CARD OF THANKS

Words fail to express my sincere gratitude to our friends for their many kindnesses shown my dear good wife and me during her illness and death. Special thanks are due the telephone operators of Marion who were so kind and attentive. Often during her illness I would call Mrs. Charles' attention to the fact that everyone seemed anxious to do something for her and she would reply, "Yes, we have more friends than I thought we had."

Her appreciation for her friends was deep and sincere and even in sickness and death she found joy in knowing that others thought of her. To her own satisfaction she found in her hour of need that her many friends knew the meaning of that little poem which she loved so much: "Lord let me live from day to day, In such a self forgetful way, That even when I kneel to pray, My prayers shall be for others." To her friends and mine it shall ever be my prayer that the Lord may bless and keep you.

Your friend, F. F. CHARLES.

MARION

Marion merchants as I first knew them: J. N. Woods, Jack, was merchandising on the corner where the Farmers Bank building now stands. He conducted a general merchandise and had the confidence of the public as few men attain and therefore did a large business for that time. Calvin Elder and Charlie Stinson were the accommodating salesmen. Later on Charlie Stinson and brother went to Illinois and embarked in the business of merchandising and were quite successful.

Aunt Mary and Uncle Jack, as they were familiarly called were very kind and attentive to children. A child got as much or more kindly attention than grown ups around them. It was common for Aunt Mary to have mothers and their children to go to her room and rest or warm and get their dinner.

Cub Bigham sold goods on the corner in the Masonic building. An incident occurred one summer day I was in town. We youngsters always said town and never Marion, for Marion was the only town to us.

On this occasion James W. Bigham was at this store and said "Cub got a gun?" Cub went back and brought out an old musket. Jim then called for a cap for the gun and Cub got a big water proof cap and Jim put it on the tube and started across the street toward the Douglas Hotel Miss Carrie Douglas, only daughter of N. B. Douglas, was in her room, and in front of the door stood a large locust tree. Jim slipped behind the tree then to the door, cocked the gun and held it by the door casing and bursted the cap, the explosion of which sounded like a gun shot. Of course Miss Carrie screamed, but Jim laughed heartily. Miss Carrie still lives and afterward became the wife of Harry Carnahan, and mother of Douglas Carnahan, the young aggressive merchant on the corner of Main and Salem Street.

Another prominent place of business was the Drug Store. It was here I got Almanacs, Ayers, Scovells Hostettters etc. I wanted them for the funny stories they contained. Father and Mother wanted them to tell when the moon changed, in order to know about weather conditions for the almanacs knew; then to tell when to lay fence worm, or put on a roof or kill hogs. The name of the druggist was on all the almanacs, Warren Wager, said to be a very safe and painstaking druggist. As a boy I appreciated the fact that he took pains to supply me with this, then popular literature.

Later Tom Cameron came here and married the step-daughter of Uncle Jack Woods, Miss Mary, and put in a stock of dry goods and built up a large trade. About that time John Caldwell put in a stock of dry goods and for many years did a thriving business. Almasine Lemon clerked for him for quite a while, later on married Miss Annie Dean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Dean.

An Interview With Col. H. C. Whitehead, Remount Service, U. S. A.

"Despite our present-day motor-driven vehicles and trench warfare, the ratio of horses to men for the Army was as one to four against one horse to each 35 men during our own Civil War. And had the former conflict lasted a few weeks longer, the shortage of horses would have been woefully acute. The broad plans of the American Remount Association for selective breeding are, therefore, an important link in our chain of national defense."

The above is a statement by Col. H. C. Whitehead, of the U. S. Remount Purchasing and Breeding Service.

Seen at his headquarters in Lexington, Colonel Whitehead vouchsafed other highly enlightening information, not only about the breeding work in progress, but also of the utility of the thoroughbred horse; the intimate relation between racing and the main business and improvement of the standard of blood stock and the importance of the thoroughbred to the State of Kentucky in particular.

"The immediate concern of the American Remount Association," he said, "is to save riding and driving horses and the high-class race horse from extinction. We want to produce a truly American type of cavalry horse—a horse with breeding and quality as well as bone and substance—a weight-carrier and the best general purpose horse known—a horse that will weigh from 1,000 to 1,200 pounds, standing from 15 hands, 1 inch to 16 hands, tight made, with good gut and action—a walk, trot, gallop horse that can carry weight and follow the bounds across country—that the family can drive to church, and also one that can hold his own at hard work on the farm—a horse that can be used to advantage and economically any and everywhere, except in heavy draft."

