CHAUTAUQUA

Big Seven Day Program to be
Here June 26, July 3
Many Attractions

Two top-notch dramatic comedies, "Turn to the Right" and "Friendly Enemies"; Liourance's Little Symphony Orchestra; former Governor Brough of Arkansas and other headline lecturers; Irene Stolofsky, eminent violinist; unique children's programs; Jess Pugh, noted fun specialist--these are among the eighteen notable attractions which will appear here at the big Seven Day Redpath Chautauqua which opens June 26.

The Collegian Male Quartet, four exceptional singers who are also splendidly accomplished as a brass quartet, will launch the week's program with a popular concert on the first afternoon. Following a prelude by this company at night, Hon. Chas. H. Brough, scholar, educator and for two terms governor of Arkansas, will deliver an eloquent and illuminating lecture, "America's Leadership of the World."

A grand concert given on the second afternoon by the Montague Light Opera Singers will feature many light opera melodies presented in costume with a wealth of realistic dramatic detail. At night, following a concert by the Montagues, Dr. Huber W. Hart, author, scholar and orator, will speak on "The New Industrial Day," powerfully setting forth practical principles of individual and collective living.

On the third afternoon, Irene Stolofsky, brilliant concert violinist and assisting artists will appear in an artists' recital.

The third night will be Artists' Night with Miss Stolofsky and company and Sidney Landon, interpreter humorist and scholar.

The Cramer-Kurz Trio, three gifted entertainers will present a delightful program on the fourth afternoon, preceding the unique lecture demonstration, "Well-dressed on a Moderate Income" by Evelyn Hansen noted authority on dress. She will be assisted on the platform by young women models.

On the fourth night comes the irresistible comedy success "Turn to the Right" with a wealth of amusing and heart-grIPPING episodes.

On the fifth day Liourance's Little Symphony Orchestra of four violin, two cellos and a piano, features an abundance of classical and popular favorites for strings in a grand concert in the afternoon and a prelude at night.

A question of great importance will be presented by Chester M. Sanford, vocational expert, who lectures on the sixth afternoon on "Failures of the Misfits." A round table follows the lecture.

"Friendly Enemies" delightful comedy drama on the sixth night, runs over with laughs interspersed with moments of gripping pathos. It will be presented by an exceptional New York cast.

Vierra's Hawaiians, singers and players, on the last afternoon, clad in their native costumes and playing the musical instruments peculiar to their native land, will give a popular concert, and at night will give an equally popular prelude to a humorous program presented by Jess Pugh, fun specialist extraordinary. This last night's program will be a fitting finale to a great Chautauqua week.

Rev. W. T. Oakley and W. W. Lamb left Tuesday for Greenville, Tenn., to attend the General Assembly of the C. P. Church.

TERMINAL SCENE, LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY

Whose Board of Trade Heads of Houses Will Visit Western Kentucky and West Tennessee, May 22-26.

LOUISVILLE BOOSTERS COMING TO THIS CITY

Party Tours Western Kentucky and West Tennessee on Special Train; 125 in Crowd, Including Louisville
Mayor and High Railroad Officials

BAND CONCERT--SOUVENIRS PROMISED

An interchange of views on subjects of mutual interest, cementing of existing friendships and the making of new ones are the purposes of the tour of Western Kentucky and West Tennessee by members of the Louisville Board of Trade from May 22 to 26.

Thirty-three cities and towns in the territory chosen for the trip will be visited by the party, which will travel in a special train. Mayor Huston Quin, representing the City of Louisville, and presidents of three railroads will be in the party. The latter include White L. Mapother, of the L. & N., C. H. Markham, of the Illinois Central, and R. N. Hudson, of the L. H. & St. L.

There will be about 125 in the Louisville party, including business men, a large band, a corps of speakers and newspaper men. While the necessity of conforming to a railroad schedule will result in stops of varying length being made at the different points on the route, there will be an exchange of greetings and a brief program at each stop.

The party will leave Louisville on the night of May 22, and the first stop will be in Paris, Tenn., on the following morning. Cities and towns in West Tennessee will be visited on May 23, with a night stopover at Memphis. On the second day out, the party will visit points in West Tennessee and Western Kentucky, spending the night in Paducah. On the 25th, the day's schedule will be terminated by a night stopover at Henderson, and the party will return to Louisville late in the evening of May 26.

Problems of commercial and agricultural development, good roads, education, transportation and marketing will be the themes of addresses to be delivered by the Louisville speakers.

"The problems of Western Kentucky and West Tennessee are our problems," President F. M. Sackett, of the Board of Trade, said in a recent discussion of the trip. "Our progress and prosperity is linked with that of the agricultural interests of Kentucky and Tennessee. Our business men always look forward to these trips as opportunities to renew friendships resulting from pleasant trade relations."

Louisville's diversified commercial and industrial interests will be strikingly emphasized by the personnel of the party. There will be heads of manufacturing firms producing an almost endless variety of products and of jobbing houses catering to the needs of merchants in practically every line of business. Civic welfare organizations will be well represented on the trip.

A booklet describing Louisville's importance as a business and manufacturing center, and its advantages as a city of parks, homes, schools, churches and recreational opportunities will be the souvenir distributed by the Louisville Board of Trade. Many of the business men will distribute individual souvenirs.

F. M. Sackett, president of the Board of Trade, will be the official head of the party. A world of details to insure the trip being a success from every standpoint have been worked out by the committee in charge, of which Louis K. Webb, of the Cumberland Telephone Company, is chairman. William E. Morrow, secretary of the Louisville Board of Trade, will be director of information on the trip.

BILLY YATES ON EVANGELISTIC TOUR

Evangelist W. B. Yates and daughter, Miss Eva Yates, arrived home Tuesday, having completed a number of engagements in several Kentucky cities.

At Stanford they assisted Rev. E. K. Arnold, pastor of the Methodist church of that city, in a two weeks revival meeting. Evangelist J. W. Carter did the preaching and a large number of conversions was the result of the meeting.

At Elizabethtown they were engaged with Pastor J. R. McAfee, of the Methodist church, in a great religious revival of two weeks duration. Rev. J. W. Weldon, pastor of the Madisonville Methodist church did the preaching. Large crowds attended the services and splendid music was one of the pleasing features of the meetings. The results were 30 conversions and 36 additions to the church.

After staying at home a week Bro. Yates will go to Wilmore to attend the State Convention and also to be present at the Commencement Exercises of Asbury College.

DEATH CLAIMS DR. MATLOCK

Dr. F. Vernon Matlock, a well known physician of Livingston county, died at a Paducah hospital Thursday of last week of mastoid trouble. He is survived by his wife who before her marriage was Miss Almer LaRue.

Funeral services were held at the Union church at Salem, conducted by Rev. J. S. Roe, pastor of the Christian church of which he was a member. The pastor of the Methodist church also assisted in the services.

Dr. Matlock was a Mason and a member of Salem Lodge No. 81.

Masonic services were held at the cemetery, W. D. Cannon being master of ceremonies. A large number of relatives and friends were present and the floral offerings were magnificent.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON

The Baccalaureate Sermon to the graduating class of Marion High School was preached at the Main Street Presbyterian Church Sunday morning by Rev. A. D. Litchfield, pastor of the Methodist church at Princeton. The subject of the discourse was "The Conjunction of Peril and Privileges" and was a splendid discourse and was listened to by one of the largest audiences ever assembled in that church.

The sermon was pronounced by many to be one of the best discourses ever delivered to a graduating class within the history of the school. The class was composed of 17 graduates, six boys and eleven girls.

LIBRARY BUILDING BURNED

The library building of Rev. Jas. F. Price, on North Main street was destroyed by fire Wednesday morning, the blaze being discovered about two A. M. A coal house containing about 100 bushels of coal, was also burned. It is not known how the fire originated.

The building contained a splendid library of 2,500 volumes, a typewriter, four big book desks, a filing cabinet, two tables and other articles of furniture.

The loss is estimated at $5,000 with some insurance on the library. But for the heroic efforts of the fire department the residence would have burned.

WINS PRIZE IN CONTEST

Dorothy Haynes won first prize in a Declamatory Contest held at the School Auditorium Tuesday morning before the graduating class of the eighth grade Marion Graded School. There were four contestants. The winner's subject was "The Sign of the Cross," and death with the terrors and final triumph of the Christians during the reign of the bloody Roman Emperor, Nero.

NOTICE W. O. W.

All members of Rosewood Camp No. 22 are requested to meet at the Woodman Hall at 7:30 P. M. Friday. Important Call Meeting.

LEONARD HURST, Com.
J. H. NIMMO, Clerk

ARRESTED HERE

Charged With Obtaining Money Under False
Pretenses

Sunday afternoon a stranger, giving his name as Joyce J. Mastin, came to Marion, claiming that he is a Baptist minister working in the interest of the starving people of Russia under the direction of the American Committee for Russian Relief, a Chicago organization. He gave his home as Guthrie, Ky. Before coming to Marion he visited Crayne and delivered a discourse in one of the churches, asked for and received a donation for the poor in Russia.

After showing his credentials he was granted permission to give an address at the First Baptist church here Sunday evening.

