EDISON AND FORD ENLIST TOGETHER TO AID WILSON.

Both Republicans, Who Say Fate of America is in Trust-worthy Hands

New York—Thomas A. Edison and Henry Ford, arm in arm, walked into the office of Chairman Vance C. McCormick at Democratic national headquarters today. They wanted to find out how they could best direct their efforts to insure Wilson's reelection. Mr. McCormick has invited them to do so, and they took him at his word. The two went to luncheon with the chairman and Secretary of the Navy Daniels, and conferred, particularly with regard to methods of reaching the independent voters of the country.

"Give the people the facts," declared Mr. Edison, "and it will be a landslide. No President ever faced such problems, no president ever made such records of achievements. It is not alone that Woodrow Wilson has statesmanship, he has leadership, too. I have always been a republican, but I put my country above party. In a world crisis, with the fate of America in the balance, I would take shame to myself if I did not put myself behind a man who has given us peace with honor, prosperity with justice and preparedness without militarism."

Edison was no less emphatic. "Like Mr. Edison," he said, "I am a republican, but I cannot stay with a party that puts office seeking first and America last. President Wilson has saved the United States from the horrors and desolation of International war. He has saved us from industrial wreck. His domestic policies have given new strength to legitimate enterprises, protected the worker, emancipated the children and destroyed evils that were sapping the courage of America. He is a great President. More than that, he is the greatest American."

TRAGIC DEATH OF YOUNG MAN

Wm. Walter Asher, Age Twenty-Three, Killed in Auto Accident in Atlanta, Ga.

Marion was genuinely grieved Monday when a telegram was received by Judge Asher from his son Curtis from Atlanta, Ga., conveying the shocking intelligence that Willie Asher Judge Asher's second son had been so seriously hurt in an automobile accident Sunday that he died next day. The remains were brought here arriving on the 3 o'clock train Tuesday afternoon and were met by a large gathering of the friends of the young man. The funeral was preached at the residence and the interment was in the new cemetery in the Asher lot.

The floral offerings were beautiful and abundant attesting the esteem in which young Asher was held. He was born April 19th, 1894 at Shady Grove in this County and was there fore in his 23 year. He was a fine young man and professed faith at a revival at the Baptist church a few years ago. He attended the Baptist Sunday school and church when he lived here, only a short time ago he went to join his brother Curtis who is in business in Atlanta, Ga., and it was there he met his tragic death, in an automobile accident.

He never regained consciousness after the accident and lived only a few hours. The aged father, sisters and brothers have the sympathy of all in their bereavement.

Greeted By A Large And Interested Audience At The Opera House.

Senator J. C. W. Senator Beckham arrived at noon from Princeton where he spoke Wednesday. He was introduced by Judge C. S. Nunn in a few well chosen words.

Senator Beckham, in his characteristic way, dealt with the issues one by one; considering them all slowly and carefully. He moved gradually into the interest of his address, handling problems with a grip that impressed his hearers.

Senator Beckham made one of

Allied Transport Sunk 700 Troops Are Missing.

Paris, Oct. 17.—The steamship Gallia, an auxiliary cruiser, carrying 2,000 Serb-an and French soldiers, was torpedoed and sunk on October 4 by a submarine. Thirteen hundred men, picked up by a French cruiser and landed in boats on the southern coast of Sardinia, have been accounted for.

The Gallia was a 15,100 ton steamship, 574 feet long and 64 feet of beam. She was built in the Seine in 1913 and owned by the Compagnie de Navigation sud Atlantique, of Bordeaux. She was one of the largest vessels sunk by submarines during the war, having been only 700 tons smaller than the White Star liner Arabic.

The Gallia's recent movements have not been disclosed, as she was in Government service. Early this year Serbian troops were taken to Bizerta, Tunis, which is south of Sardinia. The Gallia may have been on her way from Tunis with troops for the Macedonian front.

Stop The First Cold

A cold does not get well of itself. The process of wearing out a cold wears you out, and your cough becomes serious if neglected. Hacking coughs drains the energy and saps the vitality. For 47 years the happy combination of soothing antiseptic balsams in Dr. King's New Discovery has healed coughs and relieved congestion. Young and old can testify to the effectiveness of Dr. King's New Discovery for coughs and colds. Buy a bottle today at your Druggist, 50c.

GOT IN WRONG EITHER WAY

Mr. Homebody "Called Down" When He Took Notice, and "Roasted" When He Didn't.

"Why are you looking at me like that?" Mrs. Homebody inquired of her husband, according to the Brooklyn Times.

"What have you been doing to your hair? It looks different," said Mr. Homebody, who had just come in. His wife put down the book she had been reading, and released a sigh.

"Goodness gracious!" she exclaimed, "can't a body do a little thing like fixing hair without being stared out of countenance and put through the third degree? I haven't been doing a thing to my hair. I was simply in a hurry this afternoon and piled a little more or less on the sides; that's all. I didn't suppose it was conspicuous. Gracious! I'm all out of breath explaining. You notice every little thing."

Mr. Homebody extricated himself by saying it "looked nice" and let it go at that.

A week later Mrs. Homebody went to the hairdresser's, and when that deft person had finished with her she regarded herself in the mirror with justifiable satisfaction. That evening, at dinner, under the soft glow of the shaded light pleasantly enhanced the hairdresser's art, friend husband, sitting opposite, said never a word.

Mrs. Homebody stood it as long as she could.

"Of what use is it," she said finally, "to try to look one's best in this house? Ever since you sat down I've been waiting for you to say something, but I suppose I might wait till doomsday. Don't you notice my hair? Doesn't it look different?"

Mr. Homebody stopped eating and looked, but, manlike, he overdid it.

"Have you got to gaze at me as long as that to make sure?" asked Mrs. Homebody; "why, I should think you could have told in half a second. I really believe I could come to dinner in a powdered wig and you'd look squarely at me all through the meal and say nothing to show that you saw. You never notice a thing."

"I'm sorry, dear," said Mr. Homebody; "I did notice that your hair looked different, but—"

"But, if I hadn't spoken, you'd have kept it to yourself," was the way his wife finished the sentence. "Good gracious, don't you know that a woman likes a man to be observant and to tell her when he takes notice?"

First Persian Newspaper.

The first copy of what purports to be the first Persian newspaper in the world has just been issued in New York under the title of the "Persian American Courier." The only cause for astonishment in this connection is that no such publication has appeared heretofore in the greater city. Practically every other nationality, language, and dialect is represented by the New York press, inclusive of Lettish, Finnish, Plattdeutsch, Slovakian, Slovene, Croat, and Arabic. The editor of this latest comer says that he has struggled with the four hundred and four small and four hundred and four capital letters of the Persian alphabet and reduced them to the dimensions of a Linotype keyboard, which finally made his publication possible. Seeing that there are about six Arabic newspapers in town and that the Arabic and Persian alphabets are closely related, the editor, at any rate, had several models by following which his work must have been greatly expedited.—New York Evening Post.

Too Popular.

