OF INTEREST TO TOBACCO GROWERS

The following is a letter to Mr. W. B. Yandell from R. E. Cooper of the Hopkinsville Warehouse: "I wish to beg your pardon for failing to acknowledge my appreciation of the interest you have manifested, in having your friends to ship their tobacco to me for sale and deeply deplore the fact that our market has declined continuously since the latter part of January until we are unable to make sale of common and low grades of tobacco at any thing like the price that would justify the farmer for having produced it.

We have a good demand for heavy fired tobacco of the broad leaf type, this grade of tobacco has not suffered like the medium and low grades. However all grades of lugs and trashes are extremely low.

I feel a personal interest in the farmers of Crittenden County and regret that they do not plant a broad leaf tobacco as the one suckers are not in demand and in my judgment always sells for less than the broad leaf. One of the chief mistakes, I find that Crittenden County farmers either do not know or has never appreciated the value of properly curing their tobacco. To do this it is first necessary to use good tight barns, the next is to let their tobacco get ripe and avoid crowding their tobacco in the barn so as to cause house burn.

Their tobacco should be permitted to yellow before starting the fire. Only sufficient heat, at first, to thoroughly wilt the tobacco for 24 to 48 hours then gradually bring up the heat of the barn to a temperature of 110 degrees holding this temperature until the tobacco is brown, allowing then the fires to die down but continue to smoke for at least a week or ten days longer, in fact you cannot properly cure tobacco in less than two weeks and some of our most successful producers fire their tobacco three or four weeks.

a good deal of fine leaf from $30. to $37.50.

Tobacco that are big tied and in soft condition of low grades will scarcely pay the expense of shipping. Knowing the public spirit interest that you have in the welfare of your people, that unless they change their character of tobacco and their manner of handling and curing same the outlook for the new crop will be gloomy indeed and I see nothing that will give relief for them on their present crop.

Those who have visited the market in person and seen the manner of handling and curing the good grades of tobacco say that the trip has been quite an education to them and I certainly hope that they will profit from same.

TEST YOUR SEED CORN

Corn planting time is here and testing of seed corn is at hand. It is deplorable that a great number of farmers select their seed corn from the crib just before planting. Seed corn should have been selected last fall, cured and stored. The lack of care in selecting, curing and storing of seed corn is one main reason why the average yield in Kentucky for 1919 was only 26 bushels.

What constitutes a good ear of seed corn? The following is a description of an ideal ear of dent corn; the ear should taper uniformly from butt to tip and should be as near as possible cylindrical. Such an ear holds the largest amount of grain and contains the largest percentage of grain in proportion to cob, other things being equal. Both the butt and the tip should be well filled for same reasons and because this indicates full development and maturity as well as adaptation to soil, latitude or season. Excessive length is not desirable when obtained at the expense of poorly filled butt and tip. A good proportion between circumference and length is three to four, or a circumference of six inches for an ear eight inches long. A good size for the circumference of the cob is from three and two thirds to four and one third inches. The cob should be neither too large or too small. It is evident that of two ears of equal size and compactness the one with the small cob will contain the more grain. On the other hand, while small cobs usually contain the larger proportion of grain, the total weight of the ear is often much less and the yield smaller. A large cob that is not obtained at the expense of the depth of the grain will contain the largest amount of grain. Excessively large cobs however are objectionable as they usually carry a large percentage of water, thus lowering the keeping qualities of the grain and its vitality for seed. This is likely to be true of ears that are distinctively tapering, as well as making them more difficult to husk on account of the size of the juncture with the shank. In a good ear the shelled corn will occupy the same space as the ear before it was shelled. It is a good relationship where the depth of the grain is one half the diameter of the cob or the circumference of the ear twice the circumference of the cob. Smooth ears are to be preferred but there are many excellent varieties that have a characteristic rough ear.

Many experiments have been tried for comparison of yield of selected and tested seed corn with corn planted from the crib. The selected and tested seed corn invariably gave an increased yield of from two to twenty bushels. I heartily recommend to those farmers who do not have first class seed corn that they buy a bushel of the best seed corn that can be had and then next year select seed from their own planting.

In order to stimulate more interest in increasing our yield the Agricultural classes of Marion High School are planning a seed corn show to be held in the Court House yard on next court day April 12. This will be the best attended court day of the year and I hope that every farmer that has ten ears of seed corn will bring them and help make this show a success. If the proper interest and co-operation is shown in our corn show we will promote a live stock show for the county. A seed corn judge from our agricultural Experiment Station will be here to judge the following classes: white varieties, Boone County White, White Dent, Improved Willett, Red Cob White, Hickory King, Yellow varieties, Gate Post, Yellow Dent, Ninety Day Yellow. Thirty liberal prizes will be offered and surely you can win one of these. Bring your samples to the Court House yard during the morning to be classified and arranged in order that the judge may award first second and third prize for each class and your corn returned to you early in the afternoon. Watch for further announcements through these columns but in the meantime get a ten ear sample of seed corn some where in some way.

