NEAR NINETIETH MILE-STONE

Thomas Jefferson Yandell Crossed
The Divide Tuesday Morning at Early Dawn.

Tuesday morning Sept. 9th at 4.30 o'clock Jeff Yandell one of the county's oldest and best known citizens died at his home 3 miles south of the city on the Dycusburg road. He had been in ill health for some weeks of diseases incident to old age but did not get beyond hope until Saturday since when his death has been momentarily expected. He is survived by his wife who was Miss Vicia Armstrong, and by one son, D. A. Yandell and a daughter Lucy wife of Marshall Nunn. Thomas Jefferson Yandell was born near where the city of Marion now stands but seventeen years before Marion was laid out, his date of birth being Nov. 13th 1825.

The funeral was conducted by his pastor Rev. A. J. Thomson, Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock at Chapel Hill church of which he was a charter member. He was a charter member of the Masonic lodge also and the Masons attended the funeral in a body and gave the remains the Masonic burial.

A Reunion.

A reunion was held at the home of Mrs. Ira D. Nunn on August 31 to celebrate the home-coming of her daughter, Mrs. E. B. Haynes, of Fillmore, California, after an absence of almost twelve years. Her children were all present, also several other relatives and friends. Among those present were the following:

Clarence Berry and wife, Gertrude Nunn and little daughter, Beula, and son, Edgar, of Sullivan; Ray Duke Nunn and wife Ben B. Franklin and wife, Margaret, and daughter, Corinne, and son Eugene Shaw, of the home place; her brother-in-law, T. J. McConnell, and wife, her only sister, Walter McConnell wife and baby, Margratha, Miss Carrie McConnell, Mrs. Olive and Master James Flannery, all of Marion; Roe Crider, wife, and little daughter, Oline, of Rosebud; Marion McConnell, of Fredonia; Geo. H. Nunn, wife, and daughters, Anna Hays, Georgia Helen, Iva Christine, and son, Douglas, of Blackford, Will Hughes and wife, of Rodney; Oscar Nunn and wife, Miss Ina Burton, and Mr. Albert Clark of Applegate.

The dinner was greatly enjoyed as was the conversation in the afternoon. Taking it all in all it was a day long to be remembered by all. The home, a large grove, swings and ices made it an ideal place for them to have the time of their lives, not forgetting that dust could be found to play in, too. When departing all wished that there might be another such coming together.

Feddie Hunt Critically Ill.

Feddie Hunt, the fifteen year old daughter of Mrs. Robert Allen, of the Iron Hill who has been critically ill for some weeks with droupy and tuberculosis, of the lungs and died Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Tuesday telegrams were sent to her grandfather, Rev. J. Riley Clark, who is absent from the city conducting a revival at Devils Bluff, Arkansas, calling him home.

COUNTY SING- ING CONVENTION

A Large Crowd in Attendance and
This Interesting Affair.

The county singing convention met at Repton church Saturday, Sept. 6th. A large crowd was present, and the exercises were opened by singing by Repton choir followed by devotional exercises by Rev. B. F. Hyde, who also delivered the welcome address. Cave Springs' choir then took charge of the singing. This choir did good singing, and showed they had good training. They were followed by Rosebud choir who also delivered some excellent music led by Decimal Crowell. After a song by the entire congregation, the choir from the Second Baptist church, of Marion, with Geo. Gass as leader were next, and many comments were made upon the spirit with which they sang and upon the selections they made. This was followed by a recitation, "The Gift of God to Fallen Man" by Miss Lockie Powell, after which Repton choir took charge of the music until the noon hour. At 1:30 o'clock p. m., the congregation was brought together again by singing, followed by prayer by Bro. Walker, music by Rosebud choir, then a talk on music was made by Mrs. Frank Cowen, followed by singing by Marion's choir. Mrs. E. M. Davall made an interesting talk on the "Blessings of Music," not only here on earth but in heaven also, and said that when we are singing praises here that it should be with the hope and expectation of singing in God's choir in the other land. Her address was followed by a quartet by Joseph Foster and family then a duet by Marion choir, music by Rosebud choir, quartet by Messrs. Travis, Crowell, O'Neal and Crowell, then there were two recitations, "The Old Violin" by Dewey Powell; and "Songs in Heaven," by Velma Fritts; solo, by Guthrie Travis; address by Bro. Walker; song by congregation; Doxology and dismissed by prayer by Rev. Hosea Paris.

The next convention will be held at Baker church on Saturday before the third Sunday in this month. Everybody invited to attend.

New Postmaster at Providence.

Providence has a Democratic postmaster for the first time in seventeen years. Mr. F. A. Casner, who recently received the appointment, got his commission last week and was duly installed as postmaster Monday morning. He enters upon his duties like an old hand at the business and every one is predicting that he will make a fine official. Always cheerful, courteous and painstaking it is not believed the public will ever have any cause of complaint during his tenure of office and that he will do everything possible for the betterment of the service. No other changes will be made in the office force at present, the same efficient corps of deputies being retained until Mr. Casner becomes more familiar with the work. - Dixon Journal.

Lind's Mission Accomplished.

New York, Sept. 3. - The Herald this morning prints the following:

John Lind reported to the President that he regarded his mission in Mexico as successfully accomplished. The direct and positive assurance that Huerta won't be a candidate for the presidency at the coming election has, it is stated, been given to the United States by Gamboa, who acted as Huerta's spokesman in the negotiations, and gave this assurance to O'Shaughnessy.

Will Watkins Wins Worthy Wife.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hunt announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary, to William James Watkins. The ceremony is to take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Covington, on South Seventh street, on the evening of September 24, at 5 o'clock. Rev. W. M. Wood, pastor of the First Baptist church, will perform the ceremony. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Watkins, former residents of this city. He is connected with the Payne Fire Roofing company at Birmingham. Miss Hunt is a very charming and popular young member of the society set of Mayfield. - Paducah News Democrat.

W. B. Yates at Home Again.

W. B. Yates, the song evangelist, has returned to the city after an absence of several months. Early in July he went to Guthrie, Okla., where a successful meeting was conducted at a large camp at the mineral wells. He went thence there to Wichita, Kan., and helped in the greatest meeting he was ever engaged in, 600 professing faith in Christ, in ten days. Two thousand were in camp. Rev. Robertson, who is known here, assisted in the meeting. He then went to Eldorado, Ill., where Rev. H. C. Morrison, of Louisville, assisted in the meeting which was quite successful. Bro. Yates will go next to Greenville, Tenn., to conduct the singing exercises in a big meeting.

