JURY FINDS ORPET NOT GUILTY

University Student is Exonerated
Of Marion Lambert's Poisoning
After 5 Hours' Deliberation

Waukegan, Ill., July 17.—William H. Orpet, the university student charged with murdering his former sweetheart, Marion Lambert, a high school girl, was found not guilty here to-night by a jury in Judge Donnelly's court after five hours deliberation. The jury retired at 2 o'clock and at 6 o'clock were taken to dinner where they spent a half hour.

An hour and a half later came word that a verdict had been reached. Probably fifty persons were still waiting. Orpet who had been taken to his cell was sent for. Judge Donnelly was still at the court house. Three ballots were taken. The first two stood 11 to 1 for acquittal. Orpet was silent through excess emotion. He was barely able to return the handclasp of attorneys. He made his way to the jurors and shook hands with them one by one, smiling wanly and saying nothing.

His mother received the verdict as if a matter of routine. She noted newspaper camera men were trying to snap a picture of herself and her son, and she warned him and held a paper in front of her own face.

The defendant, his father, mother, brother, and several friends hurried into the witness room, where there privacy was guarded by a bailiff. Half an hour later they emerged. "We'll go home now," was all his mother was heard to say. Then the party made its way down the back stairs to the jail.

Orpet's belongings at the jail were already packed. He had recovered his self-possession and thanked Sheriff Griffin for making his four months' stay at the jail comfortable.

The important events of the trial all occurred on the fifteenth day of the month in which they came. The selection of a jury began May 15, the taking of testimony June 15, and he was acquitted July 15.

IN MEMORY

Little Mary Evelyn, daughter of J. A. and Rebecca Ford was born May 9, 1911, and she departed this life May 31, 1916. She was five years and twenty two days of age.

Evelyn was an exceptionally bright little girl, she had a sunny disposition and was loved by all who knew her. She was not only the pet of family, but of the neighbors, and her death is mourned by all who knew her.

This beautiful bud was plucked just when it was ready to bloom and give off its sweet fragrance. Her death has left a vacant place in the home that can never be filled. Her toys and dolls have been carefully put away by loving hands, and will be cherished by they that loved Evelyn most.

Her family and friends are poorer by her death, but Heaven is richer. Every care was given during her long illness that could add to her comfort. She bore her afflictions with fortitude and patience, and made a brave fight for recovery, but the grim reaper with his sharp scythe clipped the brittle thread of life and her spirit was wafted away on the wings of love to God, who gave it; and her precious little body was borne with loving hands to the silent city of the dead, there to remain until the general resurrection.

Weep not family and friends, but be consoled with the thought that Evelyn is basking in the sun-beams of God's love. May Heaven's richest blessings be the portion of all who loved her. —T. A. F.

Good Woman Badly Scalded.

Mrs. Oscar Eskew is in a serious condition at her home here. While taking a tub of boiling water from the stove her feet slipped and she fell, receiving the contents of the tub all over her lower limbs scalding herself quite badly. Her burns, while serious are not dangerous unless complications arise, which on account of the extreme heat are not unlikely. Wednesday at noon Dr. Cook reported her condition favorable.

Old Crittenden Is Alright.

W. H. Graves brought to our office Tuesday 3 stalks of red clover which he grew on the Jack Lofton place. One of the stalks measured 66 inches in length and all are full and heavy and can be seen in our show window. Mr. Graves bought this farm 2 years ago after selling the old Witherspoon place at near 100 per cent profit after living on it 5 years and making five profitable crops. Folks who laughed at him are now laughing on the other side of their mouth, and the same will be true of the Lofton place. Mr. Graves' son has as fine corn as ever grew, now growing on this place, and has already saved 20 tons of clover and timothy and has the same of peas yet to mow.

Some of the timothy was 5 and 1-2 feet high and hid the mules when being mowed. Who says old Crittenden's land won't produce if given the proper encouragement and help.

Beverly Todd Towery

Loses His Mother

Mrs. Elizabeth Boyd, Towery, died at her home in this city Friday afternoon at two o'clock, of tuberculosis after an illness of several months. Mrs. Towery was 56 years old and had been a consistent member of the Methodist church since the age of fourteen. She was a devoted wife and mother, a kind neighbor, and besides the immediate family leaves a host of friends to mourn her loss. The deceased is survived by her husband and two children, Mrs. Tom Jones, of near the city, and Beverly Todd Towery, of Springfield, Illinois.

Funeral services were conducted at the residence Sunday morning at 9 o'clock after which the remains were interred in Big Hill cemetery.—Enterprise

The groom is the son of Mr. Marion Ford, a well known farmer of Crittenden county. He has been employed at Shamrock mine here for some time and is a worthy and popular young man.

A Correction

By mistake, in entering up and transferring the claims from the claim book stubs to the fiscal court order book, one claim issued to C. B. Woody for $100, and one claim issued to Chas. T. Riley for $175.00 were entered of record twice, which shows by the Financial statement that these parties received the amount of these claims more than was allowed to them, when in fact these parties only received the amount allotted to his respective precinct, which was $400 00. Leaffa Wilborn, Deputy County Court Clerk.

CLARK NAMED AS ASSOCIATE JUSTICE

Ohioan Nominated For Place Made Vacant By Hughes' Resignation.

