FORMER "ICE KING" TALKS.

John Rohrman Praises Remarkable Work Of Medicine Tanlac.

Louisville, June 9.—Almost everybody in Louisville is personally acquainted with or have heard of John Rohrman. The "Ice King" of Louisville, as he was formerly called by those who have known and respected him for his honesty and integrity for a score or more years, has been a sufferer from stomach complaints and a general debilitated condition for a considerable length of time.

Like lots of other folks, Mr. Rohrman was a little skeptical regarding the merits of the new preparation, Tanlac, as he had tried numerous medicines in the past without obtaining the right results. However, the publication of testimonials from Louisville people he knew who had been actually benefitted by Tanlac, convinced him that a test of the preparation was worth the attempt.

Mr. Rohrman had suffered much annoyance from indigestion, especially. He got Tanlac and began using it. A few afternoons ago he was prepared to make this statement in the presence of witnesses:

"Less than two weeks ago I obtained this Tanlac. The medicine was just what I needed. It went straight to the spot. I strengthened up. My appetite is improved, as well as my sleep. If I had paid a thousand dollars for the medicine, it would have been worth that to me. The anticipation of taking the next dose of Tanlac is a real pleasure."

Tanlac, the remarkable medicine referred to by Mr. Rohrman, is now distributed in Louisville by the personal direction of L. T. Cooper, and in Marion, Ky., by James H. Orme, and at Blackford, Ky., by A. T. Brown, where the famous medicine can now be bought.—Adv.

DO YOU OWN A LOT IN THE NEW CEMETERY?

Do you? Have you made any contribution whatever to the care of this lot and to the general improvement of the Cemetery? Are you going to let the other lot owners pay your part on the walks and drives? Have you been out there recently and noticed how ragged your lot looks? Don't you think you owe it to your neighbor lot-owner, who does keep his lot, to keep yours in trim?

The Cemetery Association has spent several hundreds of dollars trying to beautify the Cemetery and yet it cannot be made the "City Beautiful" it should be without your co-operation. The new part of the cemetery is opened up and walks and drives must be made. The Association is hoping to have a neat little chapel built out there sometime soon. This will take money, but if each lot owner will do his part it can be done.

The Association has made it obligatory upon those now purchasing lots, to care for the lot. This is set forth in the deeds.

The committee insists that you will care for your lot, if you will not give any help otherwise.

Please bear in mind also, that not one member of the committee

WHITE--FARRIS WEDDING TUESDAY

Brilliant Wedding Held At Blackford. Both Bride and Groom School Teachers.

Blackford, Ky., June 5.—A beautiful home wedding took place here to-day when the lives of Miss Zola White and Mr. J. D. Farris, Jr., were united in marriage by Rev. J. Frank Baker.

The bride was a dream of loveliness in white crepe-de-chene trimmed in real lace and pearls and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. She was preceded by a pink-white fairy, little Margaret Norris Byrn, of Bowling Green, who strewed in her path, pink and white roses. The maid of honor, Miss Mina White, sister of the bride wore green crepe-de-chene and the brides maid, Miss Kate Andrews, of Nashville wore pink charmeuse both carrying pink Killarney roses.

Mr. Frank Farris, brother of the groom, was best man. The wedding march was played by Miss Jessie Combes, a cousin of the bride.

The white ribbons which formed the aisles were held by the following little girls: Misses Louise and Lorene Farris, of Salem, Dorothy Deane, Louise Lee, Anna Nunn, Bertie Crowell and Leda Anderson of this place.

The house was decorated in ferns and pink roses forming an arch at the mantel and the bride and groom stood under a beautiful wedding bell of pink and white sweet peas. It was a double ring ceremony followed by an impressive prayer by the minister.

Miss White is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. T. White of this place and is an attractive, accomplished and intellectual young lady.

Mr. Farris is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Farris, of Salem and is known in this state and others as a man of sterling qualities.

Many handsome presents were received from friends away and at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Farris will attend Peabody College at Nashville this summer and in September go to New Market, Ala., where Mr. Farris is Superintendent of New Market Training School.

tee receives one penny for their time spent in this work. Each member pays into the treasury the price for the care of his lot.

Walk out there one of these evenings and look over the grounds. The walks and drives are well cared for, and the lots under the care of the Committee speak for their care. The Cemetery was never in better shape, yet much needs to be done. Think it over, and see if you have not interest enough in the spot where sleep your loved ones to contribute to its care.

FARMING NOTES.

Where Are The Pessimists Who Said We Would Have A Dry Summer?

Where are the pessimists that said we were going to have a dry season? Organizing a wet season club of pessimists most likely. About the poorest thing anyone can do is to belong to a pessimistic club of any kind. Success lies within us more than in the clouds.

We hear the reason of a large farmer, south of Marion, who plowed his corn ground last fall with two new plows that cost him $100, each, and to each of them he had six big mules. These plows left a bed behind them of 16 to 18 inches deep. When he was asked about it he said he was going to have corn next year whether it rained or not. Now you would be surprised to know how much there is in that. Of course we have had rain, but that man bought with those plows a little corn insurance. He wanted to be sure about that 100 acres of corn. And by the way, had you ever thought about it? Deep plowing does not affect the rain and the rain does not affect deep plowing. It does not hurt at all for corn roots to have some place to go when they start down.

Each and every farmer should make every edge cut, and the Crittenden Record-Press has been surprised that Crittenden farmers don't take advantage of birds any more than they do. For instance consider a moment the purple martin. How many farmers invite this beautiful and very useful bird to their farm. Every farmer in Crittenden can have a flock of purple martins.

Here is what they eat: wasps, bugs, beetles, several species of harmful weevils, such as: Clover Leaf Weevils, and Nut Weevils, crane-flies, moths, May-flies dragon flies, etc.

The Press will gladly tell anyone what kind of an invitation the purple martin will accept. If you give this bird the invitation he will come and work for you.

$500,000 Paid On Lusitania Victims

London, June 8.—English insurance companies have already paid claims amounting to $500,000 in connection with the sinking of the Lusitania. This represents the sum payable on about 350 lives and many more claims are expected to be filed. The American claims will probably reach twice this amount, according to the estimates here, as some of the American passengers were heavily insured. No English company has so far confirmed the report that Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt carried heavy insurance on his life.

CRISIS AT WASHINGTON, BRYAN RESIGNS AS SECRETARY STATE

A split in Wilson cabinet over the note to Germany which has been imminent several days culminated in the surrender of his port folio Tuesday evening by Secretary of State Williams Jennings Bryan who believes the President's communication to the Kaiser, will precipitate war with Germany. Mr. Bryan, who is a peace man at all hazards could not bring himself to the point to sign the note hence his resignation.

FARMER'S MEETINGS.

All boys interested in Corn Clubs are invited to meet with Oak Hall Boy's Corn and Pig Clubs, on Friday night, June 11, to make arrangements for their picnic on June 25th. This picnic is to be given by boys in the clubs in Crittenden county. There will be a meeting of delegates from the clubs in my office, Saturday afternoon, June 12th. We will have Mr. Morgan Hughes, Mr. Gordon Nelson and others with us on June 25th., and every boy that is trying for the prize should try to be on hand to hear these men.

The following are where Farmer's meetings will be held:

SENATOR OLLIE M. JAMES

"Wilson Is For Civilization," Says Senator James; "Back Him Up." Noted Senator Firm In Standing By Pres.

"So far—no farther." Thus in four words does Senator Ollie James of Kentucky epitomize the purport of the American note to Germany called by Secretary of State Bryan to Ambassador Gerard at Berlin. "President Wilson speaks for civilization," declares Senator James. "He not only expresses the sentiment of America in demanding protection of neutral life on merchant vessels but he also voices the protest of civilization which has been under a veil since this war started. The note is a masterpiece."

The Star-Bulletin has asked Senator James to comment upon the American note, as made public last night and found him ready to do so with emphatic definiteness. The Senator from Kentucky approves of Wilson's note to the letter, and thinks it will meet the approval of the United States as a nation.

"The note is most statesman-like," says Senator James. "It is humane and patriotic. It serves emphatic notice upon Germany now felt by our entire nation, that 'thus far have we borne the insults to the flag of America on the sea, thus far have we suffered American lives to be lost through your submarine warfare, but we can go no further; you must cease all indignity to American citizens—this we will back up.'"

Senator James, big man physically as well as in the weight which counts for the nation, would like to talk to some of the agitators who would involve America in war upon the slightest pretext.

"They decry Wilson's policy of peace," says the senator. "Let war come and the nation will feel at the helm of the army, the greatest strategist America has ever produced, Wilson is as fearless in war as he is diplomatic in preserving peace to the last possible measure."

"Courage is twofold, continued Senator James. "The one is that courage which takes a man out to the battle front to face the cannon and death. The other is that courage required to send others to face those cannon. Wilson possesses the former in abundant measure but his great humanity has covered up any of the latter courage which he might feel. He thinks not of the glory attached to war but of the widows and orphans."

"What do you think, came the question, 'of making war a question of politics?'"

"War is above politics, answered Senator James. "A few of the national fakers would like to make the attitude of the nation toward war a party issue but such sentiment is harbored by only a few."

"I am prouder of President Wilson than ever before," declares the senator from Kentucky. "He has measured equal to every crisis which has arisen in our national affairs. Should the United States be forced into a war President Wilson will have enthusiastic support never before."

POST MASTER RESIGNS

Marion Postoffice Goes To Third Class, On The First Of July Nineteen-Fifteen.

The Marion postoffice, which was until recently a presidential office, will on the first of July of this year become a third class office, and the postmaster will from that date on have to furnish his own clerks. In consequence of same, all employees will lose their places, and postmaster Carl Henderson has sent in his resignation to take effect July 1st.

It is presumed here that Jesse Olive, who was chosen by the voters soon after the election of President Wilson, will now receive his commission and assume charge of the office on the date mentioned, it is stated that he has made no announcement as to his course and will probably not do so until he receives his appointment.

Russia's Desire For A Seaport.

"For two hundred years," says a writer in the June World's Work, "Russia has had her weather eye, sharpened by sea thirst, fixed on the Golden Horn."

"Peter the great got a window opening on the Baltic. But it is a high up dormer window and it looks out on a back yard. The Russian people can't see anything through it. There are other Russian windows, at Archangel on the Arctic and Vladivostok on the North Pacific, opaque with ice half the year. For the Russian people windows are no longer good enough; they want, they need, and they will have: doors—open sea doors," through the Bosphorus the sea of Marmora and the Dardanelles—Hellasport of the ancients to the Mediterranean and the world.

