

The Crittenden Record-Press

No. 26.

Marion, Crittenden County Kentucky, Thursday Morning, Jan. 6, 1916.

Vol. XXXVIII

Marion should feel indeed proud and hopeful of the future prosperity of the city under the control of the city officers already in and those installed last Monday evening. All are business men of enterprise and energy, and it would not have been possible for the city to have selected a more representative board.

COUNCILMAN J. R. PERRY.

Councilman J. R. Perry has forged ahead in his adapted profession until he not only has a fine practice but is considered one of the best physicians in the county. He is a son of J. B. Perry, the farmer and banker of the Irma section, and was born on the big Perry farm on the Tolu road. He took his degree at the Hospital College of medicine in Louisville. His wife was Miss Beulah Franklin, of the Hebron section, one of the county's prettiest girls. They reside in their own home on West Depot street, and have one little daughter. Dr. Perry is a quiet unassuming gentleman and may be depended on to do what he thinks is right.

COUNCILMAN GEORGE W. YATES.

Councilman George W. Yates was born in this county near Sheridan but has lived here and sold pianos so long that Marion claims him as her own. He belongs to the singing and musical family and is said (by C. R. and W. B.) to be the oldest member of the family now living. Well, he is settled alright and has made good in his business, owns his home and has a most interesting little family. The editor, who travelled much is glad to see Marion's municipal affairs looked after by business men who pay taxes and who are in business and have the interest of the city, church and school at heart. We believe George W. Yates is in that class, and we welcome him in the City Council.

DR. GEO. W. STONE

Marion's conscientious Mayor, who has two years of present term to serve.

COUNCILMAN WM. O. TUCKER.

Councilman Wm. Oliver Tucker has built up a large business here in furniture and undertaking and is now operating a chair factory which is meeting with success, as its product is being shipped to many sections of the country. Mr. Tucker is a native of McLean county but came here as a young man and has since resided here. He is just past 41 and has many years of usefulness ahead of him. He resides with his little family, a wife and two children on North Main St. Mrs. Tucker is a daughter of former chief justice T. J. Nunn, one of Crittenden's best loved men. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker are quite popular and number their friends by the number of their acquaintances.

sound man and Marion's municipal affairs will not suffer in his hands or by his vote.

U. S. Senator James at Home.

Senator O. M. James came home to see his mother January 2nd and stayed over until the 3rd.

It was rather an apt coincidence that the tobacco market in Crittenden county should be opened while he was here, as it is chiefly due to his efforts in getting the embargo raised upon the shipment of tobacco to the warring nations, without which no tobacco could be shipped without danger of seizure, and as a result there would have been no market for tobacco this year.

By his efforts the farmers are enabled to dispose of one of their most important crops. Senator James is using his best efforts to get Marion's new postoffice built or at least started this year.

Card of Thanks.

I want to express my heart felt thanks to the young ladies composing the Intermediate class, and friends of the Second Baptist Sunday School for kindly remembering me in my affliction with a nice Xmas box.

JOHN D. SUMMERS

The newly elected city marshal is a native of Livingston county, having been born at Salem, the home of Roger Q. Mills, Charles Evans and other celebrities. He is a son of Rev. G. S. Summers, the well known and much loved minister. He owns his home where his little family, composed of himself, his wife and one child reside. His aged father spends much of his time with him.

Mr. Summers has been a trusted employee and superintendent much of the time, of the Roberts Mining Co. interests here and in the country, and we learn they regret to lose his services.

CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

Wonderful Discovery Made By Two Young Business Men of Princeton.

Smith & Hollowell, druggists, of Princeton, Ky., on the 11th day of October, 1915, after experimenting for quite a while discovered what has proven to be a most valuable preparation. This has been proven beyond any question of doubt. Their records show this and will be verified by prominent and reliable parties from different sections, as well as one gentleman living in Marion. He is well-known to many residents of Crittenden county and has been a great sufferer for many months. The gentleman referred to is Mr. B. H. Moredock. One month to a day from the time he started taking this preparation he resumed his duties as traveling salesman.

This preparation is a rheumatic remedy, the trade name being "Eswell Rheumatic Remedy," and is only recommended for rheumatism.

AN APPEAL TO THE FARMERS

In Regard to the Important Question, "Shall We Keep Our County Agent This Year?"

One of the most important questions that confront the farmers of Crittenden county is: Shall We Keep Our County Agent J. R. Bird, Another Year? I think we are most all agreed that he has been a great help to us in 1915 and will be in a position to be more helpful to us in 1916 because of his acquaintance with the people and the problems with which they contend.

In view of the above facts, I feel safe in claiming that a large majority of our farmers are anxious to keep Mr. Bird another year.

But right here arises another most important question. How much do you want him?

You know he didn't cost the farmers at large much last year. That about $500.00 of his salary last year was raised in Marion.

Now don't it seem reasonable that we farmers should bear the most of that expense this year, since we are first and most benefited.

About the 1st, of Dec. blanks for receiving subscriptions for this purpose were distributed to the Secretaries of Farmer's Clubs and other farmers supposed to be interested. They were requested to circulate these papers in their vicinity and return them at an early date.

On the first day of January but few of those papers have been returned. On inquiry I find that many of them have not been circulated at all. Procrastination I find to be the chief cause of this neglect and not indifference.

Now, brother farmers let's begin the new year by swatting that old enemy of ours, procrastination. And let our first stroke be to sign our subscription to the County Agent Fund (if you have not already done so), and the next step to see that all of our neighbors have an opportunity to do likewise.

I have faith enough in the progressive spirit of Crittenden county farmers to believe that if this matter is rightly presented to them and everyone given a chance to subscribe, that there will be no trouble raising the $550.00 required by subscription for County Agents salary.

If no one is circulating a paper in your community and you are interested get busy and circulate one yourself.

Let's show our friends in Marion and elsewhere that we appreciate a good opportunity when it comes our way and that we propose to do something for ourselves this year.

