SIX DAYS ILLNESS PROVES FATAL

Wm. Barnett, Second Largest Land
Holder in County Called to His Reward

There was probably more genuine sorrow felt in Marion and Crittenden county over the untimely death of Wm. Barnett than was ever caused by any death before. He was one of nature's noblemen and endeared himself to all who knew him by his kindness of heart and genuine manhood. He was a man of high ideals, generous to a fault and indulgent to those he loved. He was stricken Monday night, January 29th, with a chill which developed into pleurisy and from that hastily into pneumonia, in malignant form and from the first his physician did not hold out any hope. Dr. Davidson was called in consultation from Evansville, and his family, who were telegraphed for, arriving here only last Friday morning. Two trained nurses, one for the day and one for the night and many friends ministered to the afflicted man but he did not rally, was rarely conscious and continued to grow worse until Sunday evening, Feb. 4th, at 7:30 o'clock when he breathed his last. The news soon spread over the city and many friends called on the stricken family and sincere sympathy was expressed on all sides. Mr. Barnett is survived by his widow who was Miss May Fleming, a daughter of the Hon. A. J. Fleming, prominent in his day in Livingston county affairs, and by two daughters, Mesdames Katie Barnett, of this city and Esther McDonald, of Chicago. He is the last male descendant of his family name in Crittenden county and except for a nephew living at Florence, in Graves county, is the last in the state. One brother James Barnett, lives at Ravine, Miss. The deceased was a founder and ruling elder for twenty years in the Mile Memorial church at Tolu, and was Vice President of the Farmers & Merchants Bank at that place, near where he was born and reared. He was the youngest son of the late Phineas Barnett and his wife who was Miss Janette Threlkeld, he being a cousin of Dr. J. D. Threlkeld of this city and Dawson; and of the late Foster Threlkeld, of Tolu. Mesdames Jake Farris, of Salem and Clara Brown of Tolu, are cousins. Mrs. Lelia Evans, widow of the late Thos. Evans, of Paducah, is his niece and R. A. and P. E. Miles, her brothers, of Tolu, his nephews. He was born Nov. 22nd, 1852 and was therefore in his 65th year.

The funeral was preached at the Southern Presbyterian church at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Rev. H. V. Escott officiating. A quartette composed of C. S. Nunn, L. E. Guess, George W. and T. R. Yates, rendered several appropriate selections in rich and melodious notes, adding feeling and solemnity to the occasion. The interment was in the New Marion Cemetery and the newly made mound was covered with offerings of the most exquisite designs; one, a blanket, covering the grave. Pillows, crosses, baskets, crescents and bouquets made up an ensemble never surpassed and rarely equalled here.

The active pallbearers were: R. E. Flanary, Eugene Guess, J. I. Clement, Forrest Harris, J. W.

GERMANY BREAKS OUR FRIENDSHIP

Passports Given Bernstorff and Gerard Ordered Home.—Matters are Serious

Washington, Feb. 6.—Pres't. Wilson has broken off diplomatic relations with Germany and warned the kaiser that ruthless sacrifice of American lives and rights means war.

Similar action is waiting for Austria when she notifies this government that she joins in the campaign of unrestricted submarine warfare.

The president made formal announcement of his action to the country and to the world today at a joint session of congress.

Passports have been handed to Count Bernstorff, Ambassador Gerard with all his staff and all American consuls have been ordered out of Germany. All German consuls in the United States are expected to withdraw that the severance of relations may be complete. American diplomatic interests in Berlin have been turned over to Spain; German diplomatic interests in the United States have been taken over by Switzerland. Foreign diplomatic interests which the United States had in charge in Germany have been turned over to various neutrals.

Two years of diplomatic negotiations, marked with frequent crisis and attended with the loss of more than 200 American lives on the high seas, have culminated in an act which in all the history of all the world has always led to war. Every agency of the American government has been set in motion to protect the country against acts of German sympathizers. These moves are of necessity being kept secret.

With the notice of severance of relations the United States sent to Berlin a demand for the immediate release of 64 Americans taken from ships captured by German raiders in the South Atlantic.

At the request of the president, congress immediately after hearing his address began work on new laws framed by the department of justice to check conspiracies and plots against the United States which cannot now be reached under existing statutes.

The question of conveying American merchant ships through the submarine blockade has been taken up and is being considered as one of the next moves by this government.

Neutral governments have been notified of the action of the United States and have openly been invited to follow its action if the new submarine campaign violates their rights.

Blue and T. H. Cochran. Honorary: G. C. Gray, W. R. Cruce, T. J. Yandell, S. M. Jenkins, T. J. Sleamaker, J. H. Orme, C. E. Donakey, P. S. Maxwell, George M. Crider, Geo. P. Roberts, A. M. Shelby and J. B. White.

