GOOD ROADS BONDS BEATEN

Crittenden's Bond Issue is Beaten For The Second Time By 500 Majority

The election Tuesday was a crushing defeat for the advocates of good roads, the proposition being defeated by 500 votes. The tabulated vote by precincts published below showing only four precincts in the county favorable those being Marion Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 5. Our people are not ready for this advancement and do not yet realize the benefits to be derived from such improvements. The editor is in as close touch with the people all over the county and meets as many of them as any other one man probably, and has realized from the opening up of this question that it would be overwhelmingly defeated. What we must do is to build by subscription some sections of road in Crittenden County beginning at the County seat and let the people that use these roads see the advantages and they will gradually come to it. Let's get up a $10,000 good roads fund by subscription to be used on the four roads leading out of Marion equally. The editor will start the list with $400.00 subscription, $100.00 for each road.

H.C. GILLILAND BE- FENDS PRESIDENT

Marion Boy in the Lime Light Scores Sen. Vardaman Is For The Stars And Stripes.

Anguilla, Miss., Mar. 24, 1917. Dear Editor Jenkins: Here is a little coming from the Memphis Commercial Appeal, of Friday, March 19, 1917, that will let you know what we are not all like James Vardaman, even if he is elected by a majority of Mississippi votes which will probably never occur again. From a friend of H. C. Gilliland, Anguilla, Miss., March 24. The town was filled with patriotism and loyalty today, the occasion being the raising of a national flag, donated by Mr. L. E. Martin. Many people adjoining towns were present. The exercises began with a prayer and address by the Rev. J. E. Ferguson. The high school children marched and sang "My Country 'Tis of Thee," Clyde Gilliland explained what the flag represented, and among other things said:

"When I think of what that flag stands for I am not surprised that Washington followed it across the icy Delaware to Trenton, carried it from Valley Forge to Yorktown, that Robert E. Lee acknowledged its supremacy at Appomattox. I am thankful that Woodrow Wilson, regardless of James K. Vardaman and 11 others like him, sits in the White House today, prepared to defend the flag with the last drop of American blood that flows through his veins." W. C. P. McKinney, who followed Gen. R. E. Lee for four years, made a strong appeal to the young men to stand by the flag of a united country and President Wilson, at the conclusion of which he raised the flag amid the cheers of the assembly while the band played the "Star Spangled Banner."

Kansas City Lumbermen Get $400,000 U. S. Contract.

Kansas City, Mo., Mar. 23.—The United States Government has placed an order with Kansas City lumber dealers for 15,000,000 feet of soft pine lumber it became known here. The contract calls for light timbers, boards and shiplap, such as is used in the construction of temporary army quarters. The destination of the shipment has not been made public.

A bond was required of the dealers, guaranteeing immediate shipment. The government is to provide the cars. It is estimated the lumber will cost approximately $400,000.

CYCLONE DOES SOME DAMAGE

To J W Blue's Farm in Union Co $1250 Insurance Partially Covers The Loss

A cyclone struck Kelly Hosman's place near Geiger lake and broke out windows and unroofed his house, and blew the backwater into his residence, filling it with mud.

It then struck Jake Stewart's place, destroying a barn and tent house, in which a Mr. Belmer lived.

Walter Talbot's was the next farm visited. The wind unroofed the old Young house and destroyed three barns, a buggy house and other out buildings. Two buggies, about 100 chickens some oil barrels and a lot of baled hay was also damaged and carried off of this place.

The twister then hit the John Blue place, where Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gray live. Mrs. Gray saw the cloud approaching her home and gives a very clear description of the cyclone. The wind dipped first and took a fence, then struck a new barn, 30x50 feet, close to a concrete silo, demolishing the barn, a second barn, 50x60 feet, was then torn to atoms, as also was a wooden silo near by. A third barn was crushed in. In it there were ten head of mules and three head of horses. One horse was killed and another is expected to die. Part of the roofing was found across the road on the Sol Blue farm. B strip of timber about 50 yards wide was mowed down.

The cyclone was going in the direction of Morganfield when it left the Blue farm but fortunately missed this city.

No one was injured but some of the men and boys on the Blue place narrowly escaped. They were playing marbles under the shed of one of the barns. The cloud looked so dangerous they stopped the game and ran to the house, the barn falling to the ground just as they reached the house.

In the barns destroyed were 600 or 700 bushels of corn and 300 bales of hay. We understand Mr. Blue had $600 insurance on one barn, $400 on another and $250 on the other. The silo was also insured and the ensilage had all been fed out. Jap Waller spent Saturday in adjusting the losses for Mr. Blue and Mr. Talbot.

A. M. Datta also suffered some damage.

A Trip, But No Picnic.

Perhaps the chief merit of this yarn is that it is true. A flagman on a certain Southern road put his saving in a bank and the bank failed and he lost the money. The president of the closed institution was arrested and tried for violation of the state laws and convicted, and given a long term at hard labor.

The flagman chanced to be aboard the train which carried the convicted bank wrecker to the penitentiary to begin serving his sentence. As the locomotive pulled into the town where the prison was situated the flagman opened the car door, and glaring straight at the seat where the ex-banker sat, handcuffed to a deputy sheriff, he called out in a loud, clear, glad voice:

"Frankfort! Change clothes for ten years!"—Irvin S. Cobb.

Col. Harry Sommers, Kentucky's only representative on the Board of the Federal Farm Loan Bank to be established in this city, was in Louisville Wednesday, and while here discussed with various bankers the plans for the bank.

Col. Sommers' impression is that the bank will be established and will be in full operation some time in March or in April at the latest. Headquarters will be rented in some place in Louisville and a large force of experienced employees employed. The Farm Loan Bank is to be established in Louisville will serve the States of Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio and Indiana, and will add greatly to the business importance both of Louisville and Kentucky.

A board of five men will manage the bank, and, as stated, Col. Sommers is the only director from Kentucky. He was appointed as a result of a joint call upon Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo by Senators Beckham and James. The Senators went to see the Secretary of the treasury together, and stated that both were equally interested in the appointment and felt that by selecting Col. Sommers the Federal government would gain a public officer of rare merit. After discussing the matter with the Senators for a short time, Mr. McAdoo announced that he would give a decision later and Col. Sommers was selected.

Col. Sommers is a native of Maryland, but has lived in Kentucky, for nearly forty years, or since he was a boy. Thirty-five years ago he purchased the Elizabethtown News, and he has been the editor and owner of that publication ever since.

As a newspaper editor and as an influential citizen, Col. Sommers has for more than thirty years specialized three things—good farming, good roads and good schools. He has written several of the laws improving public education in Kentucky. He has been president of the State Good Roads Association; he has delivered addresses before farmers' institutes all over Kentucky. He has been several times president of the Kentucky Press Association and of the Kentucky Sunday School Association.

Col. Sommers is everywhere recognized as a man of high character, unusual ability and special knowledge of the needs of the country people of this section of the country. He is known almost as well in Louisville as in Hardin county, and it has always been one of his ambitions to lead a movement to bring the metropolis of Kentucky into close touch with the State. As a director of the Farm Loan Bank, Col. Sommers will spend a considerable portion of his time in Louisville, although he will continue the publication of the Elizabethtown News.

The associated editor of that paper is Mr. W. H. Marriott, Col. Sommers' nephew, and one of the most capable newspaper men in the State.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE WOMAN WHO VOTES

AS SEEN BY HERSELF

Testimony From Women Voters Collected by the National American Woman Suffrage Association Shows That Western Women are for the Federal Amendment

Why did she do it and what will she do next are the two questions oftenest on men's lips, whenever and wherever their attention turns toward woman. It is not, therefore, to be wondered at that the woman voter's pre- and election performances held men's engrossed attention, and, in the result, set them to muttering equivocally about the "eternal feminine" and "woman's manifold mystery." So much has been written and said about the woman vote by others than those who did the voting, that the National American Woman Suffrage Association considers it of interest and profit to submit some testimony from the women voters themselves.