Monday morning Mastin was arrested under a warrant charging him with obtaining money under false pretense. He was brought into court for an examining trial, Judge E. J. Travis on the bench. The commonwealth was represented by John A. Moore and County Attorney E. D. Stone. Senator W. J. Deboe represented the defense. The case was hotly contested and attracted great interest.

The prosecution read an extract from a paper in which it was stated that Mastin was not what he represented himself to be but was a fraud.

The following telephone messages were read by the defense. From the Lewisburg Bank:

Question: Do you know the Rev. Mastin? Ans. I do.

Q. Is he all right, is he reliable or not? A. I never heard anything against him. He is all right.

From the Allensville, Ky., Bank: Question: Are you acquainted with Rev. Mastin? A. I am.

Do you know if he sends money to the Russian Relief Fund? A. He does. Q. Do you know if he is a crook, or an honest man? A. He is all right. I never heard anything wrong with him.

From Lafayette Bank:

Question: Do you know Rev. Mastin? A. I do. Q. Did you receive a wire confirming his authority to collect for the Russian Relief Committee? A. We did, also received a letter from Chicago to the same effect. He is all right.

The prosecution read a telegram from New York reading "Cannot understand your telegram. What should we wire Edward Stone? Signed The Soviet Russian Relief Fund."

He was held by the court under a $200 bond to the action of the grand jury. He was guarded by city officials until Wednesday when the association for which he is working telegraphed money to pay his bond and he was released.

WARNING

If you wish to give of your money to help the suffering multitudes in the Near East be careful to whom you give the same as many unauthorized persons are endeavoring to obtain money for this work without due authority.

The only legal organization in Crittenden county (with the exception of denominational boards) for the collecting or obtaining money for relief work in the East is the Near East Relief Organization which is chartered by Congress and which works under the authority of Congress, having its headquarters at Washington, D. C., and in each state.

If you desire to help the sufferers give your subscriptions to either of the following well known and respected citizens of Crittenden county who are the only authorized persons to receive the same.

Mr. T. H. Cochran, who is the Chairman of the Near East Relief for the county; Mr. H. C. Franklin who is the duly appointed Treasurer. Rev. E. N. Hart, who has been appointed by Headquarters as lecturer for Western Kentucky.

To these men and these only should donations for this work be given. Any other person who solicits without their authority is unworthy.

(Signed) E. N. HART

Princeton, Morganfield and Henderson are contestants for the new State Normal school to be located somewhere in Western Kentucky.

Mr. H. K. Woods was in Owensboro Tuesday.

BIG MEETING OF COLORED PEOPLE

The General Assembly of the Colored Cumberland Presbyterian Church is in session at the C. C. P. Church here this week. The National Sunday School Convention, held in connection with the General Assembly, opened Tuesday morning. Rev. J. M. D. Deshong, of Fayetteville, preached the opening sermon.

The General Assembly met Thursday morning with a sermon by Rev. C. G. Roulette, of Paducah. The meetings will close Friday evening.

Many visiting ministers, delegates, and out-of-town visitors are in attendance as well as large congregations of home folks.

HERBERT BARNETT DIES

Herbert Barnett, 40 years old, son of James C. Barnett, of Ravine, Miss., and a nephew of the late Wm. Barnett, of this city, was killed May 7, by the explosion of a boiler of a mill where he was at work in Georgia.

He is survived by his wife and three children.

IMPROVEMENTS BEING ADDED TO MARION MILLING CO.'S PLANT

For the last four weeks Marion Milling Company have had with them Mr. Chas. Mingus, the expert millwright, who for the past 25 years has been in the service of Wardyt Marman Co., of Indiana, overhauling their mill and adding new machinery wherever necessary to bring their plant strictly up to date. Mr. Mingus says the mill is now one of the best equipped mills in West Kentucky and that the company is now in a position to compete with the big mills of the country.

The firm is proud of their plant and the citizens of Marion and Crittenden county are lucky to have such an enterprising firm and up to date flour mill in the community.

Mr. R. I. Nunn says that the best is none too good for their customers.

Rev. E. N. Hart, Clarence Mayes, S. L. Carnahan, I. Pierce, W. D. Cannon and R. E. Wilborn attended the funeral of Dr. F. V. Matlock at Salem Friday.

CHAPTER XV.

Swept along by a passionate excitement that seemed actually to consume her, Cherry lived through the next three days. Alix noticed her mood, and asked her more than once what caused it. Cherry would press a hot cheek to hers, smile with eyes full of pain, and flutter away. She was well, she was quite all right, only she—she was afraid Martin would summon her soon—and she didn't want to go to him!

Suspecting something gravely amiss, Alix tried to win her confidence regarding Martin. But briefly, quickly, and with a sort of affectionate and apologetic impatience, Cherry refused to discuss him.

"I shall not go back to him!" she said, breathing hard, and with the air of being more absorbed in what she was doing than what she was saying.

"But do you mean that you are really going to leave him?" the older sister questioned.

"I don't know what I'm going to do!" Cherry half sobbed.

"But, dearest—dearest, you're only twenty-four; don't you think you might feel better about it as time goes on?" Alix urged. "Now that the money is all yours, Cherry, and you can have this nice home to come to now and then, isn't it different?"

Cherry was looking at her steadily. "You don't understand, Sis!" she said.

"I understand that you don't love Martin," Alix said, perplexed. "But can't people who don't love each other live together in peace?" she added, with a half smile.

"N-o-o as man and wife!" Cherry stammered.

Alix sat back on her heels, in the ungraceful fashion of her girlhood, and shrugged her shoulders.

"Think of the people who are worrying themselves sick over bills, or sick wives, or children to bring up!" she suggested hopefully. "My Lord, if you have enough money, and food, and are young, and well—"

"Yes, but, Alix," Cherry argued eagerly, "I'm not well when I'm unhappy. My heart is like lead all the time; I can't seem to breathe! People—don't it possible that people are different about that?" she asked timidly.

"I suppose they are!" Alix conceded thoughtfully. "Anyway, look at all the fuses in history," she added carelessly, "of grand passions, and murders, and elopements, and the fate of nations—resting on just the fact that a man and woman hated each other too much, or loved each other too much! There must be something in it all that I don't understand. But what I do understand," she added, after a moment, when Cherry, choked with emotion, was silent, "is that Dad would die of grief if he knew you were unhappy, that your life was all broken up in disappointment and bitterness!"

"But is that my fault?" Cherry exclaimed, with sudden tears.

Alix, after watching her for a troubled minute, went to her and put her arm about her. "Don't cry, Cherry!" she pleaded sorrowfully.

Cherry, regaining self-control, resumed her work silently, with an occasional, sudden sigh. She had opened the subject with reluctance; now she realized that they had again reached a blank wall.

Three days after their talk in the moonlit garden Peter found chance to speak alone to Cherry.

"Are you ready?" he asked.

"Quite!" she said, raising blue eyes to his.

"It's tomorrow, then, Cherry!" he said.

"Tomorrow!" He saw the color ebb from her face as she echoed him. This was already late afternoon; perhaps her thoughts raced ahead to tomorrow afternoon at this time when they two would be leaning on the rail of the little steamer, gazing out over the smooth, boundless blue of the Pacific, and alone in the world.

"Tomorrow you will be mine!" he said.

"That's all I think of," she answered. And now the color came up in a splendid wave of flame, and the face that she turned toward him was radiant with proud surrender.

He told her the number of the dock; they discussed trains.

"We sail at eleven," said Peter, "but I shall be there shortly after ten. I'll have the baggage on board, everything ready; you only have to cross the gangplank. You have your baggage check; give it to me."

They were waiting in the car while Alix marketed. Cherry opened her purse and gave him the punched card-board.

"I'll tell Alix that I have a last dentist appointment at half-past ten," she said. "If she goes in with me, we'll go to the very door. But she says she can't come in tomorrow, anyway. I'll write her tonight, and drop the letter on the way to the boat. Tomorrow, then!" was Cherry's only answer. "I'm glad it's so soon."

"Good-by!" said Cherry, leaning over the side of the car to kiss her sister. Alix received the kiss, smiled, and stretched in the sun.

"Heavenly day to waste in the city!" said Alix.

"I know!" Cherry said nervously. She had been so strangely nervous and distracted in manner all morning that Alix had more than once asked her if there was anything wrong. Now she questioned her again.

"You mustn't mind me!" Cherry said with a laugh. "I'm desperately unhappy," she said, her eyes watering. "I'd do anything in the world to help you, Cerise!" Alix said sympathetically.

"I know you would, Sis! I believe," Cherry said, trembling, "that there's nothing you wouldn't give me!"

"That's easily said," Alix answered carelessly, "for I don't get fond of things, as you do! My dear, I'd go off with Martin to Mexico in a minute. I mean it! I don't care a whoop where I live, if only people are happy."

"How about Buck?" Cherry said, as the dog leaped to his place on the front seat and licked his mistress' ear.

Alix embraced him lovingly.

"Well—if he wanted to go with you!" she conceded unwillingly. "But he wouldn't!" she added quickly. Cherry, going to the train, gave her an April smile, and as she took her seat and the train drew on its way, it seemed to her suddenly that she might indeed meet Peter, but it would only be to tell him that what they had planned was impossible.

