A CORYDON BOY WINS THE MEDAL

Large Crowds Attend Oratorical Contest at Sturgis, Friday Night.

The annual contest of Central Oratorical association was held Friday night at Sturgis and was won by Wilson Ball, representative of the Corydon high school, who delivered a splendid address. The competing schools were Sturgis, Marion, Dixon, Providence and Corydon.

Two special trains carried 200 to attend the exercises, one train bringing about 100 from Corydon and a special train from here carried an equal number, besides a number being present from Sebree, Dixon and Providence. The judges were Dr. Geo. Clark, of Henderson; Rev. W. R. Cady, of Morganfield, and Superintendent, F. C. Sipple, of Princeton.

A WORTHY COLORED COUPLE

Ike Wilson And Nellie Hodge Married In Morganfield.

Last Wednesday Ike Wilson and Miss Nellie Hodge, two well known colored people of the city, were united in marriage at Morganfield, where the bride to be had gone to visit her mother.

Ike, who is Judge Blue's right hand man, besides being janitor for the Marion Bank, Southern Presbyterian church, the Press building, and the Postoffice building, is thrifty and exceedingly industrious. He owns his home on south Main street and has begun housekeeping there with his bride. Mrs. Wilson, before her marriage, lived with Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Dupuy and was a good trusty servant entirely worthy of the confidence they placed in her and deserving of the many favors they extended to her. They start on their marital journey with the good wishes of many friends among the white people as well as the colored.

Elmer Jennings Killed.

Elmer Jennings, son of G. F. Jennings, of this city, was killed Tuesday in a head on collision near Chicago. We have not heard any of the particulars. His father left here soon after receiving the news to bring the remains home. His mother was a Miss Clark, being a sister of Rev. J. R. and Lem Clark, who live near the city. He visited here last week.

LITTLE GIRLS MAKE SERIOUS CHARGES

Jack Chittenden, Well Known Here, Is Held.

Five girls in short dresses, aged 10 to 15 years, swore in police court Monday that Andrew J. Chittenden, 40, widower, grocer at Seventh and Oak streets, had taken undue liberties with them in the store.

Police Judge Gould bound Chittenden over to circuit court to await the finding of the grand jury on a charge of assault and battery with intent to rape.

The girls who told of being hugged and embraced by the grocer are Lillie Newman, 10; Elizabeth Wilson, 10; Edith Carlson, 13; Nellie Duncan, 12, and Lonnie Duncan, 15. All live in the neighborhood of the grocery. — Evansville Press, May 12th.

Superintendent of Orphan's Home Here.

W. H. Collins, district superintendent of the Ky., Children's Home Society of Louisville, was here Sunday and made talks at each of the following Sunday Schools and churches; Southern, Northern, and Cumberland Presbyterian churches, Methodist and Baptist churches. At some of the churches special collections were taken up and at others they will be taken up and forwarded later in this month. Mr. Collins was given a respectful and interested hearing by our Christian people.

Pay Your Cemetery Dues.

May 30th decoration day will soon be here, all cemetery lot dues should be paid in before that time.

OPEN AIR CONCERT AND REFRESHMENTS

Friday evening, May 16th, on the school grounds, there will be an open air concert, given by the school orchestra. The front yard will be brilliantly lighted and there will be plenty of seats to accommodate the crowd that may come to hear the music.

Ice cream, cake, lemonade, candy and ice cream cones will be served at reasonable prices. The purpose of this concert is to raise some money for the school improvement fund. It will be an evening of festivity. Those who don't enjoy music or good things to eat or the society of young people, need not come.

All refreshments are to be contributed by friends of the school. If you can make good candy show your loyalty by sending a box to the committee. If you have a favorite recipe for ice cream telephone us and we shall send for a freezer of it. If you can bake a good cake help a good cause by baking one for this occasion.

The music is free; you only pay for what you eat.

HISTORICAL HOUSE BURNS LAST THURSDAY

The John Murphy Residence on Bellville St. Is Destroyed

The residence occupied by Thos. Woody on Bellville street owned by Mrs. Maria E. Croft was burned to the ground soon after noon last Thursday. It caught in the ceiling above the cooking stove and was beyond control when discovered. The volunteer fire brigade saved J. G. Rochester's out buildings and residence by skillful and hard work, no other property being endangered especially.

We are informed that Mr. Woody carried $600 insurance and Mrs. Croft $2000, which only partly covered the loss sustained by each of them. The house was built by the late John Murphy, who died there. Afterward the property was acquired by J. P. Pierce who moved to this city from his farm near Jackson's school house about a third of a century ago. He sold the property to Mrs. Croft, the present owner.

In this house Mr. W. B. Yandell and Mrs. Florence Pierce were married and only a short while ago Mr. Cecil Ellis and Miss Jesse Croft were united in matrimony in its spacious parlor.

Carrsville Home Destroyed.

Yesterday about 11:30 o'clock a. m., the residence of R. H. Wright, of Hampton, was destroyed by fire that caught in the kitchen flue.

The household and kitchen furniture were saved. The loss is about $1,000 or $1,200. This is a total loss, as Mr. Wright had no insurance on his property. — Carrsville Enterprise.

NEAR OUR BORDERS, HEINOUS CRIME

Committed In Hardin County, Ill.—Man Kills Wife.

Hardin county was the scene of a most heinous crime Monday afternoon when Ernest Lowry, son of Joe Lowry, murdered his wife, Sarah, who is the daughter of Frank Ledbetter. The crime was committed in the woods on the Joe Lowry farm five miles north of Cave in Rock about four o'clock Monday afternoon.

Lowry had been working in a field and was going through a patch of woods near his home and found his wife in company with Otto Cullison, lying on the grass. Lowry approached them and spoke roughly to his wife and said, "Now will you give me all you have of mine." "I will give you a divorce" was her reply. With this Lowry whipped out a revolver and fired three bullets into her body before she could get to her feet. Two of the shots took effect in the face and one in the left breast. The woman died instantly. — Shawneetown News-Gleaner.

Popular Young Man

James Carlross, a popular young salesman for the Allison Mercantile company, is dangerously ill at his home, being afflicted with congestion of the brain. Physicians were in consultation yesterday. The patient was somewhat improved today. — Popular Bluff, Mo., Republican.

HAS RELATIVES IN LIVINGSTON

Famous Surgeon Will Be a "Home-Comer."

Dr. Russell Hibbs, of New York, a widely known orthopedic surgeon, will be one of the Home Comers. Dr. Hibbs is a native of Livingston county, but is well remembered by the older residents, as he practiced in Western Kentucky before removing to New York, where has achieved fame as a surgeon. Recently he has received splendid recognition in the medical world for his discovery of a delicate operation of the spine to relieve hunchbacks. He will read a paper before the annual session of the Southwestern Kentucky Medical society which will in session during Home-Coming week.