Among the representations claimed as conclusively proved by the woman vote, the chief has been that the western woman is indifferent to her eastern sister's enfranchisement, as shown by her predilection for Mr. Wilson in spite of Mr. Hughes's pronounced commitment in favor of the Federal suffrage amendment. It is in regard to this aspect of the question that the testimony on file at the national suffrage headquarters is of particular interest.

This testimony comes from every suffrage state in the Union, and from it leaps the insistence that, whichever way they voted, the women were not, in their own conviction, turning a cold shoulder upon suffrage. Some voted for Hughes, some for Wilson, but it would seem that in casting up chances, so far as the amendment was concerned, the woman voter showed a disposition to rest her faith on achievement rather than on promise. Mr. Hughes had come out for the suffrage amendment, but he was appraised as a late comer-out. Mr. Wilson's earlier conversion to suffrage and actual vote for suffrage and actual grip on his party weighed heavily in his favor. There was, also, a conviction that Wilson could handle a reluctant party better than it could be handled under a Republican administration, itself not committed to nation-wide suffrage as a party measure.

A Kansas woman sums up the indications thus: "Many of our women voted for Wilson because he voted for suffrage in New Jersey and because if elected for a second term he could do more for suffrage than in the first when his party had been so opposed."

An Oregon woman declares that she worked for the return of President Wilson as hard as she could and "I never failed to emphasize on every occasion that President Wilson voted for suffrage and that I heard him say in Atlantic City that in the end we would not quarrel about method, I for one shall be greatly disappointed if the Federal amendment does not pass during the next administration."

"Women here," writes a Nevada woman, "are rejoicing over having cast their first ballot and are more anxious than ever that all women should have the same right."

And a California woman who voted for Hughes points out that it is a signal fact that in only one state could the woman's vote be separately counted, and in that state they voted for the candidate who was outspokenly in favor of the Federal amendment.

What an Idaho woman says about the fear of reactionary forces is voiced by not a few. "As many Republican men as Republican women voted the Democratic ticket this year for the sole purpose of getting rid of the game." The political pot needed cleansing."

ANNA LOUISE STRONG

In a pointed analysis of the woman vote, Miss Anna Louise Strong, one of the representative women of the Pacific coast, known far and wide for her vivid concern in advanced social and industrial programs, summarizes considerations that weighed with the western woman voter as follows:

"The Democratic platform was practically identical with the Republican, and the character of the two candidates differed only in that one had been broadened by four years' experience in the White House, and the other had passed those years in the ultra-conservative atmosphere of the Supreme Court. Their utterances showed this difference; I chose Wilson. "My belief in woman suffrage and my hope of a Federal amendment had also much to do with my vote. I voted for a Republican for Senator (Poinsett), because his past record on suffrage and other matters was better than that of his opponent, and for the Democrat, George Cotterill, for Congress, for the same reason. No greater contribution could have been made by our state toward the Federal amendment than the election of George Cotterill."

One of the three appointees to serve on the United States Employees' Compensation Commission is Mrs. Frances C. Axtell, of Bellingham, Wash. Mrs. Axtell has a fine record of "firsts." She is the first woman ever appointed to such service, and she was one of the first two women in Washington to be elected to the State Legislature. Mrs. Axtell doesn't contend that women alone can manage affairs better than men alone. She even goes so far as to say that maybe men alone could do better than women alone. Her point is against that alone. Neither men alone nor women alone constitute an ideal state.

"Women look at life from a different angle from men, and both viewpoints should be represented," she says. "Most men are in politics because they want to do something or somebody. Women are in it because they want to get something done. Then, too, women are not bound by party fealty; they vote for what they think is right, and for the people they think will do what is right, regardless of party."

President Wilson Congratulates North Dakota

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, President of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, has received the following letter from President Wilson:

"My dear Mrs. Catt:—May I not express to you and your organization, as well as to the women of North Dakota, my congratulations upon the passage by the legislature of that State of a bill granting to the women of the State the right to vote for presidential electors and for municipal officers? As you know, I have a very real interest in the extension of the suffrage to the women, and I feel that every step in this direction should be applauded.

"Cordially and sincerely yours," (Signed) Woodrow Wilson.

Colorado Men Repudiate Anti-Suffrage Falsehoods

Becoming weary of aspersions cast upon the fair name of Colorado by anti-suffragists anxious to prove the failure of woman suffrage at any cost, leading men of Denver have issued a statement in which they set forth the truth with regard to the economic condition of the State and credit woman suffrage with a big share in conducting to Colorado's health and prosperity. The statement is signed by eighteen of the leading bankers of Denver, headed by H. J. Alexander, president of the First National Bank, and by the heads of the fifteen leading retail establishments, while lawyers, clergymen, the superintendent of public schools, the supervisor of high schools, other educators and doctors at the top of their respective professions are also among the signatories. Dr. Clinton Hickey signs for the City Federation, a delegate organization of the Associated Charities, Ministerial Alliance and more than forty altruistic societies of Denver.

THEY WATCH IT WORK; THEN THEY VOTE IT IN.

Every equal suffrage state is adjacent to another equal suffrage state—that is, every state except Wyoming which has granted votes for women had an opportunity to know beforehand how equal suffrage worked in one or more neighboring states. In no country, state or community which has granted women a measure of suffrage has it ever been voted away from them, and in most cases the original franchise right has been enlarged and extended.

PROTECT YOUR HOME WITH TWO VOTES INSTEAD OF ONE

LAWS IN STATES WHERE WOMEN VOTE

Children, Education, Women Workers, and Social Conditions Are Given Special Attention.

It is often said that men voting alone will legislate as ably for women and children as men and women voting together. But a study of the conditions that prevail in suffrage and non-suffrage states does not bear out this contention.

Child Labor and Compulsory Education, certainly of vital moment to the young, are covered by excellent legislation in ten of the twelve western states (83 per cent.) where mothers are enfranchised. Out of the thirty-six male suffrage states, only twenty-one (58 per cent.) have fixed fourteen as the legal working age of boys and girls. The idea of compulsory education has made more headway, Mississippi being the only non-suffrage state which has no school attendance laws. In Virginia, South Carolina, Florida and Arkansas, however, the law is enforced only in certain counties and is not state-wide in its application.

Laws establishing an eight or nine hour day for working women are prevalent in eight equal suffrage states (66.6 per cent.) and in only ten commonwealths (28 per cent.) where men have regulated industrial conditions. Kansas has an excellent Industrial Welfare Commission which looks after women's hours of labor, and minimum wage for women (14 per cent.) in six western states (50 per cent.) and in only five male (14 per cent.) in Massachusetts and Nevada.

In Massachusetts and Nevada, whose powers are merely a minimum wage commission, the Massachusetts Employer's punishment for violation is a fine of $100.

In spite of the wide disparity in mother's pensioning, the equal suffrage states are far ahead in a solid phalanx (66.6 per cent.) for this first aid to motherhood. In eight other suffrage states, (50 per cent.) is helped by the general help of the state. In the Western states, too, showing mothers groups more generous in their degree of help, work New York, the grand state when the father is absent, receives only ten a mother the first child, if disabled, is pensioned if family, and dead, or has a allowance of twenty dollars.

The first child, by parents, the equal in the west, of children, equal suffrage Eleven (91.6 per cent.) law on the states have a bit of justice statute but only twelve (33.3 per cent.) states.