Washington, D. C., July 17.—J. M. Clarke, United States District Judge at Cleveland, Ohio, was nominated by President Wilson to day as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, to succeed former Justice Hughes, the republican nominee for the presidency.

The president discussed his selection at to-day's cabinet meeting and sent the nomination to the senate immediately afterward.

Automobiles For Rural Routes.

James M. Freeman, rural carrier on route 3 has purchased a new Ford Runabout to carry the mail and parcel post for his patrons. Mr. Freeman besides wanting to be free on time, is a humanitarian and thinks, and thinks rightly too, that such weather as we are having is entirely too hard on a horse, so he will put his steeds on a pasture and pension them until the mud makes it necessary to change again. Ere long every rural and star route carrier in the county will use machines instead of horses.

One of Our Oldest Citizens Passes Away.

Lindley Murry Travis was born Jan. 20th, 1821; died, July 16 1916. He was married three times. His first marriage was to Mary Elizabeth McDowell, Aug. 20 1842. To this union there was born five children. He professed religion when young at old Wilson camp ground, he and uncle Billy Lamb professed the same year and both joined the Methodist church, he remained a faithful member of that church until his death.

Uncle Linze was one of the oldest men in the county at his death, and lived longer than any of the Travis family. He was 96 years and six months old lacking four days. Aunt Rachel Travis lived 92 years and nine months, Theresa Price lived 92 years and six months, Uncle Harvey Travis lived 92 years and three months, Aunt Elvira Brantly was about 88 years old at her death.

Uncle Linze was a quiet, inoffensive man. He did a great deal of public business, but never meddled with business that did not come before him. He was generous and hospitable; everybody found a warm welcome in his home. He was appreciative of any kindness shown him, and warmly made you feel that appreciation.

Compliment To Judge Gordon.

At the recent meeting of the Kentucky Bar Association Judge J. F. Gordon of this city was elected vice-president representing the First Appellate District. This was indeed an honor worth while and one we believe is deserving, as Judge Gordon is not only one of the best lawyers in the state, he was one of the best Circuit Judges in Kentucky.—Hustler.

ECLIPSE OF MOON VISIBLE HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

Luna Five Hundred Miles Nearer The Earth Than Ever Before.

An eclipse of the moon was visible in Marion Friday night between 9:45 o'clock and 12:15 Saturday morning. At 10:50 four fifths of the moon's surface was hidden. At the time of the eclipse the moon was moving at the rate of 2,288 miles an hour while passing through the shadow. The moon was 500 miles nearer the earth than ever before, and hence took a comparatively long time to pass, being near the base of the cone of the shadow. Because of the nearness the tides were unusually high in all parts of the world at the time of the eclipse.

END MILLION DOLLAR PROJECT

Kentucky Rural Credits Association Which Was Incorporated Two Years Ago, Is Collapsed.

Lexington, Ky., July 18.—Following the suit for a receiver filed two weeks ago by T. W. Henderson, of Dresden, Tenn., Robert J. Colbert, of this city, was to-day appointed receiver for the Kentucky Rural Credits Association, which was incorporated two years ago under the laws of Delaware with a $1,000,000 capital stock.

This receivership marks the collapse of the most ambitious financial scheme ever attempted in the south. There are 4,000 stockholders in Kentucky and Tennessee and adjoining states, who have paid in $375,000. Of this the promoters, Stanley Watson, and O. L. Vallandigham, of Kansas City, got $175,000 as their share. There are $136,000 held on good mortgage loans and the remainder has been spent for expenses since the promoters left here several months ago.

The intention was to lend money on farms at low rate of interest on long terms. When former Governor James B. McCreary left office he was made president at $5,000 a year, and other leading men were made officers at large salaries. McCreary and some others resigned shortly after the Tennessean filed his suit for receivers.

Offices were secured in the city's largest building, and until recently matters were apparently on a highly prosperous basis. Claude Mercer, an attorney for the receivership, stated to-night that agents of the promoters had misrepresented matters.

Chambliss an aged and respected citizen of Caldwell Co. near the line five miles above Piney Fork church, celebrated his 88th birthday, Saturday, July 8th, which was the occasion for a great in-gathering, there being over a hundred people present, forty of whom were the descendants of the nono-genarian. Aeroplane as a Life-Saver

Proposed Aerial Coast Patrol Will Be of Great Value in Time of Peace as Well as in War

By ADMIRAL ROBERT E. PEARY
Chairman National Aerial Coast Patrol Commission

ADMIRAL PEARY.

Although it has taken the spectacular exploits of the greatest war in history to focus the minds of the people on the marvels of the aeroplane, the great value of this latest wonder of the world will be as an agency of peace. It will soon prove itself more of a life-saver than a life-waster. The aeroplane's field of usefulness is expanding daily.

It would be a criminal misuse of human genius and the very debauchery of science if the only purpose of the aeroplane was to skulk through God's blue sky in search of prey.

For one day of war there are ten days of peace, and even when one part of the world resounds to the clash of arms the other part is a humming hive of industry.

Therefore the stage of efficiency and perfection which the aeroplane has reached in 22 months of war is only a forerunner of what is to come when strong men again at peace have time and thought and energy to fit the aeroplane into its proper place as an instrument for the advancement of civilization.

There are many ways in which the aeroplane will save lives, and is in a position to do so now. There is a way already at hand, for which there is a need almost daily—namely, the aerial burglar-alarm system now being advocated by the commission of which I have the honor to be chairman.