THE LITTLE BLIND MOTHER

I know what baby's face is like,
Although I cannot see;
It's like the music of a bell
It's like the way the roses smell,
It's like the secrets fairies tell—
All these it's like to me.

I know what "Daddy's" face is like.
I'm sure I know it all,
It's like his step upon the stair,
It's like his whistle in the air,
It's like his arms, that take such care.
And guide me lest I fall.

So I can tell what God is like,
The God who no one sees:
He's everything my baby means,
He's everything his "Daddy" seems,
He's like my very sweetest dreams,
And much greater than all these.

SWEET CLOVER

Taken From a Letter Written by Virgil Weaver, of Falmouth, Kentucky.

Sweet clover is one of the very best forage plants, and provides wonderful pasturage and excellent hay. Its value as a soil renovator is unequalled. This county of Pendleton fifteen years ago was a barren waste. It had been "tobaccoed" to death. By some means this plant became introduced, and for long it was fought as a weed. Finally the farmers began to realize its value, and, to make a long story short, land which was worth from five to ten dollars per acre at that time is now realizing from forty to sixty dollars per acre. There is another comparison. At that time the farmers were abandoning their farms and seeking employment in the cities. They did not have sufficient means to buy suitable clothing for themselves. At present there is on deposit in the various banks of Pendleton county money aggregating over $100 per capita, most of which belong to the farmers. If good for Pendleton county, why not Crittenden?

Teething babies always have a hard time of it when this process occurs in hot weather. They not only have to contend with painful gums but the stomach is disordered, bowels loose and the body uncomfortable. The best help you can give the little sufferer is McGEE'S BABY ELIXIR. Their Name is "Dennis."

They know that their days are short. Not only will the whisky men of the state of Kentucky fight the state-wide prohibition move, but whisky men from all over the nation will take part in the fight. Never mind though, their name is "Dennis," yet they are struggling and grabbing at every straw and growling about it being a moral issue and should not be made an issue in politics. This is the opinion of a number of our good people, but let us see if the saloon forces are not "making hay while the sun shines" in the state-wide fight in Kentucky.

Did you know that the "wets" have established headquarters in a room in the federal halls of congress at Washington to help fight state-wide prohibition in Kentucky or any other place for that matter. The headquarters at Washington is sending out, under the franking privilege granted congressmen, thousands and thousands of the speeches made in congress against prohibition when the national prohibition amendment was up for consideration in congress a few months ago.

It should not be made a political issue, they say, but they are flooding the states with thousands of these speeches and are making the people foot the bill while they spread the anti-prohibition doctrine in every nook and corner of the state of Kentucky.

We don't know who is making this a political issue in this state. But we are dead sure of one thing, the whisky side of politics is doing all they can to circulate every piece of anti-prohibition literature they can.—Webster County News —Adv.

Hon. H. V. McChesney.

Hon. Harry V. McChesney, candidate for the Democratic nomination for the governor of Kentucky, will address the voters of Christian and adjoining counties at the court-house in Hopkinsville on Monday, June 7th, in the interest of his candidacy.

Mr. McChesney is making his race upon a state-wide prohibition platform. In other words, he favors a constitutional amendment by the next general assembly giving the people of Kentucky the right to say by their votes whether or not they want state-wide prohibition. This idea is proving quite popular, and Mr. McChesney now looks like the leader in the gubernatorial race. He is one of the best campaign speakers in the state, and has been greeted by splendid crowds wherever he has spoken. The Hopkinsville meeting will prove no exception to this rule.—Pembroke Journal. —Adv.

Fredonia Sunday School Picnic

A real sure enough Sunday School picnic was given by the Cumberland Presbyterian Sunday School on last Wednesday, June 2nd.

The Sunday School began to gather at nine o'clock, and by half past eleven there were about two hundred people on the ground. The place for the picnic was in Tom Bugg's woods lot; fine shade, cold water, and everybody seemed to be in a good humor, everybody seemed to be glad to see everybody else. Children were going in every direction and having lots of fun. The young people had a swing tied in one of those large forest trees about fifty feet high, and they swung high and long. About half past twelve, there was a move to spread the dinner, and my my, a dinner it was; mutton and pork, baked to perfection. Bro. Frank Deboe is the right height to cook meat, cakes three stories high, and pies two and one-half stories high. The ladies could have set the dinner so much quicker if they could have kept Bro. Frank Loyd out of the way. He ate from the time he got there until the last man left. Bro. Green began about dinner just as soon as he got on the ground. He wanted to bring some of the good things home with him. Bros. Patterson and Reed can cut barbecued meat all to pieces as quick as anybody. Bro. Patterson looked like he had rather be superintendent of Fredonia Sunday School than to be President of the United States.

Five years ago the church was organized with ten members, we now have 108, and 150 enrolled in Sunday School. We are going on up the hill.

The writer ate until he could not eat any more. Oh, we wish we could have another picnic next week.

Uric Acid Poison

Undermines Health

Rheuma Drives It From the System and Eliminates Rheumatism

Ever since Rheuma has been sold in this vicinity, the sale of this marvelous rheumatism remedy has been steadily on the increase. This due to the fact that Rheuma is a guaranteed to eliminate rheumatism or money back.

It is a quick acting remedy, too. You do not have to wait a long time for results. Rheuma starts at once to act on the kidneys, liver, bowels and blood, and before 24 hours the poisonous uric acid, the chief cause of rheumatism, has begun to pass out of the body through the regular channels. It is also good for gout and neuralgia.

One 50-cent bottle will prove to any rheumatic sufferer that Rheuma surely will cure rheumatism. Sold by James H. Orme, and all druggists

Married Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock by Rev. J. B. Trotter at the First Baptist church parsonage, Hodge S. McNeely to Miss Georgia Binkley. The bride is from Pinckneyville, and has visited here frequently, and is said to be a charming young lady. The groom, who is in the employ of the Record-Press office, is a son of Rev. and Mrs. J. B. McNeely and is worthy of the hand of the young lady he has won as his life partner.

Negro Lynched By Princeton Mob.

Princeton, Ky., June 7.—Arthur Bell, a negro, said to hail from Clarksville, Tenn., was taken from the county jail here early this morning by a crowd of masked men and lynched. The mob made its appearance at the jail shortly after midnight, and arousing Jailer Throckmorton from sleep, compelled him to unlock the cell and designate their desired victim.

The negro had been placed in jail the first of the week on a burglary charge, and was later identified as the one who brutally assaulted a white woman of the eastern part of the county while she was milking. The assault on the white woman has not become generally known, however.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Scene From the Great Drama to Be Enacted Here Chautauqua Week

"SMITH'S MY NAME. DON'T YOU CALL ME SMYTHE."—FROM "THE SERVANT IN THE HOUSE."

FEW plays have received more excellent and enthusiastic comment from the leading newspapers and magazines of the country than "The Servant in the House." The following are a few of many comments which appeared during the early run of this great production:

The most beautiful play of all ages.—Chicago Daily News.

The best example of dramatic work now extant.—New York Evening Post.

A sensation.—New York Times.

A masterpiece.—Washington Post.

The most remarkable play in the English language.—Harper's Magazine.

A work of art that is true enough and simple enough to touch the heart of the world.—Chicago Tribune.

It has come to stay ten weeks. It ought to stay a year.—Chicago Journal.

An absorbing human story.—New York Sun.

Well, here is something worth while at last.—New York Evening Mail.

A work which will loom large in contemporaneous drama.—New York World.

The surprise of the theatrical year.—New York Telegraph.

A drama of absorbing human interest and deliciously humorous situations.—Canadian Magazine.

It is a play that leaves no one unmoved.—Independent.

Of a sudden "The Servant in the House" has become the thing to see.—Harper's Weekly.

Represents one of the highest uses to which the theater may be put, and it offers capital entertainment.—Red Book Magazine.

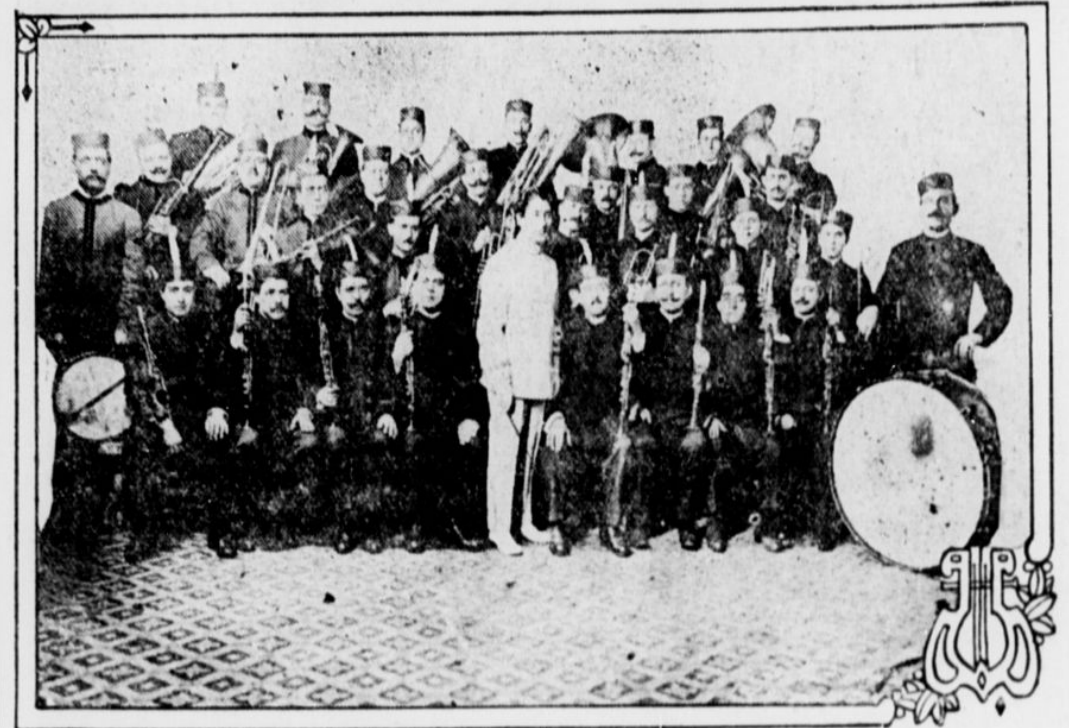

It is a work for the world to see and ponder upon.—Chicago Herald.

