APPRECIATE A PAPER

Probably some of our readers wonder who makes the publication of this paper possible.

Feeling that you, dear readers are really part of this business and that without you we could not make the paper a success from any standpoint we are going to tell you all about it.

As you all probably know the money we receive on subscription is just about enough to cover the cost of the white paper we use. This makes it essential that the expense of setting the type, printing and mailing be borne by some other department than the subscriptions.

Owing to the fact that our advertising columns have a real value this is the logical portion of the paper to expect to bring in enough money to cover the above expense.

In order that you might know who are interested in making your paper a possibility—and who want your patronage—and are proving their sincerity by asking for it, we are printing this list of the local business people together with the sum they have spent for advertising in the Press since August 1, 1919.

W. M. V. MEET AT FREDONIA

Interesting time and much work done at W. M. V. sewing at Fredonia. It was a happy crowd, the Fredonia W. M. V. and friends that met with Mrs. Frank Smith Wednesday, June 2 at her beautiful country home to sew for the Kentucky Baptist Children's Home. Eighteen finished garments were brought and much new goods from which many new garments were cut for boys and girls. Two machines were kept running. The girls cut and pieced the scraps into a quilt for a hospital. The bountiful dinner served in the shady yard under large maples was enjoyed by all. The pastor and four other men came making fifty-two present.

The hostess assisted by her daughter, sister and cousin did all that could be desired to make the day a pleasure and success.

ACCIDENT AT MARY BELLE

While loading a wagon with spar at the Mary Belle mines, a large lump of spar fell and struck Mr. Jas. J. Thomas on the head, fracturing the skull, and inflicting three large wounds on his head. Dr. Frazer was called and gave first aid and he was taken to Tolu where he was carried on board the gasoline launch of Mr. Harry Stone and taken to the Riverside Hospital, Paducah, where he will be treated.

Remstitching, piecing, pleating, etc. a yard. Cloth covered buttons from your dress goods. Mail material to Mrs. A. Melan, care Hale's, Murray, Ky.

THE COLYUM

Maybe a lot of my good friends wondered why this vamping did not appear in last week's paper. That is an easy one. I had just spent a night on the Salem road in a 4d and would have been arrested had I said what I thought.

Don't think for a minute that I am going to place the blame on E. Jeff Travis for the condition of that boulevard. Just as much blame rests on the Fiscal Court and the County judge as on the road engineer. If I had written this last week I would have said that they should all be in jail for permitting any road in the county to get in the condition the Salem road has been in the past few months.

Of course there is a large amount of heavy traffic over in that direction. The Federal Highway will not last more than a few months if some means of protection in the way of heavy traffic prevention during the freezing and thawing months are not adopted.

And on the other hand the mining interests out in that direction are entitled to consideration. Crittenden's spar industry must not be throttled down—it should be exploited even more.

The only logical thing to do if a permanent solution is sought is to construct a trolley line out in that part of the county. It could branch out towards Tolu from the Sheridan section and thus become a feeder that would make Marion a much more important shipping center.

By this method the miners could load their ore direct on the cars right at the mines and save an enormous sum annually. It costs a lot of money to haul spar over those roads.

I realize that I am only dreaming when I am figuring all this out for you. But that is the way every thing really worth while is ever started. Some one has to have a dream first.

I am not going to claim that I am the first one who has dreamed this one though. But I had never heard it mentioned when I had the dream.

Another dream. In less than two years after the completion of our Federal Highway if any of the former Crittenden inhabitants should happen to come back they will have to be told where they are.

Instead of the old unsightly hitching rack around the square there will be chalked off spaces in the PAVING for the farmers to park their cars between the lines. There will be a comfortable rest room for the farmers' wives and daughters somewhere near the business center. The desolate walls reminding us all of the folly of being without water-works will have been removed even if there are no new buildings on Main Street. There will be a regular culvert over the chasm on Bellville Street near the railroad. It may take a law suit by some one who has fallen through the one that was built from the drift wood from the flood though to wake up the city council to the real danger of permitting people to cross the old contraption to get this through. Dr. Gilchrist just came in to the office whistling and woke me up. He deserves—I'll leave it to you to punish him.

Wonder what has become of the Road Commissioners? There are a lot of folks in the county who would like to know just what they plan to do and what information, if any they would have about when there will be any construction work done in this county and a lot of other information they are entitled to.

Let's not forget that Marion has a real baseball team.

I thank you. W. P. HOGARD

Mr. Harry Weldon, brother of the bride was best man.

The popularity of the young couple was attested by the many handsome presents received.

SCHOOL CLOSURES AT TOLU

The Tolu Graded and High School closed May 28, 1920, after having a splendid year's work. A very interesting program was rendered at the closing exercises. On the night of May 27 the little folks under the supervision of Miss Clara Love and Miss Voda King rendered an excellent program including music and plays, all of which were well prepared and rendered and reflected credit to those who were in charge.

On the night of May 29 the second program was rendered under the supervision of Prof. Wather. The play "The Union Depot" was well presented by the pupils of the seventh, eighth and ninth grades.

ELECT A NEW SUPERINTENDENT

The board of trustees met a few days ago and elected Prof. D. H. Lyon as superintendent of the Marion Graded and High School for the term of 1920-21.

Prof. Lyon is the son of Rev. A. P. Lyon, a Methodist minister and president of Logan College, and comes very highly recommended. He has just completed his third year as superintendent of the schools at Mt. Sterling, having taught one year and resigned to enter the Army where he served one year, and at the close of the war was re-elected as superintendent of the Mt. Sterling school, where he has served for the past two years.

All who know Mr. Lyon and those who met him feel that the Board has made a wise and good choice.

The board has also chosen Mr. George M. Gumbert as teacher of agriculture and four of the grade teachers.

We predict for the school one of its best and brightest years during the term of '20-21.

EDITORS ON JOY RIDE

The members of the First District Press Association are planning a trip over the district in automobiles the latter part of this month.

Marion will have the honor of entertaining this distinguished body on the night of June 25. At the meeting of the Marion Business Men's Association Tuesday evening a committee was appointed to look after their entertainment.

This is an opportunity that rarely comes to the smaller cities and will give Marion a chance to get into the limelight in this Congressional District by showing their visitors a royal good time. The Editors will arrive in Marion Friday evening, June 25.

About forty persons are expected to make the trips. The following persons have been invited to join the Editors for the entire itinerary, and their subjects: John Crenshaw, Cadiz; Farm Bureau Federation; J. C. Utterback, Paducah, City, Town and Country; Allen W. Barkley, Paducah Domestic and Foreign Relations; Judge H. F. Green, Smithland, Good Roads; Judge Clem Nunn, Marion, Religious and Social Relations; Geo. Colvin, Frankfort; Education and Morals; Judge Bunk Gardner, Mayfield, Americanism. Editors may choose their own subjects.

A general invitation is extended to the people in each county to attend these meetings and get a vision of our possibilities.

THE LIGHT SITUATION

Several parties have been in the city during the past week looking over the electric light plant which Mr. Jenkins has placed in the hands of an organization which makes a specialty of handling such properties and it will be sold at auction. Mr. Jenkins has definitely decided to retire from the business and so notified the city council last June and the visitors we are informed were prospective bidders. The auction will be some time this month, if no private sale is made sooner. The relations between the community and the present owners have been most pleasant and no matter who the new owners may be we hope they may continue so. Should one of the utility companies become the owners it is not possible that the service can be improved unless they furnish twenty-four hour electricity.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Asher of Shady Grove were in the city Wednesday.

The Masonic lodge purchased a player piano of the Yates Bros. this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Milliken of Mexico were in town shopping Wednesday.

Mr. Sigshy Lowry is spending a few days with his parents Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Lowry.

Mrs. R. E. Beard was called last week to nurse her niece, Mrs. L. E. Berry of Sturgis.

Little Miss Thelma Ashby of Fayetteville Tenn., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Medley Cannan.

Mr. Elzie Wring who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Wring, left Tuesday for Hopkinsville.

Mrs. R. C. Hopper of Memphis, arrived Tuesday and is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Vandell.

Mr. J. G. Rochester was in Owensboro where he had gone to visit Mrs. Rochester who is under treatment, and found her improving slowly.

There will be an ice cream and pie supper at the Presbyterian Church at Crayne Saturday night, June 12. Proceeds for the benefit of the church.

Messrs. J. A. Stevens and Elzie Moore, and Master Thomas Stevens left Wednesday for Detroit, where they will purchase and drive home two Studebaker automobiles, one for R. L. Moore and the other for Mrs. Alvis Stevens.

BUSINESS MEN PERFECT ORGANIZATION

At a meeting of the business men of Marion held in the auditorium of the school house last Tuesday night an organization was perfected and a constitution and by-laws adopted. The organization is to be known as the Marion Business Men's Association and unless all signs fail this club will have much influence in helping develop a better community spirit in this county.

A membership drive will be staged in the near future and it is the hope of the officers and membership committee that every one interested in the welfare and upbuilding of this community will hasten to add their name to the growing list.

A nominal initiation fee of one dollar is all that it costs to join and the dues are only a dollar each month. Come in.

Mr. William Owen Moore, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Moore for the past two weeks left Sunday for Flint, Michigan.

To cut short a cold overnight and to prevent serious complications take one Calotab at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea, no griping, no sickening after effects. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified and refreshed and you are feeling well with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please—no danger. Calotabs are sold only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. Every druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not perfectly delighted with Calotabs.—(Adv.)

