STANLEY LEAD JUMPS TO OVER 40,000

GOODPASTER IN LEAD; BLACK IS CLAIMING HE WINS. COHEN AND KEENON ARE ONLY CERTAIN ONES ON BIG TICKET.

Louisville, Aug. 10. — The Times fixes Stanley's majority at 42,800; the Post says it may go to 45,000. The official count will be in Frankfort on Friday. On the face of the returns the Louisville afternoon papers agree Goodpaster is probably nominated for treasurer. Eubanks seems to have the best of it over Gilbert for superintendent of public instruction; the nomination of Keenon over Stegar for clerk of the court of appeals is probable and Cohen for commissioner of agriculture is certain.

For state auditor the Post says Greene leads Rhea slightly. The Times gives Greene a plurality of 10,748 with ninety-nine counties reporting, but says Rhea is still claiming the nomination by a plurality of 2500.

For secretary of state the Post says it seems Hamlett is nominated. The Times gives him a lead of 3000 but declares the winner depends on the official returns.

For lieutenant governor the Post says Black's nomination is indicated. Black is claiming it by 4000. The Times says 108 counties gives Edwards a lead of 1000 but that an official count is necessary.

Mrs. S. A. Enoch and grandson, Lester Paris, left last week for Sikeston, Mo., to visit relatives.

Farmers Get Stung

In A New Place.

A man and a woman dropped into a small town and put up at the best hotel. The next morning they secured a rig each, and started over the country asking the farmer folks for a chicken for an orphan's home in St. Louis. After two days begging they sold the chicks to a local produce man for $30 and left town. Their loot included several cash donations.

A variation of the scheme is for a man wearing some sort of a badge, to call on the farmers under the name of the department of health, and demand to see his poultry. After examination he condemns twenty or thirty hens and tells the farmer they will have to be killed because they are diseased. He very kindly offers to take the chickens and do the killing himself. If the farmer consents, the man takes the chickens to the nearest commission merchant and sells them. The scheme is being worked all over the country. If a man or woman calls on you with a demand that looks suspicious, call up your local authorities and ask by what right they are asking to inspect your stock of poultry. When you get the answer turn them over to the police. — Providence Enterprise.

WHEELER FAMILY RE-UNION.

Tuesday all of squire H. S. Wheelers children seven in number, and grand children eleven in number met at his hospitable home on east depot street, to celebrate their 1st. reunion. Squire H. S. Wheeler who is 65 years of age this month and his good wife, were the hosts. Mrs. Nonie Lamb and three children, Mrs. Nannie Agee wife of Alonzo Agee and their six children, Chas. H. Wheeler and wife of Georgetown, Ky., Mrs. Myrtle Gass wife of L. C. Gass and their two children, Mrs. Nellie Agee wife of Robt Agee, Mrs. Mina Allen wife of Alvin Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Wheelers 2nd, son, Walter Wheeler, who is still heart whole and fancy free making in all a grand total of 25 including Chas. H. Wheeler's wife and four husbands of the daughters, Tommie Lamb who is dead being the only one, not present.

They had expected to have the dinner as a picnic in Mrs. Nonie Lamb's grove but the rain prevented it so they had it at Squire Wheelers residence each family bringing a basket well filled with dainties and substantial.

The City Photographer was sent for and a picture of the group was taken.

The day was a happy one for all present and one long to be remembered. They dispersed in the afternoon for their homes each one praying "God be with you till we meet again."

Miss Sallie Woods and niece, Miss Margaret Woods, of St. Louis, Mo., will leave soon for Owensboro where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Woods.

COMPLAINT IS FILED

The Mayor and City Council, after having tried for many months to compel the connecting up and usage of toll wires through the exchange office of the Central Home & Telegraph Company, and the Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Company, have filed a complaint with the Railroad Commission, setting out the reason why such connection is desired.

Among other reasons given in the written statement filed with the commission are the following: "Our local exchange is owned and operated by the Central Home Telephone & Telegraph Company, and the long distance service by a toll station owned and operated by the Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Company, in the Press building up stairs and while the citizens generally have the Home phones in their residences, offices and places of their business, in order to send and receive long distance messages they are forced both day and night to go to the long distance station and frequently forced to remain there for fifteen minutes to an hour."

As yet no date has been fixed by the commission for the hearing of the application. — The Twice-A-Week Leader.

Man Empties Bottle of Ink Over Woman.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 7. — Because she was unable to decipher his scrawled handwriting, Frank Spaulding, age forty years, late yesterday afternoon emptied a bottle of ink over Miss Lettie B. Underwood, telegraph operator in charge of the branch office in the lobby of the Seelbach Hotel. Spaulding, who resides at 767 South Eighteenth street, is said to have been drinking. After insulting Miss Underwood he left the hotel and entered the Waterson Hotel lobby half a block away. The booze that prompted his act caused him to fall asleep. He was arrested and a charge of assault and battery placed against him at the jail.

Complete returns from the election are coming in slowly, but as far as we can gather the following will be the nominees of the Democratic party:

For Governor A. O. Stanley, of Henderson, Kentucky; for Lieutenant Governor James D. Black Barbourville, Ky., for Secretary of State Barksdale Hamlett Hopkinsville, Ky., for Auditor of Public Accounts Robt. L. Greene Frankfort, Ky., for Treasurer Sherman Goodpaster Owingsville, Ky., for Clerk of the Court of Appeals Rodman W. Keenon Harrodsburg, Ky., for Superintendent of Public Instruction R. S. Eubank Lexington, Ky., for Commissioner of Agriculture, Labor and Statistics Mat S. Cohen Lexington, Ky., for Judge of the Court of Appeals Gus. Thomas Mayfield, Ky., for Circuit Judge Lee Gibson Madisonville, Ky., for Commonwealth's Attorney J. Elliott Baker Princeton, Ky., for Representative G. N. McGrew Bayou, Ky.