"This type of horse has splendid looks, quality, action, and vigor—a wonderful all-purpose horse for the farmer and one that can be kept at a minimum cost."

"Almost every commercial and military use will be met by the progeny of this breeding plan, dependent primarily upon the size, quality and blood lines of the horses used in breeding."

Among the stallions to be placed throughout the United States this spring will be over one hundred head of high-class registered thoroughbreds—big horses, with plenty of body, bone and substance. These stallions, placed in the stud through Government agencies, will be available to farmers and breeders at a minimum fee. The Government does not expect to make money, but to make it possible and feasible for the farmer and breeder to get the service of a high-class, approved stallion for their good mare, the object being to produce animals of real value and use that will earn their keep—bring a handsome profit when mature. We expect the progeny at maturity to make general-purpose horses—cavalry horses, riding and driving horses, show horses, hunters, New horses, polo ponies, depending largely upon the mares selected for breeding and the care selected in rearing colts. They will belong to the breeder—the Government will have no strings on them. The owner will be privileged to sell them to whomsoever he pleases at any time. They will be horses admirably adapted to work in both peace and war times.

"But the Government will depend upon them for its supply, and the importance of the horse to the modern army is to be fully realized by the comparison of horses already cited pertaining to the use of the horse in the last great war with those of his use during the Civil War."

"As regards thoroughbred horses racing, every practical horseman knows that it is, first and foremost, vitally necessary in order to test the quality of individual horses—it is the final act that goes to measure their value for breeding purposes, and is thus decisively instrumental in the work of preserving and improving the thoroughbred horse as the race up to which depends the preservation and improvement of all our other kinds of horses and mule horses."

"Meanwhile, the evolution of thoroughbred horse racing has given the world a great out-of-door sport—one that the world truly enjoys, and the attendance at our metropolitan racetracks may be taken as evidence of popularity, and which, wherever properly conducted, is a decidedly healthful and innocuous, insofar as health, as concerns its effects on the great majority of normal-minded citizens."

"The State of Kentucky is immeasurably the richer for her industry of breeding thoroughbred horses and its concomitant seasons of racing. Millions and millions of dollars are invested in property throughout the state as a result—our is this taxable wealth confined to the holdings of millionaire ranchmen whose establishments are located in the Bluegrass District, by any means."

"Many a Kentucky farmer is also a breeder of the thoroughbred, and often the male of a colt or filly tells him more than the products of a season's work on the farm."

"Undoubtedly the sport of racing thoroughbred horses is a tremendous business asset to the state. Facts such as, I dare say, the Kentucky Jockey Club readily can adduce in this connection very well might amuse Kentuckyans who have never considered the subject in its substantial and universal aspects."

That Influence.

A very well-bred Holstein bull calf weighing 112 pounds was recently dropped at the Kansas state agricultural college farm at Manhattan. Most of the dairy infants, however, weigh considerably less than this Kansas heavyweight.

In the dairy herds of the University of Illinois the average weights of the calves of the various breeds at birth have been as follows: Holstein male, 90 lbs.; female, 88 lbs.; Ayrshire male, 77 lbs.; female, 71 lbs.; Guernsey male, 70 lbs.; female, 68 lbs.; Jersey male, 62 lbs.; female, 58 lbs.

It is a good practice to note and record the approximate weights of calves at birth, because this information is valuable in apportioning milk to the young animals. The 112-pound Kansas giant, for instance, could handle a feeding of milk that would put a Jersey calf of average weight in line for castrating.

Breeds bred and sire, heredity and the age, size and physical condition of the dam influence birth weights.

WATER FOR COWS IN WINTER

Good Plan on Very Cold Days to Heat
It Just Enough to Take Disagreeable Chill Off.

The dry cow must have plenty of good water and on very cold days in winter it is a good plan to warm it just enough to take the chill off. When cows are forced to drink ice cold water in zero weather they will turn away from it before they have consumed enough to meet their requirements. If salt is sprinkled over the fodder portion of the cow's ration or otherwise supplied at intervals of two or three times a week it will assist in keeping her system in good tone.

FOR WASHING MILK BOTTLES

Fill Receptacles With Water When Emptied to Prevent Albumen and Casein Hardening.

