FORAGE SEEDS

Forage seeds will keep their plant beds clean and free from weeds. This is the best time of season to make your beds. No seed will sprout without blooms which can be bought from local seed grower. The smallest and cheapest type is the one that will be the best. The following varieties are recommended:

Sorghum and Broadsword:

Sorghum is the most profitable forage seed. It may be used for all purposes. It grows quickly and is very adaptable to all soils. The variety recommended is the "Sorghum Mix." It is a mixture of different sorghums and will give a variety of colors and textures. It is also very resistant to drought and insects.

Bermudagrass:

Bermudagrass is a good choice for a lawn or pasture. It is easy to grow and will do well in a variety of soils. The variety recommended is the "Bermudagrass Mix." It is a mixture of different bermudagrasses and will give a variety of colors and textures. It is also very resistant to drought and insects.

Sulphur Grass:

Sulphur Grass is a good choice for a lawn or pasture. It is easy to grow and will do well in a variety of soils. The variety recommended is the "Sulphur Mix." It is a mixture of different sulphur grasses and will give a variety of colors and textures. It is also very resistant to drought and insects.

Rye Grass:

Rye Grass is a good choice for a lawn or pasture. It is easy to grow and will do well in a variety of soils. The variety recommended is the "Rye Mix." It is a mixture of different ryes and will give a variety of colors and textures. It is also very resistant to drought and insects.

Crimson Clover:

Crimson Clover is a good choice for a lawn or pasture. It is easy to grow and will do well in a variety of soils. The variety recommended is the "Crimson Mix."