He is an uncle of Dr. A. H. Shewmell and a brother Mr. Lacy Hibbs, of Paducah, and Mrs. James Fleming, of Birdsville, and will be their guest while in the state. — Paducah Sun.

Providence Banker Better.

It will be gratifying to the numerous friends of Press Ford, cashier of the Union National Bank, to know that he continues to improve and unless something unforeseen should happen that he will be able to be brought home within a week or ten days. He is still at Gilbert's sanitarium at Evansville attended by his wife and father. — Providence Enterprise.

Chi-Namel Demonstration AT THE CHI-NAMEL STORE

ON

MAY 23rd and 24th.

We have the sales agency for the line of all-purpose varnish, which is so far ahead of any varnish that has ever been sold in this community, that we particularly desire an early opportunity to show its good points to some member of every household in our business district.

What we want you to know about this wonderful varnish is something that cannot be told; but we can show you in a very few minutes that you get more for your money every time by using Chi-Namel Varnish for floors, woodwork, furniture, or anything about the house on which varnish is used.

This varnish is furnished in the natural color and also in a full variety of colors. It can be hammered and boiled without showing any signs of abuse. Any amateur can apply it to large surfaces and get just as smooth a finish as a professional finisher—no laps, no brush marks, no blotches to make a patchy appearance.

You will thank us for this invitation after you have come to know all about it.

Other features we want to show you are the Chi-Namel Ready-to-Use Graining Process, by which you can cover all blemishes in your old floors and make them any color you wish, and also produce the grain of oak or other woods.

Old carpets can be made into rugs and a new hardwood border will take the place of the ugly flooring at a cost of but 2c per square foot.

We will gladly explain all these features at our store if you give us the opportunity.

PEASANT THROWS BABY TO WOLVES

Famished Beasts Disregard Living Bundle to Tear Man to Pieces.

St. Petersburg, May 12.—A terrible story of a father's desperate act in throwing his child to the wolves is related here.

A peasant named Grunsnijoff, accompanied by his wife and four-year-old child, it is stated, was traveling by sleigh to Volchuni. Towards dusk, when only a few miles from the town, he suddenly came on a pack of wolves.

Grunsnijoff's wife, in her terror, suggested that he should appease the famished beasts by flinging them the child. This, however, the man at first refused to do, continuing to belabor his horses.

At length, however, seeing that the wolves were gaining on the sleigh, he flung the child into the road. His sacrifice was in vain, for the wolves, disregarding the living bundle, flew to the attack with renewed fury, and at length dragged the peasant from the sleigh. The man was devoured.

When the horses arrived in town the woman was found lying unconscious in the sleigh.

The child, which had not suffered the slightest injury, was found lying peacefully sleeping on the road.

NOTICE

Order of Court That County Roads Must be Worked or Pay According to Law

On motion at a special term of Fiscal court of Jan. 7, 1913, it was ordered that the roads of Crittenden county be worked by hands to be warned in by the County Road Engineer, or his assistants, and all able bodied male citizens of the county over the age of 18 years and under the age of 50 years, except licensed ministers of the gospel and citizens of incorporated towns and cities, are required to provide themselves with necessary tools and implements, and to work on public roads of the county, not exceeding two days in a week and six days in each year, provided, however that any road hand may pay to the county engineer, the sum of three dollars, ($3.00) on or before the 1st day of June, of any year, and upon payment of said sum, he will thereby be released from work upon the road during the said year. The County Road Engineer shall immediately pay over said sum so paid to him, to the county treasurer, who shall place same to the credit of road fund, and same shall be applied and used in the employment of graders, plows, and teams and hands to work upon the roads of the county when needed. And said treasurer shall keep a separate account of such funds from that paid to him by the sheriff.

In employing hands to work upon said roads the County Engineer shall pay the prevailing wages in the neighborhood where said work is done, not however, to exceed $1.50 nor less than $1.00 per day, for each day of eight hours. In view of this fact I am now prepared to give receipts to all who want to pay,

M. A. WILSON,

County Road Engineer

"OLD JACK."

Old Jack weighed jes' thirty-five, A thirteen-year-old fellow But all his blessed life He never showed the yellow.

Treed squirrels, 'possums and coon, Would ketch an' hold a hog— But above all his favorite boons, Was to fight another dog.

It didn't matter erbout the size, No dogs, are passing 'round, He'd show his bristles, growl and rise And scrap him on the ground.

You needn't yell an' sick ole Jack, Afraid that he would bolt— By gum, the biggest trouble was, Ter make him break his holt.

The other dog might get Jack down An' have the vantage of the law, But Jack ud stay there on the ground An' chaw and chaw an' chaw.

He never made no great big noise When folks would make a din, He'd never fool, the betting boys, For he went in ter win.

You needn't pour on water And call him little Jack, An' want ter pull the big dog off, That had him on his back.

You jist stan! back an' hold your breath An' let old Jack alone, He'd stand the storm an' fight til death

For he was plucky, ter the bone. He wusn't like sum folks he seed— Start a thing, an' quit— He had blood in better head An' jist stuck close an' fit.

I don't believe in startin' things Aules yer in the right— But when they force ye to the ring Why, jist stand up an' fight.

An' so in life, the battle's on An' judgment's comin' nigh— Old satan's tryin' to fake your crown An' keep you from the sky.

Then keep your trust in God, old man An' pump on every sin, And fight while travelin' through the land And stick, and hold and win.

Health a Factor in Success.

The largest factor contributing to a man's success is undoubtedly health. It has been observed that a man is seldom sick when his bowels are regular—he is never well when they are constipated. For constipation you will find nothing quite so good as Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. They are sold by all dealers.

Fruit in Abundance.

If the sugar trust follows its custom of reducing the price of sugar when the country is blessed with a good crop of fruit, it and the fruit jar trust will soon be heard from, says the Hopkinsville Kentuckian. Such a crop of peaches as we are to have in this good year of 1913 has probably not been equaled in twenty years. Old and young trees are hanging full and they have attained already the size of small marbles. The strawberry crop will be better than for two or three years and the home-grown have already made their appearance on the market. It is said peaches will be scarce but cherries will be more plentiful than last year. Apples? Biggest crop for years.

To The Continental Policy Holder!