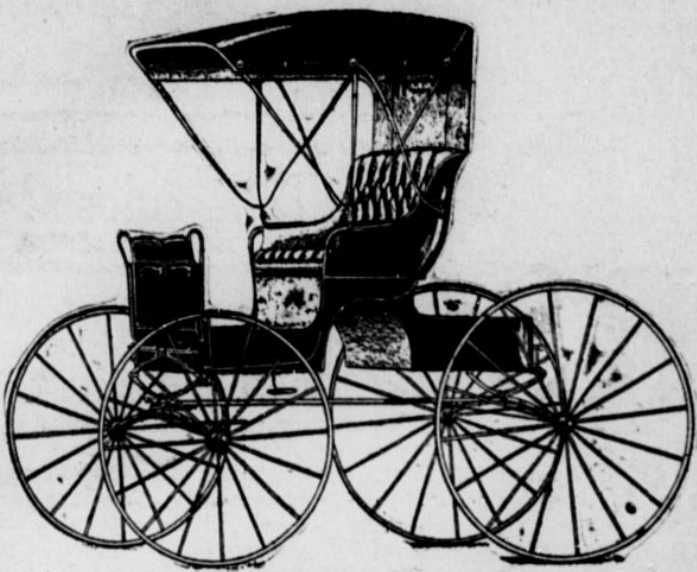

The nominees of the Republican Party are: For Governor: Edwin P. Morrow; For Representative: Edward D. Stone. The rest of the State offices are in doubt, or at least no report that we have seen has been published on them.

I used Stone's SPECIFIC for a tonic and health builder. I know it is a fine medicine and the best tonic I ever used. Mrs. E. H. Porter.

MIRANDY ON VOTES FOR WOMEN

"But, Sis Mirandy," said Brer Jinkins, "think of delicate females as how you liver neighbor to dem same folks de balance of de year."

"Well," spones I, "seem' dat all of own precinct, I don't see nothin' dat to skeer you to death, considerin' as how you liver neighbor to dem same folks de balance of de year. Dere ain't nothin' in a 'lection booth to make men what is kind to women, and mostly afeard of 'em de balance of de year, git de rations, an turn on de female sect an' bite an' fend hit at de polls. Leastways, I's willing to take my chancet wid de men what i deals wid fur groceries, an' meat, an' shoes, an' dat's anxious to keep my trade."

"But who'll take care of de chillun while deir Maws is off votin'?" axes Brer Jinkins.

"De same folks dat takes care of 'em now whilst deir Maws is trappin' aroun' de bargain counters, or playin' kyards for a dinkly little prize. Don't you worry non 'bout dat, Brer Jinkins," I goes on, "for dere ain't nairy a candidate dat won't be tickled to death to hold de baby while baby's Maw goes in and votes for him. I looks to see politicians fighting for the privilege of walkin' de colic when women votes."

"I's heard folks prognosticatin' as how givin' women de franchise will bust up de home," said Brer Jinkins, "and dat when women gits to vote, dat ef so be a husband should be of de Republican faith, and de wife was a dyed in de wool Democrat, dat dey would argify over high tariff and low tariff and cast asparagus on de character of each odder's candidates, ontel dey would be in a fight de live long time, an' pull up in de divorce co't."

"Don't you worry none 'bout dat, Brer Jinkins," says I, "because hit ain't gwine to happen. De proof of de puddin' is in chewin' de bag, and in dem states where women is got de right to vote, folks gits divorces for drunkenness, an' triflin'ness, an' high temper, an' because dey don't dance de fox-trot de same way, or dey's found somebody younger an' prettier, or wid mo' money dan de one dey's tied up wid, but dere ain't been nary a case whar folks has asked for divorce because dey's done fell out 'bout politics.

"Furdermo, Brer Jinkins," I pursues, "whut folks needs in de family circle mo' dan anything else is somethin' to talk 'bout. By de time a men an' woman is done been married about twenty years, dey's done ticked out, and dat's de reason dey done sets around at home like dum-dum-dum in a silence dat you could cut wid a knife, an' ef you can give 'em some subject dat's got pep and ginger in hit to argify 'bout like politics, hit's gwine to be a godsend."

"All de women don't want de vote," says Brer Jinkins, "as I was a comin' along heah, I stopped by Sis Luella's, an' I ax her how she stood on de question of votes for women, an' Sis Luella she raised up from de wash-bo'd, on which she was performin', an' she says to me: 'Brer Jinkins,' says she, 'I's been married to my ole man Sim for nigh on to thuty years, an' all de wuk dat's been done in dis fambly endurin' dat time, I's done it, an' all de vittels dat's been bought in dis house, I's made de money an' bought 'em. Don't 'pear lak dat Sim is willing to do nothin' but vote. Dat's all de wuk dat he's willin' to do, an so I says dat if dere's anything dat de men folks will do by deirselves wid-out us women havin' to help 'em, let 'em do hit! Dat's de reason I don't take no interest in women gittin' de vote.'"

"Humph," spones I, "ev'body to deir taste, but I's got mo spunk 'bout me dan Sis Luella, an' I lay dat ef I's got to mind de laws, I's got strength enough to help make 'em. Not takin' no hand in makin' de laws don't let no woman off from havin' to keep 'em."