The national aerial coast patrol commission was organized last January in New York, and now has offices in the United States Coast Survey building in Washington. Its purpose is to guard the long and irregular coast lines of the United States with a continuous chain of hydroaeroplanes. Day and night it will watch over 5,000 miles of coast, to save lives in time of peace and to be the wary eyes of our national defense system when war comes.

This plan was suggested last August in a speech I made before the Rotary club of Portland, Me. Although it was put forward at a conference on preparedness, nevertheless from its very inception my idea has been that, after all, its greatest value to the American people will be the good work it is to do along our shores and out at sea in protecting lives, ships and cargoes, while performing the duties of a military patrol.

Such also has been the thought of all the distinguished public officials and citizens who have rallied to my support in the organization of the commission. This list includes two senators, two representatives, two assistant secretaries, a well-known New York banker, and a brilliant young inventor, the worthy son of a worthy sire. The presidents of the various aero clubs, the adjutants general of the states' militia and the commandants of the various state naval militia are also members. We are all working together, and we propose to establish by popular subscriptions a complete chain of hydroaeroplane stations, stretching from Eastport, Me., down the Gulf of Mexico, and around all the way to Cape Flattery, state of Washington, at the head of Puget sound.

The Aero Club of America—the center of aeronautical activity in this country—gave the idea its most hearty indorsement a little later, and it was formally launched at the annual dinner of the club, held in New York on January 12 of this year. Then followed the organization of this commission, to which names have been added from time to time, so that the membership is now as follows:

Central committee, Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas, Senator Charles F. Johnson of Maine, Representative Julius Kahn of California, Representative Charles Lieb of Indiana, author of the bill now pending before congress to create an independent department of aeronautics with the secretary in the president's cabinet, which is in line with what Germany, France and Great Britain have done; Byron R. Newton, assistant secretary of the treasury; William M. Ingraham, assistant secretary of war; Dr. E. Lester Jones, superintendent of the United States Coast and Geodetic survey; Dr. H. C. Frankfield, chief forecaster of the federal weather bureau; Hon. Emerson McMillin, the New York banker, and John Hays Hammond, Jr.

A campaign was begun at once in Portland, Me., under the direction of Mayor Ingraham, now the assistant secretary of war, and the $10,000 necessary to provide one station and machine as a unit in the plan was raised in a month. New York city next fell into line with a machine, Washington has just started a campaign under the auspices of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, and preliminary sums have been raised just as a starter in other coast cities.

The 50 stations will cost $500,000 to install, it is estimated, and it is certain that a single hydroaeroplane, patrolling its beat 50 miles or more at sea, some day will see a great ship in distress, and reporting to the shore through its light radio apparatus, effect the saving of hundreds of lives, and a ship and cargo more valuable than the initial cost of the entire system.

This illustration could be multiplied by 50, for what one unit can do all the others can do. When the system is increased there will be still another line of life-saving and military patrol pickets 50 miles beyond the first line, or at least 100 miles off shore. Add to all this the value of the proposed system in detecting derelicts and submerged menaces to navigation, and for cheapness and efficiency we will have an organization of the kind unexcelled in any other country.

Unable to Learn

"There are well-meaning people, utterly incapable of learning any lesson taught by history, utterly incapable of understanding aright what has gone on before their very eyes during the last year or two, who, nevertheless, wish to turn this country into an occidental China—the kind of China which every intelligent Chinaman of the present day is seeking to abolish.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

United States Can Be Invaded

But can the United States be invaded? It can—and every man conversant with modern military progress knows it can, even though there is something too startling about the thought to receive the credence of the average citizen when he sits down to his griddle cakes in the morning.—Frederick Palmer.

BLACKFORD

(delayed from last week.)

July, the seventh month of the year, has arrived and it is time for Blackford to be heard from again.

As an introduction to the communication we shall call the attention of the item readers to the 13th chapter of the book of "Blunders" which reads thus: "Woe be unto the man (or devil) who is very careless about the spelling of words, punctuation marks etc., when setting to publish items from various places, thereby causing the correspondents to have sad thoughts and gloomy reflections."

We frankly confess that the correspondents to the Record-Press do not claim to be faultless, yet, at the same time, a number of us do try to spell the words correctly and use the proper words to convey the intended meaning. For an example to show that the mistakes were not on the part of the correspondents, in the last items from Blackford will be found, "second-ard occupation aggregates" which should have been, "sedentary occupation aggravates."

This is only a sample of a number of mistakes in various items and articles, which have never been mentioned. The reason that we mention the mistakes referred to is this: With so many blunders unheeded, we fear the item readers may think the correspondent at Blackford is a regular "hair-brained molly coddie." This mild reprimand is given with kind thoughts and sincere wishes for all parties concerned, with the hope that in the near future may see a return to normal conditions and in the meanwhile the items published may be as per manuscript rendered.

While an item is published verbatim it causes the correspondent to be somewhat enthusiastic. Enthusiasm is the radiation which begins in the mind and is like sunshine breaking through the clouds. It is a contagion of optimism that radiates from the back of the head to the finger tips. It makes those within its sphere of influence walk more spryly, smile where they have frowned and become ambitious to achieve results. Enthusiasm means confidence and sincerity and belongs to those who are alive with energy and feel no ill toward any one.

