FINAL ELECTION OF DELEGATES

Important Meetings of Tobacco
Growers of Black Patch
Held This Week

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Nov. 15.—This week will see the final elections held by members of the Dark Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association and next Monday, November 20, the Board of Directors, who will be selected on Saturday in the various districts into which the Black Patch of Kentucky and Tennessee has been divided, will hold their first business session at Hopkinsville and will proceed to elect the officers who are to handle the association's affairs during the coming year and outline the plans and policies which are to be followed.

This will be one of the most important meetings to the tobacco growers of the Black Patch which has ever been held. It means the formal launching of the association to which 60,000 growers have pledged their tobacco, representing 74.3 percent of the total planting for this year. Naturally the proceedings will be watched with the keenest interest throughout the entire district.

On Friday, Nov. 17, the members will vote for these delegates at elections to be held in each county. The polls will be open practically all day, closing at 4 p. m., and each member is expected to express his preference. Ballots have been mailed to each member in the district and this can be voted by mail if desired. But if any member fails to receive a ballot or prefers to vote at the polls, he can do so as extra ballots will be supplied there.

On Saturday, November 18, the delegates so elected will meet and elect a director from each of the twenty-three districts in the Black Patch. In districts containing more than one county, the delegates will meet at the county seat of the county which shows the largest acreage pledged to the association.

The directors will then meet at Hopkinsville next Monday, November 20 to start the real work of the association.

The several committees which were appointed to investigate various important matters pertaining to the association work, and have this information ready to lay before the directors when they meet, have been actively at work and have made real progress.

The committee on warehouses has inspected most of the warehouses now built and available for the association and will be ready to make their report, probably with prices on the properties.

The committee on grading is one of the most important in the list and they are at work outlining the system of grades which the association shall adopt as the basis of their sales.

HORSE KILLED BY FALLING ON PAVEMENT

Kenneth Enoch, the 17-year-old son of R. H. Enoch, residing near town, was riding down the street late Saturday evening when his horse slipped at some object along the street and ran upon the concrete pavement at the corner of Main and West Belleville Street. When the animal's feet struck the concrete pavement its feet slipped and the horse fell with full force on the sidewalk and was dead in a few minutes afterward. The rider escaped unharmed. The horse was a valuable animal and was the property of the rider's father.

MARION LOSES TO HENDERSON

Marion High School Football Team
Overwhelmed at Henderson by
Score of 31 to 7

Marion High School celebrated Armistice Day by losing to Barrett Manual High School of Henderson by the score of 31 to 7. This was the nearest trimming that has been handed to the local team since Manual of Louisville trounced them by the tune of 47 to 0.

The old selection of literature entitled "Portfolio of Alibis" has been such in circulation during this week as a result of the game. There are numerous alibis for the loss of the game but the best one is the sad fact that the team did not play the brand of football that wins. The Blue and White has played better teams than the one that represents Henderson but none of these teams had the advantage of catching the local team in the condition in which they found themselves last Saturday. Marion couldn't stop an end run which they had been using themselves all season and when the enemy got out among the defending Blue and White the defenders couldn't tackle. Marion had three neat chances to score and only used one of them to advantage and this happened in the first quarter just after Henderson had scored their first touchdown. Martin Brown was able to get through the right side of the Henderson line for a twenty yard run and the only score of the game so far as Marion was concerned. Henderson added two more in the first half and then in the third quarter they carried over another two touchdowns.

Henderson seemed to be rudely familiar with the system of signals used by Marion High School.

The next and final game of the season will be played here on Thanksgiving Day and Providence will furnish the opposition.

QUERIED THE LIGHT LINE

(Providence Enterprise)
For pure unadulterated cussedness some one threw a wire attached to the necks of two pop bottles across the main transmission line on the Kentucky Utilities Company where it crosses the Dalton road Wednesday morning and for six hours the towns of Providence, Clay, Dixon, Morganfield and Uniontown were deprived of electric current, it taking that long to locate the trouble. This is the second time recently that the electric line has been queried by such tactics and the management of the Utilities Co. is getting sore. It is said that a reward has been offered for the culprit who will be prosecuted if caught.