"I wonder ef you women will win de election dis fall," says Brer Jinkins kind of thoughtful lak.

"Well," spones I, "ef men want to save deirselves a lot of trouble, an' argifyin', an' aggreifetiness, dey'll hand us de vote on a silver salver. You ain't forgot dat story in de Good Book, is you, 'bout how de woman kept a comin' back, a posterin' de Unjust Judge ontel he said, 'For de land's sake, woman, take whut you want, an' go 'way, an' leave me in peace.'"

"I ain't makin' no threats, nor promulgatin' no prophecies, but I's got a hunch dat dat woman was a sufferin'yette, an' dat her daughters ain't all dead, an' hit will be money in de pocket, an' peace an' rest for men to give us women de franchise, an' shut up our mouths about hit."

"Amen," spones Brer Jinkins. (—Dorothy Dix, in Good Housekeeping.)

DE LAVAL

Cream Separators are time tested

IN THE LAST TEN OR FIFTEEN years there have been dozens of cream separators come on the market which claimed to be "world beaters". But they couldn't make good in the hands of the users and one by one they have dropped out of sight.

THEIR OWNERS WERE willing to take a risk, and they lost.

IF YOU BUY A DE LAVAL from us you run no risk of dissatisfaction or loss. It's time tested and time proven. Why experiment? What's the use of taking chances with a machine you don't know much about, or an inferior machine, when you know that the De Laval is recognized everywhere as the "World's Standard"?

MORE THAN THIRTY-FIVE years of experiments and experience have made the De Laval pre-eminently the best machine on the market for the separation of cream.

IF YOU HAVE NO SEPARATOR now, or an inferior one, we can sell you a De Laval on such terms that it will pay for itself while you are using it.

Sermon in Miniature.

Sometimes when all life's hopes seem absorptive when our best efforts have been futile, when we feel that no result for which we have striven has been commensurate with the output of faith, struggle, hope and love, a sense of the unavailingness of endeavor comes over us and well nigh overwhelms us with despair. Out of this weakness grows a kind of strength. It is in truth the strength born of weakness. The strength that animated Paul when he said: "And having done all, to stand." Yes, discouraged one, whosoever you may be who reads these lines, stand, be strong in the thought that God can bring great things out of failures. Ask Him to bind up all the failures of your life into one mighty sheaf and make of it a success. —Exchange.

What is Tuberculosis?

TUBERCULOSIS or consumption, known also as "phthisis," is a treacherous disease caused by the growth in the body of millions of little rod-shaped germs called "tubercle bacilli," because as they multiply they produce small lumps or "tubercles." The germs are really tiny plant-like parasites, so small that they must be magnified hundreds of times under a powerful microscope before one can see them at all.

Being a parasite, the germ of tuberculosis, like the mistletoe or fungus growth, must live by taking life from something else, and on this account it lives in the body of human beings or animals better than anywhere else, in the eye, the skin, the knee or the spine, and most frequently in the lungs, and the other organs of breathing.

Outside of the body, the germs of tuberculosis may be easily killed, if they are exposed to direct sunlight for a few hours. Moist heat at 145 degree F., boiling water, or strong alkaline soaps, washing soda and similar household cleansing solutions will also kill them. If undisturbed, the germs of tuberculosis may live outside of the body in warm, moist, dark places, such as corners of rooms and hallways, for months or even years.

Because of the careless habits of people who have consumption and others, the germs of the disease are everywhere. Every time a person who has the bacilli in his sputum spits on the floor, sidewalk or in any other exposed place, the germs by the billions may become dry, and when stirred up by a broom or current of air may be inhaled by the chance passer. A speck of dust, such as one sees in the sunlight, may be the resting place of hundreds of these tiny germs. On this account nearly everybody at some time or other breathes in the living germs of tuberculosis.

Why then doesn't everyone die of tuberculosis? Because the germs of tuberculosis in the body cannot grow, unless they find certain tissues that are weak, flabby, or, as it is better called, "non-resistant." Everyone has a certain normal resistance to tuberculosis. If this resistance is lowered for any reason, the germs, which are almost always present in the body, will quickly find some tissue on which they can grow, and thus the disease is started. It takes more than the presence of the germ in the body to cause tuberculosis. It needs also a lowered vitality that will give the germ a chance to grow. It is like the seed and the soil. The scaly parasite that ruins a rosebush frequently comes from a poorly nourished soil. The tubercle bacillus is the seed; the body is the soil. If the soil is allowed to lose its normal and natural fertility, the seed will produce disease. If the soil is kept up to its full strength, this parasite seed cannot grow, and no tuberculosis will develop.

Once the germs begin to grow in the body, they produce injury to it in two ways:

(1) They destroy tissues. The destruction in the lung, for example, may amount to a very small spot, or it may be a large cavity, and not infrequently an entire lung. The sooner the disease is discovered, the smaller will be the amount of tissue destroyed, as a general rule.

(2) The growing germ, while it destroys the body tissues upon which it lives, also produces certain poisons or toxins, which, in turn, cause most of the symptoms of the disease. Thus, while the germs may be active in the lungs, the poison which they throw off goes through the entire system.

The commonest early symptoms of consumption are:

(1) Persistent cough of cold lasting a month or longer; (2) Loss of weight and appetite; (3) Run down feeling; (4) Afternoon temperature; (5) Night sweats; and (6) Spitting of blood or streaks of blood in sputum.

