Chautauqua Week—Marion
JUNE 18th to 25th

COMMENCEMENT WEEK

Last Sunday Commencement week began with Class Sermon at the Main Street Presbyterian church by Dr. W. P. Maroney, pastor of the First Baptist Church. The sermon was concurred by all to be one of the greatest heard here. His subject concerned the choice of "Life or Death."

There were 19 members in the graduating class, capped and gown-ed, twelve girls and seven boys.

On Monday evening the Seniors gave their class exercises to a large audience. Every minute of the time was full of wit and quaint philosophy. The reading of the minutes of the senior class meetings was given by Otis Wheeler, and his work was characteristic of his school work. The report of the treasurer was rendered by Billy Eskew, and his ability as a financier was demonstrated by the fact that his accounts balance. John William Blue was the Historian of the class and those who have been his class mates during the year know just how imminently fitted he is for such work. Ernest Minner, who took the part of grumbler, rendered his part well, but we all know that Ernest is not a chronic knocker but really a booster.

Sue Champion brought sunshine to us in a well pointed speech. Virginia Reed was superb in her insight into the future. She assigned each member of the class to its particular sphere in life. Raymond Boucher gave the moral law to the departing class and his paper was full of genuine advice. Elizabeth Dollar gave to each member of the class a gift which was a symbol of future activities. Every gift was accompanied by a beautiful bit of wisdom.

The last will and Testament was read by Carliss Grubbs. Mr. Grubbs forgot no one who has helped or hindered the school and when he finished his reading there was nothing more to be said.

Watts Franklin, who is president of the Senior Class gave the opening address. His speech was masterly and gripped the audience. Watts has been a strong president and a leader in school activities.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for re-election to the office of Circuit Judge for the Fourth Judicial District of Kentucky.

I make no partisan appeal for support, but shall ask and expect the support of all good men and women of all political parties who favor law enforcement, peace and good order. I have no promises to make to any one, except the faithful performance of all the duties of this important office, and, if re-elected, I will endeavor in the future, as I have done in the past, to expedite all matters in Court thereby saving to the people as much time and money as possible consistent with fair trials and even handed justice to all—to the poor and to the rich alike.

The trunk was opened and found that each of the cans held three gallons of grain alcohol. It is now being held at the office of the Prohibition Enforcement Officer at Paducah.

Several heat prostrations have been reported in Chicago, due to the sudden rise in temperature.

Car load lots of strawberries that were shipped into Paducah last week brought $6.25 per crate which amounted to $2,800 per car.

Aaron Ladin Martin, nine years old, was hanged while playing circus with two companions in a barn on a farm ten miles north of Mayfield. ## Farm Bureau Notes

Tuberculosis Eradication

As was stated last week in the Press, the County Agent in cooperation with the Extension Department University of Kentucky and the State Veterinarians Department is conducting a campaign for tuberculosis eradication in dairy cattle. The number of cows in Crittenden county now awaiting test is approximately 300, 288 to be exact. You cannot tell a tuberculin cow by appearance the surest way is the tuberculin test. All dairymen are urged to have their cows tested. Get in touch with the County Agent for further details.

Profitability of Dairying

Much has been written regarding the profit from dairying and fertility for the land.

Here is something that is right close to home on dairying.

Mr. W. I. Myers of Fords Ferry Star Route during the year from 1918 to August 1919 kept a record of receipts from his herd of five cows. Counting the cream checks, milk used by calves, milk and cream used by his family Mr. Myers derived an income of $566.08 for his years labor. That is well over $100 per cow and does not include the fertility returned to the land which in itself is an important factor. Mr. Myers states also that four of his cows were two years old at that time. His income from his five cows would be gladly received by many Crittenden County farmers. Just figure for yourself using these figures what 10 cows would do for a family.