Yours for better farming,
JOE M. DEAN.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Shaver, of Dallas, Texas, arrived Wednesday, Dec. 29th, from Canada enroute to their home in the Lone Star State. They stopped here for a few days as guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Cannon.

COUNCILMAN J. N. BOSTON.

J. N. Boston is not only large interested in farming in the Repton section where he owns one of the best improved bodies of land in the county, and he also is the holder of a large block of stock in the G. A. Terry land, which is a fine agricultural body as well as in the heart of the mineral belt. The Boston Planing Mill which supplies this section of the state with sash, doors, lumber and all household accessories, is the creature of his indomitable will and industry. Where others have failed to make good, he has builded what is probably the finest business enterprise in Marion, and he has done it by keeping what the people want. Another instance of his keen foresight was his launching into the silo manufacturing business, just at the time when everybody is wanting them. He has other interests also, all of which goes to prove that he is capable of looking after the City's business. He was born at Hillman's Rolling Mill in Lyon county almost fifty years ago.

Mr. Roy Travis, of Evansville, spent several days the guest of his parents last week.

COUNCILMAN JOHN H. NIMMO

Is the Watkins Remedy Man and is well known in every corner of Crittenden county. His business acumen, has built for his firm, a great trade in Crittenden county.

He owns a beautiful home on North Main street, where he and Mrs. Nimmo and their handsome children live under their own vine and fig tree.

He is a "Chopper" and is never happier than when in a W. O. W. celebration or camp. That he will do the square thing by the people, goes without saying.

COUNCILMAN THOMAS A. RANKIN.

Councilman Thomas A. Rankin is the dean of the board and will do much to steady the deliberations of the "boys." He is the oldest member although only a little past the half century mark.

He was born in the northern section of this county and belongs to one of the oldest, most substantial and aristocratic families in the state. He not only owns his home here but a fine Ohio river farm as well and lives at home and boards at the same place with his handsome family, consisting of his wife two daughters and one son. He is a safe

Three pretty young women, wearing what they termed periscope bonnets, came near being swamped in a sea of humanity on State street.

The periscope bonnet is absolutely new to Chicago. It carries an arrangement of mirrors by which the wearer can observe pursuing mashers without turning her head.

A tiny mirror is tucked at an attractive and innocent angle in the bonnet, so that it reflects the actions of pedestrians behind the wearer. Thus if some person trailing behind the periscope begins straightening his coat and dusting off his shoes, these actions, reflected in the mirror, warn the pretty girl beneath that a masher is preparing to attempt to flirt.—North American Opened Wife's Grave For Her Resurrection.

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 25.
—Declaring that the Lord had appeared to him in midnight visitation and commanded him to unearth the body of his wife, who died on December 22, 1914, and that the dead woman would be brought back to life, Leonard Smith, 32 years old living in Brownstown, W. Va., to-day collected a band of religious fanatics and, taking a horse and wagon to haul the resurrected wife home, proceeded to the burial ground back of Brownstown, where the body was taken from its grave.

The band gathered closely around, confident that when the lid was raised the dead woman would rise and speak to them. So firm was their belief that a complete outfit of woman's clothing had been made ready to take the place of the garments surrounding the corpse.

The religious band engaged in fervent prayer for several minutes, when Mayor James Marcum and Constable A. G. Plymale, Ceredo, arrived and ordered the grave closed. The party complied with the order.

DIDN'T KNOW WHY SHE FELT TIRED

Mrs. Charles Gough Found Out,
However, That Tanlac
Gave Her Relief.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 5.—Mrs. Charles Gough was unable to understand why she should always feel tired and nervous, but she understands thoroughly how she found relief from that trouble. She lives at 412 Second street, this city, and is the wife of an employe of George Cusaden, ice cream manufacturer.

"I did not know what caused me to feel so no-account," Mrs. Gough said recently. "I was nervous and depressed. My food did not agree with me, and for hours after I had eaten I could taste it. I felt bloated from the gas on my stomach. I felt discouraged and melancholy with no apparent reason for it."

My husband begged me to try Tanlac, and finally brought home a bottle of it for me, although I had told him I had tried so many different remedies that I would not take another. After he brought it to me though I did try it, and almost at once noticed a great change. Now my appetite has come back, and I no longer feel bad after I have eaten. My nerves are good. I don't suffer from depression as I did before. Tanlac has done me a great good, and I am glad to tell others about it."

Tanlac, the peerless remedy, is now being sold in Marion at Jas. H. Orme's drugstore and in Blackford at A. T. Brown's drug store. Advertisement.

To Our Many Readers.

We hope that 1916 will be a year of success to you—not only success in business and worldly things; but success in friendships and pleasures that will endure—in fact, a success that will make you, in after years, look back on 1916 as a pleasant memory of labor well spent and pleasures happily enjoyed.

Allies Will Surely Destroy Krupp Works.

In the January American Merle Crowell quotes an eminent aeronautical authority by declaring that the allies will soon make an attack on Essen, the home of the great Krupp industries, where almost every kind of weapon used by the German army is manufactured. Here is Mr. Crowell's account of what this authority said:

"Some morning the world will wake up and Essen will be only a memory."

"I turned sharply and stared at the speaker. Here was no crack-brained enthusiast with a typhonic imagination. The man before me ranked high among aeronautical authorities. He was not given to idle talk."

"Really," he continued, smiling, "this proposed air raid is almost an open secret among those who know most about the aircraft orders with which the allies are deluging America. Every British and French aviator is dreaming of it; Germany senses it, and is preparing as best she can to meet it. Yet in the last year aerial attack has so far outstripped any possible defense against it that I don't see what can prevent the raid from going through." His eyes strayed over the staid carpet at his feet. Then he added: "The allies are girding themselves to see that it goes through."

FOR BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING COUGH, CROUP, COUGHS AND COLDS

Make the Best Remedy at Home—128 Teaspoonful for 50 cents.

