SLEEP MALADY FOLLOWS "FLU"

Always Has Appeared in Waves of Epidemics of Influenza

ZOLOGISTS TRACE BACK TO 1793

SLEEP MALADY was traced back to the year 1793 in the course of the present investigation of American-American life insurance. The early part of the present century was the heyday of the "flu," and it was then that the sleep malady first came to prominence. The symptoms were similar to those of the present day, but the disease was more severe.

Each year, the "flu" epidemic has been accompanied by a wave of sleep malady, and it is believed that the two are directly related. The "flu" virus is known to cause a disturbance of the central nervous system, which can lead to sleeplessness.

The symptoms of sleep malady are similar to those of the "flu," including fever, muscle aches, and cough. However, the main symptom is the inability to sleep, which can last for days or even weeks.

The best way to prevent sleep malady is to get a flu shot every year. This will help reduce the risk of getting the "flu" and its associated symptoms. If you do get sick, it is important to rest and drink plenty of fluids.

LID IS NOW ON IN ALASKA

Newest Mining Camp in Rainy "Spudder Town"

LID Island is now on the map as the newest mining camp in Alaska. The camp is located in the heart of the rainy "spudder" territory, which is known for its heavy rainfall and poor weather conditions.

The camp is named after the "spudder," a type of potato that is grown in the area. The potatoes are said to be of the highest quality, and they are a major source of income for the camp.

The camp is well-stocked with equipment and supplies, and it is fully equipped to handle any weather conditions.

CINDER STUFFED FROM CATHELON OR A COLD

By W. H. Ralston

Cinder, a common material found in many parts of the world, can be used to stuff a cold. The cinders are collected from the fire and placed in a sheet of paper. The cinders are then placed in the top of a hot water bottle and wrapped in a towel.

The heat from the cinders will help to relieve the pain and congestion associated with a cold. The cinders can also be used to stuff a cold in the nose, which will help to clear the sinuses.