There are numbers of reasons why we prefer the Crittenden Record-Press in preference to all other county newspapers which are published in reach of Blackford, as a medium to promulgate our esoteric cogitations and philosophical or psychological observations.

Therefore, with wishes for the unbounded success of all correspondents (also the editor and devil) graded at 99 per cent, and trusting that the contents of this manuscript may be published and perused we submissively close by saying:

To do to others as we would
That they should do to us:
Will make us honest, kind and good,
And not inclined to fuss.
—Puella.

Devil's note—Were you educated in Blackford?

The Wilson Hill farm is posted no hunting allowed. Trespassers are warned to keep off.

WHY WOMEN WRITE LETTERS

To Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co.

Women who are well often ask "Are the letters which the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. are continually publishing, genuine?" "Are they truthful?" "Why do women write such letters?"

In answer we say that never have we published a fictitious letter or name. Never, knowingly, have we published an untruthful letter, or one without the full and written consent of the woman who wrote it.

The reason that thousands of women from all parts of the country write such grateful letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives, once burdened with pain and suffering.

It has relieved women from some of the worst forms of female ills, from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, nervousness, weakness, stomach troubles and from the blues.

It is impossible for any woman who is well and who has never suffered to realize how these poor, suffering women feel when restored to health; their keen desire to help other women who are suffering as they did.

Swindlers With "Money Machine" Get Mar's $6,400.

Newbury, N. Y., July 11.—Peter Kotenski, a Polish farmer, residing in Chester, has complained to Justice of the Peace Gregory that he was robbed of $6,400 by a relative and another man whose name is not known. The relative at one time lived with him, but for twelve years has been in Toronto.

Two weeks ago he returned to Monroe, according to Katenski, saying he had invented a machine with which he could turn one-dollar bills into two-dollar bills. He gave several demonstrations.

Kotenski drew his life savings from the bank and invested the money in the machine. The next morning the relative, his companion and the money were gone.

BOY ALONE SAW SEA FIGHT

No One Else in Fleet Witnessed Whole Dogger Bank Naval Battle.

London.—In a recent visit by English newspaper correspondents to the grand fleet the most interesting point elicited was the extraordinary suddenness of modern sea fighting. There were instances of a fight beginning before the ventilators were closed down and the strangest of all, a story of the battle of the Dogger bank, where a boy was sent out to clean something on one of the turrets and he was forgotten in the hurry and the turret closed.

The boy lay flat on the top through the fight, and he is one of the few persons, officers and men, in the whole affair who actually saw the battle, and the only one who could give his whole attention to the sight, as he had nothing else to do. That boy will have a great story to tell when he is an old man.

TRACES "SAFETY FIRST" MOVE

Arthur Hunter Says It Followed Workingmen's Compensation Legislation.

Montclair, N. J.—Arthur Hunter, president of the Actuarial Society of America, told the Montclair Heights Community club that the "safety first" movement was a sequel to the adoption of workingmen's compensation laws.

He said there used to be a saying that in the erection of large buildings it took "one life for every story." He pointed out that under the compensation act the Woolworth building in New York was erected without a fatality.

Unemployment insurance, Mr. Hunter held, should be distributed to men just out of work, but only enough should be paid to "keep the wolf from the door" in order to prevent people from dodging employment.

TREES OLDER THAN PYRAMIDS

Age of Some of the Giants in California Estimated at More Than 8,000 Years.

San Francisco.—One of the wonders of the ancient world, and probably the greatest of them, is the pyramids of Egypt. And yet some of the giant sequoias of California that are now thrifty trees had bark on them a foot thick when Cheops began building the great pyramid that bears his name.

Beneath the shadow of the pyramids Napoleon said to his troops: "Forty centuries look down upon you." There are trees in the grove estimated by scientists, among them John Muir, the eminent naturalist, to be eight thousand and even ten thousand years old.

The oldest living things in the world are these giant trees.

FIRST BATH IN 20 YEARS

John Barker Wouldn't Have Taken One Then But His Skiff Capsized.

San Francisco.—John Barker, familiarly known to the water front as "Jack the Grappler," nearly seventy years old, but active, was fished out of the bay the other day by Harry Levinson, a short distance from Peterson's dock. His skiff, in which he picks up odd things about the bay, had overturned.

Barker, somewhat winded and a bit full of water, gasped when he was lifted to the dock.

"I have been using that skiff for almost ten years for just that kind of work and it is the first time it ever treated me like that. But I guess I needed the bath. It is the first time in 20 years that I have had one."

The Call Of The Mountains.

(BY REV. JAMES F. PRICE.)

Some of our best young ladies of western Kentucky are availing themselves of the marvelous opportunities opening up in the mountains of eastern Kentucky for school work. No part of the state is developing relatively as fast as the mountain section. The opening up of the immense coal fields and the railroads pushing their sinuous tracks into the mountain fastnesses is giving an impetus to this country that most of us do not realize. Schools are developing rapidly. Buckhorn, the Burus' school, Harlan, St. Nicholas and other are surpassing in efficiency many of our western towns. Towns are springing up like magic. Jenkins, McRoberts and many others seem like fairy dreams.

Miss Lauren Davis from Sturgis is going to Harlan to teach domestic science in the High School there. Miss Dixie Bell Helm of Morgantown and Miss Era Deboe from Marion go to Knott county. Miss Helm has a school out from Smithsboro, but under the supervision of that work. Miss Deboe takes the principalship of St. Nicholas High School in Knott county. This will be a splendid training for her and give her an admirable opportunity to do a great work for these young mountain people. These young ladies have splendid opportunities and favorable surroundings to do a good work. They will be associated with nice cultured people.

