In his address at Shadow Lawn, Long Branch, N. J., accepting the Democratic nomination for president, Woodrow Wilson said:

"Senator James, Gentlemen of the Netification Committee, Fellow Citizens -I cannot accept the leadership and responsibility which the national Democratic convention has again, in such generous fashon, asked me to accept without first expressing my profound gratitude to the party for the trust it reposes in me after four years of flery trial in the midst of affairs of unprecedented difficulty and the keen sense of added responsibility with which this honor fills (I had almost said burdens) me as I think of the great issues of national life and policy involved in the present and immediate future conduct of our government. I shall seek, as I have always sought, to justify the extraordinary confidence thus reposed in me by striving to purge my heart and purpose of every personal and of every misleading party motive and devoting every energy l have to the service of the nation as a whole, praying that I may continue to have the counsel and support of all forward looling men at every turn of the difficult business.

"For I do not-doubt that the people of the United States will wish the Democratic party to continue in control of the government. They are not in the habit of rejecting those who have actually served them for those who are making doubtful and conjec-tural promises of service. Least of all are they likely to substitute those who promised to render them particular services and proved false to that promise for those who have actually rendered those very services.

Explicit Promises Fulfilled. Boasting is always an empty busiboaster, and I have no disposition to boast of what the Democratic party has accomplished. It has merely done its duty. It has merely fulfilled its explicit promises. But there can be no violation of good taste in calling attention to the manner in which those promises have been carried out or to adverting to the interesting fact that many of the things accomplished were what the opposition party had again undone. Indeed, that is manifestly part of the business of this year of reckon-

WEAKNESS, CAUSE, NOT CANDIDATE

Hughes Should Not Be Blamed For Poor Showing.

Chicago, Ill. Sept. 4th-The initial swing around the circle by former justice Hughes, Republican nominee for President, has materially increased the chances of President Wilson's re-election, in the opinion of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, Western Democratic campaign man-

"Now that Candidate Hughes is about completing his crosscountry speaking tour, an opportunity is afforded to survey it as a whole and to judge more accurately of its value and effect,' said Senator Walsh, in a statement issued to-day.

"I am disposed to believe that the country has been somewhat unjust to Gov. Hughes, in the judgment which has been formed of his ability and his statesmanship, as exhibited in his public addresses thus far, assigning to him a weakness that really inheres in his cause. He may not be magnetic, but it would be idle to assert that he is lacking in intellectual vigor or wanting in the essentials of a high quality of American citizenship.

"Disapointment at his failure to make a better showing has bred a sentiment akin to resentment among many of his party associates. Without any well defined virile policy, either for eign or domestic, enunciated in their platform, contrasting boldly with the record legislative and executive made by the Administration, they looked to him to supply an issue they had line a course departing radically from that they had been follow-

United States Should Aid in Emancipation of Latin-American States

By WOODROW WILSON President of the United States

There is one peculiarity about the history of the Latin-American states which, I am sure, they are keenly aware of. You hear of "concessions" to foreign capitalists in Latin America. You do not hear of concessions to foreign capitalists in the United States. They are not granted concessions. They are invited to make investments. The work is ours, though they are welcome to invest in it. We do not ask them to supply the capital and do the work. It is an invitation, not a privilege; and states that are obliged, because their territory does not lie within the main field of modern enterprise and action, to grant concessions are in this condition, that foreign interests are apt to dominate their domestic affairsa condition of affairs always dangerous and apt to become intolerable.

The dignity, the courage, the self-possession, the self-respect of the Latin-American states, their achievements in the face of all these adverse circumstances, deserve nothing but the admiration and applause of the world. I rejoice in nothing so much as in the prospect that they will now be emancipated from these conditions; and we ought to be the first to take part in assisting in that emancipation.