TOLU BANK PIG CLUB

Last Saturday afternoon the Farmers and Merchants Bank at Tolu distributed 17 pure bred Duroc Jersey hogs to junior Agricultural club members. The bank is doing this to increase the number and quality of pure bred stock in the county. The pigs will be cared for so as to develop breeding stock under the direction of the County Agent. The club members formed themselves into a Junior Club there also with Denzel Boyd as president, Ollie Lucas, V. president and Walter Sleamaker as secretary. Wait till fall and the boys will show you at the Tolu Junior Fair some "sure nuff" good hogs.

DELEGATES TO CONVENTION TO BE ROYALLY ENTERTAINED

Delegates to the Good Roads Convention June 7-10, at the Jefferson County Armory, under auspices of the Kentucky Road Engineers' Association, will be royally entertained during their stay in Louisville.

The program is the most pretentious of any prepared for a meeting in the State.

Tuesday, the opening day, delegates will be registered and presented with handsome badge souvenirs in the form of a bronze tobacco leaf upon which is stamped a beautiful woman and horse, all symbolical of Kentucky. In the evening a band concert and dance will be given in the Convention Hall and motion pictures will be shown.

Shortly before noon on the second day the visitors will be taken in automobiles to the country home of Merritt Drane, President of the Association, where refreshments will be served. They will then have dinner at the Eight Mile House. During the afternoon the country quarry, the new Federal-aid permanent concrete road, and other types of roads will be inspected and construction machinery will be demonstrated. In the evening there will be music and motion pictures at the Armory.

A trip which should be of special interest to those from in the State will be the boat excursion Thursday afternoon. Delegates will be taken on a four hour ride up the river on the steamer America, one of the largest and finest steamers on the Ohio. Luncheon will be served on board.

All sessions and amusements will be open to the public without charge.

The Alumni Orchestra gave a wonderful musical program before the curtain went up.

MARION GIRL GRADUATES

Miss Virginia Guess of Marion, Ky., a pupil of Archibald Olmstead, was presented in a delightful senior piano recital Friday evening at the Winfield College of Music.

Miss Guess is a very talented pianist of exceptional ability. She is an interpreter of rare intelligence and unbounded charm of a distinctive type and holds her audience spell-bound by her art. To her fine musical gifts, she adds extreme attractiveness of person, a very gracious stage presence and a charming personality in which womanly sweetness and poise are never obscured by affectation.

Miss Guess is a southern woman from Marion, Ky., and speaks with a delightful accent. For several years she has made her home with an aunt, Mrs. Rose, in Blackwell but expects to return to her home this summer.

Miss Guess interpreted several selections composed by the worlds greatest artists and they were all played exquisitely.—Winfield (Kansas) Daily Courier.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

At any rate, when he becomes a jailbird the burglar is no longer a robin.

Many a fellow lives by his wits who has never developed a keen sense of humor.

Even in these abbreviated days we have yet to hear of the clocks striking for shorter hours.

The average man is quite willing to bear another fellow's burden if he can carry it on the hip.

Give a man a free foot and he can do almost as much kicking as a woman who is tongue-tied.

Life is kaleidoscope; a crazy quilt. Still, when we patch up a quarrel we begin to mend our ways.

Don't be known as an easy mark. It is better to take advantage of an opportunity than to be one.

Hoax—"I hate to play poker with B. Jones. He's so quarrelsome." Hoax—"Apt to raise the deuce, eh?" Hoax—"He'll raise a pair of deuces."

"What is worth doing at all is worth doing well," remarked the Wise Guy. "That's right," agreed the Simple Mug. "Many a nut is half cracked."

"Man is made of dust," quoted the good deacon. "Not satisfied with that the prohibitionists are trying to make him dryer than ever," added the unregenerate backslider.—Philadelphia Record.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

The highest thoughts that come to us are the first-fruits of loving moods, which bear the stamp of holiness.—Marian Dudley Richards.

A hypocrite despises those whom he deceives, but has no respect for himself. He would make a dupe of himself, too, if he could.—Hazlitt.

There is a better thing than the great man who is always speaking, and that is the man who only speaks when he has a great word to say.—William Winter.