I have just purchased of Mr. James T. Hicklin, of this city, the agency of the Continental Insurance Company, for Crittenden and Livingston Counties, and am very glad to find so many policy holders of this Company. I congratulate you upon your wise choice in selecting as old and as reliable a Company as the Continental in which to place your Fire and Tornado Insurance. There are perhaps a few figures in connection with the Continental that might be of interest to you, and they will appear in this space from time to time.

As we have already stated, the Continental was formerly represented by Mr. Jas. T. Hicklin, who succeeded Mr. R. L. Flanarg, and it was through no failure upon Mr. Hicklin's part that the agency was transferred, but I paid Mr. Hicklin for the agency. I bought it for two reasons, First, because I KNEW the Continental Insurance Company, and KNEW that you were acquainted with its fair, square methods of dealing with its policy holders. And Second, because I believed you would want your business to remain with just such Company. Therefore, I purchased the Agency and take this method of saying to you that I not only desire, but sincerely believe that you will allow your business to remain with the Continental, and will speak a good word for me and the Continental to your neighbors. You will find me at all times not only ready, but anxious, to serve you in any way possible. Should you want any change made in your policy; should you have a loss; should you make a deal involving the title to your property, please report it to me AT ONCE. You will find me located in the Jenkins building, Room No. 12, Phone No. 239-2. Call me. Rest assured that I will be to see you in plenty of time to renew any policy which may expire, and will put forth my best effort to make our dealings mutual and satisfactory. Trusting that I may have the pleasure of meeting every one of the Continental Policy holders personally within the near future, I am, Sincerely Yours, Billy Joel Hill's Opinion on Sunday Visiting.

Mr. Editor: For the sake of the people, will you give me a little space in your paper.

My subject is "Sunday Visiting and its Evils." First, there is a commandment broken. Second, you cause others to do the same thing, and this will send thousands of men and women to hell if it is not stopped. Look at the hard work it puts on the women, who need to rest and go to Sunday school and church and the hungry souls fed so that they might be able to put up with the hardships that are put upon them through the six work days. But instead of this the back sliden husbands, who want to make some arrangements for the next week. He will be as sweet as honey to his wife Sunday morning in order to get her on a visit in order to save time Monday; see after a hand for next week, get a plow, call around Sunday to see some stock or what the prices are on certain things or what your neighbors' hogs, or what their tobacco brought, how his tobacco plants look, and a thousand other things, just walking right off from his church and Sunday school, dragging his wife and children to hell with him and throwing a stumbling block in the way of his neighbors, killing his own influence, yet, some men haven't thought of this, so blindfolded with the things of the world of care, they have Bibles but they don't read them and our preachers are afraid to tell them lest they be cut short of their salaries—another commandment broken and the whole thing is going hellward. We want if possible, to put on the brakes and stop this great loss of time and souls, and quit breaking the vows you took when you joined the church. God and your neighbors know what you are doing, and the superintendent of the Sunday school feels it.

GREEN WILL AVIATE IN CARDUI FLYER AT CHATTANOOGA

Could'r'te Reunion Committee, With Co-operation of Chattanooga Medicine Co., Has Arranged For Three Air Ship Flights over the Veterans' Camps

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 14.—Confederate Veterans going to the Chattanooga Reunion this month will have an opportunity of deciding for themselves what it feels like to have a war aeroplane fly over a military camp.

Johnnie Green, the famous aviator, has been employed by the Reunion Entertainment Committee to make three flights in his 70 horsepower war aeroplane, "Cardui Flyer No. 2," over the Parks in which the Confederate Veterans will be encamped. The cost of the flight is co-operated in by the Chattanooga Medicine Co., with the idea of helping to entertain visitors during the Reunion.

Military men agree that the battle of Chickamauga might very well have ended differently if war aeroplanes had been in use at that time. The Veterans who are to be the guests of the city of Chattanooga in May, will have ample time to discuss this interesting question, as they go over each phase of the battle on the field where the conflict can be so easily reconstructed with the aid of the hundreds of tablets, monuments and markers, that the Government has so carefully placed at all strategic points.

Bright Things.

Why not look for the bright things in every condition or circumstances in life? Surely it will give more pleasure now and additional pleasure when called up again. There is no object in nature which does not possess some bright spot, and, if we will patiently seek it, pleasure will be the result.

Apply this to men there may be similar results provided the same disposition is exercised. Every man, unless he has violated every law of chastity and honor, has a bright spot in his character. If it is found, it may become the means of restoring him to his right mind. And, when this desirable result is reached, he may be induced to grow into a noble example of manhood, and honor of himself and a blessing to his family and friends.

A bright and happy disposition is a rich possession and it gives one decided advantage in the struggle of life. It lightens the gravity of the burdens pressing down on the soul and, at the same time, induces speedy recovery of one's resourcefulness, the exercise of which is toward successful methods and results.

Wise and skillful approval of efforts is a great factor in the various fields of activity. The man who possesses such a disposition receives a hearty welcome into any society or community and his influence for good is universally recognized. — Ex.

One really good thing about a fire in Marion—there is never any salvage to worry over, no necessity for any fire insurance adjustor, just a wire to the insurance headquarters, "send check for policy on Mrs. Croft's house on east Bellville street, it burned Thursday noon." This sort of thing saves a lot of detail. When a house in Marion starts to burn, the bucket brigade, and by the way they are real heroes too, they pay no more attention to that house, but they procure carpets and coverings of various kinds and put on the building adjacent, then everybody furnishes a coal hod or two, the well in the yard is made to give up what little water it has, the blankets are wet and the other houses do not burn provided the first fire goes out before the well is run dry, of course when the water gives out the other buildings burn and they burn anyhow if there is any considerable wind and that's all there is to it, then there may be two or more wires sent to insurance companies to send checks. In this way it saves a lot of book-keeping and the owners of the houses take the insurance money and borrow about a third more from one of the banks and build another residence, not quite as good as the other but then it's a shelter. This sort of thing has been going on ever since the Presbyterians built the first church in this section just 110 years ago and judging from the activity displayed in other lines of civic enterprise such as road building and the like, some other church will call attention in the year 2023 to the fact that they built a building in 1913 in Marion and that nothing has been changed during that 110 years and the houses will take fire and burn just the same in 2023 and the coal buckets and the little well in the back yard will be pumped dry and the insurance companies will send their checks just as they do now. Whats the sense anyhow of providing for things that our great grandfathers got along without, they knew what they were doing, of course they did and what was good enough for them is good enough for us. Water Works? Perish the thought.

The Coca-Cola Club.

