Farm Bureau Notes

JUDGE GREEN HONORED

Junior Week at Lexington June 25-30 is a week that Junior Agricultural Club members all over the state will long remember. A limited number from each county are invited to participate in better methods of farming and entertainment for their development.

George Franklin Walker was the boy that received the free trip to Crittenden county. This trip was given thru the generosity of the Oliver C. Plow Company. Walker was accompanied by State Speaker Miss Myrtle Baker. Miss Myrtle has taken charge of the boys and we see that their trip is a safe one. Wait for the boys account of the trip in next week's paper.

Cover Crops

About twenty percent of the tillable land in Kentucky or an average of 100 acres in the county have been seriously washed and gullied so that their usefulness in producing crops has been greatly reduced according to specialists on soil.

While the expense of repairing washed land is great, much can be done by the use of cover crops.

It is an honor to be a life member of this association as there are only seven in Kentucky and the Association does not court or solicit subscriptions, donations or members.

Louisville Saturday and reported his crop in good shape.

ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY

In this issue of the Press you will see the announcement of Mr. Ferguson of Smithland, as a candidate before the Republican Primary for re-election to the office of Commonwealth Attorney for this Judicial District. Mr. Ferguson is serving his first term in this office. He has made a faithful, diligent attorney, looking after the interests of the Commonwealth. He has made many friends who will gladly support him again. He is a lawyer of no mean ability.

BARBECUE

On Friday of last week the Men's Class of the First Baptist Church gave a sumptuous barbecue at the Orme's Park. The Park had been decorated splendidly for the occasion.

About 129 men met, all good humored and in good trim for the occasion. Mr. Runyan had been selected to superintend the occasion and he proved to be an adept at such affairs. Judge Carl Henderson is the teacher of the class.

After the bounteous dinner, consisting of barbecued lamb and shoat, soft drinks were served then followed some excellent music by the orchestra, quartets and solos. Rev.

Dillon and W. P. Meroney and others then made short addresses. The congregation sang "God be With You

Till We Meet Again". Rev. W. P. Meroney concluded with a prayer and benediction. This closed a most delightful and enjoyable afternoon.

A number of visitors were present to enjoy the occasion with Class No. 12. The Men's Classes of the various churches are planning to give a big Brotherhood barbecue next year.

THE CHAUTAUQUA

The Redpath Chautauqua has been here since last Saturday, giving entertainments afternoon and night and the regular Children's Hour in the forenoon.

The entertainments have all been first class and have been enjoyed by large crowds.

The Chapel Singers, who appeared on the second day, were especially well received. They rendered a program of both sacred and operatic selections, with solos, quartets and pianos. Montaville Flowers, the well known publicist delivered his great address "America Looking Ahead", on the first night of the Chautauqua. In his address he presented the principles upon which the future life and happiness of the nation depends. Katherine Ridgeway was one of the greatest features of the program to date. Her art was enthusiastically received by a large and appreciative audience.

To mention all the good points of the program this year would be nearly impossible. It is only necessary to say that the program measures up to the high standard of the Redpath Chautauqua. The whole affair has been of the best, nothing shoddy or cheap. It is to be hoped that Marion has another next year.

ANNOUNCEMENT

To the Voters of the Fourth Judicial District:

I hereby announce myself a candidate for re-election to the office of Commonwealth's Attorney and ask for your support and endorsement.

I am deeply grateful for the honor bestowed upon me by election to this important office and I have served you to the best of my ability and if re-elected I pledge to you faithful service.

I believe in a fair, honest and impartial administration of official duties and my record as such officer has been made. I believe I have a just and reasonable claim for endorsement by re-election and believe that the good people of this District appreciate the splendid economic and prompt management of our Circuit Court during the present administration.

I thank my friends who have urged me to seek this office again for their interest in my behalf.

COVERING OVER KITCHEN FLOOR WILL REDUCE SCRUBBING WORK

Unfinished Floors Require Much Work to Keep in Good Condition.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

What is the best material for the kitchen floor, the most practical finish, and the most satisfactory covering are questions much discussed. All housewives agree, however, that the unfinished wooden floor is hard to clean, and polishing, oiling or covering it with some washable material saves much labor, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. An unfinished wood floor requires frequent scrubbings, which no matter how thorough, cannot remove spots and stains from some kinds of wood and cause the surface of others to silver and become rough.

Maple Widely Used.

Maple is one of the woods most used for kitchen floors. It is smooth and very durable, and when oiled is proof against grease and water stain. Longleaf Georgia pine and Douglas fir or red spruce are other desirable kinds, and may be painted or oiled. Any kind of wooden flooring should be well seasoned before it is laid to lessen the shrinking and swelling due to changes in temperature and atmospheric conditions. Any cracks in the floor should be filled with putty, or better, with one of the special preparations for the purpose.