The dull world has got the wrong phrase; it is he who resents an affront who pockets it; he who takes no notice lets it lie in the dirt.—George MacDonald.

Die when I may I want it said of me by those who knew me best that I always plucked a thistle and planted a flower where I thought a flower would grow.—Abraham Lincoln.

False shame is the devil's pet weapon. He does more work with it even than with false pride. For with false pride he only galls evil, but with false shame paralyzes good.—Ruskin.

GROWLS OF A GROUCH

I don't believe widows are dangerous if you don't take them seriously.

I dislike perfect men and always walk around the block to avoid meeting one.

I never knew a shyster lawyer who didn't want to save his country by going to congress.

I always suspect a man who puts his arm around my shoulders and calls me "old chap."

I don't believe every rich man is dishonest, and I don't believe every dishonest man is rich.

I don't believe in submitting to a major operation just to settle an argument between two doctors.

I have my own idea of a fourflusher. He is a man who adds "dictated but not read" to a letter he has typed himself.

I believe every man has a right to his own opinion when it agrees with mine, wherein I am different from nobody in particular.—Chicago Herald and Examiner.

LIFE

Two words were born twins—"I" and "Am."

There are two powers that go-operate—"I" and "Can."

There are two ideas that work together—"I" and "Do."

There are two spirits that make harmony—"I" and "Will."

There are two infinities that coincide—"I" and "God."

There are two thoughts that compete and bear fruit—"I" and "Know."—From Life.

FROM THE PENCIL'S POINT

He is an old bore. Even the grave pawns for him.

A fat man always has more troubles than sympathizers.

Jumping a sanitarium board bill is one way of beating a retreat.

Sometimes a wise man gives up a sure thing for an uncertainty.

She said for Bro. Oakley to realize that when he preached her funeral she was at rest with her father and mother and loved ones. She directed her own funeral.

We can't help but feel a little proud of this issue of the Press as a county paper. There is a survey of what is going on all over the county except the bad and the Press is not inclined to keep before the public the bad. But with the co-operation of the business firms of the county and people in general, we will give you a wholesome, clean, newsy, County paper.

MARION

I have known Marion all of my life. My father J. P. Hogard came here on horse back to the old horse mill when Marion was not a town, not even a village, only the old mill and one residence. The first time that I can remember coming to Marion was on an ox cart with four bags of corn across the front bolster.
Some of the men I learned to know
were David Stinson, Judge Wager, Cub Bigham, William Carnahan, and Mr. Douglas, who kept the tavern on the corner where Douglas Carnahan now sells goods, Robert Fulton
Haynes, J. W. Blue Sr., Nathan R.
Black, J. N. Woods who sold goods
on the corner where the Farmers
Bank is located, Charlie Higginbotham,
who ran a saloon where the Marion Bank is, W. N. Rochester, Hick and R. N. Walker and others whose names I can not recall. Most all these men were highly respected.

I never did like the business of the Higginbothams and never had much admiration for Judge Wager.

For the first time that I came to church here was in the old brick out by the old grave yard, so called then.
The house was well filled and I sat
by Judge Wager. While H. M. Ford was preaching Judge Wager turned and spat on me. A thing I have not forgotten to this day. Then I was sure that town people looked down
on country people.

Some way country people get to believe that people in town think themselves above them. But this is a mistaken idea. There may be a few now and then who really think so but they are few only, and these few are rather to be pitied than blamed. For the salvation of this county, socially, religiously and politically depends largely on the great common people, most of whom live in the country.

Marion is the county seat of Crittenden county—the only town of any size in the county. It is here that all litigations etc., have to be settled,
the great common center. The town people can not get along without the country people, nor can the country people get along so well without the town people. It must be mutual, we must live to benefit each other.