The presence of any of these symptoms should lead one to consult a physician at once. Tuberculosis can be cured if it is discovered in time. It costs little to be examined and cured. It is very expensive to delay and die.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

Having been impressed for some time that the Repton Graveyard was being neglected, and that it ought to be mowed and cleaned at least each year, as the weeds, briars and vines can not be kept down otherwise. Then, there are so many interested in this "Home of the Dead" that live so far away that they cannot come to help clean-up the grounds and yet they are more than willing to help. I have therefore taken the matter in hand to see if I could get a fund contributed, and hire it kept respectfully.

On August 5th, which was the day set for cleaning this year, I wrote an agreement and submitted it to those who were present to see what could be done, which resulted in a cash subscription of $12.40 and $6.50 subscribed that is yet unpaid, but will be in a few days. Now I am satisfied that everyone who is interested in this graveyard and sees this notice will want to help. I have placed this money in the Marion Bank and it will be kept and expended for this purpose only. Should you want to contribute to this, send the money to me or give same to J. D. Asher, of Maion. Any contribution will be greatly appreciated.

Ella Stanlev. Repton, Ky.

Big Day at Oak Grove.

On July 31st, the Saturday preceeding the opening of the school, the enthusiastic patrons of Oak Grove district, accompanied by their wives and children, met and did one of the greatest pieces of work this community has ever known.

In the forenoon they cleaned off the yard and cleaned up the house. At noon the ladies spread a good delicious dinner. In the afternoon the crowd assembled in the school room and listened to three very enthusiastic and inspiring speakers. The first was delivered by our untiring health officer, Dr. T. A. Frazer; the second, by one of our home boys, Earl Sullenger; and the last but not least was delivered by our progressive teacher, Glen Sullenger.

The whole day was enjoyed by all, and each, and every person went home with the determination to make this school greater than they had ever had in the past.

500 Cremated When Italian Artillery Set Fire to A Train.

Geneva, via Paris, Aug. 10.—A Laibach dispatch to the Tribune says:

"Shells from the Italian artillery set fire to two trains on the Borgo-Levico railroad while they were on their way to Roverto. The first train was filled with troops, of whom 500 were burned to death. The second was carrying ammunition and eight cars of it exploded.

"At Palazzo eight Italian attacks were repulsed, but the ninth attack resulted in the capture of several miles of newly constructed trenches. "The Italians have brought up more heavy guns against Gorizia, the systematic bombardment of which has begun. The Austrians are replying feebly."

"Space and copies of this paper go to make up the newspaper man's entire stock in trade," says the Fourth Estate in an editorial entitled, "Objects of Charity." These two are all that he has to offer for sale to the public, and no one else has ever yet given any sort of satisfactory reason why he should ever be asked by anyone to donate them.

"In the vast majority of cases this generous charity on the part of newspaper is blissfully taken for granted and the paper's liberality abused. That which is purely a favor is accepted as a matter of course, and what should be requests are couched as demands.

"When the courtesy has been performed there is rarely appreciation, and more often dissatisfaction—generally silence.

"The result in many other towns and cities has been that a ban has been put upon all free publicity, no matter what its object—even upon the church notice. In those cities such favors as the press bestows are properly appreciated and valued."

FINDS NO REMEDY EQUAL TO TANLAC.

William H Howard Says He Tried Everything Else
Without Help.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 11.—William H. Howard, who lives at 225 West Jefferson street, here, and is widely known as an advertising man, is one of those who declares he has been greatly benefitted by Tanlac, the premier preparation.

"For a long time," he said recently, "I suffered from a catarrhal affection of the stomach, and I never have found anything that did me so much good as Tanlac. I had used pretty nearly everything before my friends commended Tanlac to me. It helped me almost at once, and I am glad to offer public testimony to its value."

Chronic catarrh, which affects the mucus membranes, is one of the most prevalent and distressing maladies known. The trouble is almost universal. Offensive breath, coughing, nervousness, sneezing, headaches, poor digestion, loss of appetite, unsound sleep and susceptibility to colds are among the results from the malady.

Tanlac has proved of special value in the treatment of catarrhal troubles. Hundreds have testified to the good it has done them. It is now being sold in Marion at J. H. Orme's drugstore and at Blackford at A. T. Brown's drugstore.—Advertisement.

A Picnic On The Ohio.

Wednesday morning, July 28, about 7:20 o'clock, Mr. J. R. Vaughan and wife, B. B. Stout, wife and baby, H. D. Vaughan, wife and children, Messrs Doyle Vaughan, Roscoe Stout, of St. Louis, Richard Rushing, of Erie Tennessee; Misses Dezzie Ford, Ruth Driver, and Christine Rushing, of Erie, Tenn., all started for "a picnic on the Ohio."

We arrived at Weston about 9:15 where we found a fine place to stay on the river bank, under some big sycamore trees. The breeze off the river was fine and kept the heat from being oppressive.

We had plenty of ice, lemons and cider, so we had ice lemonade and ice cold cider all day.

We all visited the city of Weston before dinner where we got plenty of candy and peanuts. We then returned to the river, rested awhile and spread dinner which was plentiful and enjoyed by all.

The excursion steamer, John S. Hopkins came up the river just after dinner, and two towboats went up the river and a dredge boat came down.

After dinner Mrs. T. A. Enoch and Miss Dollie joined us. The young people took a stroll on the bluff and the men went in bathing. The rest of the afternoon was spent in chatting, eating fruit and taking pictures.