THOSE WATER WORKS BONDS

City Owned Water and Sewer System Important to Our Progressive Citizenship.

The City Council in regular monthly session Tuesday evening with the Mayor, City attorney, and all councilmen present voted unanimously to call an election this fall on the question of the issuance of bonds to the amount of $25,000 to install a system of water works here, and $20,000 to install a sewerage system. The drought and great scarcity of water, and the fires we have had encourage the advocates of the water sewer bonds to believe the people are ready to vote them in this fall, notwithstanding the fact that the measure was defeated at the last general election.

An order was entered also directing the Marshal to notify J. Watt Lamb to remove at once or within thirty days the house on his lot adjoining the Main st. Presbyterian church or to put same in perfect sanitary conditions and that upon the failure to do so the city attorney was directed to proceed against him for maintaining a nuisance in the center and on the Main st. of the city. Many claims for street work, lumber, sewer pipe and etc., were allowed.

Historic College Sold.

Princeton, Ky., Sept. 9. - The historic Princeton Collegiate Institute, located here, has been sold to C. F. Lester, a well known hotel man of this place.

U. S. A., and was consolidated a few weeks ago with the Kentucky College for Women at Danville, Ky., to be used as a preparatory school, the Hon. John G. Miller, of Paducah, was the trustee that had the sale consummated.

Meeting Closes at Corinth

Rev. James F. Price has just closed a meeting at Corinth, near Russellville. The attendance was fine all the time and the deportment ideal. It was a great revival for the church. There were four professions and four additions.

Rev. Price goes to Louisville this week to meet with the Synodical Sunday School Committee. From there he goes to Ebenezer, near Greensburg, to hold a meeting.

Will Build Sample

Pieces of Good Roads.

Henderson, Ky., Sept. 9. - The teachers of Henderson county voted unanimously Friday afternoon to build a short stretch of good roads in front of their school houses. They will enlist the aid of the pupils of schools and try to instill them with a desire for better roads in the county. The hope is to make every pupil an apostle of good roads.

The teachers also passed resolutions favoring the erection of a tuberculosis hospital in Henderson county and in favor of the extension of libraries to the rural districts.

MARION GIRL BECOMES BRIDE

Miss Pearl Hill Led to the Altar
By A. L. Seymour at Amarillo, Texas.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized at 8 o'clock Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Enoch, 610 Madison street, when their sister, Miss Pearl Hill, was given in marriage to A. L. Seymour, J. G. Pace, a minister of the Church of Christ, officiating.

The color scheme of pink and white was attractively carried out in the decorations. In the center of the dining room table on an embroidered centerpiece, was a bowl of fern leaves and pink and white carnations were used about the parlor. An arch was formed of vines in the door between the dining room and parlor, and large ferns were placed on either side, from these ferns were pink and white ribbons fastened to posts of pink and white, which improvised a very pretty altar, the lights were covered with pink and white shades and pink and white candles shed their soft light over the rooms.

Preceding the bride and groom were the little flower girls, Juanita Ross Young and Vera Maude Agard, each taking their place at the posts of the altar; the bride and groom were met as they entered the parlor by Mr. Pace, who pronounced the solemn and pretty marriage ceremony.

The bride wore a lovely gown of white de chine with trimmings of lace and the lace overskirt was caught with a spray of lilies-of-the-valley, and she carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The little flower girls were daintily gowned in white embroidered dresses, the one with the pink ribbons carrying pink carnations and the other wearing white ribbons and carrying white carnations.

After the congratulations Mr. and Mrs. Seymour went to their home 1619 Pierce street, where they were received by a party of friends, and a happy social evening was enjoyed. Without the formality of a wedding journey the pair will be at home to their friends at the pretty home which was prepared to receive the bride.

Many beautiful and useful gifts bespeak the popularity of this couple, coming from their friends both in and out of the city. They are well known in Amarillo, the bride having come here from Marion, Ky., about three years ago, and the groom one of the city mail carriers. - Amarillo Daily News Tuesday, Sept. 2nd.

-Editorial note. Mrs. Seymour is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey S. Hill of the Chapel Hill section and a sister of Mrs. L. E. Crider of this city. She is a young woman of refinement and culture and is noted for her modest and sweet manner, she is beloved by every one who knows her, and her husband would be showered with congratulations should he visit Marion.

A Hand on The Shoulder.

When a man ain't got a cent,
And he's feeling kind of blue,
And the clouds hang dark an' heavy,
An' you sort o' feel a flutter
It's a great thing, O my brethren,
For a feller just to lay
His hand upon your shoulder
In a friendly sort o' way.

It makes a man feel curious,
It makes the tear-drops start,
An' you sort o' feel a flutter
In the region of the heart;
You can look up and meet his eyes;
You don't know what to say
When his hand is on your shoulder
In a friendly sort o' way.

Oh, the world's a curious compound,
With its honey and its gall,
With its cares and bitter crosses—
But a good word after all.
An' a good God must have made it—
Leastways, that is what I say
When a hand is on my shoulder
In a friendly sort o' way.

SPIRITISM SAID TO BE DEMONISM.

A most interesting little brochure has recently come off the press setting forth with Bible proofs that the communications received by and through Spiritist Mediums is of Demon origin. The writer traces his subject through the Scriptures from the time when certain of the holy angels became disobedient. He proves from the Scriptures that these fallen spirits personate the human dead, with whose past history, spirits, though invisible, are thoroughly acquainted. He shows that they also frequently personate the Creator and the Redeemer, commanding their deceived ones to pray, do penance, etc. This, however, is merely to lead them on and to bring them more thoroughly under demonic control. Sometimes by breaking down the natural barrier, the human will, they possess their victim, and rule him more or less to his ruin—frequently sending such to the mad-house. Numerous illustrations, Scriptural and otherwise, are given. The price of the little book is but five cents; it should be in the hands of all interested in Spiritism or who have friends interested therein. Enclose stamps to the Bible and Tract Society, 17 Hicks Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

EATS GLASS AND MATCHES, LIVES

Queer Mixture of Ostrich Food Gulped Without Avail By Prisoner.

As a result of eating a diet of round glass and match heads, Carl Rudd, alias "Little Polly," a prisoner in the McCracken county jail, is in a serious condition. Rudd is charged with the offenses of housebreaking and grand larceny, and while awaiting trial at the September term became despondent and tried to hurry up things. Rudd first broke up the electric light globes placed in his cell and ate the fine particles of glass. This failed to hustle him off and then he brocked several soft drink bottles, and ate the glass.