DENVER TRAVIS KILLED BY TRAIN

At Inquest Over Body Coroner's Jury Find Verdict of Accidental Death

Denver Travis, about 23 years old, was run over and instantly killed by an I. C. North-bound freight train a short distance north of the Marion depot Thursday afternoon of last week. So far as is known no one saw the occurrence. The body was found on the rail road track soon after the train passed, the train leaving the Marion station at 12:43 o'clock. The trainmen stated they knew nothing of the occurrence and it is thought by some that the deceased met his death by trying to board the train as it passed.

An inquest was held over the body by Judge E. J. Travis and County Attorney E. D. Stone, the jury returning a verdict of accidental death by being run over by a railroad train.

H. G. HOWARD PASSES AWAY

Biram Green Howard, born March 24 1845, married to Mary Narida Brown, Jan. 11, 1871, to which union were born ten children, of whom seven yet survive. He professed faith in Christ in 1892 and united with Emmaus Baptist church in 1895 and lived a most exemplary life until death which came Nov. 9, 1922. Though he was 77 years of age he was in the corn fields with the hands all the day before his death and was unusually cheerful until bed-time, but when some member of the family went to awake him for breakfast he was found dead, having passed out so quietly as not to attract the attention of any one of the family.

There was not a better man in the county than Bro. Howard. A kind and affectionate husband and father, a good neighbor and exceedingly loyal to his church.

His motto, through life was: Say Nothing About anyone if you did not have something good to say.

Funeral services were conducted by the writer, his former pastor, at Tyners Chapel, Nov. 10 in the presence of a large audience of sorrowing relatives and friends and the body was laid to rest in the cemetery at that place to await the resurrection morning.

May the richest blessings of God rest upon the bereaved wife, children and grandchildren and friends.

DECLAMATORY CONTEST HELD

Large Audience Present at the County Contest Held at Mexico Friday

A large and enthusiastic audience was present at the Declamatory Contest held at Mexico on last Friday evening to enjoy the program. After the address of welcome by Prof. David Postlethweight and the singing of America the Beautiful by the audience, a prayer was offered by Dr. T. A. Frazer. The audience was then favored with an address by Mr. Frank Decker and Mr. Pate Wells of Smithland.

These were followed by the presentation to the school of a large American flag, the gift of R. F. Haynes of Marion. This was presented by Dr. T. A. Frazer in a splendid tribute to the flag and what it should mean to the school.

A musical program rendered by Misses Felmo Champion and Gustava Brader of Mexico, preceded the declamatory contest.

The contest was much enjoyed by all and the winners were Miss Ruby McMaster, of Mexico, and Miss Thelma Clark of Oak Grove. The judges were Mr. John R. Spencer, County Agent, Mr. Milton Yandell of Frances and Prof. Leslie McDonald of Iuka. Mr. McDonald presented the medals.

Farm Bureau Notes

Can You Beat This?
The average egg production of all the poultry in Kentucky is about 60 eggs per hen per year. This average could be raised considerably if there were a few more flocks like one owned by Mrs. W. O. Kirk of Daviess county. Mrs. Kirk owns a flock of seventeen barred plymouth rocks hens that laid an average of 178.2 eggs each from Nov. 1 1921 up to Oct. 1, 1922. This number of eggs laid in eleven months by each hen is nearly three times the total number of eggs laid by the average Kentucky hen. Mrs. Kirk is co-operating with the extension division of the College of Agriculture at Lexington in showing how good feed and care help hens to lay more eggs. Keep a record of your flock on record blanks furnished by the County Agent.