About six o'clock we all started for home, but stopped on the road at a cool shady place and ate our supper. An auto came along and caused some excitement among the teams and some of the women.

We then had a nice cool drive the rest of the way home where we arrived tired and exhausted, but not sorry we had gone.

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person has catarrh in some form.

Science has shown that nasal catarrh often indicates a general weakness of the body; and local treatments in the form of snuffs and vapors do little, if any good.

To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal food and a building tonic, free from alcohol or any harmful drugs. Try it. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J.

Browning Sisters In California.

Strathmore, Calif.,

Editor of Press:—

Since my sisters and myself have been sojourning in the San Joaquin Valley, we have met quite a few of the good people who transferred their homes, families and affections from Crittenden and Livingston Counties to California several years ago. To say they are happy, contented and not homesick scarcely expresses it.

Not that they care less for Kentucky, but that they love California more.

Among these people are Henry Hodge and family and Robert E. Bigham and family whose sons and daughters with acquired husbands and wives and accumulated children are located in Tulare county.

The Hodges with old time hospitality invited the Kentucky clan out to their ranch during the time of the July full moon, and such a splendid time, we will not soon forget.

There were Uncle Henry and Aunt Pet, with their sons Harold and Allie, and Hugh Martin and his wife, Lena, and Clyde Wolfe and Anna and Mr. and Mrs. Bigham, and Will Browning and Kitty. Lillian and her husband a native, Jesse Doss, by name, Misses Bena and Betty and we three Alice and Kate Browning and Mrs. Sallie Hale.

We ate figs from their own fig tree, and oranges from their own groves and cake and cream like mother use to make in Kentucky. We saw the Alfalfa fed pigs and they grunted just like Kentucky hogs and visited the irrigation pump that throws the mountain water to the meadows and groves and then we came home in the hay wagon over the smooth oiled highway under the glow of the moon, and to the left we could see the snow capped Sierras and before us the broad valley lying all green and gold, while to our right away in the distance loomed the Coast Range which sends its Western breeze to cool the hot winds from Mojave. And right in the midst of all this we sang "Old Kentucky Home."

Of course, the Bighams retaliated and collected the clan at their new home in Strathmore for a jolly good time, where we had an additional guest, Mrs. Mollie Dobson from Caldwell Co., Ky.

Tomorrow we go to San Diego, then by a slow journey by the coast to Frisco and from there on the "Overland" to Evansville.

The world is not so big after all if a few Kentuckians are scattered around to make a congenial atmosphere.

BELGIANS KILLED BY ELECTRIFIED FENCES.

The Hague, July 31.—Reports received from the Belgian-Dutch frontier are to the effect that many persons are being killed by the high voltage of electric wire fence which has been constructed by the Germans along the entire border. Every morning, it is asserted, there are found from a half dozen to a dozen charred bodies of Belgian peasants, including women and children, who during the night had attempted to cross the fence and were electrocuted.

SOUTH AFRICA'S FUTURE CAUSING SPECULATION.

Cape Town, Aug. 2.—The cost to South Africa of the war in Southwest Africa, which resulted in the loss of that country to Germany, is estimated in official circles at $67,000,000. The suppression of the rebellion at home was responsible for the expenditure of an additional $20,000,000.

The close of the war in Southwest Africa has led to a discussion as to the future of the conquered German colony. When General Botha was invited by the British Imperial Government to undertake a campaign into Southwest Africa last August it was stipulated that any occupied territory should be held unreservedly at the disposal of the British Government. The belief here is that the Imperial Government will under no circumstances allow any of this territory to go back into German hands at the conclusion of peace, nor is it likely that England will care to add to its direct responsibilities by creating a separate Crown colony. It is generally regarded as inevitable therefore that the greater part of Southwest Africa will ultimately be included as an additional province of the Union of South Africa, with the exception of the Caprivi strip, which may be added to the Chartered Company's territories in Central Africa.

For the immediate future, temporary arrangements will be made for the administration of the new territory during the remainder of the war under a governor appointed from apertown with the approval of the London government.

Plans are already being discussed for the future development of certain parts of the conquered colony. The construction of a railway from Livingstone to the West Coast, which would open up the rich cattle country of Northern Rhodesia by a short route to the sea, will apparently be the first big engineering work to be undertaken. Later will come the development of the great mineral wealth of the country, while it is expected that those parts which are suitable for pasture will be occupied by Boer trekkers from the Transvaal and Orange Free State.

A NICE FAIRY TALE.

HAS TREASURE BURIED IN LYON COUNTY.

Story Told by Man Released From Jail, Held as Witness at EVANSVILLE.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., July 30.—King, going to Lyon county, Kentucky, Equality, Ill., who was released from the county jail here Monday after Dr. Hannah Graham, of Indianapolis, president of the Equal Suffrage Association of Indiana, had come here and furnished the required $100 bond, left the city Monday evening, going to Lyon county, Kentucky, where his brother, Napoleon Kingston, lives.

Kingston sprang a surprise on the court officials and newspaper reporters here before he left by informing them that some time before coming here to appear against Henry Trainum, who was charged with robbing him of $300, he had buried $3,500 in an old boot under the roots of a tree on his brother's farm near Eddyville, Ky. He said he feared to make this fact known while in jail here for the reason that he thought some one would make a search for the money.

