Synopsis—Doctor Strickland, re-tired, is living in Mill Valley, near San Francisco. His family consists of his daughters, Alix, 21, and Cherry, 18, and Anne, his niece, 24. Their closest friend is Feter Joyce, a lovable sort of recluse. Martin Lloyd, a visiting mining engineer, wins Cherry, marries her and car-ries her off to El Nido, a mine town. Peter realizes that he loves Cherry, Justin Little woos Anne. Justin Little woos Antie.

"Well, we won't go into that!" her father interrupted her, hastily, for Alix had aired these views before and he was not in sympathy with them. "And I guess you're right: the child is a woman now, with a woman's responsibilities," he added. "And her place is with her husband. They'll have to solve life together, to learn to tirely unembarrassed grin. gether. I'll speak to Cherry!"

Alix, watching him walk away, thought that she had never seen Dad look old before She saw the shadow on his kind face all the rest of that

It was only the next morning when he opened the question with Cherry. It was a brilliant morning, with spring already in the air. Cherry, on the porch steps, was reading a letter from Martin. Her father sat down beside her. She had on one of her old gowns and, bathed in soft sunlight, looked eighteen again. The air was sweet and pungent and damp and fresh, the sky high and blue, and across the granite face of Tamalpais

a last scarf of mist was floating. "Well, what has Martin to say?"

asked the doctor. "Oh, he doesn't like it much!" Cherry said, making a little face. "He describes the village as perfectly hopeless. He's moved into the little house in E street, and gotten two stoves Alix! She had never even suspected

Her father was conscious of a pang: Peter's dinner; but this afternoon. he had not even formed the thought without mentioning the fact, she in his own mind that Cherry was unhappy. The child, he told himself, had dresses; a dress that had been made a good husband, a home and health, in the long-ago excitement of trousand undeveloped resources within herself. It was puzzling and painful to him to realize that there was needed something more-and that that something was lacking. He felt a sudden anger at Martin; why wasn't Martin managing this affair?

"Mart doesn't mention any time!" he mused.

"Thanks to you!" Cherry said, dimpling mischlevously. "He wrote quite firmly, just before Christmas." she added, "but I told him that Dad had been such an angel and liked so much to have me here-" And Cherry's smile was full of childish triumph. "My dear," her father said, spurred to sudden courage by a realization that the matter might easily become serious, "you mustn't abuse his gen-Suppose you write that erosity. you'll join him-this is March-suppose you say the first of April?"

Cherry flushed and looked down. Her lips trembled. There was a moment of unhappy silence.

"Very well, Dad," she said in a low voice. A second later she had jumped to her feet and vanished in the house. Her father roumed the woods in wretched misgivings, coming in at lunch time to find her in her place. smiling, but traces of tears about her lovely eyes.

Nothing more was said for a day or two, and then Cherry read aloud to about on the rail to face the porch the family an affectionate letter in which Martin said that everything was hospitably pushing basket chairs would be ready for her whenever she came now.

CHAPTER VII.

The last day of March and of Cherry's visit broke clear and blue, and with it spring seemed to have come on a rush of perfume and green beauty. Days had been soft and warm before; this day was hot, and flushed with color and splendor.

The doctor joined them in the midst of their tossing and spreading, and sat smoking peacefully on the porch steps.

"Dad and Peter," she went on, suddealy sitting erect, "will get all this he asked, presently, smoking with his crinolines to come floating from the nice clean hair full of cigar smoke eyes fixed upon the valley far below, dead past over my child's innocent 100,000 tons of peat, sufficient to suptoalght, so what's the use, anyway?" "Perhaps Alix will come up here and help keep it so some day," the man sald, deliberately. Cherry's look of elaborate surprise and pleasure died before his serious glance. She was silent for a moment.

Allx laughed awkwardly, and Peter shut his teeth. Anne, who had very properly come over to say good-by to her cousin, got in the back seat of the car and Alix took the seat beside

Cherry saw in Peter's expression omething that she did not forget for many, many months-never quite for got. He did not answer, and they spun along in utter silence. But when they were nearing Sausalito, Cherry said almost timidly

"I think perhaps it would make her happy-and proud, to know that you admired her, Peter. I don't know who she is, of course, but almost any woman would feel that. I shall often think of that talk we had a week ago, and-think of you, too. N-n-next time you fall in love I hope you will be luckler!"

"Last stop-all out!" Alix ex-"You get tickets, Peter. claimed. Hurray, there's Martin!"