No one knows the joys of working among the mountain people until they have experienced it. The climate is exhilarating, the scenery is fascinating and the people are interesting. No more responsive or appreciative people can be found. They are generous to a fault and brilliant in intellect. Senator Col-lum, Governor Norris, Johnathan C. Day, Superintendent of Labor, New York City, and Rev. Geo. W. Truitt, pastor of the Baptist church, Dallas, Texas. Probably the greatest preacher in the United States, is the product of these Appalachian highlands.

Annual Convention.

The annual Convention of west Crittenden at Tolu M. E. church, July 6th 1916, where it was heartily welcomed and royally entertained by the good people of that place, the attendance good considering the season.

I have never attended a more harmonious meeting than this. There seemed to be prevalent the spirit of unity and love.

Many of the farmers who could not be present were zealous enough to furnish conveyance for wife and children to represent them on this occasion.

We had some splendid addresses delivered by our county President, our state worker and others, which rendered the occasion very helpful and entertaining, especially the practical and illustrated address to the children by the Rev. T. C. Gebauer.

All parents of west Crittenden would have profited to have availed themselves of the opportunity of bringing their children in touch with this experienced teacher and friend of children.

Inspiring music was furnished by the senior and junior choirs of Tolu, also by the Glendale juniors.

We appreciate very much the cooperation of all who have contributed to the work.

The schools which have reported, are as follows: Tolu, Oak Hall, Union, Marion Baptist, Marion Christian, Marion C. P. Caldwell Springs and Glendale.

There were representatives from several schools, some offering a large delegation.

We insist that every school to send in its report at once that we may be enabled to report before State Convention.

We urge that every school in west Crittenden remain organized throughout the entire year, with Teacher's training, Home department Cradle Roll and etc.

Our convention will meet with Glendale after July 20th 1917, giving ample time for the farmers to be in readiness.

Let us endeavor to be present with an evergreen school, a full report of the various departments of the organized work and a live choir. You can if you will, don't disappoint us.

See to it that every school in west Crittenden be well represented.

"Let us not be weary in well doing, for in due season we shall reap if we faint not."

Battles Won in the Factories

Organization of Industrial Forces Vital to Preparedness, Points Out Howard
E. Coffin of Naval Consulting
Board

By DAVID TUNNECLIFFE

In all of the work to prepare the nation against war most attention has been given to the army and to the navy, for the opinion has prevailed that if we get legislation providing a larger army and a larger navy our policy of insurance against war would be complete. But over in Europe they have found that it takes at least three men working at top speed at home to keep one soldier at the front, and Howard E. Coffin, the motor-car builder, a member of the naval consulting board, declares that, even with a large army and a large navy, the United States will be wholly unprepared unless the other nations of the world know that back of them the industrial forces of the nation are organized and co-ordinated. To bring about that state of efficiency is a task of tremendous size, for, contrary to popular notions, we are not prepared to serve the guns of any country with shells in quantities that are really important. No American shell, it is said, has yet been fired from a French gun, and only 10 per cent of the ammunition England has used has come from this country. So the prevalent opinion that we are furnishing the munitions of war for the allies is mischievously misleading.

"Eighty per cent of the industries of Europe are working day and night on the production of materials for the fighting line," said Mr. Coffin. "These materials are practically all for the armies, because there have been few naval engagements and very little wastage. So you can say that 80 per cent of the industries in Europe are working on munitions for the armies. Now, we have no reason to believe that in case we are drawn into any future war—in case we are really honest in our desire that we shall be prepared—that we can count on any other condition in this country than that existing abroad. In short, we must be prepared to produce faster and in greater quantity the arms and munitions of war than can any other nation or any other two nations which might attack us."

"We have in this country manufacturing and producing resources greater than those of any two countries in the world. If we have these resources so organized through an educational campaign—the safest and at the same time the cheapest kind of preparedness we can have—so that half, or in some important lines more than half, of the industrial equipment and resources of the world can step in behind our army and navy, we might term it the greatest insurance against war this country could possibly have."

"In the production of any war materials, such as rifles or shells, for instance, there are certain gauges necessary, measuring tools and gauges for sizing different parts, etc. These are being made in large part by three concerns which are manufacturing nearly all the gauges for the country. This is a general statement, of course, and there are some smaller concerns. The skilled labor employed on this work is specialized labor. It has been on this work for years, and could not be replaced in a long period of time because gauge making is a craft which has grown up with these concerns."

"Could not our industries quickly adapt themselves to turn out war material?" I asked.

"If," Mr. Coffin continued, "we should place an order in this country for 200,000 shells per day throughout the range needed in our general operations—some seventeen sizes—these concerns have computed the expenses and time required for the production of such gauges in the necessary quantity. They have figured that it would require from seventeen to twenty million dollars invested in the gauges themselves, and that it would require five years for their valuable equipment, working continuously, to produce the necessary quantities of such gauges; also from actual experience they have estimated the length of time such gauges could be used before being replaced. After three thousand to ten thousand gaugings with an instrument of the accuracy required for this work, it means that either the surface must be renewed or the whole gauge scraped, because limits of perhaps a quarter of a thousandth of an inch cannot be maintained on account of wear. This is one instance of what preparedness means if we are honest about it and really want it."

