TITANIC DISASTER RECALLED

Four Unfortunate Fishers Arrive in the City on the Guess Limited.

It is in a way quite remarkable how history repeats itself. Its not so long ago as to be forgotten that the world was thrilled at the sinking of the great steamer Titanic and the loss of so many valuable lives. Even at this date the remembrance of the ultra bravery of the passengers and crew, as all hope of safety was gone, joining in singing that wonderful hymn of hope and promise makes one proud of his manhood. An accident on or in the water is always, to say the least interesting. The other day down at the Keystone mine where water is as plenty as the flowers that bloom in the spring a fishing party was organized, red worms and fish hooks were found, a ball of twine and several sections of fence rails for fishing rods were made ready and out on an old log lying across the creek sallied the four. Throwing their fishing tackle into the depths they patiently waited for results, they got them. No wireless p d q was available, no band of music was at hand, no voices were raised in any triumphant hymn, the old log just quietly broke in two and landed the party in the deep. Of course we don't know just what expressions were used but we assume that for the moment that evening prayer, "Now I lay me down to sleep," was for the moment forgotten. The four brave hearts were floundering in the creek, but not a murmur escaped. It was all right. When asked what they caught, as with one voice they replied, a million chiggers and several colds. Somewhat tired and very damp Mrs. Geo. Roberts, Miss Evelyn Roberts, Mrs. Daily and Miss Daily reached Marion later in the day by the Guess limited and are receiving the plaudits and compliments of their numerous friends for the wonderful bravery exhibited when all hope of reuniting that old log was gone.

FARMERS BANK LETS CONTRACT

For Magnificent New Home to F. B. Heath, the Contractor.

Mr. O. S. Denny, cashier of the Farmers' Bank, advises us that a contract for the construction its new bank building at Main and Carlisle streets has been awarded to the well known contractor, F. B. Heath. Mr. Heath will begin work immediately with special instruction to push the work as rapidly as possible. The building will be a modern one story building, and utilized exclusively by the bank. The superstructure will be of chocolate colored vitrified brick and bedford stone. The interior work is to be of mahogany and Italian marble, steel ceiling and Venetian tile flooring. A special feature of this new bank, will be its fire and burglar proof vault, the walls of which will be eighteen inches thick, lined throughout with one-half inch steel. An electric light will be suspended directly above the door, so that the vault will be in plain view every hour of the night. A time lock which is set and operated on the inside of the vault door, will keep the combination in place between four in the evening and eight in the morning—and on Saturday, the mechanism will be set so that the doors are absolutely closed at four Saturday evening until eight Monday morning.

Another of the special features will be a public reception room, provided with chairs, tables and an abundant supply of stationery, including legal forms, letter heads, envelopes, pens, ink, etc., for the free use of the bank patrons and the public generally. The bank extends a special invitation to ladies and gentlemen to utilize this room for business and social purposes. It is the intention of the officials to have the building completed and occupied by July 1st.

Dalvine will place a subject in a trance in a store window for eight hours, if one can be secured during his engagement here.

EUGENE WILSON

Wins the Cochran Medal in the Oratorical Contest.

The Annual Oratorical Contest of the Marion High School which was held at the Auditorium last Friday night, was attended by the usual audience and that they were entertained goes without saying. The four candidates for the medal were encouraged by the presence of many of their friends and loved ones and each of them received many congratulations, cards and flowers.

The first oration was by Geo. A. Heath, on "The Beauties of Science" and was handled in a way which evidenced much thought and study, was a credit to the young man who delivered it and no doubt, was a source of pride to his many friends who flocked to him and congratulated him after the speeches were over.

The second number on the program, was Owen Moore's oration on "Of such was the Kingdom of heaven". The subject was good and the time opportune (as the child labor question is being agitated in the land) and the young speaker inter-twined that question into his speech in a way that was touching and to say that he maintained the family record as an orator is not putting it a bit strong. He had many warm friends in the audience who cheered and praised him and he deserved all of it.

Eugene Wilson was the third on the program and they do say, third is the charm in some things and it certainly proved true in this case. His subject was "The Land of Promise" and ere he had spoken many sentences it was clearly seen that he had the closest attention of his hearers, who were in sympathy with his efforts. His address was a masterly one and assured him the medal when the judges decided on the award. His friends and co-eds rushed to his side and almost swept him from the stage in their enthusiasm.

The last but not the least by any means was, "The Heritage of tomorrow" by Earl Sullenger, To say that he did well and that

MINING NEWS

Of the Local District and Other Points in Kentucky.

James M. Persons reports the finding of two carbonate of zinc veins, each three feet in width, in the drift of Master's property near Mexico. All indications seem to point the fact that zinc will eventually over balance the fluor spar interests in this entire district.

It is stated from Carrsville that the second shaft located on the Earle land is showing a strong vein of fluor spar supposed to be the continuation of the Blue diggings ledge of the Fairview, (Ill.) company which crosses the river at that point and belongs to the Carrsville Mining Co.

The unwatering of the Keystone mine by compressed air has proven most successful. What ordinarily required a week to accomplish with regular pumps now can be done in 12 hours by air with same results. G. P. Roberts, president of the Roberts Fluor Spar & Lead Co., made the first installation of the method in this district and is much pleased with the results, obtained.

Prof. J. E. Wright, the well known mineralogist and geologist, has developed two veins of fluor spar in his Levias property which is under the general direction of Maj. J. Seth Henry.

The magnitude of the diamond drilling at the Memphis property under the direction of Dr. A. H. Reed, can hardly be over estimated. As to the results obtained, it is quite impossible to state. The only means the Press has for judging results is the very broad smile pervading the Dr's face when the subject of deep mining in this district is broached.

It is reported that the Granby, (Mo.) Mining & Smelting Co., will do some extensive diamond drilling on an old but well known zinc producing property near Marion on an option of purchase if ground proves valuable.