I have lived in several counties in the state and none of these counties
have a better citizenship than Crittenden. Take the families like the Hunt, Paris, Wheeler, Crider, Dowell,
Rankin, Baker, Hughes, Adams,
Walker, Hill, Minner, Hodges, Asher, Sullenger, Pickens, Deboe, Lamb, Wilson, Crayne, Guess, Gass, Cook,
Daughtrey, Conger, Dean, Gahagen,
Postlethweight, Franklin, Wilborn,
Carter, Conger, Harpending, Ordway,
Pogue, and space will not allow me to call the names of families whose names stand for good citizenship.
Then we have in Marion a citizenship equal to the best. The Marion bar is made up of good citizenship,
the Moores, Henderson, Bennett, Rochester, Blue, Nunn, Deboe. Marion merchants are all good citizens as well as good business men. In fact in all walks of life no town will excel Marion for citizenship.

Marion can be made one of the most beautiful towns in Western Kentucky. Let our motto be—United we stand, divided we fall. Let us all put our shoulders to the wheel
and push.
W. F. H.

Mrs. Dr. Phillips, of New York City, who has been visiting relatives
in the county returned to her home
Wednesday and Miss Julia Dollins
went to make her home with Mrs.
Phillips.

Miss Ruth Travis, who is to graduate from the Western State Normal next month, has been elected as a teacher in the City Schools of Louisville. Miss Travis formerly taught in the Marion Graded School.

REPORT OF U. K. SURVEY COMMISSION

The Board of Trustees of the State University of Kentucky recently appointed a Commission to make a survey of other State Universities to compare and see wherein we were short. This Commission went to Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin and Illinois Universities and found that Kentucky was far behind these states in providing educational facilities for Kentucky boys and girls.

The Commission was composed of ten prominent men, Judge Clem S.
Nunn of Marion and Mr. C. H. Ellis of Sturgis were two of the number.

The following is an extract from their report given in the Louisville Courier Journal.

State appropriation of $8,000,000
for new buildings and equipment for the University of Kentucky is recommended in the report made public here today by the University of Kentucky Survey Commission on its return from the State Universities of Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin and Ill.

In addition, the report said, "the income of the University must be increased $300,000 annually in the next two years, with additional increases to meet additional needs. Not less than $800,000 should be provided annually for the next ten years for the construction of building and the purchase of additional equipment and ground."

The report hews that the states to the north of the Ohio river multiply several times for their State institutions the money given by Kentucky to the University of Kentucky.

It shows further that the greatness of the several states visited resulted in large measure from the growth and development of their State universities.

FLASHLIGHTS

But what a nervous place the world
would be if everybody were a success.

It doesn't have to be a very slippery job for some men to fall down on it.

Places where a man may "drop in"
for 10 or 15 cents might be multiplied.

Usually the exact day you set for changing your daily program it rains
and you can't.

Great men are usually kind; anybody can be as great as the greatest in that respect.

Bandits seldom kidnap anyone for ransom, because their storage facilities are so poor.

People are so eager for somebody else to take "just any kind of a job"
if it is offered him.

Vanity is not so widespread. Thousands of those who win are in a state of life-long astonishment over it.

Almost anyone can make a fair stag-ger at singing a sentimental song, but only an artist can put over ragtime.

At breakfast father wants to talk about what he reads in the paper and mother wants to talk about the things that ought to be sent up from the store.

It doesn't follow that a rich man gets any more fun out of life than a poor man. The chances are that when he has to attend the meetings of boards of directors he'd much rather go fishing.

Some men who are so thrifty that they smoke a cigar to the point where they have to hold the stub of it on the end of a match will sit around and waste three hours of another man's time and think nothing of it—
Detroit Free Press.

THOUGHTS BY THE WAY

It doesn't take much dough to buy a paste diamond.

A woman's tears are usually more effective than her words.

Our idea of a good boss is one who can boss without bossing.

Don't tell a man that you are as good as he is; show him that you are better.

The man who is looking for a fat
office should visit the counting room
of a lard factory.

Offer a woman an apology and the chances are she will find an excuse for not accepting it.

When a man loves a woman more than tongue can tell it's up to him
to let money do the talking.