SURVEY PASSED MARION

The transit party of the federal surveyors reached Marion last Saturday. The road as it is now surveyed enters Marion on North Main Street, coming across Mrs. Pierce's pasture in front of her house and following Main Street until it reaches the new Marion and Salem road at A. H. Reeds corner.

The survey follows the road rather close until it reaches Dr. Stones farm there it deviates a little to the south side crossing the creek about one hundred yards above the old bridge. It then follows the road until it reaches the culvert passed Mr. William Sullengers, there it leads off to the south passing up the hill in front of Mr. Bird's house and hitting the road again at the Patmore lane. It is not decided where it will go over the Moore hill.

There is some controversy as to whether the road should go from the center of the town out the old road by the Cemetery or go down to Reed's corner. By the road going to the Reed corner and then turning it makes the road that is coming from Princeton intercept it at that point thus making the intersection in the outskirts. If the road went out by the cemetery it would add an extra street as the road coming from Princeton will then come to the corner by Taylor and Taylor's and making the two roads meet in the center of the business district.

ATTEMPT TO OPEN SAFE

Morris's Grocery was entered last Friday night by some one who was evidently well acquainted with the place and an attempt was made to get the money in the safe of Yates Bros.

The intruders broke the glass in the back window and climbed into the store room. From there they tore the screen wire off that was nailed over the transom in the partition between the store room and Yates Bros. Music store, and attempted to open the safe of Yates Bros. The evening before a sum of money had been put in the safe and locked up as the bank was closed and the ones who attempted to open the safe had presumably some knowledge of the failure to deposit the money. They failed in their efforts to open the safe and did not climb back through the transom but opened the door and left it open.

The 1920 Chautauqua

Begin now to plan to attend the Chautauqua to be held in Marion this year. The program is to be the best one yet. True it is several weeks till time to attend Chautauqua but it is not too soon to talk Chautauqua with your neighbors, and either buy or have your season tickets reserved for you.

Let's make the Marion Chautauqua the biggest one in western Kentucky. This can easily be done if every one will take a hand in boosting it—and the best way to boost is to buy a season ticket for each member of your family—and influence your neighbor to do likewise. The cost is small and the returns big.

NOW, WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

New Yorker Saw Only One Way to Settle Problem of Street-Car Etiquette Confronting Him.

A business man who was raised far enough away from New York still to say "mamam" when he speaks to a strange woman was recently confronted with a new angle of one of the major transportation problems of city life.

His theory is that since women have sought and found equal opportunity in business and in politics, a tired man should have an equal opportunity in the seat lottery on the way home at night. It isn't a fixed rule, but he has the exceptions to it pretty well in mind. He will not take a seat if there is a woman standing near it. He will yield his seat to an elderly woman, and this is a cardinal exception—to a woman with a baby.

But he did not have the answer ready the other night when he looked up from his paper to find clinging to the strap before him a handsome young woman with a poodle under her arm.

The hero of this experience is a quick thinker, but also set in his convictions. Of course, he reasoned, a dog isn't a baby; a woman who will carry one on the subway in the past hour isn't a "tired working girl." If I gave up my seat to a woman with a baby I should be doing only what is right, but if I gave my seat to this woman with the pup every man in the car will laugh and I shall feel silly myself.

Being a diplomat he got off at the next station and waited for another train.—New York Sun.

Nerves All Unstrung

"But Don's Made Life Again Worth Living," Says Mrs. Harris

I was in excellent health until my kidneys weakened," says Mrs. N. A. Harris, 1900 Indiana St., Neodesha, Kansas. "The kidney sections burned like fire and passed so often I couldn't get a moment's rest. My back ached and for days at a time I was confined to bed. I was fairly tortured with the sharp pains. I couldn't rest and I was screaming with misery. I lost strength and weight and was so weak I became a nervous wreck. Headaches and dizziness added to my distress. My sight blurred; limbs, hands and face were swollen and puffy and came under my eyes. I lost hope of being well again. Finally a neighbor brought me a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, and later I got several boxes. My troubles began to lessen and soon I could sleep all night and wake up refreshed and happy and life was again worth living. DANISH MOB CRIES DOWN WITH KING

LED BY RADICALS, 40,000 HOLD DEMONSTRATION IN FRONT OF PALACE.

THE SITUATION IS GRAVE

Trouble Was Precipitated by King's Dismissal of Cabinet Headed by Premier Zahle—People Demand a Republic.

Copenhagen.—A huge mob, estimated at more than 40,000, staged a great demonstration in front of the royal palace here, shouting "Down with the king!" "Give us a republic!" and sung the Marseillaise. Police and soldiers guarding the palace were unable to cope with the mob.

The demonstrators were led by radical workmen and Socialists, who have been active in working for a republic since King Christian dismissed the cabinet of Premier Zahle.