HE KNEW HIS LIMITATIONS

Small Boy Didn't Imagine He Would Amount to Much as the Belter Land.

"Spiritualistic mediums in their descriptions of the next world are absurd. The next world, indeed, is a very ticklish subject to handle."

The speaker was Sir Oliver Lodge. He continued:

"A little boy was told by his Sunday school teacher that he would leave his body behind when he died."

"I don't understand that," he said in a frightened voice.

"You see," explained the teacher, "you will take all that is good with you to the better land, and leave all that is naughty here on earth."

"He thought a moment, then he said soberly:

"I guess I'm going to be pretty thin up there, mother."

How Our Navy Planes Are Armed

May Use Radio to Pilot Ships

Plan to Guide Vessels Through the Golden Gate by Wireless.

CONFIDENT OF ITS SUCCESS

Navy Department Working on "Double-Track" System Which is Expected to Become Reality in a Few Years.

Washington.—A "double-track railroad" guiding ships from all parts of the world in and out of San Francisco Bay, through the Golden Gate, as safely in fog as in clear weather! That is the seemingly incredible task upon which the navy department is now working. It will be a reality within a few years, or if congress be lenient, by next January 1.

Commander H. W. McCormick, Pacific coast radio material officer at Mare Island, has asked an appropriation for the laying of radio plotting cables from San Francisco's waterfront, a distance of seven or eight miles out through the Golden Gate. Unless the appropriation of the wireless section of the bureau of steam engineering is trimmed too severely at Washington, the funds will become available July 1; the necessary supplies will be requisitioned immediately, and the vessels calling at San Francisco will be electrically guided into the harbor before next January.

Confident of Success.

The use of radio pilot cables is still in the experimental stage, Commander McCormick said, but naval officers are confident of its success. Only one experiment has been heretofore conducted in the United States, and that, at New York, operated successfully until the cables were cut by dragging anchors.

The equipment for the "double track" consists primarily of two heavily insulated cables, costing approximately $75,000; a transmitting station

HIS NAME WAS BIBLE

So Judge Thought He Could Take Chance on Him.

Almost Lost Confidence in Human Nature When Paroled Prisoner Showed Up.

Tulsa, Okla.—Because his last name sounded all right, Judge Maxey of this city released Lewis Bible on his own recognizance when he was arraigned on the charge of passing a bad check.

"Your name," said the Judge, "sounds all right. I'm betting that you will come back on the day set for your trial."

The day came, and the hour—9 o'clock in the forenoon—and no Bible put in an appearance. The witnesses were there, both for the state and the defense. They had not seen Bible since the day he was released.

"This is one time you have made a mistake," observed the county attorney to Judge Maxey. The Judge shook his head.

"His name is all right," he contended, "and he looked all right to me. But I may have been mistaken."

At 9:30 the witnesses were discharged and the case set over to another day.

Judge Maxey ordered that the sheriff be sent to him; he would have Lewis Bible apprehended.

Ten o'clock came and a man on crutches hobbled into the court room. He was Lewis Bible, with one leg done up in splints and bandages.

"I got here as soon as I could," Judge Maxey said.

Then he explained that after his release he went to Cometa and went to work. His leg was broken the first day, and he had been in bed ever since. A friend in Cometa volunteered to take him to court to answer the charge against him, but his automobile had been wrecked and he did not reach the court house in time. Later it developed that Bible had not passed a bad check.

"You have restored my confidence in human nature and my ability to read it," said Judge Maxey as he discharged Lewis Bible.

A New Plutocrat Looms Up.

Bluefield, W. Va.—Before he left for the army a Coeburn boy bought a barrel of whisky and buried it. He and today he is $12,000 richer than he was. Revenue officers would be interested in learning how and to whom he made the sale.

FEAR WOMAN SHERIFF

Female Officer in New Jersey Respected by Lawbreakers.

Soon After Her Appointment Mrs. Duer Demonstrated Her Worth as an Officer.

Red Bank, N. J.—The presence of Mrs. Georganna Duer, acting deputy sheriff, in Red Bank, N. J., is said to be responsible for the scarcity of crime in that vicinity. Shortly after her appointment Mrs. Duer demonstrated her worth as an officer, and since that time only a few petty acts of thievery have been reported.

Evildoers steer clear of Sheriff Duer's territory because she has the embarrassing habit of turning up unexpectedly at the right point to intercept the fleeing crook with his plunder. This happens because the woman officer has lived in the same locality for 38 years and knows every crook and

With your fingers! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the hard skin caluses from bottom of feet.

A tiny bottle of "Freestone" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or calous. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or calous right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humbug!—Adv.

Compensations.

"I suppose you have your own trials in the clock-making business. Some of your works always on strike?"

"Yes, but I'm never worried over my hands wanting an eight-hour day."

Swamp a Beautiful Park.

Wellington, Kan.—Women of this city are given credit for the transformation, within a few years, of an unsightly, swampy thirty-acre tract into a beautiful city park. It has been named "Community park." It is laid out with artistic landscape effect, replete with trees, shrubs and flower bed. It contains a park house, surrounded with large shade trees, a neat modern stone building containing a large reception room, dining room and kitchen, that will accommodate comfortably about 250 persons. The park house is used for entertainments, banquets and parties.

Bull Has a Morning After.

Knoxville, Tenn.—Man is not the only animal with a thirst. A bull belonging to Frank L. West, county tax assessor, located a still, imbibed too freely and went on a spree. Fences were torn down and the still was destroyed, and then the bull was given a chance to meditate.

Ten o'clock came and a man on crutches hobbled into the court room. He was Lewis Bible, with one leg done up in splints and bandages.

"I got here as soon as I could," Judge Maxey said.

Then he explained that after his release he went to Cometa and went to work. His leg was broken the first day, and he had been in bed ever since. A friend in Cometa volunteered to take him to court to answer the charge against him, but his automobile had been wrecked and he did not reach the court house in time. Later it developed that Bible had not passed a bad check.

"You have restored my confidence in human nature and my ability to read it," said Judge Maxey as he discharged Lewis Bible.

Educated Mine Rat Opens Dinner Pails of Workers

Workmen at the Richards colliery mines at Mount Carmel, Pa., say an educated rat has been responsible for their missing many good dinners recently.

According to the miners, the rat inserts its tail in the ring of a dinner bucket, and then takes a big jump. The lid usually comes off. When lunch time comes the men find their boxes empty.

Uncarth Mastodon Tusk.

Stockton, Kan.—The petrified core of a mastodon's tusk was unearthed near here the other day by workmen putting in abutments of a bridge. The tusk is five inches in diameter at the base and two feet in length. It is believed the tusk is part of the skeleton of a large prehistoric animal that made its home in the primeval forests thousands of years ago.

AUSTRIAN ARMY DRAWS FEW

Efforts to Raise 30,000 Soldiers Meet Little Response in Vienna Centers.

Vienna, Austria.—Austria is trying to organize an army to succeed the Volkwehr under the provisions of the bill hurriedly passed during the panic that followed the German revolution. It is to be composed of 30,000 men. The treaty prohibits any aviation force.

The conservatives won their point in securing the allocation of recruiting in the provinces on a population basis and in provisions prohibiting political activity by the military forces.

These provincial units are to be garrisoned within the province itself. No man may be foisted upon a unit in a province in which he was not recruited without the consent of the province itself, and the men must be bona fide citizens of their province. On the one hand will be an army of peasant lads, and on the other of industrial classes from the manufacturing centers.

City Doubled Taxes on Profiteering Landlord

DEATH WAS NEAR

Florida Woman in Critical Condition From Dropsy, But Doan's Brought Recovery

"Dropsy brought me right down to the shadow of the grave," says Mrs. Ida B. Atwell, 904 William St., Key West, Fla. "For fifteen years I was a hopeless wreck, struggling between life and death. The pains were so severe in my back I screamed in agony. My head ached so severely I thought my skull was being crushed. Black specks floated before my eyes, and I had to grasp the bed to keep from falling."

"The kidney secretions burned and scalded and I could pass only a few drops at a time. My body bloated. The pressure of so much water on my chest almost smothered me. My feet also swelled and large sacs of water hung beneath my eyes. My skin had a shiny, white appearance and anywhere I pressed a dent would remain for hours. I became a nervous wreck."

"A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and oh! I felt so happy when I found they were helping me. Continued use of Doan's completely cured me." Sworn to before me.

For more than Forty Years Cotton Growers have known that POTASH PAYS

More than 11,651,200 Tons of Potash Salts had been imported and used in the United States in the 20 years previous to January, 1915, when shipments ceased. Of this 6,460,700 Tons consisted of which the cotton grower knew was both a plant food and a preventive of blight and rust,—with it came also 1,312,400 Tons of which has the same effects on Cotton, but which was used mainly in mixed fertilizers.

20 per cent MANURE SALT

Shipments of both Kainit and Manure Salt have been resumed but the shortage of coal and cars and high freight rates make it more desirable to ship Manure Salt, which contains 20 per cent of actual Potash, instead of Kainit, which contains less than 13 per cent actual Potash.

MANURE SALT can be used as a side dressing on Cotton in just the same way as Kainit and will give the same results. Where you used 100 pounds of Kainit, you need to use but 62 pounds of Manure Salt, or 100 pounds of Manure Salt go as far as 161 pounds of Kainit.

MANURE SALT has been coming forward in considerable amounts and cotton growers, who cannot secure Kainit, should make an effort to get Manure Salt for side dressing to aid in making a big Cotton Crop.