Cressote Fence Posts

The State Forester of Illinois advises the farmers of that state to use cressote to prolong the life of their fence posts. Of course cedar posts and catalpa are the best kinds of posts where they can be grown. Even these varieties will last longer if treated with cressote. Considerable overflow land in this county may be used for the growth of cottonwood and willow. Posts from these woods may be made to last from 8 to 10 years by the proper use of cressote. Cottonwood and willow make very rapid growth and can be grown on overflow land. This and the fact that cressote can be applied by any farmer commends their use where the locust and other hardwood posts are high priced. Directions for the use of the preservative and methods of application may be had from the Forestry Department, Iowa State College.

Pure Bred Sire Work

The County Agent and Assistant County Agent spent considerable time this week in the enrollment of farmers in the "Better Sires—Better Stock" crusade in co-operation with Mr. Rhodes from the Experiment station. This work consists in getting a sire is one nothing but pure-bred sires on all of his live stock. The females may be grade but the males must be pure bred that are used on his stock. This does not mean that the man must own the males but he agrees to follow out this method of live stock improvement. Then the farmer receives a certificate stating that he is a regularly enrolled in the nation wide better stock crusade. At the present time in Crittenden county there are 11 farmers enrolled. Join this better stock movement and help in live stock improvement in the county. Your influence will help your neighbor to improve his stock.

IMPROVEMENTS AT LIGHT PLANT

Facility of Plant is Enhanced By Erection of New Building and New Engine

Mr. S. M. Jenkins, of the Marion Electric Light, Water and Ice Company, is adding some improvements to the light plant, near the I. C. station. A new engine house is being built in order to accommodate the installation of a new 100-horse power Morse-Fairbanks oil engine, a new generator and other machinery. Crude oil will be used for running the machinery instead of coal, as heretofore. Mr. Jenkins has in contemplation, it is learned, the laying of a four-inch main from the light plant through the city to furnish water where needed.

It is not learned what changes, if any, will be made in the light schedule, but on Tuesday Marion had a twenty-four hour current.

CRITTENDEN'S POSSIBILITIES

While there is a lot of broken land in Crittenden county, there is also a lot of fertile land. One of our possibilities is dairying, which is on the increase. Another, and a paying one, too, is fruit growing. No soil or climate can excel ours in quantity or flavor. Then, the poultry business has great possibilities here. Then, the fluor spar mining industry is just beginning to come into its own. This is the mecca of the fluor spar in the United States. The demand for the ore and its uses are increasing rapidly. Many cars are shipped from Marion each week.

The finding of oil at Tolu will result in other wells to be drilled. Already a rich company, organized by our sure-enough geologist, Mr. W. S. Lowery, is soon to sink a well at Pinckneyville, then one or more in the Dycusburg section, and in the Sullivan and Blackford section.

With the old Belis Mines opened up and already in operation, the company spending a large sum of money erecting their big plant. Then another coal company organized by W. S. Lowery to open up mines in the Nunns Station section, where a large sum of money is being invested.

With vast quantities of fluor spar, with oil gushers here and there, and with two of the largest and wealthiest coal mines in full swing, taking from the bowels of old Crittenden the best grade of coal to be found this side of Pittsburgh, with thousands of men employed, Crittenden will blossom and give her fruitage to the investor and toiler, some of the now croakers will then say, I told you so!

The equality of the sexes is not thoroughly established by a long shot. An American woman who marries a foreigner loses her American citizenship, but an American man who marries a foreigner doesn't forfeit his American citizenship.

And we fancy that a good many people who are tearing their shirts about other people's children would hit the bullseye every time if they should give a little more attention to their own children.

The agreement between Russia and Germany to cancel their war claims against each other is perfectly natural. What would be the use of trading carloads of worthless rubles for carloads of worthless marks?

Marconi says that it is now possible to flash radio around the world. Guglielmo's next invention will be a compact little apparatus to tell us whether we have caught the sound while coming or going.

Anent the passing of the old family doctor, it may be that the family no longer can afford to have him and it may be that he no longer can afford to have the family.