The week Rudd took a box of matches and the heads and placed them in his soup. He drank the mixture and it made him sick, but he is still alive and Dr. Pendley is not worried over his condition. Rudd is about 30 years old.

Skeletons of Soldiers.

Defiance, Ohio, Sept. 9.—When making excavations at old Ft. Winchester, work men today found skeletons of 10 soldiers. The graves were 20 inches below the surface of the earth, each being covered with walnut slabs.

Most of the bones crumbled to dust when touched. Some, however, were well preserved and partially petrified.

Buttons from uniforms also were found.

Ft. Winchester was constructed by General Wm. Harrison during the war of 1812, and was the first fort constructed in the Maumee Valley by American forces during this campaign.

At one time the fort was garrisoned by a regiment of soldiers, most of whom participated in the siege of Ft. Meigs in May, 1813, preceding Perry's victory of Lake Erie.

Farmers Union Picnic Held at J. M. McConnell.

Dear Editor:

Having enjoyed the honor of being invited before the people in a great social feast given by the Farmer's Union Aug. 30 1913 on the premises of J. M. McConnell, I desire to offer it for publication.

There was about 700 people in attendance while every man woman and child seemed to throw back into oblivion every adverse feeling known or felt, forming a solid body of love, peace and good will towards all mankind.

The entertainment was made up with fine instrumental music. The dinner was there in a large quantity and as sumptuous as hands could prepare it.

The speakers were; J. W. Burton, J. E. Baker, Homer Nichols all of Caldwell co, J. M. Walker concluding the exercises.

This was one of the most enjoyable occasions we have ever noted in the history of our lives and one that will be put down on the sweetest memory of all, cherishing the fondest hopes hopes that lasting good will be ultimate results, promulgating both to the social circles and the upbuilding of the farmer's organization.

Who will offer the next such entertainment. "Let's hold fast to that which is good," "Love, peace and good will toward all men."

Respectfully,
I. W. Burton.

Helpful Hints To Those Who Work For Pay.

Charles Lamb said that when he reached his office fifteen minutes late he always went away half an hour earlier, so as to make the matter right. This was a joke. The chronic late is always marked on the time book for a lay off when times get "scarce." Your interests are the interests of the house—be on time.

As to the habit of getting everything packed and ready for a quick scot when the bell rings, this does not mean for you a raise. Work as if you owned the place and perhaps you may.

Young men who loiter around the entrance to the store, or factory, and smoke, gossip, chew and spit, would do well to eliminate it. Be peculiar, and when you come to your work go to work, even if it be five minutes before time. This habit marks the difference between the youth who is going to be for man and the others who have no luck.

To guy visitors or give short, sharp, flippant even to stupid or impudent people, is a great mistake. Meet rudeness by unflinching patience and politeness and see how much better you feel.

as a gossiping convenience. If your duties are to 'phone, say what is to be said quietly, intelligently and briefly. There are houses that are known by their courteous telephoning. Loss of temper at a 'phone gains nothing. Telephoning courtesy is a great thing, as courtesy always is.

The habit of borrowing small sums of money, anticipating pay day is a pernicious practice and breaks many a friendship. It is no kindness to loan money to a professional borrower.

Always be circumspect and courteous. Bear the faults of some, the impoliteness of others, and pardon everybody sooner than yourself.

Responsibilities gravitate to the person who can shoulder them, and power flows to the man who knows how. Don't worry!

Employees should be dignified in deportment, and not wrestle, hug, trip, jostle. These things all make an impression on customers, and a bad impression.

Graft, grand or petty, is moral, financial and spiritual skidoo for any man who indulges in it.

Never conceal unfinished work under blotters, in pigeonholes or drawers, depending on memory to find it. If necessary to leave unfinished work, it should be placed on the desk in sight, under a weight, so if you do not come back in the morning, the other man will know just where things are and what to do.

One of the most precious possessions in life is good health. Eat moderately, breathe deeply, exercise out of doors and get 8 hours sleep.

Never use letter paper or envelopes to figure on for memoranda, it shows you do not realize that the first requisite in business is economy. The same rule applies to burning of lights that are not needed; whether there is a meter or "flat rate" makes no difference—avoid waste.

There are valuable positions always opening up in any progressive concern. Be ready to be promoted. Promotions go straight to the cheery, intelligent worker.

Learn from your mistakes, but don't cry over them. We best redeem the past by forgetting it

Do not disparage rivals, nor run down another man's goods. If you do not not know what to say, say nothing.—Fra Elbertus.

BEATS TOBACCO WITH RYE CROP

Clifford King Plants Eight Acres
In Grain and Realizes Bigger Net Profit.

Here is a story for people interested one way or another in the tobacco situation.

Clifford King, a Corydon merchant, has a farm not far from town. Last year he had eight acres of tobacco raised on his land. It was a fairly good crop, probably above the average.

He took it to a Stemming District Association ware house and got one-third cash and two-thirds in warehouse receipts.

This he was discouraged over the tobacco outlook, and declared to grow something else on the land. He sowed rye on the same eight acres, and made more money than he made out of the tobacco crop last year.

"I not only made more money out of the rye," said Mr. King to a gleaner man yesterday, "but the cultivation required far less than half as much labor."

Mr. King's case probably is exceptional, but it is good evidence of what can be done by farmers who realize that the future of tobacco growing in this reason is not encouraging.

Diarrhoea Quickly Cured.

"I was taken with diarrhoea and Mr. Yorks, the merchant here, persuaded me to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. After taking one dose of it I was cured. It also cured others that I gave it to," writes M. E. Gebhart, Oriole, Pa. That is not at all unusual. An ordinary attack of diarrhoea can almost invariably be cured by one or two doses of this remedy. For sale by all dealers.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or impaired hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by a catarrh of the Eustachian Tube, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Sends Man to Washington.

Vera Cruz Mex., Sept. 9.—Prepared to play a roll almost identical with that of John Lind the personal representative of the President of the United States, Manuel de Zamacona former Ambassador at Washington, sailed from here this afternoon and will proceed immediately to the American Capital. It is understood that Senor de Zamacona will take up the diplomatic end of the case at Washington for General Huerta and that he will take up unofficially as the Provisional President's representative, with sufficient power, however, to undertake negotiations. What proposals he has been instructed to place before Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan are not known generally, but it is believed he will urge the necessity of more cordial co-operation between the two governments and even recognition in order that the best interest of both be conserved. It is asserted that President Wilson will be assured of the good faith of Gen. Huerta in refraining from becoming a candidate for the presidency and of the holding of the election in October.