To have the readers of the Crittenden Press fully understand the aims, purposes and high ideals of the Coca-Cola Club it will be necessary to state that the membership is confined very strictly to absolute devotees of coca cola. The meetings of this club are held wherever coca cola is served. The Officials consist almost entirely of members who start in as soon as the doors are open into the drug or other stores where this brownish fluid is to be had and it is a rule of the order that they do not go home until everything else is closed up, sometimes they don't go home then, but that will appear in the future proceedings of the club. There are of course a great number of officials. The president is termed officially, the Cockalorum, the Vice President the Cock-a-doodle, the Secretary the Cola-antous, the Treasurer, the Collator. There are many minor offices held by the members such as the Coldshoulder who never has but one nickle at a time and treats himself: the Collapse, the man who drinks not wisely but too much: the Collateral, the man who by some means has obtained a bunch of mining stock and desires to borrow money on it; the Collationer, this member is supposed to go home for his lunch but rarely does; the Collude and the Colluder, these two play into each others hands, besides these special officials there are bunches of Senators, Physicians, Lawyers, Dentists, Fluor Spar Grinders, Colonels, Majors, and Cattle-buyers, some of these people are always decorated with red ties while others wear no collar; they are termed Collingual because they use the same language, that is language with a coca cola accent. Tuesdays in each week the club meets in a gossip way and some things are talked about in a way that the Coca Cola Club should be ashamed of but they don't seem to be and at this Tuesday meeting the Press intends to have a reporter present and throw out to the wide world including Carrsville a report of the proceedings.

Marion is cleaner and in a better sanitary condition than it has been for years. Since the proclamation for the citizens to clean up the city last week was issued, there has been about 50 wagon loads of trash and dust hauled from all parts of the city. The people complied gracefully with the request to have a clean town, and the city did its part by sweeping the streets. Several wagons have been in use for days, hauling off litter. Monday the oiling of the streets began and it is progressing nicely up to this time.

FAIR EXCHANGE

A New Back for an Old One—How a Resident Made a Bad Back Strong.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame that to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back if the kidneys are weak. You cannot reach the cause. Follow the example of this Marion citizen.

J. O. Tabor, Mexico, Ky., says; was afflicted with kidney trouble for about six years. The pains in my back were severe and when I was stooping or lifting, sharp twinges passed through my loins. My back always ached more intensely at night and in the morning I felt lame. I tired easily, was languid and nervous and had headaches. The kidney secretions also passed too frequently and caused me annoyance. I took one and a half boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they rid me of every symptom of my trouble. I am now in good health.

NEW SCHOOLS BEING BUILT.

As Fast as Laws Are Passed For the Betterment of Rural Schools Counties
Take Advantage of Them—Secure
Services of Experts and Select Teachers More Carefully.

There never was a time in the history of the old commonwealth when its future looked as bright as it does in this year of 1913. No matter where one goes in the length and breadth of the state one hears schools being discussed. Many new buildings are being erected in the place of those which have so long been a disgrace to the communities that have permitted them to exist.

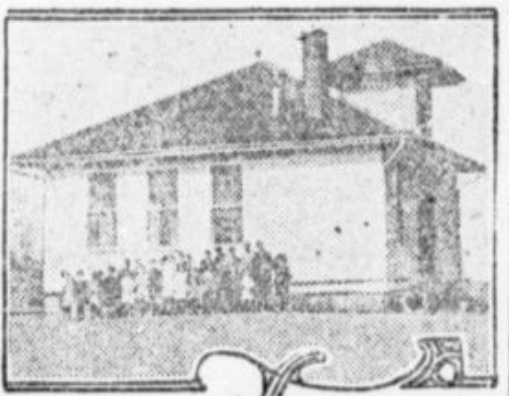

Plans are being discussed in many localities for larger grounds and better equipment. The teachers are being more carefully selected than in the past, and there is a general feeling that school problems should be fairly met and solved.

This feeling has resulted in marked activity in educational matters in all sections of the state. The county authorities have taken advantage of the new educational laws without delay.

The last legislature passed a law allowing county boards of education to provide supervisors to oversee the work done in the schools. At once over forty counties took advantage of the new law, and secured the services of one or more experts to assist the county superintendent in this supervision work.

Waynes county decided to try a rather unique plan of supervision, which seems to have worked admirably during the school year that has just closed. Instead of striving to reach the 105 small schools scattered over a large county that is often cut to pieces by swollen streams that flow through flat bottom lands the board of education decided to have fifteen supervisors.

These supervisors were all teachers of strong personality and wide experience. All of them held first class certificates and had had normal training.

Of course there was not enough supervision over 105 schools to keep fifteen supervisors busy, so each of them taught his or her own little school out in the county. If the supervisor had taught from Monday through Friday there would have been no time for visiting the other six schools in his group.

The plan outlined for this school year has been for the supervising teacher to hold school from Tuesday through Saturday, thus leaving Monday open for visiting the other schools. By visiting three schools each Monday the supervising teacher would be able to reach all six schools once every two weeks. This makes it possible for the county superintendent to have a report from an expert from every portion of the county twice a month.

With the supervisor handling a small group, bad roads cannot make the work impossible. There is also the added advantage that at the opening of the school year, when many young and rather inexperienced teachers are in great need of help, the supervisor is close at hand to give the required assistance.

Close and constant supervision is the price of success in any business, and our badly scattered rural schools are no exception. We have not got the returns from our expenditure of money on our rural schools because there was no supervision to learn where the leaks were and how they might be stopped or repaired.

Money and money in any amount needed will come as soon as supervision makes the public know that results will be obtained. Our children have been taught in any fashion that suited the individual that was in the neighborhood "keepin' school." Naturally the children did not know what was the matter when they failed to make suitable progress; neither did their parents.

Every one knew that the interest of both the children and their parents flagged. They also knew that many of the older children dropped out of school because they were thoroughly dissatisfied.

Reports from county superintendents all over the state show that there is a new spirit both in the teaching force and among the children under this new influence of supervision. It is a simple proposition. It is that both teachers and children are becoming conscious of definite work that is being done in a thoroughly systematic manner.

My Boy.

To "mother" he's ever "my boy,"
No matter how tall he may grow,
Wherever he goes or stays,
He's ever "my boy," you know.
The years may pile on his head;
The tasks which he may assume,
Still leave him ever "my boy,"
Tho' roses of youth cease to bloom.
Praise be when the words are said,
By lips which fain would sing;
When a flush of pride the words
To the wrinkled cheek can bring.
When the words are spoken aloud,
From a heart that thrills with joy,
And a glow of love appears,
When "mother" speaks of "my boy,"

Rooster Lays Egg.

West Point, Ky., May 13.—
Mrs. Henry Bunker owns the only egg-laying Leghorn rooster. The bird was added to her flock this spring and has a beautiful large red comb and a plump tail and all the marks of a pure bred Leghorn rooster. Mrs. Bunker noticed that the rooster would sit upon the nest and when in the yard would cackle like a hen.

