WASHINGTON CITY SIDE-LIGHTS

WIDENING THE GAPS OF MARRIAGE

THE Housewife and the War

SUBSTITUTES AID IN WINNING WAR

WASHINGTON—Nothing more refreshing than a chalice of Lincolns. The Daily News that morning gave a double portion of them on the menu for the hungry quadrupeds at the Manassas National Monument.

The museum was what Mr. Lincoln had in mind when he said "Let the people of America have the chance to learn of their constitutional rights and duties." The stuffed animals, including the native alligator, were on display in one corner of the building.

Later, as the Lincoln statue was being moved to its new location, a large crowd gathered around the statue to watch the performance. Among them was a young girl who had accompanied her mother to the museum.

"I just love the statue," she said. "It's so lifelike. And it's a reminder of how much our country has to learn from the past." The girl's words were echoed by others around her.

WASHINGTON—Hundreds of housewives have volunteered to work as substitutes in their communities during the war. They are called "Substitutes AID in Winning War." They are not only helping with household chores, but also with tasks such as packing food for soldiers and collecting supplies.

Fish, Cheese, Milk, Eggs, Beans, Peas and Rots Are Regulated as Essential.

The wane of the war has permitted more people to return to work in factories and industries. This has led to a decrease in the demand for certain products, such as fish, cheese, milk, eggs, beans, peas, and rots. These products are now being regulated as essential, and their prices are being controlled to ensure that they are available to those who need them.

ADAPTED TO SUMMER NEEDS

Can Be Combined into Attraction and Well-Dressed Fruits and Vegetables Will Not Be Wasted in the War — Europe

Many of the most delicious fruits and vegetables are better suited to summer needs than the more delicate flowers that are often so much in evidence during the winter months. These foods are not only nutritious, but also aesthetically pleasing. In addition, they are relatively inexpensive and can be grown in a variety of climates.

Real Estate Man Thinks Women Talk Too Much

Mrs. Smith, a real estate agent, has observed that women tend to talk too much about their lives and experiences. This can be a distraction for potential clients, who may be more interested in listening to the details of the property they are considering.

Fishing, hunting, and watersports are available in many places, and are a great way to enjoy nature and outdoor activities. These activities are often accompanied by the opportunity to socialize with others, which can be a relaxing and enjoyable experience.

MACHINERY AIDS LABOR SHORTAGE

INVESTING IN MACHINERY

Wider use of machinery can increase the efficiency of labor, leading to increased productivity and lower costs. This can be especially beneficial in industries where labor is expensive or in regions where there is a shortage of labor.

WASHINGTON—The Department of Agriculture has been working to promote the use of machinery in agriculture. This includes the development of new machinery, as well as the training of farmers to use it effectively.

One important factor in the success of machinery is the availability of experienced operators. To address this, the Department of Agriculture is working to train more people in the operation of machinery.

WASHINGTON—In the last few months, the Department of Agriculture has seen a significant increase in the use of machinery in agriculture. This is due in large part to the efforts of the Department to promote the use of machinery and to train more people in its operation.
