CIRCUIT COURT CONVENED HERE

Commonwealth Docket Taken
Up. Number of Cases Disposed of by Court

Judge Ruby Laffoon convened the November term of the Crittenden Circuit Court Monday morning at 9 o'clock. Commonwealth Attorney T. C. Bennett and County Attorney E. D. Stone were present to look after the business of the commonwealth.

After an invocation lead by Rev. B. H. Duncan, pastor of the First Baptist church, the reading of the docket and other preliminaries, the following grand jurors were impaneled: S. T. Dupuy, foreman; J. B. Hughes, C. B. Woody, T. M. Morrow, W. H. Ordway, E. O. Manley, W. H. Fletcher, R. M. Belt, O. E. Lachue, J. A. Stenbridge, W. S. Paris, Jay Sigler.

After the impaneling of the grand jury Judge Laffoon gave his usual instructions to that body, very forcefully calling their attention to the importance and responsibility of being grand jurors in upholding the law and in bringing to justice those who violate the law. He defined the various violations of the laws from treason to breach of the peace and urged the jury to do their full duty in searching out and finding indictments against all violators who in their judgment were guilty. The Judge called special attention to the law against carrying concealed deadly weapons. He commented very forcefully on the importance of breaking up the habit of going around with a deadly weapon in the pocket. He also called attention to violations of the game and fish laws. Special attention was also called to violations of the liquor laws.

The names of those who had been summoned as petit jurors were called and from the list the following persons were sworn in as petit jurors: J. W. Ashridge, W. M. Hurley, C. P. McConnell, W. L. James, D. E. Bolster, S. R. Ramage, Joe Lemon, Glen Dixon, J. B. Hina, J. T. Big-ham, H. N. Lamb, W. E. Rushing, M. R. Deboe, Geo. W. Lawson, J. P. Loyd, Tom Enoch, Geo. M. Crider, Burk Crider, J. A. Pickens, G. C. Kirk, W. N. Weldon, Willis Barker.

The following commonwealth cases have been disposed of.

The case of Bill Boaz, charged with breach of peace, was dismissed by the commonwealth.

Phil Millikan and others charged with disturbing public worship, plead guilty and were given fines of $20 each by the court.

Hub Butler, charged with selling intoxicating liquor, two cases plead guilty before the court and was given a fine of $600 and a jail sentence of 60 days. A peace bond of $2500 was named by the court.

May Sherfield, charged with assault and battery was given a fine of $50.

L. E. Gilbert, charged with unlawful offense against a female under 16 years of age, was acquitted.

On Tuesday, the second day of the court, the following cases were disposed of:

John W. Hughes, on a charge of giving away intoxicating drinks, was tried, the jury bringing in a verdict of acquittal.

Loonie Gilbert, charged with giving away intoxicating liquor in violation of the prohibition laws, four cases, was acquitted.

Mrs. Mabel Deboe was tried on a charge of operating an illicit still. After the evidence was all in the court gave peremptory instructions to the jury to find a verdict of acquittal and a verdict in accordance with the instructions was signed by the foreman of the jury.

A. Murphy, charged with unlawfully transporting whisky was acquitted.

Bill Binkley, charged with violating the liquor laws, was acquitted.

HAVE STOCKED CROOKED CREEK

Judge Travis Received from Government Consignment of Game
Fish for This County

Judge E. Jeffrey Travis and J. B. Wiggins have received from the government at Washington a consignment of game fish consisting mainly of black bass, and have put them into the waters of Crooked Creek beginning near Dr. Frazer's farm and extending down the stream about six miles, ending near Post Oak.

This will be a big advantage to fishermen in the future, but these gentlemen wish to warn the public that it is unlawful for anyone to use dynamite or trap for fish and violators of the law will be subject to heavy fines. This is done for the protection of the fish and for the benefit of those who fish with hook and line.