But on the deck of the Sausalito steamer, dreaming in the sunshine of the soft, lazy autumn day, her heart turned sick with longing once more. Alix was forgotten, everything was forgotten except Peter. His voice, his tall figure, erect, yet moving with the little limp she knew so well, came to her thoughts. She thought of herself on the other steamer, only an hour from now, safe in his care, Martin forgotten, and all the perplexities and disappointments of the old life forgotten. In the flood of new security and joy, Los Angeles—New Orleans—France—it mattered not where they wandered; they might well lose the world, and the world them, from today on.

"So that is to be my life—one of the blamed and ignored women?" Cherry mused, leaning on the rail and watching the plunge of the receding water. "Like the heroines of half the books—only it always seemed so bold and so frightful in books! But to me it just seems the most natural thing in all the world. I love Peter, and he loves me, and the earth is big enough to hide us, and that's all there is to it. Anyway, right or wrong, I can't help it," she finished, resolving to find herself suddenly serene and confident.

It was twenty minutes past ten, a warm, sweet morning, with great hurrying back and forth at the ferry, women climbing to the open seats of the cable cars, pinning on their veils or roses as they climbed. Cherry sped through it all, beside herself now with excitement and strain, only anxious to have the great hands of the clock drop more speedily from minute to minute, and so round out the terrible hour that joined the old life to the new. She was hurrying blindly toward the dock of the Los Angeles line, absorbed in her one whirling thought, when somebody touched her arm, and a voice, terrifyingly unexpected and yet familiar, addressed her, and a hand was laid on her arm.

In utter confusion she looked up. It was Martin!

known—how much had she betrayed—

Gaspings, trying to smile, she looked up at him, while the ferry place whirled about her and pulses drummed in her ears. She had automatically given him her hand; now he kissed her.

"Hello, Cherry; where you going?" for the third time.

"I came into town to shop," she faltered.

"You what?" She had not really been intelligible, and she felt it, with a pang of fright. He must not suspect—the steamer was there, only a short block away; Peter might pass them; a chance word might be fatal—he must not suspect—

"I'm shopping!" she said distinctly, with dry lips. And she managed to smile.

"Well," Martin said, "surprised to see me?"

"Oh, Martin—" said her fluttered voice. Even in the utter panic of heart and soul she knew that for safety's sake she must find his vanity.

"I'm going to tell you something that will surprise you," he said. "I'm through with the Red Creek people!"

"Martin!" Cherry enunciated almost voicelessly. She looked from a flower vendor to a newsboy, looked at the cars, the people—she must not faint. She must not faint.

"Well—but where are you going? Home?"

"I was going to the dentist a minute, but it's not important. Across had turned and were walking across to the ferry. She knew that there was no way in which she might escape him. "What did you say?" she said.

"I asked you when the next boat left for Mill Valley?"

"We can go—find out," Cherry's thoughts were spinning. She must warn Peter somehow. It was twenty minutes of eleven by the ferry clock. Twenty minutes of eleven. In twenty minutes the boat would sail. She thought desperately of the women's waiting room upstairs; she might plead the necessity of telephoning from it. But it had but one door, and Martin would wait at that door.

Suddenly she realized that her only hope of warning Peter was to send a messenger. But if Martin should chance to connect her neighborhood with the boat, when he met her, and her sending of a message to Peter here—

"I think there's a boat at eleven something," she said, collectively. "Suppose you go and find out?"

She glanced toward the entrance of the Sausalito waiting-room, a hundred yards away, and a mad hope leaped in her heart. If he turned his back on her—

"What are you going to do?" he asked, somewhat surprised.

"I ought to telephone Alix!" Her despair lent her wit. If he went to the ticket office, and she into a telephone booth, she might escape him yet! While he dawdled here, minutes were flying, and Peter was watching every car and every passer-by, torn with the same agony that was tearing her. "If you'll go find out the exact time and get tickets," she said, "I'll telephone Alix."

"Tickets?" he echoed, with all Martin's old, maddening slowness.

"Haven't you got a return ticket?"

"I have mileage!" she blundered.

"Oh, then I'll use your mileage!" Martin said. "Telephone," he added, nodding toward a row of booths, "no hurry; we've got piles of time!"

She remembered that he liked a masculine assumption of ease, where all trains, tickets, railroad connections, and transit business of any sort were concerned. He liked to loiter elaborately while other people were running, liked to pull out his big watch and assure her that they had all the time in the world. She tried to call a number, left the booth, paid a staring girl, and rejoined him.

"Busy!" she reported.

"I was just thinking," Martin said, "that we might stay in town and go to the Orpheum; how about it? Do we have to leave Peter and Alix?"

Cherry flushed, angered again, in the well-remembered way, under all her fright and stir. Her voice had its old bored note.

"Well, Martin, I've been their guest for two months!"

"I'd just as soon have them!" Martin conceded, indifferently.

But the diverted thought had helped Cherry. Irritation had served her, and the reminder of Martin's old, trying stupidities had lessened her fear of him.

"I've got to send a telegram—for Alix," she said.

"What about?" he asked, less curious than ill-bred.

"Goodby to some people who are sailing!" Cherry answered, calmly.

"Only don't mention it to Alix, because I promised it would go earlier!" she added.

"I saw the office back here," he told her. They went to it together, and he was within five feet of her while she scribbled her note.

"Martin met me. Nothing wrong. We are returning to Mill Valley, G. L." She glanced at her husband; he was standing in the doorway of the little office, smoking. Quickly she adressed the envelope. "Don't read that name out loud," she said, softly but very slowly and distinctly, to the girl at the desk. She put a gold piece down on the note. "Keep the change, and for God's sake get that to the Harvard, sailing from Dock 67, before eleven!" she said.

The girl looked up in surprise; but rose immediately to the occasion. Cherry's beauty, her agonized eyes and voice, were enough to awaken her sense of the dramatic. A sharp rap of the clerk's pencil summoned a boy.

"George, there's a dollar in that for you if you deliver it before eleven to the Harvard!" said she. The boy seized it, stuck it in his hat, and fled.

"And now for the boat!" Cherry said, rejoicing in Martin, and speaking in almost her natural voice. They went back to the Sausalito ferry entrance again, and this time telephoned Alix in real earnest, and presently found themselves on the upper deck of the boat, bound for the valley.

Until now, and in occasional rushes of terror still, she had been absorbed in the hideous necessity of deceiving, of covering her own traces, of anticipating and closing possible avenues of betrayal. But now Cherry began to breathe more easily, and to feel rising about her, like a tide, the half-forgotten consciousness of her relationship with this man in the bodily-checked suit who was sitting beside her. She had thought to escape the necessity of telling him that she was not willing to return to him; she had been wrapped in dreams so great and so wonderful that the thought of his anger and resentment had been as nothing to her. But she had that to face now.

She had it to face immediately, too. She knew that every hour of postponement would cost her fresh humiliations and difficulties, and as the boat slipped smoothly past the island that roughly marked the halfway point, she gathered all her forces for the trial. The one distinct impression she had from Martin was the appalling one that he did not dream that she had decided to sever their union completely and finally.

"Well, how's the valley? Here you to death?" he interrupted the flow of his own topic to ask carelessly.

"Oh, no, Martin!" she quivered. "I love it there! I always loved it!"

"Alix is a fine girl—she's a nice girl," Martin conceded. "But I can't go Peter! He may be all right, all that lah-di-dah and Omar Khayyam and Browning stuff may be all right, but I don't get it!" And he yawned contentedly in the sunshine.

After a few seconds he gave Cherry an oblique glance, expecting her resentment. But she was thinking too deeply even to have heard him. Her mind was working as desperately as a caged animal, her thoughts circling frantically, trying windows, walls, and doors in the prison in which she found herself, mad for escape.

She blamed herself bitterly now for allowing him, in the surprise and fear she felt, in the shock of their unexpected meeting, to arrange this domestic and apparently reconciled return to the valley house. But it was too late now! Too late for anything but a bald and brave and cruel half-hour that should, at any cost, sunder them.

Quick upon the thought came another: what should she and Peter plan now? For to suppose that their lives were to be guided back into the old hateful channel by this mere mischance was preposterous. Within a few days their interrupted trip must be resumed, perhaps tomorrow—perhaps this very night they would manage it successfully. Meanwhile, until she could see Peter alone, there was Martin to deal with, Martin who was leaning forward, vainly gloriously retelling to her long speeches he had made to this superior or that.

Temperature of Ocean Water.

The surface water of the ocean varies in temperature with the latitude. The hottest water—about 80 degrees—is at the equator, and the coldest at the poles. At a depth of several hundred feet, however, the ocean, even in the tropics, becomes extremely cold. This icy water has drifted down from the poles, spreading its chilling effect over the entire sea. In the lowest depths the temperature is very close to the freezing point. But there is no danger that the ocean will ever freeze, because the water is in perpetual motion through waves, tides and also because the warm water at the equator, constantly rising to the top, keeps the general temperature from dropping too low.

Refinishing Nickel Plating.

A new nickel-plating solution said to yield beautiful results is prepared by mixing the liquid obtained by evaporating a solution of one-half ounce nickel in aqua regia to a pasty mass and dissolving it in one pound of aqua ammonia, with that obtained by treating the same quantity of nickel with a solution of two ounces cyanide of potassium in one pound of water. More cyanide renders the deposit whiter and more ammonia renders it grayer.

WILL PLAY BALL IN JAPAN

Ward Gilbert, Ballonist, and Emmons Clay, Who Served as Gob, Off for Tokyo.