As a matter of fact it isn't so much
what your neighbor thinks of himself
as what he thinks of you that counts.

STATISTICAL NOTES

from ancient Egypt.

In proportion to population
Switzerland has many more deaf
mutes than any other country.

The heart of a vegetarian
beats on an average, 58 times
a minute; that of a meat-eater, 75 times.

Since the end of the World war 13,100 houses have been rebuilt in France. 178,500 repaired and 46,570 other houses
in use temporarily.

There are about 130 species
of bats, and these are distributed over nearly every quarter of the globe. The larger bats are found in the warmer regions.

DISHONESTY

He always paid his bill—sometimes.

He always bought what he wanted,
because he always thought he could pay for it—sometimes.

He made a contribution to the Red Cross which gave him much pleasure.

His tailor could not make a contribution because he had no money—although he hoped the philanthropist would pay that which he owed him—sometimes.

People call the tailor mean, and the philanthropist honest, because he always pays his bills—sometimes.—From
"Bits of Life."

Famous Ben Greet Players in Shakespeare's "As You Like It," at Chautauqua

The presentation of Shakespeare's great comedy, "As You Like It," by the Ben Greet Players on the fourth night of the coming Respath Chautauqua, will be both an entertainment and intellectual treat. Ben Greet's wonderful genius in taking from Shakespeare's plays the "high-brow" atmosphere with which they have been associated and interpreting them so that they appeal directly to and are understood by all who witness them is clearly shown in the splendid production which will be given here. Miss Grace Halsey Mills of New York City will appear as Rosalind. She is thoroughly experienced and rarely gifted in Shakespearean portrayals.

ANOTHER CRITTENDEN

COUNTY BOY

Gentle readers, farmers of Crittenden county, citizens, you can not afford to send your boys away from Marion for a High School education. Educate them at home where their talents will be directed toward local growth, community development and prosperity. We can give them the broad vision, the knowledge and the ambition necessary for success.

Watts Franklin is a sterling example of the product of Crittenden county schools. He has developed great qualities of leadership, is forceful, popular, talented, industrious above reproach and an athlete of ability—a future leader for Crittenden county. Watts graduated this year and has mastered the agricultural course. He wrote the following thesis which should interest every farmer and citizen in the county.

G. M. GUMBERT

The Future of Crittenden County

What will Crittenden county be twenty-five, fifty or one hundred years from now? This is a question that should interest all of us, and a question that each and every citizen of the county should consider. If you have not done so before, stop for just a moment and think what you are doing to make it better or worse and remember that we are building homes for our posterity. Shall we continue to deplete our soil as we have done in the past or shall we strive to bring it back to its original state?

When the peace of 1783, marking the close of the pioneer period, came, it brought with it a great tide of immigration, new men and new questions, men that laid the foundations of our state and stopped those few chosen spirits that for more than a decade had suffered the "slings and arrows of outrageous fortune," with a patient fortitude unexcelled in any other page of history. They faced the red billows of savage war for our sake, but in the natural order of things have been supplanted, and only the memory of their virtues is left and we are forced to believe that Crittenden county is a worse place in which to live than it was when the first pioneer crossed Tradewater. It was a fertile country in those days and a writer has said that it assumed a dignity and splendor never seen in any other part of the world. The brilliant sun of Latitude 39 piercing thru the azure heavens, produced in the prolific soil an early maturity perfectly astonishing. The flowers were full and perfect, as if they had been cultivated by the hands of a florist, and with all their captivating odor, in the lap of eloquence and beauty decorated the smiling groves. Everything gave delight and the settlers felt a glow of gratitude for the elevation their bountiful Creator had bestowed upon them. They cleared the land, built homes, and left it all for us. And now—what would they say should they come back and see the barren hills, red from the continuous growing of cultivated crops; livestock that show the lines of those bred a century ago, and the same roads they traveled, that are today impassable three months in the year?