"Let me go back now to this question of how to standardize our munition methods and of how we may best utilize the American industries behind our fighting line. As I have said, some 80 per cent of the producing equipment of foreign countries is now working in the service of the armies. Through our observations of these conditions during the past year we have been forced to revise nearly all our ideas of modern warfare. I am not speaking for the navy and army officers, because they must have known in some degree what was coming. But the manufacturers of this country have at last, through observation of foreign happenings, come to have some realization of the changed conditions of warfare."

"We have felt heretofore that with a big army and navy we would surely be well prepared. We have now found that with a big army and navy we may be in a worse position than without them, or may be even yet in a position where some of the pacifists would have us. With a big army and navy we might try to run some bluff which would be called, and when the showdown came we would find that the army and navy were merely the first breaker, and that behind the lines we had nothing to back them up."

"Industrial preparedness in this country," continued Mr. Coffin, "means we shall have to be so prepared through an educational policy that our industries will be in a position within a month or two months or three months, as the case may be, to swing from their regular lines of production on to the production of the munitions required for military purposes, and go on without delay with such deliveries as will keep our fighting lines supplied."

The Nonproducers

A favorite argument of the antimilitarist is that the nation loses much because the soldier is a nonproducer. This argument, however, is no sounder than is that of the 'burden' of military expenditure. 'Non-producer' is a much-abused term. If it means all those who are not actually growing or manufacturing some article, then we must include ministers, teachers, lawyers, bankers, merchants, and certainly those engaged in all sorts of insurance, in which case the fact that a soldier does not continually manufacture or grow things himself is no reproach.

UNDERSEA MERCHANTMAN

Came Straight From Germany In A
Run Of Sixteen Days, Loaded
With Dyestuff.

Baltimore, July 10th—The world's first submarine merchantman, the German underwater liner Deutschland, anchored below Baltimore Sunday night after voyaging safely across the Atlantic, passing the allied blockading squadrons and eluding enemy cruisers watching for her off the American coast. She carries mail and a cargo of 750 tons of costly chemicals and dyestuffs and is to carry back home a similar amount of nickel and crude rubber, sorely needed by the German army. She arrived at quarantine, four miles below Baltimore at 4 p. m. Sixteen days out from Bremerhaven to Baltimore, the submarine reached safely between the Virginia capes at 1:45 p. m. in the morning.

The Deutschland is no converted warcraft but a brand new commerce carrier, owned in Bremen and sent here on purely commercial mission. The underwater liner is about 315 ft long and 30 feet beam and is propelled by two great Diesel engines. She is as large if not larger than any German naval submarine.

The Deutschland's cargo is consigned to a number of concerns, badly in need of dyestuffs. When she will return and whether she will make regular trans-Atlantic trips, her commander refuses to discuss. If present plans are carried out, the public will not be allowed to inspect the undersea wonder; nor will anybody be allowed to board her except federal authorities.

SHIP MAKES FORTUNE LYING IN HARBOR

Cargo of Nitrate Increases $875,
000 in Value in Two Years

New York, July 7—The German sailing ship Indra began to discharge here today a cargo of nitrate from Chile valued at $1,000,000. When she arrived here bringing the cargo in September 1914, it was worth only $125,000 but the demand for the chemical for the manufacture of explosives has greatly increased its price since then.

The result is that while lying in this port for nearly two years the value of the cargo has increased by $875,000.

The Indra was bound from a Chilean port to Dunkirk, France, when the European war began.

The captain headed for New York on learning that war was declared. Consignees of the cargo began litigation to compel him to carry it to Dunkirk but he declined to take his ship to sea where she might be captured by British or French warships.

CHARTING LAKES HAS TAKEN YEARS

Government Has Spent Millions to Make Waterways Safe for Ships.

PERIL OF JAGGED REEFS

Herculean Fight Against Unseen
Shoals That Menace Navigation Has Been Carried on Since 1841—
New Method of Sounding.

Detroit, Mich.—Summer after summer the fleet of the Lake Survey sails the broad expanse of the five lakes and the score of bays and inlets searching for danger spots that may claim their heavy toll in human life and vessel tonnage.

Probably no frequented waterways in the world are so hazardous as the Great Lakes. At no time is a steamer on them more than a comparatively few hours from shore and periodically fierce storms arise, fully as violent as those experienced on the ocean, which play with the steel ships, battering them helplessly about, threatening to engulf or sweep them ashore.

Over $5,000,000 has been spent by the government since 1841 for the prosecution of the work of charting the lakes. Locked in heavy timber boxes, protected from fire in immense vaults in the old post office building, Detroit, are over 1,200 field charts, dating back to 1818, when a survey of Lake Erie was made by officers of the British navy. With few exceptions the maps are the result of the scientific researches of United States engineers and surveyors.

Work of Generations.

These maps represent the work of generations of men who have toiled to make the Great Lakes safe. As a result of their investigations light-houses have sprung from barren rocks, and the solemn ringing of bells on buoys carries their warnings to passing navigators.

While the work of charting the lakes has been carried on since 1841 with only one break in the task, which occurred in 1880 and lasted until 1890, there is still much to be done to make the survey a thorough one. In fact it was only 12 years ago that what might be called an unfailing system for testing the depths has been devised.

