Farm Bureau Notes

County Agents meeting at Midway school Monday evening June 13. Something very interesting at every one of these meetings.

The New Salem Community Club will hold their next meeting Saturday evening June 11. The subjects under discussion will be of interest to everybody in the community. We have some plans that we want every wide awake farmer to hear. Do not miss this meeting.

An Excellent Milk Cow

Mr. E. B. Guess of Marion has a cow of which he is justly proud. During the month of May Mr. Guess kept a close record on her milk production to learn her real value. By keeping a record and weighing the milk is the only sure way to learn if your cows are paying you or if you are keeping boarders. He found she gave 1279.5 pounds of milk or 96.1 quarts during the month. Valuing this at 10c a quart gives us $9.61 she returned. Now let us take out the expenses for pasture and feed which amounted to $7.50 for the month. This netting the labor expended leaves $2.11. If one wishes to charge the labor we take 20 hours as the time required to care and milk during the month. At 25c per hour, $5.00 should be deducted leaving $47.01 as net profit for the month. How does your cow compare to this one?

Stomach Worms in Sheep

One of the most serious enemies of the sheep industry in Kentucky is the stomach worm. Either sheep or lambs may be infested at any time during the year. Lambs are affected first about the middle of the summer generally the first sign of trouble is the death of one or more lambs. Dullness, lack of thrift, scouring accompanied by a very pale blood loss, skin and mucous membranes of the eyes and mouth are first symptoms. Sometimes there is a watery swelling under the jaws. Early smut lambs fed and developed as much as possible before going to pasture. If the ewes are fed well and the lambs are given feed the lambs can be brought to marketable weight before the dangerous part of the summer.

Most cases of stomach worms, if not too far advanced, can be treated successfully by drenching with a watery solution of bluestone, as advocated by the U. S. Bureau of Animal Husbandry. Dissolve 1.4 lb. of the powdered (blue stone) in 1 pint of boiling water using porcelain or enamelware dish. Then add enough cold water to make the solution up to three gallons, using wooden, earthenware or other non-toxic receptacles. This will make approximately a one percent solution and will be enough to dose 100 adult sheep allowing 10 percent waste. In the preparation of the dose use only fine blue crystals of copper sulphate. Crush the crystals to a fine powder also ready to make up the solution.

The doses for lambs and sheep are: Lambs under one year 1-3.4 ounces of the solution. Sheep past one year 1-12 ounces of the solution. Caution Always grind the blue stone crystals into a powder before making the solution. Do not overdose. Be careful in drenching.

Best results are secured by keeping the sheep off feed over night before drenching allowing no water for at least two hours afterward. A convenient drenching apparatus is an ordinary Coca Cola bottle with the peeing made smaller by inserting half of a cork into it. This prevents the liquid flowing out so rapidly as to strangle the sheep. In drenching use care, don't raise the head higher than the eyes. If the head is held too high the fluid may flow into the lungs causing pneumonia and almost certain death. Rotate the bottle and give liquid slowly. For further information get in touch with the County Agent.

Wool! Wool! Don't let them go to seed on your farm. When your and his idle you grow a good crop of wools and make more work for the future. Mr. R. C. Miller, Sheep Extension Specialist, from the Experiment Station was in the county last week with reference to a more and better sheep campaign that will be held the first week in August. There will

PROGRESS MADE IN

DRILLING FOR OIL

After many delays due to breakdown in the machinery, the drilling for oil on the farm of Dr. O. C. Cook is progressing splendidly. A depth of about 360 feet has been reached and all indications for oil are flattering. Rock with the odor of carbide was drilled through recently. Other indications of gas have been found. A new boiler has been placed on the field some distance from the well and the steam to run the drill piped to the rig, so that if oil or gas is struck it will not catch fire. Other precautions have been taken and everything is ready to cap the well when oil is struck.

MEETING OF FREDONIA

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Fredonia Baptist Missionary Society on June 1 spent the day with Mrs. Alex Wilson to prepare clothing for the Kentucky Baptist Children's Home. About forty were present, including a number of children. It was a real picnic for the children, they played all day in the yard under the trees.