Development of Agriculture Will Insure National Strength

By REPRESENTATIVE J. RANDALL WALKER of Georgia

Agriculture is the basic industry of the world. Whatever advances agriculture strengthens the nation for war as well as for peace and promotes the interests of all mankind. It is our duty and should be our delight so to legislate as to insure to the tillers of the soil the maximum of comfort, prosperity, and contentment in their labors. Taxation measures should be framed to bear upon them most lightly. Government aid to increase the fertility of the soil, to diversify the crops, and increase the rewards of farm labor should go out to them continuously.

Develop agriculture, make it a profitable industry, and you have gone far to insure the preservation of the nation, should our national life ever be threatened. A contented, patriotic, home-loving people will arise in their might to meet the nation's need. Germany organized agriculture as perfectly as any other industry, and today she is feeding her people at home and her armies in the field, though hedged in by a ring of steel.

Jealousy Not Always Sign of Mean or Little Nature

By FRANK P. NIEMANN, County Judge of Nassau County, New York

A recent ruling of mine, whereby I refused to send a man to an insane asylum, caused a great deal of discussion, not because of the importance of the single case, but because of my assertion that if every jealous man were sent to an insane asylum we would have to build a double row of madhouses the length of the island. I repeat that assertion.

Some of the soundest, finest, biggest natures I have ever known suffered from jealousy.

What is the cure for it? Patience! Patience! And again patience! If you have caused any suffering through that emotion, treat it as you would any pathological state. Remove the cause. If the person has imagined a cause, the suffering is as real to him as though it existed. Patiently convince that person that he is in error. It cannot be done at once, but by kindly persistence the germ can be eliminated from the mind.

True American One Who Stands for Rights of Humanity

By REPRESENTATIVE FRANK BUCHANAN of Illinois

A true American is one who loves the people of America and faithfully tries to serve them, and whose fidelity to their cause will not be swerved by imminent danger to his personal interests or by threats from powerful influences to destroy him. True Americanism exists in him who has the courage to strive for the rights and freedom of humanity under great difficulties. A true and intelligent American understands that he is to a degree a citizen of the world, and white striving to serve the best interests of America, realizes that these interests are best served by directing his influence to serve humanity elsewhere.

Americanism does not mean a locality. Americanism does not mean a family tree. Americanism means liberty, equality and justice, and he who stands firmest in support of these principles deserves most to be called

Excessive Religion Estranges Nations and Breeds Hypocrisy

By REV. FRANK C. BRUNER, Pastor Simpson Methodist Church, Chicago

To be overreligious breeds hypocrisy. Many are so full of religion they have no room for the love of God. The religiosity of man takes root often in materialism. Take the religion of nationalism, which has for centuries held humanity in its giant grip in Germany, Russia and Rome, as well as other nations. What is it doing now to make the world better? In the name of national religion it has drawn sword to slaughter tens of thousands, breaking the heart of motherhood, and ruining innocent childhood, whose tender life is left exposed to cruel war.

The present war is nothing but overreligiousness, rooted deeply in selfishness for the promotion of a religion of nationalism, denominational ism and aristocracy.

Germany Seeks "Reasonable Peace:" The German chancellor three times in the reichstag has offered peace to the entente. On account of this, formidable opposition has arisen to him at home, although he is the kaiser's "other self." His friends are rallying to his defense, and on August 1 of the present year begins the curious country-wide lecture campaign to prepare the minds of the hitherto docile German people for a "reasonable peace." Meanwhile, with the sky brightening. the entente allies reaffirm their resolution, taken in the dark hours of last winter, never to cease their efforts till Germany is crushed. The Teutons not only must be beaten in war, according to the allied formula, but must be repressed economically for many years after the signing of a treaty of pence. On August 1, 1915, the Germans and Austrians were in the midst of their brilliant campaign against Russia. The "pincers" were closing in irresistibly. That day Lublin, an important city in in the great battle near Vilna. The tale of the taking of great towns grew almost tedious. It seemed the Germans would never stop. Whether they did stop of their own accord or were finally checked by the Russians for the winter on a long line stretching from the Baltic just west of Riga southeast along the Dvina river, and then almost due south through Poliessie, the Pinsk marsh district, to the

On September 8 Czar Nicholas took sending his cousin, the Grand Duke Nicholas, to the less important command of the Caucasus operations.