The milk bottle, if not washed as soon as emptied, should be filled with cold or lukewarm water till it is washed. The albumen and casein harden and stick fast when they dry so well as when heated. So that if hot water is poured in the bottle or can that has had milk in it the albumen and casein will harden and stick after washing with lukewarm water use hot water, which removes the fat, and rinse in boiling water or steam to kill the bacteria.

Managers of New York theaters, where the same production has been running for weeks, confess that they have never seen a complete performance of the play.

It is not the fashion in Russia to supply bedclothing, even in the best hotels. The traveler is expected to bring his sheets and his blankets with him if he requires them, and the custom is also observed in private houses.

Grace Halsey Mills, Well-Known Shakespearean Actress, Coming

GRACE HALSEY MILLS.

Miss Grace Halsey Mills of New York City, who will appear here as Rosalind in "As You Like It" at the Redpath Chautauqua, has for many years interpreted leading roles for the Ben Greet Players. She is thoroughly experienced and rarely gifted in Shakespearean portrayals.

As Rosalind she is generous, womanly, charming, capricious—everything that Shakespeare painted in his pen picture of this delightful heroine.

Her exceptional art is characterized by beauty, strength, intelligence and feminine charm.

Miss Mills is only one of an exceptionally strong cast of Ben Greet Players who will appear here.

BAPTISTS COLLECT $25,000,000 CASH

REDEMPTION OF PLEDGES ENCOURAGING—SOUTHWIDE PROGRAM IS LAUNCHED.

COMPLETE GREATEST YEAR

Reports to Southern Baptist Convention at Chattanooga Show Marked Progress Along Every Line of Organized Work.

DR. J. H. RUSHBROOKE
Baptist Commissioner for Europe.

Collections in cash totaling $25,103,424.64 have been made for general causes fostered by the Baptist 75 Million Campaign since the campaign was launched in 1919, according to a report to the Southern Baptist Convention, which has just adjourned its Chattanooga session, by Dr. L. R. Scarborough, general director of the campaign, and chairman of the Conservation Commission. The fact that $12,934,943.40 of this amount was collected during the past year, under the most depressing conditions known in years, is very encouraging to the denominational leaders, they say.

Will Seek the Unsaved.
Feeling the need of conserving the spiritual interests of the people as well as the financial aspects of the campaign, the convention asked the Conservation Commission to seek to enlist, through the state and associational organizations, all the 27,000 local Baptist churches in the South in a larger evangelistic effort during the next twelve months, the aim being to induce as many individual members of the churches as possible to win at least one soul to Christ during the new year. Reports to the convention showed that there were 178,595 persons received into the local Baptist churches by baptism during the past year, and a much larger number will be sought during the year ahead.

Would Evangelize Europe.
One of the interesting actions of the convention was the decision to back up fully the Foreign Mission Board in its program for the evangelization of the new European territory of Spain, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Roumania, the Ukraine and Southern Russia. Dr. J. H. Rushbrooke, of London, Baptist Commissioner for Europe, addressed the convention, telling how he had distributed the relief funds contributed by Baptists for the needy families of those countries and how the giving of this relief had opened wide the door of missionary opportunity. Work on the older foreign fields during the past year was unusually successful, the board reporting receipts of $2,404,988 for its missionary operations and $278,000 for relief work, as well as $100,000 worth of clothing; 6,998 baptisms on the foreign fields; 187 of the 411 churches self-supporting, with a total of 405 foreign missionaries and 978 native workers employed.

Home Mission Board Active.
The Home Mission Board reported 77,072 additions to the churches through its instrumentalities, church extension operations of $1,248,000, and 298 patients treated at the Tubercular Sanatorium at El Paso. During the year the receipts of the Sunday School Board reached $1,147,721.73, and the board turned back into general work of the denomination the sum of $183,000.

Although only three years of age, the Relief and Annuity Board, which seeks to supply the needs of aged, dependent ministers and their families, has doubled the number of beneficiaries receiving aid from the denomination as well as the amount of relief given. It now has permanent resources in excess of $500,000.

There are 119 Baptist educational institutions in the South, with a total enrollment of 40,000 pupils, the report of the Education Board showed, and 2,186 of these pupils are preparing for special Christian service, such as the ministry, missionary and other special religious work.

The Woman's Missionary Union, representing the organized women of the South, reports a total of 19,485 organized societies of women and young people, while the cash contributions by the women to the various causes fostered by the denomination during the year amounted to $2,115,487.

