a misdemeanor for any one who use on any public road, not covered with ice, a vehicle with a chained wheel, unless the same rest upon an ice shoe at least six inches wide, and shall be fined no more than five dollars. Also that part of section 71 that provides that any person, who shall ride or drive on or over a bridge faster than a walk, shall be fined $5.00.

Accidentally Killed.

Mack Hill, son of W. J. Hill, who left this county twenty years ago and since which time had made his home in Missouri, was accidentally shot and instantly killed, Tuesday, Nov. 11, near his home.

He and some neighbors composed a hunting party, and during the day's hunt, the party became weary and sat down to rest. The unfortunate man sat down on a rock and rested his gun near by, when the gun fell and was discharged, the load entering Mr. Hill's side, which resulted in instant death.

The deceased was born and raised in this county, and was about 45 years of age. He was a consistent member of the Church. He leaves, besides a wife, six children, an aged father and mother, one sister, Mrs.

TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF THE FIVE MARION PRECINCTS.

The grand old Democratic party has won a great victory. Wilson and Marshall will be inaugurated President and Vice President on the 4th of next March, and in due time a Democrat will be appointed Postmaster at Marion. The Hon. O. M. James, our Senator-elect, wants to endorse the choice of the Democrats of his home town for this appointment, and the Democratic voters of these five precincts will be given a chance to express their choice. An election will be called, the chairman of the Democratic Committee will hold this election, and to you, the democratic voters, I take this means of announcing that I am a candidate for this important and responsible office believing I can give you acceptable service. I don't claim that the party owes me much, I have, in an humble way, tried to be faithful to my party and my friends; voting, working and giving; voting always for our standard bearers, working for party success and giving my mite in furnishing the necessary means to pay her expenses. And now I do most earnestly ask your vote. I have voted straight for 35 years, and this is my first time to ask any favors at your hands. I promise if you elect me and I get the appointment, to give you and the whole people the very best service possible. I can't win unless my friends give me their help, and I urge you to get out and do what you can to help me and I will appreciate it more than words can express.

Very Respectfully,
G. C. GRAY.

never can be accomplished without the aid of the foremost citizens of such a district for while the ordinary citizen is a truthful man, he is certainly an Ananias when it comes to giving the name of the man from whom he purchased a bottle of whiskey."

Much emphasis was laid upon the axiom that the best governed countries are those which are governed the least and this idea was given to the Grand Jury coupled with the advice that we should all strive for the comfort and happiness of each other and not to foment trouble but to prevent it, and in this the Grand Jury can be of magnificent service."

The twelve Grand Jurors are certainly typical examples of true men, fine intellectual faces, all of them careful and attentive listeners, they will be an honor and of service to Crittenden county.

TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF MARION AND VICINITY

To the Democratic voters and to my friends of the 5 Marion Voting Precincts, I take this method of announcing my candidacy for the Office of Postmaster at the Marion Post Office and humbly ask you as a friend and one of you to please consider my candidacy and extend to me your support and influence according to your confidence in my worthiness.

I fully appreciate the fact that I am asking a great deal of you in asking for your support for this office and especially at this time when many of you doubtless have other friends that would like to have your help and under other conditions I would not want or try to presume on your friendship, but being disabled from doing farm work or any other kind of manual labor, I am forced to hunt some other kind of work to make a living for myself and family and beg to assure you that no one would appreciate your support or try harder to prove himself worthy of the trust than I and if you see fit to elect me as your choice for this office, I promise you that my appreciation shall be proven by a faithful performance of the service you demand.

Post Office Contest.