Many garments were planned and cut. Three machines were kept busy all day. The younger girls cut and pieced the scraps into quilt blocks. The bounteous picnic dinner was much enjoyed under the large trees. The only regret of the day was several of our members were kept away by sickness.

All present were thankful for a busy social day spent in the beautiful home of our hostess.

The owner had no insurance and had only paid for his home a short time before. Some household effects were saved.

It is being erected on the same lot that they occupied before on Salem Street. The building will be about fifteen feet longer than the building that was burned down a few months ago. DISASTROUS FLOOD

IN PUEBLO

Due to a cloudburst last Friday night, the Arkansas river overflowed its banks and Pueblo, Colorado was flooded. The number of drowned has not been determined yet. Gov. Oliver H. Shoup has asked the United States Government to place $20,000,000 at the command of the state for use in flood relief.

The damage done will probably reach $15,000,000.

Relief work is progressing under the direction of the Red Cross officials and Gov. Shoup. The greatest danger at the present time is said to be from pestilence. The officials have sent an urgent message to Colorado Springs that anti-typhoid and anti-diphtheria serum and lime and disinfectants be rushed to Pueblo. Relief trains are being rushed to the flooded area.

Altho the business men were hard hit by the flood, they are determined to rebuild the city. They say that they believe that Pueblo will rise from its desolation to a new city of greater beauty and importance.

J. K. Birchfield of this city took his tobacco to Providence one day last week and sold fugs for $9.75 and leaf for $29.00 on the loose leaf floor.

MARION'S COLORED PEOPLE

The colored people have had a poor chance for advancement, morally, socially and intellectually. Their enslavement was hurtful to both white and black. No man can wrong another without hurt to himself. My grandfather owned slaves but they were well treated. So much so that when they were freed they refused to leave him. Aunt Lid, the colored housekeeper would and did remain up to the time of my grand-mother's death, which occurred several years after the close of the Civil War. She was a dear old soul to us grandchildren. Many night after supper was over she would collect us together in the kitchen and sing to us. She had a melodious voice. The fact is the colored race can outdo the white in vocal music.

Occasionally Aunt Lid would get happy and shout. She would make the welkin ring. But we all believed in her religion. She would pat us on the head with one hand and with the other pointed upward would exhort us to be good and meet her in the skies.

At other times she would tell us ghost stories and she was an expert at the business. I could see their ghostly form and hear them perform their tricks and after grand-mother would put us to bed I could hear them slip around in their stocking feet! I am still a little shy after dark.

As a race the colored people have been the scape goat to extreme religionists, to designing politicians and money mongers.

The colored people of Marion have been fortunate in that they have inherited the influence of the life and character of Uncle Herrod Travis.

Herrod was the soul of honor. No more reliable or industrious citizen lived here. He accumulated some property. For many years he made and sold brick. The fact that such a dominating character as he, is the main reason that Marion has such a splendid set of colored people as but few towns have. W. F. H.

IN MEMORIAM

Anna Laura Orr was born February 12, 1904, died June 5, 1921.

She professed faith in Christ when about nine years old and has lived a true Christian life until God saw fit to call her to a better world above. Anna was a tender, kind-hearted and true girl, loved by everyone who knew her and seemed to be the very flower of the home but finally God called her to her heavenly home.

On Saturday night before she died on Sunday she prayed that God might save her dear brother before it was too late. Boys may this be a warning that you may be prepared to meet death when it comes upon you.

She leaves to mourn their loss a father, mother, eight brothers and one sister, two sisters-in-law two dear old grandmothers and one grandfather and a great host of relatives and friends.

She died in Walker's Hospital in Evansville. The funeral was conducted by Rev. W. T. Oakley at Sugar Grove in the presence of a great crowd of sympathizing people. Six girls acted as pall bearers. They were Stella Guess, Lena Guess, Reba Turley, Ora Turley, Zela Corley and Ila Stembbridge. The grave was covered with pretty flowers.