Its absorbing interest is on a par with its spiritual uplift and its moral inspiration.—Hebrew Standard.

A drama which combines in an unusual degree absorbing interest as a play with keen satire of certain tendency in the church.—Outlook.

DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATORS have a perfect oiling system

THE DE LAVAL SYSTEM of automatic oiling provides for a constant and liberal supply of clean oil to every wearing surface of the machine at all times, and it's the only system that does.

YOU NEEDN'T BE AFRAID that if the hired man or some one else runs the machine a few times your machine may be put out of business for the lack of a few drops of oil, because every part is supplied with clean oil from the oil reservoir automatically and constantly.

THERE IS NOTHING THAT will wear out a separator quicker than lack of proper lubrication, and because this cannot happen with a De Laval it means a much longer wearing machine.

WE SELL DE LAVAL SEPARATOR OIL. NO OTHER OIL SO GOOD.

TOO MUCH STRESS cannot be laid upon this subject of separator oiling. It is very important. We have a large chart which shows the De Laval oiling system much better than the small cut above. Any time you come in we will be glad to show it to you.

Children's Day at a Redpath Chautauqua

THE young women who conduct the children's work on the Redpath Chautauquas will follow a new system during the coming season, a method that will present the stories, folk dancing and games to the children in a more systematic manner.

This year the children's workers have received a special training in the following program: On the first day the children's worker at each Chautauqua will tell Indian folk tales and teach the children a few of the simple folk dances of the Indians; on the second day, Russian folk tales and Russian folk dancing; on the third day, German folk tales and German folk dances, and on the fourth day, Scandinavian folk tales and Scandinavian folk dancing.

The reason for the change from miscellaneous story telling to a plan for each day is to make each session's work a definite whole. We feel that this will be an advance step in the children's work and will interest the parents.

The children's workers will also be ready to give to the parents in each community two informal talks on such subjects as "The Place of the Story in the Education of a Child" and "The Value of Play in the Moral Development of Children." We feel that the above arrangement will appeal to the parents and be doubly interesting to the children.

The children's workers who will appear at the Redpath Chautauquas this season, one at each Chautauqua, are: Miss Verna E. Swanson, Miss Vivian Grace Ditt, Miss Helen McArthur, Miss Mabelle C. Conquist.

'The Man From Home' to Be Presented Here Chautauqua Week

WELLS WATSON GINN AND THE CHARACTERS HE IMPERSONATES IN "THE MAN FROM HOME."

A BLIND man sitting in a Chautauqua audience in Michigan last summer, following Wells Watson Ginn's rendition of "The Man From Home," declared that had he not been informed otherwise he would surely have thought that the play was being produced by a group of actors instead of by one man. Each character with its distinctive quality of voice became real.

It is doubtful, however, if the play was any more real to this blind man than to those who could see, for he missed the expression of face and the gestures and other features of the impersonation which still further distinguish each one of the characters which Mr. Ginn portrays.

Best of all, Booth Tarkington, one of the authors of the play, has heard Mr. Ginn give the interpretation and expresses his delight in a personal letter to him.

On more than 100 Chautauquas last season, on a tour beginning in Mississippi and extending on up fairs, he was heard, and it was conceded to be a leading feature of the program.

On June 8 a communication to the Redpath Bureau was received from Winona, Miss., signed by five speakers of the program.

It read in part as follows: "Our people were delighted with Mr. Wells Watson Ginn. 'The Man From Home' is one of the most attractive entertainments of our Chautauqua, and we wish it could be repeated here. Co. Judges pronounced it one of the best readings that they had ever heard."

Mr. Ginn is to appear here on the big Redpath Chautauqua program.

WELL-KNOWN KENTUCKY WOMAN SPEAKS.

A BOON TO WOMANKIND.

Wales, Ky.—"I take great pleasure in announcing to the public the great benefits I received from the use of Dr. Pierce's medicine. I had that dreadful disease, woman's trouble, which caused me such bearing-down, pains, burning sensation, and dull feeling in my head that I became a nervous wreck. I had five doctors to treat me, all to no avail. I had given up to die and to leave my dear husband and five little girls to the mercy of this world, when at last my husband begged me to try Dr. Pierce's medicine. I weighed 118 pounds when I began their use. I used 18 bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery' and four or five boxes of 'Lotion Tablets.' At the end of the treatment I was well and weighed 163 pounds."—Mrs. RACHEL TACKETT.

When a girl becomes a woman, when a woman becomes a mother, when a woman passes through the changes of middle life, are the three periods of life when health and strength are most needed to withstand the pain and distress often caused by severe organic disturbances.

At these critical times women are best fortified by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, an old remedy of proved worth that keeps the female system regulated and in condition.

Mothers, if your daughters are weak, lack ambition, are troubled with headaches, lassitude and are pale and sickly, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is just what they need to surely bring the bloom of health to their cheeks and make them strong and healthy.

Some Facts.

Harry N. Wood, the State geologist, and a Press man have been making some figures and estimates in regard to Marion and vicinity.

Marion is 582 feet above sea level. The highest point, on the Wilson Hill farm is 800 feet. So the Wilson Hill is 218 feet higher than the Depot. The residence is 188 feet above Marion. The highest point is nearly on a level with Hardin's Knob. The Ohio River near Tolu is 340 feet above sea level; therefore Marion is 242 feet higher than Tolu.

Tradewater at Blackford is 362 feet above sea level. So Marion is 220 feet higher than Blackford.

The highest point that Mr. Wood has found in Crittenden county is the Pinnacle, about eight miles north of Marion. Marion is situated in a valley surrounded by a circle of hills, from 450 to 800 feet above sea level.

PEORIA WOMAN TELLS EXPERIENCE

Mrs. W. L. McClellan, of Peoria, suffered torture from indigestion, gas, belching and other symptoms of stomach trouble. She spent large sums of money for doctors' advice and medicine. Still her condition did not improve. She found relief, wonderful, surprising relief in a drug store window. This is her story, as she tells it: "I suffered so from distention and colicky pains that at times I was completely incapacitated for my household work. I saw a window display of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and decided to purchase a bottle, which I did. I have taken only one bottle and the results have been really wonderful. I have not had a pain in my stomach since, and let me say that for the first time in many, many months, two days following I have had a natural movement of the bowels. I feel I cannot say enough for the remarkable virtues of your remedy."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Carson, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side."

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good; I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without tiring me, and am doing my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women. In its 25 years of wonderful success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

Write for Cardui's Medicine Co., Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chicago, Ill. For full instructions on use and 48-page book, "How to Treat Woman's Troubles," sent in plain wrapper. 25c.

appealed strongly to the churches of this country. Many a pastor has selected it as a sermon theme. It comprises a story that goes to fundamentals and so touches the common heart. It depicts the love of a father for his child, carrying that love through his poverty, degradation and bitterness. The child, when too young to realize her father's condition, has been placed in comfortable circumstances but her heart still cries for her father as her father's cries for her. How that love, like a magnet, draws them together is beautifully told in the play. Like a song of praise through the play,

YOUTH RETURNS TO SCHOOL

As a Result of Hearing A. M. Reitzel's Lecture, "The Measure of a Man"

It was at a Chautauqua in an Oklahoma town. A. M. Reitzel had given his lecture, "The Measure of a Man." At the close of the lecture a young man came up and introduced himself.

He said he had been attending college in one of the state schools for two years, and that he had quit school at the close of the second year and did not intend to return. "But," said he, "after hearing your lecture, and the emphasis you placed on preparation and efficiency, I wanted to tell you that I have changed my mind. I am going back to college and finish my education. I am going to prepare, so that when I go out into the world and take my place in its activities, I may be equipped to render a service with efficiency."

THE CHAUTAUQUA AS A BUSINESS FORCE

Merchants' Trade Journal of Des Moines Makes Important Comment

WORD "BUSINESS" ANALYZED

In the Broad Sense it Consists of Much More Than Barter—More Than Shares, Stocks and Manufacturing Plants

(From The Merchants' Trade Journal, Des Moines, Ia.)

Any business man is proud to be able to say: "We have a good Chautauqua in our town," because the word "Chautauqua" is recognized as a symbol of culture, high ideals and broad thinking. These are things for any community to be proud of.

But comparatively few people appreciate the Chautauqua as a business force. It has not been considered in a business way, save perhaps by some persons and agencies that have been interested in the business of promoting the Chautauqua movement. There is no doubt that the thought of the Chautauqua becoming a business force was entirely foreign to the minds of its originators. Rather, they thought of organizing and promoting a great school or university, so to speak, but today as we see many hundreds of splendid Chautauqua assemblies being held throughout the country, we think of what it means to these communities and to the entire country, in fact, in a business way; thinking, of course, of business in the broader sense of the term.

Formerly it was thought that for one to gain an education it was necessary for him to drop his everyday work and go away to some institution of learning. No one thought of having culture and training brought to the community, and, while, of course, we fully appreciate the fact that for one to receive a broad technical, or professional education, he must still go to institutions of learning offering special courses of study along the lines that he wishes to follow, it is at the same time true that the people of hundreds and hundreds of communities throughout this country have been educated to a considerable degree and lifted to a higher plane of thinking and living through the influence of this great educational movement.

The Journal has said over and over, again and again, many times to its readers that business, real, true, fundamental business, consists of more than stores and stocks of goods, manufacturing plants, railway systems, and wholesale houses. After all, the very foundation of all our business is the men and women in it, and when these men and women have been aroused and inspired which so celebrated a musical artist has appeared on a great chain of Chautauquas. It is safe to say, however, that with increasing demand among Chautauqua patrons for the best in music that many other tours of world-famous musicians will follow in years to come. Leading musical journals have commented upon this tour as an innovation which will open a new and broader field to the greatest musical talent.

Alice Nielsen, unlike so many of our famous artists, was not born in Europe but is a native of Nashville, Tenn. She is a beautiful, young woman of whose success the nation is rightly proud. Beginning a career in her teens, singing at the famous

Miss Nielsen is said to be the only great musician who has made a success in grand opera after first having achieved a reputation in light opera.