"Where there is one man who assumes composite responsibility, doing his work and woman's also, a dozen women are doing man's work as well as their own. And yet these women, who successfully, and with every handicap of the times, manage their households, who are fathers, mothers, sisters, and brothers in one, who do their work and man's work also, are considered by altogether too many men, and by far too many women, as incompetent to cast a ballot."

ATRIOTISM—WOMAN SUFFRAGE

in a democratic government like the United voters. Half the People are denied the vote, the sense of a vote because the ballot is an added means of a great developer of responsibility. Inness means the development of all the country's women of this nation are equally responsible of its resources will be neglected, and the country full development of strength.

THE HOME AND THE VOTE—A NEW KIND OF WOMAN'S PAGE

Showing That Woman Must Meddle With Politics Because Politics has Already Meddled With Her.

HEART TO HEART TALKS WITH AMERICAN WOMEN

We are often being told that the place for woman is in the Home. Well, she it. But what do we expect of her in the home? Merely to stand the home is not enough. She is a failure unless she attends the health and welfare, moral as well as physical, of her family, and especially of her children. She, more than anyone else, is held responsible for what they become.

She is responsible for the cleanliness of her home. She is responsible for the whole-ness of her food. She is responsible for the children's health. She is all, is responsible for them. She can't the mother control them? How?

These clean her own rooms, but if neighbors are allowed to live in filth, she cannot keep her rooms from being infested with filth. She can cook her food well, but if she is permitted to sell poor food, an milk or stale eggs, she cannot the food wholesome for her children.

She can care for her own plumbing, but if the plumbing in the house is un- sanitary, if garbage accumulates and hallways and stairs are left dirty, she cannot protect her children from sick- ness and infection.

She can take every care to avoid fire, but if the house has been badly built, if the fire-escapes are inadequate she cannot guard her children from the horrors of being maimed or killed by fire.

She can send her children out for air and exercise, but if the conditions that surround them on the streets are immoral and degrading, she cannot protect them from these dangers.

Alone, she cannot make these things right. Who or what can?

The city can do it—the city govern- ment that is elected by the people to take care of the interests of the people.

And who decides what the city govern- ment shall do?

First, the officials of that govern- ment; and, second, those who elect them.

Do the women elect them? No, the men do. So it is the men and not the women who are really responsible for the unclean houses, bad plumbing, unwholesome food, danger of fire, risk of tuberculosis and other diseases, and immoral influences of the street.

In fact, men are responsible for the conditions under which the children live, but we hold women responsible for the results of those conditions. If we hold women responsible for the results, must we not, in simple justice, let them have something to say as to what these conditions shall be?

There is one way of doing this. Give them the same means that men have. Let them have a voice in politics.

A woman cannot marry without the interference of politics. She must have the permission of City Hall to get her license.

She cannot build a home without City Hall's permission. She is obliged to depend upon City Hall to guarantee purity of the food for her household.

The water supply of her home is linked up with City Hall. Politics gets inside of her baby. The milk that she feeds the baby is under political supervision.

She cannot get her garbage re- moved without the interference of politics.

Politics enters into the question of her heat and fuel supply.

She must depend on politics to protect her and her children from fire. And from contagious disease. And from polluted air.

She cannot walk on clean streets unless politics will permit her.

In face of these incontrovertible facts, can she possibly say that she doesn't care "to meddle with politics?" If she wants her house well kept she must meddle with politics, because politics has already meddled with her.

Woman is by nature and training, a housekeeper. She must be allowed a hand in the city's housekeeping, even if she introduces an occasional house-cleaning.

FOOD COMMISSIONER FOR SUFFRAGE

John J. Dillon, Commissioner of Foods and Markets for the State of New York, is a man whose business contacts convince him every day of his life of the need of women's votes. He says: "We men had a chance once to say to the women, 'You are the backbone of the Nation anyhow. Of course you can vote!' But we let that chance go by. Now, in this State we are going to have another chance soon, and we must all get together and vote for suffrage."

IT WAS THE POLITICS THAT NEEDED BOILING

The water supply of Fairholm was contaminated by the sewage from the towns up the river. Typhoid fever floated leisurely down with the current, pausing for its handful of lives from each town. The city council said decisively that the city could not build a filter plant without increased taxation. At the words "increased taxation" the majority of the men assured their wives that the best method was to boil the water. They squelched wisely discussion by remarks like, "My dear, if you want a new filter plant you must change our state constitution on the bonded indebtedness of third-class cities."

That sounded more like politics than like woman's concerns, and the housewives set to boiling. Mrs. Homer, among others, boiled water to drink, water for bathing "above the neck," water for washing vegetables; and scalded her hands along with the dishes. She ferried the children's tasting water outside the house. Dis- obedient Jimmy on the baseball field drank water from a tin bucket— with- out setting the fever; Janet sipped dubious drinks at the ice-cream emporium—likewise without harm; while little Josie, despite hours of conscientious thirst, got the fever from milk in her own blue china mug. The cow's drinking water had not been boiled. The mothers of Fairholm had not attacked the source of danger, because of their narrow definition of "home"—(Mary Alden Hopkins, in the Congressionalist.)

CLOSET CREEDS THAT GET NOWHERE

Has any devotee of the anti-suffrage creed, ever given it a working test? Ever tried by its guidance, for instance, to get good milk for her family, or secured clean alleys in her neighborhood in the summer months, or safe sanitary conditions in the workshop where her daughter's underclothes were made? All important things, as any house-maker must admit. The creed reads, "We believe that women, according to their leisure, opportunity and experience, should take part increasingly in civic and municipal affairs, as they have always done in charitable, philanthropic and educational activities. And we believe that this can be done best by women without the ballot, as a non-partisan body of disinterested workers."

No woman can take part "increas- ingly" in any branch of civic work without coming face up to legisla- tion, the need of it, the injustice of it or its outward graces, says the Richmond, Va. Journal. Then what is she to do according to the creed? There is but one course to pursue: cajole the lawmaker. And how? By her age-long charm? Her smile? Her wrath and disgust? By promises? There is no dignity and no sense in any such statement. Carried to its logical conclusion, the first part of the creed, as quoted above, cannot "best be done by women without the ballot." The dignified thing to do is to say to any lawmaker or aspiring lawmaker, "I ask for this legislation because I see that it is needed and the safety of the home and good of the family demand it. I ask it as a citizen responsible with you for the welfare of my city."

BIG DRIVE FOR PRESIDENTIAL SUFFRAGE

The North Dakota victory makes women accredited voters in thirteen states in the Union. But let them cross an imaginary line into one of the other thirty-six and lo! some subtle sea-change is wrought where- by they lose their political signifi- cance. From being free American citizens, with their own voice in the government of state and nation, they become wards of the common- wealth and the country. Western women are growing yearly more sen- sitive to this anomalous situation whereby they can lose their political identity by stepping across a line that does not exist, and they are noting with keen interest the schedule of bills for presidential suffrage to be presented in non-suffrage states this year, under the direction of the National American Woman Suffrage Assn. It is practically assured that there will be such a bill introduced in every state legislature that con- vvenes in 1917.

The Illinois act, which grants the franchise to women in presiden- tial and municipal elections, will be used as the model measure. In some states local conditions or the peculiarities of the state constitution may require that the model act be slightly amended.

MORGAN RAIDER TELLS A STORY

Capt. Lucas, Frankfort, Feels as Fit as in Old Days.

MORGAN'S 'OLD HORSE THIEF'

Morgan's Raiders, loved and honored by every man and woman in the South, and feared throughout the North in the days of '61, are still remembered by their daring raids into the very heart of the North. These fearless men led by John Morgan stepped at nothing, and time after time they slipped past the Union lines and back again bringing with them thousands of dollars worth of plunder. These men, often riding day and night for weeks at a time, sparing nothing to aid the cause of Dixie, earned for themselves the famous name of "Morgan's Raiders." They gave the flower of their youth and strength to the cause dear to the South, and those of them that are left are still remembered and loved in the South and honored in the North.