The "Full" signs which are to be put on the Baltimore street cars recall the story told some years ago by a man of that city who visited Paris, but who was acquainted with no tongue but his own. He related to a friend how he made a point of going to all the points around the city, but one he never succeeded in getting to. He was the more determined to go because it was evidently a very popular place as every car going there was loaded to its capacity. But none would stop for him in spite of continued waiting and signaling. "And so," he concluded, "I never got there."

"What was the place?" asked the friend. "The sign on the cars was 'Complet,'" replied the disappointed one, "but I've never seen Complet yet." And he understood why when his friend explained, after a somewhat explosive smile, that "Complet" signified only that the car was full, and was not allowed to take on more passengers.

Opening for a Typesetter.

It will surprise some, but not those who know the craft, to be informed that among all the vast company that inhabit Sing Sing prison, one of New York's big penitentiaries, there is not a single Mergenthaler operator, or Linotype of any other sort. This is more than could be said of a good many other trades—for Sing Sing is noted for its democratic atmosphere, and it forbids no one entrance within its walls because of the nature of his previous employment—Portland Oregonian.

Fascination of Scarcity.

"I have no doubt that in a short time this country will have plenty of dyestuffs."

"I hope so," replied Mr. Growcher. "When the women find that dyestuffs are abundant, no doubt they'll discard this riot of colors and wear plain black and white."

"Goodies!"

"—goodies that just melt in your mouth—light, fluffy, tender cakes, biscuits and doughnuts that just keep you hanging round the pantry—all made with Calumet—the safest, purest, most economical baking powder. Try it—drive away bake-day failures."

Received Highest Awards
New York World
For City in Food Con.

Cheap and big can Baking Powders do not save you money. Calumet does—it's Pure and far superior to sour milk and soda.

Fifty Years of Barbarous Banking.

The old system was a rank panic breeder. When the prospect was brightest and the hum of industry would literally heard throughout the land, two links in the chain would suddenly snap, tearing to shreds the whole business fabric and carrying dismay to every community on the continent.

The first notable financial achievement of the Wilson administration was to revolutionize this wretched currency system, the unhappy victims of which are without number and the losses beyond human approximation. They affected not alone the financial institutions immediately involved, but the merchants whose credits were suspended; the industries whose shops were closed; the railroads whose cars were made idle; the farmers whose crops rotted in the fields; the laborer who was deprived of his wage. No business enterprise, if any individual, ever entirely escaped.

IS ALWAYS USEFUL

PERPETUAL CALENDAR MAKES A DAINY PRESENT.

Serviceable and Decorative Little Article May Easily Be Made in Odd Moments—Complete Directions for Its Construction.

A perpetual calendar always forms a useful possession. We give a sketch of a dainty and decorative little article of this description that can be easily made in odd moments. A circular piece of stiff card five inches in diameter is cut out, and in the upper part a circular hole is cut away and in the lower part a long slit. This is shown in diagram A on the right of the illustration. The card is covered in front with pale pink and at the back with linen. It is edged with silk cord and the floral design which appears upon the silk consists of three white blossoms and leaves worked in various shades of green.

For suspending the calendar from a nail in the wall, a loop of ribbon with a rosette bow at the top is attached to the upper part, and at the points where the ends of the ribbon are sewn on there are two more rosettes.

Diagram B shows the way the back of the calendar is arranged. Behind each opening a pocket is sewn on, and into these pockets cards can be slipped bearing numbers and the names of the months. Both sides of the cards can be used and it is an easy matter to turn round the calendar and alter the date each day.

FOR LAST DAYS OF SUMMER

Popular Costumes Before the Fall Attire Has Been Decided On and Definitely Donned.

Most popular among the young girls, for the summer's ending, are either skirts of white, pale blue or pale pink and mauve flannel, both with and without round, white pearl buttons and patch pockets, made very short length, showing stockings to match. With these are worn finely frilled blouses of matching color, felt hats also the same color, and worn or carried with these costumes are closely knitted silk scarfs in purple and white, gray or black. The slimmest of most of the younger set allows them to wear and set off to advantage slip-on sweaters of loosely knitted wool, in colors of gray, old rose and lavender, white, blue and pink. Some of these are sleeveless and many are held in at the waistline by a single piece of wool tied in a bow in the center front; this must be renewed each time the sweater is worn. Many short red flannel jackets are being worn with white cotton skirts and black sailor hats.

Glazed Kid.

Woman would wear anything in the way of footwear that would make her foot, instep and ankle look as alluring as the glazed kid boot, with its high-buttoned or laced top, its dashing lines and its graceful Louis heel. These boots come in various shades of tan, fawn, gray, gunmetal, dull blue, green and coffee brown. Other shades may be ordered to match special costumes. Sometimes two shades are combined, and many charming boots have vamp of dark-colored glazed kid with tops of washable white kid.

Citron a Modish Shade.

Citron is the shade of shades in Paris just now. It is a grayish-green tan with which a certain pinkish-yellow harmonizes smartly and one sees much of this salmon pink also on young women—to the middle-aged it is sadly trying. Citron tops of gabardine are accompanied by little hats of salmon pink silk, and black straw sailors are banded with citron crepe, a tiny salmon pink flower resting against the brim in front.

Paquin Wrap of Rose Taffeta.

A Paquin wrap is of the "Thann" red taffeta, a new shade of rose. The brown velvet collar is like those brought out by Premet during the last season, trimmed with embroidery in front and back. The wrap is smoked in the back directly below the collar and has a reticella and fringe of beads at the sides. The hem is of small gold beads.

Remedy for Feet Burning.

Buy five cents' worth of tannin at the drug store, put it into an empty powder box. Shake a little into your stocking every few days and you will soon forget you were ever troubled with burning feet.

RELIEVE HEADACHES WITHOUT DOSING

By Applying Sloan's Liniment to Forehead You Can Stop The Severe Pains.

Many headaches are of a neuralgic origin. The symptoms of such headaches are intense and lingering pains in the brow, temples or back of the head.

There is one certain relief that has been known and recommended for years back, Sloan's Liniment. One application and the dull pain is practically gone. It is easily applied without rubbing. Rubbing is unnecessary, as Sloan's Liniment quickly penetrates to the seat of trouble.

Aching muscles, rheumatism, bruises, lumbago, chilblains sprains and stiff neck can also be most effectively treated with Sloan's Liniment. Cleaner than musky plasters or ointments; it does not stain the skin or clog the pores.

At all drug stores, 25c, 50c., $1.00.

Answer To Hugher And Eefense Of Wilson's Mexican Policy.

If our speculators in Mexico suffer pecuniary loss as the result of recurring revolutions, that is a matter for future consideration when stable government and peace are fully established in that country. It is no warrant for shedding the blood of Americans. To sacrifice the life of one soldier for all of the dollars in investors or speculators have ventured in Mexico would be the supremest criminal folly. President Wilson is dealing with it as best he can. We may not entirely agree that his course is better than that of his distinguished predecessor, nevertheless we should endeavor to uphold his hand. It is not an hour for either little politics or sensational journalism. The clamor of the jingoes should not be allowed to drown the voice of rational, deliberate statesmanship.—Vice-Presidential Candidate Fairbanks in August, 1913.