With their "Little Father" at their head, the Russians forgot their long. discouraging retreat. Millions of new young soldiers joined them, drawn from Russia's great reservoir of human beings, which produces three and a half million men of military age ev-

On September 10 the Russians won a success near Tarnopol and Trembowla, and two days later they drove the Teutons back 14 miles in Galicia. In other parts of the front the Germans were still seizing large slices of territory, but their enemies were regaining their energy. On September 26 the Russians recaptured Lutsk, but were driven out in a short time. On October 20 they recaptured Czartorysk, but they were not able to prevent the Germans storming Illuxt five days later. Czartorysk was lost and again taken by the czar January 8.

Meanwhile the conquest of Serbia, the greatest tragedy of the war, excepting only the massacre of 800,000 Armenians, was being enacted.

Invasion of Serbla.

The real invasion of Serbia started in the first days of October. A great diplomatic battle had been fought in Sofia, and the allies had lost. On October 7 Bulgaria in an ultimatum to King Peter of Serbia, peremptorily demanded the immediate cession of the Macedonian lands in dispute between the two countries and then in the possession of the Serbs.

After a general bombardment the Teutons crossed the river boundaries of Serbia in many places on October 8. Two days later they occupied Beigrade. On the thirteenth Bulgaria invaded her neighbor at three points.

The successes of the Teutons and the Bulgarians were almost unbroken. The invading forces consisted of a vast amount of heavy artillery, with small infantry supporting forces. They shelled the Serbians out of position after position in an avalanche of steel to which the Serbians could make no reply.

Small forces of French and English landed at Saloniki, a Greek port to which Serbia had certain entry privileges, and did something to cover the retreat of the Serbians by engaging the Bulgarians in the South.

At the beginning of winter, Noven ber 22, the Serbian soldiers crossed

Another expedition, also insufficient, was sent to relieve the first. It was beaten off with large losses a few miles below Kut, a flood of the river on April 30 the 12,000 defenders of Germany and Austria both feel the Kut capitulated by order of the Brit-

> A further British humiliation was the evacuation of Gallipoll peninsula, where the British held on doggedly month after month, losing perhaps 200,000 men, until they were finally withdrawn in confession of failure the first week of January.

These two British flascos were what was needed to arouse the sluggish fighting blood of John Bull. They finally brought England into the war fully and uncompromisingly, to the same extent as the other great powers.

On August 10 Great Britain started her national register, or census of all men of fighting age. The result showed sections demanded immediate conscription, but they were not successful. Instead the earl of Derby was commissioned to start a vast recruiting campaign. This produced a number of classes of "attested men," who bound themselves to come into the ranks with their age groups. But there were still hundreds of thousands unreached, and the public began to see that it was discriminating in favor of the "slackers" and the cowards. On December 21 David Lloyd-George, the minister of munitions and greatest man the war has produced in Great Britain, declared the country faced defeat unless greater efforts were made. A week later he threatened to resign from the cabinet un-

Allies Get Together.

Their defeats finally taught the allies that their efforts must be co-ordinated, like their enemies', if they were to be effective. A new war council, with all the allies represented, met in Paris December 7 and a kind of international general staff was oris not yet clear. They settled down ganized. It is known that General Joseph Joffre, French commander in chief since the beginning of the war, and the hero of the battle of the Marne, was the presiding genius. The effects of the council were not to be seen for several months, but now they are being realized in full measure.

To check a simultaneous allied ofcommand of all his armies in the field, fensive, which they clearly saw coming, the Teutons decided on two attacks of their own. This follows the well-known axiom of German military strategy that the best defense is an energetic attack.

The first of these offensive defensives was the attack on the French fortress of Verdun, where the works were subjected to a whirlwind of fire beginning February 21.-The gains of the first week were great, and German critics foretold the collapse of the French. Two of the defending forts, Vaux and Douaumont, fell, and important positions were taken west of the Meuse river as well.