CAPT. MASON B. LUCAS.

Captain Lucas Popular.

Among these is Captain Mason B. Lucas, who is known throughout Franklin County as "Uncle Mac." He is now finishing his second term as County Jailor, and there is no more widely known or popular citizen in all Frankfort or Franklin County.

During the war, he was Morgan's right-hand man, and his friends love to call him "Morgan's Old Horse Thief" as he was always given command of foraging parties when they had got past the Union lines and were in Northern territory.

"Uncle Mac" is now 73 years old and not long ago he felt that he was getting into the class of old men. But he feels fine again now and says he believes he can straddle his horse from the ground and make as hard a ride as he could in the days of '61. In telling the story of how he got back his health, he said:

"Some time ago, my stomach went back on me, and I felt heavy and lousy after eating. I got so I couldn't sleep well at night and began to get a little nervous. My appetite wasn't what it used to be either. I didn't seem to ever get hungry. I got worried and decided to try Tanlac.

Sleeps Like a Baby.

"Well, sir, after taking two bottles of Tanlac, my appetite is splendid. I sleep like a baby, and feel stronger than I have for years. In fact I feel so good that I don't believe anyone can outdistance me for the re-nomination in the coming Democratic primary.

"Tanalac has done me so much good that I felt like I wanted to help some one else, and so I bought a bottle of Tanlac for an old war comrade of mine. Tanlac helped me and I am glad to tell others about it."

Tanalac, the most-r medicine and restorative tonic, is sold exclusively by J. H. ORME, Marion, Ky. Other exclusive agents in nearby towns are as follows: BLACKFORD, A. T. Brown; FREDONIA, W. E. Cox; CRIDER, L. D. McElroy; EDDYVILLE, W. H. Brown Co. Adv.

Just What Did He Mean?

A lady, who was suffering a slight indisposition, told her husband that it was with the greatest difficulty she could breathe, and the effort distressed her exceedingly. "I wouldn't try, my dear," soothingly responded the husband.

Sprains And Strains Relieved

Women With Ballot Do Not Neglect Their Homes and Babies

By DR. MARY HALTON of New York

New Zealand, Norway and Australia, the first three countries with the lowest death rate, are all woman-suffrage countries. In all of the seven which have a lower death rate than the United States women have at least the municipal vote.

In the United States we spend $165,000 a year to protect babies and $600,000 a year to protect hogs. When of all the civilized world the country that had woman suffrage the longest has the lowest death rate, and the five countries with the next lowest rate all have woman suffrage, can there be a doubt that woman suffrage has brought about better and healthier living conditions for all the people?

Isn't it evident that when mothers are represented in government and their opinions and interest are consulted, babies have a better chance? Isn't it proved that women with the ballot do not neglect their home and babies?

Children Often Are Exposed to Disease

By SAMUEL G. DIXON, M.D., Commissioner of Health for Pennsylvania

Few people would willingly jeopardize the life and health of a fellow being. Yet many people, who would emphatically deny intentionally doing harm will endeavor to evade rational restrictions necessary for the protection of others.

In the enforcement of the laws for the protection of the public health numerous instances occur which show how the innocent are made to suffer for the carelessness of others. Rather than undergo a temporary restriction of their usual activities people will often expose others to communicable disease—for instance, scarlet fever.

Parents in particular will often assume the responsibility in exposing their own and other people's children which would make them shudder if they appreciated the true seriousness of it.

Measles, whooping cough and a number of the common ailments of childhood are looked upon as inevitable by people who are ignorant of the dangers of these diseases and the possibility of avoiding them.

It is a crime willingly to expose children to disease because of the belief that they will eventually fall a victim to it. The old idea that the diseases of children are doubly serious to an adult is untrue. An occasional mild case of a disease in one instance may be responsible for a serious and fatal illness from this same disease if it is communicated to another.

Selfish Motive Seen in Plea for Filipino Independence

By REPRESENTATIVE AARON S. KREIDER of Pennsylvania

Why should the Filipino desire his independence? The United States government has not oppressed the people, but has spent millions of dollars in an effort to uplift them, instituting many reforms for their benefit at great cost. The United States has never exacted one cent in the way of taxes. We have done them only good and not harm, and this at great expense and inconvenience to ourselves.

What, then, can be the motive of the political agitators that desire independence, who are smarting under the control of the United States?

It is plainly evident that they would like to exploit for their own personal benefit and go back to the old system of despoliation in vogue not many years ago. They object to the restraining influence and power of the United States. It is the same desire for freedom that is expressed by many young men and women between the ages of fourteen and twenty who wish to avoid the control of their parents over their actions.

LETTER FROM R. ALLEN FOSTER

Is in School at Princeton, N. J.

Some Very Interesting

Notes Below

Princeton, N. J.

Mar. 27, 1917.

Dear Mr. Jenkins,

I have been intending all the year to have you send me the Record Press, and this long wait shows how negligent I have been. It does not indicate, however, that I am not interested in home affairs, for I am. Father has sent me several copies of the Press when something especially interesting happened. But I want to have the whole story of what is happening, not just little intermittent peeps in at your door. I want to come in and stay with you and feel that you are with me and I with you.

perennially. For I was nursed upon those hills of Crittenden, many has been the time that I have driven afield my team at the time the found day stood, tiptoe on those misty hilltops, old "Bald Knob" for example. Even now I hear the morning voices of my neighbors, and the lowing herds that responded to their call. Many has been the time in Crittenden that I have followed along her rows of corn and tobacco, and tossed her hay into the loft till the live long daylight failed. Many times have I drunk, the water from her brooks, as pure as ever ran, and many are the moonlit hours that I have unbegrudgingly wasted beneath her shade.

It is not that I did not love those hills and valleys that I left them. It was merely an inborn desire to see what lay beyond there. Now that I know the bogs and stench of the Jersey meadows, I can return with pleasure to the land where the summer days come offest, nor shall I forget it while on my world wide wanderings. I have walked many times in the lights of Broadway, have stood on Brooklyn Bridge deep into the night looking at "The Sky Line" and watching the steamer ferries ply East River and the New York Bay. But I had rather spend my night hours in looking at star lit eyes in God's own Crittenden. So enclose I please find one dollar for which please send me weekly word from you, at Apartment 23, the Crittenden Record-Press for Graduate College, Princeton, N. J. and at Appalachee Camps, Boothbay Harbor, Maine after June 1st.

Princeton itself and much of Jersey is wonderful to see. The fogs I mentioned passed away in a night time, but they are so thick when we do have them that many disasters occur on their account. One night last week, we had a street car wreck on that account killing the motor-men and injuring several persons. Yet when it is clear here, I never saw a sky so blue. The wind from the ocean comes at times and sweep every trace of a cloud from the sky, so that though we are 30 miles from the Atlantic, we can see lighthouses on the coast from the Cleveland tower of our building on clear nights. Then there is a certain attraction in this country that comes from age. Every spot seems to have some important history. There stands the house where Washington spent the night after the Battle of Princeton, or here is the memorable spring from which he drank. The whole air is full of reverence for the past, which some think we western folks lack and need, yet often all these country landscapes are no older than Crittenden's nor one whit more beautiful.

I am sending you a little poem that my little cousin wrote. I think it quite remarkable for a little girl of her age. She is only eight years old. Her name is Helen Stewart Foster. I bought this poem from her paying her a perfectly good twenty five cent piece in the hope that she would write me another. She not only composed it but she typed and punctuated it all by herself. I promised her I would try to sell it to the "New York Times" or from you, at Apartment 23, the Crittenden Record-Press for her. She was overjoyed at the thought and said she would write another if I would. Can you play the part of the New York Times for me and print it? I am sending you a copy of it just like she wrote it, as far as I have been able to find out, the thought is entirely original, and surely the expression is original for it.