Pat Harrison.

President Wilson Accepting The Nomination For The Presidency.

We hope to see the stimulus of that new day draw all America, the republics of both continents, on to a new life and energy and initiative in the great affairs of peace. We are Americans for Big America, and rejoice to look forward to the days in which America shall strive to stir the world without irritating it or drawing it on to new antagonisms, when the nations with which we deal shall at last come to see upon what deep foundations of humanity and justice our passion for peace rests, and when all mankind shall look upon our great people with a new sentiment of admiration, friendly rivalry and real affection, as upon a people who, though keen to succeed, seeks always to be it once generous and just and to whom humanity is dearer than profit or selfish power.

Upon this record and in the faith of this purpose we go to the country.

Russian Losses Total Million And Half, Berlin Thinks.

Berlin, Oct. 18.—Casualties among the Russian armies during this year's offensive on the Eastern front, according to cautious calculations, says the Overseas News Agency, have been at least 1,250,000 officers and men.

According to conservative Danish Calculation, the News Agency adds, Russia during the first two years of the war lost considerably more than 6,000,000 men. Wounded men who returned to the front are not included in this estimate. Continuing the Overseas News Agency says.

The prophecy of David Lloyd-George, the British Secretary of War, that Russia will fight until death is now about to be realized literally. The Russian losses in Galicia recently again reached gigantic figures, which even this populous country cannot bear.

Russian artillery fires indiscriminately among the troops in order to push them forward and shoots down troops which are retreating. In the battle of Korytniza, which was victorious for the Germans, Russian columns were driven forward by a curtain to fire and whips. Entire Russian waves of men fell under the German artillery and machine gun fire. Dead bodies formed in mountains. After the losses sustained by the Russian Emperor's guards on the Stock-had River and in the sanguinary engagements at Pustomyty and Korytniza nothing remained of the Emperor's guards.

YOUNG WOMEN MAY AVOID PAIN

Need Only Trust to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, says Mrs. Kurtzweg.

Buffalo, N.Y.—"My daughter, whose picture is herewith, was much troubled with pains in her back and sides every month and they would sometimes be so bad that it would seem like acute inflammation of some organ. She read your advertisement in the newspapers and tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She praiseth it highly as she has been relieved of all these pains by its use. All mothers should know of this remedy, and all young girls who suffer should try it."—Mrs. MATILDA KURTZWEIG, 529 High St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Young women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands have been restored to health by this root and herb remedy.

If you know of any young woman who is sick and needs help, advise her to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Only women will receive her letter, and it will be held in strictest confidence.

Goblin Cures George.

"A little boy named George," said Daddy, "was very ill. He had not told his Mother he felt Sick and wretched because he was afraid she might give him some horrid Medicine, so he went to Bed without saying a word. "He felt as though he had been in Bed for hours and as if he would never go to sleep when suddenly a little Goblin hopped on his window sill, peeped around the curtain, and said: "Good Evening. May I come in?" "Who are you?" asked George. "I am the Goblin who looks after Little Sick Boys—when they have your kind of sickness. The only trouble is that I can't see half the little Boys I want to—for I can only go at night-time when they're sleeping, and there isn't time for my rounds. I do believe I shall have to get some Assistant Workers," and the Goblin looked puzzled.

"You're a Goblin?" gasped George. "To be sure," said the Goblin. "Why," continued George, "I thought they were terrible looking creatures." "Ha, ha," laughed the Goblin. "You make just the same mistake that so many Boys and Girls do. You see I am not terrible at all. In fact I am very nice and I cure Little Boys and Girls of their pains."

"Are you a Doctor Goblin, then?" asked George. "No," smiled the Goblin. "Doctors and I really need have nothing to do with each other. Doctors should only be called in when Little Girls and Boys are really, really Sick and not when they're only pretending."

"I'm not pretending," said George, almost in tears. "I feel just as sick as can be."

"Nothing to brag about, is it?" asked the Goblin. "No-o," said George.

"And why are you Sick?" asked the Goblin. "I don't know," said George. For surely, he thought to himself, the Goblin couldn't know what he had been doing in the daytime—and George did know, perfectly well, why he was Sick.

"Did you enjoy those candies?" asked the Goblin, and George looked quite uneasy.

"I don't know," said George. "I suppose it is hard to make up your mind now whether you liked them or not—since they have made you Sick."

"Oh dear, oh dear," cried George, who had thought he was going to have fun with the Goblin, and he hid his head under the bed clothes in shame.

"You see," continued the Goblin, "you were getting into the habit of really making a little Piggie of yourself! You were getting too fat and lazy. You didn't like to play Ball with the Boys nearly so much as you once did. Isn't that true?" And George, who had stuck his head out of the bed clothes again, nodded.

"And some of the Boys were beginning to call you 'Rolly Polly George,' weren't they? And they were telling you that soon you'd be able to join the Circus as the Fat Boy? It wasn't very kind of them perhaps, but it was true, eh?" And the Goblin grinned.

"Yes," was all George could say. "And last of all, when you ate that whole layer of chocolates in the box that was hidden in the pantry, you thought you were having a great feast. Until—until—until—"

"Oh I know," said George. "I felt dreadfully Sick—b-b-better now. Don't scold me any more, please."

"I won't," said the Goblin. "I visit Little Boys and Girls because I know you want to get Sick—and how long time you don't know that—your sweeties are very, very bad for you, and that you'll grow fat and lazy and no one will care for you when it comes play time."

"It'll be good—and not a Piggie any more!" said George. "I did feel so Sick—and I don't want to be the Fat Boy in the Circus. I want to stay Home and play with my Friends!"

"And you will!" said the Goblin. "Tomorrow morning you'll be all right—but first of all—tonight we're going to take you for a sail in our airboat just to show you that Goblins are really nice creatures after all!"

"And several weeks later, George was so well and so strong and quick in the Games that he was made Captain of his Baseball Team!"

The New York World hits the bull's eye when it says. The Republican national campaign is based upon two theories. First, that the American people are fools, and second, that money can elect a President. They are working both overtime, but they are sure to gnaw a file. Intelligence is not entirely confined to the Republican party nor are the people as corrupt as they imagine. They are for Woodrow Wilson and can give reason for the faith that is in them.

The Income Tax.

Senator Gore, the blind man eloquent, said at Hopkinsville, that the Democrats had passed a dozen laws, any one of which would have immortalized the Republican party, and in praising the income tax law, passed by a Democratic congress said, If you wish to take the load from the back of Dives and put it on the back of Lazarus vote for Hughes. The latter's opposition to the income tax law and his objection to have the rich pay their proportion of the burden of taxation, seems to warrant the belief that in the event of his election the law which is taking millions from the rich for the support of the government will be repealed. The success of the Democratic party insures that wealth will continue to be taxed as it should.