Muriate of Potash

50 per cent actual Potash, has been coming forward also.—100 pounds of Muriate are equivalent to 400 pounds of Kainit or 250 pounds of Manure Salt.

These are the three

Standard GERMAN Potash Salts

that were always used in making cotton fertilizers and have been used for all these years with great profit and without any damage to the crop.

The supply is not at present as large as in former years, but there is enough to greatly increase the Cotton Crop if you insist on your dealer making the necessary effort to get it for you.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

THE MOSQUITOES.

"Well, friends," said the little mosquito, "how about a banquet tonight? It's the first warm evening of the season, and without a doubt the people will sit out on their porches and enjoy the beautiful air."

"They won't enjoy us," said the second mosquito. "Well, I am sure we wouldn't be flattered if they did," said the first mosquito. "If they enjoyed us it would mean that we didn't bite them."

"All started forth, then, and that would never do," agreed the second mosquito. "Well, let's be off, for the sun has gone down and the people will have finished their suppers before long."

"All right," said the first mosquito, "I'm ready, and I'll give a call to the children and to the cousins and to all of the family and relatives."

"Buzz-buzz-buzz," came back the answers, and soon all the mosquito relatives had joined the first two mosquitoes.

"Is everyone ready for a banquet?" asked the first mosquito. "Everyone, without a doubt," said the mosquitoes.

So they all started forth and buzzed along, talking of people who felt them most.

"We don't want to go to those who're not properly bitten by mosquitoes," said the first mosquito. "I heard some one say, the other day," said the second mosquito, "that the two creatures she hated most, were the flies and the mosquitoes. She said she didn't like yellow jackets and hornets, but practically every other creature she liked."

"Now, wasn't that a compliment?" "A large one," said they all. "What do you mean by a large compliment?" asked the second mosquito. "You should say a big compliment. But still what do we care about words except a few choice ones such as bite and bitten and will bite?"

"Ah, those are the words that make me glad," said the first mosquito. "And the ones we like, too," said all of the mosquitoes.

"Ah," said the first mosquito, "there are all the people sitting out of doors. I know they would on a warm evening like this. Folks like to sit out of doors, and I am glad that they do."

"Let's hurry, all of us," said the mosquitoes hurried, and some of them went on one piazza where people were sitting and some on another. The first and second mosquitoes were on a piazza where there were a number of children.

They were so terribly mean that they just wanted to bite, and they liked to bite children, for children could be bitten so easily.

"I believe I felt a mosquito," said one little girl. "Goodie, goodie," buzzed the first mosquito. "That is fine," said the second mosquito.

"Isn't it a pity," some one said, "that on a beautiful evening like this, the first warm one of the season, we should be bitten in this fashion?"

"They're the meanest things—mosquitoes," said another. "Come on, that's a good compliment," said the first mosquito, "let us reward them for such speeches."

So they bothered the people and they especially bothered children, and after a time they were becoming very conceited when some one landed the first mosquito and he was through biting and through being about for there was no more of him at least.

SKIRTS ADOPT MODISH PLAITS

ACCORDION plaits and side-plaits appear to be occupying the thoughts of many designers this season. They are shown in everything from capes to negligees. In the soft, sheer materials, the thin, supple silks and satins, they are at their very best, and in the heavier fabrics, used for suits or skirts or capes, designers have managed them cleverly. In stripes and plaids, plaits change the lines and predominating colors so that manufacturers of separate skirts appear to be fascinated by them; they give so much opportunity for the exercise of ingenuity. It seems like painting the lily and adorning the rose to change or add anything to some of the beautiful plaids and stripes that appear in silk and wool materials—but it is done, and we have to concede that something of interest is added to the garment made in this way.

One of the skirts pictured here features stripes running horizontally and the material laid in moderately wide side plaits. Odd and fanciful pockets, without plaits are set on at each side. They are something like saddle-bag pockets, with rounded flaps, and they hang as if separate from the skirt. Four balls covered with the material make an unusual finish across the bottom of them. The giraffe is ingenious, too. Its ends are split at the front, forming two straps, the top straps fastening with a large button while the lower ones cross and are finished at the ends with balls.

At all at once and with one accord, the creators of smocks and blouses seemed to have seized upon tricolette as a promising material for their purposes. Whoever started it, uncovered an idea that has flourished from the beginning and has led into several by-paths in apparel. Besides smocks, close-fitting jackets, or bodices, often sleeveless and extended at the front into girdles or sash ends, have made their entry for summer wear. In gay and beautiful colors, tricolette and other weaves in the same silk fringe at the bottom and embellishment embroidered or flower sprays about the neck and down the front opening. Gray is a favorite color for smocks of this kind and gay colors appear in the sleeves, but the smocks are made in many colors. A plain giraffe, made of the material, or a silk cord and tassel, matching the smock in color, furnish the best management of the waistline. The neck and short front opening are bound with plain satin and small round buttons, covered with it, add a last touch to a delightful piece of work.

A handsome georgette smock, with all-over pattern in silk embroidery, is used for the dressmaker model shown in the picture. It is one of many in which georgette, in a dark color, serves as a background for rich embroidered effects and these pretty garments are in high favor for formal afternoon and White Floss Embroidery. On some of the newest evening gowns one sees white floss embroidered on white silk background, and this, though it may not have been borrowed from China, is not infrequently seen among the finest of Chinese embroideries. White is interestingly combined with colors in the embroidery of some of the new frocks. In three charming frocks exhibited recently was seen white embroidery on brown, a bright green on a light yellow and delft blue on white. It is not unusual to see in the new blouses the use of opaque white beads embroidered on blouses of the light pastel shades.

Novelty Veils. If you wish to be very up to date you must wear a smoke gray net veil with a border, the latter arranged in interlaced lines. The net is very thin and silky, and over a clear complexion is infinitely becoming. Once again the Parisiennes are wearing veils made of heliotrope Russian net.

Trimming for Child's Frock. Unique trimming for children's frocks is made from striped material. The stripes are connected or divided by a chain stitch of red worsted. A band of this trimming can be used round the sleeves and down each side of the frock, at back and front.

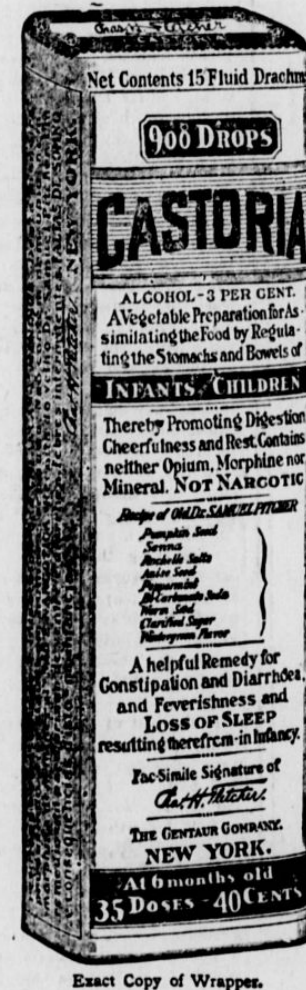

Unique Millinery Novelty. An interesting and unique millinery novelty for recreation wear is a large poke bonnet, made entirely of wool crocheted and wired and trimmed with crocheted flowers of the same material.

Are You Human?

A little baby. A little child. Don't they appeal to you? Doesn't your heart yearn to pick them up, to cuddle them close to you, to shield them from all harm? sure it does else you're not human. Being human you love them. Their very helplessness makes you reach out in all your strength to aid them. In health there's no flower so beautiful. In illness there's no sight so black.

Save them then. Use every precaution. Take no chance. When sickness comes, as sickness will, remember its just a baby, just a child and if the Physician isn't at hand don't try some remedy that you may have around the house for your own use.

Fletcher's Castoria was made especially for babies' ills and you can use it with perfect safety as any doctor will tell you. Keep it in the house.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Do the People Know? Do you know why you are asked to call for Fletcher's Castoria when you want a child's remedy? why you must insist on Fletcher's? For years we have been explaining how the popularity of Fletcher's Castoria has brought out innumerable imitations, substitutes and counterfeits.

To protect the babies: to shield the homes and in defense of generations to come we appeal to the better judgment of parents to insist on having Fletcher's Castoria when in need of a child's medicine. And remember above all things that a child's medicine is made for children—a medicine prepared for grown-ups is not interchangeable. A baby's food for a baby. And a baby's medicine is just as essential for the baby.

The Castoria Recipe (it's on every wrapper) has been prepared by the same hands in the same manner for so many years that the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and perfection in the product are synonymous. MOTHERS SHOULD READ THE BOOKLET THAT IS AROUND EVERY BOTTLE OF FLETCHER'S CASTORIA.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Millions of people are waiting with such patience as they can muster for the time when prices will come down. They have faith that the time will not be long deferred. But we fear they are doomed to disappointment. Before any great reduction can be expected in the retail market there must first be a readjustment of the price of labor, raw materials etc. Can you imagine the laborer voluntarily reducing his wages, or the manufacturer his product? There is an endless amount of time before us, and much of it will be consumed before the sky loses its control of price quotations.