But Joffre rallied his men in splendid fashion and sold each yard of ground at an awful cost in German blood. Step by step the crown prince's men pushed forward, but today they are still more than two miles from the ruined fortress town and the resistance of the French is as strong as Austrian Drive Checked.

The second Teutonic offensive was organized by the Austrians in the Trentino, and they struck in the direction of Vicensa with the object of cutting off the northern end of Italy from the main portion. On May 28, as the result of several days' vioient artillery fire followed by infantry rushes, they were able to announce the capture of 24,000 Italians.

General Count Cadorna hurried about a hundred thousand men in motor cars to the scene, while many more arrived on foot or trains. Just when it seemed the Austrians must reach the lowlands the counter-attacks were

On June 30 Rome announced a splendid victory. In bloody fighting the Austrians, perhaps weakened by drafts to bolster up their Russian front, were driven from peak to peak almost to where their lines had stood throughout the winter.

In March the Russians delivered vast but futile attacks on the German front at many points, probably to distract attention from Verdun. The Germans seemed to have been lulled security by these efforts, which they probably considered the best the czar could do. But the tens of thousands of Muscovite bodies lining the Germans' barbed wire were but a patter of rain compared with the storm that was brewing behind the Russian lines.

At the beginning of June this storm broke with full force and, following the principle of attacking the weakest were forced to bear the brunt of it.

Russia's Big Push.

Millions of shells, manufactured largely in British, Japanese and American factories, blasted away wire, trenches, dugouts and observation Then the hordes of Siberians, Cossacks and others swept over the field. The Austrians could not withstand the impact and they gave way steadily.

June 6. General Brusiloff announced the capture of 13,000 Austrians; June 8, the number for the three succeeding days alone was 43,000, and the numbers kept mounting until on July 20 General Shoovaieff, Russian minister of war, estimated the number of Austro-Hungarian prisoners at 270,-The killed and wounded are untold, but the number must be large enough to bring the total loss well over half a million.

German support was rushed to the Austrians, but the foe captured Lutsk and Dubno, and reached the Stokhod and Lipa rivers in Volhynia; overran all Bukowina to the Carpathians and sent patrols of Cossacks into Hungary to ravage the country.

That the czar is anticipating further great gains of territory is seen from Russia's action in mobilizing the males of the island of Saghalien, Turkestan, and one other district to build roads; dig trenches and do other work of organizing the ground won.

Allies' Drive in Somme Region.

Almost a month to a day following the beginning of the great Russian offensive French and British opened a vast reserve of man power. Certain their drive in the vicinity of the Somme river. They have gained gradually but steadily, and the official reports assert the losses of the attackers are comparatively small.

It is also the claim of the allies that the Franco-British offensive can be kept up at its present rate indefinite ly, and will not have to be slackened for lack of shells, guns er men. The rate of progress is much greater than the Germans' at Verdun, but the'country traversed is less difficult. On the other hand, the Verdun assailants have the advantage of attacking from the outside of a curve, while the French and British now attack from inside the salient they have made in the line. Meanwhile the Verdun offensive of the Germans continues.

Outside of Europe the Germans have lost their Cameroon colony on the west

ers having crossed into Spanish territory and been interned. The army of East Africa still resists the converging columns of Belgians, French and British but, shut off from re-enforcements, its doom would seem to be

On April 25 Sir Roger Casement, Irish knight, tried to land from a German warship on the coast of Ireland, but was captured. The next day a revolt in Dublin and other Irish cities broke out and the center of the Irish capital was burned. The revolt was easily quelled, the British announcing resistance had ceased on May 1.

More successful was the revolt of the Arabs, led by the grand shereff, against their Turkish overlords. Mecca. Medina and others towns have been captured and are held still, probably with British assistance.

Doings in the Air.

Recent months have seen a cessation of Zeppelin raids on undefended British and French towns. The cause of this is somewhat of a mystery, as the Germans have claimed important unlitary results from their attacks.