Her operatic debut was made in Italy with immediate success. Engagements at all the important opera houses of Europe followed. In 1904 she sang at Convent Garden, London, with Melba, Destinn, Caruso and others, appearing in "Don Giovanni," a great presentation in which Destinn made her London debut. Then in La Boheme, having sung in the "Rodolfo" of Caruso many times,

It has just been announced by the Redpath Chautauqua management that Alice Nielsen, prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan and Boston Opera companies, who is to appear on the forthcoming Chautauqua program, is to travel to all her Chautauqua dates this season in her private car, accompanied by assisting artists. The private car to be used has been named the "Alice Nielsen" by the Pullman company. Miss Nielsen will appear in her recital on the last night of the Chautauqua week program.

It is also understood that the Redpath Chautauquas will run another Chautauqua train this year, starting from Chicago with Jacksonville, Fla., for its destination. The Redpath special train has become an annual event and is always greeted by crowds of enthusiasts en route.

The opening date of the Redpath Chautauqua season for 1915 is at Jacksonville, Fla., on April 15.

CONGRESSMAN FROM NEBRASKA

His Recent Campaign Remarkable in Many Ways—A Speaker Who at Once Gets the Undivided Attention of His Audience.

Hon. Ashton C. Shallenberger, ex-Governor of Nebraska and newly elected Congressman, whose campaign was in many ways very remarkable, is to lecture on the sixth day of the Redpath Chautauquas this season. Aside from his prominence in state and national affairs, he is a fluent and entertaining speaker and his appearance on the program is an event well worth while.

In the 435 congressional elections in 1914, only four Democrats won in districts that were already represented by Republicans. Mr. Shallenberger was one of the four. After continued solicitation by the Democratic leaders of the state, he consented to run for Congress with the understanding that he would not make any political campaign for the nomination. He had already signed a contract with the Redpath Bureau to fill a season of 1914

Chautauqua dates and the tour was near at hand.

Mr. Shallenberger was not in his district a day during his campaign nor was any work done for him by any one else. Some of the other candidates made a complete canvass of the district, with speechmaking, posters and literature.

When the election was held Mr. Shallenberger was at Farmington, Mo. While there he received a telegram that he had won the nomination and that he had received more votes than all the other candidates against him twice over. He had defeated his leading competitor by about three to one.

Mr. Shallenberger finished his Chautauqua tour in Missouri about Sept. 1. Returning home he jumped at once into a whirlwind campaign. He reached every town in his district by automobile and spoke about 150 times in four weeks. Sometimes he spoke four times in one day. He won out in a strong Republican district over a man who had never lost a political battle before. He still has the distinction of being the only Democrat who has been able to carry this district for Congress.

Mr. Shallenberger has served in Congress from his district before and in 1908 was elected Governor of Nebraska, receiving a majority nearly double that of his fellow citizen, Wm. Jennings Bryan. He is the only Democrat ever elected from his district to Congress and the second Democratic Governor of Nebraska.

Manson

The character of Manson in "The Servant in the House," is the visualized manifestation of that spirit of righteousness which, in the affairs of men, loves, counsels, chides, judges and corrects. Mr. Kennedy, unlike many authors who use this figure to point their moral, does not weakly sentimentalize, but when occasion arises, uses the thongs to drive evil from the heart.

In the character of Robert, "The Drain Man," Mr. Kennedy has symbolized the spirit of "the publican and sinner." He has gathered into one character the groping blindness of the submerged. As a seed that has fallen into a cellar and taken root there and pushes its stalk and leans towards the grating that lets in the light, so Robert's soul stretches its utmost longing towards that universal love "in whom we live, move and have our being."

Charles Rann Kennedy, the author of "The Servant in the House," comes of a famous English family of scholars, preachers and educators.

The family includes the dramatist's grandfather, Charles Rann Kennedy the elder, whose studies in Demosthenes are well known in this country; Dr. Benjamin Hall, Kennedy, the late Regius Professor of Greek in the University of Cambridge, England; and Sir William Rann Kennedy, the present Lord Justice of Appeals.

In Shakespearean productions, he has appeared as Hamlet, Romeo, Shylock, Benedick, Iago and Orlando; in "The Three Musketeers" as "D'Artagnan," and in the famous dramas of Bulwer-Lytton as Riche-lieu and Claude Melnotte. He has played the part of David Garrick in "David Garrick" and Ingomar in "Ingomar." For two weeks he played a leading role with Julia Marlowe in McVicker's Theater, Chicago, and in the original run of "Josephine, Empress of the French," appeared with Rhea, the great French actress, in Broadway Theater, N. Y. With Donald Robertson he appeared in the Art Institute, Chicago, in the plays of Ibsen, Browning, Milton, Goethe and others, and it was while here, in October, 1908, that James O'Donnell Bennett, the noted dramatic critic of Chicago, wrote in the Record-Herald:

"His ideals are high, his nature unselfish and his equipment solid. COMMUNITY BUILDING

IMPORTANT PHASES TO BE DISCUSSED ON FORTHCOMING CHAUTAUQUA PROGRAM

Frank Dixon, widely known lecturer, to Speak on "The Social Survey" or "Taking Stock of a Town."

Frank Dixon, one of the best known lecturers in America today, on the forthcoming Redpath Chautauqua program, is to take for his subject "The Social Survey," or "Taking Stock of a Town." This is in keeping with the general idea that is now prevailing in the Chautauqua world, that of community building.

The American people are realizing that the creation of a town or city may be the result of deliberate, intelligent, community action. The landscape architect, the art commission, the sanitary engineer, and the municipal expert are destined to displace the "cow-path," the "spite-house," the real estate speculator, and the ward politician. Economy, beauty, health, efficiency—these are the most valuable assets of any town or city, and their conservation is the supreme duty of enlightened citizenship.

Mr. Dixon gave this lecture last summer at a large number of Chautauquas in the East and immediate results along lines of community building were chronicled from many places. In some towns and cities funds were established for maintaining of parks. In one place the board of health heard this lecture in a body and reported that if there had been no other feature on the Chautauqua program, that the Chautauqua was well worth while.

As Mr. Dixon describes instances of towns which have bonded themselves to pave streets and then two or three years later bonded the city again to build sewers which required the tearing up of the streets, he is usually greeted with such a response from the audience as would indicate that the same thing has been done in the very city in which he is delivering the lecture.

Mr. Dixon, it will be recalled, is a brother of Thomas Dixon, who wrote the "Leopard Spots," and of Dr. A. C. Dixon, pastor of the Spurgeon church in London.

He was born in North Carolina, after the Civil War, of Scotch-Irish parents, and graduated from the University of his native state. He taught school a year, entered the ministry, held pastorates in West Virginia, California and Connecticut, and about twelve years ago passed from the pulpit to the platform, where he at once achieved national distinction. In fact, he is regarded today as one of the most forceful and convincing lecturers on the American platform.

Frank Dixon.

For more than twelve years, he has filled an average of one hundred and fifty lecture engagements a year, in every section of the United States, returning to many towns and cities again and again.

and lifted up and made to appreciate themselves more fully, and to recognize their own individual responsibility that community has been bettered.

But it has not been made merely a better community morally and intellectually. It has been made better in a business way also. These things work together, and it is impossible to better a community intellectually and morally and not at the same time better that community commercially. The man who is made to think more of himself, to appreciate his own individuality more, is bound to want to take better care of himself, to clothe himself better, to build a better house to live in, to ride in a better carriage or automobile, and as he does these things he will also think more of his family, more of his children, more of his neighbors and his community, and when he does these things he becomes worth more to himself, his family, his business, his community and his country. We challenge exception to this rule.

Go into any community where a force of this kind has been working for a number of years, and you will find that the whole appearance of that community is changed. We might cite you to town after town that we have watched personally, and we could tell you of some of the splendid developments of these towns, much of which can be traced back directly to its source in this great Chautauqua movement—this moral, this intellectual movement.

But after all, the point that we wish to make in this article should be of direct and special interest to every retail merchant, men whose business success depends largely upon their community development. The original idea of the Chautauqua movement was to bring noted teachers, men and women who have accomplished things, into the community where the people might receive teaching and inspiration from them first hand. But this movement has grown until now our Chautauqua has become the great American forum, where the public meets to hear discussed problems and questions of moment. It has become a place where the reformer, the politician, the educator finds open minds to receive his teaching and theories.

But again we repeat, comparatively few people have thought of this movement as a business force, and consequently the subject of business has been given very little consideration in this movement, notwithstanding the fact that in the great majority of instances the co-operation and backing of the business men of the community have been necessary to the success of the movement in that community.

But the Journal is glad to note that there is a tendency throughout the country to consider the subject of business and commerce from the Chautauqua platform. We notice that there has been a greater tendency this year than there was last year and former years to have special business men's days upon Chautauqua programs. We believe the tendency is good. * * * Understand that we speak of business in a broad sense of the term, and not in the little narrow sense of barter, as the term is so often understood, or rather misunderstood.

Just now the question: "How can we keep the young men at home?" is a question receiving the attention not only of parents but of educators and business men everywhere. But we want to say to our readers that in our opinion nothing can be done that will have a greater tendency toward causing more young men to stay at home in the smaller towns and in rural communities where they should be, than to give them the right kind of broad business teaching, just such teaching as they have a right to expect from this great forum, the Chautauqua; just such teaching as they have a right to expect right there in your community.

NEW PHASES OF THE CHILDREN'S WORK

By Dr. W. A. Colledge

The young women who conduct the children's work on the Redpath Chautauquas will follow a new system during the coming season, a method that will present the stories, folk dancing and games to the children in a more systematic manner.

This year the children's workers have received a special training in the following program: On the first day the children's worker at each Chautauqua will tell Indian folk tales and teach the children a few of the simple folk dances of the Indians; on the second day, Russian folk tales and Russian folk dancing; on the third day, German folk tales and German folk dances, and on the fourth day, Scandinavian folk tales and Scandinavian folk dancing.

The reason for the change from miscellaneous story telling to a plan for each day is to make each session's work a definite whole. We feel that this will be an advance step in the children's work, and will interest the parents.

The children's workers will also be ready to give to the parents in each community two informal talks on such subjects as, "The Place of the Story in the Education of a Child," and "The Value of Play in the Moral Development of Children."

We feel that the above arrangement will appeal to the parents and doubly interesting to the children. any children's workers who will appear at the Chautauquas this season, one at each Chautauqua, are: Miss Verna E. Swanson, Miss Vivian Grace Ditto, Miss Helen McArthur, Miss Mabelle C. Conquist.