It is also expected Senor de Zamacona will point out the absurdity from Gen. Huerta's point of view of entering into any agreement with the rebels, especially since the contention of the government is that the greater part of the enemies of the government have no connection with any organized army of rebellion, but belong to the bandit element.

The sending of Senor de Zamacona to Washington is regarded ed here as indicating a desire on the part of Gen. Huerta to entrust his case to a dependent lieutenant to place before Secretary Bryan or President Wilson himself, instead of having to deal with the unofficial representative, Mr. Lind. Senor de Zamacona is a man the government has called on before in moments of gravity. He was Ambassador at Washington, succeeding De La Parra, and prior to that was financial agent of the Government at London. In financial matters he is regarded as an authority.

Mr. Lind still remains at Vera Cruz.

What He Found in

The Newspaper Job.

Many people believe that a newspaper falls together without work. Rev. McLeod, a Presbyterian minister at Pasadena, was of the opinion, and asked to be allowed to edit an edition of the Pasadena Star. The editor gladly accepted the opportunity to go fishing, and the minister took up his duties in the newspaper office. This is how he felt when he found himself at the end of the task, which, it must be said, had been done quite creditably:

"My time is almost up as I pen this last line; my hand is almost paralyzed; my brain is befuddled and I am free to confess that I am right glad to vacate the holy spot. Such a jumble of potpourri; it strikes me as the effort to bring order out of chaos, and to do it lightning quick.

"I am reminded of the memorable words: 'The earth was without form and void, and darkness was upon the face of the waters.' Never shall I criticize newspaper men more. I shall pray for them. They will have my heart's forbearance and forever. They are the hardest worked, shortest lived, poorest paid brain workers on this weary old world of ours."

Making The Desert Bloom.

"It has cost $7,000,000 to bottle up the water of the Colorado river for irrigation purposes, but the money appears to have been well spent," observes the Philadelphia Record. "About 175,000 acres of dry waste land in the vicinity of Yuma, Ariz., will be turned from a fruitless barrenness into a watered area of extreme fertility, capable of producing corn, cotton, cattle or whatever may be grown under temperate tropical climate conditions. Orange culture may possibly be one of the leading industries. A great track of country covered with sand dunes and sage brush, along the old Santa Fe Trail, will soon be made to blossom the year round to the coaxing of distributed Colorado refreshment. Of all the irrigation schemes undertaken with the aid of the federal government this Arizona venture seems to promise the most satisfactory returns. Grave engineering problems have been successfully solved in getting the water in the main canal on the California side of the Colorado river across to the Arizona side. This involved the construction of the 800 foot tunnel and the water through a siphon sixty feet below the bed of the river. Now that the work has been completed farmer immigrants from all parts of the country are rapidly buying up the irrigable land. Eventually the sale of the land and water will reimburse the federal treasury for the original outlay. The public money has seldom been expended to better purpose or with encouraging promise of opulent returns and continuing beneficent result.

Truly with money it is possible to do anything. The facts stated above is but one of thousands of instances which might be acted.

MINUTES OF THE CRITTENDEN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

Held in The Auditorium, of The Marion
Graded And High School Building, August 4th to 8th, 1913, Marion, Ky.

6:30 a. m. Institute was called to order by the President, Hollis Franklin. Rev. M. E. Miller conducted the devotional exercises. According to the program the subject of arithmetic was taken up.

Mr. Duron Koon explained the outline and made clear what could be done by careful study of the work as outlined in the course of study.

The regular program was then discontinued. Dr. Frazer and Dr. Marks were present and the time was given to them.

Dr. Frazer gave statistics and personal experience that proved conclusively how much of the death rate of the United States, Kentucky and Crittenden county could and should prevent. His sincere desire is to educate the Crittenden county teachers along this line, that these preventable diseases may be wiped out.

Dr. Marks who for seventeen years was superintendent of the Louisville city schools is a practicing Sanitary Engineer of the State of Kentucky.

His business is to visit the different districts examine into the health situation and show the remedy for unsanitary conditions. He insisted especially that great care should be taken in knowing the drinking water at each school was pure.

Out of 250 samples of school water he had examined only one was pure, (that was the water from the bored-well of the Marion city school). He explained to any teacher could send specimens free of charge, for examination.

Mr. Davidson advocates the use of original problems of both teacher and pupils as the factor in securing interest and successful work. He urges especially the use of a book of practical problems written by Prof. Alexander of Bowling Green.

Should there be a difference in supplement work for boys and girls. Explain--

Mr. John B. Paris was not present and Prof. Christian was asked to discuss this. He thinks there should be a difference in the supplementary work of the boys and girls.

Such problems as planning and estimating the cost of a meal would be most interesting and profitable for girls, and boys would appreciate such problems as the mixing of fertilizer, and etc.

Miss Glenn supplemented the work by showing the interest to be gained and the advantages to the child in keeping the work in close relations to the child's home life. Girls will be interested in estimating the cost of a plate of a meal. Boys will enjoy measuring the corn in a crib, finding the size of a wagon bed, the amount of lumber required for a certain building, the amount of this material and the cost of a fence.

The arithmetic we have been teaching does not have much of home interest for the child. Many young people would stay on the farm if they knew more of the interesting things about the farm. Many of Prof. Alexander's problems are based upon the study of Domestic Science.

Explain the use of the rule to art of arithmetic
Mr. Edd Clark.

The rule is to arithmetic what a sign board is to the traveler. The road is learned by traveling over it. The same is true in arithmetic the child advances step by step.

Discussion of Course of Study: pages 16 and 21. Round table discussion, conducted by Prof. Craig.

Miss Glenn says the highest use of the school is character building. What relation does the ideal bear to the character of the individual? Mr. Jenkins replied "The individual works toward his ideal." We must instill in the minds of the people a moral conscience. Our own ideal of self is greater than we demand of our public servants.

To build a true character the child must be high. Prof. Craig doubts that a nation is as good as the people of that nation. A nation is as bad as the people will allow. Men in public life do things that are low, resort to political tricks that they would not in private life.

Mr. Jenkins made the statement that the woman's vote would not solve the matter. He knew of a W. C. T. U. that was bought out.