Edward Rommels, of Canton, Ohio, has obtained an interest in the Langenbach Co., owner of

W. B. YANDELL

RESIGNS

As Member of the Board of Trustees of the City Schools.

W. B. Yandell last week resigned as school trustee or rather the term for which he was elected having expired he refused to stand for re-election or to serve longer. Mr. Yandell was president of the board for ten years and has been a member of it since its organization or about nineteen years. He has taken a great interest in the school and has devoted his time and his counsel free of all charge.

Few men without children would take as much interest as he has done. Mr. Yandell succeeded R. C. Walker as president in 1903 and has been the guardian of the treasury ever since, preventing excessive drafts on the money and seeing as best he could that each dollar spent was well invested and not wasted. The school district and the board will miss his kindly advice and will no doubt call him into the council chambers many times for consultation as to the best interest of the Marion Graded and High school affairs.

Rosiclare Branch Line.

The Gulf Lines people have just filed in Golconda and Elizabethtown the location map for a branch line from a point on the main line five miles north of Golconda to Rosiclare and Fairview.

They are taking right of way on the assurance that work will start within ninety days and that trains will be running within eighteen months.

Bushman, the contractor, is here making final figures on the work.—Golconda Herald-Enterprise.

Dalvine to Appear Here.

"He's coming," thousands upon thousands of people in entirely different parts of the world, have made that remark on seeing the bills exhibited, in the highest art of mysticism.

FOUR DROWNED IN KENTUCKY RIVER

Steamer Strikes a Snag, Careens, Fills and Sinks With 30 Passengers.

Worthville, Ky., May 6.—The steamer Sonoma, plying between Louisville and Frankfort was lost this afternoon at 4:30 at Glen Mary, where she struck a snag as she was about to land. The boat careened, filled and sank, throwing some thirty passengers into the water.

Four were drowned: Mrs. Frank Kiewell, of Ohio and the sister of Captain E. C. Webster; Mrs. Kidwell's baby, Fred Saddle, who boarded the boat at Worthville, and a deck hand named McKinney. A government dredge boat went to the rescue.

Announces For Legislature.

Rev. B. F. Hyde, of Grand Rivers, was in the city Monday enroute from his regular appointment at Repton, where he preached Sunday. While here he authorized the announcement of his candidacy for Representative from this and Livingston counties which appears elsewhere in these columns.

Rev. Hyde moved from Cadiz, Ky., to Grand Rivers last year, and preaches at Corinth church in Livingston Co., also Caldwell Springs church in this county as well as Repton.

He is well and favorably known to many of our people, and already his entry into the race for legislature is exciting great interest among his friends.

Horses Killed by Buffalo Gnats.

Providence, Ky., May 2.—Tradewater river bottoms are swarming with buffalo gnats in wake of the overflow and the farmers are meeting with great difficulty in doing their spring plowing because of the assault of the pests on the stock. One farmer near Shady Grove, lost four head of horses as the result of onslaught of the gnats.

144,000 FREE MEALS FOR THE VETERANS

Immense Preparations Being Made at Chattanooga to Entertain Confederate Veterans Next Month.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 7.—In commemoration of the bloody battle at Chickamauga 50 years ago, Chattanooga announces perfection of the plans for entertainment of the United Confederate Veterans and the Sons who will hold their 23rd annual Reunion May 27-29. High officials of the G. A. R. state that Chattanooga's expenditures for entertainment and amusement, etc., will be on a more lavish scale than was ever necessary for their meetings, even surpassing the high water mark at Los Angeles.

It is expected in Chattanooga that upward of 12,000 veterans will be present, all of whom will be tendered free lodging and meals at Camp Alexander P. Stewart. Some fellow with a love for statistics has figured that this means the service of 144,000 free meals in the course of four days. The requisite number of Government tents and cots have been loaned by the War Department. The year 1913 will perhaps mark the last pilgrimage of most of the veterans of 1863 to ground made sacred by the heroes of the Blue and Gray on the heights and in the shadow of Lookout Mountain.

Came Near Being a Fire.

Fire which caught from sparks that emanated from a flue, did about $10 damage to the roof of the house of H. D. McChesney, 233 North Seventh street, Tuesday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock. Truck companies Nos. 1, 3, and 4 answered the alarm.—Paducah News Democrat.

Dalvine's entertainment is a rare treat and he crowds more genuine novelty, positive amusement and appreciative enjoyment into twenty-five minutes than you ever saw before.

Barbecued Meats.

Our friends of Marion, Ky., and Crittenden Co., are invited to patronize us on May 10th. We will give a barbecue for our rally that will be on Sunday, May 11, 1913. You can send and get your dinner, or it will be sent to you.

The Evangelist, Rev. Mrs. L. Allen, of Nashville, Tenn., will preach for us on Sunday, May 11th. In connection with the program of the pastor's aid Friday night May the 9th, Miss Laura Johnson will read one of Paul L. Dunbar's poems. Dr. Atchison Frazier will give us a lecture, Songs, solos and quartettes by the best talents of Marion this night.

Our white friends are invited to come and be with us Sunday afternoon, May 11, 1913, at 3:30.

Special Term of Livingston Circuit Court.

On account of the court house being utilized as a storage warehouse for household goods that were moved out of the flood's way and also the high water making it almost impossible for jurors, witnesses and litigants to reach town last week no session of circuit court which was to have begun April 8, has been held.

A special term of court will be called during the summer. Commonwealth's attorney Grayot came in Monday and has been looking after the preparation of some of the important criminal cases that are to be tried.

Judge Gordon came to Smith land Monday evening and after a conference with the members of the bar a special term of court was called to meet July 14. This is the earliest date that could be fixed in which time enough could be allowed for the grand jury to investigate the many important criminal cases that will come before the body for consideration. Though no petit jury will be empanelled preliminary orders and motions will be made and heard in civil cases and jail prisoners who may be indicted and desire to enter pleas of guilty will be finally disposed of.—Livingston Banner.