Crittenden Co., School Fair, Here Saturday, Oct. 28th

Marion, Ky., Oct. 19, 1916.

DEAR FRIEND:

The County School Fair will be held at Marion, on Saturday, Oct. 28th. Our Fair, last year, was a success beyond the expectation of everyone connected, in more ways than one. This year, I find better work in the Division Fairs on almost every item of the program, more enthusiasm and better attendance. I believe the County Fair has its place as a promoter of interest and education in the schools of the County as much so as the Agriculture and Stock Fairs have on the farming interests of the country. The children in one end of the county will see that those in the other end can do things as well as they, besides, they will be encouraged to do better work by having successfully completed with those from another part of the county. Give them a chance and encourage them to prepare some article of the long list on the program for exhibition. If you cannot prepare a general exhibit come and bring your whole school with you, as many as you can get to come. We are going to try to make the entertainment better, and plans more complete than we had last year. If you will do your part we will make this one of the best days the school children of the county have ever had. Below is program and next week will appear a list of the premiums offered.

Yours Very Truly, E. J. Travis, Supt.

WAR WITH HUGHES, OR PEACE WITH WILSON.

Should the American people repudiate President Wilson at the polls next month, they may take it for granted that the German Government will repudiate its submarine pledges to the President.

A resumption of ruthless submarine warfare on the part of Germany means a severance of diplomatic relations, and a severance of those relations will in all probability result in war.

There is no escape from the logic of the situation.

Do the American people want peace with Wilson, or war with Hughes? They must decide that question for themselves Nov. 7.

Ambassador Gerard has returned to the United States to give information to the Government of the submarine menace that is again hanging over the Nation. The situation in Germany was vividly described in a wireless dispatch printed in "The World" yesterday from a staff correspondent who accompanied Mr. Gerard home. Mr. Swope's reports are confirmed by cablegrams from Amsterdam which state that the advocates of the Tirpitz policy now claim a majority of the Reichstag.

Germany is watching the Presidential contest in the United States as a keen and interested partisan. How keen and how interested that Partisanism may be estimated from these paragraphs of Mr. Swope's dispatch:

The defeat of President Wilson on Nov. 7 would be greeted in the German Empire as a gigantic German victory, and I was told by Cabinet members and business men, soldiers and professors, that flags would be hung out of every window in Germany in honor of the occasion.

This feeling is predicated first upon the intense desire to smash President Wilson for his alleged unneutral attitude toward Germany, and second, upon the belief that Germany has much to expect from Mr. Hughes. There is no pretense at concealing the fact that Mr. Hughes is the choice of Germany for the American Presidency, and there is no successful cloak-ing the belief—although the effort is made to cover it—that Germany has much to gain as a recompense for its support of the Republican candidate.

It is a matter of record that pretended American organizations in Germany have raised money for propaganda work (in which Germany is still a fond believer) for Hughes in America, and the report is freely circulated in Berlin that St. John Gaffney, the discredited former Consul General at Munich, took with him money to use in supporting Hughes among the American Irish and Catholics.

If President Wilson is beaten, the Germans will have a right to regard it as "a gigantic German victory" and to decorate their windows with flags. From their point of view, the President's defeat will imply the utter rejection of his foreign policy by the American people, with all that such rejection means to the German mind. Moreover, it will be done by German votes in the publicly avowed purpose of destroying the President politically for offending Germany.

Officially Germany may not know what Mr. Hughes will do, but it will know that the President has been defeated, and by the German vote, that Mr. Hughes will be without power until March 4 and the Government of the United States will be adrift. To assume that the Imperial Government will not take the fullest advantage of its opportunity is to assume that the German war eagle has become a dove. The appearance of German war submarines in the Western Atlantic has aroused a great apprehension and anxiety in the United States and awakened the American people to a realization of the important fact that the submarine issue is not dead. It has been quiescent for months, but suddenly it takes on new life both here and in Germany.

As the fortunes of war shift against the Teutonic powers on the eastern and western fronts, German public sentiment in favor of a resumption of ruthless submarine methods is certain to become more and more insistent. Whether the Imperial Government yields or not will depend more upon the action of the American people than upon the agitation of the German people. If the Wilson Administration is defeated, if the American people play partisan politics in the midst of the greatest crisis of modern civilization, if they prove themselves unstable and shifting in dealing with the issues growing out of this crisis, Germany will take the fullest advantage of it. No German Government could survive the wrath of the German people if it acted otherwise.

It is for the American people to say whether they will deliberately destroy the continuity of their Administration and their foreign policy at a time like this. It is for them to say whether they will capriciously open the door to war and invite the full consequences. If they do not stand by their President, they cannot expect that Germany will stand by its pledges. If they change, they must expect Germany to change, and a change by Germany is the first step toward war. Is that what the people of the United States want? The issue rests with them, and with them alone.—New York World.

Leave Open Doors.

Life is long. Most of us live along together. When you trade so trade that you can trade with that man again. Leave open doors. The shifty man who shuts doors against himself soon finds all doors closed and no way o.—Kinney.

WALL STREET'S WAY.

In 1908, Wall Street was extremely anxious to bring about the election of William Howard Taft to the Presidency. It felt that with him in the White House and such guiding spirits as Senators Aldrich, Penrose, Gallinger, Smoot, Uncle Joe Cannon, Mr. Payne and Mr. Mann in charge of the two branches of Congress, its interests would be entirely safe. That The Street was right, the next four years proved conclusively. It was four years of typical Republican prosperity, the kind that Wall Street had become accustomed to, the kind that limited itself to Wall Street and Wall Street's collateral interests, and let the country get along as best it could.

Wall Street was, therefore, liberal in its contributions.

Take the "House of Morgan," for instance. In the list of contributions to the Taft campaign fund, J. P. Morgan & Co., appear as having given $150,000, surely a tidy sum. But that was only part of the Morgan contribution. The house had as partners George W. Perkins, Robert Bacon and E. T. Stotesbury. Mr. Perkins added to the above sum $260,000. Mr. Stotesbury raised $125,750 and Mr. Bacon dropped in $10,000. These sums added to what the House gave directly, make the thrilling total of $550,750—from one firm and its associates alone.

Living under the shadow of The Street are the railroad interests. They and some of their methods had been and were being criticized, and even, in a way supervised and regulated in certain parts of the country. Behind Mr. Taft and a Republican congress they felt they could defy the growing movement against themselves and their operations. Hence they, too, hastened to the aid of the Republican National Committee.

With $200,000 from E. H. Harriman, $100,000 each from George Gould and Chauncey Depew, the big railroad interests put up a total of $500,000; lesser lights contributing lesser sums.

The Wall Street bankers such as Isaac N. Seligman, James Speyer and the Kountzes; together with Standard Oil and United States Steel gave a total of $229,500.

Merchants and manufacturers looking with the eye single to favorable tariff legislation headed by John Chaffin, $5,000; William Barbour, $6,000, and Joseph Gordon, $3,000; came across handsomely.

