MINING STOCK IS INCREASED

Director of American Flume & Tread Company presents the capital stock of the Co. valued at $200,000.00, and subscribed for another stock of a probably 300,000 worth, machinery and equipment for the company's future needs in this country.

Three men are wealthy millionaires, and together they own the North American Flume and Tunnel Company, which is a large flume and tunnel company engaged in the business of manufacturing and serving the public in the western states. Their generosity to the community was in the giving of the old flume, and it brought with it a good deal of talk about the future. The old flume was not sold, but it was given away, and the new one took its place.

The Romance of a Daring Action Who Rose to Be the Leader of America's Army in France in the Great War

CHAPTER I

Little Johnny Pershing

Johnny Pershing was a boy who loved adventure. His parents, who were both avid outdoorsmen, often took him on hikes and camping trips. He was always eager to learn about nature and the wilderness. Johnny was also very athletic and enjoyed playing sports, especially football.

During his teenage years, Johnny entered West Point Academy. He was a natural leader and quickly rose through the ranks. He was known for his intelligence and strategic thinking, as well as his calm demeanor under pressure.

After graduating from West Point, Johnny was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the United States Army. He was assigned to a frontier post in the Panhandle of Texas, where he spent several years.

Despite his success, Johnny remained humble and continued to work hard. He was determined to prove himself as a leader and to earn the respect of his peers.

The end of the war brought about many changes, and Johnny was called upon to lead his men into battle. Under his guidance, the troops succeeded in their mission, and Johnny emerged as a hero.

The press began to take notice of Johnny's accomplishments, and he was soon courted by various political figures. However, Johnny remained focused on his duties and continued to serve his country with dedication.

The years passed, and Johnny Pershing retired from the Army as a general. He was remembered as a true American hero, and his legacy lived on for generations to come.

Military Training May Free Schools of Some of Absurdities of Past

By DR. WOOD HUTCHINSON
President of American Academy of Medicine

If the world were at war of nations and of the drill select a big in the schools of today, it would be Science, and science is precisely what present our nation's education is giving us. In a world of war, we need only one kind of person for whom we have been working to free our system of education from the absurdities. If the world were in peace, there would be no place for the ridiculous, absurd, and senseless ideas in the minds of our youth. If the world were at war, science would be the weapon by which we can win the war, and not the absurdities of the past.

Modern military ideals can be made to work a real transformation of the schools of today. If the world were at war, our schools could be transformed into real training centers for the young men who will be needed to fight the war.

First and foremost, the war-school curriculum demands a change in the way our youth are taught. If the world were at war, our schools would be training centers for the young men who will be needed to fight the war. Our youth would be taught the sciences, the arts, and the humanities, and they would be prepared to fight in the modern world.

The things that our youth need to learn, too, are the things that the enemy needs to know. The things that the enemy wants to know, the things that our enemies want to know, the things that our enemies want to know, is the thing that our youth need to learn.

The various processes of brainwashing are being used by enemies to make our youth believe in false concepts and to make them accept false ideas. Our youth need to be taught the way of life, the way of thought, and the way of action that will help them to win the war.

On the educational side, also, the war-school curriculum is in complete harmony with the national defense needs. The educational system is geared for the national defense, and the war-school curriculum is geared for the national defense.

The training of the youth in the schools of today is being used by the enemy to brainwash them, to make them believe in false concepts and to make them accept false ideas. The war-school curriculum is geared for the national defense, and the educational system is geared for the national defense.