Altho he owned a vast estate and inherited more land than any other man who ever lived here and was always a man of means, he was never puffed-up and was always as gentle as a woman in dealing with his employees and was indeed a poor man's friend. Many there are who will rise up and call him blessed and who will miss him when they need a friend. We shall not soon see his equal in Crittenden county.

Peace to his ashes.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING CLOSED

Cumberland's Have Interesting
Meetings With Six Professions
and Fourteen Additions

Mrs. L. M. Woolsley of Caneyville, Ky., has just closed a very successful series of meetings at the Cumberland Presbyterian church at this place. The meeting lasted two weeks, the house was filled to overflowing with anxious, attentive listeners, earnest workers and willing helpers of every faith and order at almost every coming together, notwithstanding the most extreme winter weather that Kentucky has known for years. Mrs. Woolsley is one of the strongest evangelists in the Cumberland Presbyterian church and the way she presents her themes of "Salvation of the Sinner" and "Service to the Needy" appealed to the church going people of our town and we hope that God's Truths as presented by her will continue to bear fruit for generations to come. Give the people what they want and they will come after it.

The singing was under the supervision and management of Prof. W. H. Reynolds of Greenville, Ky. We wish to say to Mr. Reynolds that he knows his business as a choir manager, besides his great gift as a singer. He has wonderful ability for adapting his song service to the occasion or the subject at hand. His generalship in marshaling outside help is as good as the best. We wish to recommend him to any congregation needing a leader in song service.

During the meeting there were six people who professed faith in Christ, and fourteen additions to the church, and we believe much and lasting good done, not manifested publicly. The church, especially, was wonderfully blessed, and will long cherish the memory of both Mrs.

PIG CLUB TO BE REORGANIZED

County Agent Bird Will Have All Clubs Organized into One,
"Boys' Agricultural Club"

The Crittenden County pig, corn and poultry clubs for boys will be reorganized for 1917 in the near future. Plans are now under way with the County Farm Agent to have all Boys' Clubs joined into one club to be called the "Boys' Agricultural club".

Provision has been made to incorporate the rules of the pig, corn, and poultry clubs, and the new plan will in no way interfere with the endless chain system in pig clubs or the former regulations of the other clubs as followed out last year. All boys who were members of these clubs last year will become members of this new organization and it is expected that the work this year will be bigger and better than ever.

The Boys' Agricultural Club has for its objects the inspiring and encouraging of farm boys to remain on the farm; the demonstration of more scientific, practical and more business-like methods in farming, and the teaching of the value of organized effort, co-operation and compromise in the upbuilding of character and citizenship.

Any boy between the ages of ten and eighteen, inclusive, can become a member of this club provided he will agree to grow some crop or animal under the direction of the County Agent and study the instructions, bulletins and circular letters sent him and attend the meetings of the club regularly. All labor Woolsley and Prof. Reynolds for their work here. May God attend their honest, earnest efforts and bless them wherever they may go.

EXAMINATION AT HEBRON.

Hebron is Very Proud of Her Pupils. Nine Took The Examination. Two Failed.

The examination for County Promotion Certificate for Hebron School, was held at the school-house on Feb. 1st and 2nd, 1917. There were nine applicants, and of these, seven made passing grades. Those who passed and their averages are as follows: Watts Franklin 92 6-10 Johnnie Underdown 90 7-10 Mary Ainsworth 84 6-10 Arel Vaughan 84 2-10 Carrie Turner 82 6-10 Ebbie Wathen 76 9-10 Lacy Cook 75 1-10. These are all exceptionally bright students and deserve much credit for the good work they have done during the past year. Hebron is proud of them. Geo. W. Condit, Teacher.

must be performed by the boy himself and complete record and history of the work turned in to the county agent at the end of the year.

A boy may raise any one of the following crops or animals with advice and approval of the county agent:

CROPS.

- one acre or more of corn.
- one-eighth acre or more of potatoes.
- one-half acre or more of soy beans.
- one-half acre or more of tobacco.
- one-half acre or more of cow crop.

ANIMALS.

- one or more pigs.
- one or more calves.
- one or more lambs.
- poultry.

Arrangements will be made for local and county shows and it is expected that all members will exhibit their products and that we will have a lively contest.

The new organization also calls for the boys to do a certain amount of study on agricultural subjects and for a final examination at the end of the year on what they have studied. Every boy will be graded upon his final examination and upon his work and record book. Every boy who makes an average grade of 70 or better will be given a certificate of merit by the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture.

The local farm agent hopes that all members of the 1916 pig, poultry and corn clubs will become members of this new club and that together with the new members, Crittenden county will have the biggest and "Boys' Agricultural Club" in the State.