If everything was sold in as liberal and fair a manner as the below named druggists are selling Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectorant, absolutely no cause for complaint or dissatisfaction could possibly arise from anyone. These druggists say—"Buy a bottle of this remedy and try it for Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Severe Cough, Croup or any Bronchial Affection, and we will return your money, just the same as we do with Schiffmann's famous Asthmador, if it does not give satisfaction, or if not found the best remedy ever used for any of these complaints." Why not take advantage of this guarantee and try this medicine, and get your money back, rather than buying another purely on the exaggerated claims of its manufacturer or on the strength of testimonials from others and run the chance of getting something worthless and also wasting your money? *

In buying this remedy, besides securing an absolute guarantee of its efficiency from these druggists, you also get about eight times as much medicine as you would in buying most any of the old-fashioned, ready-made kinds, which average from 20 to 32 teaspoonful, because 50c worth makes a whole pint (128 teaspoonful) when mixed at home with simply one pint of sugar and one-half pint of water. This remedy positively does not contain chloroform, opium, morphine or any other narcotic. It is pleasant to take and children are fond of it. You will be the sole judge, and under this positive guarantee absolutely no risk is run in buying this remedy. Druggists everywhere are authorized to sell it under the same guarantee as Schiffmann's famous Asthmador of "Money Back" if not perfectly satisfactory. R. J. Schiffmann, Proprietor, Saint Paul, Minn. Bud Gregory Was Accused of Complicity in White Cap Case.

Providence, Ky., Jan. 3.—Bud Gregory, who until recently had been a fugitive from justice for twenty-two years, is here with his wife visiting relatives. Gregory was indicted with a number of others in the Caldwell Circuit Court at Princeton twenty-two years ago for complicity in the killing of Hewlett Howton, several miles from Princeton.

A band of "Whitecaps," of which Gregory was alleged to have been a member, went to the home of Howton to administer a whipping. Howton defied the mob and opened fire on them with a shotgun, two or three of his assailants being slightly wounded. Howton was then shot to death at the hands of the mob.

The Caldwell county grand jury returned indictments against several members of the mob and three or four men were convicted and served time in the penitentiary. Others fled the county and escaped arrest.

To Nineteen-Fifteen.

"All's well that ends well" so they say.
The year's been pleasant to me anyway.

The Courier, of Evansville has a good large head line over an article relative to a noted revivalist and it reads "Catholics May Pray For Billy Sunday!" Why not? Catholics have been praying for everybody for more than eighteen centuries.

Colonel Jouett Henry, of Hopkinsville, has been appointed assistant adjutant-general for Kentucky by Governor Stanley. The Colonel and Mrs. Jouett will remove to Frankfort about the first of January. This is a case where the man honors the appointment and the appointment honors the man.

A telegram from New York states that eight men were indicted by the federal grand jury upon the charge of conspiracy to foment strikes in American munition factories. Among the number is a former congressman by the name of H. Robert Fowler, of Illinois. Can it be possible that this is our old friend Robert Fowler, of Elizabethtown Illinois, just above the fluor spar mines on the Ohio river and he was always such a good man too.

It is so easy for Governor Stanley to select his staff of Colonels here in Kentucky. In the old days when one lined up in an irrigating room and remarked: "Colonel have one with me," the Kentucky colonels standing around always filled the room. Of course there are Colonels and colonels, yet Huston Orme would look mighty well in a feathered Chapeau and the blue and gold. Somehow it seems he belongs on the Governor's staff. "Colonel Orme" sounds good to us down here in Western Kentucky.

Few people appreciate the value of health until they have lost it. Few know the importance of building for health and strength until infirmity forces this truth upon them.

Most men try to develop themselves in their strong points and neglect, if they do not entirely ignore their weak ones. Pay more attention to your weak points and the good ones will come very near taking care of themselves.

The man who works six days in the week should look forward to Sunday at home as his chief reward for doing so. The good wife adapts all things to his humor as far as possible.

A man who marries a woman for her looks loves her for one year; who marries for wealth, loves her two years; who marries for her ways, loves her forever.

If we could lift the veil that conceals the future, how disappointed some of us would be.

Tact is seeing things as the other man sees.

Tact is putting yourself in the other fellow's place.

True heroism is to fight your own battles in life, and win.

The most important thing to win in life is to win out.

The night has many eyes, the day but one:

The light of life dies when love is not won.

A man is father to his ambition and brother to his deeds.

War Upon Pain!

Pain is a visitor to every home and usually it comes quite unexpectedly. But you are prepared for every emergency if you keep a small bottle of Sloan's Liniment handy. It is the greatest pain killer ever discovered. Simply laid on the skin—no rubbing required—it drives the pain away. It is really wonderful.

Mervin H. Soister, Berkeley, Cal., writes: "Last Saturday, after tramping around the Panama Exposition with wet feet, I came home with my neck so stiff that I couldn't turn. I applied Sloan's Liniment freely and went to bed. To my surprise, next morning the stiffness had almost disappeared, four hours after the second application I was as good as new." March, 1915. Birthday Dinner.

It is usually the custom for older people to dread the coming of a birthday, but when the birthday brings pleasant surprises one almost wishes they would come oftener. Thus, it was with Mrs. Eliza Deboe. First was the fact that her only child had come home from school for her vacation. Although she knew that she had the honor of having Christmas day for a birthday she had expected nothing else. Xmas morning Mrs. Wilson, at whose house she is now making her home, began to hustle around. The dining room soon found itself wrapped in decorations. Hardly had Mrs. Deboe begun to solve this until Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Deboe drove up with several well-filled baskets. Next came Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Lamb with loads of good things to eat and presents for all. The last to arrive were Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Lamb. The old saying was quite true—the last were by no means least, for the baskets were filled to overflowing. The dining room and table were beautifully decorated in Xmas colors and the dinner was a real Xmas dinner. The variety of this dinner was its charm. There were five different kinds of meats, ten of cakes and eighteen of pies, besides the accustomed Xmas dinner.

Mrs. Deboe's presents were pretty and well chosen. All who were there greatly enjoyed the eats and the good time Mrs. Wilson showed them in her own hospitable way, and Mrs. Deboe wished her fifty-sixth birthday would come every day.