Kingston said that as soon as he reached Lyon county he will dig up his hidden treasure and repay Dr. Graham what she spent on him while here Monday. Dr. Graham gave Kingston enough money to pay his railroad fare to Eddyville. Before Dr. Graham departed for her home yesterday she took Kingston to the law office of Philip C. Gould and had him sign a note agreeing to pay her $100 in case he did not appear here to testify against Henry Trainum, the man accused of robbing him.

Local authorities say they will continue their search for Trainum, who jumped a $300 bond. Kingston will spend several days in Lyon county before going to his Illinois home where he has an interest in a farm and his five brothers by his father.

LOYD'S BRAIN LEAKS.

By F. S. LOYD.

Uncle George Redd, a janitor of the Fredonia school house, threw up his job the other day. When asked the reason he said I'm honest and I don't stand being slurred. If I find a pencil or a handkerchief about the school when I am sweeping I hang it up. Every little while the teacher or some one that is too cowardly to face me will give me a slur. A little while ago I seen wrote on the blackboard, Find the least common multiple. Well I looked for it in every room, under the floor in the yard for that thing and I wouldn't know a thing if I would meet it on the street. Last night in bed writing on the blackboard it said, Find greatest common divisor. Well, I said to myself, both of them are just lost now and I'll be accused of taking them, so I quit.

Bill Smith says a man is usually willing to give the Devil his dues but he isn't so considerate of his wife.

Dan Bolster says when you ain't got nothing to wear just grin and wear it.

Mrs. Emma Crow says more women could have a sense of humor if they were not afraid that laughing would make them fat.

Joe Dollar says he once knew an old fashion woman who used to bake all her own bread and biscuit; now as a married daughter who thinks that dough is what her husband earns and she spends it.

Jim Ray says there was a time when a revival was measured by the amount of good done. Nowadays the standard seems to be the amount of money taken in.

Marshall Jenkins says the merchant who doesn't advertise is the same fellow who never has what you want in stock because he never had any demand for it.

Newt Dollar says you will often discover that your distant relations are too close.

Mrs. Effey Baker says she always felt sorry for her husband when she realized how miserable he would be if he had married some other woman.

Johnson Byrd says you can run into debt but you have to crawl out.

Burt Hillyard says during the first three weeks of married life a man tells his wife everything he knows, but it is different later on.

Uncle John Parr says when you have rheumatism the other fellow can tell you ten sure cures for it, but when the other fellow gets it, the only remedy he can think of is to sit down and holler.

Nothing is impossible to the determined spirit, observes Uncle Dock Green. Maybe not, said George Cridger, but would like to see a man take a dime out of his right hand pants pocket with his left hand when he is wearing the pants.

Albert Elder says another cheerful girl is the man who tells you that he gives his wife so much a week out of his pay and that she never asks him what he does with the rest.

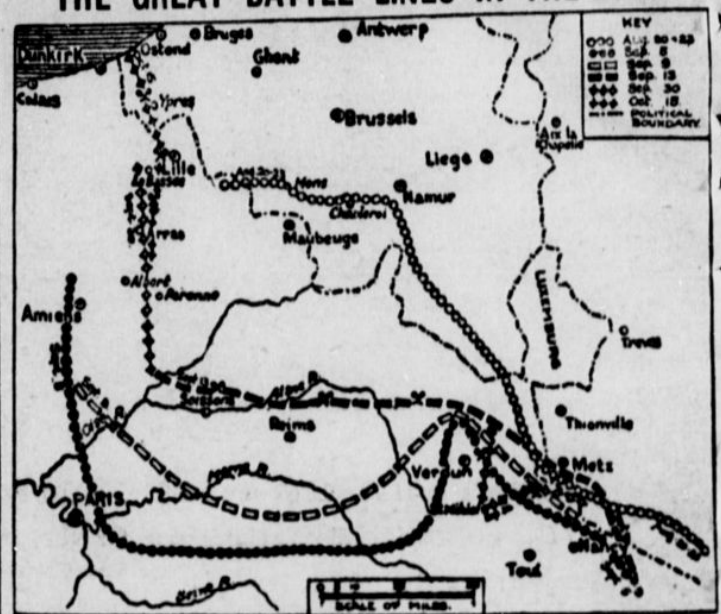

Mrs. Effie Baker says when a woman who hasn't stylish clothes sees a neighbor woman all dolled up like a circus horse, she snarls and says: Ruh, I suppose if I ran up a lot of bills and didn't pay them I could have good clothes too.

Sam Howerton says when eight or nine women are talking at the top of their voices at the same time they are not fighting; they are having a good time.

Hub Butler says a girl would rather have beauty than brains because only a few of the men are blind and the rest of them are fools.

Ed Baker says every now and then you will see some of the Fredonia girls on the street who give you the impression that if she smiled she would crack her complexion.

THE GREAT BATTLE LINES IN THE WEST

The first general engagement in the West, sometimes known as the battle of Mons-Charleroi, started August 20 and resulted in the defeat of the French and British. They retreated south of the Marne, where the second general engagement started September 5. The line of this date on the map shows the German positions just before the battle.

The German right wing was broken up and forced back, bringing about a retirement of the whole line. The German positions on September 13, in the midst of their retreat, are shown on the map by a series of light rectangles, while a row of darkened rectangles indicates the carefully prepared trench line of the Allies where they stopped and were attacked by the allies September 13.

Both sides now extended their lines toward the coast. Light squares show the approximate position assumed September 30. By October 15 the siege line was complete from the Alps to the sea.

The line of September 30 also shows the Germans' great drive into the French line across the Meuse at St. Mihiel.

Crossed swords mark the spots of the entrenched siege line where the greatest struggles have taken place since October 15.