Sunday morning Mr. Bunker found the rooster sitting upon a china nest egg and drove him off. No other fowls were about and directly the rooster went back on the nest, when Mr. Bunker again drove him off and was astonished to find a warm, moist freshly-laid egg beside the china egg. The rooster crowed and cackled just as is usual with hens after laying.

Church Dedication at Sturgis.

The solidarity of a country is shown in its buildings. Western Kentucky is growing more solid, her buildings show it. In Western Kentucky, Sturgis is a bright spot. With only 1460 inhabitants she has splendid church buildings and a first class graded and high school building. Four fine brick churches have been built here in as many years. The last has just been completed by the Christian congregation and will be dedicated Sunday, May 18th. Brother George L. Shively will dedicate and Brother M. Gano Buckner of Owensboro, will lead in a meeting, to follow immediately.

It will be a big event for Sturgis, a great reunion day for ex residents and one of inspiration for all friends who will go and share the celebration. Dinner will be served on the ground. All churches will unite in good fellowship and joy on this festive occasions.

"All is Well That Ends Well"

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness, sleeplessness and general ill health. Why? Because a disordered stomach does not permit the food to be assimilated and carried to the blood. On the other hand, the blood is charged with poisons which come from this disordered digestion. In turn, the nerves are not fed on good, red blood and we see those symptoms of nervous breakdown. It is not hard work that does it, but poor stomach work. With poor thin blood the body is not protected against the attack of germs of grip—bronchitis—consumption. Fortify the body now with Sells Interest in Department Store.

Mr. J. B. Simpson, who has been interested in the Providence Department Store since it was organized here, has sold his stock, amounting to $5,500, to Mr. F. W. Nichols and retired from the firm. Mr. Simpson states, however, that he will continue to make his home in Providence and may embark in other business later, which will be good news to his numerous friends.

By this deal Mr. Nichols, who was already interested in the firm and manager of the Department Store, becomes one of its largest stockholders. He is one of the city's most entergetic and popular young business men.—Providence Enterprise.

KRYL AND HIS BAND

FAMOUS ORGANIZATION TO BE HERE (CHAUTAUQUA WEEK)

Will Have 30 Players Including a Well-Known Harpist—Chautauquas of Last Year Request Return Engagement.

To all cities who boasted of a Redpath Chautauqua last summer, it will be welcome news that Bohumir Kryl and his band is to appear on all the chautauquas on this system again this season. The demand was so vigorous that he should come back another year that the Redpath would have been ungrateful indeed had it disregarded the people's request.

The band will be augmented this season by several more players, including a well known harpist.

Bohumir Kryl is today known as one of America's five great band masters, and as a cornet player he has no superior in America. It will be recalled that he laid down the sculptor's chisel, after completing the statue of Gen. Lew Wallace at Crawfordsville, Ind., and made music his life work thereafter, at the suggestion of Sousa, and that he immediately sprang into great prominence.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

"My sister's husband had an attack of rheumatism in his arm," writes a well known resident of Newton, Iowa. "I gave him a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment which he applied to his arm and on the next morning the rheumatism was gone." For chronic muscular rheumatism you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Liniment. Sold by all dealers.

DRAWN TO DEATH

Thirteen-Year-Old Boy Meets Death Near Louisa.

Louisa, Ky., May 12.—Marion Connelly, aged thirteen and his stepfather, Mr. Plummer, were driving their cow home when the animal became unruly. The boy had a rope around the cow's horns and the other end tied around his arm. The cow ran, dragging the boy after her. His head was crushed against a rock; one eye was torn out and his face so badly mangled that he was hardly recognizable. He only lived a half hour.

Moral—Don't tie yourself to a cow.

Guy Comes Back.

Guy Givens, who has been connected with the fresh meat department of the Providence Mining Company for the past five years returned to his former home at Marion last week to take charge of his father's meat market at that place. Guy and his family made many friends here who regret to lose them. His place is being filled at the company store by another former citizen of Marion, Mr. G. H. Thomas, who is now a well known and popular resident of this city. Mr. Thomas is an obliging, genial man, who will take pleasure in giving his attention to the patrons of this department.—Providence Enterprise.

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence

Gives the Farmer a Big Boost in making His Farm Prosperous

Did you ever notice that a prosperous farm is invariably well fenced, and is usually divided into small fields by a fence—horse-high, hog-tight and bull-strong? Why is it?

Because the prosperous farmer realizes that good fences are as necessary to successful farming as fertile seeds, efficient labor and proper machinery.

But the wise farmer investigates before he invests. Others just buy and are often "sold." "Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence is made with but one end in view—to give best service for the longest time at least cost. Investigating it costs nothing. Investing in it pays.

Made in Different Styles for FIELD, FARM, RANCH, LAWN, CHICKEN, POULTRY and RABBIT YARD and GARDEN

Every Rod Guaranteed

Ask your dealer for "Pittsburgh Perfect" and insist on his furnishing it. Do not allow him to persuade you that some other fence is just as good. If he doesn't sell it, write us direct.

Stories of The Town.

Things Serious and Frivolous Talked About on the Streets of the County Hub.

(Reported by R. C. HAYNES.)

It was one of those lazy spring days, when the sun shines warm and bright, and there seems to be "nothing doing" on the streets and very little in the shops and stores. Even the post-office seemed to fail to attract the interest usually attending the opening of the mail and the distribution of Uncle Sam's literature.

In the shade in front of one of our city barber shops, several men were congregated, some sitting on chairs, others seated on the edge of the sidewalk and a few standing close around—all seemingly interested in what was being said.