DEATHS

Mrs. Gilbert, widow of the late Hiley Gilbert, died at the county farm Christmas week of the diseases incident to old age.

Mary J. Bealmear was born Feb. 9th, 1831, died Dec. 24th, at her home near Deer Creek. She was a converted sixty-one years ago and joined Union church and lived there until 1884 with her husband and family. She moved to Deer Creek section and joined that church, ever a consistent christian.

She was married to Thomas Bealmear in 1850. To this union were born fourteen children, seven boys and seven girls. All have gone before her except William, Sarah Jane, Harriet, Henry, James and Fanny.

She died Dec. 24th, in her room, alone. She was found badly burned, but whether that caused her death could not be determined. She was buried in Deer Creek cemetery with funeral services conducted by R. A. LaRue.

Mrs. Mildred Smith, a sister of S. M. Jenkins, received a message Monday Dec. 27th, concerning the news of the death, in Atlanta, Ga., of her oldest son, Marshall Glenn Smith.

His health had not been good lately but his sudden death was entirely unexpected, and a great shock to her. She had come to Kentucky to spend the Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year holidays and expected to return to Atlanta this month and at the death of her son, was the guest of Mrs. Charles H. Unselt, an old friend, in McCracken county, near Paducah, [Mrs. Unselt was formerly Mrs. Mollie (Clay) Dulaney, of Fredonia.]

Marshall Glenn Smith was born at Eddyville, Ky., and was about 40 years of age and is survived by a wife and two children. His remains were buried in Atlanta on Wednesday, Dec. 29th, after the arrival there of his mother from Kentucky.

He was a son of James S. Smith, a well known traveling man who died twelve years ago, and who will be remembered as proprietor of the Crittenden Springs Hotel in 1893-94.

They expect to be able now to get to work and formulate plans and decide on all matters pertaining to this important enterprise without further delay. No better men for the work could have been named, and none have the interest of Marion and Crittenden county more at heart. Let everyone give them the proper encouragement.

AGED WOMAN IS BURNED TO DEATH Spark From Her Pipe Supposed to Have Fallen on Her Clothing.

Mrs. Mary Jane Bealmear residing near Sheridan, in this county, was burned to death while sitting in her chair near a heating stove, Friday morning, Dec. 24th, 1915, at 6 o'clock. She was eighty-four years old and had been partially paralyzed for a long time. She resided with her son Henry Bealmear.

Mrs. Bealmear had been helped from her bed to the chair and while the family were preparing breakfast her clothing caught on fire and she was burned to death when discovered. She was an inveterate smoker and it is supposed that in lighting her pipe a spark was dropped onto her clothing and set her on fire.

She leaves six children, three sons—Henry, of this county with whom she lived; James, of Heron, Ill., and Wm., of Union county, Ky., and three daughters, Mrs. John H. Conyer, Mrs. W. Newton Croft, and Mrs. Enoch Belt all of this and Livingston counties.

She was a life long christian and member of the Baptist church at Deer Creek. Rev. R. A. LaRue preached the funeral Saturday and the interment was at the Deer Creek Cemetery immediately after.

REVIEW OF THE GREAT WAR AND OTHER NOTABLE EVENTS OF THE YEAR 1915

European Conflict Develops Into a Struggle to the Death, With Deadlock on Eastern and Western Fronts—Serbia Overrun by Germans and Bulgarians—Trying Period for the United States—General Carranza Recognized as President of Mexico.

THE EUROPEAN WAR

The year 1915 has been so distinctive from a historical viewpoint that in all the ages to come it will stand apart from those that have preceded it and from those which are to follow. During its entire length, the greater nations of the European continent have abandoned themselves to a policy of bloodshed which has fallen little short of delirium. To the neutral onlooker it has been a revival on a huge scale of the irrational and murderous activity which characterized the earlier ages of mankind. It has been the complete overthrow of all the pacific theories which had apparently gained so strong a foothold at the time of the firing of the first gun in the present conflict.

At the beginning of the year, it was evident that it was to be a struggle to the death. It was plain that the Teutonic plan to force a speedy settlement by dint of superior armed preparedness had failed. Six months had elapsed and the Teutonic allies were still faced by three great nations, their strength unbroken and their determination inflexible. Austria had been driven repeatedly by her Russian invaders and twice the Serbs had routed Austrian armies sent against them. On other fields, also, Teutonic efforts had been futile. Thus far Turkey had been of little assistance and the holy war had failed to come into being. German Southwest Africa had been lost and German influence in Asia had been smothered by the Japanese.

As an offset, the Germans still held practically all the conquered territory which had fallen into their hands. Their lines still held firmly in Poland, in Flanders and in France. It was apparent that as yet the Teutonic combination showed no sign of weakening, and a war of attrition seemed inevitable. Both in the east and in the west the military operations of the early part of the year were practically without decisive result. The fighting in Poland had resolved itself into a complete deadlock. In January, the French-English combine made three attempts to break the Teutonic hold on French territory, but accomplished little. The German unsuccessful drive at Warsaw and the rout of the Austrians in Galicia left a slight balance in the January fighting in favor of the allies.

From a strictly military viewpoint, February was a promising month for the Teutonic allies. By the middle of the month, German troops were advancing all along the front from the Vistula to the Niemen, and thus, seven months after the breaking out of the war, German soil was practically cleared of its Russian invaders. The deadlock on the western front was still unbroken.

Scene Shifts to Dardanelles.

With the advent of March, there came a sudden and dramatic change in the war situation. The scene of military activity was shifted to the Dardanelles. By the third week of the month, Rome, Athens, Sofia and Bucharest were centers of great political activity. The surrender of Przemysl, March 22, was the most stirring victory for the allies since the battle of the Marne. The German assertion that the military power of Russia had dwindled into insignificance was disproved at once and the allied cause gained instant strength in all the neutral capitals. One of the greatest strongholds in Europe had been taken by the Russians.

The disaster to the allied fleet at the Dardanelles, which occurred during the third week of March, put an end to the expectation of forcing the straits by naval means alone. German prestige advanced perceptibly and the difficulty of the task undertaken by the allied fleet was now understood. In this month, also, the British won the battle of Neuve Chapelle after a bloody fight.