FIRST YEAR OF THE WAR IN THE WEST

The first month and a half of the western campaign was made up of startling, swift moves. On September 12, after the defeat on the Marne, the Germans took up defensive positions along the Aisne river. The ten and a half months since then have seen a long deadlock.

The battle line of the Aisne and the Oise quickly extended northeast to the sea. Fighting has been continuous, with tremendous losses. The general situation has remained unchanged, gains of a few miles for one side at one point offset by minor gains for the enemy in other sectors.

At the beginning of August the Kaiser took possession of the little state of Luxemburg and demanded passage through Belgium to the Franco-Belgian frontier.

Permission to pass denied. Von Einem attacked Liege (August 4), while other German armies passed around the city and swept over the level Belgian roads at a terrific rate. The little Belgian army yielded Brussels and fell back to Antwerp and Ghent.

First Big Engagement.
Not until the Germans had almost reached the French border did the first important engagement take place. This is generally known as the battle of Mons-Charleroi (about August 20-28), but at the same time there was severe fighting along the whole line through Thionville in Lorraine and along the Vosges in upper Alsace, which the French had invaded with temporary success.

This battle resulted in defeat for the French and English.

While obtaining some successes in counterattacks on the advancing Germans at Peronne and at Guise, the French were obliged to fall back rapidly to the line of the River Marne.

On the left the French had withdrawn to below Paris and the westernmost German army, under Von Kluck, followed.

The garrison of Paris was put in thousands of motor cars and hurried on Von Kluck's flank. The latter was not taken entirely unawares and met the attack strongly, but at the same time the army of General Foch attacked the German army on Von Kluck's left and drove it back.

Driven Back From Paris.
The Germans had begun the battle with five armies in line. The withdrawal of the two farthest west now caused the retreat of the third, fourth and fifth in that order, each in turn finding its flank exposed by the withdrawal of the troops on its right. At the same time the movement on the east end of the German line was accelerated by a strong attack from the French fortified zone of Verdun.

The German retreat was as orderly as that of the French and English had been. The invaders took up an admirable defensive position. It ran just north of the Aisne river, on a series of bluffs, then just north of Chalons and through the wooded, rough regions of the Argonne and the Woëvre, joining hands here with the troops besieging Verdun. The allies have tried this line in vain ever since.

Both combatants now tried to turn the west flank. Enormous bodies of cavalry. On the part of the French Flanders. On the part of the French there was largely the desire to link up with the Belgians, now being attacked by the Germans made short work of the Belgian outpost, however, and it fell on October 8. The remnants of the Belgian army retreated along the sea coast and the Germans in a final rush reached Ostend (October 15).

Line Extended to the Sea.
The battle line of the Aisne was now extended to the sea, the Germans holding the important French city of Lille, while the allies kept Ypres in Belgium and, partly by flooding the lowlands, held the position of the Yser river and canal.

From October 16 to November 19 the first year of the war in the West brought the desperate first battle of Ypres, when the Germans suffered enormous losses in attempts to break through the line in Flanders and reach Calais. They succeeded in pushing back the allies only a little and the invasion of Belgium by the Cossacks finally induced them to desist and send reinforcements to Russia.

The Germans in September had performed the feat of pushing a salient into the French line south of Verdun, which terminated on the west bank of the Meuse river at St. Mihiel; while the French had taken the offensive with some success in Champagne at about the same time.

For the most part throughout the winter the fighting consisted of regular siege warfare, with heavy artillery combats and mine and counter-mine.

The flooding of the River Aisne from winter snows gave the Germans a chance to entrap the French troops on the north side of that river in the vicinity of Soissons for a considerable distance and kill or capture most of them (January 14).

Take Offensive in Spring.
With the spring, the French and English attempted to take the offensive at several points. Always preparing the way with tens or hundreds of thousands of shells, they tried joint after joint of the German armor.

In the Vosges the dominating height of Hartmannswillerkopf was taken and retaken several times in sanguinary charges and finally remained in the hands of the French.

The salient of St. Mihiel was also subjected to tremendous French pressure on both "legs." The French succeeded in gaining a little ground, but the Germans, despite the apparent weakness of the sharp wedge they had driven into the French line, could not be dislodged and later succeeded in regaining some of the territory they had lost.

The British also reported "victories" at Neuve Chapelle and Hill No. 60, in Flanders. Whether these should be accounted successes for the allies is doubtful. The British suffered enormous losses and at Neuve Chapelle bungled affairs to the extent of shelling their own men who had taken German trenches. In other cases they left gallant little parties lodged in enemy's trenches without supports to be annihilated.

The next development was the unexpected use of poisonous gas fumes by the Germans in attacks just north of Ypres. With this novel weapon they succeeded in taking several small villages and more than compensating for the British gains south of Ypres. The losses of the French, Canadians and British were severe, but they succeeded in stemming the German onslaught effectively a few miles back from their former position.

Begin Series of Attacks.

The German line makes a salient at Soissons, though not such a pronounced one as at St. Mihiel. The French now began a series of attacks on the upper side of this salient, to the north of Arras. Expanding hundreds of thousands of shells, they time and again blasted away the barbed wire entanglements and concrete trenches, held by Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria's men, and then charged across the desolate ground for slight gains.

The fighting centered about the sugar refinery of Soches and the great German work called the Labyrinth. Fighting went on in cellars and tunnels below the earth and the casualties were heavy. The French bent the German line and captured the Labyrinth, but whether the gains justified their sacrifice in human life is questionable.