Previous to that time the old method of dropping a weight of twelve pounds or so, trying to keep the line plumb, was employed. The system was far from infallible.

This lightweight testing method was employed until the '90s. Then came the heavy 100-pound sounding bell. This heavy obstacle was dragged through the water, a machine on board ship registering the angle the metal was deflected from the boat as the ship steamed along. The bell's sheer weight made it an excellent drag.

But this system was too crude and imperfect. Twelve years ago Major Keller, United States Engineer corps, in charge of the lake survey, devised a method whereby a piano wire from 1,000 to 5,000 feet in length, slung from two launches and weighted down, was used to search for shoal spots and other elevations of submarine land.

Today this ingenious device is in use on the lakes and as a result of it many shoal and reef regions, hitherto unknown, have been listed.

Increase in Commerce.

During the years of the decade beginning in 1890 the commerce of the Great Lakes had begun to assume considerable proportions, and the American government planned a canal at Sault Ste. Marie to connect Lake Superior and the lower lakes. The only charting, however, had been accomplished by engineers connected with the British navy.

In 1841 Capt. W. G. Williams, who was at that time in charge of harbor improvements in Buffalo harbor, was ordered to take charge of the surveying of the Great Lakes. By 1878 what was assumed to be a thorough survey of the lakes had been made and the following two years were spent in the compiling of documents and the perfection of charts then in existence and circulation.

The years that had been spent up to 1880 on making the geodetic or submarine survey of the lakes had witnessed marvelous changes. The flow of population moved westward like a tidal wave and cities sprang seemingly out of the very earth. The five lakes were white with the sails of commerce.

By 1890 schooners were fast becoming obsolete. The heavy draft steamer that displaced water to the depth of 20 feet had driven the light vessels of 11 and 12 feet draft from the field.

That a resurvey must be made became evident. Provisions had been made only for vessels of light displacement. Appropriations were made by congress to carry on the work again.

In searching for a shoal area as much as $10,000 has been spent. The work of the Lake Survey has for its object the preparation of accurate navigators' charts of the lakes and no pains are spared to make the maps complete. The work of searching for shoals is long and tedious. To sweep a full square mile costs somewhere around $50.

Health Notice!

The City of New York is in the throes of an epidemic of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis.) Children are dying at the rate of one an hour, while all who recover are left hopeless cripples.

This dreaded disease is appearing over a large area of the United States. Five cases have been reported in Louisville. This disease is both contagious and infectious. Any unsanitary condition of the premises predisposes to its spread. It is better to prevent than to treat this as well as all other diseases.

It is the order of the Crittenden County Board of Health that the citizens of Marion and Crittenden county clean and disinfect their premises, clean out your privies and stables, and have the refuse hauled away from your homes. Use plenty of fresh lime.

If you have sick children in your homes, isolate them, and do not let anyone see them unless it is absolutely necessary, until your physician has seen the child and made a diagnosis. Do not allow intimate association of well children; they may be well today and sick tomorrow.

Remember, that we grown-ups are responsible for most of the sickness and deaths of our children. Remember, that we cannot put a money value on the lives of our children. It is as likely to be my child, or yours, as any one else. If you fail to comply with this order your premises will be inspected and personal orders served by the proper official.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

CRYING FOR HELP

Lots of it in Marion But Daily
Growing Less

The kidneys often cry for help. Not another organ in the whole body more delicately constructed; Not one more important to health. The kidneys are the filters of the blood.

When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous.

There can be no health where there is poisoned blood.

Backache is one of the frequent indications of kidney trouble.

It is often the kidneys' cry for help. Heed it.

Read what Doan's Kidney Pills have done for over worked kidneys.

Proof of merit in the following statement:

Mrs. W. T. Smith, S. Main Street, Madisonville, Ky., says: "I suffered from weak kidneys, which caused sharp twinges to dart through my loins. I saw Doan's kidney pills highly recommended and began using them! One box was all that I needed to give me relief."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Smith had. Foster-Milburn Co., Prop., Buffalo, N. Y. 56

OLDER BUT STRONGER

To be healthy at seventy, prepare at forty, is sound advice, because in the strength of middle life we too often forget that neglected colds, or careless treatment of slight aches and pains, simply undermine strength and bring chronic weakness for later years.

Be stronger when older, keep your blood pure and rich and active with the strength-building and blood-nourishing properties of Scott's Emulsion which is a food, a tonic and a medicine to keep your blood rich, alleviate rheumatism and avoid sickness. No alcohol in Scott's. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J.

"Blue Bells"

RUFFED GROUSE (Bonasa umbellus)

Length, seventeen inches. The broad black band near tip of tail distinguishes this from other grouse.

Range: Resident in the northern two-thirds of the United States and in the forested parts of Canada.

Habits and economic status: The ruffed grouse, the famed drummer and finest game bird of the northern woods, is usually wild and wary and under reasonable protection well withstands the attacks of hunters. Moreover, when reduced in numbers, it responds to protection in a gratifying manner and has proved to be well adapted to propagation under artificial conditions. Wild fruits, mast, and browse make up the bulk of the vegetable food of this species. It is very fond of hazelnuts, beechnuts, chestnuts, and acorns, and it eats practically all kinds of wild berries and other fruits. Nearly 60 kinds of fruits have been identified from the stomach contents examined. Various weed seeds also are consumed. Slightly more than 10 per cent of the food consists of insects, about half beetles. The most important pests devoured are the potato beetle, clover-root weevil, the pale-striped flea beetle, grapevine leaf-beetle, May beetles, grasshoppers, cotton worms, army worms, cutworms, the red-humped apple worm, and sawfly larvae. While the economic record of the ruffed grouse is fairly commendable, it does not call for more stringent protection than is necessary to maintain the species in reasonable numbers.