Trustee Elected.

Last Saturday being the regular election day fixed by the law to choose trustees for the Marion graded school, an election was called to fill the vacancy caused by the refusal of W. B. Yandell longer to serve. The candidates were J. C. Bourland and W. D. Cannan, the latter being elected.

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence

Because it's Welded, you can take it Down and Put it Up Without Injuring the Fence

That's a good point to consider. Many a time you would shift a line of fencing from, say, the bull pasture to the hog lot—if it didn't destroy the efficiency of the fence.

In "Pittsburgh Perfect", the only fence with electrically welded joints, the stays are permanently joined to the line wires.

Made in Different Styles for FIELD, FARM, RANCH, LAWN, CHICKEN, POULTRY and RABBIT YARD and GARDEN

Ask your dealer for "Pittsburgh Perfect" and insist on his furnishing it. Do not allow him to persuade you that some other fence is just as good. If he doesn't sell it, write us direct.

Things Serious and Frivolous Talked
About on the Streets of the County Hub.

(Reported by R. C. HAYNES.)

"'Nibs,' I went on, 'I know of no better antidote for an overdose of snake medicine than a plunge into cold water. It is given, of course, only in emergency cases and as a last resort. In your case, Nibs, the time for heroic treatment has come. Therefore, into the creek you go! I don't like to do it, but, by grab, I can't stand that poem of yours. It makes me dizzy and endangers my life by the risk of toppling over into the depths below. Your wife might as well be left a widow, by grab, as mine. I've tried all other methods to keep you quiet, in vain. So now, to save your reputation as a decent fisherman and a Ford's Ferrian, will you, of your own accord, jump off and down into the foamy waters beneath, or shall I unceremoniously dump you overboard?'"

"'Well, Zebulum,' answered Nibs, 'to tell you the whole, unvarnished truth, I have no intention whatever to vacate this good log, in one way or the other, at present, b'gosh. I beg to say, furthermore, that if that ill-timed decree of yours is not like unto the Mees and Persians, irrevocable, I'd advise you, b'gosh, not to try to enforce it. You couldn't put me off, Zeb, my boy, and if you'd undertake it, b'gosh, the result would be—I'd be left alone on this lonesome log, quietly fishing, while you'd be floundering down in the foamy billows below, among the moccasins, mud-turtles and other creeping things of the deep. Having never learned to swim, and with no snake remedy obtainable, you can see what you'd be up against, b'gosh."

"'As to my poem,' continued Nibs, 'it is all right. It ranks with like productions of Kippard Rudling and others. It is not everyone, however, that can appreciate good poetry when he comes across it. It depends upon the shape of his head. A man with little grey matter couldn't discern in my poem the beauty of sentiment, the harmony of sounds, or the delightful display of well-arranged iambs. For instance, the poem goes on—"

"'Hold up, Nibs—never mind the poem. Be quiet and I'll get a bite.'"

"'Sure enough, Zeb, you're about to get a bite. Your cork's beginning to bob—I'll tell you when to jerk. You'd better look out for snakes. There's a dozen or so of the murderous moes in that drift, and there's no telling, Zeb, when one of the venomous things will fasten its deadly fangs in some part of your unfortified anatomy. If you'd brought two bottles a—"

"'We didn't need two bottles, Nibs. One was more than enough for two fishermen. The trouble is, by grab, it was not properly distributed, owing to your blamed hogfishness. If you had not been such a hog—"

"'That's all right,' interrupted Nibs. 'I'd rather be a live hog than a deceased skunk. You are great on the talk, Zeb, but your logic and your grammar are no good. If one bottle of snake remedy is good, then, according to Butler's Grammar, two bottles are better, and even three bottles are best to take along on fishing occasions, though I didn't kick at the absence of the third bottle. You don't understand it, of course, but it is this way, Zeb: Positive good, comparative better, superlative best. Pos. Zebulum, com. Zebulum, sup. Zebulumust."

"'That's true, Zeb, and I've got to catch a string of fish a couple of yards long, if we have to stay here all night. I don't want to disappoint Nobs. And Zeb, keep a lookout for snakes. I feel uneasy about you. You are an all-right man, and I double dog dare any scoundrel to say you are not. I am afraid, however, you will never get away from here alive. But if you should succumb in a battle with the moccasins, I'll tell your wife that you passed away as a brave fisherman should. I'll also see that a suitable monument is erected to your sacred memory and that an appropriate epitaph is inscribed thereon. I'll write the inscription myself, b'gosh. Let's see. How would something like this do:

Here lies the sainted
ZEBULUM ZIM
No snake medicine was

"'I have been thinking, Nibs,' I said, 'that you could hardly survive the effects of that overdose of snake exterminator and, if the worst should happen to you, I have solved the problem of your final disposal. It is this way, Nibs. When you expire, your friends won't have to bury you, or cremate you, erect monuments, write epitaphs, or anything of that kind.'"

"'What do you think, b'gosh, would become of me, Zeb?' asked Nibs, some what puzzled. 'Do you think I'd be translated to a happier fishing-hole?'"

"'I'm afraid not, Nibs,' I replied; 'at least, I'm not looking for anything of the kind to take place. But instead of burying or cremating you, by grab, I'd up and pour you back into the bottle. (Haw-haw-haw!)"

"'Laugh, dog gone you, and frighten all the fishes away,' said Nibs. 'Zebulum, you don't understand the first principles of up-to-date fishing.

Fish won't stand for laughter or nonsense. If you expect to catch anything, b'gosh, you must cut it out. Fishing, as I've said, is a serious business. Life itself is a serious affair and should not be spent in levity. The poem is full of seriousness and pathos. For instance, it goes on to say—"

"'Hold up, Nibs,' I interposed, 'cut it out!'"