"Yes, gentlemen, old Nab was certainly the best all-around dog I ever saw," said a middle-aged man who occupied a prominent seat in the crowd of attentive listeners and who spoke as if in continuation of some truth he had been dealing out to his audience. "I trained him up from a pup and he would always—"

"Talking about dogs," spoke up Dog-Owner No. 2, "I had a dog—"

"He'd always do whatever I told him to," went on Dog-Owner No. 1, not heeding the interruption of Dog-Owner No. 2, "even at the risk of his own welfare or—"

"I once had a dog," again interrupted Dog-Owner No. 2, "named—"

"—or others," persisted Dog-Owner No. 1, "and I could always trust him. It is my custom on Saturday afternoon to take a half-holiday, so, on one occasion, instead of going out to the city, as I usually do, I decided to give the blamed town the go-by and go fishing instead. Whistling for the dog, I said to him, 'Now, Nab, by George, I'm going fishing and I want you to—'"

"Gentlemen, that recalls to my mind a dog I once had," spoke up Dog-Owner No. 3. "He is dead now, dog gone him, and I'm not grieving because of his demise. However, he was a good watch-dog, which it is sometimes needful to have, especially in the country. The dog's name was Bounce and he was thoroughly onto his job when it came to—"

"I'm going fishing, old Nab," went on Dog-Owner No. 1, ignoring the interruption of Dog-Owner No. 3, "and I want you to see that no one, man or beast, trespasses on our premises." The dog, in reply, wagged his tail and lay down in the shade just inside the gate. I lived then, as I do now, in the Chapel Hill section and as the weather seemed propitious, I set out for Claylick creek afoot and alone—"

"As I have already said," interrupted Dog-Owner No. 2, "I had a dog named—"

"—set out afoot and alone," persisted Dog-Owner No. 1, "paying no heed to the interruption of Dog-Owner No. 2. 'I always prefer going alone on such occasions, as, in this way, I can devote my whole attention to the catching of fish, and not be hindered by some one's tumbling into the creek or by conversation, as I never talk to myself. So I selected a good fishing-hole—'"

"I had a dog once named—" again put in Dog-Owner No. 2, but his remarks were cut short by Dog-Owner No. 1, who went on:

"—selected a good fishing-hole, took a seat on the bank and—"

"As I have just remarked, gentlemen," again spoke up Dog-Owner No. 3, "old Bounce was thoroughly onto his job when it came to lending his aid in protecting the premises against the encroachments of tramps or other persons who, in the dog's judgment, looked suspicious or might be wanting to trespass on the sacred precincts of our home. I, of course, was away from the house most of the time, be- out in the fields at work, and my wife had instructed old Bounce at all times to keep a sharp look-out for anything in the nature of tramps, she being rather distrustful of the hobo fraternity. When it came to danger, however, whether real or apparent, Fluffy was as brave as—"

"I had a dog once," interrupted Dog-Owner No. 2, "named—"

"—found a good fishing-hole," pursued Dog-Owner No. 1, "and—"

"I would suggest, gentlemen," spoke up Dog-Owner No. 4, "that Dog Owners Nos. 1 and 2 'yield the floor' for the present, and let Dog-Owner No. 3 continue his story uninterrupted. When the latter gentleman has finished his narrative, then the two story-tellers can take up their respective adventures, one at a time, and relate them to a happy or disastrous conclusion. In this way, by George, we avoid getting the plots confused, the dogs mixed up, to say nothing of the dog-owners themselves."

The suggestion of Dog-Owner No. 4 met with the approval of both the audience and the story-tellers.

"As I have just said," went on Dog-Owner No. 3, in compliance with the suggestion above given, "my wife, though rather distrustful of tramps, was, in case of danger, real or imaginary, as brave as a rough rider. My son Bill, likewise, was no coward, by George, and had aided much in the training of old Bounce. Leaving out tramps and other persons of a suspicious-looking appearance, the dog was of a friendly nature and was very fond of all the family, especially myself."

"I have never been accounted particularly good-looking, being long and gangling and green-looking; and, at the time to which I refer, I wore on my face a heavy beard—chin-whiskers, sideburns and mustache. The beard was long and thick and of a reddish color. I was rather proud of my facial adornment, notwithstanding its off color. Fluffy, however, looked upon my whiskers with disfavor and was not backward in speaking disparagingly of what she termed their unsightliness. My son Bill—who was just arriving at the age when a boy begins to part his hair in the middle and to cast sheep's eyes at the neighbor girls—had his fun at my expense. But I knew a thing or two about whiskers—more than Fluffy or Bill. I knew, by George, that, properly displayed, they often cover up a multitude of ugliness. So, by George, I let 'em stand."

"One afternoon in November," continued Dog-Owner No. 3, "I bridled and saddled old Belzie, as good a mule as ever man mounted. He was christened Beelzebub; but we called him Belzie, because the name was shorter and as Fluffy said, more euphonious. I had rigged up the mule for the purpose of riding out to town, so I mounted his back and rode off in that direction, arriving there in due time."

"After knocking around, walking up and down the streets, to see who was and who was not in town, I sat down with one of my neighbors just outside a barber shop and began, in a friendly way, to discuss the political situation."

"Reuben," spoke up a barber, opening the door of the shop just wide enough to thrust his head out, 'you are next!'"

"Who?—me?" I asked, in surprise. "I didn't know, by George, that I was next or the next after the next. However, if you can fix me up without disrupting your prices, I will give you a job," and down I went into the tonsorial chair. After all, I reflected, it will be a pleasant surprise to Fluffy, bless her heart."

"So I instructed the barber to make a clean sweep—chin-whiskers, sideburns, mustache and all—and off they went. By George, my face was as slick as a peeled onion and I was, to all appearances, a new man."

"After I left the barber's shop, I went out on the streets, introduced myself to a number of my neighbors, smoked a few cigars and had a very good time."

"Ever since I married, I have made it a rule that whenever I go to town to leave the city in time to get home by sunset, and I meant that this occasion should not be an exception. When I was about ready to start for home, however, the dad-gum sheriff summoned me to serve on a blamed jury. By the time the case was ended, and we had put it to the defendant to the amount of five dollars for monkeying with the dignity of the commonwealth, the evening shadows were creeping over the earth."

"As soon as I was discharged from official duty, I made haste to depart for home, knowing that Fluffy, bless her heart, would be awaiting supper for me and wondering at the delay in my return. So I made at once for the hitching-place where I had left old Belzie."

"Right here, gentlemen, is where the trouble began. Do you think that blamed mule would let me mount him? No, by George, he wouldn't. He evidently didn't recognize me and would, therefore, have nothing to do with me."

"Failing to make myself known to him and having no time to waste, I called to a couple of my neighbors who had not yet left town, and they came to my assistance."

"Unhitching the mule, the two neighbors placed themselves one on each side of the animal's head in such a way that he couldn't see me, and so I went up to him and climbed upon his back."

"As soon as the two men had stepped aside, old Belzie glanced back, as if to see who had mounted him, shook his head and started off down the road toward home."

"From his maneuvers, I knew he had passed an adverse judgment on my case, that in his opinion I had no right on his back, and I was aware also, by George, that he had it in for me if he got half a show."

"Get along now, Beelzebub," I said, using his full name, which I always did when I wanted to be on particularly friendly terms with him."

"At the sound of my voice the mule again glanced back, as if to confirm his opinion of the spuriousness of his passenger, and a second time shook his head. Old Belzie had not even recognized my voice!"