EFFECTS OF DEFORESTATION

Depopulation follows deforestation and this depopulation is particularly noticeable in parts of the south and in the lake states, according to the American Forestry association of Washington. Dr. Herman von Schrenk of St. Louis cites the dwindling population of the Ozark mountains following the destruction and burning of their forests as an example of the far reaching economic effects of deforestation. Prof. Filbert Roth of the University of Michigan tells of the diminishing population of many counties in Michigan whose rural industries have disappeared with the devastation of their forests. Urging upon congress the importance of scientific investigations in determining the quickest, cheapest and best methods of growing timber and reforesting idle forest lands, the association has endorsed the plan of establishing forest experiment stations in the chief forest regions of the United States.

The average farm family has to feed three city families. In addition to itself. This is figured out by census experts, who find that of the nation's 41,614,248 workers, only 10,953,158 are engaged in agriculture, forestry and animal husbandry. A near-sighted farmer is apt to look on the city people as parasites. To a certain extent, they may be. But, without city folks, the farmer would have no market for his surplus crops. He would plow with a sharp stick instead of the city-made steel plow. His furniture, rugs, clothing, suits, wire fencing, wireles and other devices come from the city. It is a fair exchange between city and country, except when farm and garden prices are out of balance, as often is the case.

We should be reluctant to admit that Argentina grows corn superior to ours, but the French and Belgians like it better, importing it from that source by preference, notwithstanding the fact that they have to pay a considerably higher price for it. In France and Belgium corn finds little favor as human food, but is used for stock to a large extent, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. Argentine corn is preferred because the grain is smaller and, therefore, better adapted for poultry feed than American corn, which must be cracked. It is claimed that the Argentine corn is sweeter, and on that account preferable for horses; and furthermore, that it keeps longer because it contains three to four per cent less moisture.

The oldest museum in the world may be found in the city of Hara, the former capital of Japan. Since its foundation in 756, it has gone through all the changes of the Japanese empire without a single addition to its collection. The museum contains about 3,000 articles, which are said to be among the most beautiful specimens of decorative work which have ever been produced by human hand. The museum is opened on only one day of the year, when an official committee makes a visit of inspection to see that the collection remains intact.

Ambition, which is an inordinate desire for something or another, has a wonderful range of objectives, and its covetousness keeps men going from success to success, and from failure to failure. We know one man who started out in his youth with an ambition to be President, remarks the Houston Post, and now he is merely looking forward to the time when he can be possessor in fee simple of a wardrobe trunk.

GOOD ROADS

TRACTION ROAD RESISTANCE

Initial Results Secured Show That Information Will Be of Big Value to Engineer.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Initial results secured from an investigation of the traction resistance of roads indicate that information will be secured of great value to the highway engineer and the user of motor transport. The investigations are being carried on under the auspices of the advisory board on highway research of the national research council with which the bureau of public roads, United States Department of Agriculture, and the quartermaster corps, United States army are co-operating.

One phase of the investigation shows that there is a great difference in the power required of the engine when a truck is traveling over different types of surfacing, the amount being more than twice as great on some of the lower types when compared with that on higher types. It is also shown that the power required to overcome the road resistance is not proportional to the speed of the vehicle, and after a certain speed is reached increases very rapidly.

The investigation when complete will cover tests with various types of motor vehicles with the load, tire and spring equipment varied on different types of surfacing and at varying speeds. The data will include gasoline consumption, internal engine resistance, wind resistance, and road-surface resistance.

When carefully analyzed it will aid the highway engineer in determining under a given set of conditions what type of surface should be built for a given volume of traffic to result in the least total cost for road and vehicle operation. The same sort of study will be made as to expenditures for grade reduction to reduce operating costs.

The truck operator will be given valuable information on the effect of tire and spring equipment, lubrication, size of load and speed of vehicle on fuel consumption which should aid him in producing cheaper transportation.

STRETCH OF MODEL HIGHWAY

Ideal Section of Lincoln Road Under Construction in Lake County, Indiana, Near Chicago.