HENRY HAYNES DIES SUDDENLY

Formerly of This Place But Now of Marietta, Okla.—Result
of an Operation

One of the greatest shocks, which this town and community has ever received, came Saturday morning at eight o'clock in the form of a telegram from Cincinnati, Ohio to Chastain W. Haynes informing him that his brother, Henry, had died of a sudden relapse the evening before at six-thirty in the sanitarium there where he had gone two weeks before for treatment for a nervous trouble. The news produced a profound sorrow among the friends of his childhood and youth and numerous inquiries poured in on the family for particulars which however they had not received. Messrs. R. F. Haynes, the dead man's uncle and C. W. and W. V. Haynes, his brothers hastily prepared for departure on the first train for Cincinnati to be at the side of the stricken wife, the young girl bride.

T. C. Bennett, the brother-in-law telephoned to Cincinnati for particulars of the death and learned that a sudden and unexpected relapse carried him almost without warning. The deceased had suffered with a nervous trouble, of which his family were aware, and which the public did not know, and he had been assured of relief by a specialist of national fame located in a Cincinnati hospital and there he had been in apparent health and strength just two weeks ago. The operation was performed and pronounced a success and he was believed to be on the road to rapid and permanent recovery when the end came most ingly sudden.

The remains were taken to Marietta, Okla., his home, accompanied by the wife, Messrs. Chastain W. and V., leaving Cincinnati Saturday morning. T. C. Bennett, the funeral party at St. Louis, Mo. The mother, Misses Mamie and Mary, who with the invalid were spending the winter in Florida, left Deland, Fla., Saturday morning for Marion, Ky. The day after arrival in Marion, Ky.

Prison Guards Worried By A Ventriloquist.

Lavenworth, Kan., Feb. 6. A ventriloquist among the convicts of the Federal prison here, who apparently has at his command
all the tricks of the profession, is causing the guards to spend much time trying to evolve a plan for his detection and silence.
The large cell rooms are acoustically perfect for the exercise of the convict's art, and nightly the guards and inmates are aroused
by wails of distress, laughter, dog barks and dialogues between a man and a woman, which eventually end with a fight.
So far the practical joker is enjoying his art undisturbed, but as the guards obtain results
within a few days, they declared today they will offer a reward
among the convicts for the disturber of peace.

World-Telephone to Level All Barriers and Bring Common Brotherhood of Man

By JOHN J. CARTY
Chief Engineer American Telephone and Telegraph Company

There can be no doubt whatever that some day we shall establish telephone communication with every part of the known world. This is the work we are engaged on now. What will be the effect of all this?
Where people do not freely communicate with each other they do not understand each other. There is misunderstanding, there is suspicion, there is jealousy, there is war. But when people can freely communicate with each other they are drawn together and a condition is created where all interests are common to all the people. The world-telephone will make a common language a necessity. That does not mean that all languages except one will disappear, but there will be one language which all the world will understand and use for communication. It will be the language that we Americans talk. And with the common understanding of language will come a free exchange of thought and of ideas and a common brotherhood of man. Frontiers will gradually disappear, and we shall evolve into one great family of mankind. That, I believe, is the true mission of the telephone.

What we ought all to be specially proud of is the fact that these achievements are the product of American institutions and reflect the genius of our people. The story of the telephone, the story of its development, is the story of our own country, a story exclusively of American enterprise and of American progress. All the most powerful governments of Europe have tried their best to develop and operate telephone systems, and with what results? Great contributions to the art have not been made by any one of them.

Americans have given a new voice to mankind, have created and perfected an electrical system of communication for the advancement of civilization. Americans have extended without limit the carrying power of the human voice, eliminating barriers to speech, binding together our own people and now reaching out with the great aim of some day bringing all the people of all the nations of the earth into a common brotherhood.

Principles of Democracy Fostered by System of Universal Military Service

By PROFESSOR MUNROE SMITH of Columbia University

In the great modern European states universal military service, which reappeared in revolutionary France, has been generally adopted because of its demonstrated economy and efficiency. The establishment of universal military service in European monarchies has not been followed by an increase of royal power; the tendency has been toward more democratic government. In all these states, not excepting Russia, the people have today some voice in determining the laws and policies of the country; and it looks as if, broadly speaking, the imposition of the duty of military service upon every able-bodied male citizen had forced the monarchic and aristocratic elements to concede to the people some measure of political rights. They really had to admit that the men who are to fight for a country ought to have something to say about its government.

It would, of course, be absurd to say that universal military service necessarily makes a country democratic. It will not have this result if the people are monarchically minded. But if the people of a country are democratically minded, universal military service seems to make for constitutional government in monarchies and for the maintenance of popular government in republics.

