Close Rain

The recent spate of rain in the eastern part of the state has been most beneficial. The crops are taking well and the soil is moist and fertile. The rain has also caused a increase in the number of farmers who are using modern methods of farming.

"There's the way," she answered.
"I've been here before," he said.
"That's right," she answered.

His voice was low and his manner was grave.

"That's the way," he repeated.

She looked up at him, her eyes shining with excitement.

"Yes, that's the way," she said.

He smiled at her.

"You know what I mean," he said.

She nodded her head.

"Yes," she answered.

He took her hand.

"Come with me," he said.

She followed him.

They walked down the street.

"I think you're right," she said.

He nodded his head.

"Yes," he answered.

They walked on.

"I think you're right," she said again.

He smiled at her.

"Yes," he answered.

They walked on.

"I think you're right," she said once more.

He shook his head.

"No," he answered.

She looked at him.

"I think you're wrong," she said.

He shook his head again.

"No," he said.

They walked on.

Where Your Taxes Go
How Uncle Sam Spends Your Money
In Conducting Your Business
By EDWARD G. LOWRY

UP TO YOU AND CONGRESS
All the present time it would be a good plan for everyone to keep an eye on the money that Uncle Sam spends in conducting our business. We need to know exactly where our money is going and why. The Constitution of the United States guarantees the right of the people to know what their government is doing, and it is our duty to exercise this right.

I have been following this matter closely, and I have found that the government is spending a large amount of money on unnecessary things. For example, the government spends a lot of money on advertising its own work. This is a waste of our money. The government should be spending its money on more important things, such as education, health care, and national defense.

I have also found that the government is spending too much money on travel. The government should be spending its money on more important things, such as education, health care, and national defense.

The town was settled from 1810 to 1814. Harvey Riddle came here fought the Indians and began to start a town. The first settlers all moved to Georgia to give the town a name. Mr. Riddle had a daughter born two days before he was married and she named the town Riddle. Among the first settlers were John Kaszparinski, Rev. Charles R. Armstrong and Mr. Wilcoxson. These men were in business from 1810 to 1816. Then the town began to grow in 1816. From 1810 to 1816 there were six families. G. B. Ryan, T. J. Grant, T. W. Grant and O. B.