Johnny Jap is going to have another look at the great American game as it is played by the baseball nine of Indiana university. The rich-shaw men of Tokyo and the merchants of Nagoya are going to carry and trade with two members of the team who left Seattle, Wash., to the tune of a hand and the cheers of the American Legion.

Ward Gilbert of Kokomo, Ind., one of the Hoosiers' pitchers, went back to college after 11 months as a ballonist in France. Emmons Clay of the catling staff served 19 months as a gob. When the Legion men in Seattle discovered this they turned out and wished the pair good luck.

From Seattle the Indiana party went straight to where the sun rises. There Japan college teams will be taken on, but they will be the guests of Waseda university of Tokyo. So great has been the interest shown in the visit that the Japan university has guaranteed the American players $15,000 for expenses. Baseball has been introduced in Japan before. Two other American college teams have traveled the Pacific and shown their wares.

Tokyo has an American Legion post and its members are planning to show the ex-service men much of the Orient and its attractions during the Indiana team's stay.

TO AID THE EX-SERVICE MEN

Mrs. Madge King Johnston, South Dakota, Gives Up Music for Americanism Work.

After years of study in America and Europe Mrs. Madge King Johnston, Aberdeen, S. D., national vice-president of the American Legion auxiliary has sacrificed a career in music for Americanism work and to aid in relieving the condition of sick and wounded ex-service men.

Mrs. Johnston is in charge of stores in eight states where articles made by disabled fighters are sold. She is national chairman of the auxiliary's American committee and has specialized in the formation of citizenship clubs and organizations of children of ex-service men.

Before engaging in auxiliary work, Mrs. Johnston appeared as a concert artist in many western cities. This she relinquished for activity in behalf of ex-service men.

Her husband, Dr. M. C. Johnston, is a big game hunter and has brought down mountain sheep, elk, deer and bear in the Rocky mountains and moose in the Canadian woods. Mrs. Johnston has accompanied him on many hunts.

Y. M. C. A. HELPS PRISONERS

Men Confined in "Disciplinary Barracks" at Governor's Island, Appreciate Training.

Thanks to the Y. M. C. A. many of the "disciplinary barracks" maintained by the United States for its soldiers who fracture the rules that govern the back private and officer alike aren't all dark walls and dark living. Such a one is historic Fort Jay at Governor's Island, New York harbor, where between 200 and 300 soldiers are usually confined, most of whom are "in" for minor offenses. A few, however, are being "cared for" only a few days, prior to their taking up a longer residence at Fort Leavenworth, the army prison.

Col. John E. Hunt was commanding officer of Fort Jay during the World war, and he introduced "Y" activities for its inmates. Since that time the secretaries have kept up their work. The "Y" is housed in the first building of its kind the organization ever built in this country. Every Wednesday the confined men are allowed to attend the "sing-song," and about 175 of the men nuke the walls resound. The Sunday evening religious service is even better attended, more than 200 taking part.

Another feature of the work is the teaching of volunteer instructors of educational subjects. Spanish and French courses, together with reading, writing and arithmetic, are proving the most popular subjects. The men show a desire to absorb as much knowledge as possible during their period of confinement.

RADIO

PROGRESS OF RADIO THROUGH THE YEARS

Wireless Research Began Long Ago, But Development Has Been Swift Lately.

Wireless research started many years ago, as far back even as 1827. Even the radio telephone is not a recent perfection; rather it is that introduction to the layman of the human voice and music has suddenly popularized something that wireless men had thought a pastime or amusement. Here is the chronological record of wireless:

1827—It was found that the magnetic discharge from a leyden jar would magnetize a steel needle.

1831—Electro-magnetic induction was discovered between two entirely separate circuits by Michael Faraday.

1837—Cooke and Wheatstone of London, England, and Morse of the United States take out first patent for electric telegraph.

1838—K. A. Steinheil of Munich suggested that a system of wireless telegraphy could be established after his discovery of the use of the earth return.

1840—Joseph Henry (U. S. A.) produced the first high-frequency electric oscillations, and stated that the condenser discharge is oscillatory.

1842—Wireless experiments were made by S. F. B. Morse by electric conduction through water across Washington canal and across wide rivers.

1843—A wireless system for transatlantic communication was suggested.

1845—Water was used as a conducting medium in wireless experiments across a wide river.

1849—Intelligible signals were actually sent across a river 4,500 feet wide in India, but the cost was found prohibitive for commercial use.

1867—The electric waves that are now utilized in wireless telegraphy and telephony were predicted in an distance of 60 miles by radio signals.

1901—Radio communication started with five islands in the Hawaiian group. The first British ship is fitted with the wireless telegraph.

1902—Radiograph signals received aboard vessels at sea at 1,500 statute miles. Signals received from a distance of 2,000 miles.

1903—King Edward receives a radio message from President Roosevelt. High-power stations were ordered by the Italian government. First transatlantic radio message sent. Telegraphic news service for ships at sea is started. Marconi knighted in Russia.

1904—The first press message was sent across the sea.

1905—Patent suit started in New York between the Marconi and De Forest company.

Patent for horizontal directional aerial is taken out. This was a great step forward in long-distance work.

1906—International conference is held in Berlin, at which most of the countries of the world are represented.

1907—The use of steel disks for producing notes were successfully tested.

Radio stations in Ireland and Nova Scotia were opened for limited public service.

1908—Radio stations opened for unlimited public service between Great Britain and Canada.

1909—Steamship in collision with another off the coast of Florida succeeds in calling assistance by radio.

1910—Marconi receives messages 6,700 miles while on board ship going to South America.

Spanish radio company formed.

1911—Canadian government leased radio stations for 20 years.

1912—Radio distress signals from the Titanic bring assistance and save lives of 700 passengers.

1913—Tests were made between the Eiffel tower in France and the station at Washington. During the trip into Central Asia an explorer received his longitude and time signals from a distant radio station.

1914—Marconi and radio officials start test of wireless telephone between vessels of the Italian fleet. The test was continued between vessels on the high seas and voices were heard with clarity at a distance of 44 miles.

One day radio telephone communication was kept up constantly for 12 hours. Great Britain declared war

BUDGET SYSTEM A START

The remedy is already being applied to remove some of the conditions I have described. A budget plan has been put into effect. A director of the budget, in the person of Gen. Charles G. Dawes, has been appointed to office. General Dawes is at work now trying to find out in detail where the money comes from which you pay to run the government and where it goes and how properly to apportion it among the spending agencies of the government. He is just at the beginning of his big task, but the work has begun. That is the important thing.

The budget and accounting act provides for the presentation by the President of a regular and alternative budget of the United States to congress on the first Monday in December, 1921, covering the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922.

Recognizing in the budget machinery created by this law an agency through which executive policy and pressure involving better business administration could be exerted, Mr. Harding assembled on June 29, 1921, for the first time, the heads of departments and independent organizations and bureau chiefs, and after announcing a government policy of economy and efficiency, directed that an immediate attempt with the budget machinery be made to reduce expenditures under the appropriations of the current year ending June 30, 1922.

General Dawes, director of the budget, has reported to the President $112,512,628.32 "as the estimated savings in expenditures reported to me by the heads of departments and independent organizations, in compliance with your directions to all concerned to secure a reduction in expenditures under appropriations and balances available during the current fiscal year, where consistent with the mandatory obligations imposed by congress, either direct or implied."

"Of this amount, $22,822,113.14, pertaining to continuous appropriations and involving for the most part building and construction, will be postponed for expenditure in future years unless otherwise decided by congress. Whatever may be the relation of total expenditures to total revenues at the end of the current year, which, for various reasons, including possible new legislation, the operations of the shipping board, the railroad administration, and fluctuation in current receipts of the postoffice department, cannot be predicated at this time, the above amount is that much of a contribution to a more favorable relation.

"This fine response to your request from the heads of the departments and independent organizations and bureau chiefs, incidental to your assumption of responsibility as the business head of governmental administration, infers the existence in their minds of three principles involving improvement in governmental business, which should not be overlooked.

"First, that the business organization of government hereafter assumes that the minimum amount of money to be expended in any fiscal year is not, of necessity, the sum appropriated in advance by congress, but the smallest amount upon which the business of the government can be efficiently administered under the program outlined by congress.

"Second, that the minds of the business administrators of government have been diverted from a too easy reliance upon the custom of deficiency appropriations.

"Third, that where congress has directed the expenditure of certain sums for specific purposes, an executive pressure will now be exerted for more efficient and economical administration in order to produce greater result from the given expenditure, and also wherever possible, to complete the given project for a less amount than the total appropriated for the purpose."

The budget system was established because of an acute public interest in the expenditures of government, actively and continuously displayed by the tax payers. It was established in response to a public demand. The house of representatives has changed its way of appropriating money to conform to the budget system. It has only one great appropriation committee which authorizes all the expenditures for the house. The senate has followed suit. If this newly installed budget system is to be a success it must have your active support and understanding and derive an added authority from your approval and support.

WRITE TO THESE MEN.

The chief defects, or places where waste is apparent in the conduct of the business of the government, that I have pointed out in these articles, have been, first, the excessive proportion of the government income that went for military expenditures; second, the chaotic condition and lack of adequate supervision and control of expenditures, which have been in part remedied by the introduction of the budget system; and third, the haphazard organization of the government departments and the unorganized condition that prevailed in government employment.