In April the French made a bold offensive stroke against the German position between the Meuse and the Moselle—the famous St. Mihiel wedge—which resulted in a tremendous loss of men on both sides, with small advantage for either. Nowhere had the allies made appreciable gain in territory. The invader held his own stubbornly and with success. About the middle of the month, Zeppelins made their appearance over English towns, inspiring great interest and not a little apprehension, but doing comparatively small damage. About this time, also, the attempted submarine blockade of the British coast proved to be ineffective. In the closing days of the month another great Teutonic offensive swept against the allied lines in Belgium, thrusting the enemy back upon Ypres, with great loss of life on both sides.

In May the Germans sent their best troops to the aid of the hard-pressed Austrians. By the middle of the month they had worked a startling change in the situation. Przemysl was retaken, the Russian campaigned in Galicia was shattered and the czar's armies were soon back where they started out in the previous September. Russia had suffered the greatest disaster in the war. A new German military hero had been revealed in the person of Mackensen, who was now held with Hindenburg in popular esteem.

In the last days of the month, Italy joined forces with the allies against Austria-Hungary.

Fall of Warsaw.

The campaign in the West was strangely quiescent. The allies kept to their trenches and the outside world wondered. Up to June 15 there was no claim of progress by the allies. The Teutonic claim that its side was still engaged in successful warfare on all fronts was not disputed. The splendid resistance interposed by the discredited Turks came as a surprise to the world. Russia was unable to rally her badly demoralized forces to make a winning defense of Lemberg. Once that point had fallen, Warsaw became the main objective. It was not until August 6 that German troops made their triumphant entry into Warsaw, capital of Russian Poland.

September marked a decided change in the Teutonic campaign in the East. Vilna fell on September 9, but immediately afterward the Russians won a series of successes over the Austrians, capturing 40,000 prisoners. The escape of the Russian armies from the net planned by the German strategists was complete. The great Teutonic drive was brought to a halt, and in December the Germans withdrew slightly and entrenched for the winter.

The month of October marked a decided revival of military activity on all fronts. After a long period of comparative quiet in the West, a desperate offensive movement was made by the allies. The French drive in Champagne was one of the bloodiest attempts yet made to pierce the German lines. After three weeks of incessant gunfire, the French troops left their trenches, September 25, and rushed the whole of the first German line. Nearly 20,000 German prisoners were captured, and upward of a hundred field guns, thus far the greatest single capture by the French during the war. But the Germans were not compelled to relinquish any great amount of territory. In Artois the allies did not succeed in breaking through the German lines, but secured some coveted positions at an appalling cost.

This brief period of allied success was followed by an unexpected turn of political affairs in the Balkans. For a second time the Greek king showed his lack of sympathy with the allies. In the spring he had prevented Venizelos, his premier, an avowed supporter of the allies, from sending troops to the Dardanelles. Now, when the allies were depending upon the Greeks to hold the Bulgarians in check, Constantine declined again to act.

Serbia Is Overrun.

Bulgaria announced her intention to cast her lot with the central powers and the latter opened a campaign having Turkish relief for its apparent objective. On October 10 the Germans crossed the Danube and proceeded to advance southward, every step contested furiously by the outnumbered Serbs. France, England and Italy declared war on Bulgaria. All at once the center of military activity was transferred to the Balkans.

In November both the long-expected allied offensive in the West and the Teutonic drive in the East came practically to an end. The allies failed to break the stubborn German lines and only achieved a possible moderate success in Champagne and Artois at tremendous cost. By the middle of the month military operations in Russia were practically at a standstill, the Germans having failed to accomplish the object of their campaign. At that time the big German drive to the Golden Horn began to monopolize the attention of the public. The preliminary invasion of Serbia by the Teutonic allies—now including Bulgaria—was begun with notable promptness. In fact, as early as October 27, the invading armies met in the northeastern part of the kingdom. By November 1 Kragujevac, the chief Serbian arsenal, had fallen, and by November 6 the Bulgarians were in Nish, Serbia's provisional capital and railroad center. By November 19 it was announced that the invading armies held four-fifths of Serbia, and toward the close of the month Germany declared semiofficially that the campaign was over. By the middle of December the Franco-British forces had been driven out of Serbia. They fell back to Saloniki, which, with the consent of Greece, they prepared to defend.

Since May 24, when the Italian army crossed the Austrian frontier, the fighting along the Isonzo front. The strongly fortified and stubbornly defended town of Gorizia was the Italian objective for weeks. In October the Austrian aeroplanes dropped bombs upon Venice, destroying art specimens and damaging a church. The Italian liner Ancona, bound for New York, was sunk by a submarine flying the Austrian flag on November 9. More than a hundred passengers were killed, including several Americans. The United States made a vigorous demand on Austria to disavow the act and punish the commander of the submarine.

On December 15 the British war office announced that Gen. Sir Douglas Haig had superseded Field Marshal Sir John French as British commander in France and Flanders.

WAR AND THE UNITED STATES

Strictly neutral as has been the policy elected by this country, the government has been brought face to face with many serious problems which have arisen from the conduct of the European war. One of these was the seizure and detention by Great Britain of vessels carrying American goods to neutral ports in Europe. A protest was made by Washington and on January 10 Great Britain replied by offering reasonable redress for any mistake of that nature.

Early in February, Great Britain decided to seize grain and flour shipments to Germany even if intended for noncombatants, and two days later, Germany declared the waters around Great Britain and Ireland to be a war zone, and announced her purpose to destroy every enemy merchant vessel discovered therein. Neutrals were warned of the danger sure to follow. On February 6, the Atlantic liner Lusitania made the passage from New York to Liverpool flying the American flag as a protection against hostile submarines. On February 10, the United States sent notes to Germany and Great Britain, concerning American shipping in the war zone. Germany was warned against committing a breach of the rules of naval warfare and Great Britain was reminded that serious consequences might follow the use of the American flag by British vessels. On February 16, Germany offered to withdraw from her crusade against British merchant ships if the British would permit the sending of food to the civilian population of Germany. On the same day, the British government seized the American ship Wilhelmina, bound for a German port with wheat for civilian consumption.