But we must not regret the past too much but look to the future. We have been going down long enough and it is high time that someone stepped into the lead as did General Sheridan at Cedar Creek with the command, "Turn boys turn, we're going back." It is time to increase the fertility of our soil, and stop the hundreds of tons now washing into the gulf of Mexico annually. It is time to build better roads, raise better livestock and step into the front ranks as an agriculture center and make Crittenden county the garden spot of America. None of these things are impossible. "Where there's a will, there's a way." Begin today. If you are a farmer the next spare minutes you have put a few brush in those gulleys that are threatening to rob your soil of its fertility. If you are not a farmer speak a word for your friends benefit; for good roads, better schools; for the Farm Bureau, County Agent and anything that tends to promote our prosperity. This is the beginning of success that will take years to reach. "Rome was not built in a day" neither was anything else great, but by time and labor. So to the older citizens falls the lot of preparing their sons to step into their places and fill it even better than they have done. There are many of them who do not know that we have a first class Agricultural course in our High School, under the direction of a Smith-Hughes man that knows the fundamentals of agriculture. In it your boy will be taught the principles of farming that are practical on any soil from the Ohio river to the edge of Caldwell county; from Tradewater to Deer Creek. If he applies his knowledge as he should he can return to your farm and after a few years produce sixty bushels where you formerly grew thirty. He will raise a grade of livestock that will outsell yours in any market in America, and all the time not to be living an isolated life of drudgery. Don't be afraid that he may not return to the farm. If after he has taken an agriculture course and does not feel that the soil calls him, then it is well that he seeks some other profession for it is certain that he never would have been a successful farmer. Education does not take the boys away from the farm but rather tends to keep them on it. More boys leave the farm because they do not understand it than because they know too much about it; and the success of Crittenden county depends on the knowledge of the younger population. If it should happen that the most capable, vigorous and enterprising youths, leave the country for the city there to become sterilized, thru the pursuit of false ambitions only one result will be possible. And this would happen just as certainly as it would should a horse or cattle breeder follow the practice of selling his best animals and keeping his inferior ones for breeding. Then if our prosperity depends on the youth of our rural population then it is absolutely necessary that rural life be better in the future than it has been in the past.

The best place I know to begin is the roads. The day has been reached when Crittenden county is no longer proud to boast of the worst roads in the state, but rather ashamed of it. There does not exist in America today a prosperous rural community without improved highways, and you may be sure that a scientific, up-to-date farmer will never move into our county as long as he must travel over our present roads. A maximum profit will never be realized from our products until a pike connects every farm with the market. And the youth of the county will never be contented until there are highways connecting him with the amusements of the city. And when the county is mapped out with good turnpikes the future of it will be assured.

But if we have good roads it is necessary that we have something to transport over them. Our products must eventually come from the soil and our soil must be enriched a great deal before it will produce what it should. The average soil of Crittenden county contains 1700 nitrogen, 702 phosphorous and 26-260 potassium. A fertile soil contains 400 nitrogen, 10000 phosphorous and 30000 potassium, so it is not difficult to see why our production is so small. And neither is it hard to see why our soil is so poor when we have been depleting it for more than a century and never turning a thing. The soil of Crittenden county, being a clay type formed from potassium and aluminum silicates, contains almost a sufficient amount of potassium and so we are concerned with the increase of nitrogen and phosphorous only; and as with other soils that have been cropped for several generations with the increase of organic matter and the correction acidity. The acidity must be corrected by the use of lime in order to permit the growth of good nitrogen-fixing legumes, which will add the nitrogen for other crops. This is the only profitable way to add nitrogen as that contained in commercial fertilizers is very expensive. Phosphorous may be bought either in the form of rock phosphate or acid phosphate at a reasonable price. Humus may be added by manure, turning under of green manure crops and pastures. With all these a fertile soil will soon exist, and it can be secured without unnecessary expense if the proper management and system of farming is practiced.