"What do you admire most in an individual?"

"Nobility of character" Miss Margaret Moore.

"Moral courage" Dr. Marks.

"Fearlessness physically and morally" Prof. Craig.

"Mind Training and Memorizing"

Prof. Brightwell.

All knowledge would be useless without memory training. Think and then use things. If a rule is to be used have the pupil use the exact rule. The man who does the best thinking is the one who has the best memorized concept. Any one can talk on a subject that he knows all about.

READING.

Advanced Reading Development of A Lesson Plan.

Miss Lena Woods.

No successful teacher will try to teach without planning her work before hand. Teachers should know how and what they wish to accomplish. Reading is thought getting and thought giving.

The work in reading is for the purposes of leading pupils to love good literature, to acquire ability in silent reading and fluency in oral expression. In order that these may be secured the intellectual element should receive careful attention.

Pupils will not be interested in what they do not understand, hence when a difficult selection is presented, it is wise for the teacher to discuss the selection before the lesson is studied.

Selections may be classified as to the kind of literature, etc., Choice selections should be committed to memory. Teachers should lead children to love the good, the true and the beautiful in literature.

The District Library.

Miss Mary Finley.

Every district should have a library and it should be a place of rest, recreation and information. We as teachers should see that a library is established in every school.

Every good library will have good books for reference, a dictionary, works of our best poets and authors, and books on nature study and agriculture.

Any resourceful teacher can establish a library in any district. Parents and pupils are delighted to assist the teacher in this work.

Superintendent Travis made a most interesting talk, giving facts concerning the Crittenden County Library.

There are 1200 volumes in the county library. 500 volumes were added last year in the libraries of the district schools.

Trustees should care for the books when the school is not in session.

It is the fault of teacher if money cannot be secured to buy libraries. Teachers need the moral courage to go in and make the effort to do something for libraries.

Mr. Jenkins says the way to raise money is to go buy what you want and then get busy to make the money back.

Mr. Hollis Franklin announced that the Kentucky Library Commission, Louisville, Ky., would send to any teacher a library-books in a case valued at (any) $10.00, and these could be kept by the school for six months, at the cost of only two dollars.

Mr. Franklin has used these books for two years. The parents and pupils are both interested, and the books were read, on an average of four times for each book.

Mr. C. H. Hardin has also used these books and urges upon his teacher the advantages derived from their use. These books have been judiciously selected.

When The Show

Comes To Town.

Announcement seekers and show goers of Marion will have the treat of their lives Tuesday Sept. 23 when the famous Sui Brothers' Worlds' Progressive Shows appear here. Nothing has ever before been seen in this section.

Every dream of boyhood day will be realized. The peanuts, the camels, the pink lemonade, the clowns and the smell of the fresh shavings, the whole good atmosphere of the tented show will be there. Every act with the show this season is entirely new, novel and of an ultra-erotic character. A noteworthy engagement this year is the positive appearance at each performance of the famous Electric De Kamos, a quintette of high air equitation artists. Did you ever see a whirling Dervish? This act is doubly discounted by the Electric De Kamos. They float through the air like winged seraphs, and whirl through the empyrean like whirling dervishes, and all that sustains them is wires gripped in their teeth. It is indeed one of the most amazing and superbly ornate dizzy height performance ever conceived.

Nearly one hundred performers take part in the big programme and are all artists of extraordinary ability. In the wild beast department will be seen many unique, strange and distinctively novel specimens of the animal kingdom and zoologic creation, and all are exhibited in a classified manner and explained by competent keepers and lecturers. Seats are provided for all patrons and the tents are well ventilated and commodious. Courteous ushers are in attendance to show visitors to eligible seats. Courtesy being a red letter rule with the Sui Brothers' Shows. The big aggregation will arrive here by special train, and will spread their tents on the grounds at Marion on Tuesday Sept. 23.

Twenty Thousand at Educational Barbecue

CO-OPERATION was the keynote of the great Camden barbecue, which was held in the huge woods pasture outside of Versailles on the 20th. Many noted speakers from every part of the United States told of the effects of co-operation among farmers, but the salient point of this social and educational event was that the host and his neighbors and his friends were an example of what co-operation can accomplish.

Co-operation Helped.

Your correspondent was congratulating Mr. Camden on the great success of his educational barbecue when he smiled and interrupted him by saying, "I am delighted that you feel as you do about this affair, but the thing which has made it a complete success is the co-operation of my good friends and neighbors." Pausing a moment to point toward the big tent where the meats were being carved and sandwiches distributed, he continued: "A number of those white aproned fellows that you see in that tent busy slicing meat and waiting on the people are my neighbors, who are helping me make this a real success. No men that I might have been able to hire for mere money could have created the splendid atmosphere that these good friends have. And the mayor and the men of Versailles have agreed that all stores shall be closed from 10 until 4 today. It is all co-operation. Tell your paper that this barbecue is as growing, progressive spirit that will make it a strong state in the near future.

Kentucky Has "Arrived."

It was not alone your correspondent who caught this feeling that seemed to be in the very air of the barbecue. Men who had traveled long distances to talk with the people about co-operation, men who had never faced a Kentucky audience before, sensed it. The evening of the barbecue three of the speakers gathered in Mr. Camden's home to chat over the happiness of the day. Twilight was deepening among the trees in the lawn and the last trolley car was leaving with the stragglers from the barbecue when one of the speakers turned to the others and said: "I'm going to make a statement, and I want you two fellows to say what you think of it. You, like me, happen to be from a far northern state, and you should be able to judge if I'm right in what I say." He stopped talking, looking out among the shadows that grew among the trees as if to gather his thoughts properly; then he continued: "I came down to this barbecue wondering what I would see. I had heard, of course, that Kentucky was beginning to think about co-operation, education and many other things. Why, she isn't beginning; she has begun. It was written large all over those people today. Things will happen in Kentucky from now on, and happen fast. SHE HAS ARRIVED. If I should leave roasting meat and night had settled over the hills the barbecue grounds became a mass of shifting grotesque shadows, savory odors and wood smoke. By early morning the five huge kettles were bubbling contentedly with rich, thick old fashioned burgoo. It seemed as if enough food had been prepared overnight to feed an army.

Several gentlemen were standing near one of the numerous tanks that were kept filled with ice and water for the thirsty crowd. At length one of them remarked: "I'm as thirsty as I can be, but I'm afraid to drink that water. It looks a little muddy, and I'm always afraid of getting typhoid fever when the water supply is as low as it is now after a long drought."