Thus ends the sweet life of Anna Laura Orr.

The shooting of Josh Faulkner Saturday by James Lee a member of the Haley Clan has caused an outbreak in the White-Bailley feud in Barbourville, Ky. The State Militia has been sent in to prevent any further outbreak in this feud of 25 years standing.

The Campbell building, Paducah, was destroyed by fire Tuesday night. Several people were trapped by the flames and severely injured but no one was fatally hurt.

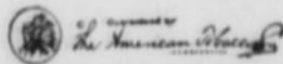

J. Sidney Hamilton, federal prohibition officer for western division of Kentucky has resigned. He was the only remaining dry officer in this district. Mr. Hamilton said he was sick and weary of trying to keep Louisville dry without anyone to assist him.

FRANCES BLUE CLARK
A Tribute by Chas Evans

Some one who knew said that the finest of all fine arts is the art of right living. If this be truth, then the soul that enanted this dust and pulsed a marvelous influence as Frances Blue Clark ranked with the geniuses of the world. For one who knew her and watched her perfect life must admit that Michael Angelo never builded a structure to lofty or sublime as she builded character; Raphael never drew a line as true and fine as the outlines of love and beautiful living lined by Frances in her daily duties and a Shakespeare never penned a poem as full of lofty glory as was sung by this good life on her rounds of daily service.

Death is an abused word. To those who cannot read the laws of God it means an end, sorrow, despair. But the world spins down the groove of change and the reading mind has come to know that the word means continuity, growth, peace, freedom, joy, victory. "O Death where is thy sting? O Grave where is thy victory?" To one who knew Frances, it is clear that transition, death and heaven are no new things, no shock, no revelation to her. She is one of the few souls that I have known that open eyes in a sphere of eternal and genuine goodness, kindness, love and purity and find nothing extraordinary.

Where in the Kingdom of God can you fashion a place with a purer sympathy than Frances Clark gave us who knew her in Marion, in Milburn or Tishomingo? What heaven can improve on the unfailing love, constancy and sacrifice she gave her home, her church, her city, her state and country? Here was one of those rare natures that lived its divinity every minute. Frances never had to talk of or analyze God. She lived in the gracious heart of God so firmly that those who met her received her as a very part and proof of Divinity itself.

This is no overwrought tribute which peculiar duty wrings from us. This day in the place of her birth among the Kentucky hills where she grew to womanhood they are saying, "She was one of the most remarkable souls this country ever knew." Marion, Kentucky has produced two United States Senators, a governor, many eminent jurists and other potent men and women, but all agree who knew Frances that it never gave birth to a really greater soul than hers.

So it was in Milburn and so it was here. Have I not heard old and young poor and rich, the obscure and noted proclaim on your streets, in your churches, about your schools and in your homes that there is "no one like Frances Clark." No one who radiated always life, abundant life; smiles contagious smiles; love, unfailing love. What woman in Oklahoma has lived in just two places and not a trace of self seeking in her life has been honored with an official direction of the schools of both places? What life have you and I ever known that touched its environment in the three localities in which it lived at so many points, and made every point, schools, church government and society glow with beauty and character as this rare woman?

But speech is vain. The duty imposed upon those who knew Frances is to open wide as possible the doors of our better natures and let the sweet perfume of her influence enter and abide. For me, it is blissful thought that since in radiant girlhood, just a bursting bud of beauty and purity she came across my vision there in the old Marion home, she has ever been a well-spring of joy. Praise be to God, too, Frances knew she was a blessing to my life. Expression is the action of the soul nearest akin to God and I often lifted myself to strength by telling Frances what her life meant to me.

There on a bed of pain not many days since, I sent her my best bit of tribute as I wrote to my wife to read to her: "Frances, I want you to know that I read my best proof of a loving All-Father in such a life as yours. Heaven is made plain and certain to me because I have looked upon your life."