On September 7-8 there were two raids on London, thirty persons being killed and a proportionate number wounded. Fifty-five were killed by Zeppelins in a raid on London October

On January 20 the German dirigibles bombarded Paris, killing 23 and on February 1 Liverpool and other Eng-Ush centers were visited and 59 slain. On April 2 a Zeppelin killed 28 in England and was destroyed on the British coast as it returned. On March 8 13 were killed. On April 6 it was announced that the fifth Zeppelin raid in six days on the British coast had been made. The Germans declared that war munition factories and supply depots had been destroyed.

Since then England apparently h been immune from the Zeppelins. This may be due to the large number of dirigibles lost, or to the outcry against the inhumanity of the practices of the Germans which was raised in neutral

One other important moral defeat was sustained by the Germans when they hurried Edith Cavell, a British nurse, to execution, as announced by Brand Whitlock, American minister of Belgium, on October 22.

The greatest naval engagement of history in number of men engaged and number slain was fought June 3 near the Skaggerrak, in the North se The result was inconclusive, each side claiming a great victory and the reports varying widely in estimates of losses on the two sides.

If the Germans, as they assert, seriously crippled the British grand fleet, we will probably soon see them come out of Kiel again, to finish their task. At present, however, the British blockade is broken only by the merchant submarine Deutschland, which reached Baltimore July 9.

Capital Has the Power to Prevent Growth of Discontent

By JOHN SKELTON WILLIAMS Controller of the Currency

The building up of small local industries undertaken by capable and willing hands, the development of the great fundamental agricultural industry, helping of the little business man who has character, ability and ambition, offers tremendous opportunities not only for the increase of an aggregate wealth and power, but for distribution of them, so that no worthy man may be hopeless.

Yellow Decorations in Home Will Help Dispel Pessimism

By MISS ARMINTA HOLMAN Instructor in color in Kansas Agricultural College

If you are a pessimist, yellow decorations in your home will help dispel the grouch. If you have a small room and want to make it appear more roomy, furnish it in blue. Blue is a receding, cool color. A bit of yellow used in decorating a room finished in blue adds cheeriness, making the room appear cool, bright and pleasant. Green, a combination of blue and yellow, is a soothing, restful color, and may well be used on the walls and floor if grayed.

Red is a warm, exciting and advancing color. A room furnished in red appears smaller than its actual size. When combined with yellow it gives both warmth and cheer, and is the basis for the rich tones of brown and tan. Light tones suggest youth, frivolity, informality and femininity, while dark tones suggest strength, dignity, repose and masculinity.

Unwelcome Task May Be Met Either by Fighting or Wooing It

By MISS ELEANOR CRAIG of Colorado Agricultural College

There is something very trying in a task. It has an unpleasant way of asserting itself at the busiest and most inopportune moments. It thrusts itself forward to blight our pleasantest hours, and comes into our lives like an avenging power. It is never welcome, always provokes, and is ever a burden to accomplish.

There are two ways by which it can be annihilated. One is by arraying ourselves in our armor, so to speak, as they picture the Christians of old, and going out to conquer as they fought sin. The other is to woo it, as a girl a refractory lover, studying its possibilities until a real interest asserts itself and it changes its nature, ceasing to be a task, and becoming

Working Men of United States Not Getting Square Deal

By HENRY FORD of Detroit, Mich.

The working men of the United States are not getting a square deal. If the employers of this country don't squeeze the water out of their securities and begin dividing up with the working men right away, we are going to have serious trouble-very serious trouble.

Union labor doesn't mean anything to me. About the only ones who profit by organized labor are the business agent and the walking delegateand now and then they happen to be grafters. But the laboring classes of this country deserve better wages. It is their right. We don't know such a thing as a union labor man in our plant, but we recognize human beings and their right to just wages.

Ideal Americanism Not Complete Without Woman Suffrage

By JOHN NICHOL

I do not believe we can become ideal Americans as long as we withhold woman suffrage. The practical outcome of granting it is less vital and important than the individual and national belief in the principle.