PERUNA in Your Home

A housewife must give the first aid in colds, coughs and other ailments. Her promptness in applying the remedy often saves a serious illness. Her experience with remedies has led her to know that PERUNA is always reliable, that she should have it on hand for the immediate treatment of coughs and colds, and that it is always to her.

The Family Safeguard

The experience of one woman, given herewith, is typical of thousands of letters that reach the Peruna Company from grateful friends who have found their homes incomplete, and their family safety in danger without PERUNA.

Colds and Catarrh

The great weight of testimony that has accumulated in the 44 years that PERUNA has been on the market proves it, beyond question, to be the reliable family remedy, ever ready to take preventing the serious effects of colds, coughs, grip and derangements of the digestive organs. This proof is published from time to time and many families have profited by it.

We are authorized to announce
CHARLES THREKELD
as a candidate for Magistrate, in Piney district, No. 8, subject to the action of the Republican primary,
August 4th, 1917.

The Livingston Co., Paper
Of Smithland Had This To Say About Daron Koon.

The Enterprise is authorized to place the announcement of Daron Koon, of Crittenden county before its readers as a candidate for Representative from this district, subject to the democratic primary to be held Aug. 4th, 1917.

For six years past, Mr. Koon has been teaching in the schools of Crittenden county where he is well and favorably known. He comes before the voters of the two counties highly recommended.
He possesses, in an eminent degree, the necessary qualifications for the position to which he aspires and if nominated and elected his constant aim will be to make a record of which his friends will take pride as well as the honor he will receive for himself.

His attainments have been obtained by industry and close study and application. He contemplates making a canvass among the people and see and solicits as many voters as opportunity affords, hoping, if he should fail to meet any one, that he may be honored by that one's vote, which he will very much appreciate.

His many Crittenden county friends regard him as one of the most deserving young men of that county with ability to cope, with his opponents in the campaign and hold his own in the halls of legislation. His candidacy is before the people and he will cheerfully abide by their ex-

SON LOYAL IF FATHER ISN'T

German Tells His Son "Never To Darken Door Again."

Evansville, Ind., March 27.—
Love for his country caused William B. Schuster, 21 years old, living at 208 Poplar street, to join the United States navy here against the wishes of his father.
According to the young man his father, Frank Schuster, told him that if he joined the navy he did so against his wishes and that he should never darken his door again.

"My father," said the young man, "was born in Germany, and he feels that it would be wrong for his son to fight against the Fatherland in the event that war is declared between the United States and Germany.
However, I was born in this country and have made my living here. I feel that it is my duty to defend my country if it is necessary. I believe that my father will feel after a while that I am right and will permit me to come back home."

McCandless Freed By Governor From Long Prison Term.

Frankford, Ky., Mar. 27—Gov.
A. O. Stanley issued a pardon to Claude McCandless, a prominent citizen of Smithland, sentenced to from two to 21 years in the penitentiary for the alleged killing of Barney Trimble at Smith-land in 1914, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The McCandless case at Smith-land for the past two years has aroused much interest in this city.
McCandless is well known in Paducah. In 1914 he shot and killed Barney Trimble of Smithland, over domestic trouble. McCandless claimed that Trimble had insulted his wife. The jury at the first trial sentenced McCandless to from two to 21 years in the penitentiary. A new trial was granted on several points, but the second jury rendered the same verdict, and the case was carried to the court of appeals.

Tuesday morning the appellate court of Kentucky affirmed the decision of the lower court, giving McCandless a jail sentence of from 2 to 21 years.

Capt. Fred McCandless of this city, brother of Claude McCandless, left this morning for Smith-land with the pardon and will bring his brother back to this city on the steamer Dorothy.—

Pays The Bet At Last.

Chicago. "Big Jim" O'Leary known throughout the world as one of America's heaviest gamblers, has announced he will pay off all election bets, involving $650,000, at once. He will keep the interest which the money has been drawing since it was staked and placed in his hands last October and November.

O'Leary was a strong better on Hughes, and considerable alarm arose when he refused to pay off after the last State had reported in November. He said,
"Wait until the electoral college casts the ballot." Then he put it off until Congress confirmed the election of Wilson, finally postponing it until the inauguration. He said there might be a slip and Wilson might not become the next President after all, thus letting him out on his side of the bets.

Vast Resources Of Siberia Are Unrivalled In The Old World.

Siberia is destined one day to become the richest country in the world, for it has a natural wealth so diversified, and as yet almost untouched, that it has no rival in the old world. How vast this wealth is described by A. Kammer in LaNature.

Before the war Siberia was producing from 1,000,000 to 1,300,000 tons of flour a year. As a grazing country it has no limits and it exports large quantities of leather, tallow and butter. Its forests are almost inexhaustible and it supplies furs to all the world.

Its mineral wealth can only be guessed at, for the greater part of the country has never been prospected. But there are several enormous deposits of oil, that of Konznetz embracing about 30,000 square miles and estimated to contain 920,000,000 tons of oil; that of Irkutsk, estimated to contain 250,000,000 tons, and those of the Ienisseisk and Siempalatinsk. Some of these have as yet scarcely been touched.

The levee will be the biggest item of expense. The estimates place the cost of construction of the levee at $102,000. The embankment will average seven feet in width, while the top of the levee will be eight feet in width.

AMERICA PREPARED IN FINANCIAL WAY

No Possibility of Panic Declares Thomas W. Lamont in Address.

Chicago, March 23.—Thomas W. Lamont, a member of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., in an address delivered tonight before investment bankers of the Middle West on "America Financially Prepared," reviewed financial conditions in this country. He said in part:

"Of America's exports for 1916 totaling almost $5,000,000,000 approximately $4,000,000,000 were sold to England, France, Russia and their possessions. In the two years previous these same countries purchased from America $3,500,000,000 of goods making total purchases for the three years of approximately $7,500,000,000.

"In the same period we have granted credit to these countries of something less than $5,000,000,000. These figures show how the trade of these countries has been of an enormous value to America and would more than warrant extension of continued credit, even if the Entente nations had not been fighting our battles for us, as we believe they have, even if we were not about to cast our lot in with them.

"It may take some time for America to assist actively in a military way, but in financial measures she can render assistance this very moment. If the Treasury should decide to issue a Government obligation tomorrow for a billion dollars the whole sum would be waiting for it.

"Fortunately, in a financial way, our country is in a state of complete preparedness. There is no sign of panic and no possibility of one. The community as passed through all the apprehension of impending war without a tremor. As a solid and unshakable basis we have an enormous stock of gold. These same allied nations that have in the last three years bought from America nearly $7,500,000,000 of our foodstuffs, raw materials and manufactured goods have in the same period shipped in gold over $1,200,000,000, bringing America's stock of the precious metal up to a figure unprecedented for any country, namely, $3,150,000,000.

Vanishes With Buffalo.

For a long time the West's only important point of distinction from the East has been its addition to the use of gold coin. This is a relic of the old gold rush days, when gold dust and nuggets were currency and greenbacks either unknown or utterly despised. Large rolls of paper money, all powerful east of the Mississippi, never have made much of an impression on residents of the Pacific Coast. One might as reasonably have hoped to create a sensation by exhibiting a bushel of wampum. To the old West gold was money and silver was small change, but paper simply meant nothing at all.