"'The poem goes on to say,' persisted Nibs:

"'Now, Nibs McGath and Nobs McGee Both fell in love most desperatelee; So headlong was the plunge, they said That they, b'gosh, at once would wed."

"'But Bub McGee and Bob McGath— Her pa and mine—both full of wrath— Joined Ma McGath and Mom McGee In vowing it should never be!"

"'So Nibs and Nobs, and Bob and Bu! And Mom and Ma—ah, there's the rub! Were all at outs—"

"'And I'm at outs, too, by grab,' I interrupted, 'and if you don't cut that out I'll—'"

"'Were all at outs. 'Now, Nobs,' said Nibs,

"'Let's fly at once for Brother Gibbs'—"

"'Hold up—wait a minute, Nibs. I'm going to leave you and go where I can catch fish. I'll vacate the log and leave it to you, while I go and cast in my line above the drift. Now, be careful, Nibs, sit still and don't get dizzy, or you will fall into the creek and drown. You'd never be able to get out of the water, by grab, with all that snake remedy aboard. You deserve to be drowned, all right, but on your good wife's account I'd rather you wouldn't."

"'All right, Zeb, I'll sit still and fish and be as mum as the great Sphinx, having no one to talk to. It's a wise move, Zeb. By-by, but lend me your pipe before you go. I didn't get half through with my smoke.'"

"'I gave him my pipe and left him, walking the log back to the bank, then going a short distance above the drift. The surroundings here were much the same as below the drift, except that there was no log extending from the bank over the stream, and the water, though as deep, was not covered with foam. The banks were steep and high and near the edge was a little mound, upon which I sat down and cast out my line, letting my feet hang down the side of the bank. It was an admirable place to fish and had doubtless been occupied by the old doctor many times."

"'Though the distance was short, I could not, from where I was sitting, see Nibs, as the drift was between us; yet I could see the smoke rising and circling above his head, whirling and revolving and finally forming itself into the shape of a huge bottle of snake medicine. I knew that Nibs was making good use of the borrowed pipe."

"'Say, Zebulum, old boy,' Nibs called out presently, 'are you having any luck?'"

"'Not yet, Nibs,' I yelled back at him. 'I've found a mighty dad-gum fine hole, though, and if you will keep quiet I'll soon have fish enough for both of us to take home.'"

"'Good boy,' cried Nibs, from across the drift. 'You're the genuine stuff, Zeb, and I can wollop the man who says you're not. How'd you like to hear a few stanzas before—'"

"'Not at all,' I called back; 'I could not understand it from here—keep quiet.'"

"'Looking in his direction, I saw the top of Nibs' head, just visible above the drift, and knew that he was standing up on the log."

"'Sit down, Nibs, confound you, or you'll be in the creek, by grab. If I wasn't a member of the Presbyterian church in good standing, what I'd say to you, Nibs, would be a-plenty. Sit down.'"

"'The poem goes on this way, Zeb,' again called out Nibs, peeping over the top of the drift, trying to locate me:

"'So out one night stole Nobs and Nibs, And straightway made for Brother Gibbs, While just behind, with stick and club, And filled with wrath, rushed Bob and Bub!"

"'Cling to my hand, sweet Nobs,' cried Nibs;

"'If they catch up I'll punch their ribs!' And I will pull their hair!" cried Nobs,

"'I'll snatch for Bub's and likewise Bob's!"

"'On rushed the angry Pop and Pa! And at their heels came Mom and Ma! 'On, Bub!' 'On, Bob!' cried Ma and Mom,

"'We'll show 'em—'"

"'At this point of Nibs' exciting recital there was a sudden break, and immediately thereafter I heard a heavy ker-chug in the water above the drift! I knew, by grab, what it was—Nibs had fallen off the log!"

"'No time is to be lost, I reflected, or the scamp will drown. Perhaps I should not have left him alone. Though I can't swim, I will do what I can to get him out."

"'With these reflections, I brought my legs to the top of the bank and, with a hurried movement, was rising to my feet, when the bank caved in,

Mrs. Bargain Hunter — "Oh, Anty! I see by Bargain Brothers' ad. in the papers they're selling dollar washboilers for fifty cents."

Anty Drudge — "No wonder! Since I've told the women of this town how much better they can wash clothes with Fels-Naptha in cool or lukewarm water, without boiling, they have no use for washboilers. The stores can't sell 'em to women who have learned the new way of washing, and that's why they're so cheap."

Fels-Naptha Soap takes the dirt out of clothes in cool or lukewarm water, with no boiling, scalding or hard rubbing, instead of leaving it to elbow work on the washboard. Clothes washed the Fels-Naptha way last longer and are whiter, sweeter and cleaner.

Follow the simple directions on the red and green wrapper. FELS & CO. PHILADELPHIA

I lost my foot-nold on the mound, and over and down I went, plunging headlong into the creek!"

"'Fishermen's luck!' cried a voice from above the drift, and I could hear a terrific splashing in that direction."

"'When I struck the water I went to the bottom, but presently floundered to the surface, spouting forth volumes of creek water from my mouth."

"'As I came up the second time, I saw Nibs coming around the drift in a run, his fishing outfit in one hand, his hat and the two pipes in the other, water flying from his clothes and music flowing from his mouth:

"'Every time I go to town Old Grinby Grouch comes meddlin' round!"

"'Be of good cheer, Zebulum,' he said, when he had reached the bank. 'Keep on top if you can, and if you see a moccasin, kick at 'im. I'm the best fisherman, b'gosh, that ever stood on Crooked creek, and I'm not choice as to the choice of species.'"

"'As he talked he took a number of fishing-lines from his pocket and twisted them together, making an extra strong cord. He then tied a hook to one of the cords and fastened the other end to a long, stout pole."