The German note in reply to the American protest against the submarine blockade disclaimed all responsibility. Great Britain affirmed its intention to send the Wilhelmina to a prize court. In replies to inquiries from the Washington government, neither Germany nor Great Britain showed any disposition to recede from the positions already announced. On April 11, the German ambassador protested to the state department against the attitude of the United States toward the shipment of war materials and British treatment of American trade with Germany. On May 1 the American oil carrier Gulfport was sunk off the Scilly Islands by a German submarine.

Destruction of the Lusitania.

On May 7, the big transatlantic liner Lusitania was sunk by a German submarine off the coast of Ireland, with a loss of nearly 1,200 lives, including upwards of a hundred Americans. On May 13 the United States protested against the German submarine policy and declared its intention of maintaining the rights of American citizens. On May 25 the American steamer Nebraska was seriously damaged by a torpedo off the south coast of Ireland. On May 28 the German reply to the United States note of protest in regard to the submarine policy in the so-called "war zone" was received. Final statement of the German position was reserved until a common basis of fact as to the status of the Lusitania should be established. On May 31 Germany made official announcement that the Gulfport had been sunk by a German submarine whose captain failed to recognize the American flag.

On June 8 Secretary of State William J. Bryan resigned his office to avoid signing a second note of protest to Germany against submarine interference with merchant ships. On the following day this note was sent and assurances were asked that in future American ships and lives should be safeguarded. On June 22 the British government sent an official note to the American ambassador explaining efforts made to protect neutral shipping. On June 28 the British steamer Armenian was destroyed by a German submarine off the coast of southern England and a number of Americans in the crew lost their lives.

On July 8 Germany replied to the second Washington note regarding the submarine war against merchant ships, promising safety to United States ships in the war zone if specifically marked, and suggesting that the American flag be placed on four hostile steamers for the safe transportation of American passengers.

More Diplomatic Notes.

On July 21 the United States sent a third note to Germany, with the statement that the German reply to a former note had been "very unsatisfactory" and that a repetition of the acts complained of would be regarded as "deliberately unfriendly." On August 3 several notes from Great Britain concerning interference with American trade in the war zone were made public, in which it was claimed that Great Britain was doing nothing in violation of international law. In the case of the William P. Frye, an American ship sunk by the Prinz Eitel Friedrich, January 28, Germany agreed to furnish indemnity, and the United States accepted the offer and proposed that the matter be referred to The Hague court.

On August 19 the British liner Arabic was torpedoed by a German submarine and several Americans were drowned. A lively diplomatic controversy followed, and the tension in the United States was at the breaking point. On September 7 the German government notified the United States that the captain of the submarine had torpedoed the Arabic in self-defense, believing that she was about to ram him. On September 9 the United States asked Austria-Hungary to recall Doctor Dumba, its ambassador, charged with being active in a movement to cripple American manufacture of munitions. On October 5 the German government disavowed the act of the submarine captain who sank the Arabic. At this time it was announced that the pending French-British loan of $500,000,000 had been oversubscribed.

The United States secret service, October 24, arrested a young man who called himself Robert Fay and declared that he was a lieutenant in the German army and came to America to destroy merchant vessels of the allies and American munition plants. Early in December, the Washington government demanded the recall of the German attaches, Boy-Ed and Von Papen, on the ground of pernicious activity. They were recalled by the kaiser.

Dr. Carl Buehn, managing director of the Hamburg-American line, and two employees of the company were convicted in New York in December of conspiracy to deceive the government in sending vessels with supplies for German warships.

THE CIVIL WAR IN MEXICO

In the early part of the year it was evident that Francisco Villa had the ambition to become the political Warwick of the republic of Mexico. On January 7 he deposed the provisional governor, Gutierrez, and installed General Garza in his place. He was still master of the situation at the City of Mexico, and Carranza still maintained his stand at Vera Cruz. Meantime, the fighting went on uninterruptedly, with varying results, but none decisive.

In June the situation on the border and elsewhere became so irritating that the United States government felt compelled to give official warning to the factional leaders that failure on their part to come to some agreement would necessitate intervention. Despite this intimation, the forces of Villa and Carranza continued to keep revolution aflame, and by midsummer the Mexican situation seemed to be more inexplicable than ever. Villa's star waned perceptibly. A new military influence, General Obregon, took the center of the stage. He assumed the leadership of the Carranza faction, and his military successes were considerable. In July General Gonzales, another Carranza supporter, fought his way into Mexico City, displacing General Zapata, who held the place in the Villa interest. Later, Gonzales was driven out and the situation was so threatening to life and property in the capital that, in August, American battleships were ordered to Vera Cruz, but were not put into action. In this month, also, an appeal signed by Secretary of State Lansing and the representatives of South and Central American governments asking all warring elements in Mexico to get together in an attempt at pacification was sent to the various leaders. During September the fighting on the Mexican border grew more desperate. There were many fatalities before United States troops gained control of the situation. On October 19, nine of the principal governments of the American hemisphere, headed by the United States, recognized the de facto government of Mexico of which Carranza is the chief.

OUR LAWMAKERS

The Sixty-third congress came to a close on March 4, its final act of special importance being the adoption of a resolution to strengthen the powers of the president in the enforcement of neutrality laws. Both branches agreed to the conference report on the naval appropriation bill calling for two new battleships, six destroyers and eighteen submarines. The president's nominations for the promotion of army and navy officers connected with the building of the Panama canal were confirmed by the senate, so that Colonel Goethals and Brigadier General Gorgas became major generals.

On January 26, the West Virginia legislature decided to submit a woman suffrage amendment at the 1916 election. Two days later, in Tennessee, the house passed a bill for a referendum vote on woman suffrage, already passed by the upper house. Arkansas declared for prohibition. In Iowa, prohibition again becomes effective on January 1, 1916. Both Idaho and Utah adopted prohibition bills.