This has been one of the last Western mannerisms to survive the gradual standardization of the whole country. Step by step the different sections of the country are losing their sectional differences and becoming as indistinguishable from one another as twin sisters. The Treasury Department's announced plan to take the gold piece out of circulation on the Pacific Coast will finish the standardizing job as far as the west is concerned. East will be no longer East, West no longer West, and presently the twain shall meet, long before the time mentioned by Mr. Kipling.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

English Bullet Affects

Aluminum Market.

A peculiar circumstance in the manufacture of English rifle bullets is said to be responsible, in part at least, for the increased price of aluminum. Shortly after the outbreak of the war England gave up making round nosed bullets and produced, instead, a pointed variety with a solid lead point inclosed in a cupronickel jacket. Some time later it was discovered that these missiles were not properly balanced for the English type of gun. After many tests the difficulty was overcome by inserting a little aluminum cone, 3-8 inch high, in the apex of the cartridge jacket. While the weight of a single cone is of course, almost negligible the total amount of aluminum required for England's rifle ammunition runs into thousands of pounds.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

New Teeth in Old Age.

Peter Minor, 75 years old, is a remarkable specimen of the mountaineer. He is cutting a new set of teeth. During the spring he mowed 150 rails a day himself and built 288 panels of seven-rail fences. He cleared five acres of new ground and rolled his own logs. He has all this in corn. At his mountain home, hid in the fastness, he scientifically cultivates flowers, having so many varieties that he has roses blooming all the year round.—Charleston (W. Va.) Dispatch New York World.

Letter From Mississippi.

Hattisburg, Miss., Mar. 16, '17.
Mr. S. M. Jenkins, editor,
Marion, Ky.

Dear Sir:
Enclosed find check for $1.50, for which please send me the Record-Press. Address E. D. McDowell, P. O. box 720, Hattisburg, Miss.

My new home in the South is a dandy. Hattisburg is a live town.

The weather here is beautiful—just like summer.

The boys are passing my office today by train loads from the border. They were all yelling and cheering wonderfully. The atmosphere on the Gulf is quite different from that in my "Old Kentucky Home State."

Wishing you and your paper's many readers all good things. I remain

Very respectfully yours,
E. D. McDowell.

Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson
to Wed Chicago Publisher.

Members of the family of Frank R. Compton, wealthy Chicago publisher and a native of Grand Rapids, admit his engagement to Margaret Wilson, oldest daughter of President Wilson.

Mr. Compton recently returned to Chicago from Washington where it is said his suit for the hand of Miss Wilson was a success. He was reported engaged to Miss Wilson more than a year ago, but both the family of the President and Mr. Compton denied the report at that time.

HOW CRACK TROOPS DEVELOP

French Method of Picking Real Fighters Among Recruits—Result of Modern Warfare.

During the first part of the war careful watch was kept by the French general staff over the way every regiment and division acted. In the acid test of battle this division proved its ability to advance under fire, that regiment failed. Gradually the "crack" organizations were known. These picked men were quartered about 20 or 30 miles behind the lines, and they live like athletes training for a prize fight. They have great athletic fields, where they play football and practice field sports. Theaters and music are provided for their amusement. While things are quiet at the front they are kept in as perfect physical and mental condition as art and science can devise. Then, when the commanders at the front need men for a charge against German trenches across the shell-swept open fields, word is sent back for these special troops. The needed number are told off, they are loaded into automobiles, carried swiftly to the front, singling and engaging; they make their charge; trench troops move up and occupy the ground they have gained, and the attackers—such as are left of them—go back to their football and training, to get ready to go to the next point in the line that needs them.

What the French have done the Germans and the British have done likewise. These "troops of attack" are a development of modern warfare.—World's Work.

PLAN NEW HOTEL IN VOLCANO

Barbours Hawaiian Hostelry at Crater's Edge to Be Replaced by New Building.

The Volcano House hotel, which has the distinction of being the only hotel in the world situated within the crater of an active volcano, is about to be torn down and rebuilt on a larger scale.

The new buildings will be erected on the site of the present hotel, which stands upon a wide shelf within the outer wall of the great crater of Kilauea volcano in Hawaii, and commands an uninterrupted view of the dead lava flows and the lake of fire which forms the active portion of the crater itself.

The ancient log cabin smoking room, which has sheltered many a famous scientist and traveler, will be preserved, together with the record books, in which the opinions and impressions of people of world-wide reputation are written.

Carriage Business Holds Up Well.

In spite of the wonderful run on automobiles which has only been equalled by the similar sale of bicycles a decade ago, the carriage business holds up and the manufacturers predict a very satisfactory season in 1916, according to a Syracuse, N. Y., dealer in carriages and wagons.

"The elaborate type of survey and station wagons are no longer a requirement," said this dealer, "but the serviceable road wagon and vehicles for hauling heavy loads are much in demand. The automobile has in many cases replaced the horse, but the price for good animals is higher than it was ten years ago, and the same applies to wagons.

"Those who maintain stables in spite of the automobile are buying harness of the same standard used years ago. It is quite likely that horse-drawn vehicles will never return to their former popular favor, but they are passing out of use much more slowly than the average individual realizes."

Attending to Business.

"You say the officer arrested you while you were quietly minding your own business?"

"Yes, your honor. He caught me suddenly by the coat collar and threatened to truncheon me unless I accompanied him quietly to the station."

"You were peacefully attending to your own business, making no noise or disturbance of any kind?"

"None whatever, sir."

"It seems very strange. What is your business?"

"I'm a burglar."—London Tid-Bits.

Dropped Bombs on Bucharest Killed Hundreds.

London, March 24.—More than 1,000 persons were killed in Bucharest by the attacks of German aircraft prior to the abandonment of the city by the Rumanians, according to an account of the events given out at Jassy, the present capital, and forwarded in a Reuters dispatch. In a single day 300 persons were killed by the Zeppelin and airplanes. On this occasion, the report states, a group of airplanes descended to a low altitude and spent several hours in seeking victims, killing workmen and workwomen in the fields and streets.

SHOULD WOMEN VOTE?

(BY CORA E. CLIFT)

Should women vote? This question is asked quite often now.

Sometimes I think they ought to be given the right, and then again I ask myself it is quite a question as to whether the men rule this nation with the help of women or if it looks like they control and should, and yet they have failed to do so in many things.

I believe that the home is the place for women, and if the men of this fair land of ours would strive to protect and defend the rights of women as they should, there would never be a need for women suffrage.

Is it the men's fault that they have no more respect for women than what they have.

I sometimes think that if women would try more to be the true women that God intended them to be, that men would respect them more than they do. I do not mean that there is no good pure women these days, but I certainly do think that there is quite a number of them, who are far from what they ought to be, and far from what God intended them to be. I am more for suffrage than I am against it, and believe that all the states in the union will soon give the women the privilege to vote, and that such evils as intoxicating drinks and white slavery will be abolished forever.

Men fought and died to abolish negro slavery, which showed how great was their hate for it, and today there are many men who will not make one movement to save the fair girls of this land from an everlasting shame and disgrace, when their forefathers fought and died for the freedom of black slavery, which was nothing to be compared with white slavery the blackest crime of all ages, this is the reason so many women are fighting so hard for woman suffrage, and by giving the right to vote will do away with this great evil. I hope and trust that our heavenly father will give them the right.

Think of The Girl!

Turn-Tum: So you are a young man with an income of $50 per month thinking of getting married. My first advice to you is consult some good doctor. You are subject to brainstorms. You have but one thing in your favor—youth. With the proper attention you may recover and in after years you will thank that doctor for preventing you from committing that which you then will realize would have been an insane act. Think of the girl. Don't you think you have quite a bit of nerve to ask her to give up her home and people for you. What have you to offer her? Can you afford to give her what she is now getting and what she is used to?