Francesco Pallaria and His Band Appearing on the Fifth Day of the Great Redpath Chautauqua Program

PALLARIA, DRAMATIC, DYNAMIC AND SPECTACULAR DIRECTOR

Band Day Again to Be a Big Feature of Chautauqua Week—
"Cavalry Charge" and Other Stirring Renditions
Included in Two Big Programs

Band Day is always a big feature of every Redpath Chautauqua and from present indications it long will be. To ascertain if we were judging wisely of the wishes of our hundreds of thousands of patrons, we recently asked Chautauqua committeemen thru our publication, The Community Builder, to express themselves upon the advisability of running one season's Chautauqua without a band. The response was so overwhelmingly for a continuance of Band Day that its importance was established for years to come.

The fifth day of the Redpath Chautauqua week this year, therefore, will be Band Day. Francesco Pallaria and his great band will render two programs—one in the afternoon and one in the evening. One program will include a descriptive fantasia entitled "Cavalry Charge," by Luders, arranged by L. P. Laurendeau. In this fantasia, the infantry is heard approaching on the morning of the battle with fifes and drums. Then the cavalry is heard in the distance coming nearer and nearer until they charge. Next is the cavalry, infantry and artillery in the melee of battle. Then comes the defeat of the enemy pursued in the distance by the cavalry. Both afternoon and evening programs will include some of Pallaria's own compositions.

Francesco Pallaria began his musical career in Italy—the land of the natural born musician. At the age of nine years he was attending the Milan Conservatory. At nineteen he graduated and soon after became soloist on the baritone horn of a band in Naples. Still a little later he became director of a band in Philadelphia, Italy.

Then he came on to New York and organized his own band and later played in concerts in the Hippodrome. For four years he played in the band of the Battleship Kansas in the United States Navy. He has since appeared in nearly all the large cities in the United States.

Pallaria's directing of his band is dynamic, dramatic and spectacular and not only interests his audiences but often brings them to a high point of enthusiasm.

PLAY FOR CHICAGO ADV. ASSOCIATION

THE SAVRANOFFS—RUSSIAN PLAYERS—
WIN MERITED APPLAUSE

Will Be Heard on Second Day of Forthcoming Redpath Chautauqua Program

On Wednesday, Jan. 14, Mr. and Mrs. Savranoff, two members of the Savranoff company of Russian players, furnished the music for the Chicago Advertiser luncheon, on the occasion of the appearance of Gov. Adolph O. E. Hart of Minnesota. They presented four musical numbers including Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsodie and were greeted with rounds of applause. The imitation of the chimes on the piano by Mrs. Savranoff was especially appreciated.

The Savranoffs present a program filled with life and enthusiasm. The program includes piano, violin, cello and vocal solos and ensemble numbers.

Endorse Chautauquas

Norwalk, O., Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution as follows: "The executives of the Norwalk Chamber of Commerce take this method of giving endorsement to the Chautauqua as it is now known in our city, and we pledge support to it as a permanent educational movement for community betterment."

LARGE MARIMBAPHONE

TO BE USED BY THE MUSIC
MAKERS MALE QUARTET

In Opening Day Program of Chautauqua Week. Vocal Solo and Ensemble Numbers Also Important Features of Program

The Music Makers Male Quartet, composed of musicians of long experience on the Lyceum and Chautauqua platform, will appear on the opening day of the Chautauqua and, aside from their vocal solo and ensemble numbers, they will render music on that very unique and peculiar instrument—a marimbaphone. This instrument is shown in the accompanying illustration. In nearly every city where the Music Makers appear a crowd gathers around the platform at the close of the evening's entertainment to get the boys to explain the workings of the marimbaphone.

In the modern marimbaphone there are powerful resonators connected with the keys. The tones are produced by felt-covered hammers. The resonators create the volume and the soft hammers beautify the quality. The effect might be said to suggest that of a powerful harp.

The members of the Music Makers Quartet are: Charles Bryan Huff, baritone and reader; Lloyd F. Garrett, first tenor; Mark Swingley, basso; and W. H. Head, second tenor. The Music Makers Quartet has appeared during the last seven years in nearly every state in the Union and is conceded one of the best male quartets before the public.

The Savranoffs—Russian Players

This company is composed of the following members: Margaret Savranoff, soprano and pianist, Leo Savranoff, violinist, and Russell Chilinski, cellist.

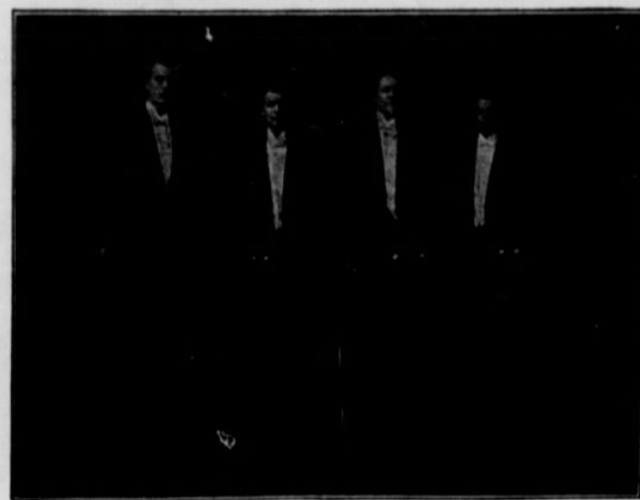

Mr. Savranoff is a graduate of the Imperial Conservatory of Music of St. Petersburg and is rightly described as a wonder on the violin. He delights music-loving audiences with his fantastic playing.

Mrs. Savranoff is not only a piano soloist and accompanist, but also a sweet singer with a mezzo soprano voice. She presents characteristic songs of the Russian people, gives one pianologue entitled "I am glad I am in the United States," also one selection with cello obligato and, by way of diversion, one of the well-known popular airs.

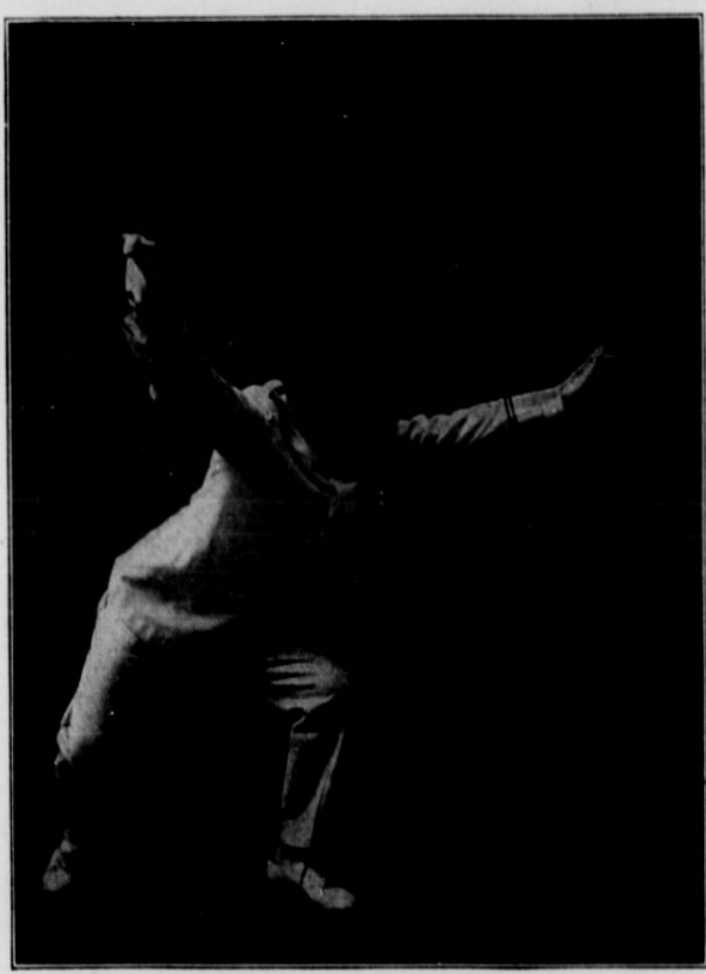

Russell Chilinski, born in Russia, came to the United States at an early age. His natural love for music soon manifested itself. He has studied the cello under some of the best teachers in this country in developing his remarkable talent.

Business Men Enthusiastic

The business men at Ashland, Ky., who heard the community building lecture at their Chautauqua last summer, were so enthusiastic that they decided to ask other business men who failed to hear the address to go in a body to the Chautauqua at Huntington, W. Va., fifteen miles distant, where the same program was given.

FLETCHER GREAT DRAMATIC ORATOR

HIS LECTURE A REAL EVENT OF CHAUTAUQUA WEEK

More Than One Million People Have Paid an Admission to Hear
One of the Fletcher
Lectures

It is estimated that more than 1,000,000 people have paid an admission to hear one of the lectures of Thomas Brooks Fletcher, who is appearing on the forthcoming Chautauqua program in this city.

Thomas Brooks Fletcher

Mr. Fletcher is now in his tenth year on the Chautauqua and Lyceum platform. He is pronounced a leader of the younger lecturers and thinkers of this generation, and is one of the greatest dramatic orators on the American platform.

Reports from the lecture course committees that have engaged him class him among the most distinguished orators of the present time. He has been substituted for the late Senator John P. Dolliver, and at Findlay, O., two or three years ago, was substituted for the famous Ben B. Lindsey of the juvenile court of Denver, Colo., and this was his second appearance before the Findlay audience within eight months. He has lectured in nearly every state in the Union, and his success has been as remarkable in Massachusetts and the New England states as it has been in Iowa and the west. He has appeared before some of the largest college and university courses everywhere, and there are few places where he has not been recalled for the second or third lecture, which would indicate that we are to have, perhaps, one of the greatest addresses ever delivered in this city.

It is indeed remarkable that a man should be able in so short a time to lecture on the same platform with Dr. S. Parks Cadman, Newell Dwight Hillis, Wendling, Gunsaulus, John Temple Graves and many other distinguished men of great intellect and be able to share honors with them in oratorical ability and be pronounced by the audiences the equal of the most dramatic orators of the time.

Mr. Fletcher's lectures contain real messages with a dignified and thoughtful purpose and are helping to make the lecture course and Chautauqua live in hundreds of communities.

Besides his extensive lecture work he is the editor of a live newspaper, the Marion (Ohio) Tribune, having for a newspaper competitor, Hon. Warren G. Harding.