Members of the town council joined in the demonstration. Earlier in the day they had memorialized the king, urging formation of a cabinet satisfactory to the Socialists.

King Christian was in conference with his new ministry, headed by Otto Lohse. It was admitted the situation was grave.

The Danish king precipitated the present crisis last Monday when he dismissed the cabinet headed by Premier Zahle. The action was unprecedented in modern Danish history, and Socialists immediately demanded reinstatement of the ministry on threat of a general strike.

King Christian refused and troops were called into the city to guard the royal palace. Dismissal of the cabinet was attributed to its failure to attain success in the Danish-German plebiscite voting in the second zone. The zone voted to remain German and the king blamed his ministry.

Socialists have threatened to proclaim a republic ever since the trouble started.

BIG BLIZZARD HITS CHICAGO

Instead of Displaying Easter Finery, People Had to Wrap Up in Heavy Winter Garments.

Chicago.—A blinding blizzard ushered in the Easter festival in the middle west. Needless to say, no one paraded the streets to display Easter finery. Those who ventured out were clad in their heaviest winter apparel and had great difficulty in seeing five feet ahead of them because of the blinding snow.

Snow began falling at 6 o'clock in the morning and fanned by a stiff wind, continued until late this afternoon. A maelstrom of slushy snow covered Chicago.

Street traffic and trains from the east and west were impeded by snow drifts.

NEW STYLES THAT BESPEAK REFINEMENT

IF WOMEN live up to the high standard of good taste and refinement, expressed in the best efforts of designers of apparel for spring, they will do well. Some reporters of the styles always have an eye out for the sensational—the knee length skirts or those impossibly narrow ones—but these freakish things do not get very far. Only very young, very pretty and unsophisticated persons may be excused for adopting them, and then they are only tolerated as a little youthful folly for which the inexperienced are not to be blamed too much. In any assembly of people who have plenty of money to spend on clothes, there is usually little that is extreme or freakish; what pleases the student of dress is the beauty and the refinement of the new styles.

A very good example of this appears in the pretty frock of flannel and tulle which is pictured here. It is made of that perennial favorite, dark blue silk figured with white, but fanned, and similar silks, are shown in other colors that are equally attractive and might be made by the same pattern. There is nothing complicated about the design; it combines a straight skirt, medium in width, with a tunic graduated in length and bordered with velvet ribbon in the same color as the silk. The bodice is plain, cut in the fashion of a blouse, with elbow sleeves. The collar, cuffs and chemise of organza and narrow flared lace, lend their daintiness and crispness to the model and a row of very small pearl buttons, set on the chemise, reveal a careful finishing touch that cannot be overlooked. The velvet ribbon which crosses the chemise and ties in a bow at the back, is a little wider than that used to border the tunic. It writes a delightful "finis" to a beautiful frock.

Usual and Unusual in Suits

AT the left of the two suits pictured above, there is a dressy model of very unusual design and very handsome. It is made of dark blue tulle cloth, for which either tricot or gabardine might be used as a substitute; but any one of them must be chosen in a good quality, because the success of the design depends upon sufficient body, or weight, in the material, and its finish. A narrow, tubular band of white silk appears to be applied to the coat and skirt by couching it on.

Everywhere we come upon the unexpected in this model—in the cuffs of white crepe de chine, ornamented with white soutache braid, in the white motif of net and embroidery silk or braid, delicately placed at the top of a split in the coat, and other details.

The one-piece skirt arrives at a narrowed-in line at the bottom, by means of an over-lapped seam that runs in a diagonal instead of a vertical line and is left open to the depth of the figure.

American Designs Used.
The development in sport clothes for women, according to a representative manufacturer, will do more than anything else to elevate American designs. He pointed out that the women of no other country go in so largely for sports as the Americans, and consequently there is not the demand in other countries for such goods. For this reason, he explained, sport garments depend largely on the skill of the designers in this country. Once they are firmly established in this line, he said, it will be natural to turn their talents toward original modes of other kinds.

Ideal Spring Costume.
Admirable in its restraint and good taste is the costume composed of skirt and waistcoat of superb English serge in black and white check with a jaunty Turkish bolero in black chevronette de soie. With this are worn black low shoes, high white socks and a dear little toque of black straw. This is an ideal costume for spring.

"California Syrup of Figs" Child's Best Laxative

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be dependent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Adv.

NOT MUCH STUDY INVOLVED

Grandma Evidently Didn't Think Highly of the Doings at Women's Debating Club.

Tiny Timothy had to be very quiet on certain days in the week. Sunday mornings were bad because then father had to study his lesson for the afternoon Sunday school. Tuesday evenings he had to tiptoe around while brother John studied his lodge ritual. Friday evenings sister Nellie went to a debating club and was often preceded by the last look at her part in the debates.

Then one day mother announced that she had been invited to join a bridge club. Every one was anxious for her to join but little Timothy, who sighed: "Oh, mother, now will you have to study, too, before you go there? What do they recite at your club?"