"'While I was floundering around, trying to keep from sinking, he managed to fasten the hook to the waistband of my trousers. Then placing the pole across a stump which he used as a fulcrum, he bore down on the end of the pole and the next thing I realized I was lifted out of the water, dangling at the end of a line, face downward, making all kinds of figures with my arms and legs. Giving the pole another movement, he sent me onto the bank, landing in all kinds of shapes."

"'Pity we didn't bring two Lottles along, Zeb,' said Nibs, as I got upon my feet and pulled myself together. 'We lost no time in getting home. Nibs still insists that we had a good time. To his credit, he it said, he has never tasted snake medicine since that day.'"

NOTICE

Order of Court That County Roads
Must be Worked or Pay According to Law

On motion at a special term of Fiscal court of Jan. 7, 1913, it was ordered that the roads of Crittenden county be worked by hands to be warned in by the County Road Engineer, or his assistants, and all able bodied male citizens of the county over the age of 18 years and under the age of 50 years, except licensed ministers of the gospel and citizens of incorporated towns and cities, are required to provide themselves with necessary tools and implements, and to work on public roads of the county, not exceeding two days in a week and six days in each year, provided, however that any road hand may pay to the county engineer, the sum of three dollars, ($3.00) on or before the 1st day of June, of any year, and upon payment of said sum, he will thereby be released from work upon the road during the said year. The County Road Engineer shall immediately pay over said sum so paid to him, to the county treasurer, who shall place same to the credit of road fund, and same shall be applied and used in the employment of graders, plows, and teams and hands to work upon the roads of the county when needed. And said treasurer shall keep a separate account of such funds from that paid to him by the sheriff.

In employing hands to work upon said roads the County Engineer shall pay the prevailing wages in the neighborhood where said work is done, not however, to exceed $1.50 nor less than $1.00 per day, for each day of eight hours. In view of this fact I am now prepared to give receipts to all who want to pay,

M. A. WILSON,

County Road Engineer

City Marshall J. F. Loyd, has had his street sweeping brigade at work this week cleaning up the streets and allies. This is a commendable thing to do, and everyone is interested in it. The street committee is getting ready to oil the streets to suppress the insufferable dust. Oiling the streets not only does away with dust but they do say it annihilates mosquitos. Citizens generally should also observe, and do it promptly, the requests and admonitions of the health official Dr. T. Atchison Frazer as to their own premises.

The Courier Journal of May 1st, copied from Prof. Dunlap's article which we also printed in last week's issue, of this paper, and commented editorially as follows on same "The Press bulletin of the United States Geological survey for the month of May announces a notable increase in the output of lead and zinc in Kentucky in 1912.

Kentucky's production of lead and zinc, as indicated in the foregoing, is incidental to the mining of fluorspar. The figures, therefore, may be considered as reflecting a greater activity in the fluorspar industry. Most of the fluorspar in the United States is produced in Kentucky and Illinois by mines located in a few counties along the lower Ohio River. The product of Illinois is largely in excess of that of Kentucky by reason of more extensive development.

One great hindrance to development in the spar district in Kentucky has been the lack of good roads from the mines to railroad and river shipping points. The United States Geological Survey in its latest report on conditions in Kentucky quotes from a report made by F. Julius Fohs, who has devoted much study to the industry. Mr. Fohs attributes the decline in fluorspar production in Kentucky to several causes, among which are (1) failure to appreciate the facts that fluorspar mining is in itself highly profitable and that the lead and zinc are helpful by-products only; (2) lack of competent engineering advice; (3) lack of sufficient capital and failure to provide adequate time for proper development of the property; (4) development of the property with a view to getting immediate results; (5) lack of skilled miners and of means of stimulating their efforts; and (6) failure to realize the limited demand for fluorspar and the necessity for creating and extending the market.

Ten years ago the Kentucky output was larger than it is at present. In 1910 there were signs of a revival of the industry but the depression in the steel business cut down production in 1911. The figures for 1912 doubtless will be more favorable. As new uses are being found from time to time for fluorspar there seems to be hope that the Kentucky district may regain its former prestige.—Courier Journal of May 1.

Referring to the above editorial from the Courier Journal, the mining interests of Western Kentucky appreciate very highly its kindly feeling invariably displayed in behalf of our Fluor Spar, Lead and Zinc mining interests. The error in regard to the consumption of Fluor Spar is one that is quite natural under the information this newspaper had when the article was written but as a matter of fact the consumption of this mineral is today greater than the output of every mine in the Fluor Spar country on both sides of the Ohio river. These two or three counties of Kentucky and Illinois comprise the entire section of the large commercial output of Fluor Spar in America.

The output in 1912 was the greatest ever made, the consumption has and is growing by leaps and bounds. Indeed to fill out the demand last year some 40,000 long tons were imported from England and notwithstanding this fact the stock of Fluor Spar at the plants of the consumers is very light.

Last year the output in the two districts were as follows:
Rosicore, Ill., mine, 66,000 short tons
Fairview, Ill., mines, 35,500 " "
Kentucky District, 16,000 " "
Imported from Eng., 40,000 long " "
New Hampshire, New Mexico, etc., 6,000 short tons.

This gives a total of some 170,000 short tons and it is very doubtful if the mines on the Illinois side of the river will be able to duplicate their last year's tonnage on account of the Ohio river floods. There are ten consumers of fluor spar today where but one existed six years ago and the uses of this quite wonderful mineral in open hearth steel plants, in opal and flint glass production, in enameling bath tubs and all classes of toilet furniture, in the production of artificial marble, kitchen utensils, hydro-fluoric acid for cutting glass, removing the sand from iron or other castings, the production of aluminum, taking the nitrogen from the air as at Niagara Falls, for fertilizers and the dozens of new uses that chemistry has developed for its use.