No method of farming pays more brings up the fertility of the soil faster and has so bright a future as Dairying and Orcharding. No other systems work so well together and no other system will save Crittenden county. Dairying is the practice that will restore our soil to its original state and our wealth at once. In our dairy history there never was a time when the future was so big with promise for the men engaged in this industry. A tremendous export demand for dairy products and a steady increasing domestic demand insure dairymen of an unfailing market for their products. We are exporting more milk products today than ever before and we are import less. The public is beginning to realize the necessity of milk in the daily diet, and the millions of dollars that were formerly spent for intoxicants are now spent for ice cream and milk drinks. Even the most sceptical must admit that the dairy industry is on the eve of the greatest prosperity it has ever known. How largely Crittenden county will share this prosperity depends solely on us. And although dairy product are now low, as is true of all other farm products there is a better day in the near future.

And contrary to many men's ideas it does not take a fortune to begin orcharding and dairying right. A few hundred dollars will build a dairy barn large enough for the average farm of Crittenden county. Wealthy men who operate dairies as a means of diversion may hire architects and contractors to erect buildings at a high cost but this is only wasteful and unnecessary, and experience has shown that elaborate and costly barns are not necessary for permanence, sanitation, comfort of cows convenience in the production of clean milk. For the dairyman that just make every dollar count, display and fancy appearance are to be avoided. A typical, inexpensive dairy barn may be seen in this county on the farm of Mr. Paul Paris, and it would surely pay any one interested in dairying to look it over. It is also as important that not too little be invested in dairy buildings so that undue labor will be required in taking care of the cows. Many mistakes have been made in building barns and frequently they are not discovered until it is too late to correct them. Mistakes in arranging may compel a great many unnecessary steps to be made and require work to be done at a disadvantage day after day, year in and year out. Mistake may be made in the location of the silo, in the placing of doors, or in the dimensions of platforms, gutters, passageways and the location of pens. All these details are to be considered beforehand and these mistakes avoided. But disregard of cost, profit and expense, remember that the dairy barn is the place where human food is produced, and cleanliness must be observed in every operation.

Another system of farming with a prospective future is sheep raising. Hundreds of acres of our rolling land can be converted into a permanent pasture after a short time. The western shipment of sheep has not only ceased to increase, but has actually grown less as a result of the reduction of the range area, and the rolling land of the nation will be called upon to supply the demand, and it is not only a patriotic duty to raise sheep but it is profitable as well. Most Crittenden county farms are suited to sheep raising and if they are handled right a good profit will be realized both in mutton and in wool. Grain feed is seldom necessary when good grazing is to be had, and only buildings to protect them from rains and heavy snow falls are needed. It does not require a fortune to begin sheep husbandry in this county but any progressive farmer with a few hundred dollars can soon be independent. Cheap land that is now idle and will not produce grain will support hundreds of sheep they will clear the land and at the same time enrich the soil. Sheep raising will not only tend to bring up the soil but will bring in a nice profit along with it. There is a great demand for both mutton and wool and the rolling land of the central and eastern states must supply it. In 1917, at the beginning of the war there was only enough wool in the United States to equip about two million soldiers, about the same amount was imported and thus more than a hundred million people in the country were without wool. That was the cause of the high price, and as there are only a few more sheep in the United States now than there were then you may expect a good market in the future, just as soon as conditions reach normal and the farmers become well organized.

These, already mentioned are in my mind the types of farming that will mean success in Crittenden county. That is; orcharding, dairying and sheep raising. They are the three that will bring in dollars where there now dimes and place us on the map as an agriculture center. But there are many points to be considered regardless of the type of farming. There must be less grain raised and more live stock. All manure produced must be carefully handled and returned to the soil. More money is wasted in the county from the careless handling of manure than from any other cause. Many farmers are wasteful enough to let tons of manure lay under the eaves of the barn and leach away and then pay enormous sums for commercial fertilizers that will not add half the value of the manure to the soils. By all means return all the manure produced and if you have money left to invest in fertilizer, buy rock phosphate and lime and get some legumes started. There are hundreds of tons of rock in the county that could be profitably ground and put on the soil. And Crittenden county will not pursue the even tenor of its way until our citizens become economical and pay attention to these small things and cease to strive for the almighty dollar that may be won today.