March 5, the North Dakota legislature passed a bill abolishing capital punishment. South Dakota had taken similar action January 30. March 10, Rear Admirals Fletcher, Howard and Cowles were made admirals, a new naval grade established by the last congress. March 18, Governor Spry of Utah vetoed the state-wide prohibition bill. April 7, the Alaska house passed a measure submitting prohibition to the voters. A week later, it agreed to the senate bill abolishing capital punishment. June 3, the government plea to have the United States Steel corporation dissolved was denied by the United States circuit court for New Jersey and the defendant was held to be a lawful enterprise.

Resignation of Bryan.

June 8, William J. Bryan resigned the office of secretary of state, declaring himself out of sympathy with the president's policy toward the European war. On the following day, President Wilson appointed Robert Lansing, counselor for the state department, to take charge of the office. Mr. Lansing was made secretary of state June 23. State-wide prohibition became operative in Alabama on July 1. On July 22, the interstate commerce commission permitted advances in express rates and on August 11 it allowed increases in railroad freight rates on 41 railroads in the middle West. On the following day, it ordered reductions in freight rates on anthracite coal. August 24, the Eastman Kodak company was declared to be an illegal combination and ordered dissolved. September 10, the members of the constitutional convention of New York state adopted the proposed constitution, but it was overwhelmingly defeated at the polls November 2. State-wide prohibition triumphed in South Carolina, September 14, by a decisive majority.

President Wilson announced, October 6, his intention to vote for woman suffrage at the special election in New Jersey on October 19. At that election, the proposed constitutional amendment was defeated by a majority of 50,000. November elections were held in eight states. Four of these—Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts and Mississippi—chose governors. In three states—Massachusetts, New York and Pennsylvania—woman suffrage was rejected by large majorities. In Ohio, a state-wide prohibition measure was defeated by a majority of 35,000. Changes in the national house of representatives reduced the Democratic majority to twenty-five. The Sixty-fourth congress opened December 6. Senator Clarke of Arkansas was elected president pro tem of the senate and Champ Clark was re-elected speaker.

POLITICS IN OTHER LANDS

February 12, the protocol of the anti-opium convention was signed at The Hague by representatives of the United States, China and Holland. March 5, Gen. Vilbrun G. Sam, leader of the revolution which overthrew Davila Theodor, was elected president of Haiti. March 7, the popular minister of Greece, Eultherios Venizelos, resigned, his policy of active participation in the war on the side of the allies not meeting the approval of King Constantine. A new ministry was formed, with Demetrios Gounaris at its head, but he was soon succeeded by M. Skouloudis.

April 23, the Danish diet passed a constitutional amendment giving the ballot to women. Before it can become law this measure must also pass the next diet. May 4, Italy repudiated her alliance with Germany and Austria, declaring that Austria's invasion of Serbia constituted a sufficient cause. May 25, the British Liberal ministry was reorganized on a coalition basis. Ex-Premier Balfour, Bonar Law, six other Unionists and a Labor party man accepted portfolios. May 29, Theophile Braga was elected president of Portugal. June 5, the new Danish constitution was signed by King Christian. One of its most important features is the extension of the suffrage to women. July 21, the voters of Alberta, western Canada, carried prohibition by a large majority. In the latter part of the month, a new revolutionary movement broke out in Haiti and the president, General Sam, was killed. The United States cruiser Washington landed marines to stop further carnage. Juan Luis San Fuenes was elected president of Chile on July 25, and Dr. Jose Pardo was inaugurated as president of Peru on August 15.

September 16, a treaty between the United States and Haiti was signed at Port au Prince, providing for American supervision of the finances and police regulation of that republic. General Lartigue was recognized as president.

In November, it was announced that a majority of the Chinese provinces had voted unanimously for the restoration of the monarchical form of government with President Yuan Shih-kai as emperor, and on December 11 he announced his acceptance of the throne. The Japanese mikado, Yoshihito, was crowned at Kioto November 10.

INDUSTRIAL AGITATION

Early in the year, the meetings of the industrial relations commission, held in New York city, attracted much attention on account of the prominence of some of those who were called to testify. The chief purpose of the investigation was to obtain the opinions of well-known capitalists and employers on the present relations of capital and labor. January 19, guards in a factory near Roosevelt, N. J., fired on a group of striking workmen, killing one man and wounding several others. April 16, in Chicago, 1,600 carpenters went on strike for an increase in wages. June 14, motormen and conductors on the surface and elevated railways of Chicago, 14,000 in all, struck for higher wages and a complete tie-up resulted. The dispute, however, was settled by arbitration after two days of business paralysis. The carpenters' strike in that city, which had crippled the building industry for several months, was ended by a compromise wage agreement July 10. Ten days later, a strike of 60,000 garment makers in New York city was averted by a wage increase of from 12 to 15 per cent.

In July the employees of the Standard Oil plant at Bayonne, N. J., went on strike and serious rioting followed. During the lawlessness which prevailed, two strikers were killed and many policemen and onlookers were injured. After a week of disorder, a wage increase was obtained and the strikers resumed work. July 22, a strike for higher wages and shorter hours at the Remington Arms works, Bridgeport, Conn., resulted in a victory for the employees. August 4, a threatened strike involving 60,000 workers on women's garments, in New York city, was prevented by an increase in wages.

In September, the long and not infrequently violent dispute over industrial conditions at the mines of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company was brought to an end. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., made an extended visit of investigation to the property and as an outcome suggested a plan for adjusting differences which was accepted by the miners in a formal referendum vote. An agreement was signed to maintain the present wage scale and the eight-hour day until January 1, 1918. The demand for union recognition made by the miners was not granted, but many concessions were made by the company in favor of the employees.

In July a miners' strike practically put a stop to the great Welsh coal industry. After several conferences between Mr. Lloyd George, the British minister of munitions, the colliery owners and representatives of the miners, the trouble was settled July 20, and the men went back to work. Further strikes and lockouts were prohibited by law.