In looking over the political field we are surprised at the number of "favorite sons" trotted out by the two great political parties. We presume they are all great men—or at least they would like to be considered great. At any rate, being a favorite son entitles one to a certain kind of distinction, and it also gets his name in the newspapers. But if they are seeking newspaper publicity and political distinction, both can easily be secured. Let each favorite son go seriously to work in a conscientious effort to stabilize our unsettled conditions. If they can pull down that chestnut we are for them—all of them for anything they want. Any one can be a favorite son, but it is going to require more than that to keep us off the rocks during the next few years. We need a man who can reach the chestnut, regardless of what his political affiliations may be.

Is the cost of the daily meals worrying you? Then spend twice the time chewing your food. You will feel better, be more satisfied, and eat less. Most people are content to bolt down their food and leave nature to do what they should have done themselves. Nature becomes overworked, and soon calls a halt. Then comes a bad stomach, poor digestion, peevishness, excitability, and a general weakening of productive powers. No person can do justice as a producer unless he is in good health, and good health can only be maintained by a proper mastication of food.

The world is full of wise men and fools. The fool thinks he is a wise one, and the wise man sometimes makes a fool of himself. But study it out for yourself.

The public should be left out of the issue dealing with the railroad question, we are told. It is left out of every issue dealing with everything. That's why it is kicking.

The trouble with Mexico is that they are all generals and every general wants to be president.

An exchange says that about the first time a woman meets a man she begins to tell him her troubles. But it is different with a man. He tells 'em to the judge.

Notoriety seekers are generally successful. They soon become notorious.

The other fellow has a legitimate right to his own political belief, but he should keep it in subjection when it doesn't coincide with yours.

It is possible, of course, that your neighbor may be full of faults, but he hasn't absorbed all of your own. We are a country of spies. We have had our war spies, our profiteering spies, and spending spies and some day we hope to have a working spy.

A wise man is wise, but a wise woman is just a little wiser. Yep, we know how to stand in with the fact set.

The price of presidency, like everything else is going up. All men are born with brains, but some haven't sense enough to use them.

MEN AND BRAINS

Whatever your station in the business world, it was the use of your brains that placed you there.

If you have climbed the ladder of success, you have made good use of your brains, have employed them to your advantage.

If you have slipped downward in the scale of life, you have failed to take proper advantage of the opportunities afforded you. You have held the business instinct of your brain in check. You have not permitted it to function properly.

Brains were made to use—not to abuse.

This fact should be kept well in mind by the young men of this community who are just entering the door of life's career. That career will depend upon the manner in which they employ their brains.

The enthusiasm of youth is natural and is to be expected. It is a valuable asset.

But the enthusiasm should not be allowed to run its course unchecked. It should be curbed lest it go over the brink of the commercial precipice.

The business world is full of presences—destructive pitfalls for the feet of the impulsive and unwary.

Our young men just entering upon their careers can not do better than take sober counsel of himself, of his position of his hopes in life.

The bridge to success can not be crossed in a day. It is long and there are many obstacles to buffet the novice in the world of affairs. But brains properly employed will win.

Thirty minutes at the close of day can do wonders. The labors of the day can be analyzed. Was each task properly performed? How could it have been improved upon?

Let the brain answer those two questions properly each day and the problem of success in life will have been solved.

The human brain is like a garden. When cultivated it produces in abundance. If neglected it soon becomes barren waste.

The young men of this community have brains—plenty of brains. We want to see them grow and thrive in the garden of life.

Cultivation will do it. Neglect will not.

Try One Brunswick Then Decide

The best way to know for yourself the superiority of the Brunswick Tire is to buy one and compare it.

That is, if the very name of Brunswick isn't sufficient proof to you, as it is to most men, that here is an extraordinary tire. Thousands of men who have known the name of Brunswick for years, realize that a Brunswick Tire has to be the best— for a mediocre product could never bear this historic name.

Long before the Overland Trail became famous, the House of Brunswick was established. It was one of the chief users of rubber for fifty years before automobiles came into use.

No concern with such a history could afford to offer anything but the best. For reputations are built slowly, but can be quickly destroyed.

This is a practical guarantee that Brunswick Tires offer more than the usual, yet at no added cost.

Get your first one now. You'll not be satisfied until you have ALL Brunswicks.

We have a lot of good points that we could tell you about the big stock of men's and young men's oxfords—about the different shapes you will find here and about the satisfaction you will have in knowing that you are well shod—and best of all that the oxford will deliver the goods when it comes to long service and wont have that woe-begone appearance after you have worn them a few times. If you men are looking for real lasting satisfaction with your footwear this summer you will come here.

"Billikens" for the Youngsters

In making plans to supply our constantly increasing number of customers we have not over looked "Young America." It's well for you to bear in mind that when you buy the boy or girl a pair of oxfords that "when you buy a Pair of Billikens you have bought the best." This line of shoes and oxfords is so well known that it is not necessary to say that both style and comfort for the younger generation's feet have not been over looked in their manufacture. And our price challenge, quality for quality goes just the same with this line as with the older folks' oxfords.

Our motto: "Not Satisfied Till You Are," works just as hard in our shoe department as it does anywhere else in our store.

Pull Together for an American Merchant Marine

The war resulted in the creation of a great merchant marine—10,000,000 tons of American ships which cost us $3,000,000,000.

Everybody agrees that we must keep this fleet on the seas.

If we fall back to pre-war conditions—when only 9 per cent of our foreign trade was carried in American ships—

We shall be in the position of a department store whose goods are delivered in its competitor's wagons.

Congress is considering legislation which will perpetuate our war-built merchant marine.

Until this is done the ships we have should not be sold to face conditions which, prior to the war, resulted in the decline of our merchant marine to insignificance.

This Committee calls attention to these facts because a right solution of our shipping problem is vital to the future prosperity of shipbuilding, but equally vital to the safety and prosperity of the nation.

BIGGER THAN ALL

Human Mind Is Real Wonder of the World.

Inanimate Things That Used to Be Classified as Marvels Are Trivial in Comparison, According to Boston Writer.

An up-to-date newspaper must have an encyclopedic editor. "Uncle Dudley" writes in the Boston Globe. His job is to do what he can to quench the public thirst for odd scraps of miscellaneous information. He lives close by the reservoir, a library containing the records of the race. One day he files a deposition about John Elliot's translation of the Bible for the American Indians; the next morning he testifies that on September 7, 1892, at New Orleans, Jim Corbett took the wind out of John L. Sullivan's sails in 21 rounds.

There is one stock question in particular which bothers up ever and anon. What are the seven wonders of the world? For purposes of reference, the number of wonders always has been, is now and ever shall be, apparently exactly seven. The almanacs never show ten or a dozen. The problem of selection is staggering in those days when the wonders of the world actually total much nearer 7,000 than they do seven.

Nevertheless, it is interesting to compare the compiled lists of the seven wonders of the ancient, the medieval and the modern worlds. They are an index to the history of the human intellect. Any compilation suffices. These will do.

Seven wonders of the ancient world—Pyramids of Egypt, Pharos of Egypt, Hanging Gardens of Babylon, Temple of Diana at Ephesus, Statue of Jupiter by Phidias, mausoleum of Artemis at Halicarnassus, Colossus of Rhodes.

Seven wonders of the middle ages—Colosseum of Rome, catacombs of Alexandria, great wall of China, Stonehenge, leaning tower of Pisa, porcelain tower of Nanjing, China; mosque of St. Sophia at Constantinople.

Seven wonders of the modern world—Woolworth building, Eiffel tower, etc. No. Inanimate marvels are of the past. Here comes the lightning change. The third act is a hummer. The compiler of the wonders does not even attempt to cover the whole modern period. He tabulates from the nineteenth and twentieth centuries only. And he calls his last list the seven new wonders of the world. Here they are:

Wireless, telephone, airplane, radium, antiseptic and antitoxin, spectrum analysis, X-rays.

What next?

The great wonder of all the ages is the human mind. Its evolution is the history of the world.

Degree of Tire Doctor.

One of the tire manufacturing concerns of Akron, O., has established a school of tire repairs and the institution is so popular that it has been found necessary to increase its capacity, which is about to be doubled. This institution has averaged 35 graduates a month since last August. Every graduate of the school receives a diploma, certifying that he has finished the regular course of instruction, consisting of lectures, text-book study and practical repair work. The student is first made thoroughly acquainted with the details of tire construction before he is actually trained in repair work. Repair stocks, fabrics of all descriptions, air bags, vulcanizing machines and methods, common sources of tire trouble, etc., are among the subjects taken up. The chief instructor and his assistants in the school are thoroughly experienced tire men from both factory and retail business standpoints.

Air Photography.

No camera has probably been developed so rapidly as the curious apparatus used in photographing from aloft. The ordinary cameras are of little use for work at high altitudes. The height plays curious tricks upon the camera. A picture taken from a height of a few hundred feet may be hazy, while if the photographer rises several thousand feet the earth may appear perfectly distinct. The latest forms of new cameras are often six feet in length and must be equipped with many delicate adjustments unknown to ordinary apparatus. It is held by means of hand-axes at the sides and rested (for it is very heavy) on the edge of the airplane.—Boys' Life.

Hymns in the Orient.

The use of Christian hymns is causing a revolution in the music of the orient, according to reports received from American missionaries. The squeaky notes of the average Chinese and Japanese orchestra band are giving place to the strains of "Rock of Ages," and "Onward Christian Soldiers," the Interchurch World Movement learns. Growing popularity of occidental hymns is similarly found in India. The recent coronation procession of a maharajah in that country marched to the stirring strains of Christian gospel hymns played by the potentates brass band.

Good Old Vegetable Standby.

