Conditions in the coal market in this section are very unsatisfactory to those who must have coal. The people feel prices are being fixed by the operators on no other basis than that of "We can get it."

The burning of three more barns with tobacco crops is reported in Christian county, making a total of 23 since the firing season opened. It is estimated that the loss is about $2,500 each.

Mrs. Mary Heater died at her home in Smithland Saturday night of heart trouble. She is survived by a husband, two sons and five daughters. Among the surviving children are Mrs. Charles Hardin and Mrs. Clem Gupton, both of Marion.

ROBBERY OF $50.

Andrew Hyford, a Marion drayman is minus some $50, in cash, which he claims to have been robbed of Sunday night. A party of four, including himself, were out auto riding at a rather late hour and when he returned his pocketbook and his money, he says, had some how disappeared from their accustomed place in his pocket. He does not know just how the pocket book got out, but he rather thinks there must have been a pick-pocket near him that night.

HIS BUGGY OVERTURNED

Mr. John D. Gregory, who has been engaged in making sorghum for the last week or two, was returning home Friday night with his buggy filled with baskets of molasses, the sweet fruits of his hard labor. The night was moonless and dark, and while his horse was trotting gently along the road near Crooked Creek on the Ford's Ferry road, pulling the vehicle loaded with John and the sorghum, a wheel suddenly went down into a rut; and before John could say whoa; the buggy was overturned and the driver hurled out into the road with the buckets of molasses piled up on top of him. John found himself in a newly-made lake of molasses, surrounded on all sides by empty buckets; however he emerged unhurt, though his Sunday suit was a sight, and molasses sloshed out of his shoes for days after. John belongs to the church and he says he didn't say a word.

A BLOW TO EDUCATION

When the 1920 Kentucky Legislature provided an additional 50-cent levy for school purposes, it performed a commendable and necessary service for the State, but it committed certain technical errors in wording that have forced the Court of Appeals to throw it out on constitutional grounds. In holding it invalid, the court performed its duty as a legal tribunal; but it did not remove the need for the measure nor did it absolve the Legislature from the task of re-enacting it as soon as possible in the next session.—Louisville Times.

At ten o'clock, the door bell rang, and Willard Fetway, attired in the full uniform of a Western Union messenger boy, brought the host a telegram containing the following message: "William H. Rice, recently received his discharge from a four years' enlistment in the U. S. Navy, having rendered good service in the great World War on the U. S. S. Galveston. He returned home August 15th, 1920, enlisted for life in the army of Cupid, as he has completely surrendered to the charms of Miss Ethel McIntosh." CONSTITUTION VS LEAGUE

Senator Harding in another of his front porch addresses says, "No American can be simultaneously for Article X and for the Constitution of our Republic." The constitutionality of the League Covenant was raised early in the Senate debate and a few of the Senators gave expression to the above fears of Senator Harding. The other Senators, more cautious, contented themselves with a resolution referring the question to the Judiciary Committee of the Senate. This Committee after full inquiry reported that there was no constitutional objection to the Treaty. The theory of conflict was then abandoned, and all the arguments made in the Senate against it, none were based upon unconstitutionality. The attempt now to resurrect the issue is another evidence of desperation in which the opponents of the League find themselves, in their attempt to obscure the purely partisan purpose of their opposition.

Republicans have directed much criticism at the President for not appointing Senators on the peace commission and for slighting or ignoring the senate in the negotiation of the Peace Treaty, although under the constitution, it is the President's duty to negotiate the Treaty. It is the duty of the Senate then to advise the President and either consent to or reject it. Manifestly the President could not take to Paris the entire United States Senate. In deciding whether to take any of the Senators, American history affords two precedents. The first was the Treaty of Ghent after the war of 1812. President Madison appointed two Senators on the Peace Commission, only to find that the Senate resented his action, and adopted a formal resolution of censure. The basis of this censure was that it was the duty of the President and not of the Senate to negotiate the treaty; that it then fell to the Senate to consider in unbiased way the treaty negotiated by the President that it was an exercise of undue influence upon the Senate for the President to select two of the Senators to negotiate the treaty and thereby seek to commit them in advance to its ratification. Senator Henry Clay and Bayard then resigned from the Senate in order that they might act as Peace Commissioners. The next precedent was after the Spanish-American war, when President McKinley appointed three Senators. A similar resolution was introduced in the Senate but was never pressed for passage because in interviews with some of the Senators, President McKinley gave assurance that in the stress of business he had overlooked the seeming impropriety of attempting to commit in advance some of the Senators to such a Peace Treaty as they might negotiate.