Forty-one people are employed in the Fletcher newspaper plant, almost twice the number employed when the business was purchased two years and a half ago. Marion is one of the best and most rapidly growing cities in Ohio. It is the location of the famous steam shovel industry that helped to build the Panama Canal, and is a great Chautauqua town.

BLIND MAN HEARS GINN

SAYS HE COULD EASILY IMAGINE THERE WERE TEN ACTORS

Author of "The Man From Home"
Also Comments on Impersonator
Who is to Appear Here Chautauqua Week

A blind man sitting in a Chautauqua audience at Ishpening, Mich., hearing Wells Watson Ginn's rendition of "The Man From Home," declared that, had he not been informed otherwise, he would surely have thought that the play was being produced by a group of ten actors instead of by one man. There are just ten actors in the play. Each character with its distinctive quality of voice was real to him.

Wells Watson Ginn

Characters in "The Man
From Home"

It is doubtful, however, if the play was any more real to this blind man than to those who could see, for he missed the expression of face and the gestures and other features of the impersonation which still further distinguish each character which Mr. Ginn portrays.

Best of all, Booth Tarkington, one of the authors of "The Man From Home," has heard Mr. Ginn give the interpretation of his play and expresses his delight in a letter to Mr. Ginn.

On more than 100 Redpath Chautauquas last season, the tour beginning in Mississippi and extending on up into Illinois, Mr. Ginn gave his rendition of "The Man From Home" and it was conceded to be a leading feature of the program.

On June 8 a communication to the Redpath Bureau from Winona, Miss., signed by five people, read in part as follows: "Our people were delighted with Mr. Wells Watson Ginn. 'The Man From Home' was one of the most attractive entertainments of our Chautauqua and we wish it could be repeated here. Competent judges pronounced it one of the best readings that they had ever heard."

Beginning April 16, at Jacksonville, Fla., Mr. Ginn will render the same play on this season's Redpath Chautauqua circuit, his tour closing in September in Michigan or Illinois.

this special work this season on this Chautauqua circuit, one of the following appearing at each Chautauqua:

Wallace Bruce Amsbury, author, poet and lecturer, has had fourteen years' experience on the platform and this experience, with a wide knowledge of literature, enables him to make his talks sympathetic, artistic and full of color. His interpretations are true to life, and many of his stories concern humble folk whose experiences are the old and simple tales of life and love.

With more than ten years' experience as a successful lecturer, Dr. Henry Clark gives a series of talks on themes that are inspirational, sociological, educational and patriotic. His lectures deal with vital questions which concern every member of his audience.

R. E. P. Kline for many years has been a teacher, reader and lecturer, and for eight years taught rhetoric, literature and vocal expression in two leading educational institutions. In 1904 and 1905 he was secretary of the National Speech Arts Association and since that time he has been a member of its official board.

W. E. Wenner has been before the public as a speaker for years. He is widely known in educational circles, having been instructor in the Wooster, Ohio, Summer School, and being in great demand for addresses before teachers' institutes, high school commencements, Y. M. C. A.'s and women's clubs. In all Mr. Wenner has thirty-four distinct addresses.

C. M. Sanford is at the head of the department of public speaking at the Normal University, Normal, Ill. He is a graduate of Cornell University at Ithaca, N. Y., and his public work has carried him into many states. He is a state institute instructor in Wisconsin. The leading educational journals of the country have published his literary contributions.

MAY HIRE FARMING EXPERT

As a Result of Chautauqua Community Building Lecture in Mt.
Vernon, O.

Following the Chautauqua at Mt. Vernon, O., in 1914, the Mt. Vernon Banner said that as a result of the lecture on "Community Building" at the Chautauqua, local members of the Citizens' Association discussed the advisability of hiring an agricultural expert to spend the entire year in Knox county and offer his technical knowledge gratis to farmers.

Continuing, the Banner said: "In an Iowa county, such an expert returned $25,000 to the farmers in a larger production of corn and in stamping out hog cholera. The salary for such a man would run between $1,000 and $2,000 per year."

"In addition to his giving practical advice, the work of the expert is to establish a better community feeling. A dozen farm families are grouped into a district, and these districts hold basket picnics twice a month and are addressed by the expert upon some phase of agriculture."

Thirty States Represented

At the Clifton Springs, N. Y., Redpath Chautauqua tent one day, it was estimated that there were people present from 30 states and several foreign countries. Clifton Springs is a summer resort and the site of a sanitarium.

WOOD'S WRESTLING GYROSCOPE

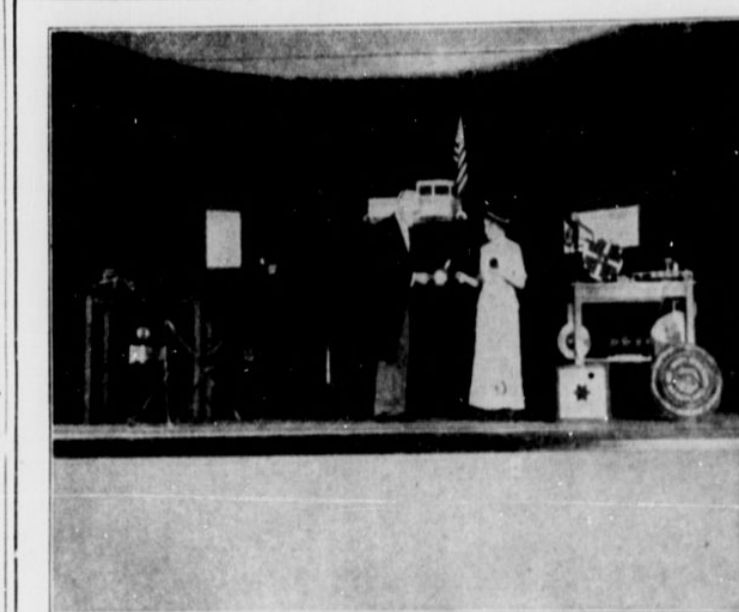

Also Ultra Violet Ray and Mono-Rail Car Scheduled for Popular Science Night at the Chautauqua

The announcement for Popular Science Night comprises a feature strikingly interesting, even startling, yet educational. Also it is widely different from anything else ever given on the Redpath Chautauquas.

Think of a two hours' demonstration divided into three parts in which as one feature a member of the audi-charge of the engineering department of the North Pacific Exposition in Portland, Oregon, where the honor of opening the exposition was bestowed upon his young daughter, Alene.

While Mr. Wood in 1904 was perfecting the process of welding copper at the great works of the General ence will wrestle with a 28-pound gyroscope while it is running at a speed of 3,000 revolutions a minute.

Then will come a demonstration of the mono-rail car, a model car being actually sent out in mid-air on a slack wire above one of the aisles of the auditorium.

The producing of hand writing on the canvas wall with a ray of light acting as the crayon will cause another surprise throughout the tent.

These and other demonstrations will be presented by Prof. Montraville

Electric Company, at Schenectady, N. Y., he became interested in the gyroscopic actions of large moving bodies developed in the steam turbines built by this company.

Knowing that many had failed in harnessing this enormous force did not prevent him from carrying on his experiments, and Mr. Wood practically has solved the problem of controlling the precessional movements of the gyroscope.

The wrestling match that Mr. Wood exhibits at his lectures creates great excitement and at the same time furnishes scientific and instructive sport. Can you imagine anything more amusing than to see a man being thrown around on the platform as though he were a small rag doll, by a gyroscope only twenty-four inches in diameter and weighing but twenty-eight pounds?

Also seeing one of these large gyroscopes, which is lying down at an angle of forty-five degrees, raise itself bodily into the air, get up on its feet and turn around, you cannot help but think that there is something supernatural in its workings.

A gyroscope when running at the rate of three thousand revolutions per minute and standing perpendicular, cannot be pushed over and made to lie on its side. Also a heavy weight placed on one side of a gyro causes that side to rise, therefore overcoming the law of gravitation.

The ultra-violet ray is produced by taking alternating current and boosting it to 25,000 volts requiring one of the most dangerous currents known today.

Prof. Wood is a good talker and entertainer as well as a scientist.

Miss Alene M. Wood, Prof. Wood's only daughter, who has been his co-worker and assistant for several years, is a graduate of a well-known musical college of Chicago, and is otherwise talented, but there is nothing in which

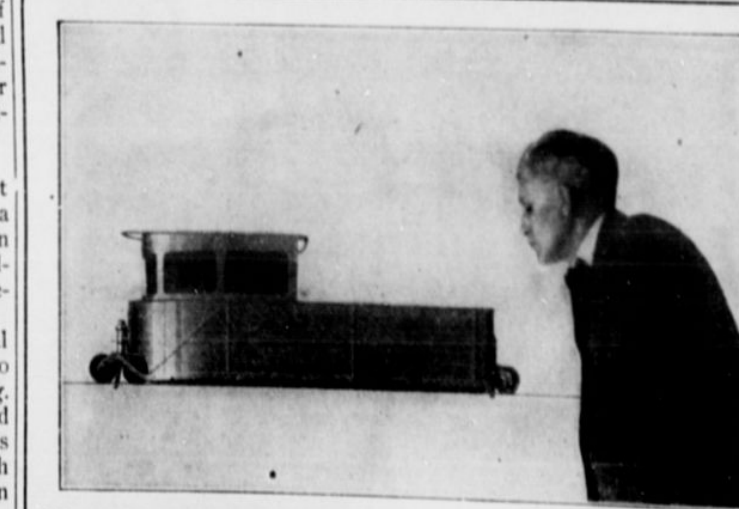

Wrestling with the Gyroscope

The subjects demonstrated are of such a nature that the demonstrations can be plainly seen from all parts of the large tent.

Prof. Wood is already well known to scientists and inventors throughout this country. In fact, he is one of America's foremost inventors, especially in the electrical field. The patents which have been awarded to him number nearly 100, the majority of which are in practical use today.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S PHYSICAL ADVISER COMING CHAUTAUQUA WEEK

Dr. Charles E. Barker to Tell His Audiences "How to Live 100 Years."—Will Give Demonstrations of Important Health Exercises which Everyone Can Practice at Home

Every one is, of course, interested in learning how to live 100 years. The fact that a lecture on this subject by so prominent an authority as Dr. Charles E. Barker, who was physical adviser to President Taft during his administration at Washington, is to be given Chautauqua week is at once of great importance.

At the morning session on the third day, Mr. Barker will give his lecture entitled "Health and Happiness" and in the afternoon his subject will be, as stated above, "How to Live 100 Years." At this afternoon lecture Mr.