Crossland Murphy Dies at Rosiclaire Ill., Interment At Hurricane Sunday

The people of Marion and the County were sorry to learn of the death of Crossland Murphy, which occurred at Rosi Claire, Ill. last Wednesday morning, Oct. 11. This splendid young man was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Murphy of the Crooked Creek neighborhood and was born and spent most of his life in this country. He had a peculiar tact of making friends and those that knew him will sympathize with his bereaved ones in their great loss.

Crossland was a young man of noble bearing and pleasing personality and always had a kind word for every body. He always had a pleasant smile and a kindly greeting for those he met; he was always glad to offer a word of encouragement to those who needed it and ready to lend a helping hand to those less fortunate. Of him it might be truly said that "he ministered to man" he never let an opportunity pass when he could do something to make the burden of someone else lighter and he is today beginning to reap the reward in that land where pain and sorrow and death never come.

He is survived by his wife, his parents and two sisters, Margaret and Mrs. Eb Gilbert. His remains were laid to rest in the Hurricane Cemetery Thursday, Oct. 12 after funeral services by Rev. Alexander Royster. He was born March 28, 1895 and was therefore in his thirty second year. About his last words were a testimony that he was looking forward with eager anticipation to the moment when the summons should come to call him to that land of eternal joy. The Record-Press extends its sincere sympathy to the bereaved ones in this sad hour.

A New Ruling.

A new ruling of the post office department makes it necessary for the sender of a piece of mail to be more careful in writing the address. In the future all states must be spelled out instead of abbreviated. When that is done there will be no danger of sending Colorado mail to California, or vice versa on account of the Col. and Cal. This order has been issued with the view in mind of cutting down the amount of mail that has been landed in the dead letter office. Thousands of letters are missent every year because the sender is careless in addressing the letters.

DANGERS REAL AND FANCIED.

The average woman will scream with terror at the sight of an innocent little mouse, and then complacently sit down and suffer in silence with diseases that are destroying her youth, her beauty, her very life.
She will uncomplainingly suffer herself to the worse and miseries of female troubles, which are to be dreaded a thousand times more than a tiny mouse. It is gratifying to know that untold numbers of women are being restored to perfect vigor and strength
by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It benefits uterine disorders.
The exact name of the disease doesn't amount to a row of pins. If it is in the womanly organs, "Favorite Prescription" will hunt it out and benefit it.
It can be a drain, a pain, an inflammation, an irregularity or a weakness, and this medicine will act as a true tonic and help restore the organs to healthy action. It prepares the girl to become a woman, the wife to become a mother, the middle-aged to pass the "turn of life" in safety. It is not a "cure-all" but a medicine for women only, and is the prescription of Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., the world-famed specialist in the treatment of disorders of women. Any reader of this paper may consult Dr. Pierce free by mail.

Corington, Ky.—"I had 'Favorite Prescription' recommended to me. I had to overcome some conditions of nervousness and was run down. When I began using 'Favorite Prescription' I lacked ambition and strength. I used two bottles and it proved a strengthening and is every way beneficial medicine."—Mrs.
MOLLIE KENTON, 1338 Greenup St.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY

And Presiding John G.
Asher, Judge.

In Re: G. D. Kemp, et al, Ex parte.

VISIT SACRED SPOT

DAUGHTER OF LIVINGSTONE
SEES PLACE WHERE HE DIED.

Brick Memorial Has Been Erected in Inclosure Where the Heart of the Great Explorer and Missionary Was Buried.

Mrs. Livingstone Wilson, only surviving child of Dr. David Livingstone, the explorer, recently made a journey to Old Chitambo, where her father's heart was buried. Old Chitambo is northeast of Rhodesia, a cleared space in the heart of the bush, and it took over a month to reach it from Capetown.
At New Chitambo, which is 55 miles farther on, Mrs. Wilson was going to stay with her son, who is a medical missionary, and her daughter, who is a nurse.

At the Victoria falls, discovered by her father, she secured a photograph showing the point from which he caught the first glimpse of this great rush of water. At Broken Hill she was met by her daughter and later by her son, and they trekked to Chitambo with 60 carriers, a native teacher acting as interpreter.

In the native villages as they passed through they excited much interest, says the London Times. In one their hair aroused the curiosity of the native women, and when they let it down to show them the women ran shrieking away, fearing it was snakes growing on their heads. At another native village the chief brought all the sick natives that Doctor Wilson might prescribe for them, but he made some difficulties by insisting on taking a dose of every medicine which was ordered for his people. The narrow canoes, the unsafe native bridges of stocks, the thwarts of which had been eaten by white ants, and the fear of mudholes and crocodiles when the travelers were carried in hammocks across the rivers made the journey adventurous.

At Old Chitambo an old chief called Chitend, from another village, claimed that it was in his mother's hut that Doctor Livingstone died, and four other old men, who refused to believe that Mrs. Wilson was Doctor Living-stone's daughter—"He had no child with him; he always came alone," they said—remembered him and told of him through the interpreter. The discrepancies between their version and that of the biographers were, Mrs. Wilson said, of great interest. The old chief's claim that Doctor Livingstone died in his mother's hut arose from the fact that, while his followers had gone ahead to build him a grass hut, he became so ill that he had to rest under the eaves of a native hut, dying afterward in the grass one that had been built for him.

The old men declared that they remembered his followers building a stockade around the hut while they embalmed the body in salt and brandy, burying the heart under a great tree,
at the other side of which old Chitambo, the chief of the village, who had had a great respect for the explorer, was afterward buried. The explorer's body, as is well known, was borne a thousand miles through the forest to be sent to England by his faithful native followers, Jacob Wainwright, the best-known of these, had asked the old chief to keep the grass always burned close around the tree at Chitambo, so that it might escape the dangers of forest fires.

Afterward the tree was struck by lightning, and the present memorial, in sloping brick, with a cross at the summit—the slope being made to prevent elephants brushing their trunks against it—was erected in the bush with an avenue cleared in front of it.
Here was placed a book on which big game hunters and explorers who penetrated thus far might note their names.

World's Greatest Banana Zone.

Costa Rica, the greatest banana country of the western hemisphere, produces more bunches of the fruit of the Musa Sapientum than any other single country on the American continent. It exports from 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 bunches. Nearly 300 square miles of land are included in the banana zone, though not all this tract is under cultivation. During the past few years there seems to be a falling off in the yield of the banana, due partly to a disease whose origin and elimination are yet unsolved problems, although the subject of much scientific study and investigation. Nevertheless new plantations are being made at various points in the fruit districts, while much of the abandoned lands are being planted in cacao. This latter product is thriving splendidly.

Last Word in Thrift.

The proverbial thrift of wealthy New Yorkers has been thwarted by the courts. Two men who were executors of a will, covering a large estate, were under that will trustees of about $400,000. When they turned in their account they charged the regular commission for the difficult and costly labor of handing over to themselves the sum they were to take care of. Certain heirs, equally thrifty, entered a protest and the courts have ruled that a man isn't entitled to pay for handing himself what he already has.