NO SCUTTILING

Information comes to Democratic Headquarters that Republican speakers throughout the country have been criticizing President Wilson for "keeping our soldier boys in Germany." It makes no difference to these critics that not a single one of our soldiers, mobilized under the selective draft law is in service anywhere today. Some of our soldiers are still in Germany but they are members of the regular army who have since the armistice voluntarily enlisted for service anywhere, or else re-enlisted after their formal discharge.

At Des Moines, Iowa, Senator Harding was interrupted in his speech by a person who asked "How about the boys over in Germany?" Senator Harding replied: "They haven't any business there, and just as soon as we declare formal peace, we can be sure they will be coming home, as they ought to come." This reply of Senator Harding gives evidence of such poor conception of our relations to the Allied Nations, together with our war responsibilities, that even the New York Tribune, intensely Republican, has felt compelled to make an apology for him. We quote from the Tribune as follows:

"The reply (of Senator Harding above quoted) was to an interruption Senator Harding, according to the report, did not at first catch the meaning of the question and asked for its repetition. His response was thus hasty and little considered. Had the Senator taken more time he would scarcely have answered as he did. But if the statement is to be construed as marking an intention to abandon our allies and not to participate in compelling Germany, if needs be, to respect the substantial parts of the Versailles Treaty, such as disarmament and reparative payments, the Tribune for one, wishes to enter a most emphatic dissent.

"Here is something which has nothing to do with the League of Nations controversy. It relates wholly to whether our country should help to see that Germany should not welch on her agreement. It is our business whether Germany is allowed to repudiate, for example, her obligations to Belgium. It is our business that France shall not be left alone to carry out the task of preventing wriggling Germany from once more arming herself for a new war of aggression. Not to recognize this as our business is to make the war a colossal joke.

"Surely no obligations can be more righteous than to contribute to preventing Germany from again becoming a menace to ourselves and the world. Senator Harding may well seize an early opportunity to correct wrong impressions he has left."

BEGGING QUARTERS

In their efforts to detract from the power and glory of this war our Republican critics have evidently forgotten the scandals arising from the Spanish-American war on account of the embalmed beef, shoddy clothing, and paper soled shoes supplied to the soldiers, and the fever camps in which they were quartered. The criticisms which these failures gave rise to were so strong that President McKinley appointed a committee to examine the conduct of the war with Spain, and this committee finding the truth even worse than the rumors, prefaced its report by asking the people to remember that "the task of mobilizing, training, and equipping 275,000 men was of such massive proportions that all of the criticisms and comments that were made in regard to it must be read with regard to the size of the task." Only 19 years later America was called upon, almost overnight, to mobilize, train and equip and maintain an army of 5,900,000 men, to send 2,900,000 of these across the Atlantic, and met that call without any of the scandals or failures that shamed the record of 1898. The victory of 1918 was our highest glory, and what is best, it was glory enough for all.

A CLEAN ADMINISTRATION

"Life," an independent periodical of unquestioned fairness, and which is not espousing the cause of any candidate, takes occasion to rebuke the Republicans for their unfounded charges of war waste, in the following paragraph which we quote:

"The Democratic administration spent more money, by far, than any administration ever spent before. It wasted a lot of it, which would have happened whoever was in charge, because haste makes waste, and haste was essential. But it stole wonderfully little. So far as official dishonesty went there never was so clean a war, nor ever a cleaner administration."

Our Republican friends are displaying both energy and abuse, and both unjustifiable, when discussing war waste. Everybody knows that war means waste. Every candid person also knows that so far as the United States is concerned, there was less waste in this war than in any war of which history tells. All the Congressional Committees, appointed by the present Republican Congress have been forced to admit, after searching inquiry, that thievery and dishonesty were negligible, and such dishonesty and thievery as there was, was non-partisan. Anybody speaks falsely when he lays all stress upon one or the other party for either waste, extravagance or dishonesty. There never was a cleaner war fought. The American people demanded action and plenty of it to furnish our great armies with ample supplies of all kinds. Republicans and Democrats alike voted these supplies, and the officers of the government, Democrats and Republicans, furnished them under the laws so enacted. Tell the truth if it kills the party, is the proper frame of mind for an honest man. How can consistent voters tolerate any other type of man or methods?