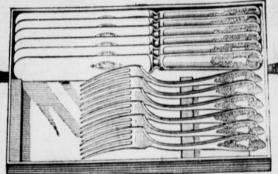

Our position today has been reached with the Declaration of Independence as a stepping-stone, and is the result of our wishes and belief made active. Our fancied government of the people, by the people, and for the people, is a myth. It is a masculine rule. The women, half of the people, are simply wards. Equal suffrage is a basic principle of Americanism. Liberty and equality is impossible without this belief.

Marriage Laws Rather Than Divorce Statutes Need Reforming

By KEV. F. R. MARGETTS of Spokane, Wash.

How frequently the phrase, "What God hath joined together," is quoted. I want to say that I believe God has nothing to do with a large percentage of marriages, especially those that lead to the divorce court. God is not a party to marriages for title nor marriages for money. In seeking to reform the divorce laws we are beginning at the wrong end to correct this evil. We should work for stricter marriage laws and more thought by marrying couples.

ROUMAMIA WITH ENTENTE ALLIES

Roumania Will Bring Nearly One Million Troops Into The Field.

London, Sept. 5th-Roumania has entered the war on the side of the entente allies, making the fourteenth nation engaged. Germany quickly declared war on Roumania. Roumania has a population of 66,800,000, and a well equipped army of 580,000; and is capable of putting 1,000,-000 men in the field.

Petrograd, - Roumania's declaration of war is regarded in official eircles here as being farreadhing in its significance. The foreign office points out three striking benefiss to the entente allies: First, the substantial aid of the Roumanian army; second, make possible the tightening (of the ring about the Germanic powers by opening a new line of attack; third, it shuts of from the central powers a very considerable source of supplies and foodstuffs.

29:4-11 The voice of the Lord is powerful: the voice of the Lord is full of majesty.

The voice of the Lord breaketh the cedars; yea, the Lord breaketh the cedars of Lebanon.

He maketh them also to skip like a calf; Lebanon and Sirion like a young unicorn,

The voice of the Lord divideth the flames of fire.

The voice of the Lord shaketh the wilderness; the Lord shaketh the wilderness of Kadesh.

What A Baby Costs.

(Detroit Free Press.) How much do babies cost?' said he.

The other night upon my knee, And then I said, "They cost a lot; A lot of watching by a cot, A lot of sleepless hours and care, A lot of headache and despair, A lot of fear and trying dread, And sometimes many tears are shed In payment for our babies small, But they are really worth it all.

For babies people have to pay A heavy price from day to day; There is no way to get one cheap. asleep,

You have to get up in the night And go and see that they're all right. But what they cost in constant care And worry does not half compare With what they bring of joy and bliss, You'd pay much more for just a kiss.

Who buys a baby has to pay A portion of the bill each day; He has to give his time and thought Unto the little one he's bought; He has to stand a lot of rain Inside his heart and not complain, And pay with lonely days and sad For all the happy hours he's had All this a baby costs, and yet, His smile is worth it air, you bet.

ing and assessment. There is no means of judging the future except by assess ing the past. Constructive action must be wieghed against destructive comment and reaction.'

Mr. Wilson asserted that the Repub-Mean party was put out of power because of practical and moral failure. Because it had served special interests and not the country at large. Banking reform, the interests of the farmer and the army and navy had been neglected. Set Free to Move.

"So things stood when the Democratic party came into power. do they stand now? Alike in the do mestic field and in the wide field of the commerce of the world, American business and life and industry have been set free to move as they never

"The tariff has been revised not on the principle of repelling foreign trade, but upon the principle of encouraging it upon something like a footing of equality with our own in respect of the terms of competition, and a tariff board has been created whose function it will be to keep the relations of American with foreign business and industry under constant observation guidance alike of our business men and of our congress. American energies are now directed toward the markets of the world.

"The laws against trusts have been clarified by definition with a view to making it plain that they were not directed against big business, but only against unfair business and the pretense of competition where there was none, and a trade commission has been created with powers of guidance and accommodation which have relieved business men of unfounded fears and set them upon the road of hopeful and confident enterprise.