The candidates for the Marion Post Office have, at the suggestion of Senator-elect O. M. James decided to submit their claims to the Democratic voters of the 5 Marion precincts, in a primary to be held the 3rd Saturday in January in P. S. Maxwell's office in court house yard. The officers will be Senator P. S. Maxwell, J. I. Clement, G. W. Cruce and Anthony Murphey. The vote will be by secret ballot and the positions on the ballot will be chosen by lot. All known democratic voters and those who will be voters in Nov. 1913 will be allowed to vote. As it has been two decades since Marion had a Democratic postmaster, the people should avail themselves of the opportunity now offered to select their own postmaster. A full vote and a wise selection will no doubt be made. A. M. Hearin was the last democratic postmaster. R. C. Walker was the first appointed by Grover Cleveland during his first term which began March 4, 1885. Judge Hearin was appointed by Cleveland during his second term which began March 4, 1893.

KENTUCKY FLUOR SPAR

By M. E. BACON.

syndicate. The Pigmy owned by the same people is the newest mine of all and promises to be one of the richest in the entire field.

The Columbia, a mine that has been worked for probably seventy-five years, is still being operated regularly and shows no decrease in the output, either in quality or quantity. The Keystone is one of the old mines that has been reopened and is proving very rich.

BULLETS FOR WAR OF 1812.

In nearly all of these mines lead and zinc are found in greater or lesser quantities. Both are sufficient to make them valuable byproducts, and as such they receive due consideration. As far back as the war of 1812 these deposits were known and thousands of the bullets with which the Americans fought the British were molded from lead dug from the rough surface of Crittenden and Livingston counties.

One of the chief causes of the boom of 1900-1905 was the output of zinc from the famous Old Jim mine. From this mine was dug what was termed blackjack or almost pure carbonate of zinc. This was very valuable and cost little to mine, being near the surface. But no more "Old Jims" were found and suddenly one day the original petered out. The vein has never been struck again though thousands of dollars have been spent looking for it. But within the last year or two a vein almost equal to the Old Jim has been struck in the Mann mines in Livingston county, and the carbonate is now being mined there in large quantities and at a handsome profit. These are two exceptions and after all it is the fluor spar that makes the district attractive.

Another thing that has militated against the spar industry here has been the obsolete methods employed, the inadequate and poorly adapted machinery and the lack of skilled managers. The mining was done in a haphazard manner, each man generally following his own ideas in sinking his shaft and laying out his drifts and equipping his mine. It is not surprising, therefore, that poor results often have followed and veins more often missed than struck.

MODERN METHODS AND APPARATUS.

But now things are changing and old and out of date machinery and other equipment is being replaced with new and modern apparatus and appliances. Haphazard methods have given way to system and scientific work under trained men. Shafts no longer are sunk where a man may take a fancy to sink it but the territory is looked over carefully and the vein located beyond a doubt by geologists. The mine opening is placed at a point where it will be most convenient, where there is proper drainage and where other conditions are most suitable.

In addition to the small mills at the mines for separating the zinc and lead and other matter in the ore from the fluor spar there are two large mills operated in Marion. These buy the spar in immense quantities and not only clean it but grind it to various degrees of fineness and sell it to the factories. One of these mills handles only the finest grades not even supplying the steel mills and the spar here is reduced to the fineness of wheat flour. The ore is hauled to these mills in wagons and except for severe winter weather when the roads are too bad to travel a large stock is always on hand.

Fluor spar sells at from $6 to $15 per ton for the grade or fluxing qualities, and from $11 to $26 per ton for crushed. This allows a nice margin of profit to both miner and mill operator, while good wages are paid to every one who helps to handle it.

COINCIDENT WITH UPHEAVALS.

Fluor spar always is found where there has been an upheaval of nature. Rocks standing sideways and broken and splintered are regarded as good indications. It is found at various depths, occasionally cropping out on the surface. But most of the time it is found from 50 to 500 feet below the surface, and it is always in veins. It is a curious chemical composition of lead and zinc but upon casual examination looks like it was some sort of stone or quartz. Some specimens are almost clear, others are of blue purple, or yellow. As it comes from the mines it is generally in lumps of varying size and is mixed with earth, rock and other substances from which it must be separated before it is marketable.