The war was fought and won by American men and American money. It was fought and won because splendid use was made of both by the American people—no party did it! There was waste, to be sure, nobody denies it. All wars are wasteful. And the people who gouged the government in the great conflict were traitors to dishonesty and truth, but there were Republicans and Democrats, Socialists, Anarchists and Independent voters, probably, in the bunch, and they are the rascals who should be punished. No doubt both parties would be equally represented in the jails if all were punished who acquired ill-gotten gains on account of the war. Is it not about time for the pot to quit calling the kettle black? Is it not time to quit belittling our war efforts? Let us complete the peace pact that makes secure the triumph which all the people won.

THE INCAPACITY OF CONGRESS

The Literary Digest in a recent issue published a survey and indicated a large portion of the country dissatisfied with the Administration.

Herbert Hoover states that under party government dissatisfaction with the party in office puts the other party in power when the next election comes, and that there is dissatisfaction over the last two years which will put the Republican party in power at the coming election.

During the past two years the Administration has been a divided one in party. The executive has been of the Democratic party, the legislative of the Republican party.

The problems following the war were peculiarly for the legislative branch to cope with. The President, two years ago, recognizing this fact, asked that he be given a legislative branch which would carry on the work of the former Congresses and was refused. A legislative branch Republican in both houses was elected.

The legislative branch of government of the nation during the past two years has been the worst failure of history. Beyond insanely partisan criticism of everything the President has attempted, it has done nothing.

The executive has functioned equal to that of any period in American history, despite the fact that the President has been in ill health and a great part of the time, being, as Mark Sullivan has said, "as much a victim of the war as any soldier lying in France."

The settling of the coal strike by Roosevelt in his administration was hailed as one of the greatest acts of a great man. Wilson has settled innumerable strikes of far greater menace in the last two years.

The enormous army has been demobilized without friction. The country has passed through tremendous financial strain without panic, thanks to the Federal Reserve Act. Due to what safeguards had been provided in the six years from 1912 to 1918, the country has quickly recovered from the war despite the attempts to block the executive at every step by the antagonistic legislative branch of the National Government.

Any failure in the past two years in the National Government is laid directly at the door of the legislative branch. Any dissatisfaction in the country should, in fairness, be laid to such branch and the party controlling it. The prior six years of tremendous accomplishment apparently are forgotten by an ungrateful people of short memory, a people so mentally lazy that it loads the incapacity and ineffectiveness of the legislative branch of government on the executive and the party to which the executive belongs, instead of placing it where it belongs. Unthinking unfairness loads the Democratic Party with the burden of the partisan incapacity of a Republican legislative branch of government. It is a poor commentary on the capability of the American people for self-government.

CITY COURT NEWS

The summer months has been a very dull season in the city court and Judge A. M. Gilbert has not been arduously busy with the duties of his office; however, on Tuesday the tide turned when Simp Wilson and Robert Hughes, both colored, were brought before the court charged with a breach of the peace.

The evidence showed that the two men, having engaged in a dispute, sought to settle the matter by "fighting it out." A "flat and skull" combat ensued, during which Hughes knocked his antagonist down. The court assessed a fine of $5.00 each.

REVIVAL AT CRAYNE

Rev. W. T. Oakley, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church at Crayne, has just closed a very successful revival meeting there, resulting in a large number of conversions and additions to the church. Mr. Ula Threlkeld, of Manila, Ark., assisted the pastor, being a very successful singing evangelist. At the close of the meeting $96.00 was contributed as an offering to the pastor and his assistant.

Our era of extravagant buying is about over and its effect is beginning to be felt.

There is a slow but certain tendency toward a decline in prices, with the prospect that another year may witness a material reduction in the cost of living.

But anything like a sudden drop in all lines is not to be expected. It is rather to be avoided, as it might bring our whole commercial fabric tumbling about our ears in the greatest panic in history.

Before there can be any great decline there must first be an adjustment in the cost of labor, as well as materials, and it is difficult to conceive the laboring man voluntarily surrendering a portion of his wage.

That will be the greatest obstacle of all to surmount, and only in the exercise of time and infinite patience can satisfactory results be produced.

Each one in this town should have an intimate acquaintance with the requirements and possibilities of this community.

It is only through such means that we are enabled to take proper advantage of the opportunities that present themselves for community betterment.

Such an interest on the part of the populace does not end with community improvement. There is a personal equation which is of vast importance.

It defiects our minds from our private business affairs, gives them food for thought and development, affords us a broader perspective of life and its conditions, and strengthens us for the battles of the years that are before us.

It is a good thing in all ways.
Hop to it!