If we pass from history to theory, it is difficult to see why universal military service is not essentially the democratic system. This can hardly be questioned by anyone who admits that democracy means equality of duties as well as equality of rights. Those, indeed, who identify democracy with liberty and equality—those to whom democracy means the minimum of governmental constraint—may consistently assert that a volunteer army is essentially democratic. This idea of democracy, however, is a false one; and a democracy organized in accordance with this idea can be held permanently only by those who discharge corresponding duties and the natural tendency of laissez faire, in the political as in the economic system, is toward oligarchy.

So-Called Efficiency Which Breaks Man Down in Prime Really Is Inefficiency

By DARWIN P. KINGSLEY
President of the New York Life Insurance Company

The inefficiency of "efficiency" has proved both costly and brutal.
Every system of efficiency of the future must consider human life first.
If human life is to be jeopardized by haste, don't hurry. If human life is to be sacrificed by speeding up efficiency, be less efficient; if the human body is to be maimed or destroyed in order to secure speed and power, get along with less power. This doctrine is not merely sentimental; it is more than a reflection of the woe and heartbreak that follow the cruel strokes of industry and traffic.

Human life is the only thing in the world that has any value; all other values are derived from serving this primary value. The asset of the average man, the only thing that stands between his family and perhaps future dependence on charity, is his earning power. Some plan which capitalizes his future earning power, his physical strength, must be incorporated in the efficient industrial system of the future.

An enormous vitality gain has been achieved in the earlier stages of life. A much larger percentage reach maturity through improved methods of sanitation, but the human machine begins to go to pieces at fifty-five. It is the result of the heavy strain in the United States, a product of our modern life. It is the outgrowth of the worst form of inefficiency, of an attempt to be efficient without properly counting the cost.

Think of the value of lives snuffed out at fifty-five! Just when these lives have reached their maturity of power, when knowledge has become wisdom, when judgment has become well balanced—fifteen years of the choicest part of their lives snuffed out!

A man should be at his best up to seventy. If a man disappears at fifty-five he is inefficient, no matter what he has done before that time—inefficient because he has thrown away the ripe fruit of all his life.

It's inefficiency, though the man and the system may call it efficiency.

PACKERS TO DROP EIGHT; PUBLIC SAVES $2,000,000

Cured Meats Are To Be Marked Actual, Not Including Wrapper.

New York Feb. 6.—A saving of about $2,000,000 a year will be afforded the people of this State by the decision of the State packing houses no longer to register observance of the State law which provides that all hams and other cured meats shall be marked with the actual weight of the meat according to Joseph Hartigan, Commissioner of Weights and Measures.

In announcing to-day the capitulation of the packers, he said that the elimination of the weight of paper, cloth and twine, which the packers had insisted should be charged as meat, would about the saving to the customers.

Does The World

Face Food Famine?

Does the world face food famine? The International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, which is financed by and gathers reports from most of the great nations of the world, continues to issue reports on the food situation which indicate that something approaching that is among the possibilities unless efforts are speedily made to remedy the situation created by short crops in almost every producing country.

It is admitted that abnormal conditions are due to the war, but that does not lessen the gravity of the situation in the least and the question, "Has the World Enough Food to Live upon until the next Harvest?" which is the title of a recent bulletin issued by the institute is not an idle one.

Reports received at Rome from the eighteen most important countries of the world, including the United States, Canada, British India, Japan and all of Europe show that this year's wheat crop was little better than three-quarters of that of the year before. In round numbers the yield of this group of countries in 1916, is estimated at 2,000,000,000 bushels or twenty-five per cent less than that of 1915. Reports from Argentina, which have just become available, estimate the wheat yield there at 50,000,000 bushels or just one-half that of last year.

The Institute of Agriculture from reports at hand, estimates the world's wheat yield for this year at slightly under 3,500,000,000 bushels, while consumption before the next harvest, it is estimated, will require close to 3,800,000,000 bushels. Surplus wheat, stored over from the bumper crops of 1915, the institute estimates, will be sufficient to meet the difference between production and consumption only in the strictest measures of economy are practiced by every country in the world. Such economies as have been forced upon the nations at war, it would seem, must soon be adopted, at least in modified form, by the nations at peace if the world is to be saved from a famine such as has not been known in modern times. Russia according to the institute's reports, is the only great country that has a surplus of wheat. The surplus, estimated at 303,000,000 bushels, is locked up by war and cannot be released save by some unexpected and sweeping victory for the entente allies or by the end of the war itself, a development the prospect of which, at his time, appears remote.