The remedy for two of these conditions I have treated briefly in the two immediately preceding articles. I come now to the matter of reorganization of the departments and the reclassification of government employees. A beginning has been made on both of these matters.

A joint committee of the two houses of congress, with Walter F. Brown as chairman, is studying the whole question of organization of the government and the function of the various departments and bureaus and independent establishments. I cannot too strongly advise you to keep yourself in contact with the work that joint committee is doing.

I have given you the names of the members of the committee in another article but I will repeat them here. They are Senators Smoot of Utah, Wadsworth of New York and Harrison of Mississippi; Representatives Reavis of Nebraska, Temple of Pennsylvania and Moore of Virginia. Write to any of them or to Mr. Brown, the chairman of the committee, who represents the President, with headquarters in the house office building here at Washington.

This is the third or fourth attempt that has been made to effect a general reorganization of the conduct of the business of the executive departments. They have all failed through lack of interest. There was lack of public interest, and consequently lack of interest in congress.

This joint committee is at work now. It is collecting facts. It is finding out the actual condition. It is studying the departments. Presently it will make a report to congress. If you will show an active, insistent interest in the work that it is doing, congress will take action. If you do not show this interest, there is every chance in the world that no action will be taken, and that things will remain much as ever.

Hundreds of special interests are clamoring for the attention of congress. All of them are organized. Most of them keep representatives here at Washington. They present to individual members of congress in a hundred skillful, shrewd, subtle ways arguments to support the legislation they are seeking to advance. It would take two or three columns of this newspaper merely to print a list of the organizations and associations that are here to keep congress mindful of their interests.

In this great clamor the common public interest is likely to be submerged. In fact, too often it has been submerged. This matter of economies and reorganizing the business of the government and taking up the tedious details of administration is a dull business. It has been neglected and left off after time because of a lack of public interest and driving force behind it.

If you will supply this driving force now and display a sustained interest, you can at least put the business of government of the United States on an efficient basis. Congress has been negligent because you have been negligent, but now at last the thing has run along so far that something must be done about it.

Used Insects to Fight Insects.

Control of destructive insects by the introduction of their natural enemies has become an important technique during the last generation, writes Paul Popovitch in Science. But if competent observers are to be trusted, the southern Arabs employed the same method more than 100 years ago in the culture of the date palm.

In his "Relation d'un Voyage dans l'Yemen," P. E. Botta says:

"I was able to verify the singular fact previously observed by Forskal, that the date palm in Yemen are attacked by a species of ant which would cause them to perish if each year the growers did not bring from the mountains and fasten in the tops of the palm branches of a tree that I did not recognize, which contains the nests of another species of ant which destroys that of the date palm."

Camera Built on Eye's Plan.

The camera is nothing more or less than a huge model of the eye. Light passing through the lens of the eye is focused on the retina, which corresponds exactly to the ground glass screen or the plate of the camera. Though the retina's chief use is to send an impression to the brain, it is capable of retaining an image for some time. Light has the same effect on it as on a photographic plate. To test the truth of this you have only to look for a moment at some brightly illuminated object, and then to cast the eyes up to the white ceiling; you will find that you see the image of the object for a long time.

His Great Mistake.

Joseph Levenson, head of New York's motion picture censorship, said at a luncheon:

"The movies do a lot of good. But they do harm, too, sometimes. Think of the love affairs they break off!"

"It's all over," a young man groaned one day. "It's all over now between Mabel and me."

"Sorry to hear that, old chap," said a second young man. "What caused the split, may I ask?"

"I took Mabel to the movies last night, and she said that the heroine of the serial called 'The Pact of Death' was a beautiful girl."

"Well?"

"Well, I agreed with her."

address before the Royal Society in London, England.

1880—The sending of an electric current through earth was systematically studied by John Trowbridge of Harvard. It was found that signaling might be carried on over large distances between places not connected by wires.

1885—It was found that telephonic speech could be conveyed by induction over a space of quarter mile. This experiment took place in England.

1889—Electric waves were suggested as being particularly suitable for the sending of signals through fogs.

1892—An instrument for the detection of electro-magnetic waves was discovered which was given the name of a "coherer."

1894—A scientist of Berlin signaled through three miles of water.

1895—High frequency waves excite curiosity of Senator Marconi.

1896—First patent for practical wireless transmitting system is taken out in London by Marconi. Afterward, successful signaling was carried out over distances as great as one and one-quarter miles. Sir William Preece of the British postoffice system interested his cohorts in Marconi's wireless experiments.

1897—Marconi establishes communication between points four miles distant. Balloons were used to suspend antennae.

Marconi demonstrates his wireless system before the king of Italy, communicating with two Italian warships nine miles distant.

The first Marconi station is erected on the Isle of Wight and experiments conducted over a distance of 14 miles.

Near the end of the year the first floating wireless station was successfully operated.

1898—The first paid marconigram was sent from the Isle of Wight station.

1899—Reports made on lighthouse accident by radio. First French gunboat is fitted with radio apparatus. In Vienna communication between two balloons is established. New York Herald receives radio report of International yacht races. The British war office introduces Marconi apparatus into the South African battlefields.

1900—German vessel communicates a upon Germany August 4 and all private radio telegraphy and telephony suspended.

1915—Radio communication between America and Japan is completed. The stations were located at San Francisco and Tokyo with a relay station at Honolulu.

The American Telephone and Telegraph company succeeded in radio telephoning from Arlington station at Washington to Hawaii, a distance of nearly 5,000 miles.

Secretary Daniels of the United States navy transmitted telephonic messages from Washington to the Brooklyn navy yards.

1916—President Wilson and the minkado of Japan exchange messages over the new transpacific radio service, which is formally opened.

1917—Senator Marconi visits the United States and aids greatly in recruiting for radio operators for the United States army.

1918—Wireless telephony progressed rapidly, being used to a great extent in the equipment of airplanes.

Several new long range stations were erected in the United States, it being claimed for one built at Annapolis, Md., that it was capable of communication at 4,000 miles. The United States government also opened a high-power station at Bordeaux.

In September of this year radio signals sent from a point 12,000 miles away were received in Sydney, Australia.

1919—With the exception of the three transatlantic flights—that of the U. S. NC-4, and the British flights of Alcock and Brown and the dirigible R-34, in which radio communication played an important part in keeping the ships of the air on their courses—no very great progress was made in radio telephony, although radio telephony was being pushed along quietly.

Restrictions upon amateur receiving and sending were lifted by the American government.

1920—This was the year of the radio telephone, more attention probably being paid to this branch of radio than to its older brother, telegraphy. Several broadcasting stations were opened.

1921—This year was another radio telephonic year. It was marked by the opening of numerous broadcasting stations.

It will be an unusual occasion and worth while for every citizen who can do it to attend.

The program will begin at 2:50 P. M. Let all who can come and spend the day in Marion. The farmers will be practically through planting corn by that time and a day off spent socially will help everyone.

We expect a large crowd and all who do not come will miss a treat. Should anyone not be able to come in the forenoon, be sure and come in the afternoon.

PREVIOUS RECORDS BROKEN

Marion has produced some mighty fine fishermen and they have now and then reported some mighty fine fish catches. But all previous records were broken a few days ago when Messrs. H. K. Woods and D. O. Carnahan shouldered their fishing poles and went forth to try their luck among the finny tribe.

When they returned they reported great success. Henry had landed 49 nice ones, each weighing on an average of one and one-half pounds, or a little more than 78 pounds in all. Douglas, unfortunately, lost count of his bass, but it is said he did fully as well as his fellow fisherman.

For obvious reasons these fishermen did not reveal the location of their "fishing hole" although it was rather strongly intimated that they should do so.

TO THE DEAR PEOPLE OF MARION

We wish to express our sincere appreciation of your helpfulness in the fire Tuesday night. That men worked so faithfully until the fire engine arrived. We thank them so much. We certainly thank the city authorities for the fire engine and its noble crew. It is due to all these faithful efforts that our residence was saved.

We thank our many friends for their expressions of kindness and sympathy. We are very grateful to our dear Bro. Hart, who stayed and watched the fire till morning and allowed us to rest and slumber.

Above all we are thankful to God that our home was spared.

MR. AND MRS. J. F. PRICE

WHO GOT THE HAM?

A few days ago Rev. E. N. Hart, pastor of the Main Street Presbyterian Church, having been engaged in very laborious pursuits for several days, became ham hungry. Indeed so ham hungry did he become that, after a consultation with Mrs. Hart, he went straightway up town where such things were for sale and, despite the high cost of hams, purchased a nice thirteen-pound genuine country ham, took it home, cut a number of slices off for supper and carefully hung the remainder up in the back porch.

It was fine, in fact so delicious was the meat, fried according to Hoyle that, when morning came, being still somewhat ham hungry, after another consultation with Mrs. Hart, he decided to have a few more slices for breakfast. But when Bro. Hart with carving knife in hand, went to the place where he had hung the ham, it was gone!

All efforts to locate the ham or the pilferer who stole it were unavailing, and the minister was reduced to the necessity of buying another ham or going ham hungry. It is not reported which horn of the dilemma he chose.