If you ever see the careworn editor of this sheet skipping down the street like a kid with its first toy, don't become alarmed over his mental condition. Such a phenomenon may occur some time within the next half century. We are living in yearly anticipation of a decline in the price of print paper, and hope some day to see it come sliding down thru the deep blue sky. In the meantime you are getting this paper for about half the price we have every legitimate right to charge.

The fellow who attempts to make something out of nothing sometimes succeeds—to his cost.

If given their choice between a life of happiness and one of sorrow, some people would be so greedy they would want both.

Just sliding through life is a dangerous practice, and often painful. The pathway is strewn with obstacles and pitfalls, and sometimes with slivers.

The old practice of going about with a chip on one's shoulders has about died out. Too much danger of profiteers getting the chips.

A beautiful woman never has to angle for admiration, but a good one often fails to command respect.

It is not always wise to judge a stranger to be a fool because he acts like one. He may be leading you on in order to sting you in the end.

Don't slip thru life at too strenuous a pace. You may slip a cog and slip out at the same speed.

We can not expect fortune to smile upon us at all times. A little co-operation is expected from us.

Little children see the faults of others as they are, but often, we see them as we would like them to be.

A wise man never speaks of his wisdom, but the fool seldom fails to advertise his own folly.

Try a test that seldom fails. Run over your list of acquaintances and you will find that those who are liked by dogs invariably have many friends.

When a proposition is carried by the slender margin of one vote, every fellow who supported it considers that he was the deciding factor.

There is one crop in this country which never becomes extinct. The defeated candidate is always able to produce an alibi.

We confidently look for a heavy increase in the male vote at the November election. No spirited man wants to have his neighbors chuckling over the thought that he had to stay at home and mind the kids while his wife did the voting.

We suspect that some of our brother editors are sizing up the future possibilities of running for public office. They are saying some mighty nice things about the ladies.

BEWARE OF PERSONALITIES

It is hard for the scandal mongers to resist the temptation to ply their wares in campaign times, but the people have had too much experience with that class to be sold by them.

So far as the moral character, the private life, and personal habits of Governor Cox and Senator Harding are concerned they are above reproach. The two gentlemen have been intimate personal friends for years, and when the nominations were made they gave public testimony of the high personal regard they had for each other, with the assurance that no matter how the election results they would remain the same good friends as ever. What a pity after such testimony, some of the friends of these candidates seem unable to compose themselves, and subject their prejudices to their sober judgment.

"EVERY WOMAN" COMING TO THE STRAND

The news that Walter Browne's famous morality play, "Everywoman" had been made into a motion picture was no surprise to those acquainted with this dramatic masterpiece. Its striking story and manifold opportunities for spectacular scenic effects make it admirable screen material. The basis for a magnificent cinema spectacle was there. It remained for the directing skill of George H. Melford, the acting ability of an unusually excellent cast, and the fine artistry in arranging the elaborate scenic effects to transform "Everywoman" into the beautiful photoplay that will be shown at the Strand Theatre Thursday October 28.

Here is a dramatic production that is manifestly even better suited to the screen than it is to the stage. It requires an expansiveness that cramped quarters of the largest stage will not admit. Quite probably the screen version of "Everywoman" has realized more perfectly the author's conception of his story than have all the productions of the play since its famous premier in New York in 1911.

The title role is portrayed in masterly style by beautiful Violet Heming, the young actress who made such favorable impressions in "Three Faces East" and "Under Cover." Miss Heming lends the dignity and universality to her interpretation of Everywoman that the allegorical character of the story demands. The remainder of the cast is far above the usual in merit including as it does such names as Theodore Roberts, Wanda Hawley, Monte Blue, Charles Ogle, Raymond Hatton, Bebe Daniels, and Tully Marshall. Mr. Roberts as Wealth, Miss Hawley as Beauty, and Mr. Blue as Love are perhaps the high spots in an interpretation that is uniformly excellent.

Scenes of lavish splendor form the setting for the story. The revels in the magnificent palace of Wealth, where scores of beautiful women disport at a monster banquet board, one part of which encircles a swimming pool and the other a dance hall, and the episodes in the great gaming hall are among the most elaborate ever screened. The bazaar at the opening of the story is virtually a great fashion show. Women arrayed like birds move through the picture like extraordinarily clad mannequins exhibiting the latest creations of the modistes.