There are a variety of concrete and so-called "composition" floor materials now on the market which are advertised for kitchens. They are often easy to clean and do not absorb grease and water when new. Some of them, however, tend to crack and chip with wear, and then are difficult to keep in order. Some are also rather hard and fatiguing to stand on, though this drawback can be overcome somewhat by using mats of rubber, cork or some re-

HANDY CURTAIN STRETCHERS

Devices Soon Pay for Themselves in Saving Worker's Time and Wear and Tear on Curtains.

Curtain stretchers do not cost much and soon pay for themselves in saving the worker's time and wear and tear on the curtains. Also, most kinds of curtains hang better if stretched into shape rather than ironed. In buying curtain stretchers it is worth while to pay a little more for a good, rigid kind that can also be used for drying blankets. Blankets dried on a stretcher keep their shape.

The pins in a curtain stretcher may be movable so as to fit all the scallops of a curtain, but stationary pins are more satisfactory and substantial. Instead of having pins on the stretcher, many housewives wrap up the frame with heavy ticking or tape and pin the curtains or blankets to their pieces. Some frames are tied together at the corners with strips of tape or muslin, but clamps cost very little and are much more convenient.

All Around the House

Pulled bread should snap when broken.

To make a new broom last, soak in salt water before using.

Broiling and roasting are the preferred methods for cooking tender meats.

A teaspoonful of turpentine added to each boile of clothes will make them white.

A few drops of ammonia in warm water rubbed on with a cloth will restore color in a carpet.

Polished floors should be rubbed with a mixture of one-third linseed oil and two-thirds paraffin.

Mother's discarded dresses make lovely plaited skirts for the little girl, to be worn with middies.

Pour hot tomato sauce over fried mush, sprinkle with cheese and put into a hot oven for 10 minutes.

To clean a bathtub thoroughly, dip a piece of flannel in turpentine and go over the enamel. This will remove all stains.

Paint stains, no matter how hard and dry, can be easily removed by using equal parts of turpentine and ammonia.

KEEP SILVER IN BEST CONDITION

If Cleaned Regularly Little Time or Effort to Keep It Bright and Lustrous.

SULPHIDE CAUSES TARNISH

Glittering Surface May Be Obtained by Use of Friction Cleaners, by Electrolysis or by Boiling in Strong Solution.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

"All the table service was of silver and gold." Winifred was reading aloud from the society columns an account of a dinner, and as she read the last item her voice was full of awe. "Think of it, Nan; plates and everything, solid silver."

"I am thinking of it," said Nan, the practical one; "and I'm thinking also that I'm glad I haven't on my hands the cleaning of all those solid silver plates and everything." The flat silver that was given Jack and me when we were married is more than a plenty for me when cleaning day comes around. I like housework, but I do detest cleaning silver."

Many women feel as Nan did; but if silver is cleaned regularly, little time or effort is required to keep it bright and lustrous. The office of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture gives the following directions on the care of silver:

Causes of Tarnish.

The tarnish on silver is silver sulphide, and is due to the sulphur compounds in the air where coal and gas are burned, and also in many foods, in wool, in rubber, and in some bleached and dyed materials.

This is the reason silversmiths rarely, if ever, use white cotton flannel for their cases of silver. Dryness prevents tarnish somewhat; so camphor, which absorbs moisture, is sometimes put into the silver drawer. Silver may be cleaned by the use of certain powders, pastes, and cloths, which clean by friction, by boiling it in a strong alkaline solution, or by a process known as electrolysis.

The materials which clean by friction are whiting, jewelers' rouge, and commercial pastes or powders. The noncommercial powders are mixed to a paste with water, ammonia, or alcohol, rubbed on the silver, allowed to dry, and then polished off with a soft cloth, chamois, or a brush.

The result is bright, lustrous silver. Prepared cloths, sold under various trade names, also clean by friction. They are usually cotton flannel treated with a cleaning mixture, and are convenient but sometimes relatively expensive.

The alkaline solution for cleaning silver is made by dissolving four teaspoons borax, three teaspoons washing soda, or two teaspoons lye (caustic soda) in one quart water. The silver is placed in an old kettle or pan, covered with this solution, boiled for 10 minutes, and cooled in the water.

The Electrolytic Method.

One method of removing the tarnish from silver by electrolysis is the following:

Fill an enameled or agateware kettle partly full of water in which has been dissolved one teaspoon of either washing soda or baking soda and one teaspoon salt to each quart of water.

Heat this solution to the boiling point, put in strips of aluminum or bright zinc, add the tarnished silver, and boil it. The silver must be covered completely by the water, and each piece must be in contact with the aluminum or the zinc, either directly or through other silver.