Everybody smiled but dear old grandmother, who did not approve of bridge clubs. "Oh, she won't have to study much," she retorted tartly. "She can just listen at the first few meetings until she learns how to gossip like the rest of them."

But One Way Is Better.
A bluff, hearty old bachelor friend of the family, trying to get on terms with the son of the family, asked him: "Have you practiced any fancy methods of skating, sonny?" "No," said sonny; "I can skate only two ways as yet."

"Ah, and which are they?" "Standing up and sitting down," said sonny.

"That so, Hiram? What is it?"

LAUGHS AT GREENLAND COLD

In His Primitive Abode, Eskimo Dwells in Comfort Through the Monotonous Arctic Winter.

The Eskimo of Greenland, no matter what his station in life may be, always has both a summer and winter home. The winter house is described by Roger Pocock in the Wide World Magazine as being a dugout with an upper structure built of turf and beams of driftwood. It has but one window, as winter in Greenland occurs during the four-month-long arctic night. Entrance to the one large room of which the house consists is gained through a long tunnel about five feet in height, in which the dogs live. In the rear of the living room is a raised dais on which the entire family sleep, and in the front part stands the stove. This stove consists of a hollow stone filled with seal oil in which burns a rag wick, which lights and heats the house and cooks the meals.

A Kindly Caddie.
"Oh, yes, sir, there's worse golf players in the world than you are, sir," the caddie said kindly. "Lots worse."

"Well, that makes me feel better," the club responded. Then he swung his club, failed to touch the ball, but lifted a section of turf as large as a dinner plate.

"Yes, sir," the caddie continued. "There's certainly worse players, but they never let anybody catch 'em on the links!"—Everybody's Magazine.

THE MOVIES

One hears some considerable talk about town these days about whether or not the influence of the moving picture is for the best interests of a community.

Of course this is a mooted question that will be debated pro and con for many years yet but the fact remains that the moving picture is here to stay and the citizenship might as well face the matter squarely.

Granted for the sake of argument that there are many pictures produced that are of a nature that no decent person would wish to see but has a picture of that sort ever been shown in Marion? The writer has seen many pictures since coming here and while it is true that some of them have no particular plot or story there has not been a single scene or expression that would offend the most sensitive. Many of the pictures are of an educational nature, nearly all show that in the end it pays to do right, though sometimes William S. Hart has to kill several wicked Mexicans to do it.

The biggest benefit that moving pictures can possibly bring to the small town is exactly the same benefits that the Chautauqua brings. They enable these people to see a class of acting and artistry that millions of people would never be able to see were it not for these pictures. Again they furnish innocent amusement for the masses and some place to go when the mind craves a diversion—which every sane person must have or they will rust mentally.

True some people should not be permitted to go to a moving picture show. They are the ones who get so excited that they do not care how many people they disgust with their indiscriminate spitting of tobacco juice. But you can not blame the picture for that.

OBITUARY

On the morning of March 4 1920 at 11:30 o'clock the Death Angel visited our home and took from us our darling, Verna. She was born in Crittenden County Kentucky October 10, 1899 and professed Faith in Christ three years ago and lived a christian life from that time on to her death. She was sick only a short time with the influenza and bore her sufferings patiently to the last and was ready to die. On Friday morning before she died she said she could see Jesus and when the end came she threw up her arms and said "Mother I want to hug you". Mother took her into her arms and she died peacefully without a struggle. She fell asleep in Jesus that blessed sleep from which none ever waketh to weep. We can not call her back but some day we will clasp her hand in that beautiful Home which God hath prepared for us where there is no pain or sorrow and all is joy and peace and love for ever. Oh how sweet to trust in Jesus and when the Master calls us like sister Verna let us be prepared to go.

She leaves to mourn her loss a father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Ford and sisters, Mrs. Alma Bakewell of Henderson and Misses Elva Mina, Stella, Corda and Virgie and two brothers, Gorman and Henry Ford at home; one half sister, Mrs. R. L. McDowell of Nampa Idaho and one half brother, Charlie Lamb of this county. And may the great eternal God of love lead us and guide us in such a way that we will meet in that beautiful home with darling Verna where parting is no more. A precious one from us is gone a voice we loved is stilled a place is vacant in our home which never can be filled.

Turner had only recently moved into the house, which had been occupied by several families in the past few years.

RELIEF FOR SERVICE MEN IS APPROVED

HOUSE WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE TAKES FAVORABLE ACTION ON QUESTION.

TO WORK OUT THE DETAILS

Not Known What Form Legislation Will Take, But Subcommittee Will Prepare Plans for Action Before Recess.

Washington.—Soldier relief legislation, with probable provision for a cash bonus, funds for which would be raised by a sale of luxuries taxes, was approved by the house ways and means committee by a vote of 15 to 6. Details of the bill to be recommended will be worked out by subcommittees.