The screen needs more pictures like "Everywoman". A film of this kind makes the most skeptical admit, "The motion picture is an Art." In these days when so many cheap, meaningless photoplays are wasting so much of our time, "Everywoman" comes as a great cleansing bood of beauty. To George Melford, the director, to the producers and to the rare good taste of the individuals responsible for the beautiful setting, the motion picture public is indebted for a great production of one of our greatest plays and a picture that ranks with the screen's best. It is a Paramount-Artcraft production.

The hustler never waits for opportunity. He makes it.

What we need in this country is something that will induce us to make the best of what we have.

It don't pay to go thru life with a scowl on your face. You get too many in return.

Cheer up! All is not lost. Civilization, we admit, has been sorely cramped, but the world is dotted with many christian nations—and a few christians.

REPUBLICAN COLUMN

By County Campaign Committee.

Four years ago, when the slogan, "He kept us out of war" was being used to deceive the voters and elect Woodrow Wilson President, all of which and nothing else did elect him. Wilson had positive knowledge of the fact that sooner or later our boys would be compelled to go across the ocean and "somewhere in France" face the deadly shot and shell of the German army. And almost immediately after Wilson took the oath of office, we were plunged into the world war, and just as quickly as preparations could be made, and almost before the old Democratic song "He kept us out of war" had hardly died away, this very same Woodrow Wilson was rushing our own dear Crittenden county boys across the mighty deep to bleed and die "somewhere in France." On the bloody battle fields of France, John E. Franks, James G. Highfill, A. M. Moore, Ellis Ordway, Robert Davis, Oscar W. Green and Odie Holloman, our own dear Crittenden county boys made the supreme sacrifice and as their lives precious blood was pouring forth from their tired, weary bodies, no doubt their faint cries were "O for a kiss from mother's lips, and the tender touch of mother's hand," then a gasp, a sigh, a whisper, "I am tired," and tired eyelids were drawn like purple curtains over tired eyes, tired lips were closed forever. Shall we ever forget the services and sacrifice of these boys? No, a thousand times no.

Can it truthfully be said that any living being gave more toward the winning the victory than did these boys, we say no, ten thousand times no. But just listen men and women of Crittenden, a Democrat woman, just think of it—a woman—by the name of Cora Wilson Stewart, in making a Democratic speech last week in the Opera House at Marion, Ky., is reported to have said in substance, "of course our boys did something toward winning the victory in the world war, but the thing that did the most to win this victory was the pen in the hands of Woodrow Wilson." Now will the men and women voters of this county believe anything like that, no, no, no, the full voting strength of Crittenden county ought to say no, and as sure as there is a God in heaven, Cox together with the party this woman represents will be driven to an overwhelming defeat Tuesday November the second.

Whenever we shall forget the sacrifices our boys have made and the suffering they have endured in the world's cruel war; whenever we shall cease to scatter flowers over the graves of the dead and weave garlands for the living; whenever we shall grow weary of honoring the scars of valor and applauding the knightly courage of men who, for the sake of humanity, face death at the cannon's mouth, our glory will fade and freedom will perish from the earth.

Now comes candidate Cox and says make me president and I will give you a League of Nations and we will have no more wars, which is just as deceptive as the old slogan of four years ago, "He kept us out of war," because just as certain as Cox is elected and we join the League of Nations, we will be in war even quicker than we were after Wilson was elected and we would be compelled to be continually at war in foreign countries so long as we remained a member of the League of Nations.

Will the people be deceived again and have to suffer the consequences as we did four years ago, or will we elect Harding and the whole Republican ticket and stay out of this League of Nations, and all stay at home in peace, comfort and happiness, where we can shout and sing "My country tis of thee" Star spangled Banner and "My old Kentucky Home."

There is little to report about the oil well being drilled on the Blue farm. Nothing is given out by the promoters but the rumor that oil has been struck is persistent. However it does not seem that the showing is such as to cause the men to stop drilling and shoot the well. We hear the promoters are prepared to go four thousand feet and that it is their purpose to make this a test well—that is to go on down until it can be determined just exactly what can be expected. The drill is now, so reported, going through an oil sand. What depth has been reached cannot be learned.—Morganfield Sun.

Mrs. John W. Hughes of the Piney section, who has been under treatment at an Evansville sanitarium, is improving in health.

REPUBLICAN COLUMN

(By Republican Campaign Committee)

Will They Get YOUR Boy?

If America joins a League of Nations of the Wilson-Cox variety, YOUR BOY will be subject to that League's peculiar rules.

One of those rules (ArticleX) says that in case the territory of a League member is threatened by an enemy, the other members of the League MUST come to its rescue.