Prophets and Submarines.

"The U-boats of unbelief," says Rev.
John Fox of the New York presbytery, "have fired another torpedo at the Bible." Be that as it may, Jon-nah's whale was the first to operate under the water and derive a prophet therefrom.—Judge.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

SUN FAIRIES.

"It was the most wonderful of evenings," commenced Daddy, "and the Elves gave a Picnic.

"Way, way up on a very high Hill
they had this Picnic and they invited the Fairies, the Brownies and the Gnomes to come.

"When everyone had arrived at the top of the Hill, panting and puffing for it had been a hard climb and the Elves had asked everyone to walk for the exercise, they began at once to get out the Goodies to eat.

"'You see,' said one of the Elves,
'the reason we asked you to walk was because we wanted you all to be very hungry.'

"Out of moss-covered baskets they brought out the most delicious things to Eat, and they put everything on a great, enormous flat stone that was at the top of this Hill.

"This will be our Dining Room Table," they said, and all the Fairies, Brownies and Gnomes laughed, for they knew the Elves always had an unusual 'Dining-Room Table'.

"They ate from little plates beautifully made out of Straw and they drank from the most wonderful of Acorn Cups.

"When they had finished eating the Fairy Queen said she would tell them all a Story, and just as she said so,
Mr. Sun began to grow very sleepy.

"'Are you going to leave us, Mr.
Sun?' asked the Fairy Queen.

"'I have to,' he said. 'It's Bedtime and you're going to tell one of those Stories that puts me to Sleep.'

"'But it will grow so dark,' said the Fairy Queen, and the Elves added:
'We didn't ask Mr. Moon to this Party. We forgot! So can't you stay with us?'

"'Sorry,' said Mr. Sun, 'but Bedtime is Bedtime you know and I am so very tired this Evening. It's been a hot day you see. That's my work!
When it's hot and I've been working hard I'm tired!'

"'But in the Winter it isn't hot—and you often say then you're tired!'
said the Fairy Queen.

"That's right, I do," said Mr. Sun,
"but then it's so cold I have to work to keep everyone warm! Isn't that enough to make an old fellow tired?" and Mr.

Sun smiled.

"'Oh, I am so sleepy,' he said, and all the Trees around, blowing in the wind, whispered to themselves:

"'He is so Sleepy, and this they said over and over again.

"'I will tell you what I will do, though,' said Mr. Sun. 'I will leave in the sky the Fairies of the Sun.'

"'Have you Fairies too?' they all shouted.

"'Ah, yes! Wait and see!'

"Mr. Sun slowly went behind a Hill
—but what should remain in the sky
after he had left but wonderful Spots and Dots of red—bright, bright red—just the color Mr. Sun had been before he went behind his Hill for his night's Sleep.

"They must be the Fairies of the Sun," said the Fairy Queen.
"And from all around the Trees whispered again in the wind: 'The Fairies of the Sun, the Fairies of the Sun.'

"For the longest time they stayed in the Sky and they changed places with each other and played hide-and-go-seek with the Clouds.

"Such a good time as they had and the Fairy Queen told Story after Story for the Sky was very bright with the red Sun Fairies.

"Pretty soon, though, Mr. Moon began to peep up behind his Hill.

"'May I come to the Party?' he asked. 'I wasn't invited—but I'd enjoy coming just as much.'

"'Oh indeed you may, Mr. Moon,' said the Elves. 'We forgot to ask you
—but we do want you.'

"'They forgot me,' grinned the Moon, 'but they want me, so it is all right.'

"And as he saw the Sun Fairies going away he said:

"That's why I'm late. You had other Guests and I wanted to be admired!'

"'We do admire you,' said the Fairy Queen, 'but we were glad to see the Sun Fairies—for never before did we know what a Spotted Red Sky meant!'

MAISONVILLE PAPER SUED FOR $50,000

Attorney Sues Editor Of A Small Sheet For Heavy Damages.

Madisonville, Ky., Oct. 18.—As a result of a sensational article making charges against Letcher R. Fox, prominent attorney of this city, Latt M. McLaughlin is made the defendant in a $50,000 damage suit, filed in circuit court here late Friday afternoon. McLaughlin, who opposed Ed. Morrow for the republican nomination for Governor in the last republican primary, has for the past six months, been establishing a small weekly paper, known as the "Soul Awakener," his motto being: An independent paper, fighting for the right and opposing the wrong for the life of the cause.

Attorney Fox, until about a year ago, and been a republican. He joined with the democrats and last week switched back to the republican party. In a lengthy article in the Friday issue of Soul Awakener, Editor McLaughlin, in commenting on the change, says in the closing paragraph of the article.

Thus he carries death with him. One year he has been with the democratic party and went down in defeat, giving the republicans a circuit judge and district attorney. It is this district attorney that Letcher thinks he could and should have been in order that according to the dim vaporing of his benighted mind which only shows his kind and which is much bigger than his front, the office might have been filled with ability and distinction. To make up for this imaginary loss he seined around in the democratic party for a flat nomination on the county ticket the next year.

Being given to understand that he did not hold sufficient confidence and respect of the party to command a seat so exalted and that he must take a back seat in the nigger heaven in keeping with his character, he was then in a chagrined condition which enabled him to see the glitter of the golden armed Hughes machine, coming down the land crushing all honor caught beneath its ponderous weight.

McLaughlin also refers to Mr. Fox as a Shyster, and makes serious charges regarding money supposed to be in the hands of the republican county campaign chairman here. The article created much comment and the suit was filed by Mr. Fox within a short time after the paper was circulated on the streets here yesterday.

Two articles in the paper were devoted to Fox and Tom Finley, county campaign chairman for the republican party. The paper was filed as a part of the suit.

REAL LIFE ROMANCE

PRANK OF FATE THAT RESULTED IN HAPPY MARRIAGE.

She Was the "Other Girl" and He the Only "Good Looking" in the Regiment Which Was Embarking for War.

The scene of the first chapter of this romance is laid in a city on the western coast, a seaport from whose harbor there sailed during the year of the Spanish-American war many transports carrying to the Philippines troops of gay and gallant soldiers, most politely generous with their brass buttons.

On one of these occasions two young girls, thirsting for adventure, fared forth, armed with a kodak. Snapshots were taken of the soldiers marching down one of the principal streets from the train to the wharf, but a sad melancholy settled upon the pair when they were forced to admit that these men were, Oh! so ordinary looking, not nearly so handsome as some of the regiments had been.

However, to vary the dull monotony which the whole episode was gradually assuming, they amused themselves while the men were boarding the ship in endeavoring to pick out the really good-looking one. And they did—one, and one only. But he, being by that time on the upper deck, was quite unobtainable, so all the joy that could be extracted from an afternoon which had given such promise was the pleasure of waving good-by to him as the ship sailed away.

But what was their surprise when the snapshots of the marching soldiers were printed to discover that their "good-looking man" appeared in one of them. The pictures were soon pasted into a book and the incident apparently closed.

The scene of the second and closing chapter is now shifted to a town about ten years later.