"By the federal reserve act the supply of currency at the disposal of active business has been rendered elastic taking its volume not from a fixed body of investment securities, but from the liquid assets of daily trade and these assets are assessed and ac cepted not by distant groups of bankers in control of unavailable reserves but by bankers at the many centers of local exchange who are in touch with local conditions everywhere.

"Effective measures have been taken for the re-creation of an American chant marine and the revival o the American carrying trade indispen ble to our emancipation from the trol which foreigners have so long cised over the opportunities, the routes, and the methods of our com merce with other countries.

"The interstate commerce commission has been reorganized to enable it to perform its great and important functions more promptly and more efficiently. We have created, extended and improved the service of the parcels post. So much we have done for business. What other party has understood the task so well or executed it have virtually created commercia; credit by means of the federal reserve act and the rural credits act. They now have the standing of other business men in the money market. We have successfully regulated speculation in "futures" and established standards in the marketing of grains. By an intelligent warehouse act we have assisted to make the standard crops available as never before both for systematic marketing and as a security for loans from the "The workingmen of America bave been given a veritable emancipation by the legal recognition of a man's labor as part of his life and not a mere marketable commodity: by exempting labor organizations from processes of the courts, which treated their members like fractional parts of mobs and not like accessible and responsible inquviduals; by releasing our seamen from involuntary servitude; by making ade quate provision for compensation for Industrial accidents; by providing suitable machinery for mediation and conciliation in industrial disputes and by putting the federal department of labor at the disposal of the workingman when in search of work.

"We have effected the emancipation of the children of the country by releasing them from hurtful labor. We have instituted a system of national aid in the building of highroads such an the country has been feeling after for a century. We have sought to equalize taxation by means of an equitable inome tax. We have taken the stens that ought to have been taken at the outset to open up the resources of Alaska. We have provided for national defense upon a scale never before seriously proposed upon the responsibility of an entire political party. We have driven the tariff lobby from cover and obliged it to substitute solid argument for private influence.

"This extraordinary recital must sound like a platform, a list of sanguine promises, but it is not. It is a ecord of promises made four years and and now actually redeemed in constructive legislation. We have in four years come very near to carrying out the platform of the Progressive party as well as our own, for we also are progressives.'

This program, Mr. Wilson declared. was resisted at every step by interests which the Republican party had fostered at the expense of the country, interests which had fought the reform of the banking and currency system and which were now planning for the amendment of the federal reserve act titled to attempt their liberty from by the concentration of control in a single bank which the "old familiar group of bankers" can keep under their eye and direction. But while the "big men" who used to write the tariffs and ling in their way. It is hard doctrine command the assistance of the treasury have been hostile-all but a few thing for themselves out of Mexico. They still select its candidates and dictate its policy, he said.

Foreign Affairs.

Concerning foreign affairs, we have been neutral because it was the traditional policy of the United States to stand aloof from European politics, Mr. Wilson declared. Property rights of our citizens can be vindicated by claims for damages, but the fundamental rights of humanity cannot be: "The loss of life is irreparable. Neither can direct violations of a nation's sovereignty await vindication in suits for damages. The nation that violates these essential rights must expect to be checked and called to account by direct challenge and resistance. It at once makes the quarrel in part our own. These are plain principles, and we have never lost sight of them or departed from them. The passions and intrigues of certain active groups and combinations of men among us who were born under foreign flags injected poison of disloyalty into our ow most critical affairs, laid violent hands upon many of our industries and subjected us to the shame of divisions of sentiment and purpose in which America was contemned and forgotten. It is part of the business of this year of reckoning and settlement to speak plainly and act with unmistakable purpose in rebuke of these things in order that they may be forever hereafter impossible. I am the candidate of a parbut I am above all things else an American citizen. I neither seek the favor nor fear the displeasure of that small alien element among us which puts loyalty to any foreign power be fore loyalty to the United States."

The Mexican Trouble.

