Illinois Central System Calls Attention to

Things the Public Does Not See

The public is accustomed to see passenger and freight trains arrive at stations and depart from stations and travel between intermediate points. But how many persons, even those performing a necessary service without which all commerce would be paralyzed, realize what a glimpse behind the scenes and realize the magnitude and division of railway operations.

The Railroad is an engineer and a brakeman in charge of a locomotive--a conductor and brakeman is in charge of a train. It is a comparatively little of all there is back of the actual running of a train--the creative and administrative work of planning and organizing the work of the several divisions of the railroad into an effective unit.

In several of the large systems of the country, the executive is an engineer--the superintendent of a line, or a division of the system, in charge of the entire line or division.

Illinois Central System contains more than 2,300,000 persons, not including rivals and bidders, all of which must be inspected daily and kept in perfect condition, and inquiring the constant attendance of highly specialized experts. For example, the lightenging system is cared for by a corps of trained engineers, the supervisory attachment is looked after by specialists, the boiler and the attachment of the engine, the supervisory attachment.

A modern refrigerator car has more than 1,500,000 parts. Perfect insulation must be maintained, and the car must be kept absolutely clean. The ice boxes and other parts require constant attention.

There are more than 150,000 men who are regularly and constantly inspected and kept in safe condition. Just asmen are as strong as the smallest link, the safety of a train is gauged by the weakest link in the train. If one car is out of order, then the train is out of order, and careful system must be used to prevent accidents.

The railways consume 20 percent of all the industrial coal produced in the United States, and the railroads consume 22 percent of all the coal produced in the United States. They are the largest users of lubricating oil and other lubricants.

GRACE HALSEY MILLS

Miss Grace Halsey Mills of New York, who will appear here as Hamlin in "The Fair Child" at the Shakespeare Theatre, has for many years been the exponent of the feminine image of Shakespeare and has been most enthusiastic among the many admirers of the great bard's works.

Grace Halsey Mills is to appear on June 18th, 18th, and 21st at the Shakespeare Theatre. She will play the role of Hamlin in "The Fair Child."

CHAUTAUQUA WEEK—Marion—June 18th to 23rd.

POPULAR SENSE

A popular sense is a vital ingredient in the design. It is not possible to construct a plant or a machine without some degree of it. The designer attempts to make this degree of it as large as possible for the machine or plant to be successful.

A serious effort of the designer has been made to get a single method which will produce high-quality machines and which will be strictly followed on all machines.

The Human Mind by Professor D. H. Hart, is an article on how to use the popular sense in developing and using the machine and plant.

VOICES OF THE SOCIETY

SENTENCE SERMONS

This appears all and we must take note of this. In this world we are not sure we know the people that go from us.

SIN-DOSOM

Love toys more amusing than pens.

An atheist is one whose theses he has given no assent.

It is usually the woman who is first discovered when a man isshipping.

KINCHHELLOCH HITS THE JOINT AGAIN

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Changing the Republican leaders in Congress has not produced a change in the attitude of the party toward social and political questions. The outlook for the election is the same as before.

The Republican party is behind the Democrats, and the Democrats are behind the Republicans. The present situation is that the Republicans have the majority in Congress, and the Democrats have the majority in the House.