In the United States and other countries not effected by the war, and in many of the belligerent countries ever, effort is being made to increase the acreage for next year, and there is reason to hope that the 1917 yield will be at least equal if not greater than that of 1915, which will materially relieve the situation. Should next year's crop, both of corn and wheat, be as short as that of the year just closing the situation will be indeed serious. — Arizona Gazette, of Dec. 29th.

LINCOLN

Inspired by Lincoln's Words

By JOHN VANCE CHENEY, in Chicago Interior

The hour was on us. Where the man? The fateful sands unfaltering ran, And up the way of tears He came into the years.

Our pastoral captain. Forth he came, As one that answers to his name, Nor dreamed how high his charge, His work how fair and large.

To set the stones back in the wall, Lest the divided house should fall And peace from men depart, Hope and the childlike heart

We looked on him. "Tis he," we said, "Come crownless and unheralded, The shepherd who will keep The flocks, will fold the sheep."

Unknightly, yes, yet 'twas the mien Presaging the immortal scene, Some battle of His wars Who scaleth up the stars.

Not he would take the part between His hands, wipe Valor's tablets clean, Commanding greatness wait Till he stand at the gate;

Not he would cramp to one small head The awful laurels of the dead, Time's mighty vintage cup, And drink all honor up.

No flutter of the banners bold Borne by the lusty sons of old, The haughty conquerors Set forward to their wars.

Not his their blare, their pageantries, Their goal; their glory was not his Humbly he came to keep The flocks, to aid the sheep.

The need comes not without the man, The prescient hours unceasing ran, And up the way of tears He came into the years.

Our pastoral captain, skilled to crook The spear into the pruning hook, The simple, kindly man, Lincoln, American Splendid Program of Boys' Literary Society.

Last Friday one section of the Boys' Literary Society gave a very interesting program. The auditorium stage was curtained and a busy hum came to our ears from the dressing room.
When the tide of excitement was at its height, Mr. Christian announced that the program was about to begin, and the first number was to be a selection by the male quartette. One of the regular members was absent but another lad took his place. That their music was appreciated very much, by everybody is proven by the number of times they were encored.

The next part of the program
was a very interesting farce,
"Dr. Dobbs' assistant." Char-
Stewart was an irreproachable fashionable representative of the medical profession, who gave the impression that he was too busy with society to dabble with his work. As luck would have it a tramp came in just at that time and Dr. Dobbs hired him to take care of his office during his absence. This part was played by George Phillips, who was an adept at this art. He operated on his patients for appendicitis and removed their pocket books. Had one mild love affair with Marvin Bigham who was masquerading as an old maid. Tried to reduce a fat man's weight by using a stoneach pump and did several other laughable things. Through it all he managed to make lots of money and we suppose he is now lolling on "Rivers' beds of ease."
A other section "Vengeance is Mine" was given by Mr. Franklin, who took the part of priest
Dupre, and Edis Boz as Count De Villmaire. Mr. Franklin in his priestly robe, made a very imposing figure. His great dramatic power made the audience suffer with him. Edis, as the Count, made a strikingly handsome figure in his military outfit.

It was a most successful program and the girls' society covet another opportunity to see and hear their talented friends, on the stage soon. R. T. '17.

An elderly resident of this vicinity was taking last Saturday about the remarkable contrast in the weather conditions of today and those of forty years ago. He declared that the weather of those days was much more regular and even than at the present time, and much less susceptible to sudden fluctuating changes. He asserted that in the olden times it was nothing remarkable for the ground to stay frozen for a solid month without thawing, and the roads would frequently become hard and dusty in the middle of winter.

To The People of The 7th Legislative District.

Unexpectedly, I was called by the Governor to meet in an extra session of the Legislature on February 14th, 1917, for the sole purpose of considering a revenue bill. On request of the Louisville Herald, I stated in a letter on Jan. 12th, that I know of no emergency for an extra session and I still believe that there is no emergency for this session.

In as much as the Governor has called an extra session, I, as your representative, will do my best to enact an equitable and credible revenue bill. I shall be glad to talk with anybody concerning the proposed tax bill, and will gladly consider any suggestion that may be offered.

I remain, yours for best service,

INAUGURATION DAY AT THE CAPITAL

Old Fashioned Democracy to Characterize Ceremonies.

BIG PYROTECHNICAL DISPLAY

President Wilson Is the First Democrat to Succeed Himself Since the Days of Andrew Jackson—Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Marshall to Accompany Husband in Inaugural Parade.

By FRANK B. LORD.

Washington is rapidly completing its preparations for the second inauguration of Woodrow Wilson as president of the United States. The occasion will present the first instance of a Democratic president succeeding himself in the White House since the days of Andrew Jackson. This is one of the reasons why exceptional efforts are being put forth to make the ceremonies befitting and impressive and at the same time characterized by genuine old fashioned Jeffersonian democracy.