Members of the committee hope to obtain final action by the house before the contemplated recess for the national political conventions, but they express doubt when action by the senate could be had at this session.

Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, the republican leader, after a conference with other senate republicans as to future legislation in the senate, said he thought it would include a bill to give a money bonus to former service men, with provisions for a special tax to raise the necessary funds. The program approved by the house committee declares against any bond issue. It is understood to have been submitted by Representative Longworth, and was discussed at great length in executive session.

While the exact form of the legislation was not decided upon, committee discussion was said to have indicated approval of a plan extending vocational education as an alternative to the cash bonus. These two plans are a part of the American Legion's program. Its other selected plan of government aid to soldiers and sailors for building homes or obtaining ownership of farms were said by some members of the committee to be worked out by legislation before the recess.

Spokesman for the committee said it was planned to have the final draft of the legislation ready for submission to the house within a fortnight. As no decision was made as to the amount of the bonus or the cost of other plans that might be adopted, it was said that no estimate of the funds needed could be made at this time. It also was said that there had been no decision as to whether the bonus would be paid in a lump sum or be graduated according to the length of service of each individual.

SUPREME COURT DECISION LEAKED

CRIMINAL INDICTMENT ON THIS CHARGE FOR FIRST TIME IN HISTORY.

AIDED STOCK SPECULATION

U. S. Supreme Court's Verdict in the Southern Pacific Case Disclosed, Is Charge, Through Secretary to Justice McKenna.

Washington.—For the first time in history a criminal indictment was returned against persons alleged to have obtained advance information of a supreme court decision for the purpose of stock market speculation.

Ashton P. Embury, former secretary to Justice McKenna, was named as the man who disclosed the substance of the highest court's forthcoming decision in the Southern Pacific case last November. He was said to have received $600 for the information whereby the other defendants E. Millard Mayer, Jr., a New York broker; Earnest E. Moses, lawyer, of Washington, and James Harwood Graves, former assistant attorney in the Department of Justice, were enabled to sell "short" 500 shares of Southern Pacific, on which a profit of $1,412.50 was made.

The indictment, returned in the District of Columbia Supreme Court after months of investigation by the Department of Justice, charged specifically conspiracy to defraud the United States in its right of secrecy surrounding opinions of the United States Supreme Court prior to public announcement by the justices in formal session. It recited that "from time immemorial" the custom was to deliver all opinions so that all citizens might and did have equal opportunity to be informed concerning them "to the end that the court should continue and be regarded as an impartial and public tribunal administering and declaring public law in a public and general manner without favor or as one Ashton F. Embury then and there well knew."

While there have been rumors of court leaks in the past, investigation always disclosed that they were without foundation.

The finding of four indictments by no means closes the incident, it was learned. The Department of Justice is continuing its investigation. This much was admitted by Capt. Frank Burke, assistant chief of the bureau of investigation. He declined to discuss the matter further or to state who was under surveillance.

Of course, I knew that I could not hope to buy it, as it was far more expensive than we could afford. The price was—"

"Perhaps we could manage it, dear, if you wish it so much," Tom intervened fondly. "Business has been a little better the last month. I have two new contracts for large apartment houses. How much is the hat?"

"That is dear of you, Tom," she responded with a grateful smile, though her eyes grew sad, "but it is too late. Our cook happened to pass the store. I saw her wearing it home."

WELL ENDOWED BY NATURE Mountain Goat Thoroughly Equipped for Life in High Altitudes Amid Snow and Rocks.

"The mountain goat is equally at home on rock, ice, snow or meadow, and it lives in bands of two to twenty," says Dr. William T. Hornaday, writing of "The Rocky Mountain Goat at Home" in Boys' Life. "Its big black hoofs have chisel edges for ice and a center of rubber cushion for slippery rock. In steep climbing the front of the hoof digs in like a garden trowel, and in going down steep places the rear dewclaws make wonderfully effective brakes. The heavy coat of fine and dense white wool is impervious to dry cold, but the wet and cold rains of New York winters quickly put mountain goats down and out. In the spring they must be sheltered from all cold rains, or they contract pneumonia and die. Of dry cold they can endure any amount."

"In the matter of food, we must say that the goat is herbivorous, and explain that it feeds on a great variety of mountain plants, according to season. On the summits they find very little real grass, but they find pulsatilla and other queer pasture plants that are literally 'just as good.' In the spring they feed on the wild onions that grow abundantly in their home pastures, which impart to their flesh a strong onion flavor."

LADY LARKSPUR

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON

Copyright by Charles Scribner's Sons

GOOD NEWS—OR BAD.