You know just how high the cost of living is now. Do you know that it will go no higher? You admit that you have no prospect for a raise. You say your work is steady. By that you mean that this work is there waiting for you. Have you a written guarantee from the Lord that you will always be able to perform said duties? Remember when you do get down and stay several weeks that $50 per month becomes $50 per—haps.

—Grouchy.

Attractions of Christian Work

By REV. HOWARD W. POPE
Moody Bible Institute,
Chicago

TEXT—Bless ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth laborers into his harvest.—Matthew 9:38.

Many complaints are heard in these days about the scarcity of Christian workers. We are told that the streams are dwindling just as the time when the banks should overflow. Doubtless there are many reasons for this, but one principal reason, I am sure, is the fact that so little is said about the attractions of Christian work.

We are constantly informed that ministers as a class are overworked and underpaid, and that they cross the "deadline" at fifty, but seldom do we hear the other side presented. There is another side, and if those who enjoy their work would occasionally set forth its attractions, surely there would be more young men to say: "Lord, here am I, send me!"

Among the minor attractions the following may be mentioned:

1. It is a life of contact with men and books. It compels one to read, think and study human nature. A Christian worker may indulge in a wider range of reading than most men. If he has any hobby, such as botany, geology, or electricity, he can pursue it to his heart's content. No knowledge comes amiss to him. Nature and the supernatural are so related that one illustrates and explains the other. For a lawyer or doctor such studies would be a digression, but a Christian worker may explore the heavens, the earth, or the bottom of the sea, and come back better fitted for the special work to which God has called him.

2. The variety of the work is also an attraction. Preaching, prayer meeting and visiting the sick are but a small part of it. He is expected to agitate temperance, to be enthusiastic on missions and to aid Christian endeavor. In fact, every good cause looks to him for support. To be sure, with so many calls upon him, he has little time for profound study, but out of it all he gains experience and versatility and becomes a good, all-around man. He learns what his forte is, and if he is wise he devotes himself mainly to that, leaving to others the work for which he is not fitted. Of all callings ours is the least monotonous. It is a life of constant activity and continual change.

3. One of the chief attractions of Christian work to me is the opportunity which it affords for religious growth. What I am spiritually low to my profession. Indeed, knowing my disposition, I am convinced that had I chosen any other calling I should by this time have had a good bank account and a soul as small as a mustard seed. A soul-winner must be a good man or fail. His own or others' necessities drive him constantly to the throne of grace and compel him to live in closest fellowship with God.

4. It is no more than fair to admit that there are some discouragements as well as attractions. Inadequate compensation is one of them. The Christian worker is expected to have the instincts of a millionaire, the generosity of a prince, to dress as well as the best, and to do it all on a small income. And, strange as it may seem, most of them manage to do it.

A lady once said to a friend of mine: "I would as soon take a ticket to the poorhouse as marry a theological student." But some of the best and brightest girls do not think so, as almost every paragon can testify. Parish breezes will sometimes spring up and threaten to wreck one's usefulness, but if one will keep his temper and restrain his tongue, the storm will usually blow over and leave him stronger than ever in the affections of his people.

5. The supreme attraction of Christian work, however, is the opportunity which it affords for usefulness, and usefulness of the highest kind. The merchant, the manufacturer and the farmer are all useful men. They supply the wants of the body; but our business is to transform the body into a temple of the Holy Ghost. The surgeon sets broken bones; but we heal broken hearts. The lawyer administers justice, but the Christian worker proclaims mercy. The one examines titles of real estate, while the other secures titles to mansions in the skies.

A million a month are dying in China without a knowledge of Jesus Christ. The entire continent of Africa is still clothed in darkness, for we have only touched the hem of her garment with the days of Gospel light. The agonizing appeals of our home-missionary superintendents are enough to thrill a heart of stone. Surely the wants and woes of humanity are in themselves an attraction. And if anything more were needed, is it not found in the final words of our blessed Master: "All power is given unto me in heaven and earth. Go ye therefore unto all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

SEED BED METHOD OF PREPARATION

Some Interesting Facts Concerning Land That Probably Some of Our Farmers Do Not Know

On the preparation of the seed bed, the farmer depends to a greater extent, than the majority of farmers think.

We farmers like to have as possible providing that it costs us nothing, for that help. Now we have millions of helpers in the bacteria, in the soil, if we give them a fair chance. Why not give these million of helpers, that cost us nothing, the best kind of a chance. You say it is expensive to do this. Try this method out on a quarter of an acre, for a few years and compare returns from that quarter of an acre for 5 years and see whether the extra labor does not pay. I will describe the method as follows:

1st. We must have lots of decaying vegetable matter for these helpers to grow, and multiply on. (Bacteria) They must be well distributed through the soil. How will we do this. We will spread our manure during the winter, as it is being made, so that none of its bacteria and fertilizing properties will be lost by washing away. This spread manure will also help in preventing any washing of the soil.

When the soil is not too wet, or not too dry, we will disc this soil until we have a pulverized 4 inches of soil. Then we will plow 8 inches deep.

Next we will spread another layer of manure, and then disc again 4 inches, until we have this pulverized, and the manure well distributed. We will then have a seed bed 8 inches deep, with the bacteria well distributed all through it, also the soil will be created enough, to give an soil roller raised together these bacteria and plant food, multiply and set free, plant food. From the particles of soil are rounded g them, the e will be mixture all through this seed bed evenly distributed.

When we have this bed in this shape we will then roll and plow the soil to level and smooth it also to pack the soil so that the capillary attraction will be better between the seed bed layer and that beneath it. This packing or rolling of the soil after discing will depend largely on the character of the soil, heavy clay would not need only a planking to level the ground, as a rolling would pack the soil too close, and shut out the air spaces, between the particles of soil, and the bacteria would have no chance for growth, as their supply of air would be cut off.

After the seed is already as above described we will sow the seed, and firm the soil over the seed, in order to have a good contact between the soil and the seed, and we will begin cultivating as soon as possible, to retain moisture, and keep the weeds down, depending of course on the character of our crop sown.

The first spreading of manure, discing, and plowing could be very well done in the fall and manure spread in the winter and the second discing done in the spring. This would save considerable time, in the spring of the year.

What are the advantages of a seed bed prepared in this way.

More plant feed for the young plant, young rootlets are easily developed and can find food in any direction they go, moisture conditions are ideal for them to take up the food. They go deeper for the food and spread over greater area thereby.

The soil does not dry out and the plants will continue their growth even through a dry spell if cultivated the soil holds more moisture. You can test this out yourselves take the same amount of soil by weight and pack it hard into a can of known weight and pour water on it.

Take another can put in well pulverized soil with a fair quantity of decayed vegetable matter put in loosely just packing enough to make firm, put water in this can after an hour pour excess of water off the top of both cans, of soil and weigh. If bottles were used instead you could see how the water was distributed in the soil. Next loosen the soil on top of both, and put in a room and see which dries of the soonest. You will then have a very good idea of what conditions you have in you soil the way you prepare it, in regard to moisture conditions.

SUMMARY.

1. Wait until moisture conditions are right in the soil before commencing to make the seed bed that is to work it.
2. Spread manure all over the field to be treated using a manure spreader preferably.
3. Disc soil thoroughly until manure is well distributed through a four inch layer of soil, and the soil is well pulverized.
4. Plow 8 inches deep.
5. Spread another layer of manure over the field.
6. Disc again until manure

A BIT OF ADVICE

First--Don't Delay. Second--Don't Experiment.

If you suffer from backache; headaches or dizzy spells; if you rest poorly and are languid in the morning; if the kidney secretions are irregular and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. In such cases the kidneys often need help.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially prepared for kidney trouble. They are recommended by thousands. Can Marion residents desire more convincing proof of their effectiveness than the statement of a Marion citizen who has used them and willingly testifies to their worth?