So let us put away this black, this mourning, this false sorrow and say as friends, "here was a rare and wonderful influence lent us by God for noblest purposes"; say as husband, sons, sisters, brother loved ones all of the home circle: "Frances bravely battled with the world for many years and was bounded round by many cares and trials that we may never know, yet with soul serene, undaunted and triumphant, she gained a haven of sweet rest. Then brushing away the cares and trials of this life we know that a home in heaven will be all the brighter now; for in that vast and shining multitude one face will glow and beckon as a beaming star of God; for there with longing, outstretched arms will Frances stand to welcome home her loved ones."

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, on May 28, 1921, the Messenger of Death visited the home of Mrs. F. F. Charles and removed her from her earthly labor to the city not made with hands;

Resolved: first, that we bow in humble submission to the divine will of Him who doeth all things well, and allowed us the privilege of associating with such a life as hers, high, noble christian who was ever serving her church, friends, home and community in her quiet unassuming way.

Second; that the School Improvement Club has lost an able member, the town an excellent citizen, the family a devoted wife, daughter and sister whose place cannot be filled.

Third, that we extend to the bereaved family our heart felt sympathy in their hour of trial. May they realize that their loss is her gain and ever strive to reunite the circle in the home above.

Fourth; that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, one spread on the minutes of the Club and one published in the Crittenden Press.

Sparkling Comedy, "The Man from Home" at Chautauqua

"The Man from Home," refreshing American comedy, will be presented at the coming Redpath Chautauqua by an exceptionally competent New York cast. The plot centers around the adventures of Daniel Voorhees Pike, an eccentric young lawyer of Kokomo, Ind. Pike is a two-fisted, fearless fighter in the face of well-nigh insurmountable difficulties; he is amusing and sometimes stubborn, but he is always delightfully American. His efforts to save his ward a romantic, title-hunting girl, from a conspiring family of the "fine flower" of Europe furnish material for most thrilling situations. There will be laughter, thrills and clean amusement to delight every member of the community.

Popular Comedy Drama, "The Man from Home," Sixth Night at Chautauqua

"The Man from Home," sparkling comedy drama, will be given on the sixth night of the coming Redpath Chautauqua. The record-breaking success of the play throughout the country has been largely due to its wholesome Americanism, its seasoning of delightful shrewdness, and its humorously complicated plot. The play is rich with amusing and sometimes almost tragic situations, resulting from the clash between midwestern American ideals and Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson.

PLAN TO ERADICATE CHOLERA

Swine Breeders of Indiana County Working to Stamp Out All Traces of Disease.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A county free from hog cholera this year is the goal to which swine breeders in Steuben county, Ind., are working under the guidance of the local county agent and the district veterinarian of the United States Department of Agriculture. As a result of a persistent campaign for the control of cholera and strict organized effort to eradicate it, there has been a remarkable decrease in the disease in the county during the last two years. In 1917 the loss from cholera in the county, according to the county agent, was about $10,000. In 1918 it was a little less than $5,000, and in 1919 it was about the same. In 1920, however, only three cases occurred in the county, which leads the swine breeders to believe that if their efforts to control the disease are continued cholera can be practically eradicated.

CLUB MEMBERS SECURE PIGS

Registered Animals Given to Boys and Girls in Mississippi—Scholarship at End.

A public-spirited man in Fayette county, Mississippi, gave six registered pigs to the boys' and girls' pig-club work last year, with the understanding that each one who received a pig was to give back to the club one pig from the first litter and one from the second. The donated animals were drawn for by members from each beat and one from the county at large. The recipients were very proud of their pigs. The six from the first litters were distributed in December. If the plan is continued for five years it is estimated that 204 registered pigs will be given away at the close of that time, and it is hoped that purebred hogs will be found on every farm in the county. If these plans mature as is hoped, the 204 which will be available for gifts at the end of the five years will be put up at auction and the proceeds used for a scholarship to the State Agricultural and Mechanical college, which will be awarded yearly to the winner of the county pig-club championship.

ALFALFA AS HORSE ROUGHAGE

Plant is High in Protein and Minerals and is Especially Good for Young Stock.