The faithful potato sprang up in various parts of South America. Peru undoubtedly had it before the Christian era. The Spaniards found it in Ecuador and took it to Spain, whence it traveled to Italy and north to France and Belgium, crossing the channel in time to save Ireland from many a hard winter. Our own Indians knew it not, maize being their long suit in the food game.

Nature Kind to Snake.

A queer African species of snake, which lives on eggs, has a tooth-like spike projecting downward from its backbone, just behind the head, which is tipped with enamel. When it swallows an egg the latter passes down the gullet until it encounters the spike, which breaks the shell. Thus no part of the food contents is lost, as would be the case if the snake were obliged to bite the egg with its mouth-fangs.

LADY LARKSPUR

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON

As they resumed their talk Alice, it seemed, was relating something of moment for Arrowsmith's benefit, referring now and then to Mrs. Farnsworth as though for corroboration. The scene in the box was almost as interesting as any in the play, and the audience watched with deep absorption. Alice, the least self-conscious of mortals, was, I knew, utterly unaware of the curious gaze of the house; whatever she was saying with her hand or a shrug of her shoulders possessed her completely. I thought she might be telling Arrowsmith of her adventures at Barton; but the length of her narrative was against this, and Arrowsmith's attitude was more that of a critic appealed to for an opinion than of a polite listener to a story. He nodded his head several times, and finally, as Alice, with a slight dip of the head and an outward movement of her arms, settled back in her chair, he patted his hands approvingly.

In my absorption I had forgotten Montani's existence, but as the third act began I saw that he had gone. Whether I should put myself in Alice's way as she left the theater was still an undetermined question when the play ended. With Montani hanging about I felt a certain obligation to warn her that he had been watching her. I was among the first to leave, and in the foyer I met Forsythe, the house manager, who knew me as a friend of Searies.

"You notice that we're still turning 'em away," he remarked. "We don't have to worry about this place; everybody who sees it sends his friends the next day. Searies hasn't looked in for some time; hope he's writing a new play?"

"He's West visiting his folks. Don't know when he'll be back," I answered. "I must write him that Sir Cecil Arrowsmith enjoyed 'Who Killed Cock Robin?' just as much as common mortals."

Forsythe had paused at the box-office, and in my uncertainty I took to him as the crowd began to surge by.

Arrowsmith's approach was advertised by the peculiar type of tall hat that he affected, and the departing audience made way for him, or hung back to stare. At his left were Alice and Mrs. Farnsworth, and they must pass quite close to me. "Who Killed Cock Robin?"

"That was a satisfying play that sent audiences away with lighted hearts and smiling faces, and the trio were no exception to the rule."

Listening inattentively to Forsythe, I was planning to join Alice when the trio should reach me. She saw me; there was a fleeting flash of recognition in her eyes, and then she turned toward Arrowsmith. She drew nearer; her gaze met mine squarely, but now without a sign to indicate that she had ever seen me before. She passed on, talking with greatest animation to Arrowsmith.

"Well, remember me to Searies if you write him," I heard Forsythe say. "I clutched his arm as he opened the office door."

"Who are those women?" I demanded.

"You may search me! I see you have a good eye. That girl's rather nice to look at!"

Crowding my way to the open, I blocked the path of orderly, sane citizens awaiting their machines until a policeman pushed me aside. Alice I saw for a bewildering instant, framed in the window of a big limousine that rolled away uptown.

I had been snubbed! No snub had ever been delivered more deliberately, with a nicer calculation of effect, than that administered to me by Alice Bashford—a girl with whom, until a moment before, I had believed myself on terms of cordial comradeship. She had cut me; Alice who had asked me at the very beginning of our acquaintance to call her by her first name—Alice had cut me without the quiver of a lash.

I walked to the Thackeray and settled myself in a dark corner of the reading room, thoroughly bruised in spirit. In my resentment I meditated flying to Ohio to join Searies, always my chief resource in trouble. Affairs at Barton might go to the devil. If Alice and her companion wanted to get rid of me, I would not be sorry to be relieved of the responsibility I had assumed in trying to protect them. With rising fury I reflected that by the time they had shaken off Montani and got rid of the prisoner in the tool house they would think better of me.

"Telephone call, sir."

I followed the boy to the booth in a rage that any one should disturb my gloomy reflections.

"Mr. Singleton? Oh! This is Alice speaking."

I clutched the shelf for support. Not only was it Alice speaking, but in the kindest voice imaginable. My anger passed, but my amazement at Alice and all her ways blinded me. If she had suddenly stopped through the wall, my surprise could not have been greater.

"You told me the Thackeray was your usual refuge in town, so I thought I'd try it. Are you very, very cross? I'm sorry, really I am—Bob!"

The "Bob" was added lingeringly, propitiating. Huddled in the booth, I doubted my senses—wondering indeed whether Alice hadn't a double—even whether Alice hadn't dreamed everything that had occurred at Barton.

"I wanted to speak to you ever so much at the theater, but I couldn't very well without introducing you to Bu Cecil, and I wasn't ready to do that. It might have caused complications."

If anything could have multiplied the existing complications, I was anxious to know what they were; but her voice was so gentle, so wholly amiable, that I restrained an impulse to demand explanations.

"Are you on earth or are you speaking from paradise?" I asked.

"Oh, we're in a very nice house, Constance and I; and we're just about having a little supper. I wish you were here, but that can't be arranged. No; really it can't! We shall be motoring back to Barton tomorrow and hope you can join us. Let us have luncheon and motor up together."

When I suggested that I call for them she laughed gayly.

"That would be telling things! And we mustn't spoil everything when everything is going so beautifully."

Remembering the man I had locked up in the tool-house and the explanations I should have to make sooner or later to the unimaginative Torrence, I wasn't wholly convinced of the general beauty of the prospect.

"Montani was in the theater," I suggested.

Her laughter rippled merrily over the wire. "Oh, he tried to follow us in a taxi! We had a great time throwing him off in the park. I'm not sure he isn't sitting on the curb right now watching the house ungraciously."

"You have the fan with you; Montani jumped right out of his seat when you opened it in the theater."

This she received with more laughter; Montani amused her immensely, she said. She wasn't in the least afraid of him. Returning to the matter of the luncheon, she suggested the Tiringham.

"You know, I want very much to see Mr. Bashford's old home and the place all our veteran retainers came from. At one—yes, Good night!"

Alice and Mrs. Farnsworth reached the Tiringham on time to the minute. As I had spent the morning on a bench in the park, analyzing my problems, I found their good humor a trifling jarring.

"You don't seem a bit glad to see us," Alice complained as she drew off her gloves. "How can any one be anything but happy after seeing that delicious 'Cock Robin'? It is so deliciously droll!"

"I haven't," I remarked with an attempt at severity, "quite your knack of ignoring disagreeable facts. There was Montani right in front of me, jumping like a jack-in-the-box every time you flourished your fan. There's that fellow we've got locked up at Barton—"

"Just hear the man, Constance!" she interrupted with her adorable laugh. "We were thinking that he was only beginning to see things our way, and here he comes like a melancholy Jacques! We'll have none of it!"

"We must confess," said Mrs. Farnsworth condescendingly, "that Mr. Singleton is passing through a severe trial. We precipitated ourselves upon him without warning, and immediately involved him in a mesh of mystery. His imagination must have time to adjust itself."

They were spoiling my appetite; I was perfectly aware of that. I had ordered the best luncheon I knew how to compose, and they were doing full justice to it; but I was acting, I knew, like a resentful boy.

"I love you that way," said Alice as I stared vacantly at my plate. "But you really are not making yourself disagreeable to us—really he is not, Constance!"

Mrs. Farnsworth affirmed this. I knew that I was merely being rude, and the consciousness of this was not uplifting. At the luncheon hour the influx of shoppers gave the Tiringham a cheery tone, and all about us were people apparently conversing sanely and happily. The appearance of Uncle Bash's ghost in the familiar dining room would have been a welcome diversion. I was speculating as to just what he would say about his ordered the best luncheon I knew how to compose, and they were doing full justice to it; but I was acting, I knew, like a resentful boy.

COMPETITIVE EXHIBITS ARE HELPFUL IN CREATING ADDED INTEREST IN GARDENING

Exhibits of Fruit and Vegetables Stimulate Interest in Gardening and Foster Community Spirit.

An organized competition among neighbors helps create added interest in vegetable, fruit, and flower growing in a community. To aid those who desire to have a horticultural show or a garden competition, but who do not know exactly how to conduct one, is the purpose of a circular recently issued by the department of agriculture. The methods given in it are those which experience has proved to be easiest and best. Among the subjects treated are classification of entries, the arrangement of the hall and of the exhibits, the points observed in judging various horticultural exhibits, and the prizes offered.

Scope of the Exhibits.

An organization already in existence, such as a county or state fair, a farmers' club, a grange, a garden or horticultural club, or a boys' and girls' club, may father a horticultural exhibit or a group may be brought together especially for the purpose. Once organized, this circular suggests, the first step is to outline the scope of the exhibit. Competitions to be fair and equitable, in order to make them so, competitors with similar opportunities should be matched against one another. The exhibits should be divided into as small units as possible so that the person with only a few square feet of ground may show such products as he may grow, in even competition with like Helpful Competition.

Vegetable, fruit, and flower gardens or the home grounds of a community may be fairly classed and judged. These make most helpful community competitions.

Taken prizes instead of those of intrinsic value are all that is necessary for successful competitions.