President Wilson has notified the inaugural committee that he does not favor the customary inaugural ball, and accordingly that feature will be eliminated. Instead on the evening following his induction into office there will be presented on the famous White Lot, directly south of the executive mansion, a beautiful pyrotechnic display designed in itself to teach a lesson in patriotism.

Inaugural Takes Place March 5.

Owing to the fact that March 4 falls upon Sunday the ceremonial inauguration of President Wilson will take place on the following day. In order that there may be no lapse of time during which the country will be without an executive head the official oath of office will be administered to President Wilson in private at the White House at noon Sunday, March 4, by Chief Justice White of the supreme court of the United States. Three times before in the history of the country March 4 has fallen on Sunday—in 1821, at the beginning of Monroe's second term; in 1845, at Taylor's inaugural, and again in 1877, when Hayes became president. The formal ceremonies will occur on Monday.

Starting from the White House at 11 o'clock, escorted in carriages by a congressional committee, of which Senator Overman of North Carolina is chairman, the president will proceed to the capitol. For the first time in the history of any inauguration the wife of the president elect will accompany him on the trip. Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, wife of the vice president elect, will also ride in the carriage with her husband. The president will take the oath of office and deliver his inaugural address on the huge platform erected on the plaza at the east front of the capitol.

Pageant to Be Spectacular.

At the conclusion of the president's address the great spectacular pageant, which the people of Washington have devoted nearly three months in preparing, will start from the capitol and proceed westward on Pennsylvania avenue to Fifteenth street and thence through the grand Court of Honor erected in front of the White House. From the presidential stand in the center of the court Mr. Wilson and Mr. Marshall, together with their wives and members of the cabinet and their wives, the diplomatic corps and prominent officials, will view the parade.

Under the direction of Colonel Robert N. Harper, chairman of the citizens' committee of Washington, the people of the national capital have put forth every effort to make the Wilson inaugural procession not only a grand march of triumph, but a pageant which shall be educational and illustrative of the progress and development of the country. Major General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the army, will be grand marshal. Thousands of Uncle Sam's blue-jackets and marines and as many goldbugs as can be spared from the border will be in line, as well as the middy boys from Annapolis and the cadets from West Point.

Washingtonians are so adept in making preparations for presidential inaugurations that nothing has been overlooked in providing for the accommodation, comfort and entertainment of thousands of visitors. In addition to the inaugural ceremonies, with the interesting pageant, arrangements have been made for the exhibit during the inaugural week of "Uncle Sam at Work." This exhibit will show the activities of the various departments and bureaus of the government. The treasury department will show how paper money and postage stamps are manufactured at the bureau of engraving and printing and gold and silver coins are made at the mints. There will be an interesting display of counterfeiters and counterfeiters by the secret service, and the rescue of life and property will be shown by the coast guard, which now includes the life saving service.

The museum of the dead letter bureau, with its freaks of the mails, will be a feature of the display of the post office department; the war department will present an intensely interesting exhibit, including methods of national defense, and the navy department will show models of our peerless dread naughts, battleships and submarines.

Obituary.

Mother, Mary Jane Hicklin, or "annt Mary," as she was generally known—was born in Crittenden county, Ky., near Crooked Creek on Dec. 19th, 1843, and died at her home in Marion, Ky., Dec. 9th, 1916, lacking ten days of reaching her seventy-third birthday. She was the daughter of Thomas and Pernelia Truitt, one of the oldest and most highly respected families of the county. On Feb. 15th, 1865, she was married to Benjamin Hicklin. To this union was born six children, four boys and two girls, all of whom are living: William S., of Kansas; Carlos L., of Tibbie, Ala.; and Jas. T., John H., Mrs. J. D. Asher, and Mary Iva, all of Marion.

The husband and father departed this life Jan. 8th, 1887, leaving her with the task of raising her family, but through these almost thirty years she was faithful and true to her Heavenly trust and no more fitting tribute could be placed on her gravestone than the words which Jesus said of Mary of old: "She hath done what she could." Mother Mary was a devoted wife and mother never thinking of her own comforts but that of her family and friends, and she leaves besides her family a large part of the county as friends who loved her memory for her sacrificial life. It has been truly said that it is not what we get that we keep but what we give that becomes a living monument. She was a Christian mother—one of the quiet kind like Martha—she was known for much serving. She professed faith in Christ early in life and joined the Methodist church in Livingston county near Good Hope and later moved her membership to Green's Chapel in Crittenden county where she held her membership at the time of her death. Mother attended the Thanksgiving service at the Presbyterian church and took suddenly sick that night with a complication of diseases—catarrh of the stomach being the most serious of these. Dr. Driskill, the family physician, with the help of kind friends did everything possible to restore her but her body was too frail and with patience she succumbed on the 9th day of her sickness with all her children by her side except the eldest, William, who relieved the message too late. She was laid away amidst a bower of beautiful flowers as an expression by friends and organizations of how far reaching for good was her life.