As early as June 30, the state of American foreign trade showed a balance of exports over imports of more than $1,000,000,000. This was a new experience for the United States.

The yield of wheat for the year, according to the latest reports, exceeds 1,000,000,000 bushels, the largest on record. A corn crop of 3,690,000,000 bushels, at current prices, makes it the most valuable ever harvested in the country. The American oats crop is also one of the most bountiful on record.

LAND AND SEA DISASTERS

A seismic horror which recalled the Messina earthquake of seven years ago, occurred January 13. A large district in central Italy, east of Rome, was laid waste and nearly 30,000 lives were lost. At Avezzano, 96 per cent of the population was destroyed and the property loss was more than $100,000,000.

February 10, earthquake, hurricane and an accompanying tidal wave visited the American Samoan group and caused great destruction on the Manua Islands. In the latter part of June, severe earth shocks were felt through the Imperial valley, in southern California. July 7, a violent storm swept over Missouri, Illinois, Ohio and Indiana and left wide destruction in its wake. July 14, southern China floods destroyed 50,000 persons. Some parts of Canton were ten feet under water. August 3, a cloudburst at Erie, Pa., flooded a large area of the city, drowned 25 persons and caused great damage to property. August 11, an earthquake shock was felt in Italy, and Vesuvius, Etna and Stromboli became active. August 16, a tropical storm which developed into a hurricane struck the Texas coast and raged violently for two days. Nearly 200 persons were the victims of its fury and the property loss was computed in millions. September 29, a hurricane dashed over the lower Mississippi valley and gulf coast, destroying 300 persons and a great amount of property.

January 21, a boiler explosion on the armored cruiser San Diego off the west coast of Mexico resulted in the death of six American sailors. March 2, there was an explosion of gas in a mine at Leyland, W. Va., and over 100 men were killed outright. March 25 was the date of the shocking submarine accident which resulted in the sinking of the United States boat F-4 during maneuvers in Honolulu harbor. Her entire crew of 21 was drowned. April 3, a Dutch steamer, the Prins Mauritz, founded off the Virginia coast and 59 persons lost their lives.

On the last day of April, a big fire at Colon, Panama, destroyed 22 blocks, killed 11 persons and entailed a property loss of $3,500,000. May 22, England experienced the most considerable wreck in the history of its railway system. More than 150 persons, mostly soldiers going into quarters, were killed near Carlisle.

Steamer Eastland Horror.

The most conspicuous horror of the year for Americans was the overturning of the excursion steamer Eastland at her pier in the Chicago river, July 24. In broad daylight, a few feet from the shore, 852 persons, largely women and children out for a holiday, were drowned.

A tornado of huge proportions swept over parts of Nebraska, South Dakota, Iowa and Kansas, November 10, destroying much property and causing the death of a dozen persons. October 28, a parochial school at Peabody, Mass., which was unprovided with fire escapes, was burned and 21 girls lost their lives. A factory fire in Brooklyn, N. Y., November 6, resulted in the death of 12 persons. On November 10 the gun plant of the Bethlehem Steel company burned with a loss of $3,000,000, and next day there was a million-dollar fire in the war material plant of the Roebling Sons company at Trenton, N. J. Flames destroyed much of Avalon, Catalina island on November 29. The same day an explosion in the DuPont Powder company plant at Wilmington, Del., killed 31. On December 9 the DuPont powder town of Hopewell, Va., was burned down. (Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"It is 'plane' that I love you," he began.
"Is that on the 'level'?" she asked.
"Haven't I always been on the 'square' with you?"
"But you have many 'vises,'" she remonstrated.
"Not a 'bit' of it," he asserted. "What made you brace up?" she queried coquettishly.
"The fact that I 'saw' you," he replied with a bow.
"I ought to 'hammer' you for that," she answered saucily.
"Come and sit by me on the 'bench,'" he urged.
"Suppose the other should 'file' in?" she murmured. "You shouldn't let your arms 'compass' me."
"I know a preacher who is a good 'joiner,'" he suggested, and they rushed out.—Building Age.

Mrs. Mattie L. Morse, Princeton, Ky., says: "For fifteen years I had kidney trouble. I suffered from pains in the small of the back and whenever I stooped or lifted, sharp twinges darted through me. My back ached at night and was very lame when I arose in the morning. I became easily tired and was often nervous. The kidney secretions were unnatural and caused annoyance. I finally used Doan's Kidney Pills and they improved my health greatly."

WHAT HAVE WE DONE TODAY?

We shall do so much in the years to come,

But what have we done today? We shall give our gold in a princely sum.

But what did we give today? We shall lift the heart and dry the tear.

We shall plant a hope in the place of fear.

We shall speak the words of love and cheer.

But what did we speak today?

We shall be so kind in the after-a-while.

But what have we been today?

We shall bring to each lonely life a smile,

But what have we brought today?

We shall give to truth a grander birth,

And to steadfast faith a deeper worth,

We shall feed the hungering souls of earth,

But whom have we fed today?

We shall reap such joys in the by and by.

But what have we sown today?

We shall build us mansions in the sky,

But what have we built today?

'Tis sweet in idle dreams to bask,

But here and now do we do our task?

Yes, this is the thing our souls must ask;

"What have we done today?" —Waterman.

Kisses For Charity.

Nearly all the youth of the neighborhood attended the charity bazaar and one by one they drifted to a stall where a tiny, shapely, scented, gray, kid glove reposed on a satin cushion. Attached to the cushion was a notice, written in a delicate feminine hand, which ran:

"The owner of this glove will at 7:30 this evening, be pleased to kiss any person who purchases a ticket before hand."

Tickets were purchased by the score, and at 7:30 a long row of young men assembled outside the stall.

Then, punctual to the moment old Tom Parson, the local butcher, who weighs 200 pounds and is almost as beautiful as a side of bacon, stepped to the front of the stall.

"Now young gents," he said, "this 'ere glove belongs to me. I bought it this morning. Now I'm ready for you. Come on! Don't be bashful! One at a time."—Philadelphia Ledger.