MOVING PICTURES AT SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

A cast of thousands of people, hundreds of machines almost human in the operations they perform and a $20,000,000 setting provide the background for the film, "The Story of an Automobile" to be exhibited at the School Auditorium.

This film was produced under the direction of the United States Department of Commerce in cooperation with the Studebaker Corporation and will be shown in all parts of the world.

The scenes are laid in the new $20,000,000 Studebaker plant at South Bend, Ind.

This romance of modern manufacturing shows as commonplace happenings the wonders of motor car manufacture such as hydraulic pressure tossing a four ton hammer as though it were light as a feather, and this same hammer forging white hot bars of the toughest steel into automobile parts; molten metal flowing from a cupola spout like water from a faucet; a vast storeroom served by two traveling cranes which transfer materials from the loading docks to any floor in sixty seconds; a single machine which drills 68 holes in the engine block at one operation.

The story is a fascinating portrayal of the miracles of the twentieth century manufacture. It will interest anyone who ever rode in an automobile.

After seeing it, you will appreciate why the representatives of fourteen nations after viewing it in Washington asked that it be exhibited in their respective countries.

This city is fortunate to obtain this film which has been termed "the finest industrial film ever produced."

It is due to the energy and courtesy of Alvis Stephens of T. H. Cochran and Company, local Studebaker dealers, that this film is to be exhibited free of charge at the School Auditorium, Thursday, Nov. 23 at 7:00 P. M.

GOES TO PROVIDENCE

The numerous friends of Mrs. Hattie Burton regret that she has decided to make Providence her home in the future. Besides being a trained nurse Mrs. Burton is a dressmaker by profession. She does business also as a coat liner. Her Marion friends wish her success in her new place of business.

THE COAL SITUATION

Marion, as well as the entire country has seen almost a paradox, (on account of the great strike), in the coal situation. Coal which was unobtainable even at $12 a ton dropped to $6 a ton between May 1, and Aug. 1, and since that date has declined until now good steaming coal can be had at the mines at $2, but who knows where it will soar to again before May 1, next, as a general strike is talked of for April 1. No one knows the extent to which it will go.

Former Crittenden County Woman

Letter to The Press

Publishers Crittenden Press:

Sirs:
I enclose herewith a money order for one year's subscription to the CRITTENDEN PRESS. I am a former resident of Crittenden county, near Shady Grove. I moved with my husband, J. G. McCain and family to northwestern Kansas in 1900.

Northwest Kansas is a fine farming country. The people raise an abundance of wheat, corn and alfalfa. It has good schools and churches. I live near Atwood, the county seat which has a fine County High School to which four of my children have gone. The State University at Lawrence is a fine school. I have a son who is a senior there.

Though I have been away many years and like this country and people, I still enjoy reading about old friends and neighbors in Kentucky.

Yours Truly,
MRS. M. E. MCCAIN

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

As Prepared by John A. Moore to Present to Class No. 3 of
M. E. Sunday School

At the close of our last Sunday's lesson, Jesus returns to his home in Capernaum. It was there he was met by messengers from a Roman officer, who informed him that the favorite servant of their master was dangerously ill and with a request that Jesus come at once to the home and heal him. Jesus starts on another mission of love and mercy and we imagine that while on the way others sought to detain him that they too might have their afflictions healed. While he was no doubt thus detained, we imagine we can see the Centurion, as he watched the fever of his faithful servant go higher and higher; as he tossed from one side of the couch to the other; as his sufferings became more and more unbearable, as he was sinking rapidly, and as human hope gave way, the love of the master for his servant must have caused him wonder at the delay of Jesus. So restless does he become and so wonderful is his faith in Jesus that he starts other messengers, not to hurry Jesus, but to remind him of his wonderful power; to call to his attention that it is needless to lose time in making the journey to the home of the Centurion, but if he will only speak the word, the sufferings of the man will cease and his afflictions will depart.