There is a day coming and may it soon be when the sons no longer leave the farm to look for something better, but stay with the farm and help make farm life enjoyable. There is a day coming when the social conditions of rural life will be different and the rural population will enjoy the comforts of farm life. Whatever may be said upon the point, it can scarcely be denied that the farmer, more than anyone else, has reason to take an interest in the local church, the school, the library, the local sports, and every other agency that may contribute to the social life of the neighborhood. If he allows these things to degenerate it will profit him little to have come into possession of broad acres, to have grown big crops, and to have built barns to hold them.

Let's imagine that we are Rip Van Winkle and lie down today and sleep for twenty years. It is May 1941 and we wake just after the noon hour. The grass under our body is as a velvet carpet, and the spreading oak keeps the sunlight from our eyes. It is peaceful and quiet here. The sky is a soft blue and flecked with creamy clouds. A soft breeze warm and sweet with the fragrance of the growing crops touches the leaves of the trees and steals thru the green grass. From the nearby brook comes the gurgle of clear water. We lie back, the calm peace and contentment of the atmosphere stealing over our senses, and watch thru half closed lids, the herd of black and white taking its ease a stone's throw away. Far across the valley on the opposite hillside we can count the hundreds of snow white sheep nipping the tender grass with perfect contentment. Still farther away we can count numbers of magnificent farm houses, acres of fruit trees and everything that denotes prosperity. Farther still we can see on the glistening pike an object coming this way at a break neck speed. As it comes nearer we see, not the president of the United States but a lad in overalls taking his cross country drive. Far down the valleys we hear the hum of tractors on the job for another half day. We wonder if this is Utopia at last. Can it be possible that this the country that was worn out years ago? Yes, this Crittenden County. But things have changed. Country life is what it should be. Every one is contented and the birds above no longer sing "How you Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm."

"Behold The Triumph of the Prussian Schoolmaster"

WHEN von Humboldt was asked how to develop a great Prussian Empire, he replied: "Whatever you would put into the life of the nation, you must first put into the schools of the nation."

This advice was followed. Militarism, the glorification of force, the idea of the German super-state, and the ethics of the jungle went into the schools. And when von Moltke led the triumphant hosts of Prussian militarism through the streets of conquered Paris, he remarked: "Behold the triumph of the Prussian schoolmaster."

Wrong Education Wrecked the World

Germany scrapped civilization by wrong education. In two generations she transformed gentle, God-fearing, peace-loving people into ruthless horde of war-mad fanatics.

This kind of education glorifies might and physical prowess, while it despises the gentle virtues of humility, truth, and honor. It exalts the ethics of the jungle and considers, as Nietzsche did, the ethics of Jesus as fit only for "women, all cows, and Englishmen."

Thus it trained a generation to believe that the supreme interest is the state, that war is a legitimate activity, that might—military, industrial, physical—is the final arbiter of all things. So when at last "Der Tag"—the day—arrived, the product of the Prussian schools marched across Belgium, spurred on by their preacher's declaration: "We execute God's almighty will, and he calls us to murderous battles, even if worlds should thereby fall in ruins."

Are Americans willing for the Prussian tendency now manifest in our education to become dominant?

Christian Education Can Save the World

Over against Prussianism, Christian education accepts the principle that right makes might and implants in the soul the fundamental principles of religion—life for God, faith in Jesus Christ, justice, humility, love.

Christian education is necessary to civilization and the world's salvation. It alone can produce a generation of men devoted to righteous principles of personal, social, national and international action. It alone can give us

Christian leaders to lead the world aright. It alone can furnish men and women to do the Christian work of the world.

Germany had no Christian colleges, and she ruined the world. The Christian Education Movement of the M. E. Church, South, proposes to give America the best system of Christian colleges in the world. Will you back this program?
