Alliance With Great Britain Would Be of Value to United States

We Must Know Meaning of Americanism Before We Can Teach It to Others

By HONORE WILLSIE, Editor and Authores

Before women can teach children the meaning of Americanism, they must first understand it themselves.

I hope more women understand it than men-that is, than men I've asked. I have asked men in almost every walk of life, and what do you chets be and the same is hereby grantsuppose I got as an average answer? That an American was a man who et as set out in said above mentioned knew how to get rich quick.

It's up to the American woman to think out for herself what it means to be an American before she attempts to teach her own or someone less four weeks before election. else's children what it means. I wish that we might have an American litany-a national creed that mothers and teachers could give our children. I wish that every American child might be brought to understand the state of mind of the men who wrote and signed our Declaration of Independence.

I believe women are coming forward splendidly through their organizations and offering their services, but I believe that service can and will be even more completely mobilized.

There is one thing women must not forget-that the most important thing they can mobilize is their sex. Now more than in times of peace women owe it to their country to bear children, and to bear them intelligently. And when they have borne them, it is their sacred duty to bring them up in a full understanding of the ideals on which our fathers built

Enlisted men who remain enlisted men in the army can retire after 30 years service with good pay and allowance.

Pay in the Army.

In order that the young man who desires to become a volunteer through enlistment in the United States army, for probable first service in the field of the present war, may know just what his pay will be, the following table is given by which he can determine almost at a glance what his 'monthly money" will amount to, and while studying the table he should remember that the government takes it upon itself to keep him in food and clothing, to give him lodging and med-Ical attendance and, in fact, to provide for him every necessary of life free of cost. To the fact that the high work of the regulars was done for so many years in remote fields was due the lack of the people's appreciation of the heroism of their standing Long List of Achievements.

It was the regulars who suffered in the Fort Dearborn massacre on the site of Chicago over a hundred years ago; it was the regulars under Major Dade who in Florida, hopelessly outnumbered and ambushed, fought until almost the last man was killed, the lalant in each precinct Seminole Indians under the fine leadership of one of Osceola's chieftains. It the country of the Rosebud under the white chief, Custer; it was a little | istrict band of regulars who met Big Foot and ftrict his warriors on Wounded Knee creek in 1890 and won the fight after appalling losses. It was the regulars who, fought Red Cloud, Crazy Horse, Chief Joseph, and who followed Geronimo, The Kid, and other savage Apaches, into the mountain fastnesses of Mexico. It was the regulars who from the beginning until the present day have dared everything for their country. Their record is a magnificent one.

The regular army is now being brought up to a war standard of strength. When the ranks are full there will be following the colors as a part of the regular establishment some 285,000 Americans. Any young American today has an opportunity to become by volunteering a member of this devoted band. It means service, and hard service, but it also means high service, and in all human probability glorious service. Hardships there will be in plenty; dangers, a multitude, but there are the compensations of service that is service, and of a sense of patriotic duty done in a field of life into which devotion to country calls the young American. Organization of the Army.

The organization of the army today is different from the organization of other days. In the old days there was no aviation service and little or no signal service of any kind. The medical service was crude; the artillery had not become the great factor in warfare that it is today, and there was leas specialization along all lines of military endeavor. Let us take the American army as it is provided for under the law of today, a time when we are in war with a great military power. Of course it must be remembered that in addition to the regular army we shall have the great new national army, the National Guardsmen, the navy and the Marine corps to help us' win in the fight for the liberty of the world. The regular army of the United States upon the present war footing consists of 64 regiments of infantry, 25 regiments of cavalry; 26 regiments of field artillery, a coast artillery corps, brigade, division, army corps, and army headquarters, with their detachments of troops; a general staff corps, an adjutant general's department, an inspector general's department, a judge advocate general's department, a quartermaster's corps, a medical department, a corps of engineers, an ord- army, O."

Foreign Trade Is An Exchange; Cannot Be Too Much One-Sided

By EDWARD EWING PRATT Chief of United States Bureau of Foreign and Dome

products. From that date there has been a steady increase in the percentage of raw materials imported and a steady decrease in the percentage of manufactured products. In the five-year period just before the war 34.36 per cent of our imports were raw materials and 41.23 per cent were manufactured articles. I have cited these facts in some detail because of their significance: First, the significance of the increasing imports of raw materials and decreasing imports of manufactured goods, and, second, the significance of the fact that what is happening now is merely the climax, somewhat hastened of course, of a movement which has been going on for about five decades,

In spite of these facts, the great markets for most of the world's raw products have been established not in the United States but in Europe. We have bought at second hand and through European middlemen many of our fundamental raw materials. We have paid a commission to European middlemen, and we have paid a profit to European bankers for services which we could just as well have performed for ourselves had we developed the market machinery in this country.