Unexpectedly Martin's big figure came toward them from the ferry gate. Some ore from the mine had to be assayed in San Francisco, and se had volunteered to make the trip so that he might meet his wife and bring her back with him to Red Creek, Time hanging on his hands in the city, he had crossed the bay for the pleasure of the return trip with Cherry. He met them beamingly. There was a little confusion of greeting and good-bys. Alix and Peter watched the others at the railing until the ferryboat turned. Martin smiled over Anne's head; Cherry, both little white-gloved hands on the rail, blue eyes and a glint of bright hair showing under the daisies on her hat, her small figure enveloped in a big loose cont, looked as if she would like to cry again.

"You'd go back to your father, I suppose," Martin said, yawning.

AX IS BEST FOR EGG EATERS

Habit Spreads From One Fow! to Another and Unless Checked Affects Whole Flock.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Egg eating sometimes becomes a serious vice in a flock, the fowls becoming very fond of eggs when they have learned to eat them. The habit apreads from fowl to fowl and unless checked will often spread through the whole flock, Egg eating usually begins through accident by eggs being broken or frozen. See that the nests are properly supplied with straw or other nest ing material and have them darkened so that if an egg is accidentally broken the fowls will not be likely to discover it. Supply pienty of lime in the form of oyster shells, bone or similar substances to insure a firm shell. As soon as it is discovered that a fowl has formed the habit, the fowl should be removed to prevent the spre the vice. Once formed, it is difficult to eradicate, and the safest remedy is the death penalty, say poultry special ists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Fowls sometimes pluck feathers from themselves and from each other. This is often caused by too close confinement, by the presence of insect pests, or by improper feeding. When some of the fowls of a flock have formed the habit slightly, a wide range with a change of diet, including a plentiful supply of animal feed, and freedom from insect pests, will usually correct the evil. Above all, see that the fowls have plenty of inducement to exercise. If the habit becomes well formed it is very troublesome and may necessitate the killing of some of the fowls in order to stop it.

YEARLY EGG LAYING PERIOD

Increase Made at Massachusetts Experiment Station by Selection of Pullets.

Dr. H. D. Goodale, research biologist in poultry at the Massachusetts Experimental station, stated that the yearly egg-laying period of a flock of hens at that place had been increased by an average of 58 days by eggselection from early-laying pullets. This, he said, had resulted in an increase in the number of winter eggs. raising the annual egg average from 121 to 185. Dr. Leland O. Howard and Dr. Edward W. Nelson are two scientists in the employ of the government who have national reputations, The appropriation bill for the Department of Agriculture was under ensideration in the house on January 30th, 1920. The secretary of agriculture had been recommending for five or six years that Doctor Howard's salary be increased from $4,500 to $5,-He proposed it again in that year's bill. When the item was reached in the discussion on the floor, this collogny ensued:

Studebaker OUT OF THE YEARS OF AUTOMOBILE BUILDING COMES

THE LEVILED !

In any field of endeavor only one thing can establish Leadership: THE CONFIDENCE OF THE PUB-LIC. To win this confidence in any enterprise means success—to lose it means destruction. The formula is simple—but inexorable.

The public does not give its confidence lightly. It is a prize beyond price to be worked for with untiring effort, unwavering purpose and immutable faith. The public is patient, the public watches, and finally the public passes judgment.

The public has watched the development of the automobile industry, watched it from its earliest pioneering, watched it through the years of its advancement. Hundreds of builders of automobiles have made their bids to the public for its confidence.

And finally the public has passed judgment. It has given its confidence to Studebaker. Studebaker has been acclaimed the Leader. Studebaker has won the reward of its 70 years of unfaltering devotion to a fixed principle-THE PRINCIPLE OF COMPLETE SAT-ISFACTION TO EVERY ONE WHO DEALS WITH THE HOUSE OF STUDEBAKER.

To the dealer who sells Studebaker Cars, Studebaker leadership is an asset of definite value. There is an opportunity here and there for dealers who value this sort of

Suppose it falls into the hands of a crook, and because it was drawn on paper that was not insured, he raises it? Not a pleasant thought, is it? THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR

Feel Stiff and Achy After Every Cold?

Do You Have Constant Backache? Feel Old and Lame and Suffer Sharp, Rheumatic Pains? Then Look to Your Kidneys!

DOES every cold, chill or attack of grip leave you worn-out and utterly miserable? Do you feel old and lame, stiff and rheumatic? Does your back ache with a dull, unceasing throb, until it seems you just can't stand it any longer?