In July, Crown Prince Frederick William's army attacked in the Argonne forest, west of Verdun, and succeeded in gaining several hundred yards of shattered woodland and capturing several thousand Frenchmen.

There were rumors that the Germans were re-entrenching for another great drive toward Calais or Paris, but the Teutonic campaign in the West continued to wait upon the crushing of the much weaker enemy in Poland.

A POEM, TO S. M. JENKINS JR.

Up in the skies where the Angels dwell
In the faraway beautiful blue,
Lived a dear little, sweet, little immortal soul
Pure as the lily's and dew.
He was wise with a wisdom we know not of,
And a knowledge we can't understand.
He was rich in love, and a heavenly love,
For he lived in Eternity's land.
"Down on Earth is a home, and a Mother who waits,"
Said an Angel to him one day.
"I'll go," said the little one, smiling with joy,
"I'll go if you show me the way"
So up in Heaven the word went round,
Borne by the Angels bright,
"Our little one's going to Earth," they sang.
On an earthly Sunday night.
So the Angel of light, and the Angel of hope,
And the beautiful Angel of love
All hastened to teach the blessed babe,
E'er he left the realms above.
And their kisses and lessons of hope and love,
That he learned e'er he left the skies,
Lingered like halos on lips and brow,
And in his beautiful baby blue eyes.
So down one night through the whispering blue
While the Angels watched and smiled,
And the stars kept guard and the planets sang.
To Earth came the little child.
And the mother gazed with eyes of love,
On the Heaven blessed little one
And cried from a happy grateful heart,
"Rejoice with me I have a son."

Solitude.

Laugh and the world laughs with you;
Weep, and you weep alone;
For this brave old earth must borrow its mirth.
It has trouble enough of its own
Sing and the hills will answer;
Sigh! it is lost on the air;
The echoes bound to a joyful sound,
But shrink from voicing care.
Rejoice, and men will seek you;
Grieve, and they turn and go;
They want full measure of all your pleasure,
But they do not want your woe

Be glad, and your friends are many;
Be sad and you lose them all;
There are none to decline your nectared wine,
But alone you must drink life's gall.
Feast and your halls are crowded;
Fast, and the world goes by;
Succeed and give, and it helps you live,
But no men can help you die.
There is room in the halls of pleasure
For a long and lordly train;
But one by one we must file on
Through the narrow aisles of pain.

—E. W. Wilcox.

Brotherhood.

The night was dark—but when I looked for light.
The day was ill—but when I looked for good.
The fray was fierce—but in its mad affright
I looked for little hints of brotherhood.
And night and day,
And in that mad affray
What'er the deed in which my soul was caught
Never failed to bring the thing I sought
For light and good,
And brotherhood,
In goodly share
Are everywhere!

—John Kendrick Bangs.

Why Husbands Leave Home.

Why do so many husbands run away. A Chicago statistician, connected with the bureau of public welfare in this city, has been trying to answer the question.

After investigating thousands of cases of desertions he finds that the husband's action can usually be ascribed to one of the following four causes:

Ill health and peevishness of the wife.

Slouchiness of the wife, either in her own person or in her housekeeping methods, or both.

The wife's habit of nagging or gossiping.

Dislike for children on the wife's part.

This statistician found that the strongest incentive to reconciliation in cases of family discord is almost invariably the child. He also found that very few wives are deserted who are: Physically healthy and mentally cheerful.

Able to contribute to the family income either by outside labor or by frugality in home management.

Affectionate and considerate of their husbands.

The very interesting and valuable statistic which he collected prove that native American husbands are more prone to desert their wives than are the foreign-born.

They also show that married life is the happiest when husband and wife are nearest alike in age, nationality, religion, moral standards, temperament, health and physical strength.

New York American.

Which Is Worst: Work Or Dancing All Night?

Albany, N. Y.—During a discussion of the Thompson bills permitting minors and women to work nights in canning factories during the canning season, Senator George F. Thompson, of Niagara, who introduced the bills, suggested that the city Senators take care of the city girls and let up-State men handle the up-State labor situation.
"The people on the up-State farms understand this matter better than the Senators from New York," said Senator Thompson. They think it is more unhealthful for the girls in your city to turkey trot all night than to shell peas."

Greece Friendship For Allies.

Greece has some traditional European friends. They are France, England, and Russia. Lord Byron's name still arouses the enthusiasm of the sentimental Greeks. They have not forgotten that the fleets of England, France and Russia destroyed Turkish sea power at the battle of Navarino in 1827 and so gave Greece its independence. Gladstone's act in giving Greece the Ionian Islands still stands as an evidence of British disinterestedness and magnanimity. In the days of its struggle France was the foremost champion of Philhellenism. In more recent years Greece has the same reasons for liking these great Powers that Bulgaria has for distrusting them; that is the liberal treatment it received at the treaty of Bucharest.—Burton J. Hendrick, in the August World's Work.

Russian Fleet Said To Have Sunk Many Ships.

London, Aug. 11.—Telegraphing from Petrograd, the Morning Post correspondent says: "The recent Russian operations along the Anatolian coast have an important bearing on the food supply of Constantinople. A Russian torpedo boat destroyer fleet has made a careful search along the shores of the Black Sea, and the total of the enemy's vessels sunk reaches nearly 900, including several large steamers and a dozen sailing vessels of 1,000 tons each. Care was taken also to destroy the shipyards along the coast, so that the entire small vessel trade upon which Constantinople is largely dependent for the necessities of life may be regarded as extinguished."