Military Training May Free Schools of Some of Absurdities of Past

By DR. WOODS HUTCHINSON esident of American Academy of Medicine

If the world war rid us of militarism and of the drill sergeant idea in the schoolroom, it may be worth all it costs. Modern war calls for science, and science is precisely what our present system of education doesn't give as yet. Military training in the schools may prove the great emancipator for whom we have been waiting to free our system of education from the clerical shackles and classical absurdities of the past, and faces the delight place it upon a hygienic, rational and scientific basis. Instead of deploring it, we should meet it half way and see whether we cannot easily obtain in the name of war what we have not been able to obtain for the bodily welfare of the child in the frivolous name of play. Instead of a hardwon and barely tolerated section on school hygiene, we may be able to make all schooling hygienic and all education improving to the body and health of the child as well as to his mental development. To paraphrase Scripture, if we seek first the kingdom of Mars and its efficiency, all other things may be added unto us.

Modern military ideals can be made to work a real transvaluation of educational values. It would do us no harm to reverse our ideals for a few decades, for there is no danger of our being dragged too far out of

First and foremost, the war-school curriculum demands and aims at a vigorous, healthy, well-balanced and well-trained body, "a fust-class fighting man," or, what is equally important, fighting woman-a real militant. Get that under modern conditions and you also get all the brain power and all the beauty that the individual was born with. Scholars can be made in any kind of a cell or garret, but soldiers must be manufactured in the open air. This solves the problem of ventilation, also of eyestrain, and of crooked backs from too much desk work.

The things that the soldier must do, the things that the engineer must do, the things that the munition worker, the hospital nurse, and the army cook must do, are the very things that children of both sexes to relieve th are most keenly and intensely interested in-the very things on which they get no practical information in the present curriculum. We have so-called science courses in the schools, but they begin at exactly the epposite end from the child's interest. They are making him hate science almost as much as he now hates good literature. The war point of view would reverse all this and solve the great pedagogic problem of interest.

Teaching of English Language Is First in Education of Aliens

By ELSA ALSBERG Secretary Department of Immigrant Aid, New York Council of Jewish Wom

A realization of the responsibility of governmental agencies for the education of the adult immigrant is a matter of comparatively recent consciousness on the part of the public. With this consciousness there arose the consideration of methods-of ways and means of reaching the adult alien, to interest him, to ascertain his educational needs, and to devise ways of supplying them.

The various processes of immigrant education are mainly processes of assimilation. They include a knowledge of our customs and institutions, both social and economic. But these are processes fundamentally dependent on a working knowledge of the English language and upon some command of the three R's.

Without this knowledge of our language the foreigner cannot have that social contact with the native born that takes him out of the isolation of his "foreign quarter" and introduces him to American customs and ways of living. Without English he cannot have access to that great Americanizing influence—the newspaper.

On the economic side, also, the non-English-speaking alien is at a great disadvantage. He is unable to learn of opportunities offered. In competition with the English-speaking employee, he must be able to understand orders given in English by his "boss," to read signs of warning in factory and streets, printed police and safety regulations, and quarantine placards in the tenement house in which he lives. His industrial advancement depends in a large measure on his ability to speak and understand English and on his having at least a rudimentary edu-

The immigrant of either sex wants and needs a working knowledge of the English language and some appreciation of our American customs and institutions. It is time that we not only recognize this fact, but take active measures to supply these needs in acceptable and reasonable form.

more than two hundred thousand will be needed this year. In my later sketches I will describe these various uses in detail.

Marion Kentucky is one of the most active mining centers in Kentucky and to you, the stranger who may be talking to a man wearing a white straw hat and dressed in clothes of blue denim, arranging perhaps for a and other reliable druggitss mining right on his land, you will please remember that this man represents the purest American blood in America and that his fore-bears were perhaps belted earls of England, while yours and mine, if we are of English decent were probably shoemakers or laborers. You will find Full Attendance, Good Programs these Americans, kind and hospitable and ready to assist you in your mining business any where, providing you give them as manly a welcome as they will

> I am told that in some ways the customs of bringing miners into Marion has changed. It seems that there are two classes. the men who invest their money who may be called miners and the man who suggests the investment whom are called mining men. These miners are generally accompanied to the mines by the mining men who are dressed rather grandly in puttees very striking kakai clothes and wonderful hats and a friend writes me that when such a man stalks through the streets of Marion everybody sits up and takes nourishment and no doubt it is necessary to do so.