One of the two girls was living in this town. She was a schoolteacher. At a social gathering she met a young man who afterward called on her.

In the course of conversation she gave the name of her former home, and the young man remarked that he had been in that city just twice, once when he embarked with his regiment bound for the Philippines and once when he was on his way back after the war.

Of course, the old book of kodak views was promptly unearthed, and the girl was not a little surprised when he greeted the picture of "the good-looking man," with the rapturous announcement that it was his old comrade, Jack —, who resided in that very town, but was at that time away on his vacation.

When he returned he would bring him around, if he might, to see the pictures, in which he was able to distinguish many of his former friends. Jack came, he saw, he conquered, with the usual happy ending. I am and was the other girl.—Chicago Tribune

Eye Protection at Movies.

Physicians are constantly advising patrons of the movies to protect their eyes. A writer in the Journal of the American Medical Association tells how it may be done.

"The progress made in the character of subjects presented in the movies today makes it desirable for all inquiring people to at least attend occasionally," he says. "Annoying after-effects on the eyes of many prevent them from enjoying the social diversion, and often the educational advantages, thus derived. The great majority of those who suffer from eye strain after watching moving pictures can find much, if not complete, relief in perfectly fitted glasses. The picture may not be quite so sharp, but this is more than compensated for by the increased comfort.

"For those with very sensitive eyes a colored glass, either amber, yellowish green or amethyst, may be necessary to give complete relief. There have been put on the market recently several varieties of colored glass, each of which has some advantages, so that some suitable color can usually be secured. A subdued light in the theater is much less irritating than when the only light visible comes from the screen. It is also advisable to avoid sitting in a place where it is necessary to look upward, as the additional strain becomes very tiresome, and frequently leaves a headache."

Freeze Feet in Midsummer.

How 150 Italian infantrymen were invalided by freezing their feet in midsummer was told by a passenger arriving at New York on the French liner La Touraine.

The men were members of a battalion of Alpine infantry, and had gone to a point far above the snow line in an attempt to surprise an Austrian force that in no other manner could be ousted from its position. They had been carefully drilled in walking on all fours and acting the parts of goats and sheep.

Two days after leaving camp remnants of the command began to return. They failed in their undertaking because of a terrific storm and because sharp pieces of ice tore their flannel leggings and exposed their feet.

The Reason.

"Odd, isn't it, that age is a recommendation in wine and a drawback in women?"

"Not at all. You can put it down in the one, but you have to put up with it in the other."

WOMAN RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave
Up in Despair. Husband
Came to Rescue.

Catonsville, Ky.—An interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good. I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of wonderful success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

SYMPATHY HER STRONG POINT

Trouble With Mella Was That She Had a Tendency to Overdo It on Some Occasions.

Mella's face was drawn into sympathetic contortions whenever her two friends spoke. Mella was nothing if not "responsive." And Gwen and Laura seemed to be speaking with unwonted haste.

"It's queer," Gwen said, "but I believe I have never in my life made an uncharitable remark about anyone."

"I'm sure you never have!" Mella broke in with enthusiasm. "I always feel so safe with you!" Gwen's cheeks began to flame; she opened her mouth to protest, but Mella raised her voice a trifle. "No, my dear, I'm telling the exact truth. I know you'll say a kind word for me if anyone makes a harsh criticism. I do believe you never made an uncharitable remark in your life!"

"Oh, but I don't say that," Gwen's words fairly tumbled over each other in her eagerness. "I was only going to say that I believe I never made an uncharitable remark about anyone without having reason to."

"Of course!" Mella interrupted with emphasis. "And that keeps it from being uncharitable. We can't go through the world shutting our eyes to people's faults. But there's everything in being sure that the criticism is just. I know you are right in that, Gwen. You have never criticized anyone without good reason."

"Yes, but," Gwen put in with nervous haste, "I didn't mean that, either. I was just going to say I've never in my life made an uncharitable remark about anyone without having reason afterward to be sorry for it. Either I find out I ought to have made more allowances, or I see that I haven't been quite fair!"

"Oh!" said Mella. Half an hour later, when their visitor had gone, Gwen drew an unconsciously long and audible sigh. Laura echoed it with mock seriousness.

"I feel as if I'd been running," Gwen said, "or singing that 'Echo Song.' I feel 'windy'!"

"I always feel that way when Mella has been here," said Laura.

"But, all the same, Mella's a dear, and it all comes from her being so sympathetic and responsive. I mustn't forget that," Gwen said thoughtfully.

Laura's gay laugh rang out. "My dear," she said, "I believe you 'never in your life' made a remark even remotely bordering on the 'uncharitable' without being sorry for it at once!"—Youth's Companion.

Allow Dog Mascot in Hospital.

For the sake of Rona, the Great Dane mascot of the Auckland (New Zealand) Mounted rifles, one of the most inflexible rules of the Fourth London General hospital has been relaxed. Among the patients in the hospital is a man of the mounted rifles to whom the dog had become greatly attached. Missing her friend from the regiment, Rona became inconsolable, and for three days refused food, although dainties of many descriptions were pressed upon her by her anxious soldier comrades. The man himself on learning of Rona's unhappiness was greatly concerned, and in the interests of both man and dog the hospital authorities consented that the dog should be brought to the hospital. Rona is now staying at the hospital, and soon, it is hoped, will escort her recovered comrade back to the regiment.

Rona is "on the strength" of the regiment, and wears an official identification disk carried on a silver chain subscribed for by her comrades.—London Globe.

War Brings Autos to Crow Indians.

The British are anxious to secure good horses for use in the present war, and they are buying large numbers from the Crow Indians.

The Crows are the wealthiest of the northern Indian tribes and their horses are the best.

The British are paying good prices to the tribe, each horse fetching $150. It has become quite a craze to spend the money thus obtained in buying motor cars. Even the poorest Crow possesses from ten to twelve horses. At the first opportunity he sells these and buys a car.

During the Boer war the British army purchased thousands of the Indian ponies. The animals were light, but strong, and capable of great endurance. With the money from their ponies, the Crows invested in thoroughbred stallions and mares, finally possessing a remarkably fine strain.

Messages $1 a Word.

The Society islands, far away in the South seas, now have a wireless communication with the outer world, a radio station having been opened by the French government on the island of Tahiti last winter.

Communication with the United States will be by way of Samoa and New Zealand, and thence by cable to San Francisco. It is expected that the cost of messages to the United States will exceed $1 a word. Later on it is hoped to reduce this more than half by sending the messages over an all-wireless route.

Inside Information.

"Now, wife, we must look around a little before buying an automobile."

"Fortunately, we won't have to go to that trouble. I have had called to my attention the most perfect machine in the world."

"Who was telling you about this car?"

"The agent."

POINTS FOR HOME WORKER

Important Things That, Being Kept in the Memory, Will Make Labor Much Lighter.

In home dressmaking a very important point to remember, especially in making coats and skirts, is the frequent use of the iron. Unless the seams are carefully pressed with a hot iron over a damp cloth the garment, however well cut, will have an amateur look.