Concerning Mexico the president stated that we believed that small and weak states have the right to expect to be dealt with exactly as big and powerful states would be. Our recent pursuit of bandits into Mexican territory was no violation of that principle. We ventured to enter Mexican territory only because there were no military forces in Mexico that could protect our border from hostile attack and our own people from violence.

Many serious wrongs against the property, many irreparable wrongs against the persons of Americans have been committed . within the territory of Mexico herself during this confused revolution, but we could not act directly in that matter ourselves without denying Mexicans the right to any revolution at all which disturbed us and making the emancipation of her own people await our interest and convenience.

"The people of Mexico have not been suffered to own their own country or direct their own institutions. Outsiders, men out of other nations and with interests too often allen to their own. have dictated what their privileges and opportunities should be and who should control their land, their lives and their resources—some of them Americans, pressing for things they could never have got in their own country. The Mexican people are ensuch influences, and so long as I have anything to do with the action of our great government I shall do everything in my power to prevent any one standonly for those who wish to get someadairs of Mexico. Certainly no friend of the Mexican people has proposed it.

The "Unspeakable Huerta."

"The people of Mexico are striving for the rights that are fundamental to life and happiness-15,000,000 oppressed men, overburdened women and pitiful children in virtual bondage in their own home of fertile lands and inexhaustible treasure. Some of the leaders of the revolution may often have been mistaken and violent and selfish, but the revolution itself was inevitable and is right. The unspeakable Huerta betrayed the very comrades he served, traitorously overthrew the government of which he was a trusted part, impudently spoke for the very forces that had driven his people to the re-bellion with which he had pretended to sympathize. The men who overcame him and drove him out represent at least the flerce passion of reconstruction which lies at the very heart of liberty, and so long as they struggle for deliverance I am ready to serve their ends when I can. So long as the power of recognition rests with me the government of the United States will refuse to extend the hand of welcome to any one who obtains power in a sister republic by treachery and violence. No permanency can be given the affairs of any republic by a title based upon intrigue and assassination. Mistakes I have no doubt made in this perplexing business, but not in purpose or object."

To Play a Leading Part.

The president declared that we must be prepared both in resources and in policy to play our part when Europe's war is over. There must be a just and settled peace, and the nations of the world must unite in joint guarantees that whatever is done to disturb the whole world's life must first be tested in the court of the whole world's opinlon before it is attempted.

"We have created in the federal trade commission a means of inquiry and of accommodation in the field of commerce which ought both to coordinate the enterprises of our traders and manufacturers and to remove the barriers of misunderstanding and of a too technical interpretation of the law. In the new tariff commission we have added another instrumentality of observation and adjustment which promises to be immediately serviceable. The tride commission substitutes counsel and accommodation for the barsher processes of legal restraint, and the tariff commission ought to substitute facts for prejudices and theories. "We can no longer indulge our traditional provincialism. We are to play a leading part in the world drama whether we wish it or not. We shall lend, net borrow; act for ourselves, not imitate or follow; organize and initiate. not peep about merely to see where we may get in. "We have already formulated and agreed upon a policy of law which will explicitly remove the ban now supposed to rest upon co-operation among our exporters in seeking and securing their proper place in the markets of the world. At home we have put all kinds of unfair competition under the ban and penalty of the law. We have barred monopoly. We ought both to husband and to develop our natural resources, our mines, our forests, our water power.

"We must hearten and quicken the knows that he has been delivered un-less the party that consulted only the United States with the internal out our whole industrial system by

In conclusion Mr. Wilson said that he had sought to interpret the spirit and meaning of the St. Louis platform. and that the people knew that that mother, nine sisters and three platform was a defulte pledge which brothers to mourn her loss would be kept. The day of little Americanism, with its narrow horiand industrial nursing were the chief | was witnessed by the largest study of our provincial statesmen, was Sorrowing congregation in atpast and gone.

"We are Americans for big America when all mankind shall look upon our admiration, friendly rivalry and real affection as upon a people who, though keen to succeed, seeks always to be at once generous and just and to whom humanity is dearer than profit or selfish power. Upon this record and in the faith of this purpose we go to the country."