"It was no wonder, though, for with the loss of my whiskers and the cool, damp air blowing against my unprotected face, I had taken cold, and my voice, even now, sounded unnatural and somewhat funereal with its hoarseness."

"I was a doggone good horseman in those days, however, and I had no fear of old Belzie's tricks, whatever they might be, or of being dislodged from his back."

"Get up, Belzie, confound you," I said, in a wheezy voice, as the mule took his way down the road at a rather slow gate. In reply, old Belzie shook his head, gave a few mild bucks—as if he meant only to give me a mere foretaste of what he could do, if occasion demanded—and again started off at the same rate of speed, as if to show me, by George, that he'd do as he dad-gum pleased about increasing his pace."

"Although it has been said that one must reason with a mule, I thought it best, on this occasion, to humor the animal, as I was, to his way of looking at things, a stranger and an interloper, and, in this way, I reflected, he will soon get used to my new facial expression and we will become as good friends as ever."

So on we went down the road, traveling at a moderate pace, sometimes in a walk and at other times in a slow trot. We passed Crooked creek and had soon reached the point near which I lived. I was impatient to get home and surprise Fluffy. I knew the dear thing would be pleased by the absence of my whiskers.

"As we neared home, old Belzie increased his speed. Presently we came up near where the road forked, one road leading up the lane to my home and the other on down to Ford's Ferry."

"I could see that old Belzie was uneasy lest I should want him to keep on down the Ford's Ferry road, and I could discern also that he had an idea that he would not do so."

"Just to tease him and to see what he would do, when we got to the division in the road I touched the mule's sides with my two heels, pulled the reins in the direction of Ford's Ferry and said, in a husky voice:

"Get along, Belzie!"

"What old Belzie did on that occasion—right then and there—was, to Billy would say, a plenty!"

EDITOR'S NOTE. This stirring adventure, as told by Dog-Owner No. 3, will be continued in this department of the Record-Press next week.

Conductor — "Beg pardon, ma'am, for dropping the nickel; I'll get it for you right away. Excuse these gloves too—they get so dirty handling the money, my wife hates to wash 'em. Says she can't get 'em clean."

Anty Drudge — "Well, that's a sad state of affairs. Get her to try Fels-Naptha Soap and she'll complain no more about washing your clothes. No backaches from Fels-Naptha or hard work either. Your wife can do a day's washing before noon if she uses it."

When Fels-Naptha Soap is used the hanging out is the hardest part of the washing.

No boiling.
No fire to keep red hot; no tiring and tedious rub-a-dub on the wash-board.

Fels-Naptha Soap itself does the hardest part of the washday work—loosening the dirt in cool or lukewarm water.

An infant of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Asbridge is quite sick. Miss Alma Campbell is on the sick list, at this writing.

Quite a number from the Emmaus neighborhood, attended church at this place Sunday. Come again friends, we are glad to have all that will attend our services.

Miss Lula Wheeler and sister, Miss Hattie, of near Mayfield, were guests of their sister, Mrs. Percy Brasher, last week. Miss Lula formerly taught school at Boaz school house and made many friends while here who welcomes her into this vicinity. Corn planting in full blast.

Mrs. Nannie Patton was in Dycusburg, Thursday to see her sister, Mrs. Fannie Harpe, who is very sick.

Some agents with us and plenty of candidates.

Mrs. Ida Davis is quite sick. Revs. Gibbs and McNeeley, of Marion, visited our church Saturday and Sunday in the interest of District Mission and handling books. Rev. Gibbs preached an excellent sermon. It usually means a fine sermon to see Rev. Gibbs before a congregation. Rev. McNeeley made a very interesting talk in regard to their work. In conclusion, we bid them God speed on their journey through life.

Notice.

I will have a carload of corn and tobacco fertilizer at Repton, Ky., about May 5th, 1913. The price is right. See me.

LEAD AND ZINC ORES

The Percentage of Zinc and Lead from the Dirt Mined and Concentrated in Several States.

OTHER MINING NEWS.

The Press has received a Bulletin from the Geological Survey giving the percentage of zinc and lead concentrates from the ton of ore or dirt in several of the states where these two ores are extensively mined. For the benefit of those not fully informed in the phrases used it will be understood that one per cent of a short ton is twenty pounds when speaking of any kind of mineral. In concentrating or cleaning the ore from the dirt a perfect, clean separation is rarely if ever made. A pure zinc blend consists of 67 per cent, metallic zinc and 33 per cent of sulphur, ordinarily in preparing this ore for the smelter or cleaning it 55 to 60 per cent of metallic zinc is considered good work. Galena or lead ore is made up of 87 per cent of metallic lead and 13 of sulphur but our commercial concentrates rarely go above 80 per cent in metallic lead. A very great quantity of sulphuric acid is produced by most zinc and lead smelters from the sulphur carried in these ores for which the mining man receives nothing for the sulphur. Our zinc and lead ores or the mineral bearing dirt in this district yields percentages of both lead and zinc very much greater than in the sections of country herein named. Down at Carrsville the zinc contents of the entire vein on the banks of the Ohio analyses 43 per cent, or 860 pounds of metallic zinc to the ton, at the Eclipse mine near Marion the yield shows perhaps 15 per cent, or 300 pounds to the ton of dirt. As will be noticed in the following summary the yield per ton of zinc is very much lower elsewhere.

In Kansas the crude ore yielded three-tenths of one per cent., or 6 pounds of lead, and one and six-tenths per cent., or 32 pounds of zinc to the ton.

In Oklahoma the lead contents of the crude ore was 34 pounds of lead and 102 pounds of zinc to the ton.

In Missouri the average yield from the crude ore or mineral bearing dirt in 1912 was two and fourteen-hundredths per cent., or 43 pounds of zinc and twenty-seven-hundredths of one per cent., or a little over 5 pounds to the ton, of lead.

The sales in Missouri in 1912 of these two metals amounted to nearly thirty-five million of dollars, in Kansas to not quite two million dollars; in Arkansas one hundred and six thousand dollars; in Illinois six hundred and seventy-nine thousand dollars; in Oklahoma one million and one hundred thousand dollars; in Wisconsin nearly five million dollars; in Kentucky seventy-seven thousand dollars.

Western Kentucky during the past few months as has been intimated in the Press has shown in many prospects both lead and zinc in volume and percentages much greater than was supposed to exist a year ago.

There seems to be a very broad belt of land in these two or three counties that it is practically certain will yield an enormous tonnage of these two metals. At the moment several of the larger smelting companies are negotiating for property in this section.