Illinois Central System Calls Attention to Things the Public Does Not See

The public is accustomed to see passenger and freight trains arrive at stations and depart from stations and travel between intermediate points on the railway, performing a necessary service without which almost all commerce would be paralyzed. It seldom gets a glimpse behind the scenes and realizes the magnitude and diversification of railway operation.

The public sees an engineer and fireman in charge of a locomotive—a conductor and brakeman in charge of a train. It sees comparatively little of all there is back of the actual running of a train—the executive and general officers, the heads of departments, the division officers, the train dispatchers, the signal maintainers, the foremen, the skilled and unskilled laborers, the shopmen, the track walkers, the miners producing the coal, the workers producing the steel, the woodmen producing the ties and the plants where they are treated with preservative chemicals, the mills producing the lumber, the refineries producing the lubricants, the rock quarries and rock crushers, the gravel pits and steam shovels, and the thousand and one other operations which enter into the production of railway transportation.

Few outside of those whose business it is to do so ever examine the anatomy of a modern locomotive, a passenger coach, a refrigerator car or an ordinary freight car. A modern locomotive contains more than 4,200 parts, not including rivets and bolts, all of which must be inspected daily and kept in perfect condition, some requiring the constant attention of highly specialized experts. For example, the lighting system is cared for by a corps of trained electricians, the superheater attachment is looked after by specialists, the boiler requires the attention of expert boiler-makers, the separate and distinct engine which operates the reversing mechanism must have special and constant attention and the airbrake system also demands the attention of experts.

A modern all-steel passenger coach, exclusive of bolts, rivets, screws, nuts, washers and nails, has more than 2,000 parts. The wheels, trucks, airbrakes and draw gear require constant inspection and special attention. The dynamo which generates electricity for lighting the coach when the train is running, also storing the batteries to provide lighting when the train is standing, must be carefully handled. The same is true of many other parts. The single item of cleaning and ventilating passenger coaches runs into large figures.

A modern refrigerator car has more than 1,500 parts. Perfect insulation must be maintained and the car must be kept absolutely clean. The ice boxes and many other parts require constant attention.

The ordinary box car has more than 500 parts which must be regularly and constantly inspected and kept in safe condition. Just as a chain is as strong as its weakest link, the safety of a train is gauged by the weakest car in the train.

The men who actually operate the trains on the Illinois Central System compose a comparatively small proportion of the more than 50,000 employees back of them.

One out of every eleven persons in the United States depends directly upon the railways for a living, counting one worker to every five persons.

Railway prosperity is necessary to national prosperity. Anything that injures the railways also injures the public. Anything that helps the railways helps the public.

The railways consume 28 percent of all the bituminous coal produced in the United States. They consume 25 percent of all the steel produced in the United States. They are also large users of lubricating oils and other commodities.

The Illinois Central, like other railways, is a citizen of each town on its lines. It pays taxes and means as much to the life of each community as any other business concern in the community. It has but one thing of self—transportation. When you buy that transportation, remember the investment in the property that makes it possible to run the train that furnishes you with service and remember the great expense back of running that train, aside from the salaries of the enginemen and trainmen whom you see and the agent with whom you deal.

The railways do not claim perfection. Every railway in the United States has locomotives and cars that should be replaced by better ones; machinery and appliances that should be replaced by later and better models; steel rails that should be replaced by heavier ones; track that should be provided with better ballast; terminals that should be enlarged. The railways are striving to overcome these deficiencies. They are succeeding gradually. They are fighting for the privilege of serving you—the public. They ask no advantage of any kind. They ask only a square deal.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

C. H. MARKHAM,
President, Illinois Central System.

KINCHELOE HITS EXTRAVAGANCE

Washington, May 25.—Charging that the Republican leaders in the House are deliberately misleading the public with announcements that they are "cutting down the estimates on Congressional appropriations" Representative D. H. Kincheloe, Second Kentucky district, in a speech on the floor, declared that data presented to Congress by Secretary Andrew W. Mellon, of the Treasury Department showed that the expenditures of the government for the fiscal year 1921 would exceed $5,500,000,000.

"That is more money than was appropriated in any congress during any time of peace," Mr. Kincheloe said. "It means an average of more than $50 for each man, woman and child in the United States." —Prov. Ent.