Jesus made instant response to the wonderful faith of the centurion and the messengers returned to find that he who was sick was well again having been healed by Jesus, thru the wonderful faith of the centurion. And in passing let us get the lesson, that if we like the centurion, will go to Jesus with that implicit faith here shown, if we will but put Jesus to the test he will never fail us.

After healing the servant of the centurion, and on the following day we find that as Jesus is about to enter the city of Nain, the people carried out a dead man, being the only son of his mother, and she a widow. Here as else where in his early ministry Jesus meets one of those sad incidents that touches the tenderest chords of his heart; we see him as he draws near and learns of the sad fact; we watch him as he shows his tender compassion for the sad and heart-broken widow and mother, and we hear him in that voice as he says almost in a whisper "Weep not" and turning he touches the bier and said "Young man I say unto thee arise." And he that was dead sat up and began to speak having been restored to life by the divine power of the Son of Man.

On account of the many notable miracles performed by Jesus while in Capernaum, his fame must have spread thru all Judea. We imagine we can see the vast throngs as they crowd about him; we try to picture in our minds the intense excitement as people from all Judea, the well, the lame, the blind and those possessed of evil spirits, try to force their way to a position of vantage, that they might speak to the Savior, or perchance touch the hem of his garment and thereby have their afflictions cured.

So great was the rush, so great the confusion that followed that it must have been necessary for the Savior to retire to some other and more quiet point where he could secure rest for his tired, worn and almost exhausted human body. At any rate we next find him down by the lake dealing with messengers sent by John the Baptist from his prison where he was confined for his bold rebuke of Herod for having taken Herodias, his brother's wife; after sending a new message of hope and cheer to John we find him as ever he was busily engaged in the Master's cause. Here he doubtless cures many of their plagues, casts out evil spirits and restored sight to the blind. No doubt while thus engaged the lesson opens by the invitation of a Pharisee named Simon, to Jesus to dine with him.

This Pharisee had evidently heard of the teachings and the miracles of Jesus; but whether the invitation was out of an earnest desire to learn more of this wonderful teacher, or to find cause to justify the hostile feelings already existing from the pharisees toward Jesus, we are left to surmise. But that the invitation was unusual we can have no doubt, since heretofore the pharisees had stood aloof from Jesus and criticized him on account of his associating with the common people.

It had ever been the custom of Jesus to take advantage of every feature of social life; his mission was to all men and he lost no opportunity to make plain that mission. Imagine the Savior, in his mission of love, endeavoring by his daily life to carry his mission on earth to all men, dealing with a pharisee, who held himself aloof from the masses and who only associated with those who kept the strict letter of the law and who regarded Jesus as indiscriminating in his associations.

On Thursday of last week Mr. H. G. Sellards, Swine Specialist from the Experiment Station was in the county holding meat cutting demonstrations. Mr. Sellards who was assisted by the County Agent and Assistant County Agent, conducted a demonstration at the farm of Mr. Harry Vaughn. In addition to cutting up a carcass Mr. Sellard gave some valuable suggestions on curing. Nearly fifty persons were in attendance at the demonstration and everyone was very attentive to Mr. Sellard while he told them how to cure bacon and hams that would equal in flavor and appearance those put out by the packing houses. In the afternoon another demonstration was held at the farm of Mr. A. B. Hedge which was very well attended.

Rock Phosphate Proves Best on Unlimed Soils

On land that is lacking in lime rock phosphate gives eight per cent greater yields than acid phosphate when an equal cash outlay is made in each case. The best results are obtained from rock phosphate when it is used with the idea of permanently making the soil richer. It is recommended that this material be applied at the rate of about 1000 pounds per acre and would cost about $5.50. This would last four or five years. On this land it is advisable to apply stable manure and rock phosphate at the same time.

The Story of An Automobile

Here's an intimate story of automobile building that will appeal to everyone who has ever ridden in a motor car.

It's even more interesting than an actual trip through an automobile factory because the camera pictures details which would escape the eye. It abounds in human interest with many thrills and in many cases real excitement.