When the tarnish has disappeared the silver should be removed from the kettle, washed, and dried with a clean, soft cloth. An aluminum kettle may be used, but it soon corrodes and must be cleaned, as only a clean, bright kettle serves the purpose. The zinc also grows dull and then is less active. It may be cleaned, however, in water containing a little hydrochloric (muriatic) acid, which is very poisonous and must be handled with extreme care.

Silver cleaned either in an alkaline solution or by electrolysis lacks luster, which cleaning by friction gives. It may be made bright, however, by a little rubbing with a soft cloth or chamois.

Cook the onion in the butter and a little water until it is tender. Mix the other ingredients and moisten with water, using the water in which the onion has been cooked. Pour into a shallow baking dish and brown in the oven.

Skinflint's Method.

A miserly old gentleman was accosted by a street beggar.

"A bit of charity," whined the beggar.

"I am not in the habit of giving money in the street," was the reply. "I don't want to make a display of my wealth—but here is my address," and he handed over a visiting card of one of his friends—Barcelona Llequilla.

New Type of Electric Station

Every Farmer Should Plan to Prevent

Sore Necks and Shoulders of Work Horses.

Now that the busy season is here, every farmer should make a careful examination of the supply of horse collars on hand and see to it that he has a good fitting collar for every horse he purposes to put to work. Sore shoulders and sore necks on farm horses are generally caused either by collars that do not fit or by names that are not properly adjusted.

CAREFULLY SAVE DROPPINGS

Either Use for Fertilizer or Dispose of to Persons Who Can Make Good Use of Them.

No matter how small the flock the droppings should be carefully saved, stored, and either used as fertilizer for plants or disposed of to persons who can use them to increase the fertility of the soil.

Sixteen electric stations of this new type, with voltages of 33,000 are being constructed in southern New Jersey, the power being supplied from Wilmington.

FAIR WARNING.

"You have appendicitis, sir," said the eminent specialist.
"But, doctor," protested the patient,
"I'm a poor man."
"Rich or poor, your appendix must come out."
"All right, doctor. Go ahead and operate, but when you get an appendix out if it looks to you like a new motorcar, I'll tell you in advance that you will be the victim of an optical illusion."—Minneapolis Tribune.

Individualism.
"I understand you called on the citizens of Crimson Gulch to disarm."
"Yes," replied Cactus Joe. "The idea met with great applause."
"Has anybody disarmed?"
"Not yet. While us populace agreed collectively that it was a great scheme, individually everyone of the boys said he'd like to see anybody who was man enough to take his gun away from him."

Common Incident.
"That dinner over there must be hard to please."
"Why say?"
"He's called the head waiter half a dozen times and remonstrated with him."

"Oh, he's merely trying to convince the head waiter that he's a safe person to be served a drink."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Lavish Spender.
"Do you bear from your son at college?"

"Early and often," said Mr. Grabbin grimly.
"How is he progressing?"
"Well, if he were not under age I'd say he was traveling rapidly toward bankruptcy."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

All Very Modern.
"You certainly have a modern flat."
"Yes—disappearing beds, hidden telephone, camouflaged gas range, a folding up typewriter desk for my study, nothing conspicuous."

"Ah, I see."

"And when a collector calls we even disappear ourselves."

Proprieties.
"Hiram," said Mrs. Cortosse, "I want you to promise me one thing."

"What's that?"
"When you go to the big town, pass all your spare time in the saloons. I don't want you in the street starin' at them fashionably-dressed ladies."

The Gum-Chewing Steno.
"What's the matter—didn't the new stenographer stick?"

"No—but her gum did. It's still parked here and there all over the office, as the boss seems to have discovered, because of which she was canned."

Against the Rules.

"The movie play had a new plot."
"Ah, g'man."

"Why, there are new plots."
"That may be; but they don't use 'em in the movies."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

No Wonder.
Friend—Why don't you paint your father in a striking attitude?
Artist—No, it wouldn't do—it would recall painful sessions in the woodshed.

Away With Him.
I do not care for Ezra Swatt.
He is all bluff and blow.

SCHOOL DAYS

BY DOUGLAS MALLOCH

BROTHERS AND SONS.

On a dirty floor at a slimy bar in the anteroom of hell I have seen them stand with a devil's leer, I have heard the tales they tell—

I have heard them brag of the brutal things, I have heard them boast of shame,

Till I longed again for the Jewish God, for the God who smote with flame.

And I wondered much if there lingered still not a dream of boyhood land, Not a tender thought of a mother's kiss or a touch of sister's hand.

For we wander far, and the years go by, and the boyhood vision fades. Yet we are the sons of the mothers of men and brother to all the maids. And it is not there in the wild alone that the souls of men forget;

In the house of pride, on the polished stair, where the glided ones are met,

I have heard the tale that is often told on the dirty bar-room floor. While the idle smiled, and the loungers laughed, and the bestial asked for more.