Again the mining interests are under obligation to the Courier Journal for its efforts to obtain good roads. With passable roads in this section the output or rather shipments of fluor spar would be three times what it is in the Kentucky District. As emphasizing this fact an offer was made by J. B. White, representing the Eclipse Mining Co., to the Fiscal Court of Crittenden county at its session on Tuesday last to macadamize six miles of impassable road which would cost some $15,000 provided the county would contribute $3,600. There are eight magistrates in our Fiscal Court, the vote on this proposition stood 5 to 3 against the offer. With even decent roads the returns from our mining interests would annually amount to more than half a million dollars. Hasten the day of the Courier Journal's Good Roads.

A CARD.

To the Democrats of Crittenden Co., having been solicited by numerous Democrats from the various sections of the county to allow my name to be entered in the August primary for the Democratic nomination for the office of County Judge. I have, after a careful consideration for several weeks, decided to offer myself as a candidate for the place.

In so doing, I assure you that I am fully aware of the responsibilities that the position carries, and I feel that I can discharge the duties of the office to the satisfaction of the people of the county, and likewise in the interest of the taxpayers.

If nominated, I shall do my utmost in every honorable way, to carry your banner to victory in November.

If elected I shall be the officer of all the people in the county and stand for progress all along the line and economy in the expenditures of the county funds consistent with efficient service. You did me the honor four years ago to offer me the nomination which I now seek, this I was forced to decline for reasons given the committee at the time.

If you feel that I can, and will serve you honestly and well I shall appreciate your support and I assure you that no willful act of mine shall give you cause of regret for having supported me.

Yours Most Respectfully
m82t CHAS. W. FOX.

FAIR EXCHANGE

A New Back for an Old One—How a Resident Made a Bad Back Strong.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame that to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back if the kidneys are weak. You cannot reach the cause. Follow the example of this Marion citizen.

J. O. Tabor, Mexico, Ky., says: "I was afflicted with kidney trouble for about six years. The pains in my back were severe and when I was stooping or lifting, sharp twinges passed through my loins. My back always ached more intensely at night and in the morning I felt lame. I tired easily, was languid and nervous and had headaches. The kidney secretions also passed too frequently and caused me annoyance. I took one and a half boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they rid me of every symptom of my trouble. I am now in good health."

OLIVE & WALKER,

Marion, Ky.

Oakland.

I noticed in the Record Press why Moses never entered the "Promised Land." That answer was true. He failed to give God all the glory, just like the leading men and preachers of this neighborhood. They want all the praise. The last question was "How is woman's tongue ever to be tamed." I would love to hear a sermon preached on the taming of the tongue, if we had a preacher at Oakland with a tamed tongue.

The couple that was said to have been married at Oakland did not aim to marry on that day they will publish it if they want to marry. There is a goodly number of widows in this community but they are not advertising for a man, they have not set out to look for a man as soon as the preacher did for a wife.

The widow who sent for the gold framed spectacles, badly needed them for she is not able to do any thing but read. She has been sick for two years. If we would all read our bibles more and follow its teachings we would get along better in this world and find a place of rest after death.

The birthday supper was largely attended. All the children enjoyed it very much. It was the birthday of the six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. McDaniel.

For The Weak And Nervous

Tired-out, weak, nervous men and women would feel ambitious, energetic, full of life and always have a good appetite, if they would do the sensible thing for health—take Electric Bitters. Nothing better for the stomach, liver or kidneys. Thousands say they owe their lives to this wonderful home remedy. Mrs. O. Rhinevault, of Vestal Center, N. Y., says: "I regard Electric Bitters as one of the greatest gifts. I can never forget what it has done for me." Get a bottle yourself and see what a difference it will make in your health. Only 50 cents and $1.00. Recommended by James H. Orme and Haynes & Taylor.

"All is Well That Ends Well"

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness, sleeplessness and general ill health. Why? Because a disordered stomach does not permit the food to be assimilated and carried to the blood. On the other hand, the blood is charged with poisons which come from this disordered digestion. In turn, the nerves are not fed on good, red blood and we see those symptoms of nervous breakdown. It is not head work that does it, but poor stomach work. With poor thin blood the body is not protected against the attack of germs of grip—bronchitis—consumption. Fortify the body now with

FARMER HELD TO GRAND JURY

Alleged That William Hanley Sold Pooled Tobacco On Open Market.

William Hanley, of the Rock Springs section of the county, was held over to the grand jury Monday by Judge Young on the charge of violating his pool with the Stemming District Tobacco association by selling tobacco on the open market to John Hodge.

The case was hard fought, the evidence being somewhat conflicting.

Hanley claimed that his tobacco pooled with the association had burned; that he was given his release by Secretary Thompson, of the association, and that the tobacco he sold was that of his wife, which was unpooled.

He also claimed that when canvassers for the association persuaded him to pool his tobacco, he did so with the understanding that he could withdraw it in case 85 per cent. of the crop was not obtained by the association. He introduced several witnesses to corroborate his story.

The state introduced witnesses who declared that Hanley had told them that he had dumped his tobacco and had declared the "only thing they can do is to make me go to jail." It was also testified to that he sold the tobacco in his own name and not his wife's.

A number of documents were placed in evidence by both sides and leading officials of the association, including General Manager William Elliott, testified.

The case attracted much interest. It was the first trial of any farmer on the charge in the district of the Stemming association since the sale of tobacco was made. Hanley was defended by Morris & Hart. He executed bond at $50. The fine on conviction ranges from 1 cent to $250. Henderson Gleaner.

MYSTERIOUS FLOATER FOUND AT EVANSVILLE

Book Showing Large Deposits In Elizabethtown, Illinois Bank.