SENIORS ENTERTAINED

Prof. R. E. Jagers entertained the graduating class of Marion High School Tuesday evening at a lawn party. The lawn was decorated with pink and green, the class colors. Besides the 17 Seniors, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Shelby, Miss Lena Holtz, Miss Ruby Asher and Mrs. Lucile Wiggins were present.

Ice cream and cake were served. Various games were played and the occasion was enjoyed by all.

—Decoration Day Services will be held at Maple View Cemetery, Marion, Kentucky, Sunday afternoon May 28 at 2:30. Lot owners are requested to see the Secretary and pay for the care of their lots on or before that date. $3.00 for occupied lots and $1.50 for vacant lots.

LOUISVILLE GREET'S YOU!

THE progress and prosperity of the great agricultural empire of Western Kentucky and West Tennessee is well known to Louisville business men.

Aside from the pleasant trade relations which they have long enjoyed with this territory, they have viewed your achievements with pride.

You and they are descended from mutual stock, and with the Southerner's pride in kinship, they have long regarded you as their own people.

So Louisville Heads of Houses are looking forward with enthusiasm to the visit which they are soon to make you.

They want to talk over with you problems of agricultural and commercial development, good roads, education, rail and water transportation, marketing and other matters in which Kentuckians and Tennesseans are mutually interested.

Their special train carrying the Board of Trade band, 125 executives of commercial and industrial establishments, railroad presidents, newspapermen and others will arrive in—

THE REVIVAL MEETING

The revival is now in full way and many are coming to Christ. Evangelist Lear is bringing wonderful messages each evening. His sermons are scriptural, systematic and wonderful in thought. He preaches a pure gospel, clear from slang, but fights sin hard. He urges the people to clean out the church so that conversions may be on a basis of a deeper conviction. Evangelist Lear is great in his illustration; making the plan of salvation so plain that no one can fail to understand the way of life. Lear is one of the best evangelists in the field. He has had great success in making inroads on sin wherever he has gone, and lifting the people to a higher standard of Christian living. He is to preach the baccalaureate sermon for the Morehouse High School at 11:00 A. M., May 14, 1922.—Morehouse (Mo.) Messenger.

Your satisfaction with a car depends upon your satisfaction with its performance, appearance, economy, comfort and price.

These are the vital points. And you must get satisfaction in each one if you are to be satisfied with your car as a whole.

Consider the LIGHT-SIX from this angle.

It is essentially the same car as it was when introduced. It was right before it was offered. And it has made good in the service of thousands and thousands of owners. It is dependable. Its L-head motor is powerful, flexible and free from vibration than any car at anywhere near its price.

Its gracefulness is enhanced by a lasting finish. Cowl parking lights and the cowl ventilator not only add to its good looks but are necessary for complete satisfaction.

The LIGHT-SIX stands up in service with a minimum of repair expense. This, with low fuel consumption, means satisfactory economy.

We never heard of a LIGHT-SIX that was not comfortable to ride in.

And the price, $1045 f.o.b. factory, is out of proportion to its value. This price includes the theft-proof transmission lock which reduces the rate of theft insurance to the owner 15 to 20 per cent; large plate glass window in one-piece rear curtain, inside and outside door handles and other refinements.

And you get the priceless ingredient—prestige and high standing of the maker—who for 70 years has been building quality vehicles and selling them at fair prices.

This theft-proof transmission lock reduces rate of insurance to LIGHT-SIX owners 15 to 20%.

Touring, $1045; 3-Passenger Roadster, $1045; Coupe-Roadster, $1375; Sedan, $1750. All prices f. o. b. factory.

Conference of Genoa Is Nearly Wrecked by Divergence Over Russia Plan.

FRANCE AND BELGIUM BALK

Soviet Delegates Don't Like the Terms, Either—Bloody Battle Near Pe-king—Truce in Irish Fighting—Beveridge Beats New in Indiana Primaries.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

DEVELOPMENTS of last week almost if not quite put the Genoa conference on the rocks. More than that, they brought Great Britain and France to the verge of a rupture. At this writing the prospect is dark, for all except the Soviet Russians, who appear to have maneuvered themselves into just the position they wanted. Frodded by Tchitcherin and his colleagues to give a quick answer to the proposals of the Russians, the allies drew up terms which Lloyd George declared embodied the maximum that would be granted Russia and the minimum that would be demanded from her. Summarized, these were:

Russia recognizes her prewar debt. The war debt will be recognized, but reduced.

Russia must restore foreign property or indemnify the owners for damage or confiscation.

Russia will be expected to take such judicial and other measures as will attract foreigners to Russia for business purposes.

France had yielded to the British on the matter of absolute restoration of confiscated property, at the insistence of Lloyd George, but forced an amendment forbidding property in Russia to be allocated to other persons than the former owners. To this Lloyd George appended this rider:

"If exploitation of property can only be carried out by its incorporation in a general group, the preceding arrangements will not apply."

France then signed, but Belgium absolutely refused to approve the proposition. Barthou hurried to Paris and Premier Poincare told him some things that had not come out at Genoa. Thereupon the French cabinet agreed unanimously to support Belgium and withdrew the assent to the proposals offered to Russia. This alone was enough to strain international relations, but the Paris press added to it by its explanation of the dispute over the property clause. It made the flat charge that the Soviets were negotiating to transfer to English and German oil field property that belongs to Frenchmen and Belgians, and that Lloyd George added the above mentioned rider to further that scheme.

It did not seem probable, anyhow, that the Russians would accept the terms offered them. They were especially displeased with the fact that recognition of the Soviet government was not included, and they did not like the article concerning foreign property restoration. There were other features that did not suit them, and they got into communication with Moscow, with the intimation that their answer might not be ready for some time.

THE second plenary session of the conference was held Wednesday and a finance report was submitted containing 19 articles in the nature of recommendations without definite commitments. The main ones were:

Return of stability of currency.

A meeting in the near future of big central banks.

Re-establishment of the gold basis.

Balancing budgets.

Sir Lamington Worthington Evans, chairman of the finance committee, admitted that the proposals could not be carried out without the co-operation of the United States. Tchitcherin declared little could be accomplished by the finance commission because the subject of reparations was excluded, and then detailed a number of the proposals which he said Russia would not accept.

It is quite apparent that what the Soviet government wishes is not a general agreement with Europe, but separate treaties with the powers, such as she already has with Germany. It probably could do this with Great Britain and Italy and the neutral nations, and probably with some other powers, and France and Belgium would be left in an uncomfortable position. And Russia will be able to lay on France the blame for the failure of the Genoa conference.

Soviet Russia's defiant attitude toward the world was demonstrated in the May day doings at Moscow. Leon Trotsky, minister of war, reviewed 100,000 most excellently equipped and drilled soldiers, and in an address declared that Russia "will resist until her last drop of blood is shed in any attempts of the capitalistic governments to enslave her."

France consented to sign the non-aggression pact proposed by Lloyd George on three conditions: That every European nation signed; that Russia agreed to recognize all her existing boundaries for ten years, and that France surrendered none of her rights to take action to enforce the Versailles treaty. The Russians rejected the second of these and the Germans the third.

DESPITE the hard working propagandists, the American administration shows no signs of willingness to take part at present in all these European negotiations. Its position concerning Russia was made clear by Secretary of State Hughes in his reply to a delegation of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom which asked him to advocate the immediate recognition of the Soviet regime. Mr. Hughes told the women that recognition is in the control of those who dominate the affairs of Russia, and would be accorded only to a government competent to discharge its international relations and demonstrating a disposition to discharge them. He added that there are no legal obstacles to trade with Russia.

THAT France fully expects Germany to default on the reparations is indicated by a statement in Sketch of London, which says it has learned from a reliable French source that preparations are being made for immediate mobilization of the 1918 class of reserves, numbering about 150,000. Mr. Lloyd George gave up his plan for a meeting of the nations signatory to the Versailles treaty in Genoa to take up the matter of enforcing the German payments, but still hopes it may be held elsewhere. The French insist that no such meeting be held with after May 31.

DURING most of last week the predicted battle between Gens. Wu Pei-fu and Chiang Tiao-Lin raged in the vicinity of Peking. Judging from the dispatches, Wu was having the best of the conflict. The casualties were rather heavy. On Wednesday President Hsu made another effort to stop the hostilities, calling to the attention of the rival commanders the fact that the foreign diplomats had protested three times against the fighting and had warned of serious consequences to China should foreigners suffer from the hostilities. Almost all the plans regarding China made at the Washington conference have been suspended because of the warfare. The Chinese press is almost a unit in decrying the fighting, asserting that it is only harmful to the country, which ever side wins. Early in the week General Chang issued a statement that General Wu had been killed by artillery fire. This has not been confirmed.

Sun Yat Sen, head of the South China government at Canton, asserted he had combined with General Chang and would soon start for northern China. Sun's own government was weakened by the defection of Gen. Chen Chung-min, who resigned the governorship of Kwantung.

AS FOR the other current war, that between the Irish factions, it ran along as merrily as a Donnybrook fair until midweek. Then De Valera himself asked the Dail Eireann to take steps to stop it. Accordingly a truce of four days was declared and a peace committee of five members of each faction was named. It is hoped the opposing sections of the Irish army will be able to find a basis for unification. Before this the Free Staters had stormed and captured Ormonds castle, the last stronghold of the irregulars in Kilkenny; the police barracks in Mullingar, occupied by irregulars, had been blown up, and there were numerous bloody encounters elsewhere. The situation on the Ulster border was reported as again becoming serious.