Synopsis—Richard Series, successful American playwright, confides to his friend, Bob Singleton, the fact that, inspired by the genius of a young actress whom he had seen in London, he has written a play, "Lady Larkspur," solely with the thought that she should interpret it. The leading character, Violet Downing, has disappeared and Series refuses to allow the play to be produced with anyone else in the part. Singleton has just returned (invalided) from France, where he had been serving in the aviation corps. His uncle, Raymond Randolph, a wealthy man, had contracted a marriage a short time before his death, while on a visit to Japan. He left Singleton a comparatively small amount of money and the privilege of residence in the "cottage" of his summer home, Barton-on-the-Sound, Connecticut. Mrs. Randolph is believed to be traveling in the Orient. The household at Barton is made up of elderly employees of the Tyngham, a New York hotel, where the terms of his will these people are to have home at Barton for the rest of their lives. Singleton goes to Barton, taking with him the manuscript of "Lady Larkspur." There he finds the household strangely upset, some of its members being suspected by their comrades of pro-Germans. Antoine, head of the establishment, informs him that he has been perplexed by the somewhat mysterious visits of a stranger, apparently a foreigner, seeking Mrs. Randolph.

As I went about my unpacking I was sorry that I had discouraged Antoine's confidence. That these old hotel servants, flung upon a farm with little to do, should fall to quarreling was not surprising, but what he had said as to the inquiries for Mrs. Randolph had roused my curiosity. In spite of my legal right to live on the farm, I had no intention of remaining if my uncle's widow turned up. She could hardly fail to regard me as an intruding prod, no matter how strictly I kept to my own quarters.

I whistled myself into good humor as I dressed and started for the house along the driveway, which followed the shore, veering off for a look at the sunken garden, one of the few features of the place that had ever interested my uncle.

As I passed on the steps I caught sight of a man sitting dejectedly on a stone bench near a fountain whose jet tossed and caught in a ball with languid perfection. I had identified him as an old Tyngham bell-hop, known familiarly as Dutch, before he heard my step and sprang to his feet, grabbing a pitchfork whose prongs he presented threateningly.

"Oh, it's you, sir," he faltered, dropping the implement. "Excuse me, sir."

"What's your trouble, Dutch? You're not expecting burglars, are you?"

"Well, no, sir, but things on the place ain't what they wuz. It's my name, which ain't my name, not regular, and I'm campin' in the tool-house. An' me born right there in New York. An' an American clean through. My grandpa came across when he wuz a kid, but it ain't my fault he wuz Goldman. Mr. Singleton, I don't know no Goldman except prezzed, sawnkart, wleaser wurst, and then kinds of woids."

"Those belong to the universal language, Dutch. I answered consolingly. "What is your name, anyhow?"

"Augustus Schortemeyer, and I say it ain't no worsen Longfellow," he protested.

The point was delicate and not one that I felt myself qualified to discuss. I had him cheer up and passed on. As I reached the house I heard a sharp command in an authoritative voice and saw at a glance of the driveway a number of men in military formation performing evolutions in the most sprightly manner. They carried brooms, and at sight of me the commander, Lorch, his company to a very rigid "Present arms!" Their uniforms were that of the Tyngham bell-hops and waiters, and he turned to find Antoine awaiting me at the door.

"It's the troops, sir," he explained. "It's to keep Dutch and Gretchen and Elsie—the wife of that Flynn—in proper order, sir."

"Troops" was a large term for the awkward squad of retired waiters and bell-hops, and it was with diffidence that I kept my face straight.

"It's most unfortunate, but we was forced to it. Dinner is served, sir." From the dining table in the long dining-room I caught glimpses through the gathering dusk of Scotty's battalion at its evolutions.

"Antoine!" I said sharply, "what do you mean by these hints of trouble on the place? You're not silly enough to imagine that Dutch and a couple of women can do anything out here to aid America's enemies! And as for these inquiries about Mrs. Randolph, they couldn't possibly have anything to do with the war. Specifically, who are the persons who've asked for her?"

"There's the party I told you about, most persistent, who's motored here three times, and another person who seems to be looking for him, sir. It's most singular."

"It's singularly ridiculous; that's all. They're probably piano-tuners or rival agents for a rug house or something of that sort."

"They may be agents, but not that kind, sir." His lips quivered, either from fear or vexation at my refusal to take his story seriously.

"If anything tangible happens, Antoine," I said kindly, "anything you can really put our hands on, we'll certainly deal with it. But you mustn't get nervous or allow yourself to suspect everybody who turns up here of evil designs against the republic. I've come here for quiet, you know, and we can't have every passing stranger throwing the place into a panic."

I had no sooner reached the library, where he gave me coffee, than I heard a slow, measured tread on the broad brick terrace that ran along the house on the side toward the Sound. The windows were open and the guard was in plain view. I glanced at Antoine, whose attitude toward me was that of one benevolently tolerant of stupidity. He meant to save me in spite of my obtuseness.

"Tell the picket to remove himself where I won't hear him, if you please, Antoine."

He disappeared through one of the French windows and in a moment I saw the guard patrolling a walk some distance from the house. I now made myself comfortable with a book and cigar, but I had hardly settled myself for a quiet hour before I heard a commotion from the direction of the gate, followed a few minutes later by a shout and a noisy colloquy, after which a roadster arrived in haste at the front door.