Evansville, Ind., May 5.—A bank book, faded by mud and water, issued by a bank of Elizabethtown, Ill., showing four deposits of $1,000 each and another of $4,000, was taken from the clothing of a floater found Sunday afternoon at the foot of Wabash avenue. The name of the holder printed on cover was too faded to be deciphered. Inquiries at Elizabethtown lead to the belief that the body is that of a stockman named Hall, who disappeared last November.

Health a Factor in Success.

The largest factor contributing to a man's success is undoubtedly health. It has been observed that a man is seldom sick when his bowels are regular—he is never well when they are constipated. For constipation you will find nothing quite so good as Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. They are sold by all dealers.

TOBACCO GROWERS DECIDE AGAINST FIVE YEAR POOL

Favor Continuance Of One-Year Plan And Denounce Lawlessness.

Seabee, Ky., May 6.—Two hundred farmers who have signed their tobacco to the Stemming District Tobacco Association for five years, met behind closed doors at Dixon to-day and passed resolution declaring it to be the sense of the meeting that the five year pool be withdrawn and the one-year pool continued. They denounced lawlessness and recommended harmony.

Every person who has paid subscription to the Crittenden Record-Press since April 1st can get, by calling for them, 100 frost proof cabbage plants, free of charge, and any person who pays subscription after this date in the month of April may also secure them.

RECEIVES BROKEN RIB IN BOXING MATCH

Trained Athlete Injures Minister In Friendly Boxing Encounter.

Rev. C. T. Clark, pastor of the Baptist church at Smithmills, is suffering much pain from a broken rib received while he was engaged in a scientific boxing match. Rev. Clark believes in keeping one's body in perfect trim, and boxing is one of his favorite exercises. He and Charles Hoskins, a trained athlete, were the participants of a match which resulted disastrously for the minister when Hoskins landed a telling blow, causing a fracture of one of Rev. Clark's ribs.—Henderson Gleaner.

To The Voters of Crittenden Co.

I take the method of announcing myself as a candidate for Assessor, subject to Democratic primary, August 2, 1913. As I can't see you all in person, will appreciate your support. All who do not know me can inquire and find out any where in the county. If nominated, will use all honorable means to be elected.

Respectfully Yours,

MARION, -:- KENTUCKY.

State Board Of Health Proclamation.

The State Board of Health of the State of Kentucky has issued a proclamation designating Thursday and Friday "clean up days".

It is a well known fact that fifty percent of the sickness we have in Kentucky is due to preventable sickness.

Dirt breeds disease. The home or community that is put in a sanitary condition this month will be better off thereafter all the rest of the year. Epidemics flourish where there is most filth. Flies breed in filth. If their breeding places are destroyed there will be no flies. You may enjoy filth yourself; but you have no moral right to maintain a nuisance that is repugnant and dangerous to your neighbor.

Clean streets, clean alleys and clean premises make for a healthful city or town, and cleanliness everywhere promotes health and happiness. Few communities are as careful as they should be, people not realizing that they must pay the penalty of neglect in sickness and sorrow. There should be a wholesale awakening to the importance of maintaining your premises in a sanitary condition.

Recently we have had river floods and the submerged cities have been rendered hotbeds of infection. It is imperative to the welfare of these people that they clean up, but it is just as necessary that the home in the rural community be kept in a salubrious condition as it is that our brothers in the city should clean up.

Sanitation on the farm is woefully neglected. The farmers family should be almost immune from typhoid fever, dysentery, the various stomach and bowel diseases, and malarial fever which constitutes the largest part of our summersickness. But now so many of our best rural homes are surrounded by filth and are veritable hot beds for infection.

The money spent in securing the clean premises is not an expense but an investment, and it will pay you the largest dividend of any investment you can make. It will save the expense of Doctors, nurses, medicine, and many long and weary nights of watching and hoping for the recovery of loved ones. Not only this but homes will be madesad and lonely, a chair at the table will be vacant, there will be heart-ache that time will not remove unless we do our duty along the lines of sanitation. The babies are holding up their little hands and looking to us for help and protection. The fathers and mothers need the help that sanitation alone can give. The young men and women need the protection. The community needs brains and muscles of every one to make it prosperous.

Lime is the cheapest of all disinfectants. Use plenty of it about your homes, white wash your out buildings, your fences, and sprinkle it about your yards and stables. We want to appeal to your better judgment to make Thursday and Friday clean up days indeed and truth, each one should try to out do his neighbor in this laudable work. Set an example that your neighbor will do well to follow.

T. Atchison Frazer Health Officer.

Dalvine is a young medical student who hails from London, and he has made arrangements to appear at the Majestic theatre starting Thursday night.

NEW SALEM

Seventy-five per cent of the corn crop planted in this section. Tobacco plants scarce here. Wheat looking fine.

We understand that a great deal of last year's tobacco is damaged. The farmers are not realizing more than one-half for the 1912 crop of tobacco they received for the 1911 crop. The low price is making quite a hardship on our farmers.

Our sick are Mrs. Wm. Belt, and Spillman Threlkeld.

Mrs. Mary Mahan spent last week the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Jacobs, at Carrsville. Phil Deboe and family were guests of relatives in Livingston county last week.

Mrs. Harris Austin and daughter, Miss Tommie, of Piney, were guests of Mrs. Luther Pace last week.

The public road from Marion to Salem, near James Mahan's, needs about ten tons of crushed stone. It is almost impassable.

We are glad to see the announcement of Hon. J. R. Summers, for Representative. We need a man that will help lift the burden in the way of taxation from our people and we believe Mr. Summers will work to that end.

Mr. and Mrs. Cade Gray, of Salem, were guests of her uncle, Spillman Threlkeld, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boyd, of Salem, came over to church at New Salem, Sunday.

Bro. Boucher was at his regular appointment the first Saturday and Sunday. The New Salem church has secured Bro. Boucher's services for this year.