In mining shafts are sunk to the necessary depth, and from these tunnels or "drifts" are driven in such direction as the vein may lead. Often a vein is worked out and another one is struck by sinking the shaft deeper. Several shafts are now being deepened.

Like in all subterranean mines miners are bothered greatly with water. Sometimes it accumulates by seepage, but not infrequently underground streams are encountered. This is one of the most serious obstacles confronting operators and methods for overcoming this trouble are in demand. Only within the last few months a determined and costly effort was made to pump the water out of one of the richest mines in the district from which the workmen were driven years ago by an underground stream. But after weeks of unceasing and costly effort the project was abandoned, practically no impression having been made on the accumulated waters.

ANDREW JACKSON'S MINE.

The spar region is as a rule attractive on the surface. Reference has already been made to the part its lead deposits played in the war of 1812. Soon after he retired from the presidency, Andrew Jackson bought hundreds of acres of land in the northern part of Crittenden county and mined iron, to handle which he built and operated a big furnace. The ruins can still be seen. Jackson himself did not give his personal attention to this venture, but placed it in the hands of his adopted son. For years the ore was dug and the furnace operated, being one of the populous and busy places in all that region. But the deposits of the metal finally gave out, the furnace was abandoned and now it is only a memory.

Coal also is found in considerable quantities and until this day what are known as Bells mines are producing in Crittenden county. Owing to the lack of railroad facilities the mines enjoy only a local patronage. These mines were started and operated for many years by John Bell who was the Union party candidate for President in 1860.

In all this time the mining industry has been uncertain and operation has been sporadic. Now it seems as if it really has reached a business basis and its success assured. There will never be another period of excitement such as the boom days of 1900 to 1905, but in the future the steady operation of the mines will be one of the important factors of the prosperity of that section of Kentucky.—Louisville Courier Journal.

DOCTORS ENDORSE Newbro's Herpicide

When a doctor endorses a preparation it means more than an ordinary testimonial. His opinion is always that of the professional man devoted to the welfare of the people.

Rev. J. J. Boyd, Covington, Tenn., says: "I feel it my duty to write this for the benefit of those suffering from dandruff. In the average case a few applications of Newbro's Herpicide will remove all dandruff. It cleanses the scalp and restores the hair, gives it life and makes it soft."

Newbro's Herpicide is the original remedy to kill the dandruff germ and stop falling hair. The terrible itching which goes with dandruff is allayed almost at once.

We positively guarantee the one dollar size bottle.

Blackford Flouring Mill Burns. Loss $4,500. Fire Origin a Mystery.

The flouring mill at Blackford burned to the ground Sunday, Nov. 10th, about ten o'clock at night. The flames had gained a good headway when discovered and all efforts to subdue them proved fruitless. What caused the fire is a mystery. None of the mill hands had been about the place since the mill closed down Saturday night.

The Blackford mill was doing a good business and was kept constantly going, often having to run at night to keep up with orders. It had a capacity of 35 barrels per day. The building and machinery were in good condition and the plant was valued at $4,500. Some insurance was carried on the property, but we failed to learn just how much. The mill was owned by Charles Nunn, W. M. Dehaven and G. M. Gahagan. It is supposed that the mill will be rebuilt in the near future.

It's What You Leave Undone.

It isn't the thing you do, dear, It's the thing you leave undone, Which gives you a bit of heart-ache,

At the setting of the sun.

The tender words forgotten, The letter you did not write, The flowers you might have sent dear,

Are your haunting ghosts tonight:

The stone you might have lifted Out of a brother's way, The bit of hearthsome counsel

You were too much hurried to say The loving touch of the hand, dear,

The gentle and winsome tone That you had no time or thought for,

With troubles enough of your own.

And it's not the thing you do dear,

It's the thing you leave undone, Which gives you the bitter heart-ache,

At the setting of the sun.