Water Was Analyzed.

The men were still hesitating when one of Mr. Camden's friends stepped up and remarked casually: "I think I can make you comfortable about the water. Mr. Camden usually does things up brown. He thought that there might be some danger, so he had this water analyzed to be on the safe side." Each of the men took several deep drinks and looked much relieved.

A Crowd of 20,000.

The crowd? Oh, it was estimated all the way from 10,000 to 30,000. There must have been the full 20,000 that was given as the heading for this story of the barbecue because 1,000 automobiles were parked on the grounds and more than that number of vehi-ing which the speakers and your correspondent caught, the feeling that in some subtle way foreshadowed Kentucky's coming greatness. The address is as follows:

Mr. Camden's Address.

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen—My friends, I give you, one and all, a most hearty welcome. I am truly delighted to have you here today.

"I hope you will allow me to tell you briefly what was in my mind when I decided to have this barbecue.

"Always in thinking of Kentucky I have a great inspiring vision. I have been in most of the states of the Union and have traveled in many lands, but I have never beheld a state or empire that has such material possibilities, variety of soil, diversity of products and other blessings as our own beloved state—old Kentucky.

"In ten years' time she will lead every state in the Union in the production of coal and, what is more, as time goes on will increase the lead and hold it, for she has a greater deposit of high grade coal than either Pennsylvania or West Virginia. It can also be truly said of Kentucky, as of almost any other country, that if we were absolutely isolated from the rest of the world we have within ourselves everything necessary for the development of a most advanced and prosperous civilization. We have in abundance the raw materials—iron, coking coal, timber, fire and porcelain clays, phosphate deposits, oil, gas and an endless variety of mineral wealth, a most varied soil, grazing lands and a beneficent climate.

inhospitable beyond expression. There are only sixteen weeks in the year when it is possible to turn the cattle out. And then, for economy, they are tethered carefully in the fields, so that no grass or clover will be wasted by being trampled upon. In spite of these most unfavorable farming conditions, Denmark is the only country in the world today where the city population is decreasing and the rural population increasing, owing entirely to its advanced rural school system.

"Notwithstanding these adverse and harsh natural conditions the export of butter in 1911 was about 239,320,000 pounds, and to Great Britain alone it amounted to $51,142,715. The total amount of cream and milk exported amounted to $4,121,520.

"The money value of eggs exported in the same year amounted to $7,966,000.

"The export of bacon from Denmark in the same year amounted to 252,252,000 pounds, or a cash value of $32,352,950, making a total cash valuation of exports of $95,953,195, in addition to what was consumed at home.

of Kentuckians to do things when their attention and interests are centered upon those things. It is because of my ambition and hope to personally help in quickening this movement that I decided to give this barbecue. Telling you again of the pleasure it gives me in having you here today, I will now turn over the proceedings of the day to the chairman."

On the west coast of Ireland, near the mouth of the river Shannon, are several large sea caves which open into each other. But the visitor needs a good guide and a good boatman, for the sea is insidious and the labyrinth of caves intricate. On one occasion, writes Aubrey de Vere in his "Recollections," soon after a party had entered the boatman suddenly shouted, "Bend down your heads for your lives!"

No one saw any danger, but the boatman felt the placid water insensibly rising and knew that the tide had turned. At last the visitors knew this, too, for it was not until the boat had ascended within a few inches of the roof that it began to descend.

"Pull your best!" exclaimed the man at the helm. "If the second wave reaches us, we are lost!" But before the second wave reached the cave the boat had issued from its mouth.

No Wonder She Blushed.

"That's a nice looking fellow who's just come in," said the young man who was dining with his best girl. "Is he a friend of yours?"

"Yes, indeed, I know him well," laughed the maiden.

"Shall I ask him to join us?"

"Oh, George," said the girl, blushing, "this is so sudden!"

"Sudden? What do you mean?" he asked in surprise.

"Why—why, that's our young minister.—Ladies' Home Journal.

He Could Talk.

A Washington society dame was receiving an Indian chief and she wished to be very gracious. As he approached she extended a beautiful hand and greeted him in guttural monotone: "How?"

"I am quite well, thank you," responded the red man.—Washington Times.

Individualism Harmful.

"With us the chief obstacle to organization and co-operation, to my mind, is the intense individualism of the Kentuckian. That spirit of self reliance, indomitable will and courage to stand alone and all sufficient, which made him the greatest pioneer the world has ever known, is in a measure a detriment now and blocks his further progress and material development. We are not living in the age of the coonskin cap and long barreled rifle. Our times are strenuously competitive and the degree of our civilization very complex. Realizing this condition, we should set about intelligently, with determination and our eyes open, to learn the value of organization and co-operation and to fully understand the destructive quality of unintentional selfish individualism.

"We must establish team work among ourselves, we must trust one another, if we are to prosper further as a people and advance the solidarity of Kentucky interests.

much Woodford county's success as it is mine. It is a success because of neighborly co-operation."

Neighborly Atmosphere.

That the huge crowd that began to arrive as early as 8 o'clock felt this atmosphere of neighborliness and co-operation, of which Mr. Camden had spoken, was evident. It was a gathering of people who were thinking: a crowd that had come to see and hear others who were thinking: a crowd that had on its "Sunday go to meeting" clothes and manners, for there was not a loud voice or a quarrelsome tone on the grounds the whole day through. Even the babies and children forgot to fret or cry while their mothers chatted with friends under the shade of the forest trees, and the men discussed crops and the drought. Everywhere there were good natured, pleasant laughter and smiling faces. It is not often that a host can entertain 20,000 guests and have nothing to mar the day. The meeting showed conclusively that there is a new spirit abroad in this wonderful old state—a here and be gone ten years I would not be able to recognize the state, I'm sure, because it will have changed so materially in that time. Am I right, fellows?"

"Sure you're right," answered the others in a breath.

Of course they had something to eat. By 1 o'clock the afternoon of the 15th wagons loaded with choice beef began to arrive, and old George Jaubert hurried about to see that the coals in the trenches were as warm as they should be and that the frames to hold the meat were steady for such a mighty load.

Preparing the Food.