Then look to your kidneys! Grip, colds and chills are mighty hard on the kidneys. They fill the blood with poisons and impurities that the kidneys must filter off. The kidneys weaken under this rush of new work; become congested and inflamed.

It's little wonder, then, that every cold leaves you with torturing backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and annoying bladder irregularities.

But don't worry! Simply realize that your kidneys are worked at such times and need assistance. Get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and give your weakened kidneys the help they need. Assist them, also, by drinking pure water freely, eating lightly and getting plenty of fresh air and rest. Doan's Kidney Pills have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These Grateful Folks:

J. A. Roberts, bookkeeper, Park Ave., Brownsville, Tenn., says: "I took cold easily and it always settled on my kidneys, causing them to get out of order. I suffered intensely from pains across my back and I couldn't rest comfortably nights. My kidneys didn't act properly and I felt drowsy and tired. Upon a neighbor's advice I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and they entirely rid me of this trouble and I

Mrs. Joe Lunn, 314 Bridge St., Franklin, Tenn., says: "My kidneys troubled me and I had lumbago and severe pains through my back and hips. I felt dull and lame mornings and had no ambition for my housework. Dizzy headaches made me miserable and my kidneys acted irregularly. I kidneys acted irregularly. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they were just the remedy for me and soon rid me of the trouble?

OVER THREE YEARS
LATER, Mrs. Lunn added:
"Whenever my kidneys need attention I use Doan's and they

DEVICE FOR TREATING SAND

Engineers of California Bureau of Public Roads Use Blower to Obtain Material.

(Prepared by the United States Depart-ment of Agriculture.)

A new method of treating a local sand to make it conform to the specifications for a concrete road has been adopted by the engineers of the bureau of public works in charge of California federal-aid project No. 41. Near the south end of the project no local sand could be found which would conform to the requirements of the specifications approved by the bureau of roads of the United States Department of Agricul-These prescribed that the sand should contain no more than 5 per cent of material which would perss a 100-mesh sieve. The local sand analyzed about 15 to 20 per cent, which was entirely too high to permit its instead of falling back upon the importation of suitable sand from another locality, the engineers devised a plant for blowing the fine particles from the sand. This district is extremely arid, and in summer the temperature sometimes mounts to 120 degrees in the shade, so that the sand is very dry when worked. The device used consists of an ordinary conveyor, which lifts the sand to a revolving screen. Material which will pass a one-fourth-inch mesh is discharged into a hopper under the screen and then through a narrow opening into a storage bin below. In falling from the hopper to the bin, the sheet of sand passes directly in front of a nozzie, which directs against it a current of air from a centrifugal air ulator at the blower, the velocity of the disease and the way to get rid the air at the nozzle can be so controlled as to blow from the failing finer material.

The blower is operated by a beit' from the same gas engine which operates the conveyor and revolving screen. The whole device is compact and inexpensive. The result is a satisfactory sand obtained at less cost than by any other method. The success of the plan depends, of course, on their dryness of the sand. If it were necessary to dry it, the increased cost of treatment might make the impor of suitable material prefera-

Cattle Dealers Who Do Not Favor Measures Are Influenced by Selfish Motives.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Only a few people are opposed to regulating traffic in tuberculous live stock, but their opposition is some times effective, and several cases of the kind have been traced by the United States Department of Agricul-However, the department believes that cattle dealers who do not favor tuberculosis eradication are influenced by selfish motives and do not represent the true spirit of live-stock owners and others interested in healthler and better domestic animals on American farms.

Although many states have suitable laws to protect farmers and other live stock owners against traffic in tuberc ous animals, the paractice continues in some localities. Here is an instance: In Massachusetts a purebred Holstein cow, valued at $100, was disposed of as a reactor; but instead of being slaughtered or segrega ted she was later sold to a state institution for $300. The herd at this astitution had previously been free It was being im proved by the purchase of new animals, and every available precaution was taken to see that they were healthy. The way herd owners value protection against bovine tuberculosis is illustrated, says a specialist in the dairy division, United States Department of Agriculture, by the experience of the Bonner Springs (Kansas) Bull association, 11 in number, signed up for the accredited-herd compaign. They had 104 animals tested, and in 8 of the 11 herds no reactors whatever were found. Of the other three herds, each had just one animal affected by the

At first sight some of the members thought the effort had been needless and not enough results shown.