You see the various parts transformed from the red-hot metal to the finished unit. You follow the final assembly line in operation with units added in logical order, each unit being traced throughout its manufacture before the next is applied.

This film was produced under the direction of the United States Department of Commerce in cooperation with the Studebaker Corporation and will be shown in all parts of the world. It is an education in manufacturing efficiency.

DAIRY FACTS

IMPROVEMENT OF DAIRY COW

Department of Agriculture Has Six High-Producing Animals on Its Farm at Beltsville.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
The improvement of dairy cows means a great deal more than increased profits to the dairyman. It means cheaper food and more milk, the best bone and muscle maker for children. What this improvement means is brought out forcefully by a poster prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture and sent free to interested persons.

An ordinary cow or scrub produces only enough milk to feed five children a quart a day, while a good cow yields enough to give 20 children a quart a day. The supercow, and there are more and more of them in this class each year, gives enough milk so that a small herd of them might supply this quantity to all the small children in a small town.

A High-Producing Holstein.

On its farm at Beltsville, Md., the department has six cows, the result of its breeding work, that have produced an average of more than 22,000 pounds of milk in 365 days. This little herd of six big producers yields enough milk to provide 170 children a quart a day. One of them could supply nearly 80 children, or six times as many as the ordinary cow could take care of.

Good breeding, first, and good feeding, second, have made the difference.

MAKE COW RATION TEMPTING

Animal Will Not Do Well on Feed That Is Not Palatable—Avoid Any Sudden Change.

The good dairy ration must be attractive. A cow is a self-respecting sort of animal and she likes palatable food. In fact, a cow will not do well on food that isn't palatable, and it should be remembered that the condition of the food has the most to do with its palatability. Moldy grains or roughages do not appeal to the appetite of the cow, and consequently are unsatisfactory. Thus the unsatisfactory feed, no matter if it does contain the proper elements, may cause a reduction in the milk supply due to the cow's unwillingness to eat a plenty to keep up a good flow of milk.

At the same time it must be recognized that it is not a wise idea to change a ration suddenly in order to make it better. A cow is a pretty delicate sort of a milk-producing machine and, especially if she is a large producer, sudden changes in the food are quite likely to upset her in one way or another, and the result will be a loss of milk.

KEEP FEED UTENSILS CLEAN

Average Farmer Is Liable to Grow Little Careless About Pails in Summer.

Wide-awake dairymen realize the importance of keeping calf feeding utensils scrupulously clean at all seasons of the year. The average farmer, however, may grow a little careless about the calf pail, especially during the warm summer months. These pails should be of tin or galvanized iron, never of wood, and should not be allowed to get rusty or battered. They should be thoroughly washed, rinsed and sterilized after use, and kept in a clean place. Never use calf pails for feeding hogs, or live stock other than calves.

ESSENTIALS FOR DAIRY HERD

Cows and Young Animals Should Be Provided With Plenty of Pure Water and Shade.

Provide plenty of shade and cool, pure water for the cows and young animals. Spray cows at milking time to keep off flies. Look out for sour milk and cream. Bacteria and warmth cause milk to sour. The modern way to spell bacteria is d-d-r-t. Keep it out of the milk, thoroughly wash and scald all milk utensils. Keep the milk or cream cool, 50 degrees or lower if possible, and it will stay sweet for several days.

Wisconsin in Lead.
Wisconsin now leads in the number of accredited tuberculin-free cattle with 50,183 head. Minnesota is second with nearly 34,000 head.

Metal Milk Utensils.
Milk utensils for farm use should be made of metal and have all joints smoothly soldered. Never allow them to become rusty or rough inside.

Never Mix Milk.
Never mix fresh, warm milk with that which has been cooled.

HOME TOWN HELPS

TO DEVELOP "SAMPLE TOWN"

No Really Great Problems to Be Solved in the Establishment of Model Community.