The Wheatcroft Fluor Spar property near Mexico, Ky., some eight miles from Marion, has been prospected upon by various parties for many months, and until last week with but indifferent results. During the past few days an exceptionally broad vein of high quality fluor spar has been opened, fully a hundred feet from where our most eminent geologists pointed out as the proper place where it should be. Developments of the most interesting financial nature are generally obtained either from the farmer who originally owned the land or from the working miner who closely

Studebaker

"That's the sixth Studebaker we've passed—the only kind to invest in"

"The only kind—because, as I always say, when a man puts money in a thing he wants to know that he's going to get the worth of it out again."

"That's plain business as I look at it."

"That's why I say the price doesn't tell you anything at all. There's only one thing that talks—except the wagon itself. That's the name of the maker."

"When you buy a Studebaker you're buying a vehicle that has behind it and in it sixty years of experience—sixty years of success—and sixty years of reputation for the square deal. That's why a Studebaker always looks good to me."

"My father used to say that Studebaker honor was as sure as a United States bank note. He was talking after having used Studebaker vehicles since he was a lad, and he told me his father before him said, 'Be safe—get a Studebaker.'"

"Vehicle builders can't hold that sort of reputation nowadays without delivering the goods. A Studebaker wagon has the best in it. That's why a man gets the most out of it—why it's always an economy."

"Dealers may say to you something else is 'just as good.' But when you buy a Studebaker, you're making a safe investment every time."

scans the ground under his feet. In this instance the information came from the workman who had made the ground under his feet a study. The property has in the past been held by several different companies but finally reverted to the original purchasers who will reap the reward of sticking to it.

Down in the Crittenden Springs section a shaft of some 35 to 40 feet in depth with a drift on the vein perhaps twice the length of the shaft has developed a superb body of real acid quality fluor spar. The vein of mineral is a solid one, fully four feet in width and is of that crystallized character that makes one think of artificial ice. The very low cost of developing a property of this character is emphasized in the fact that Mr. Courtney Harris, the lessee from Messrs. Roberts and Persons, pays one dollar and a half per ton royalty, besides all of the mining expenses, yet through the output of this grade of mineral he has the pleasure of seeing his bank balance steadily increasing.

Speaking of Crittenden Springs brings many happy memories of the by-gone days when that horrible tasting sulphur water was prescribed for every ill that either man or woman felt heir to. If one could not drink it he bathed in it, and if that was too much sulphuretted hydrogen, he paid a boy to go down to the old gum log, hollowed out to hold the water and the innocent boy would lose his innocence; nobody could really be good and love his Sunday school and his church after a course of Crittenden Springs water. Looking backward as per Edward Bellamy, we recall as lovers of that water, Senator Debow, Senator James, Senator Maxwell, Dr. Moore, Sam Gugenheim, Tom Yandell, Columbus Acres and a host of others—where are they now? But the dreamy waltzes, the midnight chicken suppers, the watermelon seances on the broad galleries just before sunrise, after all, there is much pleasure in looking backward, is there not?

Best Medicine For Colds

When a druggist recommends a remedy for colds, throat and lung troubles, you can feel sure that he knows what he is talking about. C. Lower, druggist, of Marion, Ohio, writes of Dr. King's New Discovery: "I know Dr. King's New Discovery is the best throat and lung medicine I sell. It cured my wife of a severe bronchial cold after all other remedies failed. It will do the same for you if you are suffering with a cold or any bronchial, throat or lung cough. Keep a bottle on hand all the time for everyone in the family to use. It is a home doctor. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Guaranteed by Jas. H. Orme or Haynes & Taylor."

I. C. and Southern Will Established Steamship Lines.

Information of interest to local shippers came yesterday when it was learned that the Transportation Committee of the Louisville Board of Trade was preparing to send out circulars regarding the establishment of two new steamship lines from New Orleans to South America by the Illinois Central and Southern railroads. The new lines will touch Montevideo and Buenos Aires, Argentina. John T. Telford, secretary of the Transportation Committee, has written for further information regarding the new lines. Upon receipt of this information, he will send out circulars to local shippers, who do a large business with the South America countries. Courier-Journal.

What They Think of Jim

Summer's at Home.

There are few men in Livingston county who are better and more favorable known than Jim Summers and in placing his candidacy before the voters of the county for the office of representative there is nothing that could be said of him as a citizen and high toned christian gentleman that is not already known by our readers.

Though handicapped by an "empty sleeve" Mr. Summers has made a success as a farmer and a business man and his counsel has often been sought by his fellow farmers on important business questions and he has been called upon to serve there co-operative organizations in position of importance. Such a man is admirably qualified to serve as a legislator and he will doubtless have a large following in this and Crittenden counties where he is equally as well known and respected.—Livingston Banner.

A CARD.

To the Democrats of Crittenden Co., having been solicited by numerous Democrats from the various sections of the county to allow my name to be entered in the August primary for the Democratic nomination for the office of County Judge. I have, after a careful consideration for several weeks, decided to offer myself as a candidate for the place.

In so doing, I assure you that I am fully aware of the responsibilities that the position carries, and I feel that I can discharge the duties of the office to the satisfaction of the people of the county, and likewise in the interest of the taxpayers.

If nominated, I shall do my utmost in every honorable way, to carry your banner to victory in November.

If elected I shall be the official of all the people in the county and stand for progress all along the line and economy in the expenditures of the county funds consistent with efficient service. You did me the honor four years ago to offer me the nomination which I now seek, this I was forced to decline for reasons given the committee at the time.

If you feel that I can, and will serve you honestly and well I shall appreciate your support and I assure you that no willful act of mine shall give you cause of regret for having supported me.

Yours Most Respectfully

FLUOR SPAR SHIPMENTS

As Reported by the Geological Survey.

A Press Bulletin issued by the United States Geological Survey received by us yesterday confirms our statement of last week that the amount of fluor spar mined and marketed last year was by far the greatest ever recorded. The number of tons was 116,545 an increase over 1911 of 29,497 tons. The value at the Mines amounted to $769,163 an increase over 1911 of $157,716. The average price obtained for all classes gravel, lump and ground was $6.60 a decrease of 42 cents per ton from the year before. The fluor spar output of Colorado, New Hampshire and New Mexico in 1912 was but 2,135 tons.

We regret that Mr. Clem S. Nunn, who was slated to read a paper before the Lexington meeting of miners will not be able to be present. His views have been incorporated in a communication and will be read to the members. Mr. Nunn is a real forty niner in fluor spar, his enthusiasm for the mining interests of this district for many, many years has cost him years of time and bushels of money. If the same absorbing interest had been displayed by him in politics Western Kentucky would have furnished a straight old style, dyed in the wool democrat for President of the United States by the name of Clem S. Nunn.
