CHAPTER XVII

When Cherry came out to hear her mother, who had been working in the kitchen, she found her not as energetic as usual. She was looking pale and drawn, and her eyes were red and watery.

"Are you all right, dear?" asked Cherry gently.

"Yes, I am," replied her mother.

Cherry walked into the room, and sat down in a chair. Her mother turned to look at her, and gave a sigh.

"I am sorry I was so tired, dear," she said. "I have been thinking a lot lately about the past, and how it all began.

"I have been thinking about the time when your father was alive, and how he loved you. I have been thinking about the time when your grandfather was alive, and how he loved you. I have been thinking about the time when your great-grandfather was alive, and how he loved you.

"But I have also been thinking about the time when your father was not alive, and how he left you and your mother alone. I have been thinking about the time when your grandfather was not alive, and how he left you and your mother alone. I have been thinking about the time when your great-grandfather was not alive, and how he left you and your mother alone.

"I know that it is not fair, dear, but I have been thinking about all of this. I know that it is not fair, but I have been thinking about all of this.

"I am sorry, dear," she said, "but I have been thinking about all of this."

"Thank you," replied Cherry, "for being so understanding."

"I am not sure," said her mother, "whether I should tell you about it. I am not sure whether I should tell you about it.

"But I think," she added, "that it is better to talk about it. I think that it is better to talk about it.

"I will tell you," she said, "about all of this."

How the Bank Serves the Farmer

The Farmers are America's proud producers of wealth. But before what they make can be marketed and enjoyed, it must be fertilized, tilled, hoed and harvested. The Bank is your financial friend, because it helps you purchase the tools, seed, and equipment you need to harvest your crops. And the Bank will not only accept your savings, but also give you a good return for them. So please join us and see how we can help you. Ask for full information from our teller. The Bank is always ready to tell you more about our services.

Studebaker

PREFIX plays an important part in the manufacture of the Special-Six. It is a highly responsible part of the dependable service that has made up the Special-Six as an incomparable value.

Six hundred and eighty inspectors safeguard precision in the Studebaker factories. They literally inspect every part that goes into every car—and every operation on every part. Before cars are passed for delivery 9,500 inspections are made. In the Special-Six there are 1,120 mechanical operations to the accuracy of one-thousandth of an inch, 360 to one-half-thousandth.

As to the performance, a brief experience will reveal its superiority far more convincingly than we could tell it.

Studebaker cars make friends quickly, because they give them the money. And they invariably keep these friends, because of the universal satisfaction they give in fine performance, economy and service.