We run across Gid Taylor in Livingston Co., last week, and Gid said he was not electioneering in Livingston but the man that beats him in Crittenden, would be the next sheriff.

We spent an hour at Cross Roads and saw our old friend Col. Rappolee. We made inquiry of the whereabouts of his Hon. Judge Stevens, and we were informed that he was holding the spring term of the court of appeals at Pinckneyville.

Yes, when we feel a little more able we will sure give a few short stories from our war diary.

The prospects were never better for a full fruit crop.

Cecil LaRue, of Sheridan, was the guest of James LaRue's family of near New Salem Sunday.

The Stemming District Books Open.

Reports have gotten out that the Stemming District Tobacco Association would not pool tobacco this year, or it would consolidate with another organization, and that no matter where you pooled would be in the Association.

Such reports are false and misleading. The S. D. T. A. is still doing business at the old stand and men will soon call on all the growers to solicit signers to the Association pooling papers.

R. F. Wheeler.

Notice to Farmers.

The Stemming District Tobacco Association is now ready to receive the balance of the tobacco, pooled with it. Bring in your tobacco as soon as you can.

T. J. Woody, grader.

R. H. Kemp to Move to Christian County.

R. H. Kemp has taken an option on the "West Farm" six miles from Hopkinsville on the turnpike and will probably locate in Christian county. The land he contemplates buying it is said to be a magnificent body of land and from all reports our friend Kemp has slipped up on a bargain, the purchase price is $18,600.00 and will be paid cash, as soon as the survey is made and deeds signed and delivered.

J. B. Kevil will accompany Mr. Kemp to Hopkinsville Friday to survey the land and attend to the abstracts and other important details. Mr. Kemp will sell some of his fine farm near this city but will retain part of it and the house and improvements which will be occupied by his son, Ashly, probably. Mr. Kemp is one of our thorough going business men and has been most successful here and we wish for him, and his estimable family the abundant pleasure in their new home, to which long years of honest toil entitled him to, and should they not find it there, invite them to come back to old Crittenden and the lat h string will be found on the out side.

Wonderful Skin Salve

Bucklen's Arnica Salve is known everywhere as the best remedy made for all diseases of the skin, and also for burns, bruises and boils. Reduces inflammation and is soothing and healing. J. T. Sossaman, publisher of the News, of Cornelius, N. C., writes that one box helped his serious skin ailment after other remedies failed. Only 25 cents. Recommended by James H. Orme and Haynes & Taylor.

Oratorical Contest.

his parents and friends who were present were justly proud would be putting it quite mildly. The speaker realized what he was up against, after sitting in the lime light and being tantalized by having to listen to his three rivals exploit themselves and this seemed to nerve him up to an extra effort. He spoke with a vim and animation and did the subject justice and many of his admirers wished that he might be awarded the medal.

Marion Conditt was chairman and presided with dignity.

The high school orchestra furnished sweet music, giving a selection at the opening and after each oration.

The beautiful medal, which was won by Mr. Eugene Wilson, as is generally known was the gift of Mr. Thomas H. Cochran who annually donates it.

Constipation Cured

Dr. King's New Life Pills will relieve constipation promptly and get your bowels in healthy condition again. John Supple, of Sanbury, Pa., says: "They are the best pills I ever used, and I advise everyone to use them for constipation, indigestion and liver complaint." Will help you. Price 25 cts. Recommended by James H. Orme and Haynes & Taylor.

Mrs. Douglas Ill.

Mrs. Elizabeth Douglas, Marion's nonagenarian citizen who was stricken with paralysis Monday and has been in a precarious condition since, was reported better Wednesday at noon but not out of danger by any means. Mrs. Douglas is not only the oldest citizen of this city but one of the longest resident here, having lived here 40 years. For many years she kept hotel here. Mrs. Douglas is a kindly disposed woman who is loved and respected by all of our people and all hope she may recover and be spared to her family for many years to come.

Best Medicine For Colds

When a druggist recommends a remedy for colds, throat and lung troubles, you can feel sure that he knows what he is talking about. C. Lower, druggist, of Marion, Ohio, writes of Dr. King's New Discovery: "I know Dr. King's New Discovery is the best throat and lung medicine I sell. It cured my wife of a severe bronchial cold after all other remedies failed." It will do the same for you if you are suffering with a cold or any bronchial, throat or lung cough. Keep a bottle on hand all the time for everyone in the family to use. It is a home doctor. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Guaranteed by Jas. H. Orme or Haynes & Taylor.

Booth's HYOMEI is Australian Eucalyptus combined with Thymol, and some Listerian antiseptics. Breathe it through the little pocket inhaler, and in vapor form as directed, and this antiseptic balsam will surely destroy all germ life and all Catarrh misery.

It's guaranteed for Catarrh, Coughs, Cold and Croup; it relieves stuffed-up head in five minutes and refreshes the entire nasal tract. Complete outfit with directions for use $1.00. If you own a HYOMEI inhaler get a bottle of Booth's HYOMEI for 50 cents at Haynes & Taylor's and druggists everywhere. Just breathe it—no stomach dosing. m815.

All Aboard Special Car to Sturgis.

Friday afternoon a special coach will be attached to the regular afternoon passenger train, which leaves here at 3:30 o'clock for the use and convenience of Marion's delegation to the Sturgis oratorical contest which will be held at the Opera House in that city Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Already about 75 citizens of Marion have engaged tickets and will accompany Eugene Wilson who as the winner of the Cochran medal will represent Marion. The other towns who will send speakers to engage in the contest are Sebree, Dixon, Providence, Corydon, and Sturgis.

Elects New Trustee.

Judge J. W. Blue was elected to succeed W. B. Yandell as president of the school board Monday and J. M. Freeman was chosen by the board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of A. C. Moore which was handed in at that meeting. The board is now composed of the following:

J. W. Blue, president
H. A. Haynes, treas.