If that League was NOW functioning and America, Greece, Arabia, Turkey, Persia, Bolshevik Russia, Hungary, Rumania, Japan and Poland were members, then YOUR BOY would, right now, be liable to drafting for service in any of the followings wars:

Greece vs. Turkey.
Japan vs. the Bolsheviks.
Hungary vs. Rumania.
Wrangel vs. the Bolsheviks.
Poland vs. the Bolsheviks.
France vs. Turk Nationalists.
Persia vs. the Bolsheviks.
England vs. the Arabs.

THESE WARS ARE GOING ON TODAY.

The Democrats endorse the Wilson-Cox sort of League. A vote for Cox is a vote for that.

Will they get YOUR boy?

ELECTION RETURNS AT THE STRAND THEATRE

At the Strand Theatre on election night, Tuesday, Nov. 2, there will be an opportunity never before enjoyed by the people of Marion and surrounding country. Besides the 18 reels of good moving pictures including the serial now running, The Crittenden Press has made arrangements for receiving the election returns, the same telegraphic reports that the big city dailies get. An expert telegraphic operator will be right in the Theatre, who will catch the news right off the wire, and results will be read to the audience as fast as the count is made all over the United States.

Besides being assured of an evening of delightful entertainment, the audience will receive information of the election that night that otherwise could not be learned until the next day or later.

A ten minute intermission will be given every hour so that the people may rest themselves or go out for refreshments.

Momentous questions are to be settled by this election and everybody is anxious to know the result as quickly as possible. Buy a ticket, therefore, and come to the Strand on election night. You can pass a pleasant evening and go home perhaps with the happy knowledge that your candidate has been elected.

Reserved seats on sale Monday at the Postal telegraph office.

FORDSON

TRADE MARK

Farm Tractors

There are many Tractors clamoring for the patronage of the farmer. The very air is charged with the noise of claims. One would think that all the farmer had to do was to buy a Tractor and he would enter the Millennium.

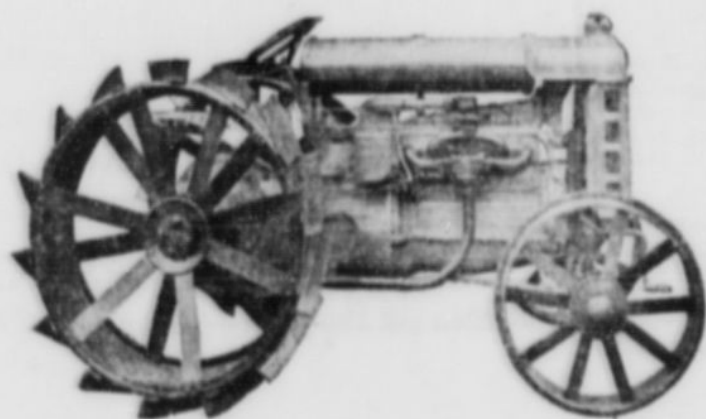

Well, consider this fact—there are a great many different makes of tractors. Tractors have been on the American market for twenty years. In that time some three hundred thousand Tractors have been sold to the farmers in the United States. The Fordson Tractor has only been on the market two years, and in that time more than one hundred thousand Fordson Tractors have been sold to the farmers of the United States.

Two and two make four. Two and two always will make four. If the Fordson Tractor had not delivered more good work, more satisfactory work, more economical work than any other farm Tractor, it would not have sold in the ratio of anywhere from five and more to one. "The proof of the pudding is in the eating." The proof of the superior merits of the Fordson Tractor is in its larger sale and use.

The Fordson Tractor then asks you to buy it because it what it has done for your neighbors. It asks you to buy it on its own merits. It asks you to buy it, Mr. Farmer, because you have use for it every day in the year. All the uses for the Fordson Tractor have not yet been uncovered because new places where machine power can take the place of human power, where machine power can supplant horse and mule power, are being found every week, and wherever such discovery occurs, the Fordson Tractor will fill the bill more satisfactorily than any other form of power.

The Fordson is simple in design, and is very strongly made of the highest quality of iron and steel. It is the product of the greatest mechanical genius the world has ever known, and it is most economical in first cost and after expense. The Fordson Tractor on your farm will increase the value of every foot of ground on that farm. It will put more dollars and cents into every hour you put into the farm.

Now why not have a Fordson right away? Take up the subject with us. Come in and get the details, and all the particulars. It is only a matter of time until you buy a farm Tractor—that is sure. So don't put it off when it means money to you to act promptly.