Alfalfa receives great favor as a horse roughage. It is high in minerals and protein and is especially good for young stock. Because it is laxative in effect and high in protein, it is always best to limit the amount of alfalfa to one-half or two-thirds of the total hay ration. The rest may be timothy hay. Use alfalfa with a ration that is low in protein. Corn as a grain and alfalfa as a roughage make a balanced ration.

BEST LIVE STOCK CHEAPEST

Opinion of Virginia Farmer Who Thinks Breeders Are Aiming to Procure Purebreds.

"From 30 years' experience in breeding thoroughbred horses and later dairy cattle, I have found that the best is the cheapest." This is the opinion of a Virginia farmer in a statement to the United States Department of Agriculture. "I think all raisers of live stock in Virginia are aiming to procure purebred stock."

Good Mixture for Hogs.

It is good policy, where possible, to keep charcoal, wood ashes, slaked lime and salt in a sheltered trough where hogs can have access to same at will.

Silage for Horses.

Silage should not be considered as a mainstay for horses, as its use is preferable only in limited amounts as a small supplement to the regular ration.

Important in Sow's Ration.

High content of protein and mineral matter is required in the sow's ration, because her milk is high in these materials which form the bone and muscle of the young pigs.

HAS APPEARANCE OF CARPET

Western Man's Idea in the Use of Cement Could Be Carried Out in Many Ways.

An air of perpetual festivity, like that of a reception or wedding, is worn by one residence in a western city as a result of the ingenuity used in laying the cement floor of the front porch and the cement walk from porch to street. In the middle of the walk, first there was laid cement in which green coloring ingredient had been mixed. This strip, about 18 in. wide, was continued up the front steps. On the porch it was broadened out into a rectangle which includes all of the floor save for a white border. The general effect achieved is that of a bright, green carpet and long runner.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

HAPPINESS IN OWNING HOME

Ideal Citizen is the Man Who Lives Upon and Cares for His Own Small Property.

A correspondent writes: "We need not look far back into history to prove, nor far around us in the world to see, that the deepest contentment and the highest prosperity are ever found where there are the most proprietors of small holdings of land, each owner living upon and caring for his own property. The most stable and ideal governments in the world are those whose citizens in the largest number own and occupy their homes."

The first step in the prevention of anarchy is to secure a home-owning and home-loving people, and the longest step toward peace and prosperity in a nation is the possession of its own home by each family in the state. The fundamental reason for this is in our nature—our intuition demands it—we know, because we are created to know, that the family home is the nearest approach to heaven that this earth affords, and is the source of the deepest contentment the human heart can attain."

Study of Park Shrubs Helpful.

It is a good plan to have some of the large shrubs in the corner of the lawn, and smaller ones in between should be in an irregular line, with a tall specimen here and there near the front, so the top line will not be too straight. By visiting parks a study can be made of the growing habits of the various shrubs. This will be found helpful in deciding what plants will be best suited for certain locations. You will avoid such mistakes as planting shrubs too close together and planting the wide spreading varieties too near the walk. Close planting may be practiced, but it is usually necessary to take up every other one within a few years. If plants are set near the walk it is often necessary to keep trimming them back every year.

Get Busy With Paint

"Sadly in need of paint" is the verdict that anyone must pass upon the houses that in an automobile trip he will see along town and country roads while the trees are still bare. The "paint-up and clean-up" weeks that we had before the war we dropped for more urgent business and because of the high price of paint and labor. Now, when prices are a little easier, we should make up for the years of neglect. A house that is bare of pigment and dry of oil is all the time going backwards a little by reason of the assaults of the weather; and the still high cost of building a new house makes it well worth while to preserve an old one.—Youth's Companion.

Youth and the Motor.

"Are you seeing to it that your son's education includes courses of instruction that will help him in the busy affairs of life?" "Yes, sir," replied Farmer Cornus. "I told Josh that no matter how fascinatin' his Greek and Latin might be, he must not let 'em interfere with his studyin' the traffic regulations."