When we have studied our existing towns, generalizing from numbers and showing the best we have done so far; when we have taken hold with a will to make such improvements as we can in our stubborn, old-established towns, a great new social service can be done by developing a "sample town."

This sample town should appear to be a perfectly ordinary industrial town, preferably with some new factory with its employees placed where it could have land or water communication with the rest of us. It should have an agricultural base in the surrounding country, as any town does after a fashion. Then the problem to be worked out would be the economic balance between local supplies, which save in transportation, and such imported supplies as might save in other ways.

A good kindergarten and school ought to have 20 children at least, properly to use two first-class teachers. To keep up that average number of children requires about 200 women, since about ten women is the average number required to supply one child a year. Two hundred families means about a thousand persons, a good number to base our calculations upon; and 200 houses, grouped about their necessary public buildings, form a very pleasant little village.

One central building, economical, but beautiful, could house many of these. All should be grouped conveniently about a pleasant little park.

The economic problem to be worked out is something like this: How few persons out of our 400 adults are sufficient to do work not immediately productive, such as cooking, teaching, preaching, keeping the store and the library? How much must be earned by those who produce raw materials or manufactured articles for sale, in order to support the whole group? At how little expense can heat, water, light and service be provided to such a group?—Charlotte Perkins Gilman in The Century.

IDEA IS WORTH EMULATING

Public Spirit Shown by Citizens of Michigan Village Should Be Incentive to Others.

At the next resort and tourist meeting the name of the village of Montague should be inscribed as the Abou Ben Adhem on the good book. Along the lake is an excellent park space which Montague has decided to improve. But the innovation is the way this village has gone about it.

A legal holiday was declared, and almost every man in town hustled down to the park with shovels and rakes, drays and trucks, filling in low ground along the shore in preparation for a big tree planting at other similar holidays in the near future. And all the ladies served their sons and squires and sweethearts with hot coffee and sandwiches to keep them on the job and unfatigued. It was an arbor day de luxe. More of them are scheduled until the park becomes something tourists will talk about all the way up and all the way back.

If every town which could be a thing of beauty instead of a main street and scatter of sheds would go in for the spirit of Montague and for a good, healthy spell of tree planting and general cleaning up, Sinclair Lewis would be in line for a fine session of back talk.—Grand Rapids Press.

Proper Care of Hedges.

If you have a privet hedge which is showing the effects of age you can renew it by cutting it back hard. This seems like drastic treatment, but new wood will soon begin to grow, and within three years your hedge will be as fine as ever. You can cut it back to within a foot of the ground without doing any harm, but as soon as it begins to grow again it ought to have a good dressing of well-rotted manure or a liberal application of pulverized sheep manure, dug into the ground. Many people let their privet hedges grow too tall for best effects. They look most attractive when about three feet high, especially if they are kept well trimmed so that they always have a symmetrical appearance.

Individualism First.

In all worth-while community building, men and women must function as individuals before they can function as communities.—L. H. Bailey.

Results of Jazz.

"Now that you are rich, John, your son seems a bend for jazz."

"Yes."

"Think he'll ever be able to earn his own living?"

"Yes, I think he may develop into a pretty fair snare drummer."

First English Military Bands.
The first military band was heard in England in 1785. The duke of York, son of George III, imported a band of twelve German musicians with three negroes, and established them as the band of the Coldstream guards. Other regiments then formed bands on similar lines. The negroes continued to form part of the bands until the year 1838.

What Stevenson Thought of Music.

Robert Louis Stevenson said: "To make a home out of a household, given the raw material—to wit: a wife, children, a friend or two, and a house—two things are necessary. These are a good fire and good music. And inasmuch as we can do without the fire for half the year, I may say music is the one essential."

Prunes.

Sixty-four years ago Louis Peltier, French immigrant, took with him to California from his native country two prune cuttings. These he planted on his brother's ranch near San Jose, thus beginning the prune industry in California. Today California produces an annual prune crop of 225,000,000 pounds.