Mrs. J. R. Summerville, 309 E. Depot St., Marion, says: "Several years ago I used Doan's Kidney Pills on different occasions for slight disorders of my kidneys. From the results obtained I am only too glad to recommend and advise the use of this medicine to anyone subject to a weak or lame back."

Price 50 cents at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney—get Doan's Kidney Pills the same that Mrs. Summerville had. Foster-Milburn Company Props., Buffalo, N. Y. 66

Cousin of Menelik is

Made King of Wallou.

Cairo, Egypt. (via London) —Advisers from Addis Ababa, the capital of Abyssinia, says that Raiswaldi Georgis, a cousin of the late King Menelik, has been crowned king of Wallou, Goudar, and Bekember. There has been some fighting of late at Wallou, where Georgis has gone to deal with the situation. There also has been fighting at Rousi, where General Baltchi has been sent.

It is hoped, the messages add, that order will soon be restored throughout Abyssinia. Lidi Jeassu, the disposed emperor, is now at Magdala, a fortified town on the Italian plateau, where he is surrounded by government troops.

OLD GRAND RIVERS FURNACE SOLD

Tennessee Man Purchases and is to Operate it in Vicinity.

The old iron furnace at Grand Rivers has been sold the past few days to Mr. J. C. MacAdams of Scottsville, Tenn. and it will either be moved to another location or a new one built. The interest Mr. MacAdams represents also purchased a big acreage of iron ore land, and the plans of the company comprehend the shipping of the iron to West Virginia by barge and loading the barges for the return trip with coke.

Mr. George Emery brought this information back from a trip he made to Lyon county yesterday. Mr. Emery said the people of Kuttawa, are trying to induce Mr. MacAdams to locate the furnace at Kuttawa, but he is undecided.

"I asked Mr. MacAdams what he thought about the Armor Plate Plant," Mr. Emery said today, "and he very quickly replied that he thought it should come to Paducah by all means as Paducah, in his opinion, was the best place for it."—Paducah Sun.

New Albany Escaped In Disastrous 1890 Cyclone.

Twenty-seven years ago, on Friday, March 27, Louisville and Jeffersonville were swept by a disastrous cyclone, entailing the loss of more than 100 lives and $2,000,000 worth of property. New Albany escaped untouched.

Starting about 8:30 o'clock at night, there were two successive whirlwinds lasting about five minutes each, a lull and then a tornado with lightning and deluge of rain. From Eighteenth and Maple streets the cyclone traveled diagonally northeast, demolishing residences and business blocks. The Falls City Hall, the wholesale tobacco district on Main street and the Seventh street depot were destroyed. It jumped across the river to Jeffersonville, but no lives were lost here.

The greatest loss of life occurred at the falls City Hall. On the first floor were about fifty children taking dancing lessons. Most of them were accompanied by their mothers. On the third floor Jewel Lodge, Knights and Ladies of Honor, was in session with about 125 persons present. The building shook from roof to foundation. The second and third floors gave way as if there was nothing there to hold them. About seventy five persons were killed here and many more injured.

Fire broke out among the ruins. The fire department was handicapped, as the tower of the waterworks had been destroyed. Citizens with picks and shovels helped in the rescue work. The Louisville Legion was delegated to assist the police. A relief fund of $20,000 was provided by the City Council, and the citizens raised as much more.

The following Sunday, Palm Sunday, was a day of funerals. The horses drawing the hearses and carriages were driven in a brisk trot all day. One instance was noted where a group of carriages was preceded by five hearses.

Eight Places in Indiana Hit.

Indianapolis, March 28.—Tornadoes and windstorms which struck eight places in Indiana today took a heavy toll of lives and did enormous damage to property. New Albany, where more than forty lives were lost and where damage to business and residence property is estimated at $2,000,000 was the heaviest sufferer. In Delaware, Hendricks, Sullivan, Adams, Grnrt, Harrison and Jackson counties wide stretches of territory were swept by the winds.

Near Danville, in a path a mile wide and six miles long, houses and barns were cleared and property damage estimated at $50,000 was done. There was no loss of life.

A tornado did heavy damage in the southern part of Sullivan county, where a path eighteen miles long and three fourths of a mile wide was made by the wind. Two lives were lost, a number of persons were injured and property was damaged to the extent of $200,000, it is estimated.

In Delaware county a severe windstorm caused probably fatal injuries to a child and less serious injuries to other persons and heavy property losses were suffered.

Five persons were hurt near Seymour by a windstorm which damaged houses and barns and razed trees and telephone and telegraph poles. A path four miles long was swept by the winds.

North of Decatur the village of Monmouth was struck and a number of persons were injured. Buildings were destroyed and miles of fencing and electric wires were blown down.

Teachers at one school, seeing the approaching storm, took the pupils to the basement of the building before the roof was whipped from over their heads. Near Corydon, two women were probably fatally injured by the storm and many pupils at the Coosby school suffered broken arms and other injuries when the building was razed. Two Grant county men were hurt in a storm near Swazee.

Thought He Was Dying.

Boyleston, Pa.—Chief Burgess John Yardley now knows how far the power of imagination can be worked. It appears that he received a telephone call from a Hatboro physician asking for the ambulance; that a prominent man of that place had swallowed his false teeth and was slowly choking to death.

The ambulance was not sent for reason that Abington was the nearer place; but the sequel to the call was that when the man in the case awoke from a nap his artificial masticators were missing, and he concluded that he must have swallowed them. He so firmly convinced himself of this that a specialist was hurriedly brought from Philadelphia.

The patient indicated a point in his throat, and the specialist upon examination also decided that the teeth were there. Then something happened that made the family physician, the specialist and all others concerned look sheepish. As the suffering man was being helped from his couch the missing teeth, which probably had dropped from his mouth while he slept, tumbled to the floor. He had rolled over and was sitting on them; but they had not bitten him.

He Didn't Get Shaved.

So accustomed had Michael Sullivan, a well-known newspaper man, become to the ways of a certain barbershop uptown that he invariably started unbuttoning his collar as the front door closed behind him. His next step was to give the back button a jerk, hang the collar and tie on the rack carefully draped about his hat, and then, and only then, would he turn his gaze toward the chair, where his favorite Tony was wont to operate. In true form he went through his routine one day recently, and then—behold, a stranger in Tony's place. The stranger grinned at Sullivan. "You look for Tony? He is in the crazy asylum. He got mad last night while shaving his best friend. It run in the family." With this he bowed Mr. Sullivan into the chair. Then he added: "I am Tony's brother." Mr. Sullivan resumed his tie and collar in the street.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Story of Number 40

40 years ago an old doctor was putting up a medicine for diseases of the blood, that cured the worst cases of specific blood poison, and time proved that the cures were permanent. After many years I secured the prescription (being a druggist), and took each ingredient separately and referred to my U. S. Dispensatory and other books on medicine and found the medical properties set down as follows: "Employed in diseases of the glandular system, in blood poison, scrofula, constipation, stomach and liver troubles, chronic rheumatism, catarrh, in sores, ulcers, skin eruptions, mercurial and lead poisoning. Under its use nodes, tumors and scrofulous swellings that have withstood all other treatment disappear as if by magic." To commemorate my fortieth year as a druggist I named this medicine Number 40 For The Blood. J. C. Mendenhall, Evansville, Ind.

Mrs. Belle Summerville, of Mattoon, leaves this week to visit her brother, Dr. Lynn B. Moore, at Cotton Plant, Ark., he being in poor health, suffering with hardening of the arteries.

The Marion boys employed and temporarily living at Rosiclare, Ill., came home to vote Tuesday for good roads. There were about twenty in the party, and they came through the county (and the mud) in a four-horse wagon. Eh Gilbert, Guy Givens and Elzie Hard were among the bunch.