WHEN the fifth Pan-American conference is held next March in Santiago, Chile, it may become another conference on limitation of armaments. Acting on instruction from his government, the Chilean ambassador to Washington has suggested to the Pan-American union that the question of reducing military expenses of the American republics be placed upon the agenda.

IN THE United States the most interesting event of the week was the defeat of Senator Harry S. New for renomination in the Indiana Republican primaries by former Senator Albert J. Beveridge. Since New was running on the record of the national administration his failure was looked on as something of a blow to that administration and the "regulars" in the senate were frankly disappointed. Senator McCormick, chairman of the Republican senatorial committee, however, said the committee had taken no part in the contest and would support the nominee energetically. Mr. Beveridge served twelve years in the senate and was a leader in the Progressive party movement. He made his campaign on such planks as demands for the repeal of the Adamson law, repeal or amendment of the Sherman law, adoption of a sales tax and the promotion of greater efficiency and wiser economy in government.

Samuel Halston, former governor of Indiana, easily won the Democratic nomination, and to him Beveridge will find a strong contender for the senate seat. It may be that modification of the Volstead act will become a prominent issue of the campaign.

SAMUEL GOMPERS was in the public eye and the public ear to a considerable extent last week. In a May day manifesto the venerable head of the American Federation of Labor made a vigorous attack on Bolshevism, declaring that American recognition of the Russian Soviets would constitute a "needless and base betrayal of civilization." He denounced the Bolshevik propaganda in this country and asserted that he had ample proof to substantiate the charges that "Red" millions have been sent to America for propaganda purposes and that "W. Z. Foster, who had no money, went to Moscow and came back and announced that he was building a great secret machine to undermine the American labor movement and turn it over to the Red Internationale, owned by Lenin. He began publication of an expensive magazine and proclaimed 'a thousand secret agents in a thousand communities.'"

A few days later Mr. Gompers was one of the principal speakers at a mass meeting called by the New York branch of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, and in his address said that "labor must make the fight now, and we will never stop fighting until the rights of the people have been restored to them." Continuing, he said: "I and the federation I represent are in favor of beer and light wines and against any attempt to enforce summary laws aimed at personal liberty. Temperance was the rule of the great mass of organized labor, but the prohibitionists and the so-called Anti-Saloon Leaguers have done more to undermine the morality and temperance of the workingman than any other agency I know. I have traveled all over the United States before prohibition, including its so-called dry territories, and today as I pass through these sections I have found more drunkenness than ever before."

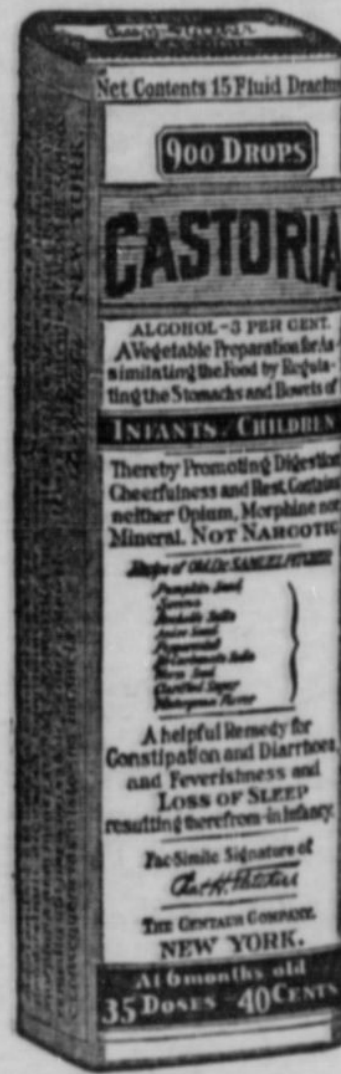

THE senate finance committee has adopted McCumber's soldiers' bonus plan, with the bank loan provision. Smoot still clings to the 20-year endowment life insurance plan.

Why Castoria?

YEARS ago Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children; Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet really to stupefy the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.

It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of these disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal. This was the inception of, and the reason for, the introduction of Fletcher's Castoria, and for over 30 years it has proven its worth, received the praise of Physicians everywhere and become a household word among mothers.

A remedy ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children and no mother would think of giving to her baby a remedy that she would use for herself, without consulting a physician.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Have You Tried It?

Everybody has read the above headline; how many believe it? Have you a little one in the home, and has that dear little mite when its stomach was not just right felt the comforts that come with the use of Fletcher's Castoria? You have heard the cry of pain. Have you heard them cry for Fletcher's Castoria? Try it.

Just help baby out of its trouble tomorrow with a taste of Castoria. Watch the difference in the tone of the cry, the look in the eye, the wiggle in the tiny fingers. The transformation is complete—from pain to pleasure. Try it.

You'll find a wonderful lot of information about Baby in the booklet that is wrapped around every bottle of Fletcher's Castoria.

Reversed.

With very realistic sobbs the weary tramp told the tale to the farmer's wife and she nearly believed him.

"But, surely, if you have an aged mother to support," she said sympathetically, "you could find some better way of doing it than begging? You know 'necessity is the mother of invention.'"

"Not in my case, I assure you," said the tramp, earnestly. "With me, lady, mother is the invention of necessity."—Pearsons.

Brief and Comprehensive.

Ben Dierks has an express agency and transfer business in a village in Sonoma county, California. Recently he detailed one of his teamsters with a wagon and pair to take a San Francisco man and wife to their country place a few miles out of town. The bill, as rendered by the teamster, read: "Haul grip, grub, and people, three hours, three dollars."

The man who has more than the other fellow should do more.

And the Discussion Ended.

Two little boys, living in different towns, one day were visiting an aunt in a distant city. A discussion arose between them as to the merits of their home towns. The heights of their respective churches became a part of the discussion.

"Our church reaches above the tree-tops," said one.

"Our church reaches to the sky," retorted the other.

"Oh, but the steeple of our church reached clear above the sky and punched a hole through heaven," exclaimed the first boy, and this closed the argument.

Boiled or Unboiled.

A little girl attending the Second ward public school at Greencastle was asked last week to write a composition on the value of milk. Here is one sentence of her masterpiece: "Milk is good for infants and adults, boiled or unboiled."—Indianapolis News.

Often the careworn man looks so because he isn't properly fed.

King George Democratic.

"When he is out of the public eye King George often sacrifices appearance for comfort—indeed, while in conversation with him not long ago I noticed that one of the shoes he wore was adorned with a patch." This is one of many intimate anecdotes of his long connection with the royal family told by Ernest Brooks, O. R. E., the accredited royal photographer, in the Strand magazine. Queen Mary's favorite portrait of Princess Mary reveals something of the king's tastes in regard to feminine fashions. When Mr. Brooks showed the king the first print, his majesty raised an objection to the width of the pashers on either side of the princess' frock and ordered him to have them taken out of the negative.

An Elaborate Menu.

"I understand the Laplanders eat candies." "Must be a big do to over a birthday cake."

Chronic kickers soon develop a whine that won't wear off.

The Thrifty Citizen Who Caught the Plugged Nickel

MR. BROWN had swallowed his lunch and had paid his bill. Cautiously he counted his change. "Here!" he said, sharply, "Take back this plugged nickel and give me a good one!"

Mr. Brown walked proudly out. They couldn't fool old Brown.

But old Brown had fooled himself.

Brown's day was heavy and dull. He lacked "pep." There was a mid-afternoon drowsy spell when he needed to be awake—the direct and natural result of heavy, starchy breakfasts and lunches, taken on faith and without question as to value—just because the food looked and tasted like food.

Thousands of shrewd business men who count their change, take their food for granted.

That's what builds up the sanitarium business, and puts the tired "all-done" feeling into the mid-afternoon of a business day.

Grape-Nuts is a scientific food whose delicious, appetizing flavor and crispness are an introduction to well-balanced nourishment—a nourishment easily and quickly assimilated, so that body, brain and nerves are well fed and kept free of the stored up poisons left by so many ill-selected foods.

Served with cream or good milk, Grape-Nuts is a complete food, always ready, always a delight to the taste—and always a safe selection for the man who thinks his stomach is entitled to some of the same protection he gives to his pocket.

Everybody Help Boost Marion!

It is not often in towns the size of Marion that a whole train load of boosters from a big city comes to meet us and talk with us about those things which will help us to get better prices for our produce, better stock for our farms, and better schools for our children.

This train load of men has expressed a desire to meet every man and woman in the county when they come to Marion on May 25th. You know why they want to come. They want to make business in Louisville better. They want to make business in Kentucky better.

All of us know that when business in Louisville is better and when business in Kentucky is better, that business in Crittenden County will be better. And all of us are hoping for better business in Crittenden County. We want to see the Mines in operation again.
We want to see the stock market open up good and strong. We want to see the price of corn and hay go up. We want to see tobacco sell as it should.

Then let's get together. Let's come together and plan for some of the things that we would really like to see come to pass. Come to Marion May 25 and do your part to show others that Crittenden County means business.