The funeral service was conducted on Sunday morning by Rev. Short, of the Methodist church amidst a host of relatives and friends and laid to rest in Green's Chapel cemetery by the side of her husband to await the trumpet sound when the dead in Christ shall rise first.

Cheer Up.

I like the man who, when he's down,
And knows that he's all in,
Can face the world without a frown,
And wear a cheerful grin
Who never stops to whine or groan,
But stands up, on his feet,
And tries to make the world believe
That crew is good to see.

I like the man who, when he's up,
Is as right as a new pin,
Who does not let the fire get him,
Because he's so much in,
Who drives by a goodly crew,
A golden rule to stick,
And as he goes, when he's in,
Is good to see.

—LARRY M. JONES

I like the man who, when he's in,
And puts on a good front,
And says "I'm going to win,"
At some time, some day,
The crew who thinks he is all in,
And knows he's in the line,
Who makes the whole world believe
That crew is good to see.

Fined For Striking Match

For the benefit of any of our friends who contemplate going to London, We publish the following:

That no order "lights out!" is being enforced in Great Britain is shown by the lighting of a match in the streets which might be a guide to the lay of the land to a prowling Zeppelin. In a northeast coast town a man was committed to jail for striking matches in the street at night to light his pipe. It was alleged that the offender was drunk.
The magistrate declared that the prisoner had endangered the lives of thousands of people, as a Ze-ppelin had been reported in the vicinity. For a similar offense another man was fined £2, that is $10.

Staats Zeitung—It can be doubted that an overwhelming majority of our people stand with the president in his efforts to keep this county at peace with the world. But it is doubtful that a majority will endorse giving the German ambassador his passports at the present time. Let us consider America first, last and all the time. Millions of Americans are bound by blood ties to Europeans who are fighting. Were America to engage in the war on either side the hearts of millions would be saddened by the knowledge that they must wage war against their kin. The war of races would break out in the midst of us, passion aroused and hatred engendered and warfare would result unless the causes that led to our entering the European war were so shocking, aggravated that all peaceful procedure became futile; and then only would the government have a united nation supporting a war policy.

Omaha Daily Tribune (German)—It is with our old hands and sometimes best interests of our country. The time belongs to America first, last and all the time. These we must perform and will perform above all consideration and regardless of what the future may have in store for us.

Denver Herald—"Stand by the president," is the keynote of an editorial which will appear tomorrow. E. C. Steinmann, editor, is president of the Colorado German American alliance, which has more than 40,000 members.

Milwaukee Germania Herald—The breach of diplomatic relations between two countries does not mean a declaration of war. This sentence is contained in the textbooks on international law. And this circumstance strengthens our hope that war will be avoided. What we think and feel in this moment of great excitement is that the president will bring our beloved country through this crisis as he has brought it through other crises, with peace and honor.

St. Paul Volks Zeitung—Germany's decision to blockade the British isles and other allied territory has caused our government to dismiss the German ambassador and thus take the first step toward war. Why we did not take similar action when Great Britain put in force its illegal blockade against Germany is a responsibility which rests with administration. The lot of German citizens who are of German extraction will be extremely difficult as soon as serious consequences follow today's momentous acts. Native born Americans will, therefore, do all in their power to lessen the mental suffering of their fellow citizens of German birth or heritage. Come what will, the German will be genuinely loyal and make all needed sacrifices.

Philadelphia Morgen Gazette—As American citizens it is our duty to remain loyal to the country in which we have sworn allegiance to the U. S. of America. It is our unquestionable duty of German citizens to remain loyal to the U. S. of America. It is our duty to remain loyal to the country in which we have sworn allegiance to the U. S. of America. It is our duty to remain loyal to the country in which we have sworn allegiance to the U. S. of America.

fulfill the obligations of our American citizenship, no matter what is exacted of us.

Cincinnati Volks Blatt—The president has severed diplomatic relations with Germany and threatens war on Germany if Germany invades American rights. This reason is untenable because of the fact that the president has failed to punish far grosser violations of American rights on the part of England. While German-Americans will obey the call of the country to which they have sworn to maintain against all enemies, it is hard lot for them to lend their aid for a purpose which is manifestly pernicious to the United States.

A Valentine Poem

I'll build a house of lollypops,
Just suited, sweetheart, to your taste;
The windows shall be lemon drops,
The doors shall be of jubilee paste.
Heigh-o, if you'll be mine!