"Mr. Torrence, sir," announced Antoine. "I'm sorry, sir, but he ran by the guard at the gate, and our man below the house stopped him. It's a precaution we've been taking, sir."

Torrence's sense of humor was always a little feeble, and I hastened into the hall to reassure him as to his welcome.

"For God's sake, Singleton, what's happened here? A band of pirates?"

"I shook my head in angry rejection of the idea that I should tell Torrence about 'the parties,' and dismissed him as soon as we reached the hall."

"I suggest," said Torrence, "that when she comes you have flowers in all the rooms; the conservatory will supply enough. And it occurs to me that the more inconspicuous you make this bunch of lily dependents the more agreeable it will be for Mrs. Randolph."

"You don't expect much of me! I was never in the contract that I should become the patriarch of these venerable relics. But I'll warn them to connect themselves as much as possible. I fully expect to leave the reservation for good just one hour after the day arrives."

"That's your affair, of course. As she's motoring, we can't just time her arrival, but when I get a wire that she's on the way I'll telephone you. And, of course, after she gets here I'll come at once to pay my respects."

"You can't come too soon!" I answered spitefully.

"Madame, the widow, has arrived, sir."

STIRRED COURT TO PROTEST Judge Had Court for a Good Deal From "Rattled" Attorney, but There Was a Limit.

A surgeon once confessed to Sir Edward Carson that on the night before he was to be cross-examined by him he dreamed he was on the operating table and Sir Edward was ruthlessly dissecting him. It is one of the most trying ordeals in life to be cross-examined by a skillful counsel. Sometimes, however, the counsel suffers from nervousness or indecision, and an amusing case is cited by Mr. J. A. Strahan in his book, "The Bench and the Bar of England."

It is not necessary to relate the happening of the tale. The counsel's condition is concisely summed up in this despairing cry from the judge: "Mr. Attorney, so long as you consistently called the plaintiff, whose name is Jones, by the name of Smith, and the defendant, whose name is Smith, by the name of Jones, the jury and I could follow you; but now that you have introduced the name of Robinson, without indicating in any way whether you mean it to refer to the plaintiff or to the defendant, or to both indifferently, we are beginning to get bothered a bit."

Benefit in Wearing Glasses. Wearing glasses does not weaken the eyes. This effect is apparent because the eye gives up straining and reveals the full necessity for glasses. Often eyes become so strengthened by the rest thus given that after a time the glasses are no longer needed.

Cats and Dogs at Peace. There is one place near Philadelphia where cats and dogs dwell together in peace. It is a cemetery devoted to deceased pets. It is at Franconville and contains many handsome tombstones.

Too Proud for Goat Hair. Mr. Peavish says that when he proposed to buy little Pansy a goathair muff for her birthday, Mrs. Peavish said no, her child was too proud to wear any but a wild animal outfit.—Dallas News.

I SALUTE "DODSON'S LIVER TONE"

It Never Gripes or Sickens You Like Nasty Calomel. All Biliousness, Headache, Constipation Is Gone

You're bilious! Your liver is sluggish! You feel lazy, dizzy. Your head is dull, your tongue coated, breath bad, stomach sour and bowels constipated. But don't take salivating Calomel. It makes you sick; you may lose a day.

Calomel is mercury which crashes into your bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

Becomes Expert. "Nothing succeeds like success." "That's so; a widow can almost always catch a second husband."

Gossip is the mother-in-law of slander.

To enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight. Your druggist sells a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents and guarantees each spoonful to clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty Calomel, without making you sick. Dodson's Liver Tone can not salivate. Give it to the children. Adv.

Too Much of a Good Thing. "Did you ever try hot water for your trouble?" "Good heavens, man, I'm always in it!"

A woman is really in a hurry if she says good-by that way.

Catarrh is a Real Enemy and Requires Vigorous Treatment

Do Not Neglect It.

When you use sprays, atomizers and douches for your Catarrh, you may succeed in unstopping the choked-up air passages for the time being, but this annoying condition returns, and you have to do the same thing over and over again.

Catarrh has never yet been cured by these local applications. Have you ever experienced any real benefit from such treatment?

Loan Bank for Trouble. "So many people want to borrow trouble," said the Old Settler, "that it's a wonder some enterprising cuss doesn't start a bank to accommodate 'em."

GET READY FOR "FLU"

Keep Your Liver Active, Your System Purified and Free From Colds by Taking Calotabs, the Nauseless Calomel Tablets, that are Delightful, Safe and Sure.

Physicians and Druggists are advising their friends to keep their systems purified and their organs in perfect working order as a protection against the return of influenza. They know that a clogged up system and a liver favor colds, influenza and serious complications. To cut short a cold overnight and to prevent serious complications take one Calotab at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea, no griping, no sickening after effects. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified and refreshed and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please—no danger. Calotabs are sold only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. Every druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not perfectly delighted with Calotabs.—(Adv.)