When the time of the show approaches the exact date must be fixed, and this should not be changed. If it is done it may provoke a feeling of unfairness.

Where competitions of any of the types discussed in the department's Circular 62 have been held, they have been found not only to stimulate interest in gardening and home adornment, but even more to get neighbors acquainted with one another and develop community spirit.

An exhibition requires considerable effort, but it is usually felt to be well worth while, even by those upon whom the heaviest burden falls.

PLANS OF WORK FOR CONTROL OF BEETLE

Quarantine Against Insect Will Be Rigidly Enforced.

Poisoning With Sodium Cyanid in Water Will Be Practiced on Soils Badly Infested With Larvae or Grubs—Nets to Be Used.

At a recent conference of officials of the United States department of agriculture and the New Jersey department of agriculture, held at Riverton, plans of work for the control and suppression of the Japanese beetle were thoroughly gone into. Provision has been made thoroughly to inspect and certify products found free from the insect, including greenhouse and nursery stocks, fruits, vegetables and farm crops. While the quarantine will be rigidly enforced, it is believed that no serious interruption will result to the movement of most farm and other products from the infested territory. In control of the beetle, several methods of attack will be followed. Poisoning with sodium cyanid in water of such soils as are badly infested with the larvae or grubs will be practiced. Several million beetles, it is believed, can be captured by sweeping infested plants with nets. A band of vegetation from one-half to one mile wide surrounding the infested area will be kept thoroughly dusted or sprayed with insecticides. To prevent accidental carriage of the beetles on automobiles and other vehicles and on pedestrians, the roadways have been cleared, by grubbing and burning of food plants of the beetle. The weed food plants will be kept down by the use of large quantities of weed-killing chemicals. Attention is being given to the introduction of parasites of the beetle from Japan. An agent of the bureau of entomology is already in Japan, engaged upon the work.

The officials connected with this project believe that the operations of 1920 will pretty definitely indicate what can be expected from large-scale operations in suppression of the beetle.

SAVE OLD FARM MACHINERY

Carefully Inspect Discarded Implements and Lay Apart Useful Gears, Braces, Etc.

Farm machinery, when discarded, should be carefully gone over with a view of saving the parts which have not been worn and which may be available for future use on other machines, or for other purposes. There are always many braces, gear wheels, bolts and nuts that can be used again.

When the machine is discarded instead of hauling it to an obscure place to rust away, why not take it apart and place the usable pieces or parts in the machine shed, or work shop? It takes only a little time to take the machinery apart before it becomes rusty and many pieces thus secured will come in handy.

Adding Home Comfort.

A good supply of fruit and vegetable goes far in adding comfort and contentment in any home. Few of us like a steady diet flavored with tin can material.

Indians and Japanese.

Professor Mena, Mexican scientist, went to Tehuacan in 1903 to investigate a story that in small towns near by Chinese talked in their own tongue to the Indians and were perfectly understood. He found the legend false. Japanese scholars visiting the Mexican museum have been surprised to find articles used by the Indians exactly the same as those used by Japanese peasants.

Filipino Wife's Status.

In the Philippine Islands, when women marry, they go into partnership with their husbands. While the men handle the workers, the women attend to the finance, act as cashiers, pay the workers and oversee much of the business. They also have equality with the men in everything except voting.

Paris was the first city in which fire escapes were used, the date being 1761.

CALOMEL LOSING OUT IN SOUTH

Mr. Dodson, the "Liver Tone" Man, Responsible for Change for the Better.

Every druggist in town has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place. "Calomel is dangerous and people know it," Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle doesn't cost very much, but if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, just ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day.—Adv.

ALL WRONG WAS HER LIVER

Before Taking Black-Draught, Missouri Lady Was Troubled With Constipation, Headache and Bad Taste in Mouth.

Grandin, Mo.—Mrs. Susa Brooks, of this place, writes: "Some time ago I was in a bad fix, with stomach and liver trouble. I did not feel good at any time. I was very constipated, and had headaches from this condition, and had a continual hurting in my stomach, and bad taste in the mouth. Could tell my liver was all wrong."

"I had known of Black-Draught, so decided to try it myself. I began with a large dose or doses, gradually getting to smaller doses. It regulated my bowels, relieved me of the hurting in my stomach, cleaned off my liver and made me feel like a new person."

If you get up in the morning feeling as tired as you did when you went to bed—salty, coated tongue, bad taste in mouth, sallow complexion—then your liver has not done its full duty, and your system has absorbed the poisons which your liver should have taken away.

An occasional dose of Theodore's Black-Draught will help this important organ to function properly.

Nothing Helped Me Until I Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wyandotte, Mich.—"For the last four years I have doctored off and on without help. I have had pains every month so bad that I would nearly double up. Sometimes I could not sleep a room without stopping to rest, and everything I ate upset my stomach. Three years ago I lost a child and suffered so badly that I was out of my head at times. My bowels did not move for days and I could not eat without suffering. The doctor could not help me and one day I told my husband that I could not stand the pain any longer and sent him to the drug store to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and threw the doctor's medicine away. After taking three bottles of Vegetable Compound and using two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash I could do my own housework. If it had not been for your medicine I don't know where I would be today and I am never without a bottle of it in the house. Nothing so needs reforming as other people's habits.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

A novel feed-ten combination which we will like to try some of these warm summer days is this: Prepare tea in the ordinary fashion, sweeten it and let it cool. When ready to serve put a spoonful or two of lemon ice or lemon sherbet in a glass and cover with the feed tea.

Cherry Betty.—Butter a deep dish and cover the bottom with pitted cherries. Sprinkle the fruit with sugar, nutmeg and coconut with sufficient cherry juice to moisten. On top of this spread a layer of fluffy bread crumbs; repeat until the dish is full. Finish the top with the crumbs. Cover and stand in the oven one hour, then uncover and brown quickly. Serve hot with sweetened cream as a sauce.

Current Catsup.—Take five pounds of currants, three pounds of sugar, one tablespoonful of cinnamon, one tablespoonful of allspice, one teaspoonful of black pepper, one teaspoonful of salt and half a pint of vinegar. Mash the currants and rub them through a sieve; then add the other ingredients and boil for twenty minutes. Bottle as you do any catsup. This catsup has an especially delicate flavor and is quite worth the trouble of making.

Macaroni Cream.—Soak one-fourth of a box of gelatin in one-fourth of a cupful of cold water. Make a boiled custard of a pint of milk and the yolks of three eggs, one-half cupful of sugar, salt and vanilla to taste. Pour this custard over the softened gelatin, then add one cupful of macaroni crumbs and set away to cool. When this begins to thicken, add the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. Mix well, pour into a mold and set in a cool place for three hours. Serve with small cakes.

Frozen Macadone.—Drain the juice from a cupful of canned or preserved cherries. Add a cupful each of canned pears, plums and pineapple, put through the meat chopper; add the cherry juice, sweeten to taste. Add one-fourth of a cupful of water and two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice. Freeze the mixture except the cherries which are stirred in when ready to pack. Let stand several hours to ripen.

Children are the lifeblood of the state. They are better producers of energy than coal or wood; they are better than steam or electricity. So, surely, they are much more worth the study and consideration of the most eminent scientists and engineers than the wings of moths or some improvement in a differential—Judge Ben Lindsey.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

Eggs are such nourishing food and at this season quite plentiful, so the housewife who wishes to avoid monotony will be looking for new ways of serving them.

Curried Eggs.—Cut three hard-cooked eggs in eighths, lengthwise. Melt two and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter. Add two tablespoonfuls of flour and stir until well blended, then pour on gradually, while stirring constantly, one cupful of milk. Bring to the boiling point and add one-third of a teaspoonful of curry, one-half teaspoonful of pepper, one-half teaspoonful of turmeric and the eggs. Turn into a shallow buttered dish, sprinkle with one-fourth of a cupful of grated cheese, cover with three-fourths of a cupful of buttered crumbs and bake.

Savory Eggs.—Cook hard as many eggs as there are people to serve. Make the same number of pieces of toast; butter and place on a serving dish. Cut the eggs in halves lengthwise and take out the yolks. Put the two halves on each piece of toast. Have ready some bits of tongue which have been minced and with it cream the yolks of the eggs, adding softened butter, salt, pepper and cayenne to taste. Pile the stuffing high in each egg white, making a little mound, sprinkle with fine buttered bread crumbs and set in a quick oven to warm through and brown the crumbs. Have prepared a cupful of white sauce, or thickened creamed tomatoes. When the eggs are hot turn the sauce over the eggs and serve at once.

Scotch Eggs.—Remove the shells from perfectly cooked eggs, roll in egg white then in crumbs and fry in deep fat until a golden brown. Serve on a platter of crisp green watercress.

Breakfast Eggs.—Put an egg for each person in small buttered egg shirers. Add a tablespoonful of cream, sprinkle with salt and white pepper and bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are set.

Vassar Eggs.—Chop fine two ounces of dried beef, add one cupful of tomatoes, one-fourth of a cupful of grated cheese, a few drops of onion juice and a pinch of cinnamon and cayenne. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add the mixture, and when well heated three well-beaten eggs. Cook until the eggs are creamy, stirring constantly. Serve on squares of buttered toast.

Wanted to Remain Awhile. Betty was looking rather poorly after several weeks' illness. Aunt Edith, who had not seen her since she was a tiny baby, after kissing her, turned to her mother and said, rather thoughtlessly: "My, how thin she is! She looks as if a whiff of wind would blow her away." This must have worried Betty all day, for that night when she had finished all the customary "God blesses" in her prayer she added this earnest postscript: "And, please God, make me thicker, for I don't want to be blown away."