Iron the button side of a waist in a folded bath towel, buttons turned downward. It will prevent them from breaking.

A Turkish stew is made of purslane and rice, boiled together and then seasoned with browned onions, pepper and salt.

An excellent filler for cleaning wallpaper is bran filled into cheesecloth bags; also it is better than soap for the bathtub.

Never throw away the skins of oranges. The grated yellow rind is a good flavoring for cakes, etc., and is cheaper than extracts.

Mint nowadays is used in ices, confections, sandwiches and salads, as well as in dressings for meats.

A wire basket, known as a salad shaker or drainer, should be used to dry greens after they have been thoroughly washed. Leaves of lettuce often hold water after they have been thoroughly shaken. If they are not fully dry they will not hold dressing well.

A fine grater is better than a knife for removing the surface of anything that is burned.

A pad of very thick paper laid over the edge of each step under the carpet will prevent it from wearing and it will last much longer.

Do not hem a heavy silence cloth, as the hem is apt to make a ridge under the tablecloth. Buttonhole the cut edges with white darning cotton.

To keep the water fresh and sweet in vases of cut flowers add to it a small bit of sugar.

TO DISTINGUISH FIBER SILK

Remember That It Has a Higher Luster Than Pure Silk and is Not Elastic.

Fiber or artificial silk is a vegetable product made wholly from wood or from cotton, while pure silk is animal fiber, taken wholly from the cocoon.

A simple method to distinguish the fiber from the pure silk is to place hose of each kind side by side, and by examining both it will be found that the artificial silk has a higher luster than the pure silk. Next, take the fiber silk in both hands and note the harshness of the feel and the absence of much elasticity. By going through the same process with the pure silk hose the reverse will be found to be the case.

The phrase, "mercerized silk," is used upon many occasions by those who should know better. There is no such thing as mercerized silk. The process of mercerization is applied to cotton to supply a silky luster.—Dry Goods Economist.

Hats of Linen Braid.

Among the infrequent novelties received this season from Paris linen braid stands out conspicuously. Hats of this material are refreshingly dull in finish. The braid resembles linen cloth, but is woven like satin straw and will doubtless soon make its appearance on suits and dresses. It comes in the neutral colors and pastel shades only as yet.

Hair Wash.

An excellent hair wash is to take one ounce of borax and one ounce of powdered camphor and dissolve in a pint of boiling water, added to cold water in a bowl. The camphor will form into lumps, but a sufficient amount will dissolve. This will strengthen the hair and preserve the color.

Glove Purses.

A glove purse is a tiny, dainty affair of white leather and brocaded silk. It is just big enough to hold a few five or ten-cent pieces, and can be slipped inside the glove.

TIDE TALK

"Isn't it wonderful, Tidy," said Nancy, "that the tide always comes in at such a time and goes out the same way?"

"Yes, indeed, it does. It's wonderful to us," said Daddy, "but reminds me too of a story I want to tell you."

"Many, many years ago, it was High Tide, the Breakers capcoring in right to the end of the Beach where the Land began. The little Pebbles, which had been the Grolling Hofman all day, felt so happy to have cool Ocean Waves dash over them, and if little Pebbles could smile, an sure they would have. In fact, I almost think they did, for they looked so bright as the Water went over them; and the Sand felt just the same way."

"Besides the Sand had been made to work hard all day. There had been little Boys and Girls with Pails and how they did build Castles, and Houses, and Court Yards and wonderful Palaces! And the Sand had always stayed together just as it had been put—because the Sand Fairies see to it that it does. If a little Girl is working hard to build a Castle and the Sand doesn't seem to go just right, the Queen of the Sand Fairies sends a Message by one of the Ocean breezes telling the Grains of Sand to work well and to help!"

"But this time I want to tell you about, it was High Tide, as I have said, and the Water came right up to the Land. It had been coming in slowly but surely for some time and Billie Brownie had been watching."

"Don't you ever work any faster or any slower?" asked Billie Brownie.

"Certainly not," said the Tide. "Why should we?"

"It would be nice I should think to change some Day and rush in very suddenly, and then another Day say way out on the Beach and not come in for hours and hours—long after you are due."

"That would be very wrong," said the Tide. "We are helped in what we do by two very noble creatures. And all the time the Tide was taking its Voice would get louder and louder for all the Waves were roaring and making such a racket."

"Who are they?" asked Billie Brownie.

"The Sun and Moon," roared the Tide. "The Moon is three times more important than the Sun—but the Sun is mighty helpful too. We do as they say, you see. Twice every twenty-four hours of your Time we come in and go out. And we do this at such hours as the Sun and Moon wish. So if People ask the Sun and Moon, or watch them for a Time they will be able to tell just what we are going to do. And we never change the Time they've given us—never—NEVER!" And the Tide bellowed this for all it was worth.

"I wouldn't keep such good Time," said Billie Brownie—"no, not for any Creature—not even Mr. Sun or Mr. Moon. And yet I'm a great Friend of both."

"Ah, you're not such a Friend as we are," said the Tide. "We have always done as Mr. Moon said for years and years and years—too many for me to remember."

"But you might just as well be a Clock and get wound up if you're going to keep such Time and do things just exactly when you're supposed to. It seems very foolish to me," and Billie Brownie put his head to one side as he thought about it.

"Ah," said the Tide, "that's just where you're so wrong. A Clock has to be looked after. Someone has to wind it up. No one has to wind us up! And a Clock often gets out of order and goes to the Clock Maker to be Mended. You never heard of the Tide going to a Tide Mender to be Mended, did you?"

"I never knew there was such a thing as a Tide Mender," said Billie Brownie.

"There isn't!" said the Tide. "That's just it. We don't need one—for we never get out of order. And no one has to worry about us or fuss about us. We just do as Mr. Sun and Mr. Moon say—especially Mr. Moon as I've told you, for somehow, and the Voice of the Tide grew louder. Mr. Moon has better judgment. I can Whisper this to you now, for Mr. Sun has gone to bed and won't feel hurt! And now we must go out to the Ocean again—for we've been talking to you for hours!"

Sometimes.

"Now," said the teacher in a talk on architecture, "can any of you tell me what a buttress is?"

"I know! It's a hanny goat," said Tommy Smart.

What would he give for the coffee you serve?

Like a million other women, you can serve coffee that he would give most anything to have—coffee which starts the day "right" for all.

Everyone loves the rich flavor of Arbuckles' Coffee. Of all the coffees in America today, it is by far the most popular!

One woman says: "My husband used to swallow his coffee and hurry off. Now we have Arbuckles' and you'd think it was Sunday the way he lingers over his breakfast."

Until you try Arbuckles' you will never know what a difference good coffee can make in your home.

Today there are whole towns where Arbuckles is practically the only coffee used. In one State, alone, in a year, four pounds of Arbuckles' Coffee was used for every man, woman and child in the State—four times as many pounds of coffee as the population of the State! Arbuckle Bros., New York.