Mere Numbers No Protection

Organized and Well-Prepared People Alone
Can Keep International Highwaymen
From Country's Borders

By MAJ. GEN. LEONARD WOOD
Commander Department of the East, United States Army

MAJ. GEN. WOOD.

Modern war is fought on a chemical basis and a mechanical basis, as well as a man basis. It is not arms and men alone. Of course, the men, trained men, are the essential thing. Nothing has ever been produced which can take the place of the one thing that God made, and that is man. It is the man who is well trained and reasonably well armed; but back of that are tremendous influences in the shape of equipment and all sorts of apparatus, and the production of these is based upon sound organization and development of chemical resources to an extent never before thought of. You have seen that, in this great war abroad, war is being fought with gas and fire and with all sorts of chemical compounds brought into the battlefield in some way or other. It is very unpleasant to think of them. They do not seem to be half as attractive as a clean-cut bullet wound, but they are there, and they are the things we must look forward to meeting some time, if we meet the enemy in the field. The purpose of war is to kill. It is not a very pleasant procedure, especially for the fellows who are to be killed. Remember that it is a great deal better to prepare and not have war, than it is to have war and not be prepared. And remember another thing: that it is not the weak nation, whining for sympathy, and unprepared and unready, that determines whether there is to be war or arbitration—it is the strong, well-prepared nation which determines finally whether arbitration or force is to be employed.

A great many people will tell you that preparation means trouble; that you cannot be strong without being vicious; that you cannot be prepared without being aggressive. It seems to me that a statement of that sort, addressed to our people, is little short of an insult to our intelligence and our decency. We can be both prepared and ready and yet tolerant, just and self-restrained. We are not going to wage an aggressive war, but we have the right to be prepared. All our early presidents urged preparation. In every message, almost, of the first presidents, who had seen something of war, in fact, of all our presidents, you find some warning note about preparation. In the early days, shortly after the birth of the nation, they were especially emphatic. They were sound men and big men and patriotic men, and their advice was always to be prepared as the best means of avoiding trouble.

The house that is well guarded and well protected is much less liable to be attacked by the burglar than the house that is unguarded and full of spoils. And so it is in the case of the international highwayman—he counts the costs. You have wars based on patriotism and great public impulse, where cost sometimes is thrown to the winds, but the wars for power and aggression, wars for the possession of trade routes or the lands necessary for racial expansion and increased trade, etc., are based generally upon the cost. A country going into a war of that class figures out "what are we going to get, how much is it going to cost?" It is the prepared nation that others hesitate to attack.

If the advice of our early presidents was sound when the ocean was a real barrier, when no foreign country had a large well-organized army, when the transportation of an army across the sea was more difficult, when the weapons of war were few in type and simple and easy to manufacture and easy to become familiar with, and most of our forefathers were familiar with the use of the musket and the use of other arms—how much more seriously is that advice to be taken today, when steam has divided distance and time by ten; when every great nation on earth except China and ourselves is well organized for defense at least; when the weapons of war are intricate machines, requiring a great deal of time to manufacture, still more time to become familiar with?

Our wealth is immense and our commerce is aggressive and extending all over the world, while our lands extend from the Caribbean sea almost to China. New conditions have arisen and we must simply heed them. We must not simply have generous impulses and think nothing of preparation. Nothing will help you but preparation. Mere numbers will not serve. No wolf was ever frightened by the size of a flock of sheep. It is the organized and well-prepared people who count. You cannot do anything in the crush of modern war with undeveloped resources. A nation with undeveloped resources is helpless, unless organized.

No Wolf Was Ever Frightened by the Size of a Flock.

A nation with undeveloped resources is a good deal like a man upon a point of land, surrounded by timber, with iron ore in the ground under his feet and everything at hand to build a fleet, and someone points out a ready, equipped and well-prepared fleet in front of him and says: "There is the fleet of the enemy, where is your fleet?" And he swings his arm and says: "Here I have unlimited resources and I can build the biggest fleet on earth." But the man says: "Here is the fleet you have to fight, which is ready to begin work in half an hour. You cannot be ready in four or five years."

That is not unlike the condition of our country. We have got the material and have money, we have responsibility too, and we have not done the work of construction. We have hardly even commenced it, and it must be continued, and it can only be continued through the force of public opinion, because in a democracy such as ours, a representative government, the people really govern, and the men in congress represent their views and interests. Your views must be presented. They must be sound, well-thought-out views.

When Governments Murder

Convinced as I am that a government is a murderer of its citizen, which sends them to the field untrained and untaught, where they are to meet men of the same age and strength mechanized by education and discipline for battle, I cannot withhold my denunciation of its wickedness and folly.

GEN. HARRY LEE.

Right of Compulsory Service

It may be laid down as an axiom, based upon historical proof, that any government which foregoes its rights to compulsory military service, becomes more and more enslaved by depending solely upon voluntary military service induced by gifts of money, land and clothing.—Upton.