USEFUL ANIMALS FOR FARMS

Department of Agriculture Assisting in Improvement of Horses in Range Country.

The United States department of agriculture has bred and developed several stallions in its horse-breeding project now located at the U. S. Wyoming Horse Breeding Station, Buffalo, Wyo. The stallions will be leased to private breeders and community breeding clubs for the breeding seasons. In this way it is proposed to assist in the improvement of the light horse stock of the range country where stallions of merit are not available and in those sections where light horses are preferred.

The number of available stallions is limited to about 10, as only the best of those produced have been retained or will be allowed to go out for public service. These stallions range in height from 15 hands 1 inch to 16 hands 2 inches, weigh from 1,500 to 1,400 pounds, and in nearly all cases are tried sires and known producers. The object of the work at the station in which these horses are being produced is the preservation and development of a utility horse suitable for range and farm conditions. The points especially emphasized are the development of size, soundness, tractability, action, and stamina. In a useful animal which can be used under the saddle, on the road, or in the field.

Persons interested should address correspondence to the Wyoming Horse Breeding station, Buffalo, Wyo.

EARLY BREEDING ADVOCATED

Lambs Born in Spring Get One or Two Months of Mother's Milk Before Fighting Worms.

Early breeding, in order that lambs may be old enough to offer strong resistance to worms when they are turned on pasture, is advocated by the Nebraska College of Agriculture. Ewes bred in October and November will lamb in March and April. This will give the lambs from one to two months on their mothers' milk and on grain before they have to combat worms. The principal objection to early lambing is the necessity of having a good barn. However, the expense and trouble from early lambing are more than offset by the ability of the lambs to survive the worm season. Extra feeding of ewes during the breeding season is urged. Well-fed ewes are more likely to produce twins.

TEETH OF CATTLE ARE LOOSE

Nature Intended Them to Be So to Prevent Injury to Jawbone in Cutting Off Grass.

The incisor teeth of cattle project forward and their upper surfaces come into contact with the "dental pad" of the upper jaw. Grass is cut off by the cow grasping it and jerking the head upward, thereby cutting it with the sharp edges of the incisors. If the incisors were firmly fixed in the jawbone injury to the dental pad would frequently occur. Don't worry when you discover that the cow's front teeth are loose. Nature intended them to be so.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Quarantine your hog lots when cholera is in the locality.

Every pig lost at farrowing time lessens the chance of profit.

Alfalfa meal fed to breeding hogs helps to save high-priced grain.

Young hogs should be separated from their mates at or before five months old.

Don't be afraid to slit up all night when the pigs are coming. You will be well paid for it.

Keep cholera away by having everything clean about the yards and buildings. Use disinfectants.

In these days of high-priced feed it does not look like good business to feed brood sows all winter and then through carelessness or neglect permit them to lose most of their pigs.

Livestock raising in connection with general farming conserves fertility elements and makes it possible to produce more food on a given area of land.

The best time to dohorn cattle is either in the fall of the year, after the flies have disappeared, or in the early spring before the flies appear.

Give the ewe a protein feed to supply the necessary milk—alfalfa, hay and oats are good and easily produced on the farm.

MAKE WAR ON TUBERCULOSIS

More General Use of Intradermic Test Is Expected to Speed Up Campaign Against "TB."

Recognition of the intradermic method of applying the first test preparatory to accrediting a herd as free from tuberculosis, has been announced by the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture. The more general use of the intradermic test is expected to "speed up" the federal and state co-operative campaign against TB. In the subcutaneous method, heretofore generally used, the tuberculin is inserted beneath the skin and it is necessary to take three preliminary records of the animal and at least seven soon after the test. In the intradermic method insertion is made between the layers of the skin and, while this requires a greater degree of skill in the operator, only one later inspection of the animal may be sufficient to indicate the presence or absence of the disease.

The federal recognition of the intradermic method provides, however, that herds undergoing it successfully must pass a subcutaneous test within a year before they can be accredited as free from tuberculosis. The intradermic test has been recognized also by about three-fourths of the 45 states now co-operating with the federal government in the TB work.

Texas recently became the forty-fifth state engaged in the co-operative campaign. The three states not yet engaged in it are Arizona, Colorado and California. Arizona and Colorado are expected to receive authority to enter the work at the next session of their legislatures.

MILK DIET IS INSUFFICIENT

Calves Cannot Properly Digest and Utilize Milk Unless Accompanied by Roughage.

Recent research work done by the Iowa agricultural experiment station shows young milk to be a good diet for young calves up to three months old. After this age the two calves experimented on developed symptoms of scant nourishment and went down hill until death finally came at the ages of 176 and 208 days. Failure of the milk as a permanent diet for the ruminating animals is shown not to be due to quality or improper quantity of the nutrients, but probably to the inability of the animals to properly digest and utilize the milk unless accompanied by some kind of roughage. Disarrangement of the digestive system probably follows the abnormal symptoms noted in the experiment.

NECESSARY FEEDS FOR BULL

Aim to Keep Herd Sire From Getting Too Fat—Give Him Access to Field or Paddock.

"Keep the bull thrifty but not fat," is the advice of K. C. Kieker of the animal husbandry department at Iowa state college. Give him plenty of good nutritious feed. Clover or alfalfa hay with some corn, oats and a little oil meal are best for keeping him in good breeding condition. Silage makes a very good foundation for the ration but must not be fed in large amounts as it makes the bull potbellied and sluggish.

To keep the herd sire from getting too fat give him access to a small field or paddock where he can get the necessary exercise.

DAIRY NOTES

Test out the cows.

Do your dairy dehorning early.

Cows cannot produce the best quality of milk from polluted drinking water.

It is important that the calf pens be placed to avoid too great variations in temperature.

Good dairy cows will give profitable returns for an additional grain ration, even at present prices of feed.

Soybean hay makes a good feed for milk cows, and if well cured would not require any other roughage fed with it.

Good cows and a good separator will make profitable dairying. The cows it intelligently fed, will produce the butterfat and the separator will save it.

Milk which is shut up in a can while warm and started to the creamery is worse than sour milk for the butter-maker to deal with.

Do you keep a diary of your dairy? If not, how will you know the difference between the cows you keep and the cows that keep you?

The cow testing associations are rendering valuable service to their members in helping them to feed economically and profitably at a time when foods are high.

My Lady Nicotine

SIR WALTER RALEIGH
By JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN.

MY LADY NICOTINE is a most interesting personage. As is frequently the case with ladies with a past, she is more interesting than those who have only a future. Her present certainly is a going concern. And her future has added fascination of sufficient mystery to induce considerable speculation.

My Lady Nicotine's influence is not always soothing. Like all great personages she has made enemies. Men began to fight over her a long, long while ago, and only the other day the newspapers told of the first of a possible recurrence of the night raiders' outrages in Kentucky. Urban VIII and Innocent XI fulminated against her. Sultan Amurat IV decreed death by torture to her devotees. James I of England issued his "Counterblast to Tobacco," in which he denounced her as a creature of the "pit that is bottomless." Lucy Page Gaston of Anti-Cigarette League of America fame is suspected of a desire to shy her bonnet into the presidential ring. Low on the horizon, no bigger than a woman's hand, is a cloud which rumbles "tobacco next!"

Possibly some of My Lady Nicotine's famous devotees have loved her for the enemies she has made. Anyway, Spenser wrote of her as "divine." Byron said "sublime." Lamb declared his affection thus:

For thy sake, tobacco, I
Would do anything but die.

Bulwer-Lytton wrote this: "The man who smokes thinks like a sage and acts like a Samaritan." Kipling profoundly reflects that "a woman is only a woman, but a good cigar is a smoke." Mark Twain suspects that the man who doesn't smoke loses "an appalling aggregate of happiness."

This sort of worshiper clings to the heresy that this is a pretty good old world after all. He isn't worrying about spirit manifestations and is not concerned over the doctrine of the subliminal soul. He suspects Lucy Page Gaston of being a spiritual descendant of the Puritans who condemned bear-baiting not so much because it gave pain to the bear as because it gave pleasure to the spectators.

"When doctors disagree who shall decide?" The doctors are as divided in their opinion of My Lady Nicotine as are the literary lights. Some see in her a veritable plague to humanity. Others maintain that it is rather a benefactor. Of course most physicians hold that smoking is bad for young and growing specimens of the human species. And probably most of them are not prepared to advise that women should smoke. And there are certainly some men who cannot smoke without ill effects—just as there are men who cannot eat strawberries or drink coffee without harm. A cold bath in the morning is meat and drink to some men; it would put others under the sod in short order. Probably the majority of up-to-date medical men are of the opinion that it has yet to be proved that smoking in moderation hurts any normal man.

At an extreme of human judgment is that of the man who wrote that a nation which smokes tobacco perishes. At the other is that of the man who predicted in 1918 that America would win the war because it was the heaviest smoker of all the nations.

My Lady Nicotine needs no pressing agent and has no trouble about presenting its point. Some enthusiastic collectors of "Nicotania" have whole libraries about her. There is one—George Arents, Jr., of New York—who is the proud possessor of more than 2,500 books, booklets and pamphlets devoted wholly or in part to her. These libraries tell pretty much everything about the lady.