A stretch of model road, to be known as the ideal section of the Lincoln highway, is under construction in Lake county, Indiana, to the southeast of Chicago.

Besides a 40-foot road bed ten inches thick, designed to carry heavy traffic, provisions are made for beautification of the roadside in boulevard fashion. A lighting system is to be installed. The entire cost will range approximately $100,000 a mile.

This strip of roadway is centrally located, as far as traffic on the Lincoln highway is concerned, and is intended to serve as a model for the gradual evolution of the entire route as traffic volume increases. The Lincoln highway association will provide the funds required over the usual costs per mile.

HIGHWAY FOLLOWS AIR LINE

Association Formed to Build Hard-Surfaced Road Between Chicago and Omaha.

The proposed Chicago-Omaha Short-Line Highway association, formed in Des Moines, Ia., proposes to build a road that will follow the air mail route between Chicago and the Nebraska metropolis. The highway, according to plans, will be a hard-surfaced highway. Robert N. Carson of Iowa City, Ia., has been chosen secretary and general manager.

Home Town Helps

LEARN VALUE OF SHRUBBERY

Matter Has Been Too Long Neglected, but Its Worth is Beginning to Be Appreciated.

It is only comparatively recently in America that we have discovered shrubbery and how to use it. Not many years ago people used to deal in individual shrubs. One shrub on each side of the gate was thought plenty. Occasionally a little clump was set out in the middle of the lawn.

But when home makers began to experiment with masses of shrubs, when they began to frame their houses in forsythia and wigilia and spirea and rambler roses and honeysuckle, they found they had made a transformation. The whole appearance of the place was changed. A house that otherwise might be commonplace, in a proper setting of foliage and blossoms proved wholly charming and lovely.

Necessarily with the shrubbery came trees, both in the parking outside and within the yard. Trees for a background, for protection from the sun in summer, and for the delicate tracery of branches in winter, for the wonderful play of lights and shadows—trees there must be.

Most cities have plenty of object lessons in the effect of massed shrubbery and trees. It would pay any person interested in the appearance of his home to wander tomorrow through the residence districts where shrubbery and trees are growing in profusion, just to contrast them with districts where foliage has been neglected.

It is wonderful how defects in architecture can be made to disappear by the proper handling of the masses of green nature has put at man's disposal.

GET THE COMMUNITY SPIRIT

Excellent Results Follow the Getting Together of Organizations for Civic Betterment.

Recently quite a good-sized company toured the lower half of the eastern shore to attend the summer meeting of the Maryland State Horticultural society, with visitors from the Maryland Forestry association, the Florists and Gardeners' club of Baltimore, the Peninsula Horticultural society and the Maryland Agricultural society and affiliated organizations—a pretty comprehensive representation of rural Maryland.

In Easton the local federated farmers, the Rotary club, the Men's Community club and other societies got together on the program of entertainment, mobilized the automobiles and arranged plenty of shelter and food. Other towns were moved to supplement Easton's leadership.

The point we call attention to here is the evidence the trip affords to the growth of the inter-community spirit. Rural Maryland caught it during the war, and it did great good. After the armistice there was a lull, but last year the farmers and the city men got together in a meeting held in Baltimore and the mutual feeling was revived and set in motion. We now see it at work in the summer meetings of the farmers and their various organizations. The value of it is indisputable. It brings our people into better acquaintance; it exalts the state spirit; it makes for happiness and good fellowship. And in the end it leads to better methods and better results on the farms and in the orchards, all of which is reflected in more prosperity in the towns—Baltimore American.

Kansas City an Object Lesson.

St. Louis does not give the external appearance of a packing center, for its residence district is uncommonly handsome, and it possesses an exceptional art museum, writes Nina Wilcox Putnam in the Saturday Evening Post.

Kansas City is an object lesson in home building, and the average easterner will be astounded at the uniform beauty of its residence developments and the interesting manner in which areas are restricted to a given type of architecture.