Eighteen busy colored men sat on empty boxes chatting while they peeled and cut the fifty bushels of potatoes that were to be used in the making of the burgoo. When the 6,000 pounds of beef were in place over the glowing coals his frame loads of dressed mutton came to the tables to be prepared for the trenches. It required three wagons to bring the 119 sheep that were to help feed the multitude. Later after the frames were full of gently cles were just behind them. Allowing an average of five people to the vehicles and automobiles gives 10,000. The interurban cars gave their figures as 5,000. Add to this 15,000, those that walked, those that came on horseback, on bicycles and motorcycles, and you will find that 20,000 is about right. These figures may be got at in another manner. In preparing to serve the burgoo to the people 14,000 tin cups and spoons had been provided, and they did not go around. Anyhow, it was fully as big a crowd as any one had hoped for.

Thirteen Speakers.

As there were thirteen speakers during the day, it would be an impossibility to give any idea of what they said. It is sufficient to say that each and every talk was educational in its tone. That the state at large may get an idea of all the talks it might be well to give Mr. Camden's address of welcome in whole. He seems to have caught and hugged close to himself the feeling that would show itself in the crowd at the barbecue, the feel-ties, variety of soil, diversity of products and other blessings as our own beloved state—old Kentucky.

"In ten years' time she will lead every state in the Union in the production of coal and, what is more, as time goes on will increase the lead and hold it, for she has a greater deposit of high grade coal than either Pennsylvania or West Virginia. It can also be truly said of Kentucky, as of almost any other country, that if we were absolutely isolated from the rest of the world we have within ourselves everything necessary for the development of a most advanced and prosperous civilization. We have in abundance the raw materials—iron, coking coal, timber, fire and porcelain clays, phosphate deposits, oil, gas and an endless variety of mineral wealth, a most varied soil, grazing lands and a beneficent climate.

Great Farming State.

"Yet, while the mineral wealth of the state is a vital thing and means more to us than we can now understand, to my mind the very soul and heart of Kentucky must always dwell in her farm lands and pastures, beautiful, gently rolling, the fairest and greenest the sun shines upon and fruitful as the delta of the Nile. Kentucky will ever be a great farming state, and the character of her agriculture will determine the character and development of her people. Some one has well said that a people cannot be greater or stronger than their soil.

"What I wish to draw attention to today and to emphasize is the well recognized fact that in mining, manufacturing and all productive enterprises the basic form of wealth is in itself only about 50 per cent of the problem involved. The other 50 per cent is in organization, which really means co-operation. Granting that our soil would grade No. 1 in fertility—which in many cases it will not do, though by intelligent and industrious methods it can be made to—as we now stand, with our imperfect system of soft education, organization and co-operation, we farmers are realizing but half of what we are entitled to from our farms.

Rural School System.

"As an illustration of what can be accomplished by education and co-operations, I placed on the first page of our program the rural school symbol of Denmark, the owl perched on a spade, the union of wisdom and labor. To follow the matter still further, I will say that the unique and great little kingdom of Denmark has practically the same population as Kentucky, but Kentucky has almost three times as great an area, with an incalculably greater variety of resources. From the standpoint of a Kentuckian, the only resource that Denmark has is in her people, as it is a flat country, with very thin soil, and we would consider it almost impossible to extract a living from it. It has no mines, no forests, no mills or manufacturing plants. It is devoted almost exclusively to dairy work. Its climate is bad and ing which the speakers and your correspondent caught, the feeling that in some subtle way foreshadowed Kentucky's coming greatness. The address is as follows:

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen—My friends, I give you, one and all, a most hearty welcome. I am truly delighted to have you here today.

"I hope you will allow me to tell you briefly what was in my mind when I decided to have this barbecue.

"Always in thinking of Kentucky I have a great inspiring vision. I have been in most of the states of the Union and have traveled in many lands, but I have never beheld a state or empire that has such material possibilities, variety of soil, diversity of products and other blessings as our own beloved state—old Kentucky.

"In ten years' time she will lead every state in the Union in the production of coal and, what is more, as time goes on will increase the lead and hold it, for she has a greater deposit of high grade coal than either Pennsylvania or West Virginia. It can also be truly said of Kentucky, as of almost any other country, that if we were absolutely isolated from the rest of the world we have within ourselves everything necessary for the development of a most advanced and prosperous civilization. We have in abundance the raw materials—iron, coking coal, timber, fire and porcelain clays, phosphate deposits, oil, gas and an endless variety of mineral wealth, a most varied soil, grazing lands and a beneficent climate.

Great Farming State.

"Yet, while the mineral wealth of the state is a vital thing and means more to us than we can now understand, to my mind the very soul and heart of Kentucky must always dwell in her farm lands and pastures, beautiful, gently rolling, the fairest and greenest the sun shines upon and fruitful as the delta of the Nile. Kentucky will ever be a great farming state, and the character of her agriculture will determine the character and development of her people. Some one has well said that a people cannot be greater or stronger than their soil.

"What I wish to draw attention to today and to emphasize is the well recognized fact that in mining, manufacturing and all productive enterprises the basic form of wealth is in itself only about 50 per cent of the problem involved. The other 50 per cent is in organization, which really means co-operation. Granting that our soil would grade No. 1 in fertility—which in many cases it will not do, though by intelligent and industrious methods it can be made to—as we now stand, with our imperfect system of soft education, organization and co-operation, we farmers are realizing but half of what we are entitled to from our farms.

Rural School System.

"As an illustration of what can be accomplished by education and co-operations, I placed on the first page of our program the rural school symbol of Denmark, the owl perched on a spade, the union of wisdom and labor. To follow the matter still further, I will say that the unique and great little kingdom of Denmark has practically the same population as Kentucky, but Kentucky has almost three times as great an area, with an incalculably greater variety of resources. From the standpoint of a Kentuckian, the only resource that Denmark has is in her people, as it is a flat country, with very thin soil, and we would consider it almost impossible to extract a living from it. It has no mines, no forests, no mills or manufacturing plants. It is devoted almost exclusively to dairy work. Its climate is bad and

Wednesday Afternoon (August 6th.)

Prof. Craig and Supt. Travis made brief talks impressing the teachers with the necessity of subscribing to several professional magazines.

In speaking upon the proposed postponement of the opening date of the county schools, Prof. Craig said that since it was fully agreed that for several reasons all of the schools should begin at the same time then all of the teachers and trustees should unite in upholding the decision of the county board in regard to the matter. Personal preferences should be disregarded in such a case.

The regular program was then resumed, the subject under discussion, being Grammar.

In Mrs. Brasher's talk on the parts of speech, where and how to teach, she said that while the parts of speech should not at first be called by Grammatical terms, even beginners should be taught about the noun and verb. Parts of speech should be pointed out in some of the reading lessons and in advanced classes outlines should be made of all of the parts of speech. Parsing should not begin until the child reaches the sixth or seventh grade.