No European ever heard of tobacco until the first week of November, 1492. The commonly accepted version of the story is that two sailors sent by Columbus to explore the island which he named San Salvador returned with a tale of natives who carried firebrands whose smoke they inhaled and puffed out of their mouths and noses. Later they discovered that the leaves of a plant were rolled in the leaf of maize.

The first clear account of smoking was given in 1520 by Gonzalo Hernandez de Oviedo in his "Historia General de las Indias." He said the practice was pernicious and "used to produce insensibility." He reported that in Cuba and most of the islands the natives smoked rolls of herbs, "which they called tobacco," while on the mainland they inhaled through the forks of a Y-shaped hollow cane which they inserted in both nostrils. This instrument the natives called "tobago." The Spaniards thought the name was that of the fuel instead of the pipe, hence our word tobacco. Oviedo pointed out the mistake, but "tobacco" had worked itself into the white man's language, and there it stayed. The herb itself was variously known among the natives. It was "cohiba" to the Caribs, "petun" to the Brazilians, "picelet" to the Mexicans and "uppowoc" to the Indians of Virginia.

Nicotine, the active chemical principle of tobacco, is an intensely poisonous alkaloid, named from Nicot, who introduced tobacco into France as a medicinal plant. Hence, finally, "My Lady Nicotine."

Not essentially new are any of the modern forms of tobacco using. The leaves wrapped about with corn husk roughly correspond to our civilized wrapping of another material to our cigar. Tobacco "was powdered into snuff and taken into the nostrils, as now. Tobacco was also chewed by various Indian peoples. The pipe was in almost universal use; among the American Indians the stone pipe, "calumet," was a necessary implement in many ceremonial functions.

Tobacco arrived in Europe apparently by several different routes and under several different disguises. Probably Sir Walter Raleigh deserves the credit—or blame—of introducing the smoking of it. Up to his time tobacco had camouflaged as a medicine, the few smokers professing to be smoking for their health. The Englishman—his pipe is shown herewith—blew the smoke from his nose defiantly and said he smoked because he liked it.

The antics of the seventeenth century had a high old time. Pagan, Mohammedan and Christian monarchs alike attempted to crush the habit of "tobacco drinking," as it was then called in England. But despite all opposition tobacco eventually was established as a favorite luxury all over Europe.

The cigarette attained commercial importance after the Crimean war. English officers got the habit from association with the Turks, French and Italians, who, like the Indians, "rolled their own." Other Englishmen imitated this new smart diversion of the army officers. America, which somewhere dragged on and was decided only quite recently. The accused was sentenced to a fine of 3,000 francs cost. He received as the balance of his bail, 1,700 francs, which he changed for 24,000 marks. Consequently, his little adventure brought him in a net profit of 10,500 marks. As one of the humors of the exchange, this deserves to be coupled with the case of a Swiss brewer, which is said to have found it economical to label its beer bottles with Austrian kronen notes.—London Morning Post.

PROFIT IN A FINE

Evil Always in Hatred. A man should not allow himself to hate even his enemies, because if you indulge in this passion on some occasions, it will rise of itself in others; if you hate your enemies you will contract such a vicious habit of mind, as by degrees will break out upon those who are your friends, or those who are indifferent to you.—Plutarch.

TO WIN SUCCESS.

The trouble with a great many people is that they are not willing to make present sacrifices for future gain. The tools for self-improvement are at your hand. Use them. If the ax is dull the more strength must be put forth. If your opportunities are limited you must use your energy, put forth more effort. Progress may seem slow at first, but perseverance assures success.—Orison Swett Marden in "Chicago News."

along the path of the centuries had almost lost the cigarette, found it again in England, and so it came back to us.

For a time most cigarettes were made from the Turkish leaf. Then it was discovered that the "bright" American tobacco, now grown in Virginia, the Carolinas and eastern Tennessee, made an agreeable cigarette. Eventually cigarette making machinery was invented, and today American cigarettes, both "straight" and "blended," are smoked all over the world.

In 1888 not enough cigarettes were consumed in the United States to be subjected to the internal revenue tax. In recent years the increase has been by billions. From 1899 to 1914 it was 500 per cent. In the past two years the demand has advanced prodigiously, probably largely because of the war.

In 1910, for the first time, the manufacture of cigarettes exceeded that of cigars, their relative numbers being 8,500,000,000 and 8,000,000,000. Since then, while cigarettes have multiplied, cigars have just about stood still. In the year ended June 30, 1919, the number of cigarettes was 46,500,000,000, and of cigars approximately 8,000,000,000, as in 1910. For the first time more leaf tobacco went into cigarettes than into cigars, the two numbers being 177,000,000 pounds and 162,000,000 pounds.

The government derived from the internal revenue tax on tobacco $206,003,001, an increase of $40,814,431 over the preceding year. More than $95,500,000 of the tobacco money came from cigarettes. Recently the tobacco tax has been heavily increased.

Altogether we used 497,079,920 pounds of tobacco last year. We got away with 174,697,408 pounds of plug, 17,499,465 pounds of twist, 9,800,225 pounds of finecut, 257,808,440 pounds of smoking tobacco and 37,150,382 pounds of snuff.

The value of the tobacco crop to the farmer was estimated last year at $542,547,000. The average price he got for it was 39 cents a pound. He gets more now.

More than $1,500,000,000 a year is the value of tobacco products manufactured in the United States. More than a million and a half acres of land are devoted to the growing of the "weed." On the manufacturing side the government estimate of the capital invested in 1914 was $308,830,000, which was a low figure even then and is greatly exceeded now. The number of wage earners in manufacture in that year was 178,872, and their annual earnings $77,856,000.

It is variously figured that 70 per cent of our adult male population and a third of our total population use tobacco in one form or another. The per capita consumption, counting each man, woman and child, is seven pounds a year. The average consumption among the tobacco users is twenty pounds. There are, according to one of the compilers of data, 25,000,000 smokers and chewers whose average capacity is 22 pounds per person. 8,000,000 cigarette smokers each lighting 4,500 cigarettes a year and 5,000,000 cigar smokers each destroying 1,500 cigars.

PUBLIC ROADS

TO JOIN WORLD'S CONGRESS

Secretary Meredith Favors Acceptance of Invitation of International Association.

That the United States should accept the invitation of foreign countries to join the Permanent International Association of Road Congresses is the recommendation of the executive committee of the American Association of State Highway Officials to the secretary of agriculture. The committee, which held a two-days' conference in Washington, D. C., considered at the suggestion of Secretary Meredith, the invitation to the United States which had been received through the state department from the American committee general at Paris. Secretary Meredith concurred in the action of the highway officials and told them he would recommend to the state department that congress be asked to authorize acceptance. The highway officials also recommended that the international association be invited to the United States for its next meeting.

In advising the secretary of the action of the state highway officials, Thomas H. Macdonald, chief of the bureau of public roads, who is also a member of the executive committee, said that the United States is the only civilized nation not now a member of the international association. He saw many advantages in the United States becoming a member, and he believed the other nations in the association would welcome an invitation to meet in this country next year. The roads congress, he said, constituted an international tribunal for bringing together the best experience and results in highway construction and administration. Although meetings have been held each year, none has been called since the European war began. Before the war the congress had met in Brussels, Paris and London.

Secretary Meredith notified the highway officials that he would enlarge the advisory committee of state highway officials, which consults with the department on federal policies in road building. This committee, consisting of six members, will now include the entire executive committee of the American Association of State Highway Officials, increasing its membership to 12. The secretary said this step was taken so that the committee would more completely represent all parts of the United States. The enlarged membership will enable the advisory committee to work out a classification of roads for the entire country, thereby providing a basis for a more orderly national program of road building.

The executive committee inspected a signal device designed to prevent grade crossing disasters and accidents on dangerous curves. It met with the director of sales of the war department with reference to obtaining equipment which is seriously needed in road building and which the states have been unable to secure.

Lee Cords—Economy Tires

PUT a Lee Cord on your car. Forget about it for five, six or seven thousand miles. Then watch it closely. Note how it continues to roll up mileage—how it stays young and keeps postponing the need of a new shoe—how it outlives and outlives any tire you ever had.

Keep close count on the mileage delivered. Divide the price of the tire by the miles of service. Let the tire-cost-per-mile be your guide for future tire buying.

Lee Cord construction, the high quality of materials and the hand work of skilled cord tire specialists practically eliminate blowouts, blisters, tread separation, sidewalls breaking, internal friction and the other usual tire troubles.

When you begin using Lee Cords you end tire waste. Every mile brings a saving; you'll see the difference in a year. But don't wait to have me show you their advantages.

MORE WORK THAN PAY

Congress should come to the relief of the postmasters and postal employees of the country.

The pay is so small and the cost of living is so high that experienced men are resigning at an alarming rate in this branch of public service. It is crippling the mails and retarding business to a serious extent, and creating a state of public uneasiness over the country.

Congress appoints committees to investigate and the committees consume much time in palavering and that is about as far as they go. The postal employees continue to exist on small pay, or quit, and the service becomes more crippled thru the employment of new and inexperienced help.

We have no fault to find with the postal service itself. We believe it is doing all that it can do under seriously handicapping conditions. We do not believe that any business enterprise could long continue to exist under these same conditions.

The laborer is worthy of his hire the world over, and so long as employees in the mails of trade are receiving high wages to meet the advanced cost of living, the man who handles the mail of this great country should receive equal consideration.

Merchants do not make him a discount when he buys his food and clothing from them.

Why should the government expect him to discount the value of his services?