HOW TWO WOMEN ESCAPED OPERATIONS

Doctor Advised Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Happy Results in Both Cases

St. Joseph, Missouri.—"Both of my sides ached and hurt me so that I could not move or do any of my work. There was heavy pressure and pains through my lower organs and the doctor told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for these troubles. He said I had this one chance, and if the Vegetable Compound did not help me nothing but an operation would. After taking several bottles I felt it was helping me and now I am able to do my own work. If my testimony will help others I shall be glad for them to read it and hope your Vegetable Compound will do them as much good as it did me." —Mrs. Wm. Lockman, 513 N. 4th St., St. Joseph, Mo.

White Plains, N. Y.—"I had such a pain that I could hardly walk and the doctor said that I needed an operation. I was sick for a year before I started taking your medicine and I could not work. I saw your advertisement in a little book and that is how I came to take Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine. I have been taking the Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, also Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and the capsules and prescription recommended. I am doing all my work and have gained twenty pounds. I am taking the medicines still, but I feel fine. You have my permission to use this letter for the good of others." —Mrs. Mary Mark, 37 Hamilton Ave., White Plains, N. Y.

Some female troubles may through neglect reach a stage when an operation is necessary. But most of the common ailments are not the surgical ones; they are not caused by serious displacements, tumors, or growths, although the symptoms may appear the same.

When disturbing ailments first appear, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present distress and prevent more serious troubles. Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised by attending physicians.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

Stories of GREAT INDIANS

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

PETALESCHARO ENDS THE RITE OF HUMAN SACRIFICE

IN THE valley of the Platte river dwelt the Skidi or Wolf Pawnees, a tribe in the age-old confederacy of Chahksachahika, "men of men." Their gods were the stars, the morning star representing the masculine element, the evening star the feminine. Under the direction of a tribal priesthood the Skidi held a series of ceremonies symbolical of the creation and perpetuation of all living forms and culminating in the sacrifice of a young girl to the morning star.

About 1824 a captive Comanche girl was chosen as the victim for this sacrifice. All of the Skidi had assembled at the altar, the priests had bound the girl to a cross and were preparing to begin the dreadful rites. Suddenly a young warrior sprang to his feet. "It is the wish of my father that this practice be abolished," he shouted to the priests. "You may do one of two things—free this woman from the sacrifice or accept me in her place."

Before anyone could interfere he sprang to the woman's side, cut the things which bound her, seized her in his arms and bore her swiftly through the crowd to a place where two fleet horses were waiting. Mounting, they fled before the dumfounded Skidi had recovered their wits. After riding some distance with the woman the Pawnee warrior stopped. Pointing to the south he said, "The trail is open before you. Here is food to supply you on your long journey. This horse I give you, too. He will carry you safely back to your people." Then he turned to the Skidi village.

His bold deed was accepted without protest by his people, for he was Petaleshoro (Pitareshoro—"Chief of Men"), the son of Chief Old Knife (Latalesha) and their greatest warrior. And so impressed were the Skidi by his act that they never again offered a human sacrifice to the morning star. Petaleshoro's fame spread to the whites and a few years later the students of a woman's seminary in Washington, D. C., sent the Pawnee warrior a silver medal, accompanied by an address which ended with these words: "Brother, accept this token of our esteem; always wear it for our sake, and when you have the power to save a poor woman from death and torture, think of this and of us and fly to her rescue."

That medal became Petaleshoro's most prized possession and he wore it until the day of his death in the summer of 1874.

MANUELITO, THE GREAT CHIEF OF THE NAVAJO

IT HAPPENED at Fort Defiance, Ariz. One "issue day" a crowd of Navajos gathered around the corral looking hungrily at the steers—big, rangy longhorns which would soon be fresh beef for them. Unnoticed by anyone a little Indian boy slipped under the fence and toddled out into the inclosure.

In an instant a big steer had trotted out from the herd and, shaking its long, sharp horns, advanced upon the tiny figure, who curiously watched the animal's approach. There was a moment of horrified suspense—then a tall, straight Indian jumped from the corral fence and in a few flying leaps had placed himself between the baby and the oncoming steer. There he stood with arms folded across his breast. At the same instant the steer charged.

The animal came on with the force of a locomotive. At the last second it stopped and stood swinging its head back and forth with the points of the sharp horns just missing the breast of the Indian. But the erect figure did not flinch. Not a muscle moved. The steer was puzzled. Evidently deciding that it was not worth while to bump his head on something which might be a post, the longhorn turned and trotted back to his fellows.

As the Indian walked back to the corral fence with the baby on his shoulder there was no agitation in his manner. For was he not Manuelito, war chief of the Navajo? He gained this position in 1850 while the Navajos were a constant terror to the early settlers of Arizona. Several expeditions sent against them had failed, but in 1863 Col. Kit Carson, the famous scout, whipped them so thoroughly that they never again were guilty of any organized hostility towards the whites.

After that Manuelito, the war chief, became a peace chief, and in 1872 he was appointed captain of the native police force organized to keep order on the reservation. Once when a number of young bucks were planning an outbreak Manuelito called them into council. Picking up a handful of sand he said, "Do you know how many grains of sand are in my hand? There are just that many white men for you to fight. Now do you wish to make war?" They did not, for Manuelito's symbol of the Americans' strength brought them to their senses. From then on until his death in 1890 he proved himself a wise and far-seeing leader and his name is still revered by the Navajo.

Dad's Idea. She sang quite prettily, but her favored song was called "Falling Dew," and her father couldn't stand it. He said it reminded him of the rest.

HAS FIRST WELL DAY IN 6 YEARS

Huntington Citizen Could Neither Sleep Nor Eat With Any Satisfaction Before He Got Tania.

"Before taking Tania I had not seen a well day in six years," said W. H. Peoples, 325 22nd St., Huntington, W. Va.

"It seemed like I had lost my health for good. I could neither sleep nor eat with satisfaction. I was badly run down, nervous, had no appetite and had to force down every mouthful I ate. Even then my food soured. I would fill up with gas until I had intense pains in my stomach and chest. Headache almost drove me mad, rheumatism in my arms, shoulder and hips kept me in pain all the time, and I had to force myself to work."

"Tania went right after my troubles. On four bottles I gained ten pounds and the rheumatism and stomach trouble soon left me. My wife has given a statement about the good Tania did her, and I am glad to add my endorsement of this wonderful medicine."

Tania is sold by all good druggists.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

Increases in Fact.

Wife—"Marriage soon ceases to be a matter of billing and cooing." Hubby—"Oh, the billing part continues all right."

ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE DOES IT

When shoes pinch or corns and bunions pain, get a package of ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes. It takes the sting out of corns and bunions, gives instant relief to smarting, itching, swollen feet. 1,000,000 pounds of powder for the feet were used by our Army and Navy during the war.—Advertisement.

Apparel.

"What do these flappers leave off for summer, anyhow?" "Aw, a coat or two of powder."

"Dead Shot." Dr. Perry's Venereal Cure for Worms and Tapeworms, has enjoyed popular approval for 15 years. If you cannot obtain it at your druggist send 10 cents to Wright's Indian Vegetable Pill Co., 375 Pearl St., New York City. Money back if not satisfied.—Advertisement.

Quite True.

Howell—"Do you think the wrist watch has come to stay?" Powell—"I hope not. I want mine to go."

For true blue, use Red Cross Ball Blue. Snowy-white clothes will be sure to result. Try it and you will always use it. All good grocers have it.—Advertisement.

Your New Home

should be made artistic, sanitary and livable.

These walls should be Alabastined in the latest, up-to-the-minute nature color tints. Each room should reflect your own individuality and the treatment throughout be a complete perfect harmony in colors.

The walls of the old home, whether mansion or cottage, can be made just as attractive, just as sanitary, through the intelligent use of

Alabastine

Instead of kalsomine or wallpaper

It is absolutely necessary if you expect Alabastine results that you ask for and secure Alabastine.

Avoid kalsomines under various names and insist on the package with the cross and circle printed in red. That is the only way to be sure you are getting the genuine Alabastine.

Alabastine is easy to mix and apply, lasting in its results, and absolutely sanitary.

Alabastine is a dry powder, put up in five-pound packages, white and beautiful tints, ready to mix and use by the addition of cold water, and with full directions on each package. Every package of genuine Alabastine has cross and circle printed in red.

L. W. DEBOE TAKES OWN LIFE

Lawrence W. Deboe, 42 years old, committed suicide Monday morning at 5:30 o'clock at his home in the Crayne section, by drinking carbolic acid.

He is said to have told some of his friends that he was in great trouble and meant to do something to get out of it.

Mrs. Deboe, wife of the deceased, had gotten up to get breakfast, leaving her husband in bed apparently well and all right. By the time she had a fire in the stove she heard him call, she says, and went to his room and asked if he wanted her. He replied that he did not. When she had breakfast ready she again went to his room to awaken him, but could not arouse him. Having no telephone in the house, she went to a neighbors to give the alarm and when she returned he was breathing his last and was dead in a few minutes. All the surroundings indicated that he had drunk the poison while in bed. There was a empty four-ounce bottle and a glass that had contained the acid on the floor at the foot of his bed.

County Judge E. J. Travis and County Attorney E. D. Stone went to the Deboe home Monday and an inquest was held by Judge Travis, the jury returning a verdict in accordance with the above facts.

The deceased is a son of Joseph Deboe, of this county. He leaves a wife and two children.