With peppermints I'll pave the walks;
A little garden, too, I'll sow
With seeds that send up sweetened stalks
On which bright candied violets grow.
Heigh-o, my valentine!

Some seats of sassafras I'll make
Because I know you think it's nice;
The cushions shall be jelly cake
Laced all around with lemon ice.
Heigh-o, if you'll be mine!

We'll have a party every day
And feast on cream and honeydew,
And, though you're only six, we'll play
That I am just as young as you.
Heigh-o, sweet valentine!
—Anna M. Pratt in St. Nicholas.

Helping St. Valentine

It is a sad thing to want a valentine and not get one, but probably a sadder thing not to send a valentine at all. And the only possible remedy for St. Valentine's mistakes is for everybody to send a valentine to somebody he loves.

Valentine Party Supper Menu

- First.—Toast hearts spread with some potted relish, as an appetizer.
- Second.—Creamed oysters in heart shaped patty shells or paper cases.
- Third.—Cold beef tongue or ham sliced and cut into heart shaped figures with a creamy butter, bread and butter sandwiches, lettuce with mayonnaise, coffee.
- Fourth.—Grapefruit filled with pineapple and chopped cherries and nuts. Valentine cakes and almonds.
- Another menu which makes a very relishing supper:
First.—Tomato bouillon, toast hearts.
Second.—Creamed chicken and mushrooms decorated with tiny hearts cut from red peppers, wheat bread sandwiches filled with cream and mayonnaise.
Third.—Cold macedoine of vegetables decorated with hearts, beets cut in heart shape, served in heart lettuce, toasted crackers with hearts shaped on their surface of cream cheese and raspberry jam.
Fourth.—Strawberry parfait with whipped cream in lady finger cases, pink cakes and candies and salted almonds, coffee.

Before St. Valentine's Day.
Long before Rome was converted to Christianity the youths and maidens on Feb. 15 annually drew names from two sacred urns in the temple of those of the opposite sex who fate decreed were to be their sweethearts for the coming year. The early fathers of the church, finding they were powerless to entirely eradicate the pagan practices of the Lupercalia, changed it from Feb. 15 to St. Valentine's day, the 14th.

Valentine Books.
In 1797 a small book, "The Young Men's Valentine Writer," was published for the use of ardent swains who were unable to do their own ryming. In 1812 a less modest volume appeared, "The Cabinet of Love, or Cupid's Repository of Choice Valentines," a very complete compendium.

BLACKFORD

This is the month of February and generally speaking health is fairly good, farmers, merchants, bankers, lawyers, doctors, "loafers," and "scall-wags" are all thriving "hugely."

About all the corn that is for market at present has been sold at a good price. The tobacco crop, in this region, has been sold at the fancy price of 90 cents per pound. Our untiring farmers deserves the harvest and are going to do their best during this year.

The schools in this part of the "vineyard" we are sorry to say are not what they could and should be which is partly due to irregular attendance of pupils ignorance and carelessness of fathers and inexperienced teachers.

Frank Alloway, of the firm of Alloway Bros., Lumber Co., of Clay, was here Sunday enroute to Sturgis.

Everett Cook, son of J. R. Cook, of near Marion, was here last Sunday.

Hiram L. Head and family have moved from Blackford to Curlew.

Mrs. Zola Farris and little son, Thomas Jacob, who have been spending a number of weeks with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. D. T. White, left Sunday for Nashville, Tenn.

Wm. T. Perry and Geo. W. Crowell who were confined to their respective places of abode on account of a slight attack of la grippe, have recovered and their shining physiognomy and congenial disposition once more are noticeable in the streets of Blackford.

Joel E. Dyer is having his residence on Third St., repaired by W. H. Lawson who is putting on a brand new single roof.

On the 27th of time a baby girl first saw light at the home of John T. Sullivan and we presume the new arrival has been named Velda Lucile. In like manner on the 3rd instant, a son arrived at the home of Nathan H. Brantley and has been christened Edward Wacham.

While your "pened puncher" from Blackford believes in woman suffrage, one flag, one school, one people and foe Americans, she sincerely hopes the readers of the Record-Press have long since learned that belief and thought, push and pluck, are the most potent constructive forces in the universe, and that what we think of long enough and strive for hard enough we positively bring out.

It will cost as much to make a failure as it does a success.

This being the shortest month of the year consequently a short "epistle" at this time.

"The world is even
As we take it,
But this life is always
What we make it."
—Miltus.

Taught Him a Lesson.
"You can't always judge by appearances." I just had a costly demonstration of that fact. Because I saw Flubduh checking a toothpick, I thought it would be safe to invite him to lunch. But he went right along and bungled up for an expensive lot of grub.—Kansas City Journal.