Handy Sprayer. A new pump for spraying flowers or fruits is operated by attaching it to an ordinary fruit jar, several of which can be provided to hold different spraying solutions.

HAD TERRIBLE COUGH AND NIGHT SWEATS

Cough about gone, eats and sleeps well, and gained 12 pounds.

"In December, 1912, I had a fearful cough, and my physician ordered me to change climate immediately. I went to San Antonio, Tex., and entered a sanatorium. Left there and came to Oklahoma City in October, 1915. Had no appetite, could not sleep, had night sweats and was losing from one to three pounds a week. I also had catarrh of the bowels, which the doctors had been unable to relieve."

"Relatives urged me to try Milks Emulsion. I did so and began to improve, slowly at first, but steadily. My weight has increased 12 pounds. I have no temperature, and my cough is about gone. I can eat heartily, sleep well, and am working at my trade again."—V. W. Neff, 630 So. Dewey St., Oklahoma City, Okla. Nature does wonders in fighting off disease, if given the chance. Milks Emulsion is a powerful help in providing strength and flesh. It costs nothing to try.

Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions, and if not satisfied with the results your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. The Milks Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Some people would have to work overtime if they practiced half of what they preached.

Tough on the Patient. Nurse—Oh, doctor, what shall I do? Your patient followed your directions perfectly.

Doctor—Well, there's nothing to worry over. Nurse—Yes, there is; the directions blew out the window and he jumped out to follow them.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Ochine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Ochine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning, and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Ochine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

PROMINENT LODGE WORKER NOW EVER MINDFUL OF DUTY

Mrs. Iseman Thinks it Wrong If She Didn't Publicly Praise Trutona.

Paducah, Ky., April 1. Practically everyone in Paducah and vicinity knows, likes and esteems Mrs. A. L. Iseman, 402 Washington Street, Paducah. She has been prominent in lodge circles here for years, having held several high positions in the local W. O. W. circle.

"I must admit that I was almost ready to 'hand in my checks' when I began taking 'Trutona' she said. 'I had been suffering from a complication of troubles for several years. My bladder and kidneys were in a bad condition. I had scarcely any appetite and found it hard to sleep well at night.'

"I do not like publicity and consequently am not enthusiastic over having my name used, but I feel that I owe this statement to the general public, and this time I am willing to give it. I am not nervous any more and my kidney and bladder troubles have vanished. I have a splendid appetite, too, and sleep well at night now. Trutona is the finest medicine for liver trouble I've ever found. My complexion has cleared up and I've gained in weight during the past two months. Trutona seems to have made a new woman of me."

Trutona is now being introduced and explained in Marion at Jas. H. Orme's Drug Store.

IN MEMORY OF LOUIS ALLEN GUESS

Louis Allen Guess was born January 16 1880, and died February 20 1920 at Hot Springs Arkansas of influenza and pneumonia at the age of forty years, one month and three days. He was married to Miss Effie Tucker April 29 1901, to this union was born two children Herbert and Herschell, who with their mother survive him. He also leaves to mourn his loss his aged father, six brothers two sisters and a host of friends and relatives. He professed Faith in Christ about twelve years ago and joined the Baptist Church at Blackburn, he afterward moved his membership to Piney Creek where he remained a member until his death. He was an affectionate and faithful husband a kind and loving father, always devoted to his family, he had often spoken of dying saying he was prepared to go and spoke of the beautiful song a few days before he left "When The Roll is Called in Heaven I'll be there". And we knew by the smile on his face that he was in Heaven with Mother and Sisters who had gone on before. He had written to his wife saying that he had the influenza but not serious and will soon be alright. This letter was received on the 17 of February, later a telegram was received stating that he was very sick with influenza and pneumonia but the doctor stated he was not in danger and he seemed to be doing very well up till Friday morning at three o'clock he had a sinking spell and died at 10 A. M. without pain, just went peacefully to sleep in Jesus with a smile on his face. His brother left immediately for Hot Springs and accompanied the remains back. Funeral services were conducted at the home of his father by Rev. Will Oakley in the presence of a large number of relations and friends. The remains were taken to the Dollar cemetery and placed beautifully away by the side of his mother to await the resurrection morn. Precious father thou hast left us, all alone yes forever most little did we think when you left home on February 5 that we would never more meet this side of Heaven. Oh it was so sad to be away among strangers and we did not get word in time to reach there. Our home is so sad and lonely without you; how can we do without you? How we miss thee no one can tell. Your voice on earth is stilled; a place in our home is vacant, which never can be filled. Farewell, a sad farewell no more thy face we'll see. No balm will heal, no tongue can tell, the sorrow felt for thee. Sweet shall thy slumbers here and calm thy peaceful breast, beyond the reach of earthly cares thy soul has found sweet rest.