For the thing we are is the thing we are, not the thing in garments new;

And the coat that fits is the tailor's coat, but the man inside is you. It is such as I. It is such as you, that have made the jests and jades. Yet we are the sons of the mothers of men and brother to all the maids.

Yea, the sons we are of a motherhood, of a mother-love, divine, And I can not slander this mother yours—if I do I slander mine;

Yea, the brothers are of a sisterhood of the sisters loved or lone, And you can not slander the least and say that the world shall spare your own.

For a woman's name and a woman's fame they are sweet, and frail, as flowers;

But the strength to shield and the arm to wield for the woman's name are ours.

Let the God-made man keep his God-made trust till his life's last twilight fades—

For we are the sons of the mothers of men and brother to all the maids.

Help Yourself.

The Australian sense of humor is well developed in private life, but in official circles it is often shut out by red tape barriers. For instance, it was most unfortunate that the federal government, which has caused a storm by raising legislators' salary without reference to taxpayers, should have endorsed the following huge poster on behalf of the second peace loan: "Help the Digger—Help Your Country—Help Yourself." When the humor of this announcement was recognized by press and public, it lost its popularity with the government, which had no wish to be reminded that it had already set a good example in the art of helping oneself.

IMMUNE.

Plant Vines on Indoor Lattice.

In altering old homes rather than in the construction of new ones, lattices and grills seem to appeal to the interior decorators' scheme of things.

The same manner of treatment is given a too expansive bay window, where, instead of curtains, decorative jars holding climbing vines are placed at the sides. The vines will soon make the lattice a thing of beauty.

The use of the growing vines on the lattice indoors is growing in favor, the plainness of the walls of the fast room is relieved by the green of the climbing vines.

IMPROVE LOOK OF MAILBOX

One of the Best of Schemes is to Give it the Appearance of a Birdhouse.

The usual R. F. D. mailbox is a simple affair of tin and wood—neat but ugly. It stands in front of the house and spoils the looks of the place.

What's the remedy for this? Build more stately boxes.

Here you see a mailbox that is made like a birdhouse. It is divided into two floors—the lower one for papers, magazines, and packages, the upper one for letters. Each door has its own separate door, which the mailman opens when he arrives. The upper door is lined with tin to protect the letters from a possibly leaky roof. If you decide to try out this birdhouse-mailbox, don't be surprised if you find the makings of a bird's nest in the midst of your mail some fine morning.—Popular Science Monthly.

COMMUNITY HAS NEW IDEA

Blanket Insurance Practically Covering Whole Town is Said to Have Had Excellent Results.

All the workers employed by the various industries located at Kingsport, Tenn., have been insured against death, sickness and accident under a single group policy the New York Times records.

In all about two thousand persons employed by ten large concerns are thus protected and as the population of the town of Kingsport is estimated at about 10,000, almost every family in the community will receive a financial benefit in case of accident, sickness or death overtaking one of its bread winning members.

The policy has been in effect for some months. According to officials of the insurance company this is the first instance known where a whole community has adopted a standardized plan of insurance. The experiment is attracting the attention of many other municipalities, especially public officials who are interested in community service.

A prominent community worker has said that the prospective financial benefit to be derived by individuals under the policy was of far less importance than the general good which has resulted from the quickening of the conscience of the whole Kingsport community.

Garden Cities for London.

London is trying to work out its housing crisis by building little garden cities about twenty miles outside its limits. These experiments in wholesale home construction are being carried on by the enterprise of private capital backed up with the generous government subdivision that is being given to all home construction projects.

The profits of the promoting company will be limited to seven per cent of the investment, the proceeds over and above this amount going back into town improvements.

The ideal house, so much talked of in England, that resulted from the Daily Mail competition will be given a practical try-out in this new city. The name of the place when completed will be Welwyn Garden City.—New York Post.

Date Jelly.

Take envelope of gelatin, cupful of cold water, mix and soak for a few minutes, then add two cupfuls of boiling water, three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, a scant teaspoonful of vanilla. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake in a pan of water for forty-five minutes.

Beat the whites of the eggs until stiff, add two tablespoonsfuls of powdered sugar and the juice of half a lemon; beat again, spread over the pudding and brown in a moderate oven.

Serve hot or cold.

Butterscotch Pudding.

Melt one cupful of brown sugar and pour it over two tablespoonsfuls of bread crumbs. Remove rind. Beat to a cream the yolks of two eggs with one-quarter of a cupful of sugar and three tablespoonfuls of butter; to this add a quarter of a cupful each of chestnut puree and apple puree. Mix well, add the strained juice of half a lemon and pour into a well buttered pudding dish,

the edges of which have been lined with rounds of paste. Bake until firm in a moderate oven. Allow to cool, then cover with a meringue using the whites of two eggs, and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Dredge with sugar, decorate with candied cherries and return to the oven to brown.