C. L. Moore said that sentence construction should be taught from the first year but not taught as technical Grammar. When the child is old enough for formal Grammar then Syntax should be taught before Etymology.

Misses Claghorn and Dean agreed in their discussion of the relations of Grammar to literature that Grammar could not be successfully taught without being most closely connected with literature. They thought that this relation should be more emphasized than it is at present.

How to teach the really valuable points in Grammar was discussed by Miss Mary Moore who thought that if only correct Grammatical forms were allowed, both in oral and written work, all of the really valuable points would be covered.

This question was further discussed by the Instructor who asked the Institute what the really valuable points were in this study. The answers by Prof. Brightwell and Prof. Payne were that the relation of the subject and predicate, relative and participial clauses, the pronoun and its antecedent and sentence construction were the chief points to be covered. The Instructor said that technical Grammar, as such, had no place in the grades; that it was not an end in itself but only a means by which we could secure better language.

Prof. Craig asked the Institute to allow him to postpone his afternoon address in order that Prof. Marks, of Bowling Green, might address the teachers.

Prof. Marks then made a most helpful talk upon "Some Experiences of Life." He said that while Institutes, in general, seemed to place great stress upon the importance of the Course of Study it must be readily apparent to all that the teacher is of more importance to the school. He said that besides the teachers' general qualifications, every teacher should be not only thoughtful and resourceful but forceful and sympathetic as well.

He thought that the Course of Study was of little real value to the teacher who really studied the child and the community. When a child is not interested in the school the work fails to touch his life. The speaker said that a child is fortunate that he can forget many of the useless things that he is taught at school. Only essentials should be taught. Time spent in the study of dates, location of remote and unimportant places and much of the Grammar taught at present should be considered wasted.

In speaking of punishments he said that corporal punishment had no place in school and that to expel a child forced him into the worst of companionships and marked him for life.

He closed his address with a masterly appeal for greater kindness to children and for a real companionship of teacher and pupil.

Since not enough time remained for the discussion of the next program subject it was decided to adjourn until 8:30 the following morning.

Thursday Morning (August 7.)

After the opening exercises which were conducted by the Instructor, and the reading of the minutes, Supt. Travis made a brief talk to the trustees. He commented upon the fact that all of the trustees were present saying that this fact showed the present interest of the county in the public schools. After making the announcements of the time and places for the division board meetings Supt. Travis asked that each trustee be present during the day's session of the Institute especially for the afternoon work since that part of the program was of more than usual interest to the trustee.

The subject of agriculture was ably discussed by Mr. Fred Hilliard who said, in part, that this subject would soon be placed in the regular school course and that teachers should now be preparing to teach it if they expected to remain in the profession. He spoke specifically of the adaptation of crops to soils and of crop rotation. He said that children should be taught the chemistry of soils in order that they might be able to understand the requirements of plant life.

He classified the soils, giving the nature of each, and said that children should be taught to examine the soil around their own homes and to determine the kind of crops that was best suited to it and which could be grown successfully under the conditions found there.

In outline form he gave a two year crop rotation for poor soil and a four year rotation for a four field farm as follows:

- I Two year rotation for very poor soil.
 - (a)—cow peas.
 - (b)—rye.
 - (c)—corn.
 - (d)—wheat.
- II Four year rotation.

1914	grain	corn	hay	hay
1915	hay	grain	corn	hay
1916	hay	hay	grain	corn

In closing, Mr. Hilliard said that the teaching of agriculture in the rural schools would solve many of the present social, economic and school problems.

Prof. Jenkins, representative of the Western Kentucky State Normal, made an address upon the place occupied by that Institution in the State educational system. He said that only High School graduates should go to the Normal and that no High School graduate should attempt to teach without first taking a Normal course. He said that the Normal was solving the problem of making the rural school the right sort of school for the farm child.

Prof. Dickey of Bowling Green spoke to the Institute of the alarming number of illiterate persons in Western Kentucky and told how this condition had been met in Eastern Kentucky by Mrs. Stewart's "Moonlight School."

Dr. Frazer made a brief but valuable talk upon the teachers' responsibility for the health of their pupils and offered his aid in having the water supply at each school examined. He also distributed cards which were to be given to the pupils. These cards contained briefly the main points of hygienic living stated so that children could understand them and be impressed by them.

After a short recess it was decided to omit for the time being part of the day's program in order that the relation of trustee to the school might be discussed.

Judge Towery seemed to think that the trustee had very few rights under the present law but that he could and should use his influence in securing a better course of study and better qualified teachers in the rural schools.

Prof. Glass read a splendid paper on the same subject, saying, in part, that as the teacher represented the school as a whole, so the trustee represented the welfare of the individual child. He should see that the children are not handicapped in any way, that the teacher, building, equipment, etc., are the best possible. He should see that the funds of the school are properly spent; be able to decide promptly, intelligently and tactfully any school question; and see that the compulsory school law is enforced. He gave as the chief qualification of a trustee, moral courage.

Dr. Frazer returned to the floor to remind the trustees of the necessity of fumigation of the school buildings.

A brief discussion was made as to the opening date of the county schools. Motion was made and carried by a vote of sixty-seven to thirty-one that the schools begin on August the eleventh.

Institute was Adjourned Until 1:15.

"THE MISSOURI GIRL" COMING SOON.

The character of "Zeke Dobson" the country boy in "The Missouri Girl" is one of unique conception. Among the many impersonations of the rural types offered to the theatre-going public, there are but few limited cases where the author has even attempted to portray this interesting character as he is seen in real life.

The stage character of the farmer is so thoroughly impressed on our minds that it is almost impossible for us to imagine a rural play without the usual impossible characters, that are, in many cases a serious drawback to an otherwise good play.

"Zeke" as played by the droll comedian, Mr. Frank F. Farrell, is a true portrayal of an honest, bright, intelligent country boy; his dialect and actions are both peculiar and droll and he says and does what is natural. When in the city he makes ludicrous mistakes and his idea of "city folks" and the remarks he makes about them are extremely comical, but at the same time true to life.

"The Missouri Girl" will be seen at the Opera House on Saturday Sept., 13. Prices 25, 35, and 50 cents. Seats ready at 7:30. Show begins 8 o'clock. Reserved seats on sale at Postal Telegraph Cable Office.