The plan upon which its boulevards are laid out also is unique and the planting of the parkways that border them will bring joy to the garden lover and the tree worshiper.

It Worked.

The principal of a public school in Flatbush, N. J., appealed to the boys to preserve the lawns. Instead of the usual threat, the following sign has been placed in a conspicuous place: "Ball playing not allowed. Young men with civic pride and community spirit will heed this warning." It had its effect.

Would Make It Thorough.

Stations Show That the Idea Has Gone Far Beyond the Status of Experiment.

To avoid the common condition that industrial plants encounter of having to do business on a "residential basis," denied large-scale facilities in their vicinity on account of protests by residence owners, Alameda, Calif., with other cities, has established industrial zones in which no new permits to build residences will be granted. A leading municipal engineer is quoted as saying that the prohibition of residences in industrial zones is one of the most important protections to put in a zoning ordinance. This method is being relied on to develop Hoboken, N. J., as a great industrial terminal.

In New Jersey it has been found that the unimproved suburban town is at a distinct disadvantage as compared with the community protected by a zoning ordinance. People are asking themselves why they should invest money in a home or lend money on a mortgage in an unprotected, unzoned locality. The zoned towns are actually absorbing the better grade of development. The result has been that builders, architects and real-estate owners in unzoned towns persistently urge their local councils to adopt zoning, so that they may have as good a selling proposition to offer prospective clients as their competitors in the zoned towns.

Information concerning zoning progress in states and cities of the United States has been made available by the division of building and housing of the Department of Commerce at Washington, D. C. A selected bibliography of zoning is issued by the division and may be obtained on application.

Making a Lawn.

The use of a light sprinkling of nitrate on the lawn is the best and quickest way to produce a luxuriant stand of blue-green sward early in the season. The action of the nitrate of soda may be noted if a lump of the nitrate is dropped on the lawn. In a short time it will be observed that there will be a tuft of thicker, ranker growth about this spot. The main design in sprinkling nitrate upon the lawn should be in even distribution.

Speaking Movies.

Speaking movies on a new principle, said to be not unlike the transmission of photographs over telegraph lines, are being produced in Germany. Light waves are converted into sound waves and amplified.

New Alloy.

Aluminum with 11 to 14 per cent of silicon yields an alloy which is lighter than aluminum itself, stronger, more resistant, and more suitable for casting than known aluminum alloys.

"In Arcadia."

"I, too, was born in Arcadia," is credited to Bartholomew Schidoni, born in 1500, died in 1616. Goethe adopted this motto for his "Travels in Italy." Little or nothing appears to be known concerning Schidoni, and the Arcadia line is the only quotation attributed to him.

Why Lobsters Turn Red.

The rough armored jackets of crabs and lobsters are really red in color, but they are darkened by considerable quantities of black pigment. When they are placed in boiling water the pigment is dissolved and the red color shows up.

Tobacco Growers:

The owner of the HOPKINSVILLE LOOSE FLOOR has been a farmer all his life and his sympathies are with the efforts of the tobacco growers of this district to better their condition in any legitimate manner. I have nothing but good will for those who have joined the Association and have the same feeling toward those who have seen fit to remain outside the Association. The facilities of the HOPKINSVILLE LOOSE FLOOR will be open to those who are not in the Association and I promise the very highest care and attention to tobacco delivered to me for sale. I want your business and the small crop will receive the same careful handling as the largest crop in the county.

THE HOPKINSVILLE LOOSE FLOOR will be Open for Business December 5th and will continue open until the close of the season. Your Tobacco will be paid for the same day it is sold. Free stalls over night for your teams.

The policy of this house has been to give special care to grading and trucking which has resulted in the highest market price being paid for tobacco sold on this floor. That policy will be continued. We have never bought or sold on our floor and will not do so. We run a commission business only and our efforts are devoted solely to getting the HIGHEST PRICE FOR YOUR TOBACCO.