Barker will give demonstrations of physical exercises which everyone can practice at home. He will also outline a plan of diet which should be followed by business men in offices and others who are not performing hard manual labor.

It was Dr. Barker who, by his system of physical exercises and plan of diet, reduced President Taft's weight some eighty-five pounds. The exercises which Dr. Barker will demonstrate, however, are not necessarily to reduce flesh but are just as essential to the man or woman of average weight.

Aside from President Taft, many other prominent men in national life have followed Dr. Barker's plan for

LECTURE FOR THE FIRST DAY

WILL AIM TO SHOW THE NECESSITY FOR THE IDEAL AS WELL AS THE PRACTICAL

Sylvester A. Long Believes That It Is Not More Facilities For Education We Need, But A Greater Love For Knowledge

Sylvester A. Long in his lecture on the opening day of the Chautauqua, will treat in a popular yet vital way of the foundations of community building. Mr. Long believes that community building must begin with the inspiration of a community ideal, that reform without sentiment is dead, and have crystallized sentiment you may launch reform candidates and reform parties without number and without result save the personal gain of the candidate.

"If we had a perfect church we would not know what to do with it. Both the practical and the ideal are essential. Without the practical we could not exist. Without the ideal we could only exist, we could not live. Practical people furnish the 'overhead expense' of community improvement, but the idealist sees to the maintenance and up-keep. The practical man votes the improvement but the idealist pays the bonds!"

"A grain of wheat is valuable for food today because of the practical nutriment which it contains; but it is infinitely more valuable because of the ideal life germ which by consuming the practical may return a harvest for a nation. In the long run a bushell of live wheat is more valuable than a bushell of dead diamonds.

"Practical things are good for the passing present but worthless for the onrushing future. The big things of life are the things that do not yet exist. The perfect residence has never been built. It is to be found in the yearnings of home builders. The finest store in your town has neither sign nor street number, it is not to be found upon the public squares but in the heart and brain of some far seeing business man and when we awake tomorrow it will be ours.

"We pity the man who wears his life away for the things that are. But we worship the hero that gives his life for the ideal things that are not."

SIGNOR BARTOLOTTA

A MUSICAL FEATURE OF CHAUTAUQUA WEEK

Widely Known Tenor Who Has Also Sung At Some of the Foremost Concerts In England

Signor Giuseppe Bartolotta, widely known Italian tenor, toured this country four years ago with the Bartolotta Concert Company under Redpath management with great success.

Signor Bartolotta has sung at some of the foremost concerts in England, in conjunction with some of the most famous foreign artists. He is a Neapolitan by birth and studied for some years at the Conservatory of Naples. The remarkable range and power of his voice is a revelation of the overwhelming superiority of the Italian tenor in operatic singing.

Signor Giuseppe Bartolotta

Miss Grace Bell Kirlin, well known pianist and accompanist of Kansas City, will play the accompaniments for Signor Bartolotta's solos and also render piano solos. Miss Kirlin has already appeared on the Redpath Chautauquas of the West.

SOLD 449 CHAUTAUQUA SEASON TICKETS

Frank Coolman of Thorntown, Ind., Makes Remarkable Record in 1914

The banner record for selling Chautauqua tickets is undoubtedly held by Mr. Frank Coolman of Thorntown, Ind. He sold 449 season tickets for the 1914 Redpath Chautauqua in that city. Mr. Coolman has been one of the foremost Chautauqua enthusiasts in Thorntown from the very first. The Chautauqua movement needs more such enthusiastic workers.

HE LOVED THE CHAUTAUQUA

The Late Bishop McIntyre's Tribute to Our Great American Forum

In view of the recent death of Robert McIntyre, bishop of the Methodist Church, his estimate of the Lyceum and Chautauqua movement is of especial interest. He said:

"I still love the Lyceum, especially in its summer dress, called Chautauqua. It was never more magnetic and masterful. Some great names are gone. I was at the work when Gough, Beecher, Colfax, Cook, Swing, Phillips, and Jones were at it, and I know that the general level of work is higher, the moral impact stronger, the confidence greater, the field broader, and the outlook grander than in the days gone by.

"This movement is in its chubby-checked youth. It will go up and possess the whole land. It is the child of the church with its mother's clear eyes and white ideals.

"It will drop some capering follies and stiffen into one of the most tremendous reform warriors the Lord ever let loose in this world.

"It will bestride the earth, speaking truth in forty languages, calling all tribes and clans to do justice, love mercy and walk humbly with man and God."

Shown in the Movies

The Chautauqua has broken into the metropolitan movies. Reels of Redpath Chautauquas were shown in several of the large cities within the past year and included views of the playground work.

Schools Close for Chautauqua

At Oneonta, N. Y., the public schools closed at 1:30 in the afternoon so that the children might attend the Chautauqua program.

JOHN B. RATTO IN CHARGE OF "JOY NIGHT"

Widely Known Impersonator to be Assisted by The Maurer Sisters in an Evening of Fun and Music

Joy night of Chautauqua week, with its fun and freedom from care, will be in charge of John B. Ratto—widely known impersonator, and a prince of entertainers.

Mr. Ratto's performances are full of action and life, with not a dull moment. They consist of types of characters one meets in the average American community, which makes them more vitally interesting than if idealized to present some literary masterpiece.

Mr. Ratto's programs are miscellaneous; each number naturally and logically follows the preceding one, making a panorama of associated characters. He presents his characters in "make-up," penciling in full view of the audience, telling an appropriate story the while. Penciling finished, he turns to the table mirror, adjusts his wig, and faces about to surprise you with the accuracy of a character different in appearance, speech and actions, with a personality all his own.

Aside from original characterizations, where Mr. Ratto himself fits the character to the words, only those selections are used that can be presented by natural characters in a genuine way, making the impersonation not only artistic but entertaining.

Mr. Ratto has filled practically 2,000 engagements.

The music of Joy Night will be furnished by the Maurer Sisters, who will present cornet solos with orchestra accompaniment, flute solos with piano accompaniment, violin solos with piano accompaniment, whistling solos, cello solos, violin and flute duet, humorous readings, orchestral numbers and ensemble vocal numbers.

Sylvester Schaeffer, the versatile German artist, who, it is said, draws a salary much larger than the President's, appeared in Keith's Theater, Columbus, several weeks ago. In his hour and a quarter on the stage Schaeffer presents ten acts, all widely different, and including music.

Shortly after Schaeffer's appearance the Maurer Sisters gave a concert in Columbus. On the following evening at the head of the amusement column, H. E. Cherrington, the atrical and musical critic for the Evening Dispatch, wrote enthusiastically and quite at length of the Maurer program, stamping his approval very definitely in the headline, "Four Feminine Schaeffers."

In the course of his article Mr. Cherrington says: "That such companies are in Chautauqua work is only a tribute to the quality that Redpath and others steadily maintain. Charming personalities, tasteful gowns, a program of commendable content, and well diversified talent help to make this quartet a splendid attraction."

John B. Ratto and Some of His Impersonations

that civic improvement without popular desire is a train without a track.

"What we need most," says he, "is not more facilities for education but a greater love of knowledge." Quoting further: "No people can ever build a community worth while unless they have first caught in their civic consciousness the picture of a more ideal community than anything they have ever seen. Both the practical and the ideal are essential."

Mr. Long has lectured widely and is regarded as one of the most popular speakers now before the public. He is inspiring, witty and eloquent.

Herewith are some further telling statements from his lectures:

"A city or state is as clean as the people want it to be. And until you

The Chautauqua movement is now in its forty-first year.

This year's Redpath Chautauqua program, it is generally conceded, sets a new high mark in Chautauqua program building. Every day is a red letter day—a day you cannot afford to miss. There is the William Owen Day, when one entire evening will be devoted to a modern drama. Then comes Band Day with its crowds and enthusiasm. On Patriotic Day Governor Shallenberger will deliver the address on Political Patriotism. Popular Science Night with its two hours of instruction, rollicking fun, thrills and surprises, and with music interspersed, is one of the big features of the week. Joy Night will be bigger and better than ever and the program will close with Alice Nielsen Day, when the great prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan and Boston Opera Companies, will give a recital—the first time that so noted an artist has appeared on a great Chautauqua circuit.

The Chicago Herald in its editorial column of January 26, under the head, "The Eternal Human," describes the recent striking event of telephoning from Washington, D. C., to San Francisco and then says:

"What a pity that the rapidity of the material and scientific advance of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries has not been accompanied by correspondingly rapid changes in the mental and moral qualities of man himself!

"What a pity that men today do not stand on the same secure eminence of admitted superiority, as compared with men of the other days, that science stands on when compared with the science preceding the last century!"

The Herald is right in this contention. Our future progress must be more along mental and moral lines, and herein lies the work and influence of the Chautauqua. May these institutions fully measure up to their opportunities.

About Season Chautauqua Tickets

In arranging to inaugurate this Chautauqua this year, the local committee bought 1,000 $3.00 season tickets which will be sold while they last by them for $2.50 each.

When these tickets are exhausted, no season tickets thereafter can be had for less than $3.00.

For the single admissions to the respective entertainments, see the complete program on this page.

Season tickets are non-transferable except within the owner's family. The name of some member of the family must be written in ink upon every season ticket. This provision is made primarily as a protection to the owner in case the ticket should be lost.

In case you forget to bring your ticket, go to the cashier, buy a single admission ticket, take a receipt for same, bring your season ticket to the cashier next session, and also the receipt, and the cashier will return the money paid for the single admission. The gate-keeper cannot admit you except by ticket.

Children's tickets admit children aged six to fourteen years inclusive. All children are admitted to the children's work free.

We hope to make this the biggest season in the history of the Redpath Chautauquas, and will look forward to meeting our friends and patrons of former years.

Cordially yours,
HARRY P. HARRISON,
General Manager.

Strictly political discussions are seldom heard any more from the Chautauqua platform. Muck-raking has nearly had its day. Problems of the home and school, civic beauty and civic righteousness are to the forefront on nearly all programs. Constructive talks on commerce and business by experts, also sanitation, public health and child welfare are being accorded increasing prominence, while the interpretation of modern books and plays finds ready response everywhere.

Many places of 1,000 to 2,000 population in which the smaller Chautauquas are held, together with the outlying territory on which they draw, are just at this time grappling with the problems of rural life—centralization of schools, good roads, scientific farming, etc. To them the discussion of these subjects is of vital importance, for it means keeping young people on the farms, equal educational advantages with city children, making the crops pay living dividends and contentment all 'round. The Chautauqua is proving one of the much-needed factors in the campaign for rural evolution.

The introduction by the Redpath Chautauquas for this coming season, of a great modern play, "The Servant in the House," will set a new precedent thruout the Chautauqua world. Heretofore all such productions under our management have been limited to the literature of Shakespeare and Goldsmith. We have left it all to the lecturer to grapple with the issues of the hour, unimpaired of the fact that there are thousands of people who can be reached by the drama who can be approached in no other way.

The introduction of this play, however, this season does not mean that the Redpath is entering the theatrical business. It will take over none of those properties of the theater which have so long been the subject of censure. It will present no play that does not in itself carry a great message. It will be the policy to place upon the Chautauqua platform no actors except those who are as clean and wholesome morally as our lecturers and entertainers.

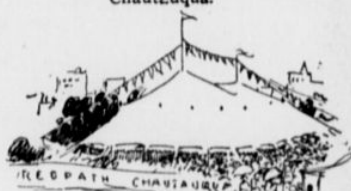

In the beginning, the drama was the handmaiden of the church. Since then it has wandered afar. The greatest exponents of the church today recognize its power and force for good when rightly directed and look forward to the time when it will again come into its own.

The introduction of this play by the Redpath this season is, we believe, a long step in the right direction.

THE MAGIC WORD

By Phil Campbell
Published in the Doniphan Mo., Prospect News

The summer heat was beating down
When up and down throughout the town
There passed a lad, fleet as a bird,
Who cried aloud this magic word:
"Chautauqua."

He went into each bank and store,
He stopped at every dwelling's door,
And to all persons he would shout
And tell them something good about
"Chautauqua."

He said the thing that is worth while
To make one wise, to make one smile,
Is not this cheap barn-storming biz,
But without doubt most surely 'tis,
"Chautauqua."

So let us all with one accord
(For certainly we can afford)
Buy tickets to and daily go
And help out this uplifting show—
"Chautauqua."

BATTLES WON IN THE HALLS OF EDUCATION

"I believe that the battles of a nation are won in its halls of education. The man who established Chautauqua Institution has done more for his country than any warrior who ever tread a battlefield. I believe that education is the greatest thing on earth. It is the only thing that can lift a man above his natural baseness. I believe that through education have been evolved the principles which have made possible this form of government. But education isn't all books. It is largely living up to the Golden Rule."

From the address of Gov. Glynn, of New York, before the International Lyceum Association Convention.

POLITICAL, MORAL AND LITERARY PROGRESS

By Opie Read

Thinking men have come to recognize the truth that out of the Chautauqua movement in the Middle West has arisen the political, moral and literary progress of this great section of the country. This truth is not only acknowledged, but proclaimed by such publicists as Bryan, Clarke, La Follette, and publishers of books and magazines of a high class have learned that their sales in Chautauqua communities are far in advance of sales in neighborhoods where the Chautauqua spirit has not been developed. This has set even the East to thinking, and the complacent old-timer, who fancied that he had a corner on thought because his grandfather wrote a moral essay for the village newspaper, finds that he must ride the waves of "Chautauqua progress" or be backed off into the stagnant marsh.

Realizing the facts brought forward by careful students of present conditions and future trends, it was a keen pleasure to me, a Southerner, to look upon the generous and appreciative warmth with which the South is co-operating with the Redpath Chautauqua system. And yet it should not have been occasion for astonishment except among those who do not know the South, for the Chautauqua idea is purely an Anglo-Saxon conception, and today the Southern states, with the exception of parts of New England, are all that remain of Anglo-Scotch-Irish America. Every lecturer fortunate enough to have pursued his work into the South knows the spontaneity, the thrilling quickness of a representative Southern audience.

With pleasure I recall the surprise of a well-known speaker who "made" the Redpath southern circuit last summer. It was his first introduction to a southern audience, an experiment, he thought, and rather timidly he approached the first summit of his rhetorical altitudes. And then his face beamed. The audience, instead of struggling to follow, ran in advance, helped him over the difficult ground, and when illumined he came down out of the purple mists, he said to me: "Ah, was there ever a more inspiring company? Where else can you go to look into such countenances? Truly here is the home of logic, sentiment, patriotism, truth!"

I could have told him something that he must have known from reading—did tell him—that while in the village New England was counting the methodic feet of exact versification, the South was ablaze with spontaneous oratory. In the North there was fervid declamation, it is true, and Webster replied to Hayne, but did not answer him.

CHAUTAUQUA AND LYCEUM STATES NOW RULE AT WASHINGTON

By Former United States Senator
Frank J. Cannon.

It is trite, but it is true, that the Chautauqua and Lyceum are making of the people who attend them, the best informed and the most patriotically determined element of our country's population—in all the great issues of national welfare.

From the Chautauqua and Lyceum platforms have gone forth the truth of information and the spirit of purpose, which have made the central western states the ruling political power of the country.

It was upon these platforms that Theodore Roosevelt's "Square Deal" as a political creed was born. These platforms first heralded the "New Freedom" of President Wilson.

Without these platforms, and their effect upon thinking millions, Colonel Roosevelt might have been still a stand-patter—or a progressive leader minus a following; and Woodrow Wilson might have been still a college president—potentially one of the greatest men of all this world, but with no opportunity to express himself in glorified action.

It was the strength he had himself developed on these platforms which gave to William J. Bryan that unparalleled victory at the Baltimore convention.

It is these platforms which enable the senators and representatives from many states to say: "Our people know what they want and why they want it." It is the lack of these platforms that leaves senators and representatives, from older and more populous states, almost powerless at Washington, because they do not know what their people want; their people do not know what they want, and certainly they do not know why other people want and get square deals and new freedoms, etc.

Where these platforms are many, the politicians can not fool their constituents; therefore they quit trying to fool themselves and the country.

Where these platforms are a negligible quantity in the community life—in many cases—the politicians and the people are still groping, groping, groping.

For a long time New England practically ruled legislation at Washington.

Today legislation at Washington is largely ruled by Chautauqua and Lyceum states, along the lines hammered out on the platforms, and considered, improved, defined, determined and enforced by Chautauqua and Lyceum audiences.

The first aid to a state's power in national affairs is the Chautauqua and Lyceum.

The South senses this; hence the South is after the Chautauqua and Lyceum.

The East is beginning to sense it; hence the East is turning to the power.

Five years ago, it was the fashion in large centers to sneer at the Chautauqua and the Lyceum platforms. But while the sneers sneered, the platforms gained. Even the sneers of the past are ready now to trade away their sneers at the platform in exchange for a share in the power of the platform.

SOUTHERN AUDIENCES ARE APPRECIATIVE

By Edward Amherst Ott

I have made several trips into Dixie land in the past five years, and each time I have noted changes for the better. Audiences are larger, more enthusiastic and more learned. The statement that the South does not want lectures is not exemplified by experience.

At Jackson, Tenn., the auditorium was inadequate. Many people who applied for tickets were turned away. The audiences in other cities were in several instances capacity audiences. And not only that, but the audiences are loyal. If they believe in you, they want you back.

Within the next ten years the South will be a favorite field for Lyceum and Chautauqua workers. The great commercial awakening has come, and with it the educational demand.

MULES WANTED.

We will be in Marion Sec.

Mrs. James M. Freeman and little grand daughter, Martha Barney, left Wednesday morning for Los Angeles, Cal., to visit her daughter, Mrs. Bessie John C. Waddell, who lives in the Pleasant Hill neighborhood, and his fine little son, Lawrence, were here several times recently.

CHAUTAUQUA AND LYCEUM STATES NOW RULE AT WASHINGTON

By Former United States Senator Frank J. Cannon.

It is trite, but it is true, that the Chautauqua and Lyceum are making of the people who attend them, the best informed and the most patriotically determined element of our country's population—in all the great issues of national welfare.

From the Chautauqua and Lyceum platforms have gone forth the truth of information and the spirit of purpose, which have made the central western states the ruling political power of the country.

It was upon these platforms that Theodore Roosevelt's "Square Deal" as a political creed was born. These platforms first heralded the "New Freedom" of President Wilson.

Without these platforms, and their effect upon thinking millions, Colonel Roosevelt might have been still a stand-patter—or a progressive leader minus a following; and Woodrow Wilson might have been still a college president—potentially one of the greatest men of all this world, but with no opportunity to express himself in glorified action.

It was the strength he had himself developed on these platforms which gave to William J. Bryan that unparalleled victory at the Baltimore convention.

It is these platforms which enable the senators and representatives from many states to say: "Our people know what they want and why they want it." It is the lack of these platforms that leaves senators and representatives, from older and more populous states, almost powerless at Washington, because they do not know what their people want; their people do not know what they want; and certainly they do not know why other people want and get square deals and new freedoms, etc.

Where these platforms are many, the politicians can not fool their constituents; therefore they try trying to fool themselves and the country.

Where these platforms are a negligible quantity in the community life—in many cases—the politicians and the people are still groping, groping, groping.

For a long time New England practically ruled legislation at Washington.

Today legislation at Washington is largely ruled by Chautauqua and Lyceum states, along the lines hammered out on the platforms, and considered, improved, defined, determined and enforced by Chautauqua and Lyceum audiences.

The first aid to a state's power in national affairs is the Chautauqua and Lyceum.

The South senses this; hence the South is after the Chautauqua and Lyceum.

The East is beginning to sense it; hence the East is turning to the power.

Five years ago, it was the fashion in large centers to sneer at the Chautauqua and the Lyceum platforms. But while the sneerers sneered, the platforms gained. Even the sneerers of the past are ready now to trade away their sneers at the platform in exchange for a share in the power of the platform.

SOUTHERN AUDIENCES ARE APPRECIATIVE

By Edward Amherst Ott

I have made several trips into Dixie land in the past five years, and each time I have noted changes for the better. Audiences are larger, more enthusiastic and more learned. The statement that the South does not want lectures is not exemplified by experience.

At Jackson, Tenn., the auditorium was inadequate. Many people who applied for tickets were turned away. The audiences in other cities were in several instances capacity audiences. And not only that, but the audiences are loyal. If they believe in you, they want you back.

Within the next ten years the South will be a favorite field for Lyceum and Chautauqua workers. The great commercial awakening has come, and with it the educational demand.
